

this Republican Congress has fought so hard.”

Now those are some pretty interesting comments coming from the DCCC. On May 10, 2006, BARON HILL said this: “In Congress, I will support measures that will strengthen our economy and lower gas prices instead of rewarding big oil companies and special interest lobbies.”

Mr. Speaker, once Mr. HILL got elected to Congress and voted to raise taxes on the American energy producers, he was somehow shocked when higher taxes resulted in higher gas prices.

March 12, 2007, in a press release Mr. HILL said, “Gasoline prices have increased significantly over the past few weeks, with little explanation for higher prices.” The explanation for higher prices is because of higher taxes.

Mr. JOE DONNELLY in a July 3, 2006, interview: “I will be an independent voice who will represent the people of the second district. Not the wealthy oil and pharmaceutical companies that have bought our Congress and are running our country. We need leaders who will stand up for good jobs, a better prescription drug plan for our seniors, and a real energy plan that will work to drive down skyrocketing gas prices.”

Mr. DONNELLY, I'm sure your constituents and the people of this country are waiting for that energy to go forth in some results.

April 26, 2006, press release by Mr. ED MARKEY: “Congress once again has an opportunity to help the American people through this financial pinch.” Keep in mind, the Republicans were in charge and the Democrats were trying to win votes, Mr. Speaker.

“But by ignoring legislation like the Windfall Profits and Consumer Assistance Act, Congress has shown, once again, that it would rather put the needs of the special interests ahead of the needs of the American people. There is a cost to this kind of corruption in Washington, and it's at $75 a barrel and climbing.”

Mr. MARKEY, the price today is $113 a barrel, and you have not reintroduced your Windfall Profits and Consumer Assistance Act to Congress.

But what have we done? I tell you what we have done. The chairman of Energy and Commerce has got a solution: raise gasoline tax by 50 cents a gallon. I don't think that's what the American people had in mind.

July 26, 2006, in a town hall meeting, JIM CLYBURN, who is now the majority whip, says this: “Thomas from Orangeburg asks: What are you doing about gas prices? They're ridiculously high.” Mr. CLYBURN answered, “House Democrats have a plan to help curb rising gas prices. We have outlined our plan in a proposal called Energizing America. I join my fellow Democrats in believing that drilling for more oil is not a long-term solution to our Nation's energy crisis.”

What is it? Buying bicycles? The Pelosi plan? Thirty bicycles for $30,000?

Raising taxes? Fifty cents a gallon by the chairman of Energy and Commerce proposal? Five cents a gallon by the chairman of Transportation? A dollar a barrel of oil from the chairman of Transportation? Those are some great ideas.

April 27, 2006, when gas was $2.91 a gallon, and I will remind you that it's $3.44 today, a letter to Speaker Hastert signed by 88 Democratic Members of Congress, they said this: “Just this week, the price for oil increased to over $70 a barrel.” Don't we yearn for those days of $70 a barrel when it's $113 today?

We believe Congress has an obligation to determine the underlying causes behind the skyrocketing prices. Congress has an obligation to take action on behalf of the consumer. Where is the action?

All bark, no bite.

GOP: THE GRAND OIL PARTY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO) for 5 minutes.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Well, the Grand Oil Party is at it again. $500 billion in profits to the oil industry since George Bush, the oil man, and DICK CHENEY, the oil man, took office. Remember what they told us? They could deal with the industry. They'd talk the prices down. They could deal with OPEC. They'd talk the prices down. OPEC is violating international law. The President won't file a complaint in the World Trade Organization for their illegal constraint of production which is driving up the price. The President refuses to take any action against his friends in the OPEC consortium or cartel.

Now the big oil companies, $40 billion in profits for one, ExxonMobil, last year, their generous campaign contributors, the GOP, Grand Oil Party, is doing very well. But now they're crying crocodile tears here on the floor and saying they really care about consumers, after the Bush-Cheney energy bill, which gave subsidies to ExxonMobil who made $40 billion last year after the Republicans refused last year to strip those subsidies from the oil companies? They complain about the high price to consumers. They're born-again consumer advocates. That's great.

I've been a consumer advocate for a long time. I have consistently supported a windfall profits tax. I've also consistently said we've got to go after the OPEC cartel and file the complaints. And we need new technologies, and we need new fuels, and we need conservation. None of those things were in the Bush-Cheney energy bills written behind closed doors by big oil and the GOP, the Grand Oil Party.

But now, their presumptive political nominee, Mr. MCCAIN, has come up with a great idea, let's suspend the gas tax. Now, let's see. In 1993, the gas tax was 18.3 cents a gallon, and gas was $1.05 a gallon. Today, in my district, gas is $3.50 a gallon, and guess what? The Federal gas tax is still 18.3 cents a gallon. That money is a tax. It's a tax going to big oil and OPEC and to hedge fund speculators who are driving up the price of oil. That's the tax the American consumers are paying. They won't take on OPEC, and they sure as heck aren't going to take on their friends in big oil.

We're willing to do that. And suspending the gas tax, now I would ask the presumptive Republican nominee, Mr. MCCAIN, if we suspend the gas tax, how many highway projects and bridge projects are you going to cancel? How many thousand people are you going to put out of work when you already have a deficit in the trust fund? If you want to give relief to the American consumers, target the real culprits. It is not the gas tax that's been flat for the last 15 years; it's big oil and it's the OPEC companies and the hedge fund speculators on Wall Street. Let's go after them.

HOPE AND CHANGE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DAVID DAVIS) for 5 minutes.

Mr. DAVID DAVIS of Tennessee. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today to tell you something about my district. I go home every single weekend because I take the word “representative” very seriously. I go home and speak with people living and working in my district because they are the ones who sent me to Washington to express their ideas and their concerns. Two common themes come up from the people in northeast Tennessee: hope and change. We hear a lot about those words today.

They hope that sometime in the future they won't have to spend over $50 to fill up their pick-up truck. They want change, a change that will take them from dependence on foreign oil to clean, safe, and available American energy. Energy is the foundation and lifeblood of the American economy creating the conditions to help us support good-paying jobs here in the United States and allow our industrial base to compete with the rest of the world.

We all know that the middle-class families are feeling significant pain at the pump. But the American family isn't the only place where the strain of spiking fuel prices can be felt. According to recent news reports, local schools, law enforcement agencies, and other community services are paying the price for a record high-fuel cost. Unfortunately, Democrats in the House, who are now in charge, have been consistent in offering so-called energy legislation that weakens our ability to compete with emerging titans such as China, India, and Russia.

In the United States today, we are 63 percent dependent on foreign sources of energy. 63 percent. And that percentage is growing every year. Gasoline prices have increased more than $1 per gallon since the majority party, under Speaker PELOSI, took control of the House last year, increasing from a nationwide average of $2.33 per gallon on the first day of the 110th Congress to now $3.34 a gallon. When Speaker PELOSI took office and had a plan to fix the energy cost, oil was selling for $56 a barrel. Now, it's selling for $113 a barrel. People are looking for hope and change.

Figures from the Energy Information Administration indicate the U.S. reliance on the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, commonly known as OPEC, grew from 50.9 percent of our total crude imports in 2006 to 57.6 percent in 2007. Not only has the majority party failed to end our reliance on Middle Eastern oil for our essential energy needs, they've actually helped grow our dependence to historic and dangerous levels.

We need to make sure that we're not dependent on our energy needs from people that hate us and hate our freedoms all because of their refusal to allow responsible energy production here at home. We cannot tax and regulate our way out of an energy crisis. The American people want an energy policy that's comprehensive and addresses our needs for wind, water, solar, safe nuclear, clean coal technology and, most importantly, the use of American oil.

The American middle class deserves better. They deserve an energy policy that is dependent on American energy, not foreign energy.

CRISIS IN LEADERSHIP IN WASHINGTON AND THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. PRICE) for 5 minutes.

Mr. PRICE of Georgia. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, today is April 15th. It's a momentous day for Americans as all Americans know it's Tax Day. And it's a day that Americans tend to focus a little more attention on the amount of money that they send to Washington. And it's a lot of money. It's a lot of money, Mr. Speaker.

And most folks that I talk to say that would be okay, a lot of them have said that would be okay if they were getting good things for their money, if they were seeing progress happen here in Washington. But that's just not the case.

I, like most of my colleagues, go home every weekend. I went home last weekend, and what I hear from my constituents is what is happening? Where is the leadership in Washington? Mr. Speaker, I believe there is a crisis in leadership in Washington and here in the House of Representatives.

Whether it is supporting our troops, the leadership here apparently is determined that they are going to use our military troops as pack mules to carry their special projects across the finish line. Mr. Speaker, that's leadership lacking.

Whether it's protecting our Nation in the area of intelligence, this leadership believes that our intelligence community doesn't need to have the tools necessary to tell what the bad guys are going to do before they do it. Mr. Speaker, that's leadership lacking.

You have heard a lot about gas prices this morning. Sixteen months ago when this leadership took charge, a barrel of gasoline cost about $52, $53 a barrel. Today, it is about $112, $113 a barrel. Mr. Speaker, that's leadership lacking.

What's changed in Washington since that time? New leadership here in the House of Representatives. Mr. Speaker, that's not the kind of change that America voted for.

We need to work together in the area of energy. We need to make certain that we, as Americans, conserve more. We need to make certain that we utilize American resources for Americans. There's incredible resources in our land. We could utilize those resources in environmentally sensitive and technologically sound ways to make certain that we decrease our dependence on foreign oil.

And finally, Mr. Speaker, we need to make certain that we accelerate the use of alternative fuel, not picking winners and losers like this leadership in this majority wants to do, pick ethanol and raise the gas prices significantly by that, raise food prices around the world because of the action of this leadership. Mr. Speaker, that's leadership lacking.

Where else is leadership lacking here in the House? Well, Mr. Speaker, it is in helping our friends around the world. We have a former President meeting with Hamas terrorists. Where is the outcry from this leadership saying that that's not the correct thing to do for a former leader of our Nation?

In the area of fair trade, free trade, last week this leadership decided they were going to take one of our friends, Colombia and South America, who have worked with us time and time again, one of the glimmering hopes for democracy in South America, and what does this leadership do? Kick them in the teeth.

It is not just me saying that. Headlines all across the Nation last week: Financial Times, "A setback on trade in Washington;" Knoxville News Sentinel, "House Democrats holding free trade hostage;" Corpus Christi Caller Times, "Congress should pass Colombia trade deal;" Charleston Post Courier, "Politics trump free trade;" Orange County Register, "Trading on ignorance;" the Plain Dealer, "Sidetracking American trade deal hurts U.S. businesses and workers;" the Chicago Tribune, "Caving on Colombia;" Los Angeles Times, "Pelosi plays politics;" The Oklahoman, "Pelosi's ploy: Colombia Deal Succumbs to Politics;" New York Times,

"Time for the Colombian Free Trade Pact;" the Denver Post, "Historical failure on Colombia trade pact;" San Francisco Chronicle, "Trade pandering;" New York Post, "Pelosi's Putrid Sellout;" Seattle Times, "The Washington 6: tampering with trade;" the Boston Herald, "The Pelosi Doctrine: Duck;" Las Vegas Review Journal, "Trade Talks;" National Review, "Free Choice;" St. Louis Post-Dispatch, "The Politics of Trade;" Washington Post, "Drop Dead, Colombia;" and the Wall Street Journal, "Pelosi's Bad Faith."

Mr. Speaker, there is a crisis of leadership here in Washington, here in this House of Representatives. The American people are paying attention. The American people want positive change. The American people want us to work together. I call on the Speaker of this House to bring forward the free trade deal with Colombia, to work together on gas prices, to make certain that we pass a Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act that allows our intelligence communities to act positively.

Mr. Speaker, I call on our leadership to be responsible.

ETHANOL HAS NOT SAVED US YET

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas (Mr. POE) for 5 minutes.

Mr. POE. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It has been said by folks that Washington, DC, is the only place in America that is surrounded by reality because people here, especially in Congress, those people say, are in a Disney World atmosphere and don't know how the world really is.

Probably the best example is what has taken place throughout our country in the area of gasoline prices. They are going up every day. Every day we come back to Congress, gasoline prices continue to rise. And there's a constant problem here. Retail operators who run those mom-and-pop independent gasoline stations are saying they're not even making a profit off of gasoline. They hope maybe they can make one cent a gallon. The way they make profit is selling lottery tickets and donuts, and the country continues to see higher and higher gasoline prices.

It's a tremendous problem that we have to deal with. We have to come out of this Disney World atmosphere and solve the problem. Some say what is going to save us all is ethanol. Let's take all of the farmland in America, let's till it up, let's grow some corn, and let's make some of that unproven, unpredictable ethanol to burn in our vehicles.

Of course, what we have done as a Nation by encouraging and subsidizing the special interest group of ethanol, we've raised the corn prices worldwide. In fact, they have tripled in the last 2 years. And because corn prices are going up, wheat prices are going up. And in the last 17 years, food prices in
