STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Ms. Snowe (for herself and Mr. Conrad):

S. 3371. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to simplify the deduction for use of a portion of a residence as a home office, to increase the deduction for use of the home as a principal residence, to establish an applicable standard rate by the square footage of the type of property presently offered qualified individuals a 10% of their home as a principal residence, to the Committee on Finance.

Ms. Snowe, Mr. President, today I rise to introduce legislation to offer a drastically simplified alternative for homeowners who believe that they are physically present. Second, our bill will reduce tax complexity and help many home-based businesses take their personal call or pay a bill online. I would be remiss not to note that the bill we are introducing today is the result of the dedicated efforts of various groups and organizations, which have worked with Senator Conrad and me on a consensus approach to improve the current law home office deduction. In particular, it is significant to note that the IRS Taxpayer Advocate Service strongly backs this bill. In fact, the National Taxpayer Advocate, Nina E. Olson, sent my office the following statement regarding the legislation: “In my 2007 Annual Report to Congress, I made a similar proposal to simplify the home office business deduction. I am pleased that Senator Snowe and Conrad’s proposed bill reflects the spirit of my legislative recommendation. Reducing the burdensome substantiation requirements for employees and self-employed taxpayers who incur modest home office costs would make the home office business deduction a simpler and more accessible to them.”

My office also received an endorsement of the bill from the National Federation of Independent Business. Dan Danner, the organization’s Executive Director, said the following: “Currently only a small percentage of home-based businesses in the U.S. take advantage of the home-office deduction because calculating the deduction is unnecessarily complex. Small business owners have advocated for a simpler, standard home-office deduction for years. The Snowe-Conrad legislation gives home-based businesses the option to deduct a legitimate business expense with minimal hassle. This commonsense change to the tax code will reduce tax complexity and help many home-based businesses take advantage of this deduction.” Additionally, the SBA’s Office of Advocacy reviewed the legislation and supports it.”

In closing, according to the SBA’s Office of Advocacy, America’s home-based sole proprietors generate $102 billion in revenue annually. With this in mind, it is absolutely critical to endow these small firms with as much relief from burdensome tax constraints as possible so that they can focus their efforts on developing the products and services of the future, as well as creating new jobs. The confusion over the home office business tax deduction, in my estimation, can be easily solved by passing this legislation. I urge all Senators to consider the benefits this bill will provide to thousands of small business owners, and I look forward to working with my colleagues to enact it in a timely manner.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 3371

By Mrs. MURRAY (for herself and Mr. CANTWELL):

S. 3373. A bill to reauthorize and expand the Northwest Straits Marine Conservation Initiative Act to promote the protection of the resources of the Northwest Straits, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Northwest Straits Marine Conservation Initiative Act. This bill will reauthorize the Northwest Straits Marine Conservation Initiative, which promotes the protection and restoration of the marine waters, habitats, and species of the Northwest Straits region of Puget Sound in Washington State in order to achieve ecosystem health and sustainable resource use.

The Northwest Straits region makes up 60 percent of the Puget Sound’s shoreline and includes the marine waters along the shorelines of the Strait of Juan de Fuca and of Puget Sound from the Canadian border to the southern end of Snohomish County. This region represents a unique resource of enormous environmental and economic value to the people of the United States and, in particular, of the region surrounding the Northwest Straits. However, in the last several decades, habitat health, water quality, and populations of commercial and culturally valuable species have been found in the Northwest Straits have sharply declined. During the 20th century, extensive development, a legacy of lost or abandoned fishing gear, land conversion, loss of native sea grass, and invasive species have destroyed once intact native habitats in its ecosystem.

In 1997, I partnered with former Congressman Jack Metcalf and brought opposing stakeholders together to create the North-west Straits Marine Conservation Initiative. This bill will reauthorize the Northwest Straits Initiative was successful and innovative regional and local initiatives in the marine environment. Many were skeptical of our efforts, but our work created an innovative model for restoring and protecting marine habitats. As a result, the Northwest Straits Initiative was successful and innovative regional and local initiatives in the marine environment. Many were skeptical of our efforts, but our work created an innovative model for restoring and protecting marine habitats. As a result, the Northwest Straits Initiative was successful and innovative. stresses, disorder, traumatic brain injury, or other mental health disorders, to enhance the capacity of mental health providers to assist such veterans and members, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Veterans’ Affairs.

Mr. President, I rise today with my colleague Senator Ron Wyden to introduce a bill that will help improve the lives of our veterans who are suffering from a mental illness. The Healing Our Nation’s Heroes Act of 2008, introduced by their love. I look forward to its passage. Senator Wyden has been an ally for me in the struggle to ensure veterans, particularly those who are struggling with a mental illness, get the care that they need. It is an honor for me to work with him to ensure our Nation’s heroes are not forgotten.

Our work together on this bill began last summer when I called a Special Committee on Aging field hearing at the Portland Veterans Affairs Medical Center in our home state of Oregon. At that hearing, Senator Wyden and I heard the testimony of officials from the Department of Veterans Affairs, VA, as well as local leaders who operate programs that support our veterans’ physical health needs. I also held roundtables in my state on the issue and a follow-up hearing in Washington, DC in October, 2007 to further examine the scope of the issues and barriers facing our veterans in need. In this hearing, we were fortunate to have former Senator and World War II veteran Bob Dole testify. Senator Dole is a decorated war hero who has fought for decades to ensure that our servicemembers and veterans have the proper supports they need. His insight and knowledge of the issues facing our veterans, both young and old, were instrumental in helping us to draft this legislation. Without the input of countless people who told us of the problems faced by their loved ones and their own struggles with the current system, we could not have made this bill possible.

In our Nation today, we have nearly 24 million veterans, about 40 percent of whom are age 65 and older. The Veterans Health Administration serves about 5.5 million of them each year and employs 247,000 employees to attend to about 5.5 million of them each year and employs 247,000 employees to attend to their care. I draw attention to these numbers to emphasize not only the scale of the system—and therefore the numbers to emphasize not only the scale of the system—and therefore the increasing in our nation, we must ensure that our mental health infrastructure is prepared to handle their unique needs.

What we now refer to as post-traumatic stress disorder, PTSD, once was described as “soldier’s heart” in the Civil War, “shell shock” in World War I, and “combat fatigue” in World War II. Whatever the name, they are serious mental illnesses and deserve equal attention and care as a physical wound. A system must be in place to help our veterans as they adjust back to life with their families and within their communities.

So many of our veterans from previous conflicts in Korea, Vietnam and around the globe in World War II, needed similar programs once they returned home. Yet, I fear that we did not do enough to help them. With proper and early support systems in place, we can work with them to work through the more serious and chronic mental health issues that come from a lack of intervention.

There is no greater obligation than caring for those who have served this country with their military service. We would be remiss if we did not ensure that the health care provided to our heroes in arms is the finest medicine has to offer. A lack of culturally sensitive mental health professionals, an inability to reach rural areas, stigma related to mental illness within the military, bureaucratic run-arounds and long waiting times are just a few of the problems that we hear about—both in the news and directly from constituents. These are problems that must be addressed and can only be addressed if we all work together to find solutions.

As our country faces new waves of veterans with mental health illnesses, many of whose issues arise from combat stress, we must ensure that we learn from the lessons of the past. We must ensure that they are cared for, and we must not leave behind those who fought for our nation in previous generations.

This bill has three important parts that will improve mental health services to our veterans. First, it will establish a commission charged with oversight of outreach and services offered to veterans and members of the Armed Forces with post traumatic stress disorder and other disorders that affect mental health. This commission will be a long-term body that will ensure that our veterans have the support that they need. They will report to Congress, make recommendations to the Departments of Veterans Affairs and the Department of Defense, and look for innovative ways that the two bodies can work together to better ensure our servicemembers have the proper supports while they are in the Armed Forces, during their time of transition back to their communities, and as they live their lives as veterans in their communities.

This bill also will establish the Heroes-to-Healers Program, which we have created to build on the successes of the Troops-to-Teachers Program. In addition to the wonderful work that the Troops-to-Teachers program does in training former servicemembers to work in high-need school districts, the Heroes-to-Healers Program will train former servicemembers to become a part of the mental health workforce. We know that major complaints from servicemembers and veterans working to gain needed mental health services are the wait times for care that they experience due to lack of available staff and their desire to work with professionals who understand, first-hand, the difficult things that they have seen and type of experiences they have had serving overseas in combat zones. Through this program, participants will receive financial support to gain the training and licensing they need to become a mental health professional, while ensuring there is a minimum amount of time that they will then serve their fellow veterans in their new profession.

To further help recruitment and retention efforts for mental health service providers, the third part of this bill will provide a new grant program to state and local mental health agencies, as well as non-profit organizations to establish, expand or enhance mental health provider recruitment and retention efforts. These efforts will be targeted at supporting mid-career professionals who are looking to work in the mental health profession.

We know that we must do a better job of helping our veterans. We can do better at ensuring they can remain stable in their communities, that they can live the lives that they can live prosper as persons to whom we owe a great deal of gratitude and compassion. I look forward to working with my colleagues to ensure its passage, I urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to support this bill.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

Any amount owed by the participant shall bear interest at the rate equal to the highest rate by which the United States on the day on which the reimbursement is determined to be due for securities having maturities of 90 days or less and such interest shall accrue from the day on which the participant is first notified of the amount due.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, over the past 7 years hundreds of thousands of members of our armed forces have gone to war and returned home alive, but suffering. Advances in protective equipment and improvements made in battlefield care mean that fewer troops than ever before return with obvious physical wounds. But many more of these service members have returned with less obvious injuries—invisible injuries like post-traumatic stress disorder or traumatic brain injury.

Our armed forces are seeing a surge in diagnosed cases of post-traumatic stress disorder and traumatic brain injury, commonly known as PTSD and TBI. And soldiers in the National Guard and Reserves are much more likely to suffer from PTSD and depression when they return from battle, a fact that is very important in Oregon where almost all of our servicemembers serve in the Guard and Reserves.

While no less real and no less serious than physical wounds of war, PTSD and TBI require a specialized kind of diagnosis and treatment. Unfortunately, only half of the soldiers and veterans who suffer from PTSD or TBI are receiving care for their wounds, according to a RAND Corporation study.

To help our service men and women suffering from PTSD, TBI, and other invisible injuries, we are introducing a bill today that’s designed to address some of the overwhelming difficulties faced by many of our nation’s warriors. This bill, the “Healing Our Nation’s Heroes Act of 2008,” has within it provisions to help improve mental health care, and access to care, for service members who suffer from the invisible wounds of war.

First, this legislation would create a standing commission to study and recommend on behalf of all our veterans. This commission would make recommendations on methods to improve mental health care and, just as importantly, overcome the cultural stigma attached to seeking help for mental health disorders. As an ongoing companion to our efforts, this commission will continue to help guide Congress and the agencies for years, instead of just making recommendations and disappearing.

Secondly, the bill would create a “Heroes-to-Healers Program,” which would provide financial incentives for veterans and members of the armed forces who are separating or retiring to obtain certification or licensing as mental health providers. It also encourages them to seek employment with organizations that provide mental health care to members of the armed forces, veterans and their families.

One of the more heartbreaking truths surrounding PTSD is that service members often seek help from mental health professionals who don’t share their experiences. This reluctance creates the sort of self-isolation that leads to increased risk of suicide.

As our population of veterans increases, the number of veterans working as mental health providers, this bill will allow more servicemembers and veterans to get treatment from those who truly understand what combat is like.

Our bill would also create a grant program to help state and local mental health agencies recruit and retain mental health professionals. Some service members and veterans don’t feel comfortable seeking mental health care from the Department of Defense or VA. But mental health agencies are already being stretched thin, especially in rural areas. This legislation will provide help in recruiting and retaining the mental health providers our wounded heroes so desperately need.

Surviving the trauma of combat shouldn’t sentence our forces to a lifetime of mental and emotional pain. They paid the price bravely for serving our country in battle. This bill will help them move beyond the invisible scars of the battlefield and rebuild their lives at home.

By Mr. WYDEN (for himself, Ms. COLLINS, and Mr. DODD):

S. 375. A bill to prohibit the introduction or delivery for introduction into interstate commerce of novelty lighters, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.
The bill is straightforward. It treats novelty lighters manufactured after January 1, 1980, as banned hazardous substances unless the Consumer Product Safety Commission determines a particular lighter has antique or significant artistic value. Otherwise, sale of such lighters with this appearance, special audio or visual features, or other attributes that would appeal to children under 10 would be banned.

The novelty lighters targeted in this legislation serve no functional need. But they are so liable to attract the notice and curiosity of children, whose play can too easily turn into a scene of horror and death. The sale of lighters that look like animals, cartoon characters, food, toys, or other objects is simply irresponsible and an invitation to tragedy.

I urge all of my colleagues to join me in supporting this simple measure that can save children from disfigurement and death.

S. 3377. A bill to amend title 46, United States Code, to waive the biometric transportation security card requirement for certain small business merchant mariners, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, Minnesota is the land of over 10,000 lakes and nearly as many fishing guides. We even have a Fishing Hall of Fame in Baxter where many of our legendary guides are enshrined—names like Al and Ron Lindner, Babe Winkleman, Gary Roach and many others. In fact tonight there is a banquet honoring the Hall. The craft of the fishing guide is to understand fish and to share their knowledge and the sport with many of us who don’t possess their skills.

When I travel my state I meet with folks from all walks of life who have dealings with the federal government and last summer I was in the city of Baudette, a small community on the Rainy River on the northern border of Minnesota. I had the chance to speak with a Fire Chief and he was talking about a new federal regulation with which he had to comply. As you can imagine, I was amazed when he told me that he

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 70105 (b)(2) of title 46, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (B), by inserting ‘‘and serving under the authority of such license, certificate of registry, or merchant mariners document on a vessel for which the owner or operator of such vessel is required to submit a vessel security plan under section 70103(c) of this title’’ before the semicolon;

(4) An assessment of the administrative feasibility of verifying that an individual has obtained a biometric transportation security card described in paragraph (3) and is serving under the authority of a license, certificate of registry, or merchant mariners document described in paragraph (1) on a vessel described in paragraph (5) to provide such individual a credit towards the renewal of such license, certificate of registry, or merchant mariners document.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect on January 1, 2009.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to strike the following through paragraph (4) of section 2 and insert the following:

‘‘This Act may be cited as the “Small Marine Business and Fishing Guide Relief Act of 2008”.’’

SEC. 3. TWINING ELIGIBILITY.

This Act shall be implemented, however, in a manner that does not unnecessarily and unproductively impede legitimate business operations.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I am pleased to be an original cosponsor of the Small Marine Business and Fishing Guide Relief Act that Senator COLEMAN is introducing. This legislation, in combination with the above amendment, will provide much-needed relief to charter boat captains and other operators of small marine businesses in Maine by exempting them from having to obtain a Transportation Worker Identification Credential, or TWIC, which costs $132.50 for each employee.

Under current law, any individual who holds a Coast Guard license, as a fishing guide or charter boat captain, must also obtain a TWIC. The purpose of the requirement was to ensure that port operators and the Coast Guard could inspect a tamper-resistant identification document to verify the identity of those who have access to secure areas of ports and large vessels.

Charter boat captains, however, do not have secure areas on their boats and usually do not need unescorted access to port facilities. Therefore, they have no need for a TWIC. For these small businesses, requiring them to obtain a TWIC essentially amounts to an unnecessary and costly government regulation.

Many small businesses are struggling in these lean economic times, particularly with high fuel prices and tourists who have less to spend their discretionary income on charter tours in the Gulf of Maine. With these businesses’ declining profit margins, they cannot afford an additional $132 identification card for their TWIC.

Even with this exemption, charter captains with a Coast Guard license will have undergone an extensive background check for the same crimes that are reviewed when an individual applies for a TWIC. So waiving the TWIC requirement for them does not reduce the background information available for review before these individuals are licensed as charter captains.

To be sure, the Transportation Worker Identification Credential will play a critical role in our Nation’s maritime security by limiting access to secure areas of ports and large vessels. It must “be implemented, however, in a manner that does not unnecessarily and unproductively impede legitimate business operations.”

By Mr. DOMENICI (for himself and Mr. BINGAMAN):

S. 3361. A bill to authorize the Secretary of the Interior, acting through the Commissioner of Reclamation, to develop water infrastructure in the Rio Grande Basin, and to approve the settlement of the water rights claims of the Pueblos of Nambe, Pojoaque, San Ildefonso, Tesuque, and Taos; to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, during the previous session I introduced legislation to address the funding of Indian water rights claims that are of utmost importance to Indian tribes and, in particular, within the State of New Mexico. Since that time many parties have met for countless hours in New Mexico and here in Washington to address how these claims could be resolved and finally settled. Rather than spending the next session on negotiation, these groups have sat down and worked through these issues in a very productive manner.
As a result, today I am pleased to come before you to introduce, on behalf of myself and Senator BINGAMAN, the Aamodt and Taos Pueblo Indian Water Rights Settlement Act of 2008. This legislation will resolve these long-standing water rights claims within New Mexico and authorize a source of Federal funding to resolve them.

The Aamodt litigation in New Mexico was filed in 1966 and is the longest-standing water rights case in the Federal judiciary system. The hard work that each party put into the settlement process demonstrates that negotiated settlements, with multiple parties working together, can best determine how to allocate scarce water supplies among diverse parties in a way that does not curtail existing uses. This bill will result in additional economic development and improved health benefits within these communities.

The resolution of these claims will not only improve the lives of many within these communities by providing a safe and reliable water supply, but will also improve the ability of New Mexico to effectively undertake water rights planning in the near and long-term future.

As I have stated before, the costs of not settling these claims in New Mexico are dire. The legislation before us will ensure that our obligations to these communities are met and that they will have safe and reliable water systems.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

(c) REGULATORY AUTHORITY NOT AFFIRMED.—Nothing in this title shall be deemed to confer, enlarge, or diminish the authority of any court, including the jurisdiction of the court that enters the Partial Final Decree adjudicating the Pueblo’s water rights. DISCLAIMER.

Nothing in the Settlement Agreement or this title shall be construed in any way to qualify or otherwise adversely affect the land and water rights, claims, or entitlements of any other Indian tribe.

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, today Senator DOMENICI and I am introducing a bill that I am pleased to say, will help end contentious disputes over water rights claims in two longstanding general stream adjudications in Taos and New Mexico and accomplishes this by authorizing two Indian water rights settlements. The first is a settlement involving the water rights claims of the Nambe, Pojoaque, San Ildefonso, and Tesuque Pueblos in the Rio Pjojaca stream system, north of Santa Fe. The second settlement resolves Taos Pueblo’s water rights claims in the Rio Pueblo de Taos.

The Rio Pjojaca stream adjudication is known as the Aamodt case, and it’s my understanding that it’s the longest active case in the Federal court system nationwide. The case began in 1966, and at some time has actively litigated before the district court in New Mexico and the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals. Forty years of litigation resolved very little, certainly not what the parties accomplished by engaging directly with each other in an attempt to resolve their differences. The Aamodt Litigation Settlement Act represents an agreement by the parties that will secure water to meet the present and future needs of the four Pueblos involved in the litigation. It protects the interests and rights of long-standing water users, including century-old irrigation practices; and 3. ensure that water is available for municipal and domestic needs for all residents in the Pojoaque basin. Settlement of this agreement was a lengthy process and the parties had to renegotiate several issues to address local, State, and Federal policy concerns. In the end, however, their commitment to solving the water supply problem prevailed.

The Rio Pueblo de Taos adjudication is a dispute that is almost 40 years old. Similar to the Aamodt case, little has been resolved by the pending litigation. The parties have been in settlement discussions for well over a decade but it was not until the last 5 years that the discussions took on the sense of urgency needed to resolve the issues at hand. The settlement will fulfill the rights of the Pueblo consistent with the Federal trust responsibility, while continuing the practice of sharing the water necessary to protect the sustainability of traditional agricultural communities. The town of Taos and other local entities are also secure in their ability to access the water necessary to meet municipal and domestic needs. The Taos Pueblo Indian Water Rights Settlement Act represents a commonsense set of solutions that all parties to the adjudication have a stake in implementing.

Both settlements are widely supported in their respective communities. Moreover, the State of New Mexico, under Governor Richardson’s leadership, deserves special recognition for actively pursuing a settlement in both of these matters and committing significant resources so that the Federal Government does not have to bear the entire cost of these settlements. To the extent that going concerns may exist by some remaining water users, I am committed to continuing the dialog about the value of these settlements.

This bill is critical for New Mexico’s future. I look forward to working with my colleagues in the Senate to see that it gets enacted into law. The U.S. Supreme Court once characterized the Federal Government’s responsibilities to Indian tribes as “morally obligation of the highest responsibility and trust.” This bill is an attempt to ensure that the Government lives up to that standard, and does so in a manner that also addresses the needs of the Pueblo’s neighbors.

By Mrs. FEINSTEIN:

S. 3382. A bill for the relief of Guy Privat Tape and Lou Nazie Raymonde Toto; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, today I am introducing a private relief bill on behalf of Guy Privat Tape and his wife Lou Nazie Raymonde Toto. Mr. Tape and Ms. Toto are citizens of the Ivory Coast, but have been living in the San Francisco area of California for approximately 15 years.

The story of the Mr. Tape and Ms. Toto is compelling and I believe they merit Congress’s special consideration for such an extraordinary form of relief as a private bill.

Mr. Tape and Ms. Toto were subjected to numerous atrocities in the early 1990s in the Ivory Coast. After participating in a demonstration against the ruling party, they were jailed and tortured by their own government. Mr. Tape was allegedly raped by captors and several years later learned that she had contracted HIV. Despite the hardships that they suffered, Mr. Tape and Ms. Toto were able to make a better life for themselves in the United States. Mr. Tape arrived in the U.S. in 1993 on a B1/B2 non-immigrant visa. Ms. Toto entered without inspection in 1995 from Spain. Despite being diagnosed with HIV, Ms. Toto gave birth to two healthy children, Melody, age 10, and Emmanuel, age 6.

Since arriving in the United States, this family has dedicated themselves to community involvement and a strong work ethic. They pay taxes and own their own home in Hercules, California. They are active members of Easter Hill United Methodist Church.

Mr. Tape is the owner of a small business, Melody’s Carpet Cleaning & Upholstery, which has four other employees. Unfortunately, in 2002, Mr. Tape was diagnosed with urologic cancer. While doctors hoped that the cancer is in remission, they will continue to require life-long surveillance to monitor for recurrence of the disease.

In addition to raising her two children, Ms. Toto received a certificate to be a nurse’s aide and currently works as a Resident Care Specialist at Creekside Health Care in San Pablo, California. She hopes to finish her schooling so that she can become a Registered Nurse. She has currently taking classes at Community College of San Joaquin Community College. Ms. Toto continues to receive medical treatment for HIV. According to her doctor, without access to adequate health care and laboratory monitoring, she is at risk of developing life-threatening illnesses.

Mr. Tape and Ms. Toto applied for asylum when they arrived in the U.S., but after many years of litigation, the claim was ultimately denied by the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Although the regime which subjected Mr. Tape and Ms. Toto to imprisonment and torture is no longer in power, Mr. Tape has been afraid to return to his native Ivory Coast due to his prior association with President Gbagbo. Mr. Tape had previously sought to promote democracy and peace in the region in support of the current President Gbagbo’s party. However, in 2006 Mr. Tape publicly distanced himself from President Gbagbo’s government when he accused the party of violence and corruption. As a result, Mr. Tape strongly believes that his family will be targeted if they return to Ivory Coast.

One of the most compelling reasons for permitting the family to remain in the United States is the impact their deportation would have on their two young children. Ms. Toto and Emmanuel, the United States is the only country they have ever known. Mr. Tape believes that if the family returns to Ivory Coast, these two young children will be forced to enter the army.

This bill is the only hope for this family to remain in the United States. To send them back to Ivory Coast, where they may face persecution and inadequate medical treatment for their illnesses would be devastating to the family. They are contributing members of their community and have embraced the American dream with their strong work ethic and family values. I have received approximately 50 letters from the church community in support of this family.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill and letters of support be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be placed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 3382

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

(b) ADJUSTMENT OF STATUS.—If Guy Privat Tape and Lou Nazie Raymonde Toto enters the United States before the filing deadline specified in subsection (c), Guy Privat Tape and Lou Nazie Raymonde Toto shall be considered to have entered and remained lawfully in the United States and shall be eligible for adjustment of status under section

(c) DEADLINE FOR APPLICATION AND PAYMENT.—Upon granting an immigrant visa or permanent residence to Guy Privat Tape and Lou Nazie Raymonde Toto, the Secretary of State shall instruct the proper officer to reduce availability of immigrant visas that are made available to natives of the country of birth of Guy Privat Tape and Lou Nazie Raymonde Toto under section 203(a) of the Immigration and Nationality Act or, if applicable, the total number of immigrant visas that are made available to natives of the country of birth of Guy Privat Tape and Lou Nazie Raymonde Toto under section 202(e) of such Act.

BLACK ALLIANCE FOR JUST IMMIGRATION, Berkeley, CA, July 17, 2008.
Hon. DIANNE FEINSTEIN, U.S. Senator, San Francisco, CA.

DEAR SENATOR FEINSTEIN: I am writing on behalf of Guy Privat Tape and Raymond Toto and their three children. The Tape family arrived in the United States in 1993 (husband) and 1995 (wife) as political refugees from the Ivory Coast. Both of them were imprisoned, tortured, and beaten, and Mrs. Tape was repeatedly raped, while in the Ivory Coast. As a consequence, she is HIV positive. They were very fortunate to escape with their lives. They seem to have a strong case for political sanctuary since the same forces are in power in their homeland.

Recently the Tape family received the terrifying notice from the Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) that on August 6 they should report to be deported. It is outrageous that our government is about to send this family into a dangerous situation. And the impact upon the two children will be devastating. Please intervene and use your power to ask ICE to reconsider their petition for political asylum. Thank you for your attention to this matter.
Sincerely,
GERALD LENNOIR, Director.

Hon. DIANNE FEINSTEIN, U.S. Senator, San Francisco, CA.

DEAR SENATOR FEINSTEIN: I am writing this letter on behalf of Guy Privat Tape and his wife, Lou Nazie Toto and their three children. Guy Tape arrived in the United States in 1993 and his wife, Lou Nazie Toto, arrived in 1995 as political refugees from the Ivory Coast. In 1995 they applied for political asylum.

They became members of Easter Hill United Methodist Church in Richmond, California shortly after they arrived in the United States and have been faithful and loyal members since that time. They are the proud parents of two children who are United States Citizens. Their daughter sings in the children’s choir and is a member of the children's usher board.

Guy Tape is self employed and Lou Nazie Toto is employed as a CNA (Nurse’s Assistant). They own their own home and are productive taxpayers.

The U.S. Immigration and Custom Enforcement (ICE) is deporting Guy Tape and his wife, Lou Nazie Toto, back to the Ivory Coast on August 5, 2008. The United States government is forcing this family back to the people who jailed them, beat them.

I am asking you to please intervene and use your power to ask ICE to reconsider this couple’s petition for political asylum.

Thank you for your consideration in this matter.
Sincerely yours,

REV. BILLY AUSTIN, Pastor, p.s. America made a promise of political asylum to the Tapes—it should keep it.

EASTER HILL UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, Richmond, CA, June 30, 2008.

The Tape family are faithful members of Easter Hill United Methodist Church on Sunday, June 29, 2008. The following are the names who have signed requesting your assistance for the Tape family: Joyce Clark; Annie Harris; Horacio Avelino; Thelma Daniels; Augustine Williams; Justin M. McMath; Clara Jones; Karen Colquitt; Meredith Withers; Malamana Wheat; Dr. Robert Anderson; Monique Lee; Edward Colquitt; Cecile Smith; Dr. Carmen Wither; and Rawner.

MYRIAM BRAXTON ELLINGTON, Church & Society Chairperson.

By Mr. CARDIN (for himself, Mrs. CLINTON, Ms. MIKULSKI, and Mr. SCHUMER).
S. 3383. A bill to establish the Harriet Tubman National Historical Park in Auburn, New York, and the Harriet Tubman Underground Railroad National Historical Park in Dorchester, and Talbot Counties, Maryland, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. President, today I am proud to introduce S. 3383, Harriet Tubman National Historical Park and The Harriet Tubman Underground Railroad National Historical Park Act. I am joined by Mrs. CLINTON, Ms. MIKULSKI, and Mr. SCHUMER as original cosponsors.

The woman, who is known to us as Harriet Tubman, was born Araminta, Minty, Ross approximately 1822 in Dorchester County, Maryland. She spent nearly 30 years of her life as a slave on Maryland’s eastern shore. As an adult she took the first name Harriet, and when she was 25 she married John Tubman.
Harriet Tubman escaped from slavery in 1849. She did so in the dead of night, cutting the masts of the plantations and wetlands that are a hallmark of Maryland’s Eastern Shore. She did so alone, demonstrating courage, strength and fortitude that became her hallmark. Not satisfied with attaining her own freedom, she returned repeatedly for more than 10 years to the places of her enslavement in Dorchester and Caroline counties where, under the most adverse conditions, she led away many family members and other slaves to their freedom. Tubman became known as “Moses” by African-Americans and white abolitionists. She was perhaps the most famous and most important conductor in the network of resistance known as the Underground Railroad.

During the Civil War, Tubman served the Union forces as a spy, a scout and a nurse. She served in Virginia, Florida, and South Carolina. She is credited with leading hundreds of slaves from slave states to freedom during those years.

Following the Civil War, Tubman settled in Auburn, New York. There she was active in the women’s suffrage movement, and she also established the orphanage that is the first orphanage for aged African-Americans. In 1903 she bequeathed the home to the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church in Auburn. Harriet Tubman died in Auburn in 1913 and she is buried there in the Fort Hill Cemetery.

Slaves were forced to live in primitive buildings even though many were skilled tradesmen who constructed the substantial homes of their owners. Not surprisingly, few of the structures associated with the earthen years of Tubman’s life still stand. The landscapes of the Eastern Shore of Maryland, however, remain evocative of the time that Tubman lived there. Farm fields and forests dot the landscape, which is also notable for its extensive network of tidal rivers and wetlands. In particular, a number of properties including the homestead of Ben Ross, her father, Stewart’s Canal, where he worked, the Brodess Farm, where she worked as a slave, and others are within the boundary of the Blackwater National Wildlife Refuge.

Similarly, Poplar Neck, the plantation from which she escaped to freedom, is still largely intact in Caroline County. The properties in Talbot County, immediately across the Choptank River from the plantation, are today protected by various conservation easements. Were she alive today, Tubman would recognize much of the landscape that she knew intimately as she carefully led black women and children to their freedom.

In New York, on the other hand, many of the buildings associated with Tubman's life remain intact. Her personal home, as well as the Tubman Home for the Aged, the church and rectory of the Thompson Memorial AME Zion Episcopal Church, and the Fort Hill Cemetery are all extant.

In 1966, Congress approved legislation authorizing a Special Resource Study to determine the appropriate-ness of establishing a unit of the National Park Service to honor Harriet Tubman. The Study has taken an excep-tionally long time to complete, in part because of the lack of remaining structures on Maryland's Eastern Shore. There has never been any doubt that Tubman led an extraordinary life. Her contributions to American history are surpassed by few. Determining the most appropriate way to recognize that life and her contributions, however, has been more difficult. Eventually, the Park Service came to realize that determined that a Park that would include historically relevant sites and units would be appropriate. The New York unit would include the tightly clustered Tubman buildings in Auburn. The Maryland portion would include large sections of landscapes that are evocative of Tubman's time and are historically relevant. The Special Resource Study will be finalized and released later this year.

The Harriet Tubman National Historical Park Act

The legislation I am introducing today establishes two parks. The Harriet Tubman National Historical Park includes important historical structures in Auburn, New York. They include Tubman's home, the Home for the Aged that she established, the African Methodist Episcopal AME Zion Church, and the Fort Hill Cemetery where she is buried. The Harriet Tubman Underground Railroad National Historical Park includes historically important landscapes in Dorchester, Caroline and Talbot counties, Maryland, that are evocative of the life of Harriet Tubman. The Maryland properties include about 2,200 acres in Caroline County that comprise the Poplar Neck plantation that Tubman escaped from in 1849. The 725 acres of fields across the Choptank River in Talbot County would also be included in the Park. In Dorchester County, the parcels would not be contiguous, but would include about 2,775 acres. All of them are included within the Blackwater National Wildlife Refuge boundaries or abut that resource land. The National Park Service would not own any of these lands.

The bill authorizes $7.5 million in grants for New York properties for their preservation, rehabilitation, and restoration of those resources.

The bill authorizes $11 million in grants for the Maryland section. Funds can be used for the construction of the State Harriet Tubman Park Visitors Center and/or for easements or acquisition of properties inside or adjacent to the Historical Park boundaries.

Finally, the bill also authorizes a new grants program. Under the program, the National Park Service would award competitive grants to historically Black colleges and universities, predominately Black institutions, and minority serving institutions for research on Harriet Tubman and the African-American experience during the years that coincide with the life of Harriet Tubman. The legislation authorizes $200,000 annually for this scholarship program.

Harriet Tubman was a true American patriot. She was someone for whom liberty and freedom were not just concepts. She lived those principles and shared that freedom with hundreds of others. In doing so, she has earned a nation's respect and honor. That is why I am so proud to introduce this legislation, establishing the Harriet Tubman National Historical Park and the Harriet Tubman Underground Railroad National Historical Park.

Mr. President, I respectfully request that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

(B) the Tubman Home for the Aged;

(C) the Thompson Memorial AME Zion Church; and

(D) the final resting place of Harriet Tubman in Fort Hill Cemetery;

(7) in developing interpretive programs, the National Park Service would benefit from increased scholarship of the African-American experience during the decades preceding the Civil War and throughout the remainder of the 19th century; and

(8) it is fitting and proper that the nationally significant resources relating to Harriet Tubman be preserved for future generations as units of the National Park System so that people may understand the contributions of Harriet Tubman to the history and culture of the United States.

By Mr. CARPER (for himself, Ms. COLLINS, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. COLEMAN, and Mrs. McCASKILL):

S. 3384. A bill to amend section 11317 of title 40, United States Code, to require greater accountability for cost overruns on Federal IT investment projects, to the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs.

Mr. CARPER. Mr. President, I rise today with my colleagues on the Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee to introduce the Information Technology Oversight Enhancement and Waste Prevention Act of 2008.

With a long name like that, you would hope that it is addressing a very serious problem. Well I assure you, that it is.

Every year agencies spend billions of dollars on IT investments that—if planned and implemented properly—can increase productivity, reduce costs, and improve efficiency. As everyone knows, information technology has become a cornerstone of the way we conduct business. Just look at the rise in popularity of Blackberries, not only outside these walls, but right here in the Senate.

In fiscal year 2009, agencies are planning to spend almost $71 billion to improve their financial systems for better reporting, streamline their grant processes, and reduce wasteful paper applications. And this is a good thing.

However, the Accountability Office has reported for several years that many of these investments are poorly planned, poorly performed—or in some cases—both. Yet, agencies continue to fund these risky investments without any oversight or accountability. In fact, I was pleased to hear GAO report that $25.2 billion is at danger of being wasted because agencies failed to properly plan or manage their investments.

Mr. President, $25.2 billion may not be a large sum of money when you compare it to what we spend every year, but I assure you that it is a very real sum of money to those families who can’t pay for the gas they need to get to work, or who are struggling to put food on their table.

To illustrate my point further, this chamber had to include emergency funding in the last supplemental appropriation bill to cover the Census Bureau’s 2010 operations. They had been planning for more than a decade to use advanced handheld computers to verify addresses and follow up with households who don’t send their census forms in on time. My colleagues and I on the Homeland and Governmental Affairs Committee heard, however, that the Census Bureau officials failed to define what they need out of the handheld project and, as a result, the contractor was having trouble delivering a product that could work. We held two hearings to try and get to the bottom of the problem and find a solution but, at the end of the day, the Census Bureau had to scrap the handheld project and go with the same expensive and inefficient “hand and paper” counting method that they have used for centuries. The cost of this failure on the part of the Census Bureau is expected to total in the billions.

This extra money that the Census Bureau will need to spend between now and 2010 could have been used to improve the quality of the final count by outreaching to historically-undercounted groups. In fact, it could have been used for any number of worthwhile purposes.

My colleagues and I on the Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee’s Subcommittee on Federal Financial Management, which I chair, have held three hearings on the issue of troubled IT projects now, including one this morning. And what we’ve learned is that some agencies can’t keep the expected cost of their investments down or deliver on time as promised. Nor do these agencies, in many cases, have quality experts they can turn to before a project spirals out of control. The bill Senators LIEBERMAN, COLLINS and I have put forward today addresses these issues.

Our bill starts by requiring agencies to inform Congress when an investment begins to see increased costs, schedule delays, or performance deficiencies outside of 20 percent of the original plan. Our bill would also require agencies to inform Congress if an investment exceeds 40 percent of their original plan, and require the agency head to conduct an analysis that determines whether we should continue to fund this investment or just pull the plug.

Many agencies today simply rewrite their plans when they run into trouble. They don’t tell Congress that anything is wrong and the troubled projects just keep getting funded year in and year out.

Finally and perhaps most importantly, our bill recognizes that, many times, agencies lack the experience necessary to manage complex IT investments. To remedy this, we propose that OMB create what my staff and I have come to call an “IT Strike Team.” This team would be comprised of known individuals inside and outside government who have records of successfully managing complex IT projects. If an agency or OMB recognizes that an investment is beginning to experience problems, the team would come in make sure the project is brought online or scrapped before more money is wasted.

I look forward to working with my colleagues to get these important and necessary reforms enacted. I think I speak for all of us when I say that investing in IT systems is important. But these investments shouldn’t come with wasted time and money that they all too often bring. In tight fiscal times like these, we need to make sure the money we do invest is spent wisely.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I am pleased to join Senator CARPER in introducing a bill that will improve agency performance and Congressional oversight of major Federal information-technology IT projects.

The well-publicized cost and performance problems with the Census Bureau’s handheld computers for the 2010 Census—with its troubling implications for the next House reapportionment—and for the National Park Service’s update of the National Park Service’s Long-Term Care Plan make the point succinctly: “Software failures are common, and the biggest projects fail most often.”

During the 108th Congress, the Comptroller General and the GAO’s Federal IT Service reviewed the projects and found a high level of software failures—resulting in a detailed report from the GAO.”
The bill that Senator CARPER and I are introducing will go far toward addressing the weaknesses identified by the GAO and will reduce the risks that agencies and contractors will face by defining clear expectations, basing estimates on activities that will be funded, and ensuring that agencies have the ability to defend the Nation, enforce its laws, or deliver critical services to the American people. Our bill will improve both agency and Congressional oversight of large Federal IT projects. For all major investments, the bill requires agencies to track the earned value management index, a key cost and performance measure, and to alert Congress should that measure fall below a defined threshold.

The bill requires additional reports to Congress as well as specific corrective actions should those same indicators of trouble and prompt warnings to alert Congress but also provide a summary of a concrete plan of action to correct the problem. If the shortfall exceeds 40 percent, agencies have 6 months to take required remedial steps or else suspend further project spending until those steps are completed.

If the provisions of this bill had been in force during the past decade, early indicators of trouble and prompt warnings to Congress might have helped prevent much of the added cost, decreased functionality, and increased anxiety we now see surrounding the handheld computers that were intended to streamline the 2010 Census. The additional scrutiny of plans and costs required by this bill might have saved some of the billions wasted on other IT projects that ultimately landed on high-risk lists.

Our bill creates a measured, methodical plan to ensure that Federal agencies apply best practices to IT projects, supply timely reports of problems, and devise corrective actions sooner rather than later. Our Government and our citizens will benefit from these improvements. I urge every Senator to support this constructive and bipartisan bill.
peppers in south Texas were to blame. Now FDA is saying it has discovered a strain of the bacteria in Serrano peppers from a farm in Tamaulipas, Mexico.

In the meantime, over three months have passed since the first reported case. At least 255 people have been hospitalized and two have died because of the outbreak. The tomato industry faces tens of millions of dollars in losses in consumer confidence. Some estimate that the economic impact may be as much as $100 to $500 million.

Over the last couple of years we have seen news headlines about E. coli in spinach, pet food spiked with melamine, Salmonella-tainted peanut butter, and now contaminated peppers. It's clear that these are not isolated cases but the product of a food safety system that is outdated, under-funded, and overworked. Some companies choose not to recalls their products because they are afraid of upsetting consumer confidence or losing market share. In this case, FDA's hands are tied. We import more of our food than ever before, but we don't have the systems in place to make sure this food is as safe as it could be. All these shortcomings put consumers at unnecessary risk.

FDA is struggling to keep up. There are holes in its ability to protect consumers from unsafe foods. For example, the Consumer Protection Safety Commission, the EPA, and even FDA with respect to infant formula all have recall authority, but FDA is unable to pull any other contaminated food off the shelf when the company that makes it will not. FDA can suggest a recall and most of the time companies comply. But there are always bad actors and sometimes companies choose not to recall their products because they are afraid of upsetting consumer confidence or losing market share. In this case, FDA's hands are tied. These are significant gaps in our food safety system. We need to do this. We need to be addressed. We can and should do better.

That is why I am pleased to introduce the Food Safety Modernization Act, along with Senators Gregg, Dodd, Burr, Harkin, and Alexander. This bill is a comprehensive, bipartisan effort that addresses some of the weaknesses in FDA's authorities and resources and updates food safety standards. It is a significant step forward. This bill includes a number of important preventive measures, including increasing the frequency of FDA inspections of food facilities, especially high-risk facilities; directing FDA to set standards for facilities and requiring industry to control hazards in the food supply chain. It also enables FDA to more effectively respond to an outbreak by giving the agency new authorities to order recalls, shut down tainted facilities, and access records to track and trace food.

The food industry is one of the most important sectors of our economy, generating more than $1 trillion annually in economic activity and employing millions of American workers. Food is also a deeply personal experience, a part of our daily lives and our traditions and culture. Yet too far the regulations have gone without a comprehensive review of food safety laws. As long as we continue to do nothing, we will pay the price for an outdated and ill-equipped food safety system.

I thank Senators Gregg, Dodd, Burr, Harkin, and Alexander for joining me in crafting this bill and urge my colleagues to support.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

By Mr. Hatch (for himself and Mr. Dodd):

S. 3387. A bill to amend the Public Health Service Act with respect to pain care; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. Hatch. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the National Pain Care Policy Act of 2008. I am pleased to have worked with my colleague, Senator Christopher Dodd, on this legislation which will help to address barriers to pain care by enhancing coordination of research, improving healthcare provider education and training, and elevating public awareness of pain and pain management.

According to the American Pain Foundation, an estimated 75 million Americans suffer from either chronic or acute pain. Pain is the most common reason that people access the healthcare system and persistent pain can interfere with everyday life and make ordinary tasks seem impossible. Severe chronic pain also can hinder sleep, work, and social functions. Due to its very nature as a prominent feature of many chronic conditions, pain is said to affect more Americans than diabetes, heart disease and cancer combined.

Most pain can be relieved with proper treatment. This simple fact implies that the pain problems of these countless Americans can be easily fixed. Unfortunately, many people in pain face considerable barriers to accessing proper diagnosis, treatment, and management of their pain.

Health care professionals are, more often than not, inadequately trained regarding pain assessment and management, making it difficult for them to treat their patients’ pain safely and effectively. As such, providers may be unfamiliar with current research and guidelines for appropriate pain care. Further, health care professionals may be hesitant to prescribe pain medications for pain management due to lack of knowledge regarding regulatory policies.

To make worse the problem, the National Institutes of Health, NIH, our country’s premier institution for biomedical research, currently dedicates less than 1 percent of its research budget to pain research. Worse yet, this research is spread across multiple Institutes and centers without efficient coordination. Effective education is contingent upon adequate research.

Pain create for themselves barriers to pain care and management. As impractical as it seems, patients often do not tell their doctor about their pain because they do not want to complain or appear to be a nuisance. They also may avoid taking pain medicines because of addiction or dependency concerns which may be based on misinformation due to lack of education.

The National Pain Care Policy Act of 2008 will help to identify these barriers by authorizing an Institute of Medicine, IOM, Conference on Pain Care to evaluate the adequacy of pain assessment, treatment and management. The conference will establish an action agenda by which to address barriers and improve education and training.

The bill also authorizes permanently the Pain Consortium at the National Institutes of Health, NIH, to establish a coordinated clinical research agenda and promote pain research across NIH institutes, centers, and programs. The Consortium will convene annual conferences to make recommendations on pain research and activities at the NIH.

The legislation creates a multidisciplinary Advisory Committee

The National Pain Care Policy Act of 2008 addresses the lack of pain care education by creating a grant program for the development and implementation of programs to train health care professionals in pain assessment and management. It also requires the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, AHRQ, to collect evidence-based practices regarding pain and disseminate such information to the pain care community.

This bill also will break down barriers to pain care access by raising awareness among people who suffer from pain, and helping them and their families find the proper information about pain management. A national pain management public outreach and awareness campaign will be developed and implemented by the Department of Health and Human Services, HHS, to focus on the issue of pain as a national public health problem.

The National Pain Care Policy Act of 2008 contains provisions that will help the millions of Americans who live every day with pain by heightening awareness, enhancing coordination of research, and advancing education. Similar legislation was introduced in the House by Representatives Lois Capps and Mike Rogers last year. The House bill is supported by more than 100 organizations across the care community, including the America Pain Society, the American Academy of Pain Medicine, and the American Cancer Society. I thank Senator Dodd for his leadership on and interest in this issue, and I urge my colleagues to support our bill.

Mr. Dodd. Mr. President, I rise today to join my colleague from Utah, Senator Orrin Hatch, in introducing the National Pain Care Policy Act of 2008. This important legislation would make significant strides in the understanding and treatment of pain as a medical condition. Pain is the most common symptom leading to medical care and a leading health issue. Yet people suffering through pain often struggle to get relief because of a variety of issues. This is why we are introducing this important legislation.

Each year pain results in more than 50 million lost workdays estimated to cost the United States $100 billion. Beyond the economic impact, pain is a leading cause of disability, with back pain alone causing chronic disability in 1 percent of the population of this country. In the United States 40 million people suffer from arthritis, more than 26 million, ages 20 to 64, experience frequent back pain, more than 25 million experience migraine headaches, and 20 million have jaw and lower facial pain each year. It is estimated that 70 percent of cancer patients have significant pain as they fight the disease. And half of all patients in hospitals suffer through moderate to severe pain in their last days. As with many medical conditions, this is a problem that is likely to become worse as the baby boom generation approaches retirement and the population ages.

Sadly, though most pain can be relieved, often it is not. Many suffering patients are reluctant to tell their medical provider about the pain they are experiencing, for fear of being identified as a “bad patient.” And concern about addiction often leads patients to under-dosing or under-treating their pain. But even if patients were more forthcoming about their condition, few medical providers are equipped to do something about it. Often they have not been trained in assessment techniques or pain management, and are unaware of the latest research, guidelines, and standards for treatment. There is also concern among most providers that prescribing treatment for pain will lead to greater scrutiny by regulatory agencies and insurance carriers.

But we can do something about these barriers and help individuals suffering from pain. The National Pain Care Policy Act would lead to improvements in pain care across the country. The legislation would call for an Institute of Medicine conference on pain care to increase awareness of this issue as a public health problem, identify barriers to pain care and determine action for overcoming those barriers. A number of years ago, my senior colleague Senator Hatch helped establish a Pain Consortium at the National Institutes of Health to establish a coordinated pain research agenda. This legislation will codify that consortium and update its mission. The bill addresses the training and education of health care professionals through new grant programs at the Agency for Health Research and Quality, AHRQ, and the Health Resources and Services Administration, HRSA. And finally this legislation creates a national outreach and awareness campaign at the Department of Health and Human Services to educate patients, families, and caregivers about... the significance of pain and the importance of treatment.

I want to thank Senator HATCH for his leadership on this issue and urge my colleagues to join us on this important effort to help the millions of Americans suffering from severe pain.

By Mr. DURBIN:

S. 3390. A bill to amend the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 to provide for the treatment of institutions of higher education as voter registration agencies; to the Committee on Rules and Administration.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Student Voter Opportunity to Encourage Registration Act of 2008—the Student VOTER Act.

The success of America’s experiment in democracy lies in broad participation and deep civic engagement. From the Reconstruction Amendments, to women’s suffrage, to the abolition of the poll tax, and finally the ratification of the 26th amendment, we have witnessed a steady but difficult march toward a more inclusive nation.

To realize the full potential of these great strides, the Student VOTER Act provides a pathway to participation for America’s youth.

The need for this bill is clear. Despite a small rise in youth voting in the current Presidential election cycle, the larger trend is unmistakable. Young voters—historically independent-minded—are far less likely to cast a ballot than older voters. In the 2004 Presidential election, only 47 percent of 18 to 24-year-old citizens voted, compared to 66 percent of citizens 25 and older. This marked the eighth straight Presidential contest in which less than half of these young Americans actually participated. In fact, the percentage of young Americans who vote today is lower than it was in the first Presidential election following the 26th amendment.

Several obstacles stand in the way of youth voting. Because so many students are first-time voters, they often are unfamiliar with how to register. In some States, first-time voters must register in person in order to cast an absentee ballot. For students who attend college outside of their home State or who do not have access to transportation, these requirements can be cumbersome, confusing, and insurmountable.

Of course, apathy contributes to the fact that young voters tend to stay home on election day. But studies show that when an effort is made to reach out to young voters, they will cast a ballot. If we fail to reach out to the youth, we may lose a generation of civically minded Americans.

Congress already tried to encourage youth voting with a provision in the Higher Education Act of 1998, which requires colleges and universities to make a "good faith effort" to register students to vote. Many universities fulfill that obligation. For example, even before orientation begins, Brown University in Providence provides its students with voter registration materials not only for Rhode Island but also for each student’s home State.

Unfortunately, too many colleges and universities have failed to follow Brown’s lead. A 2004 Harvard University study, only 17 percent of colleges and universities nationwide fully comply with the Higher Education Act. The health of our democracy suffers as a result.

The Student VOTER Act offers a straightforward solution: it requires colleges and universities that receive Federal funds to offer voter registration services to students. The Student VOTER Act simply amends the National Voter Registration Act of 1993, popularly known as the Motor Voter Act, to designate colleges and universities that receive Federal funds as voter registration agencies.

That designation is fitting. Our institutions of higher education are among the wealthiest in the world, and they lead the globe in producing Nobel laureates and scientific breakthroughs. But colleges and universities also have a special obligation to educate an active, informed citizenry.

The act does not impose a heavy burden on colleges and universities. We know this because the Student VOTER Act builds on the successful model of the Motor Voter Act, which brought voter registration to DMV offices across the country, adding 5 million voters—mainly independents—to the rolls in the 8 months after its passage. While some DMV offices simply mail completed registration forms to the appropriate clerk or registrar, others now use efficient, easy-to-use computer software to submit registrations electronically.

This means that the price tag of the Student VOTER Act to colleges and universities is at most a 42-cent stamp for each student. I know most of my fellow Senators would agree that this is not too high a price to pay for a lifetime of civic engagement.

In reality, costs should be even lower. Colleges and universities can provide voter registration services to student orientation or during class registration using the same technology that DMV offices already have implemented.

Like the Motor Voter Act, this bill should pass with broad bipartisan support. It is a low-cost, commonsense solution to the very real problem of low voter turnouts. It represents a natural but modest extension of the Higher Education Act and the Motor Voter Act without changing or amending any other State or Federal voting regulations in any way.

The bill may also serve to depoliticize voter registration efforts on college campuses. Polls consistently show that young voters are less likely to identify with a political party than older voters. Polls generally show that young voters identifying with each of the two major political parties. In a July 30, 2008 letter sent to Congress in support of this bill, the U.S. Student Association explained that under the present system, “partisan student groups often become the main voter registration agents, which often alienate undecided and independent voters. The Student VOTER Bill of 2008 seeks to institutionalize the dissemination of voting procedure and register more young people in a systematic and non-partisan capacity.”

In addition to the U.S. Student Association, this bill is supported by U.S. PIRG and the Student Association for Voter Empowerment, SAVE. In particular, I would like to recognize Matthew Segal, SAVE’s founder and a Chicago native, with whom my office worked closely to prepare this bill.

I would also like to applaud the efforts of Representative JAN SCHAKOWSKY, a Democrat, and Representative STEVEN LATOURETTE, a Republican, who will introduce a companion bill today in the House of Representatives. The Student VOTER Bill of 2008 is a bipartisan effort that is an important step toward empowering our Nation’s youth. I look forward to working with my Democratic and Republican colleagues in Congress to ensure its enactment into law.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

By Mr. REID (for himself and Mr. ENSIGN):

S. 3393. A bill to promote conservation and provide for sensible development in Carson City, Nevada, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, today I rise with my good friend Senator ENZNISS to introduce the Carson City Vital Community Act of 2008.

Title I of this legislation aims to create a sensible land ownership pattern throughout the Carson River Valley. The Carson City Vital Community Act of 2008 was introduced to maintain the natural beauty and value for future generations, as well as protect the local views and public access. We have a unique opportunity to work together to ensure that Carson City’s vision of keeping growth compact and maintaining the integrity of the surrounding public lands will remain unspoiled.

Title I of this legislation will help create a large regional park along the Carson River, as well as provide over $1 million in flood protection for Carson City. The Bernhard parcel is one of the properties that have been acquired by Carson City. This parcel was once owned by Carson City and is protected in perpetuity. The scenic and natural qualities of the Silver Saddle Ranch and Prison Hill are protected in perpetuity. The city has been a key partner in the management of the Silver Saddle Ranch and Prison Hill, working with the Friends of Silver Saddle and The Nature Conservancy.

In addition to supporting Carson City’s forward-looking plans for the Silver Saddle Ranch and Prison Hill, conveying the Silver Saddle Ranch and Prison Hill to Carson City makes sense from a resource management perspective. BLM’s Carson City District Office manages over 5 million acres of public land in western Nevada and eastern California. Their strength is managing Nevada’s wide open spaces—not urban interface. Carson City, on the other hand, has far more resources at its disposal to manage the Silver Saddle Ranch and Prison Hill area.

Carson City has over 20 employees working on parks and open space, including two park rangers. They also have contracts in place with some of Nevada’s most respected natural resource experts. The BLM will also keep a light hand in the management of this parcel, working to maintain the property by virtue of the conservation easement.

There is one unique provision related to the Silver Saddle Ranch and Prison Hill conveyance that deserves special mention. A small section of this land was once owned by Carson City. This 62-acre property, known as the Bernhard parcel, was slated to be subdivided into 35 home sites in 2001. The BLM and Carson City both recognized that the acquisition of this land was a priority for managing the Silver Saddle Ranch corridor. Carson City responded quickly and acquired the parcel for open space before it could be developed. Their purchase price in 2001 was roughly $1 million. Later, in 2006, the BLM purchased the Bernhard parcel from Carson City for a parkland value, which by that time had reached $2.5 million.

Under this legislation, we transfer the Bernhard parcel back to Carson City, as part of the Silver Saddle Ranch and Carson River Area. We feel it is important that Carson City pay back 25 percent of the $1.5 million profit they made on their transaction with the BLM. Why just 25 percent? The 25 percent reflects the remaining value of the land that is being conveyed back to Carson City after the conservation easement is taken into account. In western Nevada, conservation easements restrict development typically to have a surface property values by anywhere from 75 percent to 90 percent. We have required Carson City to come up with 25 percent, the most generous estimate of remaining value for the Bernhard parcel. When received, these funds will be incorporated into an agreement to account for the BLM to use for the monitoring and enforcement of the conservation easement on the Silver Saddle Ranch and Prison Hill Area.

Our legislation also conveys roughly 1,700 acres of BLM land to Carson City for recreation and public purposes and open space. These are scattered parcels of BLM land in and around Carson City that would be used for primarily for parks, but also for flood control structures, infrastructure, water tanks, and to give residents room to roam. Carson City already controls roughly a third of these acres through Recreation and Public Purpose Act leases. This bill would quickly and efficiently transfer these lands to the city.

Another provision of Title I deals with 53 acres of land that Carson City acquired from BLM years ago, under the Recreation and Public Purposes Act. The city now believes the land is better suited for commercial development. Although Carson City already owns these lands, by statute, if the city uses the land for something other than public purposes, the land reverts back to the BLM. Our legislation would remove the reversionary interest on these 50 acres so that Carson City can sell the land at an appropriate time. If the City decides to sell the land, we require that it be auctioned, with proceeds returning to the Carson City special fund. This provides funding for federal acquisition of sensitive lands and protection of noted cultural resources.

One of the parcels where the federal interest would be released is home to the Carson City Gun Club. Once on the edge of town, the shooting range is now surrounded by commercial development and the Eagle Valley Golf Course. Although our legislation will allow Carson City to sell this land, we have asked for and received a commitment that Carson City will not sell this property until the shooting facility has a favorite destination for local room to roam. Carson City already provides funding for federal acquisition of sensitive lands and protection of noted cultural resources.

Under Title II, 150 acres of federal lands would be made available for sale through an open and competitive process. This includes the 50 acres transferred from the Forest Service to the BLM in Title I. All of the lands identified for sale in our legislation are isolated or seriously impacted by nearby commercial or residential development. Both agencies have concluded that these lands are less valuable for making the land of choice and that this action is consistent with their respective management plans.

Similar to past Nevada land bills, this legislation directs the Secretary of Interior to report to Congress on the proceeds of land sales back into important public projects. Ninety-five percent of the proceeds will be used to acquire environmentally sensitive lands in Carson City and to protect archeological resources. The remaining five percent of the proceeds will go to Nevada’s general education program.

This title also permanently withdraws nearly 20,000 acres of BLM lands in Carson City from land sales and mineral development. These same lands are considered by Carson City are already administratively withdrawn by the BLM. This bill would make the withdrawal permanent, preserving foothill views, open space and access to public lands, in line with ‘Envision Carson City.’

Our bill also provides guidance that Off-Highway Vehicle (OHV) use on BLM lands in Carson City should be restricted to existing roads and trails until the BLM completes their travel management planning process. The Pine Nut Mountains east of Carson City are a favorite destination for local and visiting OHV enthusiasts. This provision will better protect this area until routes can be designated.

Finally, the second title of the bill opens a new avenue for Carson City to continue their conservation efforts along the Carson River. The Southern Nevada Public Land Management Act (SNPLMA) will be amended to authorize funds to acquire land for parks and trails along the Carson River and to authorize conservation initiatives, also along the Carson River. In addition, we make a small change to SNPLMA which will only affect Washoe County. In the White Pine County bill of 2006 (P. L. 109–432), Washoe County was given access to SNPLMA through 2011 to acquire part of the Ballardini Ranch. The county has made good progress towards this acquisition and we support making the 2011 deadline. We are pleased to extend the authorization to 2015.

Title III addresses the Washoe Tribe’s pressing need for more land for residential and commercial development. Tribal lands adjacent to both of the colonies in Carson City, Stewart and Carson, would be expanded by this legislation. Carson Colony tribal lands would grow by over 280 acres. On this parcel, the lands located below the 5,200-foot elevation would be transferred for residential or commercial development. The lands above the 5,200-foot contour would only be available for traditional tribal uses, like ceremonial gatherings, hunting and plant collecting. Tribal lands at the Stewart Colony would grow by only 5 acres, all of which would be available for commercial and residential development.

In 2003, Senator Ensign and I passed legislation that conveyed 25 acres of Forest Service land on the shores of Lake Tahoe, to the Washoe Tribe. Unfortunately, the parcel was not accurately described in the legislation and consequently the land that was conveyed did not fully reflect our commitment to the Tribe. This bill includes a technical correction that will provide a long overdue fix to the Washoe Indian Tribe Trust Land Conveyance (P. L. 106–47).

Lastly, this bill directs the Forest Service to develop a cooperative agreement with the Washoe Tribe to ensure the Tribe’s access across Forest Service land for their traditional “lifeway” walk to Lake Tahoe. For centuries the Washoe people have moved from the Pine Nut Mountains east of Carson City in the fall to Lake Tahoe in the summer. Our legislation ensures that they are able to continue this important tradition.

This bill, is built on years of public input. We believe it is a model piece of legislation and appreciate the support of our colleagues in this effort. We look forward to working with Chairman Bingaman, Ranking Member Domenici and the other distinguished members of the Energy and Natural Resources Committee to move this bill forward during the time we have remaining in this legislative session.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

In addition to reducing our dependence on foreign oil, a producing well provides both State and Federal taxes, pays royalties to land and mineral owners, and keeps jobs and dollars on American soil and in American pockets. A plugged well provides none of this. Of the contrast, the IOGCC reported that in 2006, plugged and abandoned marginal wells resulted in the loss of $1.77 billion in economic output, $369.2 million in earnings reductions, and 2,223 lost jobs. These statistics testify to the importance of America’s marginal well production. With gasoline prices at record highs, Congress must ensure that government policies do not discourage, and instead prolong and enhance, production from these low volume wells.

That is why today I am glad to join with my fellow Oklahoman, Congressman Dan Boren, to introduce the Marginal Well Production Preservation and Enhancement Act. This bill will streamline and clarify government regulations, prolong economic feasibility, and enhance production volumes from marginal wells. Every onshore oil and natural gas well that is no longer economic to maintain pays royalties to land and mineral owners, and keeps jobs and dollars on American soil and in American pockets. It’s good for America’s small producers, as well as America’s consumers.

By Mr. KOHL (for himself, Mr. DURBIN, Mr. KENNEDY, and Mr. CASEY).

S. 3396. A bill to amend the Public Health Service Act to provide grants or contracts for prescription drug education and outreach for healthcare providers and their parents; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. KOHL. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Independent Drug Education and Outreach Act. Over the past year, the Committee on Aging has been taking a close look at the relationship between the pharmaceutical industry and our Nation’s physicians. Not only does the interaction between these two parties seem to be fraught with conflicts of interest, but it is likely that the marketing methods employed by drug companies—and the manner in which they educate doctors about their products—have an impact on the costs of prescription drugs in America.

When it comes to knowing what treatment options are available to doctors, pharmaceutical sales reps are currently one of the most common ways physicians learn about prescription drugs on the market. However, these sales reps often seem to confuse educating with selling, and evidence shows that doctors’ prescribing patterns can be heavily influenced by the sometimes biased and sometimes factually erroneous claims made by these sales representatives.

The Independent Drug Education and Outreach Act offers an alternative method of providing information to doctors. It’s called academic detailing, and we believe it can have a positive impact on both quality and cost of healthcare nationwide. Academic detailing provides physicians and other prescribers with an objective source of information on prescription drugs, based on scientific research certified by HHS. The information is presented to doctors in their own offices by trained clinicians and pharmacists. Academic detailing ensures that orth high-quality curricula are the most comprehensive data available on drug safety of the full array of pharmaceutical treatment options, including low-cost generic alternatives.

The proposed legislation would provide two sets of grants. The first grant program would create educational materials for doctors on the safety, efficacy, and cost of prescription drugs, including generic drugs and over-the-counter alternatives. A second set of Academic detailing grants would dispatch trained medical staff—such as pharmacists, nurses, and other health care professionals—into physicians’ offices to distribute and discuss the independent information. To ensure their neutrality, all grant recipients would be prohibited from receiving financial support from drug manufacturers.

When doctors are better informed about the full range of drugs available on the market, they are more likely to prescribe the most effective treatment, as opposed to the latest brand-name blockbuster drug. The result is also lower health care costs. A study in the New England Journal of Medicine projected that for every dollar spent on academic detailing, two dollars can be saved in drug costs, due in part to the increased use of generic drugs. In this way, a Federal academic detailing program will likely pay for itself, while saving the government, consumers, and employers a considerable amount of money.

I would like to thank my cosponsors in the Senate, Majority Whip Dick DURBIN, HELP Committee Chairman Ted KENNEDY, and Senator Bob CASEY. I would also like to thank Representatives Henry WAXMAN and Frank PALLONE, who are introducing a companion bill today in the House. We stand together with the goal of providing doctors with unbiased information on prescription drugs, and ensuring that Americans can have access to the lowest cost management of their healthcare.

Mr. DURBIN. Prescription drugs can restore health, prevent illness, and extend lives. But deciding whether to prescribe a drug, and which one, requires a careful balancing of potential benefits, risks, and costs.

Prescribing should not be determined by how heavily a drug is promoted by a pharmaceutical company. Sadly, this is largely what happens today.

Health and we should not allow objective, easy-to-access information for doctors to guide them when it comes to prescribing options.
New drugs are constantly entering the marketplace, but there’s very little objective information about what drug might be marginally safer or more effective than existing drugs.

Even the most vigilant doctors would be challenged to monitor the dozens of new medications that could contain a helpful study comparing the safety and effectiveness of drugs.

The pharmaceutical industry has taken advantage of this information void.

It spends about $7 billion a year marketing to physicians and sends over 90,000 sales representatives, called detailers, to pitch their company’s latest and most expensive drugs.

What the drug industry is doing is not education. It is promotion. And there’s a big difference between the two.

The drug company sales representatives are hired more for their charisma than their scientific knowledge, and they provide doctors with information skewed to portray their company’s product in the most favorable light.

The sales representatives arrive with free lunches and free drug samples. Lucrative speaking and consulting fees are paid to doctors who change their prescribing to the liking of a drug company.

The consequence of such a system is clear: an over-reliance on prescribing the latest, most expensive drugs even when existing drugs are as effective, as safe, or cost less.

The pain-reliever Vioxx provides a cautionary tale of what can happen when marketing prowess trumps evidence-based medicine.

Heavy marketing quickly made Vioxx a blockbuster drug with $3 billion a year in sales, despite a lack of evidence that it could provide any greater pain relief for most patients than Advil and despite early indications that it increased the risk of heart attacks. Many Americans needlessly paid more and placed themselves at greater risk because the benefits of Vioxx were oversold and the risks minimized.

Another example is the marketing of calcium-channel blockers in 1990s. Heavy marketing increased the sales of the new patent-protected calcium-channel blockers but decreased sales of other blood-pressure drugs, such as thiazide diuretics and beta blockers, that were cheaper and often more effective.

A more recent example is the cholesterol drug Vytorin. The new drug has been heavily marketed since it was introduced in 2004. But a study released earlier this year did not find that Vytorin was any better at limiting plaque buildup in the arteries than Zocor, an older cholesterol drug that recently came out in a lower-priced generic form.

We need to find a better way to educate physicians about prescription drug options and fill the void of medical information that the drug industry is now taking advantage of.

Part of the solution is academic detailing, an idea first developed by Jerry Avorn, a physician at Harvard Medical School and Brigham and Women’s Hospital in Boston.

Academic detailing programs use some of the marketing tools that the pharmaceutical industry uses to effectively, such as office visits to physicians and easy-to-read materials, but employs them to promote appropriate prescribing, based on an objective analysis of the medical literature.

These programs have been sent trained nurses and pharmacists, armed with unbiased information, to doctors’ offices—have been shown to generate $2 in savings for every $1 that it costs to implement them.

Pennsylvania’s PACE program is the State’s pharmacy assistance program for low- and moderate-income seniors, and it runs the most notable publicly funded academic detailing program.

The PACE academic detailing program has reduced costs associated with the overuse of Nexium, an acid-reflux drug for which there are similar lower-cost alternatives, and reduced the use of Cox-2 inhibitors such as Vioxx.

Today, I am joining Senator KONJH and Senators KENNEDY and CASSIDY in introducing legislation that would promote additional academic detailing programs.

The Independent Drug Education and Outreach Act would provide funds to medical schools and pharmacies, and others for the development of educational materials based on what unbiased, peer-reviewed medical literature says about appropriate prescribing for a particular condition.

The bill also would provide funds to ten governmental or non-profit groups to train nurses and pharmacists and to send them to physician offices to present and discuss this information directly with physicians.

The bill includes protections against financial conflicts of interest and calls on the Agency for Health Care Research and Quality to review the accuracy of the information provided to doctors.

The Independent Drug Education and Outreach Act would begin to fix one of the glaring shortcomings of our current health care system: the lack of a systematic way of disseminating information on the relative benefits, risks, and costs of various treatment options directly to doctors.

When it comes to prescription drugs, newer isn’t necessarily better. In many cases, they are not.

We can no longer afford to rely on drug company salespeople to be doctors’ primary source of information about new drugs.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

By Mr. REID (for Mr. KENNEDY (for himself), Mr. LEAHY, Mr. DODD, Mr. HARKIN, Ms. MUKU- SKI, Mr. BINGAMAN, Mrs. MURRAY, Mr. REED, Mrs. CLINTON, Mr. OBAMA, Mr. SANDERS, Mr. BROWN, and Mr. WHITEHOUSE):

S. 3398. A bill to amend the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act with respect to liability under State and local requirements respecting devices; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions:

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I am proud to join my colleagues in introducing the Medical Device Safety Act. This legislation reverses the Supreme Court’s erroneous decision in Riegel v. Medtronic. There, the Court misread a statute designed to protect consumers by giving the Food and Drug Administration the authority to approve medical devices as preempting state tort claims when a medical device causes harm. Riegel prevents consumers from receiving fair compensation for injuries sustained, medical expenses incurred, and lost wages, and it must be reversed.

Professional action should be unnecessary. When Congress passed the Medical Device Amendments, or FDA, in 1976, it did so “to provide for the safety and effectiveness of medical devices intended for human use.” In other words, Congress passed the MDA to protect patients from dangerous medical devices. Toward that end, Congress gave the FDA the authority to approve, prior to a product entering the market, certain medical devices. For over 30 years the MDA has been in effect, and over that period FDA regulation and tort liability have complemented each other in protecting consumers.

Given the MDA’s purpose, and the fact it has operated successfully for 30 years, I was disheartened to find the Court twist the meaning of the statute to strip from consumers all remedies when a medical device fails. In contorted logic, the Court found that the FDA’s requirements in approving a medical device preempts state laws designed to ensure that manufacturers marketed safe devices. In other words, the Court believes that a company’s responsibility to its patients ends when it receives FDA approval. I strenuously disagree.

In fact, there is absolutely no evidence that Congress intended that under the MDA, consumers would lose their only avenue for receiving compensation for injuries caused by negligent or inadequately labeled devices. In other words, the Court decided in Medtronic that the Medical Device Safety Act. This legislation reverses the Supreme Court’s erroneous decision in Riegel v. Medtronic. There, the Court misread a statute designed to protect consumers by giving the Food and Drug Administration the authority to approve medical devices as preempting state tort claims when a medical device causes harm. Riegel prevents consumers from receiving fair compensation for injuries sustained, medical expenses incurred, and lost wages, and it must be reversed.

Nevertheless, because of the Court’s decision, it is imperative that Congress act to ensure that those harmed by flawed medical devices can seek compensation. The bill introduced today addresses the Court’s action by explicitly stating that actions for damages under state law are preserved. Specifically, it amends section 522 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act to state that the section shall not be construed to modify or otherwise affect any action for damages or the liability of any person under the law of any State. And, the bill applies retroactively to the date of the enactment of the MDA, consistent with Congress’s intent when it passed that act over 30 years ago. Practically, that means that it applies to cases pending on the date of enactment. Litigants have claims for injuries sustained prior to enactment.

The harm from Riegel, unless Congress acts, cannot be more real. Take Riegel itself. In 1996, Charles Riegel had a coronary angioplasty performed on his right coronary artery. During the procedure, Mr. Riegel’s surgeon used Medtronic’s Evergreen Balloon Catheter. The catheter burst inside Mr. Riegel’s artery, causing him severe and permanent injuries and disabilities.

Under our system of law, when someone is injured, he or she can normally seek redress from the entity that caused him or her harm. Yet, because of the Court’s decision, Mr. Riegel and his wife receive no compensation for the defective design and inadequate warning.

It is not just Mr. Riegel. In 2002, Gary Despain was implanted with a defective hearing aid Soundtec manufactured. While working as a welder, he suffered damage to his right ear, apparently as a result of interference between a magnet in his hearing device and some electronic welding equipment being used in the plant. The device caused severe ringing in his ear, but the labeling for the device failed to warn of this potential risk. Mr. Despain had to have the device surgically removed and he remains unemployed and disabled as a result of the device.

Nevertheless, two weeks after the Court’s Riegel decision, Mr. Despain’s lawsuit against Soundtec was dismissed and Mr. Despain has no ability to seek remedies for his injuries.

The result of Riegel, therefore, is that the event the FDA does an inadequate job of inspecting and assuring the safety of medical devices—and because tort actions are now precluded—then consumers are left at extreme risk.

While FDA approval of medical devices, moreover, is important, it cannot be the sole protection for consumers. FDA approval is simply inadequate to replace the long-standing safety incentives and consumer protections that federal law provides. As a member of the Health, Education, Labor and Pension Committee, which has oversight over FDA, I have worked hard to ensure that the FDA performs its job. No matter how effective the FDA is, however, the FDA simply cannot guarantee that no defective, dangerous and deadly medical device will reach consumers. As the former Director of the FDA’s Center for Devices and Radiological Health acknowledged, the FDA’s “system of approval has failed, largely because of its systems of non-system, its systems in which the FDA [had] approved devices that proved unsafe in use.”

The fact is, the FDA conducts the approval process with minimal resources and simply does not have adequate funds to genuinely ensure that devices are safe or are properly and effectively reevaluate approvals when new information becomes available.

Further, the FDA approval process is based on partial information. A principal shortcoming is that the device’s manufacturer compiles the studies and data supporting an application, and the data is often unreliable. And, the FDA does not conduct independent investigations into a device’s safety. A manufacturer, moreover, is not required to submit information about development of the device, including alternative designs, manufacturing methods and labeling possibilities that the manufacturer considered, but rejected.

In 1993, an FDA committee found flaws in the product and analysis of the clinical studies used to support applications that were “sufficiently serious to impede the agency’s ability to make the necessary judgments about [device] safety and effectiveness.” It added, “[o]ne of the main reasons FDA could not apply [its] 1988 [MDA] discretion is that the data upon which we base our safety and effectiveness decisions isn’t perfect.” Likewise, in 1996, the Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services reported “serious deficiencies in the clinical data submitted as part of pre-market applications.”

FDA review, moreover, is a one-time event with no reevaluation and very little FDA oversight once a device reaches doctors and patients. In fact, even the best-designed and most reliable clinical studies by their very nature cannot duplicate all aspects and hazards of everyday use. Moreover, while manufacturers are supposed to report defects and injury relief for patients injured by defective medical devices and should not be foreclosed.

Not only does access to State court mean that a person injured can receive fair compensation, but there are other advantages. Such suits aid in exposing dangers and serve as a catalyst to address their consequences. Through discovery, litigation can help uncover previously unavailable information on adverse effects of products that might not have been caught during the regulatory process. Product liability suits create continuing incentive for manufacturers to improve the safety of their device, even after FDA approval.

The Court fundamentally misreads Congress’s intent in passing the Medical Device Amendments in 1976, and Riegel represented yet another victory for big business over consumers. Those injured, however, deserve to have their day in court and are entitled to compensation when they are injured by faulty medical devices, have medical expenses to pay and lost wages, regardless of whether FDA approved a device or not. We must reverse this erroneous decision and ensure that those who have suffered serious injury at the hands of others receive justice.

By Mrs. LINCOLN (for herself, Mr. SMITH, Ms. CANTWELL, Mr. CORNYN, Mrs. MURRAY, Mrs. DOLE, Ms. LANDRIEU, Mr. CHAMBLISS, Mr. WICKER, and Mr. VITTER). S. 3399. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to make permanent the reduction in the rate of tax on qualified timber gain of corporations, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Mrs. LINCOLN. Mr. President, I am very pleased to rise today to introduce the Timber Revitalization and Economic Enhancement Act II of 2008 with my good friend, Senator Smith of Oregon. I also want to say a special thanks to our cosponsors, Senators CANTWELL, MURRAY, DOLE, CHAMBLISS, CORNYN, LANDRIEU, WICKER and VITTER.

This legislation has commonly been referred to as the TREE Act. I appreciate that Congress understands the importance of the TREE Act with its inclusion and enactment in the Farm Bill earlier this year. But, unfortunately, this tax policy is already set to expire in less than one year. So today, my colleagues and I introduce the TREE Act II to make this important forest policy permanent.

In my home State of Arkansas, the forest products industry is a foundation of our economy and culture. More than 50 percent of Arkansans are associated with the growing of these forests and manufacture of these great products. More than 22,000 Arkansans men and women work in our woods, at our sawmills and in our paper mills. These are good jobs located in our small rural towns.

However, these jobs and this industry continue to face many challenges. The TREE Act II addresses one of these challenges. Just as it is important to have diversity in our forests, it is also important to maintain diversity in our forestry industry, and we must ensure that all business forms have the necessary tools so they can be successful in the global marketplace. Timber companies that are organized as corporations continue to be under intensifying pressure to reorganize. In that case, a corporation owns substantial and necessary facilities that may be forced to sell some of those facilities and to make other structural changes in order to comply with the relevant tax rules that it would newly become subject to. This would be likely to cause disruption in some of these communities and also would make it harder for U.S. companies to compete internationally.

In Arkansas, like so many other States across our Nation, a strong forest product industry is essential to having a strong economy. A permanent solution to the TREE Act II is imperative for this industry and supporting the jobs it provides. I look forward to working with my colleagues on the Senate Finance Committee to ensure this important tax policy is made permanent.

By Mr. FEINGOLD (for himself and Mr. WHITEHOUSE):
S. 3405. A bill to prohibit secret modifications and revocations of the law, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, today, the junior Senator from Rhode Island, Senator WHITEHOUSE, and I will introduce the Executive Order Integrity Act of 2008. The bill prevents secret changes to published Executive Orders by requiring the President to place a notice in the Federal Register when he has modified or revoked a published Order. Through this simple measure, the bill takes an important step toward stemming the growth of secret law in the executive branch.

The principle behind this bill is straightforward. It is a basic tenet of democracy that the people have a right to know the law. Indeed, the notion of "secret law" has been described in court opinions and law treatises as "reprehensible" and "an abomination." That is why the laws passed by Congress have historically been matters of public record.

But the law that applies in this country includes more than just statutes. It includes regulations, the controlling legal interpretations of courts and the executive branch, and certain Presidential directives. As we learned at a hearing of the Judiciary Committee's Constitution Subcommittee that I chaired in April, some of this body of executive and judicial law is increasingly being kept secret from the public, and too often from Congress as well. The Bush administration has concealed Department of Justice legal opinions, interpretations of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court, and even the agency rule that requires Americans to show identification at airports.

The shroud of secrecy extends to Executive Orders and other Presidential directives that carry the force of law. The Federal Register Act requires the President to publish any Executive Orders that have general applicability and legal effect. Through the diligent efforts of my colleague Senator Whitehouse, we learned last December that the Department of Justice has taken the position that a President can "waive" or "modify" any Executive Order without any notice to the public or Congress—simply by not following it. In other words, even in cases where the President is required to make the law public, the President can change the law in secret.

The Office of Legal Counsel memorandum that contains this position is still classified, but Senator Whitehouse convinced the Department of Justice to declassify certain statements in the memorandum. The Senator from Rhode Island spoke on the floor last December, and he outlined about these statements. They include the statement that "[w]henever [the President] wishes to depart from the terms of a previous executive order," he may do so, because "an executive order cannot limit a President. He cannot be required to do so, because "an executive order can only modify the terms of an executive order, or give notice that he's violating it, because by "depart[ing] from the executive order," the President "has instead modified or waived it." Now, no one disputes that a President can withdraw an Executive Order at any time; that is every President's prerogative. But abrogating a published Executive order without any public notice works a secret change in the law. Worse, because the published Order stays on the books, it actively misleads Congress and the public as to what the law is.

This is not just a hypothetical problem dreamed up by the Office of Legal Counsel. It has happened before, and it could happen again. To list just one example, the administration's warrantless wiretapping program not only violated the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act; it was inconsistent with several provisions of Executive Order 12333, the longstanding executive order governing electronic surveillance and other intelligence activities. Apparently, the administration believed its actions constituted a tacit amendment of that Executive Order. No one knows how many other Executive Orders have been secretly revoked or amended by the conduct of this Administration.

The bill that Senator Whitehouse and I will introduce provides a simple solution to this problem. If the President revokes, modifies, waives, or suspends a published Executive Order or similar directive, notice of this change in the law must be placed in the Federal Register within 30 days. The notice must specify the Order or the provision that has been affected; whether the change is a revocation, a modification, a waiver, or a suspension; and the nature and circumstances of the change. If information about the nature and circumstances of the change is classified, it is exempt from the publication requirement, but the information still must be provided to Congress so that we, as legislators, know how the law has been changed.

That is what our bill does; now let me talk briefly about what our bill does not do. First, it does not expand the existing legal requirements under the Federal Register Act, that determine which Executive Orders must be published. To the extent the Federal Register Act permits a certain amount of "secret law" in the form of unpublished Executive Orders, our bill leaves that framework in place.

Second, our bill does not require public notice when the President revokes or modifies an unpublished Executive Order—even if the substance of the unpublished order is well-known to Congress and even the American people. This bill is narrowly aimed at the situation in which the American people have been given official notice of one version of the law, but a different version is being implemented. Third, the bill does not require the President to adhere to the terms of an Executive Order. Many scholars have argued that a President must adhere to a formally promulgated Executive Order unless or until the Order is formally withdrawn or amended, just as the head of an agency must adhere to the agency's regulations. I happen to agree. But this bill does not take a position on OLC's assertion that any deviation from the Executive Order by the President is a permissible amendment of that Order. It simply requires public notice when the amendment has occurred.

Fourth, the bill does not require the publication of classified information about intelligence sources and methods or similar information. The basic fact that the published law is no longer in effect, cannot be classified. On rare occasions, national security can justify elected officials keeping some information secret, but it can never justify lying to the American people about what law is. Maintaining two different sets of laws, one public and one secret, is just that—deceiving the American people about what law applies to the government's conduct.

I commend Senator Whitehouse for his tireless work to bring this issue to light, and I urge all of my colleagues in the Senate to support this modest effort to ensure the integrity of our published laws.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the Record, as follows:

S. 3405

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled.

S. 3406. A bill to restore the intent and protections of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990; read the first time.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I am pleased to join with Senators HATCH, OBAMA, and MCCAIN in introducing the ADA Amendments Act of 2008. This bipartisan legislation will allow us to advance and fulfill the original promise of the Americans with Disabilities Act, which was signed into law 18 years ago this month.

I am especially grateful to the distinguished senior Senator from Utah, Senator HATCH, for his partnership and leadership in helping to craft our bill here in the Senate and to Senator KENNEDY for his career-long leadership in fighting for the rights of people with disabilities. Senator KENNEDY has worked from the beginning to help craft this bill.

This bill is similar to bipartisan legislation introduced in the other body by House Majority Leader STENY HOYER and Congressman JIM SENSENBRENNER. That bill passed by a 402-17 margin last month.

I am also grateful that, from the outset, these bills have been conceived and crafted in a spirit of genuine bipartisanship, with members of both parties coming together to do the right thing for all Americans with disabilities.

Of course, passage of the Americans with Disabilities Act was also a bipartisan effort. As chief sponsor in the Senate, I worked very closely with Senator Bob Dole and others on both sides of the aisle. We received invaluable support from President George Herbert Walker Bush and key members of his administration, including White House Counsel Boyden Gray, Attorney General Richard Thornburgh, and Transportation Secretary Sam Skinner.

The fact is that Americans of all walks of life take enormous pride in the progress we have made since the ADA was passed 18 years ago. Nobody wants to go backward.

The Americans with Disabilities Act was one of the landmark civil rights laws of the 20th century—a long-overdue emancipation proclamation for Americans with disabilities. Thanks to that law, we have removed most physical barriers to movement and access to the workplace and other services for people with disabilities. We have required employers to provide reasonable accommodations so that people with disabilities can have equal opportunity in the workplace. And we have advanced the four goals of the ADA: full and equal opportunity, full participation, independent living, and economic self-sufficiency.

The reach—the triumph—of the ADA revolution struck home to me, some time back, when I attended a Washington convention of several hundred disability rights advocates, many with significant disabilities. They arrived in Washington on trains and airplanes built to accommodate people with mobility impairments; they came to the hotel on Metro and in regular busses, all seamlessly accessible by wheelchair. They navigated city streets equipped with curb cuts and ramps. The hotel where the convention took place was equipped in countless ways to accommodate people with disabilities. There was a sign language interpreter on the da is so that people with hearing disabilities could be full participants.

For those of us who do not have disabilities, these many changes are all but invisible. But for individuals with disabilities, they are transforming and liberating. So are provisions in the ADA outlawing discrimination against qualified individuals with disabilities in the workplace, and requiring employers to provide “reasonable accommodations.”

But despite this progress, we face a challenge. In recent years, the courts have somehow allowed who qualifies as an “individual with a disability.” As a consequence, people with conditions that common sense tells us are disabilities are being told by courts that they are not in fact disabled, and are not eligible for the protections of the law. In a ruling last year, the 11th Circuit Court even concluded that a person with an intellectual disability was not “disabled” under the ADA.

When I explain to people what the Supreme Court has done, they are shocked. Impairments that the Court says are not to be considered disabilities under the law include amputation, intellectual disabilities, epilepsy, diabetes, muscular dystrophy, and multiple sclerosis.

In three rulings in 1999—Sutton v. United Airlines, Murphy v. United Parcel Service, and Albertson’s v. Kirkingsburg—the Court held that correct and mitigating measures must be considered in determining whether an individual has a disability under the ADA.

In Sutton, the Supreme Court held that if a person is taking corrective measures to mitigate a physical or mental impairment, the effects of those measures must be taken into account when judging whether a person is "disabled." Corrective measures could include anything from visual aids to a prosthesis. The Court went on to state that the approach adopted by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission—that persons are to be evaluated in their hypothetical uncorrected state—was an impermissible interpretation of the ADA.

In Kirkingburg, the Supreme Court applied the same analysis to medication used to treat hypertension, and concluded that an employee who was fired because he had hypertension was not protected under the ADA, because medication alleviated some of his symptoms.

In Kirkingburg, the Supreme Court went further and declared that mitigating measures to be included in the determination of whether someone is disabled included not only artificial aids such as devices and medications, but also subconscious measures an individual may use to compensate for his or her impairment. Kirkingburg was an individual who was blind in one eye, and the court found that he was not "disabled" under the ADA.

Moreover, in another Supreme Court case, Toyota v. Williams 2002, the Court held that there must be a "demanding standard for qualifying as disabled." This too, has resulted in a much more active requirement than Congress intended. It has had the effect of excluding countless individuals with disabilities from the protections of the law.

Together, these Supreme Court cases have created a supreme absurdity: The more successful a person is at coping with a disability, the more likely it is for a court to find that they are no longer sufficiently disabled to be protected by the ADA. And if these individuals are no longer protected under the ADA, then their requests for a reasonable accommodation at work can be denied. Or they can be fired—without recourse.

Think about it this way: Imagine that you are an individual with a disability who has a job. Due to your disability, you take some medication or assistive devices and medications protected under the ADA, then their requests for a reasonable accommodation at work can be denied. Or they can be fired—without recourse.

Therefore, Congress intended, when we passed the ADA, that individuals who have created a supreme absurdity: The more successful a person is at coping with a disability, the more likely it is for a court to find that they are no longer sufficiently disabled to be protected by the ADA. And if these individuals are no longer protected under the ADA, then their requests for a reasonable accommodation at work can be denied. Or they can be fired—without recourse.

This bill revives the "regarded as" prong of the definition of disability, and makes it easier for those with physical or mental impairments to be able to seek relief if they have been subjected to an adverse action because of their disability.

This bill has a broad construction provision which impacts the courts and the agencies that the definition of disability is to be interpreted broadly, to the maximum extent permitted by the ADA.

Mr. President, 18 years ago, the Americans with Disabilities Act passed overwhelming bipartisan support. Likewise, today, with the introduction of this bill, we are building a strong bi-cameral, bipartisan majority to support the ADA Amendments Act of 2008.

Let me say, again, that I am grateful for the bipartisan spirit with which we are approaching this legislation. We have an opportunity to come together and make an important difference for millions of Americans with disabilities.

This bill also enjoys strong support across the country. It is supported by most national disability organizations, as well as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers, the Society for Human Resource Management, and the Human Resources Policy Association.

I look forward to working with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to pass this bill, and to advance and fulfill the original promise of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD. There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) in enacting the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA), Congress intended that the Act "provide a clear and comprehensive national mandate for the elimination of discrimination against individuals with disabilities" and provide broad coverage;

(2) in enacting the ADA, Congress recognized that physical and mental disabilities in no way diminish a person's right to fully participate in all aspects of our society, but that people with physical or mental disabilities are frequently precluded from doing so because of prejudice, antiquated attitudes, or the failure to remove societal and institutional barriers;

(3) while Congress expected that the definition of disability under the ADA would be interpreted consistently with how courts had applied the definition of a handicapped individual under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, that expectation has not been fulfilled; and

(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this Act are—

(1) to provide a clear and comprehensive national mandate for the elimination of discrimination against individuals with disabilities;

(2) to provide a clear and comprehensive national mandate for the elimination of discrimination against individuals with disabilities;

(3) to provide a clear and comprehensive national mandate for the elimination of discrimination against individuals with disabilities;
(5) the holding of the Supreme Court in Toyota Motor Manufacturing, Kentucky, Inc. v. Williams, 534 U.S. 184 (2002) further narrowed the broad scope of protection intended to be afforded by the ADA; and
(6) as a result of these Supreme Court cases, lower courts have incorrectly found in individual cases that people with a range of substantial limitations or impairments are not people with disabilities.

In particular, the Supreme Court, in the case of Toyota Motor Manufacturing, Kentucky, Inc. v. Williams, 534 U.S. 184 (2002) interpreted the term "substantially limits" to require a greater degree of limitation than was intended by Congress; and

(a) that the current Equal Employment Opportunity Commission ADA regulations defining the term "substantially limits" as "significantly restricted" are inconsistent with congressional intent, by expressing too high a standard.

(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this Act are—

(1) to carry out the ADA's objectives of providing a "clear and comprehensive national mandate" to eliminate discrimination and "clear, strong, consistent, enforceable standards addressing discrimination" by reinstating a broad scope of protection to the ADA;

(2) to reject the requirement enunciated by the Supreme Court in Sutton v. United Air Lines, Inc., 527 U.S. 449 (1999) and its companion cases, whether an impairment that substantially limits a major life activity is to be determined with reference to the ameliorative effects of mitigating measures;

(3) to correct the Supreme Court's reasoning in Sutton v. United Air Lines, Inc., 527 U.S. 449 (1999) with regard to coverage under the third prong of the definition of disability and to reinstate the reasoning of the Supreme Court in School Board of Nassau County v. Arline, 480 U.S. 280 (1987) as set forth in a broad view of the third prong of the definition of handicap under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973;

(4) to reject the standards enunciated by the Supreme Court in Toyota Motor Manufacturing, Kentucky, Inc. v. Williams, 534 U.S. 184 (2002) for the terms "substantially limits" and "major" in the definition of disability under the ADA "need to be interpreted strictly to create a demanding standard for demonstrating a disability," and that such an interpretation would substantially limit the ADA's protections; and

(5) to convey congressional intent that the standards created by the Supreme Court in the case of Toyota Motor Manufacturing, Kentucky, Inc. v. Williams, 534 U.S. 184 (2002) for "substantially limits", and applied by lower courts, as a "significant restriction" has created an unnecessarily high level of limitation necessary to obtain coverage under the ADA, to convey that it is the intent of Congress that specific object of attention in cases brought under the ADA should be whether entities covered under the ADA have complied with their obligations, and to convey that the question of whether an individual's impairment is a disability under the ADA should not demand extensive analysis; and

(6) to express Congress' expectation that the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission will revise that portion of its current regulations that defines the term "substantially limits" or "significantly restricted" to be consistent with this Act, including the amendments made by this Act.

SEC. 3. CODIFIED FINDINGS.

Section 2(a) of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 12101) is amended—

(1) by amending paragraph (1) to read as follows:

"(1) physical or mental disabilities in no way diminish a person's right to fully participate in the opportunities, advantages, amenities, and other attributes of American life which are opened by law to other members of society, yet many people with physical or mental disabilities have been precluded from doing so because of discrimination; others who have a record of a disability or are regarded as having a disability also have been subjected to discrimination;"

(2) by striking paragraph (7); and

(3) by reordering paragraphs (8) and (9) as paragraphs (7) and (8), respectively.

SEC. 4. DISABILITY DEFINED AND RULES OF CONSTRUCTION.

(a) DEFINITION OF DISABILITY.—Section 3 of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 12102) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 3. DEFINITION OF DISABILITY.

"As used in this Act:

"(1) DISABILITY.—The term 'disability' means, with respect to an individual—"(A) a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities of such individual;"(B) a record of such an impairment; or"(C) being regarded as having such an impairment (as described in paragraph (3))."

SEC. 8. EFFECTIVE DATE.

This Act and the amendments made by this Act shall become effective on January 1, 2009.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I am proud to rise today, a combination 18 years ago, and stand beside my good friend from Iowa, Senator HARKIN, to introduce legislation advancing opportunities for our disabled fellow citizens. Our commitment to that cause never ends. This Congress has opened the door to learn from experience, to observe and evaluate how laws we put on the books work in practice, and to be ready to do our part with appropriate legislation. We are doing our part today by introducing the ADA Restoration Act.

The Americans with Disabilities Act is perhaps the most comprehensive piece of civil rights legislation we have ever enacted. It prohibits discrimination that previously had been allowed to happen. It affirms reaffirms the negative prohibition and the affirmative obligation makes the ADA truly unique and able to make such a positive contribution to the lives of so many across our great Nation. This legislation is the result of Supreme Court decisions that have had the effect of narrowing the ADA’s definition of disability and thereby restricting its coverage. Its goal is to once again broaden the definition of disability in a way that maximizes bipartisan consensus and minimizes unintended consequences. I am sure that my friend from Iowa, Senator HARKIN, joins me in thanking so many people and organizations who have been part of this process, offering countless suggestions and ideas and input about how to achieve this goal.

This effort has been neither simple nor easy. Because the ADA is such a complex law, every change we make can have effects in areas beyond where a problem might have occurred. In addition, Members on both sides of the aisle, with liberal or conservative perspectives, equally want to help the disabled but have very different views about how to do it.

And so the bill we introduce today is really the third phase in a process that began more than a year ago with introduction of the ADA Restoration Act and continued with passage last month of the House ADA Amendments Act. I am glad to say that it enjoys the support of the broad coalitions of disability and business groups that have provided valuable input and analysis along the way. It also takes steps to address concerns expressed by the education community. While the problems this legislation addresses arose in the employment arena, the solution this legislation represents will certainly impact the education arena.

Finally, let me say that like the original ADA, this bill is the result of negotiation and compromise on all sides. That is the nature of the legislative process and the more important the goal, the greater the effort to continue the process until we reach a good result. We have done that here and I hope and trust that when this legislation passes here today and goes to the body that the margin of the votes will reflect the breadth of the consensus behind this new effort to advance opportunities for the disabled to participate in all that this great country has to offer. to take into account the generosity of the American people. For example, if a North Carolina physician wished to provide a gift of just over $12,000 to the Wounded Warrior Battalion at Camp Lejeune, the acceptance paperwork for this donation would spend months working its way through the Federal bureaucracy before finally arriving on the desk of the Commandant of the Marine Corps. Our taxpayers and our wounded veterans are not being served very well when gifts of such a small dollar amount, which the volunteer, is approved at the very highest levels of command.

That is why I am introducing the Friends of Wounded Warriors Act. This legislation will streamline the gift-acceptance process by empowering the commanders of Wounded Warrior Battalions and similar units with the authority to accept charitable gifts of up to $100,000 for the benefit of the members of their unit. This will enable these commanders to cut through the red tape and efficiently the need for extra resources to our wounded service men and women. I hope you will join me in making a commitment to ensure that out-dated processes for accepting gifts do not stand in the way of the generous hearts of our citizens and communities seeking to contribute to the care of our wounded and ill service members.

By Mr. BAUCUS (for himself and Mr. CONRAD):
S. 3408. A bill to amend title XI of the Social Security Act to provide for the conduct of comparative effectiveness research and to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to establish a Comparative Effectiveness Research Trust Fund, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, in 2006, America spent more than $2 trillion on health care. It must be understood, $2 trillion is an enormous figure. Health care accounts for 16 percent of our Nation’s economy. That means that for every $100 in goods and services produced and consumed in America in 2006, $16 were for health care. And the health care share of the economy is expected to reach 20 percent in just 10 years. These projections are cause for concern. If so much of our Nation’s resources are devoted to health care, we need to know what we are—or are not—getting for it.

The answer is that we are getting a mixed bag of goods. Some patients receive medical treatments that work well. Some patients receive treatments that don’t work well. In many cases, doctors and patients don’t have enough reliable evidence to know whether treatments work or don’t.

Of the $2 trillion spent on health in 2006, only 1% of 1 percent was spent to assess what works and what doesn’t. At the Federal level, only $15 million was directly appropriated to compare the effectiveness of health interventions and services. People who purchase other goods—anything from cars to computers—use information to compare the value of the different products before they purchase. Physicians and patients deserve better. We should devote more than $15 million of 1 percent of health spending to study how well health goods and services actually work.

Rapid innovation has led to an ever-changing array of new and sometimes expensive technologies. The age of personalized medicine and genetic engineering is upon us. New choices for patients and their physicians. Indeed, patients and physicians can face great difficulty in choosing among treatment options.

But much of the information about those options is biased. Much information about those options is of poor quality. And for many treatments, there are large gaps in what is known to be most effective. With a paucity of sound evidence, clinical guidelines and treatment protocols can vary widely. If there has ever been a need for better information—on what works, for which patients, under which circumstances—it is in this age of rapid innovation of technology.

Several august bodies—including the Institute of Medicine, the Medicare Payment Advisory Commission, and the Congressional Budget Office—have called on Congress to create a national entity charged with conducting research to determine what works in health care.

Today, I am proud to introduce the Comparative Effectiveness Research Act of 2008. I am joined by the Chairman of the Budget Committee, Senator CONRAD. He and I share a deep concern about rising health care costs. And we share a deep commitment to finding ways to address it.

This bill does what the experts suggest. It creates a new entity responsible for generating better information on the effectiveness of health care treatments.

Specifically, the bill would create a nonprofit corporation responsible for setting national priorities for comparative effectiveness research. The corporation, which would be called the Health Care Comparative Effectiveness Research Institute, would be a private entity. But it would be governed by a public-private sector Board of Governors. It would not be an agency of the Federal Government.

In addition to setting national priorities, the Institute would provide for the conduct of research studies that answer the most pressing questions about what works in health care. The Institute would have the authority to contract with experienced Federal agencies, such as the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, or AHRQ, and the National Institutes for Health, or NHLBI, or with private research institutions if appropriate, for the conduct of the actual research. The Institute would also be charged with disseminating the findings of the research in ways that patients and providers can understand.

The Institute would be required to assess the full spectrum of health interventions, including pharmacological, medical devices, surgical procedures, medical services, and other therapies. This type of research is often called “comparative effectiveness research,” because it evaluates and compares the clinical effect of alternative medical treatments. This type of research provides better quality evidence concerning the best treatment, prevention, and management of the health conditions. Most importantly, this type of research helps patients, providers, and payers of health care to make more informed decisions.

While many experts have called for creation of a new entity, they do not specify how the entity should be structured. This bill would create a private, nonprofit institute rather than a new agency within the executive branch or legislative. Keeping it private would remove the potential for political influence on the development of national research priorities. Comparative effectiveness research will be more credible, and more useful, if done independently of political influence and with broad stakeholder input.

This bill includes stringent requirements for public input, transparency of process and findings, and integrity of the research. For example, the Institute would be required to publish its rules, proceedings, and reports on a public Internet site. Its meetings would be open to the public. It would be required to provide public comment periods at key stages, in addition to open forums to solicit and obtain public input on the Institute’s activities.

This bill would also require accountability and government oversight of finances and the mission. The Institute would be subject to governmental audits. And the Comptroller General would perform periodic audits of the activities of the Institute to ensure that the Institute would meet its statutory mission and would do so in a fair, open, and credible way.

Finally, this bill would provide a stable source of funding for the Institute. For the first 3 years, general revenues would be used to start up the Institute. In the 4th year, funding would move to an operating system funded from both public and private sources. Annual contributions would be made from the Medicare Trust Funds, from revenues generated by a fee on private health insurance policies, and from general revenues. The work of the new Institute would be for the public and private sources. Therefore, public and private sources should contribute to this type of research. The private insurance fee would be $1 per insured person per year. Funding from Medicare would also be $1 per beneficiary per year.

All sources of funding for the Institute would sunset after 10 years. That way. Congress could review a report from the Comptroller General on the value of the research to the public and private insurance sectors. Total funding for the first year would be $5 million, and funding would increase to $300 million a year by 2013.

It is high time that America invested more than a fraction of a percent to generate knowledge about what works in health care, to improve the efficiency and the quality of our health care system, and to give patients and doctors better information to make treatment decisions. It is high time that we built a foundation of evidence for the trillions of dollars spent on health in America each year.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SEC. 3. GAO REPORT ON NATIONAL COVERAGE DETERMINATION PROCESS.

Not later than 18 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit a report to Congress on the process for making national coverage determinations (as defined in section 1861(n)(1)(B) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395f(n)(1)(B)) under the Medicare program under title XVIII of the Social Security Act. Such report shall include a determination whether, in initiating and conducting national coverage determinations of Health and Human Services has compiled with applicable law and regulations, including requirements for consultation with appropriate outside experts, providing appropriate notice and comment opportunities to the public, and making information and data (other than proprietary data) considered in making such determinations available to the public and to nonvoting members of any advisory committees established to advise the Secretary with respect to such determinations.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, today I join my good friend and colleague, Senator BAUCUS, in introducing the Comparative Effectiveness Research Act of 2008. This proposal is the product of months of careful deliberations regarding the best means and quantity of evidence available to health consumers about the comparative clinical effectiveness of health care services and treatments. We have met with dozens of key stakeholders and through a variety of avenues, I am proud of the result. This legislation lays the groundwork for improving health care outcomes, enhancing patient safety, and reducing overall health care costs in the long run.

As chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, I am acutely aware of the long-term budget challenges facing our nation. Health care spending is growing at an unsustainable rate. Although demographic changes associated with the retirement of the baby boom generation contribute to this spending growth, the most significant factor is growth in health care costs in excess of per capita GDP growth. According to Congressional Budget Office projections, by 2050, Medicare and Medicaid spending alone will consume 12 percent of our Nation’s gross domestic product. But excess growth in per capita health care costs is not just a challenge for Federal health spending and the federal budget. If we continue on the current trajectory, the private sector will also be overwhelmed by rising health care costs. In fact, total health care spending is projected to grow from about 16 percent of GDP in 2007—which is far higher than in other industrialized countries—to more than 37 percent of GDP in 2050.

Clearly, we need to address the underlying causes of rising health care costs, not just in the Medicare and Medicaid programs, but in the overall health care system. Simply cutting Medicare and Medicaid without making other changes will do little to solve the larger problem we face. As GAO Comptroller General David Walker pointed out before the House Budget Committee, in 2006, “[F]ederal health spending trends should not be viewed in isolation from the health care system as a whole . . . . Rather, in order to address the long-term fiscal challenge, it will be necessary to find approaches that deal with health care cost growth in the overall health care system.”

A key problem we must confront is that our current health care system does not deliver care as efficiently or effectively as it should. In fact, the United States spends far more on health expenditures as a percent of GDP than any other industrialized country in the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. For example, the United States spent 16 percent of GDP on health expenditures in 2006, compared to 9 percent in Italy. And the disparity is even starker today. Despite this additional health care spending, health outcomes in the United States are no better than health outcomes in the other OECD countries. In fact, by some measures, they are worse.

We can and must find ways to deliver health care more efficiently, reduce ineffective or unnecessary care, and get better health outcomes without harming patients.

One solution is to generate better information about the relative effectiveness of alternative treatments and medical care. While we have not received a comprehensive, systematic, and comprehensive analysis on comparative effectiveness research is not a new concept—it has been a successful initiative, and we commend AHRQ for its work, but comparative effectiveness research definitely is not the primary focus of any federal agency—nor is this federal funding occurring on a large-scale. The Congressional Budget Office, CBO, the Medicare Payment Advisory Commission, MedPAC, and the Institute of Medicine, IOM, have all discussed the positive impact of creating a new entity charged solely with conducting research on the comparative effectiveness of health interventions, including pharmaceuticals, medical devices, medical procedures, diagnostic tests, and medical services and other therapies.

In its June 2007 report to Congress, MedPAC issued a unanimous recommendation that “Congress should charge an independent entity to sponsor credible research on the comparative effectiveness of health care services and disseminate this information to patients, providers, and public and private payers.”

And the Congressional Budget Office agrees. In a recent report, entitled, “Research on the Comparative Effectiveness of Medical Treatments: Issues and Options for an Expanded Federal Role,” CBO Director Peter Orszag wrote that, “generating better information about the costs and benefits of different treatment options—through research on the comparative effectiveness of those options—could help reduce health care spending without adversely affecting health overall.”

The IOM also supports getting better information into the hands of patients and providers. As part of its report, “Learning What Works Best: The Nation’s Need for Evidence on Comparative Effectiveness in Health Care,” the Institute concluded that, “[A] substantially increased capacity to conduct and evaluate research on clinical effectiveness of interventions brings many potential opportunities for improvement across a wide spectrum of healthcare needs.”

This bill that Senator BAUCUS and I are introducing today represents an important step in expanding comparative research, including research that could use a variety of research methods, including clinical trials, observational studies and systematic reviews of existing evidence.

Many thought leaders on this issue, such as the Medicare Payment Advisory Board, have expressed concerns that a large entity within the Federal Government would be vulnerable to political interference that could hamper the Institute’s credibility, and, therefore, limit the usefulness of its research. As a result, the Institute would be responsible for organizing and implementing a national comparative effectiveness research agenda. In conducting the research, the Institute would be responsible for overseeing the activities. Permanent board members would include the Secretary of Health and Human Services and the Directors of the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality and the National Institutes of Health, NIH. The remaining 18 board members would be appointed by the Comptroller General of the United States and would include a balanced mix of patients, physicians, drug, device, and medical technology manufacturers, public and private payers, academic researchers, philanthropic organizations and quality improvement entities.

To ensure further credibility, the Institute would also appoint advisory panels of patients, clinicians, and other stakeholders that would assist in the development and carrying out of the research agenda; establish a methodology committee that would help create standards by which all research commissioned by the Institute must be conducted; create a peer review process through which all research findings must be assessed; and develop protocols to help translate and disseminate the evidence in the most effective, user-friendly way.

Moreover, Senator BAUCUS and I want to ensure that the operations of the Institute are transparent. Therefore, we built in a strong role for public input, as well as the ability to receive and make decisions based on evaluations and recommendations from both public and private payers, academic researchers, philanthropic organizations and quality improvement entities. To ensure accountability for these funds and to the Institute’s mission, our bill requires an annual financial audit of the Institute. In addition, the bill requires GAO to report to Congress every five years on the processes developed by the Institute and its overall effectiveness, including how research findings are used by health care consumers and what impact the research is having on the health economy. Finally, the bill requires a review after eight years of the adequacy of the Institute’s funding, which will include a review of the appropriateness and adequacy of each funding source.

Let me take a moment to address some of the criticisms that might be levied against this proposal. Some may say that the Institute will unduly interfere in the medical decision-making process and that this Institute will impede access to care and will deny coverage for high-cost health care services. That is not the case. Our proposal explicitly prohibits the Institute from making coverage decisions or setting practice guidelines. It will be up to specialty societies and patient groups to use the research findings as they see fit. Moreover, to the extent that high-cost health care services or new technologies are studied by the Institute and found to be clinically ineffective or inferior to other technologies, such evidence will be made public to consumers and providers so that they can make the best possible health care decisions. Other critics may claim that this proposal will result in one-size-fits-all approaches to comparative effectiveness research. We recognize that different health care treatments may have different levels of effectiveness for different subpopulations. That is why our proposal requires that the research be designed, as appropriate, to take into account the potential differences in the effectiveness of health care services as used with various subpopulations, such as women, racial and ethnic minorities, different age groups, and individuals with different comorbidities.

This bill is balanced, carefully crafted proposal that has taken into consideration the recommendations of a broad range of stakeholders and thoughtful leaders. We welcome the opportunity to provide further discussion and suggested improvements. But we refuse to allow this proposal to get bogged down in political Today, I am here to talk about another FDA bill. Last summer, I started examining FDA’s program for inspection of foreign pharmaceutical manufacturing plants. I expressed concerns to the FDA regarding, among other things, inspection funding, emerging exporters, and weaknesses in the inspection process.

An increasing amount of the drugs and active pharmaceutical ingredients (API) Americans use are being factored in foreign countries. Yet, as reported by the Government Accountability Office in November 2007, the Food and Drug Administration does not know how many foreign establishments are subject to inspection that the agency conducts relatively few inspections each year.

From fiscal year 2002 through fiscal year 2007, the FDA conducted fewer than 1,400 inspections of foreign pharmaceutical facilities that were often focused in countries with few reported quality concerns. In China, the world’s largest producer of active pharmaceutical ingredients, and where export safety appears to be a growing problem, only 11 inspections were conducted during FY 2007, compared to 14 in Switzerland, 18 in Germany, and 24 in France, all countries with advanced regulatory infrastructures. I was troubled by these numbers.

Then came the wake-up call in January of this year. FDA announced that Baxter International Inc. temporarily suspended production of its blood thinner heparin because of an increase in the reports of patients that may be associated with its drug. It was discovered that the active ingredient in heparin was contaminated and that the ingredient was produced at a facility in the People’s Republic of China. Soon after, the FDA established a link between the contaminant found in heparin and the serious adverse events seen in patients that were given heparin. FDA’s investigation of the source highlighted significant weaknesses in oversight of the production and supply chain.

With limited inspection resources, the FDA is charged with ensuring the safety and efficacy of drugs and pharmaceutical ingredients produced in nearly every corner of the globe. To make matters worse, as the FDA’s challenges multiply, its resources for foreign inspections are shrinking. It is troubling to see an agency already grossly under-resourced at a time when foreign production of drugs and active pharmaceutical ingredients is growing at record rates. Adding to the difficulty of this task, it appears that many foreign pharmaceutical manufacturers are using the FDA as a means to bolster their own standing with and with no intention of exporting products to the United States market.

That is why I am introducing the Drug and Device Accountability Act today with Senator KENNEDY, chairman of the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

This legislation would augment FDA’s resources through the collection of registration and inspection fees. The bill also expands the agency’s authority for ensuring the safety of drugs and medical devices, including foreign manufactured drugs and devices, by expanding FDA’s authority to inspect foreign manufacturers and importers, allowing the FDA to issue subpoenas, and allowing the FDA to detain a device or drug when its inspectors have reason to believe the product is adulterated or misbranded.

In addition, the bill includes a provision that expands on an amendment I filed last spring to the Senate bill, S. 1062 Food and Drug Administration Reauthorization Act. The provision provided for a certification by drug manufacturers that the information submitted as part of a new drug or supplemental application is accurate.

Under the Drug and Device Accountability Act, individuals responsible for the submission of a drug or device application or a report related to safety or effectiveness would have to certify that the application or report is complete with all applicable regulations and that the information is true, correct, and complete. The bill would also allow the FDA to issue civil and criminal penalties for knowingly submitting false or misleading information.

That is why I am introducing the Drug and Device Accountability Act. I urge all my colleagues to join our effort and cosponsor the Comparative Effectiveness Research Act of 2008. There is no time to waste.

By Mr. REID (for Mr. KENNEDY (for himself and Mr. GRASSLEY)):

S. 3409. A bill to amend the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act to ensure the safety and quality of medical products and enhance the authorities of the Food and Drug Administration, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, as Ranking Member of the Senate Finance Committee, I view my role as working to ensure the safety and well-being of the more than 80 million Americans who are beneficiaries of the Medicare and Medicaid programs. These programs spend a lot of taxpayers’ money on prescription drugs and medical devices, and that money should be spent on drugs and devices that are safe and effective.

Over the years I have conducted extensive oversight of the Food and Drug Administration. I have reviewed and questioned how the FDA handles the pre-market review and post-market surveillance of drugs, biologics, devices and veterinary medicines to assess whether or not the agency is fulfilling its mission to protect the public health. As a result of my oversight activities, I identified serious problems at the FDA that included the quashing of scientific opinion within the agency, delays in informing the public of emerging safety problems, too cozy a relationship between the FDA and the industries it is supposed to regulate, and a failure to be adequately transparent and accountable to the public.

Last year, when the Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee and the House Energy and Commerce Committee were working on FDA legislation, I encouraged them to take advantage of the opportunity to reform, improve, and re-establish the FDA as the gold standard for drug safety. I believed the FDA needed additional tools, resources, and authorities to do its work.

The Congress passed the Food and Drug Administration Amendments Act last September. While we did not fix a fundamental problem at the FDA that’s been shown through my investigations over the last few years, the new legislation did provide additional tools in FDA’s toolbox to better protect the American people. It was a positive step toward restoring the public’s trust in the FDA. have stayed with me throughout my life. More people need to be taught these important lessons so that they are better able to manage their resources.

Too many Americans lack basic financial literacy. Approximately, American adults of all ages and backgrounds face increasingly complex financial decisions as members of the nation’s workforce, managers of their families’ resources, and voting citizens. Many find these decisions confusing and frustrating because they lack “necessary” tools that would enable them to make wise, personal choices about their finances.

Without a sufficient understanding of economics and personal finance, individuals will not be able to appropriately manage their finances, effectively evaluate credit opportunities, successfully invest for long-term financial goals in an increasingly complex marketplace, or be able to cope with difficult financial situations. Unfortunately, millions of working families are struggling as they are confronted with increases in energy and food costs or the loss of a job.

It is essential that we work toward improving education, consumer protections, and individual and family financial literacy in order to build stronger families, businesses, and communities. Today I am introducing the Improving Access to Mainstream Financial Institutions Act of 2008. This bill provides economic empowerment and educational opportunities for working families by helping bank the unbanked. It will also encourage the use of mainstream financial institutions for working families that need small loans. I thank my cosponsors, Senators SCHUMER, LIEBERMAN, and INOUYE.

Millions of working families do not have a bank or credit union account. The unbanked rely on alternative financial service providers to obtain cash from checks, pay bills, and send remittances. Many of the unbanked are low- and moderate-income families that can ill afford to have their earnings diminished by reliance on these high-cost and often predatory financial services. In addition, the unbanked are unable to save securely to prepare for the loss of a job, a family illness, a down payment on a first home, or education expenses.

My bill authorizes grants intended to help low- and moderate-income unbanked individuals establish bank or credit union accounts. Providing access to a bank or credit union account can empower families with tremendous financial opportunities. An account at a bank or credit union provides consumers with alternatives to rapid re-fund loans, check cashing services, and lower cost remittances. In addition, bank and credit union accounts provide access to saving and borrowing services.

Low- and moderate-income individuals are often challenged with a number of barriers that limit their ability to open up and maintain accounts. Regular checking accounts may be too costly for some consumers unable to maintain minimum balances or unable to afford monthly fees. Poor credit histories may also hinder their ability to open accounts. By providing the federal resources for program development, administration, outreach, and financial education, banks and credit unions will be better able to reach out and bank the unbanked.

The second grant program authorized by my legislation provides consumers with a lower cost, short term alternative to payday loans. Payday loans are cash loans repaid by borrowers’ postdated checks or borrowers’ authorizations to make electronic debits against existing financial accounts. Payday loans often have triple digit interest rates that range from 390 percent to 780 percent when expressed as an annual percentage rate. Loan flipping, which is a practice, is the renewing of loans at maturity by paying additional fees without any principal reduction. Loan flipping often leads to instances where the fees paid for a payday loan well exceed the principal borrowed. This situation often creates a cycle of debt that is hard to break.

There is a great need for working families to have access to affordable small loans. My legislation would encourage banks and credit unions to develop payday loan alternatives. Consumers who apply for these loans would be provided with financial literacy and educational opportunities. Loans extended to consumers under the grant would be subject to the annual percentage rate promulgated by the National Credit Union Administration’s, NCUA, Loan Interest Rates, currently capped at an annual percentage rate of 18 percent. Several credit unions have developed similar products. One example is the Windward Community Federal Credit Union in Kailua, on the island of Oahu, which has developed an affordable alternative to payday loans to help the U.S. Marines and the other members that they serve. I am very proud of the work done by the staff of the Windward Community Federal Credit Union. This program was developed with an NCUA grant. More working families need access to affordable small loans. More needs to be done to encourage banks and credit unions, and credit service providers to develop affordable small loan products. My legislation will help support the development of affordable credit products at bank and credit unions. Working families would be better off by going to their credit unions and bank’s mainstream financial services providers, than payday loan shops.

I will work to enact this legislation so vital to empowering our citizens. In our current, modern, complex economy, a bank or credit union account severely hinders the ability of families to improve their financial condition or help them navigate difficult financial circumstances. Instead of borrowing money from payday lenders at outrageous fees, we need to encourage people to utilize their credit unions and banks for affordable small loans. Banks and credit unions have the ability to make better lives for working families begin by helping them save, invest, and borrow at affordable rates.

Mr. President I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill and letters of support be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Hon. DANIEL K. AKAKA, U.S. Senator, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR AKAKA: I am writing on behalf of the National Association of Federal Credit Unions (NAFCU), the only national trade association that exclusively represents the interests of our nation’s Federal credit unions, to applaud your leadership on work that will get more low- and moderate-income, unbanked individuals into mainstream financial institutions, such as credit unions, and your continued commitment to financial literacy as demonstrated in the Improving Access to Mainstream Financial Institutions Act of 2008.

We believe it is important to help the unbanked set up credit union accounts that will allow these individuals to obtain the products and services that they need, such as lower cost check cashing and remittance services, as well as financial education to encourage savings and thank you for your efforts to help this cause.

Unfortunately, payday lending has also increasingly become a precarious problem for many Americans. People that find themselves in sudden need of a financial boost and individuals who are subjected to higher mortgage payments with higher interest rates often rely on payday lenders to help cover their bills. These types of loans can worsen their financial situation, making the consumer even more dependent than before. Despite our greatest efforts to prevent predatory lending in America, the evidence shows these deceptive practices still occur. Predators continue to target specific communities, such as low-income, minority, elderly and, in recent findings, the men and women of the United States military.

Luckily, credit unions continue to be part of the solution. Many credit unions offer alternative loan programs that ensure the safety and financial reprise that their members need. These loan programs offer consumers small unsecured loans with low interest rates and encourage financial responsibility. We greatly appreciate your continued support of these efforts.

NAFCU appreciates the opportunity to share our thoughts on this legislation and strongly support your dedication to this important matter. Please do not hesitate to contact the Director of Legislative Affairs, Amanda Slater at 703-522-4770 with any questions that you may have.

Sincerely,
FRED R. BICKER, Jr., President/CEO.
We support Federal legislation that will promote further connections between families and banking services, particularly, the “unbanked.” We also know that payday lending businesses have become a detriment to families on the lowest end of the income scale and would support assistance to place alternatives to these loans in the community development marketplace.

Mahalo for your consideration. If we can provide additional information, please contact me at any time at 808.396.8155 or via email at maher@hawaiicouncil.org.

Sincerely,
ROBIN PUANANI DANNER,
President and Chief Executive Officer.

HAWAI‘I ALLIANCE FOR COMMUNITY-BASED ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT,
Honolulu, HI, July 30, 2008

Hon. DANIEL KAHIKINA AKAKA,
U.S. Senator for Hawai‘i

ALOHA SENATOR AKAKA: The Hawai‘i Alliance for Community-Based Economic Development (HACBED) is pleased to support the bill titled, “Improving Access to Mainstream Financial Institutions Act of 2008.”

Hawai‘i needs comprehensive public policies to help people build assets. This should include programs for low-income families, tax incentives, regulatory changes, and other mechanisms to help people earn more, save more, protect hard earned assets, start businesses and become homeowners.

Assets are essential for three reasons:

1. To have financial security against difficult times; to create economic opportunities for oneself and one’s children and to leave a legacy for future generations to have a better life.

This legislation would create the following two grant programs within the Department of Treasury:

1. The first program would authorize grants intended to help low- and moderate-income unbanked individuals to establish bank or credit union accounts.

2. The second program would provide consumers with a lower cost, short term alternative to payday loans as well as financial education.

It is proven that “banked” households are better of financially and more likely to build and own assets than those “unbanked” counterparts. It would be less expensive and easier to assist millions of families to enter the financial mainstream.

Programs that help low- and moderate-income families to establish bank accounts provide families with the opportunity to save and build their assets. Approximately 22 million U.S. households do not have a checking or savings account. These households depend on various high-cost, alternative financial service providers to meet their banking needs, including check cashing, payday lending, car title lenders, rent-to-own stores, and tax preparers. Reliance on these types of financial services undermines a family’s ability to survive as they can become trapped in a cycle of debt due to high fees and interest rates.

These families put nearly 13.3 billion dollars toward predatory lending scams annually. These families’ put nearly 13.3 billion dollars toward predatory lending scams annually. Therefore, families are more likely to save for assets such as their children’s college education, a home, retirement, or a business or startup. By entering the financial mainstream and having access to financial services, families are also able to establish credit and increase their access to buying power for the purchase of assets.

Payday loans and other financial services with high fees and interest rates undermine families’ ability to truly save and build their assets. This bill will provide families with an alternative to payday loans as well as the opportunity to receive financial education.

Check cashing, or payday lending, is a short-term, high-interest loan that has the potential to hurt consumers. Many consumers are often not aware of the annual percentage rate associated with the fee structure of payday loans causing millions of families to struggle to meet their most basic needs to survive.

It is extremely important to protect hard working families from financial services that are predatory in nature, and stripping them of their hard earned income. Particularly worrisome is the practice of targeting military families navigate the maze of financial services that exist. Providing families with a financial education allows them to have choice and control over their finances so that they can save and build assets.

We urge the Senate’s favorable consideration of this bill that would give millions of low- and moderate-income families the opportunity to successfully enter the financial world.

Mahalo nui loa,
LARRISA MENENDEZ,
Public Policy Associate.

By Mr. SANDERS (for himself, Mr. OBAMA, Mrs. CLINTON, Mr. KENNEDY, Mr. BROWN, Ms. MUKULSI, Mr. CASEY, Mrs. BOXER, Mr. DURBIN, and Mr. INOUYE):

S. 3413. A bill to achieve access to comprehensive primary health care services for all Americans and to improve primary health care through an expansion of the community health center and National Health Service Corps programs; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. SANDERS, Mr. President, today there is some good news and some bad news. The bad news is that oil is at $123 a barrel and working people are paying $4 for a gallon of gas, and this coming winter residents of the Northeast could be paying over $5 for a gallon of heating oil.

But, there is some good news. Today, the CEOs of ExxonMobil, Shell, BP and ConocoPhillips are celebrating. They’re feeling pretty good. And, they have good reason to feel that way. ExxonMobil reported today that it made over $11.68 billion in profits over the 2nd quarter alone, breaking its own record for the largest profit of any American company in the history of the world.

But, ExxonMobil is not alone. Shell’s 2nd quarter profit jumped by 33 percent to $11.56 billion; and BP’s 2nd quarter profit jumped by 28 percent.

As a matter of fact, since George W. Bush and DICK CHENEY have been in office, the five largest oil companies have made over $640 billion in profits. This includes an additional $21 billion for ExxonMobil; $157 billion for Shell; $125 billion for BP; $80 billion for ChevronTexaco; and $66 billion for ConocoPhillips.

Believe it or not, the Big 5 oil companies made more profits during the 2nd quarter, than they did during the entire year of 2002.

Now, with the exception of my Republican friends here in Congress, there are few people that believe the oil companies give one hoot about the well-being of the American people. Our Republican friends are saying that if we just give these huge oil companies more acres offshore to drill for oil, they will solve the energy crisis. It is a quite appealing thing, as they always have, for the American people. Let’s just trust those big oil companies because they are really staying up day after day, night after night, worrying about the well-being of the American people. Our Republican friends are saying that if we give these huge oil companies more acres offshore to drill for oil, they will solve the energy crisis. It is a quite appealing thing, as they always have, for the American people.

Well, it is good to see there are at least some people in America who believe the oil companies give one hoot about the well-being of the American people. That is why they are doing with their profits:

In 2005, ExxonMobil gave its CEO, Lee Raymond, a $389 million retirement package—one of the richest compensation packages in corporate history. They weren’t going out looking for new land to drill on, they weren’t building more refineries, and they weren’t working on energy efficiency. They gave their CEO a $389 million retirement package.

In 2006, Occidental Petroleum, gave its CEO, Ray Irani, over $400 million in total compensation.

The situation is so absurd and the greed of the oil companies is so outrageous that these companies are not only giving their executives huge compensation packages during their lifetime here on earth, but they have also created a situation, if you can believe it, where these oil companies have carved out huge corporate payments to the benefit of their executives in the form of stock options.

I guess this is what happens when you have more money than you know what to do with.
According to the Wall Street Journal, if the CEO of Occidental Petroleum dies in office, his family will get $115 million. The family of the CEO of Nabors Industries, another oil company, would receive $288 million. This would be a blow to the integrity of the American people.

Not only are huge oil companies using their record-breaking profits on big disbursement benefits for their CEOs, but they are also spending large sums of money buying back their own stock. In other words, when they are making these very large profits, they are not going out drilling for more oil, as our Republican friends are suggesting.

In fact, While Americans are struggling to pay for the skyrocketing price of gasoline, big oil companies are having an entirely different problem. For the past seven years, big oil companies are struggling to figure out what they are going to do with all of their windfall profits.

Let me quote from a headline taken from the front page of the Wall Street Journal way back on July 30 of 2001, “Pumping Money: Major Oil Companies Struggle to Spend Huge Hoards of Cash.” According to this 2001 article, “Royal Dutch/Shell Group said it was pumping out $1.5 million in profit an hour and sitting on more than $11 billion in the bank.” That was in 2001. Since that time Shell’s profits have more than tripled.

On April 18, 2005, Fortune Magazine published an article with the Headline “Poor Little Rich Company,” referring to ExxonMobil. According to this article, “ExxonMobil CEO Lee Raymond, suddenly has a new anxiety: how to spend the windfall wrought by $55 a barrel oil. By the end of April [of 2005], Exxon will have a cash hoard of more than $35 billion. At a time when domestic energy production is declining and drivers are paying a record $2.15 a gallon [remember, this was in 2005], American consumers, not to mention politicians, are likely to start focusing on whether Exxon is spending enough to find oil and gas. While Exxon is returning more money to shareholders via dividends and buying back more of its stock, its spending on drilling and other development activities actually declined in 2004—even though crude prices jumped by $1 a barrel. That was when the price of oil was $55 a barrel and gas was $2.15 a gallon. Today oil is over $123 a barrel and gas is about $4 a gallon.

What is happening today? Big oil companies are spending even more on stock buybacks and CEO compensation and less on trying to produce more oil.

For example, ConocoPhillips recently announced that it plans to give all of the $12 billion in profits it made last year back to shareholders, paying more than $3 billion in dividends and spending the rest to buy back shares of its own stock. To put this in perspective is that the most important thing we can do in terms of the energy crisis is to provide more land offshore for the oil companies to drill at a time when they already have some 86 million acres of leased land, which they are not drilling on today.

The American people want action, and there are some things we can do—not in 15 or 20 years but that we can do right now.

First, we need to impose a windfall profits tax on big oil companies so that they would be prohibited from gouging consumers at the gas pump.

Unfortunately, instead of taking away big oil’s windfall profits and giving it back to the American people, Republicans want to provide even more tax breaks to big oil. In fact, Sen. McCain has a plan that would give ExxonMobil a $1.5 billion tax break.

Now, we have heard Republicans give three reasons as to why they are opposed to a windfall profits tax.

First, Republicans claim that the last time Congress enacted a windfall profits tax in 1981 it had the effect of increasing our dependence on foreign oil. Wrong. Mr. President, when Congress repealed the windfall profits tax in 1988, the U.S. was importing 13.4 million barrels of oil a day. Today, the U.S. is importing over 13.4 million barrels of oil a day. We are far more dependent on foreign oil today without a windfall profits tax than we were 20 years ago when we had a windfall profits tax.

Secondly, my Republican friends tell us that the windfall profits tax didn’t work because Congress repealed it in 1988. That is also wrong. While I would have structured it differently, the fact of the matter is that from 1981 until 1988 when the windfall profits tax was repealed, the price of oil fell from $35 a barrel to less than $15 a barrel. In addition, gas prices at the pump fell from $1.35 a gallon to 90 cents a gallon—a drop of 45 cents a gallon. And the Federal Government collected over $30 billion in revenue.

The reason why the windfall profits tax was repealed was due to low oil and gas prices, which makes perfect sense. If oil and gas prices are low, big oil companies are not making windfall profits and there is no need for a windfall profits tax. If gas prices at the pump were only 90 cents a gallon, I would be one of the first to say we don’t need a windfall profits tax. But, they are not. They are over $4 a gallon.

Finally, Republicans claim that big oil companies need to keep their windfall profits so that they can increase production and build more refineries. That particular argument is laughable. Big oil companies have been making windfall profits for over seven long years—and they are not using these profits to build more refineries and they are not using it to expand production. Instead, they are using this money to buy back their own stock, increase dividends to their shareholders, and enrich their CEOs, as I have explained earlier.

Not only do we need to impose a windfall profits tax on these extremely powerful oil corporations, but we also need to address what I perceive is a growing problem: the unbridled speculation by Wall Street investment banks, such as Goldman Sachs, Morgan Stanley, JPMorgan Chase, and hedge fund managers are driving up the price of oil in the unregulated energy futures market. In other words, they are speculating on energy, thereby driving up prices.

There are estimates that 25 to 50 percent of the cost of a barrel of oil is attributable to unregulated speculation on oil futures. We have heard from some leading energy economists, and we have heard from people in the oil industry themselves who tell us that 25 to 50 percent of the cost of a barrel of oil today is not due to supply and demand or the cost of production but is due to manipulation of markets and excessive speculation. In essence, Wall Street firms are making billions as they artificially drive up oil prices by buying, holding, and selling huge amounts of oil on dark unregulated markets.

Some of my Republican friends claim that the increase in the price of oil has nothing to do with speculation, but it is interesting to me that we have had executives of major oil companies—major oil companies—who have come before Congress, and who are saying, “Why is oil $125, $130, and $140 a barrel?” Do you know what they say? The CEO of Royal Dutch Shell testified before Congress and said: “The oil fundamentals are no problem. They are the same as they were when oil was selling for $60 a barrel.”

This is not some radical economist. It is not some left-winger. This is a guy who is the head of Royal Dutch Shell. The CEO of Marathon Oil recently said: “It isn’t justified by the physical demand in the market.”

I know my Republican friends have a lot of respect for the oil industry, a great competence in them. They love them and give them huge tax breaks. So maybe they should listen to what some of these guys are saying in terms of oil speculation.

For those who believe that excessive speculation is not causing oil prices to climb higher, let me just say this. Over the present period, prices have increased. We were able to get Enron executives in jail for manipulating the electricity market in 2001; BP was forced to pay a $300 million fine for manipulating propane prices in 2004; and the Amaranth hedge fund collapsed after manipulating natural gas prices in 2006.

The Stop Excessive Speculation Act introduced by Majority Leader Reid begins to seriously address this problem. We need to pass this bill as soon as possible.

The bottom line is that it is time for the United States Senate to say no to big oil companies and greedy hedge fund managers and yes to the American people.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE RESOLUTION 636—RECOGNIZING THE STRATEGIC SUCCESS OF THE TROOP SURGE IN IRAQ AND EXPRESSING GRATITUDE TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES ARMED FORCES WHO MADE THAT SUCCESS POSSIBLE

Mr. LIEBERMAN (for himself, Mr. GRAHAM, Mr. MCCAIN, Mr. ENZI, Mr. MARTINEZ, Mr. BOND, Mr. WICKER, Mr. CORNYN, Mr. CRAPO, Mr. ALLARD, Mr. THUNE, Mr. BARRASSO, and Mr. INHOFE) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Armed Services.

S. RES. 636

Whereas, by the end of 2006, it had become clear that, despite exceptional efforts and sacrifices on the part of the United States Armed Forces in Iraq, the United States was pursuing a failed strategy in Iraq;

Whereas, by the end of 2006, large-scale sectarian violence was accelerating throughout Iraq, al Qaeda had established significant sanctuaries where militias supported by the Government of Iraq had seized effective control of large swaths of Iraq, and the Government of Iraq was suffering from political paralysis;

Whereas, by the end of 2006, insurgents and death squads were killing more than 3,000 civilians in Iraq each month and coalition forces were sustaining more than 1,200 attacks each week;

Whereas, in December 2006, the Iraq Study Group recommended that the United States in facing one of its most difficult and significant international challenges in decades” in Iraq and that “Iraq is vital to regional and global stability, and is critical to U.S. interests”;

Whereas, in December 2004, Osama bin Laden said the following of the war in Iraq: “The most important, and serious issue today for the whole world is this Third World War. . . . The world’s millstone and pillar is Baghdad, the capital of the caliphate.”;

Whereas, on January 10, 2007, in an address to the Nation, President George W. Bush acknowledged that the situation in Iraq was “unacceptable” and announced his intention to put in place a new strategy, subsequently known as the “surge”;

Whereas President Bush nominated and the Senate confirmed General David H. Petraeus as the Commander of United States Forces in Iraq, a position he assumed on February 10, 2007;

Whereas General Petraeus, upon assuming command, and in partnership with Lieutenant General Raymond Odierno, the Commander of Multi-National Corps-Iraq, and United States Ambassador to Iraq Ryan Crocker, proposed the comprehensive civil-military counterinsurgency campaign plan to reverse Iraq’s slide into chaos, defeat the enemies of the United States in Iraq, and, in partnership with the Iraqi government and the Government of Iraq, reestablish security across the country;

Whereas, under the previous strategy, the overwhelming majority of United States combat forces were concentrated on a small number of large forward operating bases and had not assigned the mission of providing security for the people of Iraq against insurgents, terrorists, and militia fighters, in part because there were insufficient members of the United States Armed Forces in Iraq to do so;

Whereas, as an integral component of the surge, members of the United States Armed Forces were deployed out of large forward operating bases onto small bases throughout Baghdad and other key population centers, partnering with the Iraqi Security Forces to provide security for the local population against insurgents, terrorists, and militia fighters;

Whereas additional members of the United States Armed Forces began moving into Iraq in January 2007 and reached full strength in July 2007;

Whereas, as a consequence of the additional forces needed in Iraq, in April 2007 the United States Army added 3 months to the standard 1-year tour for active duty soldiers in Iraq and Afghanistan, and the United States Marine Corps added 3 months to the standard 6-month tour for all active duty Marines in Iraq and Afghanistan;

Whereas, as an integral component of the surge, members of the United States Armed Forces began simultaneous and successive offensive operations, in partnership with the Iraqi Security Forces, of unprecedented breadth, continuity, and sophistication, striking multiple enemy safe havens and lines of communication at the same time;

Whereas, as an integral component of the surge, additional members of the United States Armed Forces were deployed to Anbar province to provide essential support to the nascent tribal revolt against al Qaeda in that province;

Whereas those additional members of the United States Armed Forces played a critical role in the success and spread of anti-Qaeda Sunni tribal groups in Anbar province and subsequently in other regions of Iraq;

Whereas, since the start of the surge in January 2007, there have been marked and hopeful improvements in almost every political, security, and economic indicator in Iraq;

Whereas, in 2007, General Petraeus described Iraq as “the central front of al Qaeda’s global campaign”;

Whereas, in 2008, as a consequence of the success of the surge, al Qaeda has been dealt a “decisive blow” (according to the Director of Central Intelligence Michael Hayden asesses as a “near strategic defeat” in Iraq;

Whereas, as a consequence of the success of the surge, militias have been routed from major population centers in Iraq and no longer have control of significant swaths of territory;

Whereas, as a consequence of the success of the surge, sectarian violence in Iraq has fallen dramatically and has been almost entirely eliminated;

Whereas, as a consequence of the success of the surge, overall insurgent attacks have fallen by approximately 80 percent since June 2007 and are at their lowest level since March 2007;

Whereas, as a consequence of the success of the surge, United States casualties in Iraq have dropped dramatically and United States combat deaths in June 2007 and other months were lower than in any other month since the beginning of the war;
