

support this bill and I urge my colleagues to support this bill as it provides needed rehabilitation treatment to those who have been impacted by the effects of torture.

H.R. 1511, the Torture Victims Relief Reauthorization Act of 2009, authorizes appropriations for the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) to provide grants to programs in the United States to cover the costs of services provided by domestic treatment centers in the rehabilitation of victims of torture (including treatment of the physical and psychological effects of torture). It will also allow the centers to provide social and legal services as well as research and training of health care providers outside of treatment centers or programs to enable them to provide such services. It authorizes the President to provide grants to treatment centers and programs in foreign countries that carry out projects and activities specifically designed to treat victims of torture for the physical and psychological effects of torture. In addition, it provides grants to the United Nations Voluntary Fund for Victims of Torture.

This bill is not only important, it is necessary. The Abu Ghraib prisoner abuse scandal and the myriad of consequential allegations of prisoner abuse across both Iraq and Afghanistan have cast a heavy shadow over our role in Iraq and our country as a whole. Under the Bush Administration, evidence indicates that torture was conducted on prisoners which included methods such as: waterboarding, weeklong sleep deprivation, forced nudity, use of painful positions, belly-slap and the exploitation of prisoners' fears of animals or insects. President Obama has since denounced these inhumane integration practices and has vowed that the United States does not condone torture. H.R. 1511 supports the President's vow by providing treatment to victims which is designed to enable the victim to step back from the trauma, learn to identify and accept it and gradually become reintegrated into society and/or the working world. This treatment will also serve a social purpose in that it will enable the victim to restore ties that were severed by an array of clinical symptoms caused by being tortured.

In the wake of the Abu Ghraib scandal, the U.S. has gone to great pains to persuade the world that U.S. policy does not condone torture. If Congress enacts this legislation, it would reaffirm America's commitment to a world without torture and show the rest of the world that the U.S. is committed to rehabilitating those who have suffered at the hands of torture.

We as a nation must set a clear example that we do not support torture, nor do we condone such practices. For the benefit of our troops, for the good of Iraq, for the good of America, and for the safety of the World, we must heal the wounds caused by torture to those victims domestic and foreign. A strong bipartisan message of support needs to be displayed by this body to right the wrongs and send a message to the world that America is committed to ending what President Obama called a "dark and painful chapter in our history," by providing treatment to the victims of torture. I invite my colleagues to stand with me today and support this important legislation.

MOURNING LOSS OF KELLY MURRAY

HON. DEVIN NUNES

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, July 13, 2009

Mr. NUNES. Madam Speaker, I come before you today to mourn the loss of a remarkable individual in our community. Kelly Murray grew up in my district in the City of Visalia, CA, and destiny led her away from her place of provenance, touching the lives of so many whom she met along the way. A former Navy officer with an exceptional career, she had just received tenure at the Loyola College Graduate Center in Columbia, Maryland, when she became the victim of a tragic accident that claimed her life as well as that of her 7-year-old daughter, Sloane Murray, late last month.

Kelly Murray, PhD., graduated from Exeter High School and studied at Occidental College. She eventually went on to earn a Master's degree and a Doctorate degree from the California School of Professional Psychology.

Her career in the Navy was notable and distinguished. She held several postings across the country, including that of Psychologist at the Naval Hospital and at the Marine Corps Air-Ground Combat Center at Twentynine Palms, California; Staff Psychologist at the National Naval Medical Center in Bethesda, Maryland; and Instructor of Psychology and Leadership at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland. Kelly's shining career also included an invitation to work at the White House counseling federal employees soon after September 11, 2001.

Kelly Murray was a practicing psychologist who, with her husband Sean, was raising 6 children. She coached multiple youth soccer teams and organized an annual summer camp to bolster girls' self-esteem.

Kelly was a positive force in her community; she will be dearly missed by her family, friends, and all those who knew her. I offer my heartfelt condolences to her family, and wish great strength upon them all that they may cope with this extraordinary loss.

Kelly is survived by her husband, Sean Murray, and their 5 other daughters, Jillian, Meghan, Maeve, Catherine Quinn, and Kieran. She is also survived by her parents, James and JoAnn Welter of Exeter, California, and sister, Tammy Tuttle of Powell Butte, Oregon.

TARP PROGRAM

HON. DENNIS J. KUCINICH

OF OHIO

Monday, July 13, 2009

Mr. KUCINICH. Madam Speaker, information is necessary for the proper functioning of our economy, as well as our political system. Investors, consumers and voters need quality information to make informed choices. Capitalism and democracy require full information for the most ideal outcomes, namely, efficiency and representativeness.

But anyone looking at this past year in American business and government would have to conclude we are a long way from achieving the ideal. On the contrary, we are embroiled, in significant part, in the consequences of a profound lack of transparency. Our economic and political systems suffer an information deficit, and the lack of transparency is costing dollars as well as public trust.

As chairman of an investigative subcommittee in the House of Representatives, my own work has largely been devoted to identifying and remedying that fundamental flaw.

A couple relevant examples:

My subcommittee held a hearing this past March on the questions, What does Treasury know about what TARP recipient banks are doing with the funds they've received? My staff identified a couple billion dollar examples. One bank arranged financing worth $8 billion for governmental entities in Dubai; another made a $7 billion investment in a Chinese Construction Bank, and a third made a $1 billion investment in its operations in India.
