

health care reform, we must not overlook the growing threat that Iran poses to the security of the United States and our allies in the Middle East. Every day, Iran is working to develop the capacity to produce a nuclear weapon, a point from which I fear there may be no return.

The president of Iran, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, has left no illusion of his desire to wipe Israel off the map. Through his emboldened and misguided leadership, Iran has exerted its hegemony throughout the Middle East with complete disregard for the truth and resolute intolerance.

If Iran crosses the nuclear weapons threshold, I have no doubt that this will provoke a renewed race for nuclear arms in the Middle East. Radical political factions throughout the region will be empowered and moderates, who are working to develop a comprehensive peace agreement, will lose their much-needed support. Terrorist organizations such as Hezbollah, Hamas and Al Qaeda will be strengthened and emboldened to pursue a nuclear weapon of their own—which is our worst nightmare.

Thanks to the Internet, we know that democracy and human rights in Iran are an illusion. Some Iranian leaders would argue with that assertion and also contend that their country has no interest in pursuing a nuclear weapons program. We cannot afford to rely on hollow assurances such as these.

We need valid and thorough inspections immediately to verify exactly what Iran is doing with its nuclear program. The only way to deal with Iran's recalcitrant leaders is to leverage our political influence and force them to allow the International Atomic Energy Agency, IAEA, to conduct inspections. Unfortunately for the Iranian people, this means enacting the Iran Sanctions Act and the Iran Refined Petroleum Act, which would result in severe consequences for Iran and its people.

There is no simple solution to Iran's threat. Measures we can take right now include enacting legislation and supporting policies that will force Iran's leaders to allow IAEA inspectors unfettered access to conduct nuclear weapons inspections. There is far too much at stake to rely on promises from the same Iranian leaders who openly profess their desire to wipe Israel off the map, deny allegations of human rights violations, and provoke violence around the world against those who embrace liberty and justice.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. JIM GERLACH

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, September 23, 2009

Mr. GERLACH. Madam Speaker, unfortunately, on Tuesday, September 22, 2009, I missed three recorded votes on the House floor. Had I been present, I would have voted "yea" on rollcall 720, "yea" on rollcall 721, and "yea" on rollcall 722.

AGAINST PASSAGE OF H.R. 3548

HON. BOB GOODLATTE

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, September 23, 2009

Mr. GOODLATTE. Madam Speaker, I rise today to discuss H.R. 3548, the Unemployment Compensation Extension Act of 2009.

Madam Speaker, let there be no doubt that I understand that our economy faces historic and unprecedented challenges and I will remain committed to working with Members of Congress on both sides of the aisle to enact responsible legislation which puts money back into the hands of those who can really turn our economy around—the American people and small businesses.

However, H.R. 3548 extends the current unemployment benefits extension program, as established by the FY 2008 supplemental, and extended in two subsequent acts, by an extra 13 weeks for only those States with unemployment rates above 8.5%. Enactment of H.R. 3548 would cause individuals in States with unemployment rates in excess of 8.5% to be eligible for benefits for a total duration of 92 weeks.

Madam Speaker, like you, I believe that a key component of an economic recovery plan is assistance for the unemployed. Unfortunately, this legislation would only apply to unemployed individuals in 29 States with unemployment rates above 8.5%. To be clear, individuals in 21 other States would be ineligible to receive compensation under this legislation. Virginia's current unemployment rate stands at 6.5%. Thus, Virginia residents are not eligible for these benefits. I cannot support legislation that does not allow Virginia residents to benefit from the formulas adopted under this legislation.

Even more egregious is that businesses in Virginia and other excluded States are required to foot the bill for these benefits via the extension of the Federal Unemployment surtax through 2010. This tax would otherwise expire at the end of this year. Madam Speaker, I cannot support legislation that imposes a tax on businesses in Virginia when funds generated under this tax will be of zero benefit to the residents of Virginia, or the remaining 20 States in the Nation.

There are many counties and cities in Virginia that have unemployment rates above 8.5% and yet citizens living in those areas who are unemployed will receive no benefits from this legislation even as employers in the same areas will pay taxes taking money out of the local economy and seeing it circulate instead in some other part of the country for the arbitrary reason that statewide unemployment is above a particular percentage. Further, the individual who is out of a job and can't find another is suffering through the same situation for themselves and their families no matter where they live. Madam Speaker, this legislation is unfair to my constituents and that is why I voted against it.

HONORING CATHOLIC SISTERS

HON. MARK E. SOUDER

OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, September 23, 2009

Mr. SOUDER, Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to rise in support of the gentlewoman from Ohio's resolution (H. Res. 441) recognizing the contributions of the Catholic Sisters to the United States.

The efforts of Catholic Sisters have had an incredible impact on my district in northeast Indiana. Saint Mother Theodore Guerin was one of the first brave souls to leave France in response to the call of Bishop Simon Brute of the Diocese of Vincennes to come to Indiana and help establish a system of schools for education.

Bishop Brute's motivation for seeking the support and involvement of religious women for this calling came from his experience working with another religious Sister, Saint Elizabeth Ann Seton.

Saint Mother Theodore traveled across the wilds of then-frontier Indiana and established many parish schools across the State, including in Fort Wayne, Indiana. Along with the Holy Cross Brothers and Fathers based at the University of Notre Dame, Saint Mother Theodore had a major impact on the creation of parish schools throughout northeast Indiana. That we have a successful Catholic school system in my district is due in no small part to her early efforts.

Sts. Theodore and Elizabeth Ann Seton have left lasting legacies in my district. The Catholic parish across from my kids' alma mater is dedicated to St. Elizabeth Ann Seton and the relatively new Latin Mass community in Fort Wayne is named for Saint Mother Theodore Guerin.

The foundation of education laid down by these pioneering sisters is today embodied by the example of the University of Saint Francis and its president, Sister Elise Kriss, OSF. You will not find a more humble and devoted servant than Sister Elise, who has led her institution through a period of rapid growth. She is a strong example of Christian leadership for both her students and the entire Fort Wayne community.

The Religious Sisters' contribution to my district extends well beyond education. St. Joseph Hospital was founded by Fort Wayne Bishop John Henry Luers in 1869. The Poor Handmaidens of Jesus Christ subsequently responded to his call to help serve the German-speaking immigrants of the area and continued assisting the hospital and many area parishes. They now lead the St. Joseph Community Health Foundation which has been a key partner with me and my staff as we work to address the plight of Fort Wayne's increasing Burmese refugee population.

My district originally included Huntington County, which is home to the motherhouse of Our Lady of Victory Missionary Sisters. The Victory Knoll Sisters would always write to me about the cause of peace and justice and the plight of different people around our country and the world.

These are just a few of the many dedicated religious women that are faithfully serving in the Diocese of Fort Wayne-South Bend, but are a good representation of the important legacy they provide our region. I would like to
