PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 111th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

Vol. 155

WASHINGTON, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 16, 2009

No. 191

House of Representatives

The House met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Ms. BALDWIN).

DESIGNATION OF THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC,
December 16, 2009.

I hereby appoint the Honorable TAMMY BALDWIN to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

NANCY PELOSI,

PRAYER

The Chaplain, the Reverend Daniel P. Coughlin, offered the following prayer:

During this season of holidays and holy days, Lord, we pray for families all across this Nation. The times, economics, and unemployment are causing great stress within some families. Military service, sickness, recent deaths, and alienation bring other families to the point of heartbreak and tears. Yet we believe, Lord, that the family is not only the basic social unit upon which our communities and our Nation are built. Family life is the "domestic church" where prayer is practiced and faith is first witnessed.

For You, Lord God, the family itself is a great mystery, our first school of formation, which shapes human values, affirms self-image, and provides a world view. Here one accepts personal independence within a sense of belonging and authority with a sense of humor, bold enough to giggle at life's inconsistencies and laugh at oneself. Daily, children and adults learn self-giving, gratitude, patience, forgiveness, and simple expressions of love and being loved.

Lord, may Congress respect and protect family life in this country. With Your blessing, may every family this season nurture the experience of love: conjugal love, paternal and maternal love, fraternal love, and the love of a community of persons and of generations. May they acknowledge Your Presence in everyone around the table, both now and forever. Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House her approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Kentucky (Mr. YARMUTH) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. YARMUTH led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will entertain up to 15 requests for 1-minute speeches on each side of the aisle.

SACRIFICING THE FUTURE FOR WAR AND WALL STREET

(Mr. KUCINICH asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. KUCINICH. The Greatest Generation sacrificed during their lifetime so future generations could have it better. Here, the "bailout generation" demands the future will be sacrificed for the present with unlimited money from Wall Street and war.

While the government expands the debt for Wall Street and war, people are led to believe that we're doing it for jobs on Main Street. Even today as Congress expands the debt limit, CitiGroup will get billions in new tax breaks. Last week, Congress let Wall Street keep their over-the-counter black box derivatives game going, which will leave the taxpayers exposed to huge losses in the future.

Today, Congress will give the Pentagon another $550 billion and the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan another $130 billion, where we expand the national debt, sacrificing the future for the present. In the past 2 years, Congress chose war and Wall Street over jobs and Main Street, expanding the debt, sacrificing the future for the present.

Today's job bill is necessary but will address only a fraction of the unemployed. Rather than prime the pump of the economy and put all of America back to work, we have to sacrifice the future for war and for Wall Street.

OBAMAVILLE IN COLORADO SPRINGS

(Mr. LAMBORN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. LAMBORN. Madam Speaker, this picture shows what the failed policies of this Congress and administration are doing to America. This sign was put up near a homeless camp in my district. It's next to the highway, down by the river. It says: Welcome to Obamaville—Colorado's fastest growing community.

It's obvious that the liberals' prescription for creating jobs only creates more government by taking hard-earned dollars from families and small businesses for taxes that could have gone into creating real jobs.

When the President said he wanted more jobs through the so-called stimulus, it's mostly meant more bureaucrats, and that's not the jobs Americans want. When Americans lose their jobs in this recession and end up living in a tent, something is wrong.

The policies of this administration and Congress, by raising taxes and putting more regulations in the way of business, will not create the jobs Americans need for the future, but their policies will create tent cities.

HONORING JACKIE HAYS

(Mr. YARMUTH asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. YARMUTH. Madam Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Jackie Hays, a broadcasting legend in Louisville, Kentucky, who has served our community for nearly 22 years. Jackie will retire this Friday, and she will be greatly missed.

Over the course of her career at WAVE-TV, Jackie has done it all: flying in Thunderbirds and Blue Angels, covering more than 25 Kentucky Derbies, and joining Louisvillians for our greatest celebrations and darkest tragedies. But most of all, she has endeared herself to Louisvillians because we always knew how much she cared about us. That's why she was selected 16 times as Louisville's favorite female anchor. She proved her love for our community not just by her on-air professionalism, but also by her enthusiastic involvement in civic and charitable activities.

Jackie once said: God isn't going to ask me one day how many newscasts I did or how many stories I broke, but what kind of person I was.

As Jackie's WAVE-3 career comes to an end, I can say without reservation that she is a person that anyone would hold up as a role model, and we are grateful she has called Louisville home so long. I join everyone in Louisville in wishing her a long and fulfilling retirement.

TIME TO STOP DIGGING THE DEFICIT HOLE

(Mrs. SCHMIDT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. SCHMIDT. A few weeks ago, Moody's Investor Services told us that our country's AAA bond rating will be downgraded if we do not get the budget deficit under control. This is because the President and this Congress ran up a record-breaking deficit last year to the tune of $1.4 trillion, tripling our prior record.

The response from the President and the majority is more spending and absolutely no commitment to do anything to reduce the deficit. In fact, today we're going to be asked to raise our debt ceiling so we can borrow more.

An article in Barron's financial magazine on Monday said this: "Moody's expressed optimism that the U.S. budget deficit would be reined in, helped by quicker-than-expected repayment of funds under the TARP program. But the ink was hardly dry on its report when President Obama, Tuesday, announced a new 'jobs' program, funded in part by the greater-than-anticipated return of TARP funds."

Repaid TARP funds are supposed to be used for deficit reduction. Besides this, I thought the trillion dollar stimulus bill was supposed to create jobs.

You know, when you get yourself into a hole, you have to stop digging.

It's time to stop digging.

JOBS, JOBS, AND JOBS

(Mr. SIREN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. SIREN. Madam Speaker, while this House has made great strides to improve our economy, our journey towards economic recovery will not be complete until after a robust jobs package is passed. The nearly half a million unemployed New Jerseyans and over 15 million unemployed Americans simply cannot wait. They need jobs now, and they're relying on us to deliver it.

In order to put Americans back to work and lay the groundwork for future growth, we must build on the investments in job creation we have already made; specifically, investments in infrastructure and clean energy: jobs to repair existing roads and bridges, jobs to improve public transportation and water infrastructure, and jobs in alternative energy initiatives, including solar and wind.

In addition to job creation, we must also ensure that the unemployed can make ends meet while searching for jobs by continuing the extension of unemployment benefits and helping them maintain health care coverage by extending COBRA subsidies that are set to expire.

Madam Speaker, our work is not done. We need to pass a bill that will generate jobs, jobs, and even more jobs—not in a month, not two, but now.

CONSTITUTIONAL BALANCED BUDGET AMENDMENT

(Mr. BUCHANAN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. BUCHANAN. Madam Speaker, the congressional leaders this week want to raise the Federal debt ceiling $1.8 trillion. The current debt in the country is over $12 trillion.

When I first came here 3 years ago, I introduced a constitutional balanced budget amendment. I hear up here the last 3 years that the Democrats are the problem, the Republicans are the problem on the spending. They're both the problem. In the last 50 years, they've only balanced the budget five or six times, yet 49 out of 50 Governors have to balance the budget.

Our State of Florida has had a tough cycle in terms of revenues. They've cut expenses. Families are cutting expenses. Small businesses in our communities are cutting 20, 30 percent in expenses, yet we're raising expenses 12 percent.

The time is now. We almost had a constitutional balanced budget amendment in 1994. That's the only thing that's going to solve the problem. We need to act today as Democrats and Republicans and do what's right for America and Americans.

SS ST. LOUIS

(Mr. KLEIN of Florida asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KLEIN of Florida. Madam Speaker, this week I had the chance to meet with some of the survivors of the SS St. Louis in my community of south Florida. This was a memorable and moving experience that provides each of us with a powerful lesson about our past.

As you know, the SS St. Louis carried nearly 1,000 Jewish refugees from Nazi Germany in 1939, and, shamefully, the United States turned the ship away. Its passengers were sent back to Europe where hundreds of them perished. We cannot forget this dark moment in our Nation's history, and we must remember the story and share it with our next generation in order to keep our promise of "never again."

I'd like to associate myself with Senate Resolution 111 passed by the U.S. Senate, which recognizes the tragedy of the SS St. Louis and honors the memory of the passengers who lost their lives. I join my colleagues and continue to pay tribute to those who did not survive, and I express my gratitude for the opportunity to join the survivors in person this week.

AFGHANISTAN-PAKISTAN BORDER AND U.S.-MEXICO BORDER

(Mr. POE of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. POE of Texas. Madam Speaker, I had the opportunity to be with our resilient troops last week in Afghanistan near the violent southern border with Pakistan. Part of their mission is to secure the border by preventing drugs, arms, money and Taliban criminals from crossing back and forth through the vast border regions. It's in America's interest to have our military in Afghanistan and protect the sovereignty of that country.

It is ironic, however, we see the need to protect the borders of other nations; but because of political reasons, we don't have the moral will to protect our own borders. This is not the first administration that has given a wink and a nod to our porous borders, but it should be the last.

Our southern border region is a haven for organized criminal cartels, gun smugglers, human smugglers and rogue outlaws that cross as freely as they did in the days of the old west. We should be as concerned about protecting our own border as we are about protecting the borders of Third World countries like Afghanistan. We should put our military on the border if necessary.

After all, the first duty of government is protection of our own homeland.

JOBS

(Ms. LINDA T. SÁNCHEZ of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. LINDA T. SÁNCHEZ of California. Madam Speaker, I rise today for American working men and women who want to work but can't find a job. The Nation's unemployment rate stands at 10 percent, with my home State of California ranking third worst in the country.

While I support a stronger safety net to help families survive, in the end, Americans don't want unemployment checks. They want to work.

That's why I'm proud to support the Jobs for Main Street Act which will put Americans back to work in the most direct way possible: by hiring them. This bill makes overdue investments in America's rails, roads and schools and in well-paying Davis-Bacon-covered jobs for our workers.

The benefits for our economy of encouraging unionized jobs cannot be overstated. As the great Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., said, "Everyone knows that the labor movement did not diminish the strength of the Nation, but enlarged it. By raising the living standards of millions, labor miraculously created a market for industry and lifted the whole Nation to undreamed of levels of production."

May this bill continue in that tradition.

JOBS

(Ms. FOXX asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, as we approach the Christmastime, too many Americans are asking, Where are the jobs? In January, the unemployment rate was 7.6 percent. Only 10 months later, the national unemployment reached a whopping 10.2 percent, the highest level since April 1983. That means today there are 15.7 million unemployed Americans looking for work.

House Republicans have an economic recovery plan that will help get Americans back to work. Our economic recovery plan will create twice the jobs at half the cost of the Democrats' failed stimulus plan.

How ironic that our colleagues are coming to the floor today to talk about the need for jobs when it is their votes and the policies of this President that have killed so many jobs.

It's time we started working on behalf of the American people and focus on real commonsense solutions that will help put people get back to work and let them celebrate Christmas in a wonderful way.

JOB CREATION PROGRAM

(Mrs. MALONEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. MALONEY. Madam Speaker, I would like to respond to my good friend on the other side of the aisle from the great State of North Carolina who pointed out that there are many jobless Americans. That's true, but let's put this in perspective. The last month that former President Bush was in office, this country lost over 750,000 jobs.

Under President Barack Obama's leadership, we are trending in the right direction. This last month, we lost 11,000 jobs. The last 5 months of the Bush administration, they lost well over 600,000 jobs.

And as Nobel laureate Joseph Stiglitz pointed out at a joint economic hearing last week, that job creation during the Bush administration was fueled by an artificial bubble. Inflated housing prices and a ballooning real estate market spurred consumption and hiring and put us in a very dangerous position where we find ourselves today.

We owe it to the 15 million jobless Americans to invest in aggressive job creation policies which will be on the floor today in the Democratic jobs program.

STOP THE AUTOMATIC PAY RAISE FOR MEMBERS OF CONGRESS IN FISCAL YEAR 2011 ACT

(Mr. MITCHELL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. MITCHELL. Madam Speaker, my colleague, Dr. RON PAUL, and I have once again introduced legislation to stop Members of Congress from receiving the next scheduled automatic pay raise. Earlier this year, we introduced legislation to block the fiscal year 2010 pay raise, and we were joined by a bipartisan coalition of more than 100 of our colleagues in the process. Thanks to their help, as well as that of our leadership, the fiscal year 2010 pay raise was blocked.

With unemployment so high and so many families struggling to make ends meet, we believe that it would be wrong for Congress to now raise its own pay in fiscal year 2011. Right now, we need our focus to be on getting people back to work, shoring up the economy, and keeping our families and communities safe, not on giving ourselves a pay raise. The American people are not getting a raise. Neither should Congress.

I encourage my colleagues from both sides of the aisle to do the same and join Dr. RON PAUL and me in stopping the next automatic pay raise from taking effect by supporting H.R. 4255, the Stop the Automatic Pay Raise for Members of Congress in Fiscal Year 2011 Act.

REPORT ON RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF SENATE AMENDMENT TO H.R. 3326, DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2010; FOR CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 64, FURTHER CONTINUING APPROPRIATIONS, FISCAL YEAR 2010; FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 4314, PERMITTING CONTINUED FINANCING OF GOVERNMENT OPERATIONS; FOR CONSIDERATION OF SENATE AMENDMENT TO H.R. 2847, JOBS FOR MAIN STREET ACT, 2010

Ms. PINGREE of Maine, from the Committee on Rules, submitted a privileged report (Rept. No. 111-380) on the resolution (H. Res. 976) providing for consideration of the Senate amendment to the bill (H.R. 3326) making appropriations for the Department of Defense for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2010, and for other purposes; for consideration of the joint resolution (H.J. Res. 64) making further continuing appropriations for fiscal year 2010, and for other purposes; for consideration of the bill (H.R. 4314) to permit continued financing of Government operations; for consideration of the Senate amendment to the bill (H.R. 2847) making appropriations for the Departments of Commerce and Justice, and Science, and Related Agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2010, and for other purposes, which was referred to the House Calendar and ordered to be printed.

WAIVING REQUIREMENT OF CLAUSE 6(a) OF RULE XIII WITH RESPECT TO CONSIDERATION OF CERTAIN RESOLUTIONS

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 973 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 973

Resolved, That the requirement of clause 6(a) of rule XIII for a two-thirds vote to consider a report from the Committee on Rules on the same day it is presented to the House is waived with respect to any resolution reported on the legislative day of December 16, 2009.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentlewoman from Maine is recognized for 1 hour.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentlewoman from North Carolina, Dr. FOXX. All time yielded during consideration of the rule is for debate only.

GENERAL LEAVE

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. I also ask unanimous consent that all Members be given 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on House Resolution 973.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Maine?

There was no objection.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, House Resolution 973 waives clause 6(a) of rule XIII which requires a two-thirds vote to consider a rule on the same day it is reported from the Rules Committee. This waiver applies to any resolutions reported on the legislative day of December 16, 2009. This will allow the House to consider today important legislation, including legislation to ensure the funding of our military in addition to measures to put people back to work.

Madam Speaker, we must act quickly to deliver the bills before us today that will fund our military and get people back to work. Today the House will take up several measures that will fund our military and make critical investments in the Nation's infrastructure in order to put people back to work. We have the opportunity today to take the bailout money that was used as a lifeline to Wall Street and give that money back to the American people and those who have been hit hardest by these tough economic times.

The legislation that we will take up later today will divert the TARP money to programs that will create and save jobs across the country. We do this by investing $75 billion of TARP money into highways, to transit, to school renovation, to hiring teachers, police and firefighters, to supporting small businesses, job training and affordable housing.

For those hit hardest by the recession, this bill also provides emergency relief by extending programs like Unemployment Benefits, COBRA and FMAP, which is health care funding for our States, and the child care tax credit. These are measures that we must pass to build a foundation for long-term economic recovery.

This is not an ordinary day; and given the importance of this legislation, I hope Members on both sides of the aisle will support this rule so that we can move quickly to enact these critically important measures.

I wish, as so many of my colleagues wish, that we weren't faced with such difficult problems. I wish that when the Democrats took over the majority, we weren't saddled with two wars, a recession and a $1.3 trillion deficit. But wishing won't make these problems go away. There is real urgency in the actions before us today, and I truly hope that my colleagues on both sides of the aisle will join me in supporting this rule to allow us to move forward.

Later in the day, we will debate the merits of all of this legislation and the grave implications of not passing these bills. But right now, I urge my colleagues to support this rule and allow us to move forward on the debate to complete the work that we were sent here to do.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, I appreciate my colleague yielding the time this morning.

I want to say that it seems every time we come here, we have to do a little bit of correcting people's memory and their recollection of history. My colleague just said when they took over the majority, we had a $1.3 trillion deficit. I think if she will check her facts, she will see that the $1.3 trillion deficit came about as a result of the Democrats' taking over the majority. She may not have been here in 2007, but when they took over the majority, I believe that the deficit was $259 billion, and they made it $1.3 trillion this year with their Democratic President.

We are here considering a same-day martial law rule. Now, I understand that there are times when we need to move quickly when we are faced with an immediate crisis. However, I think the word "crisis" has been overused particularly this year. We haven't had much by way of crisis this year, and yet they're trying to make it a crisis by bringing in this, again, same-day martial law rule.

The Rules Committee met last night at 8:45. We didn't get the text of the bills that we're going to be debating and the rule that we're going to approve again in a few minutes, or a little while, so we've had very little time to be able to deal with these things. But we've known about this for a long, long time. We've known that the funding for the government would run out Friday night for over a month. So what have we been doing during that period of time when we should have been preparing for this day?

Let me give some ideas on what we've been doing by reading out some of the bills that we've been voting on on the floor: expressing support for designation of November 29, 2009, as "Drive Safer Sunday," surely something that the country could not live without, without our voting on it; expressing support for designation of the week beginning on November 9, 2009, as "National School Psychology Week," another extraordinarily important issue for us to be dealing with; recognizing the 60th anniversary of the Berlin Airlift's success. Certainly I am extremely proud of the fact that Ronald Reagan helped end the Cold War by opening up Berlin. But I don't think that really needed to be done by a vote on this floor.

And then the one that I really think tops the cake and will get the attention of the American people, honoring the 2,560th anniversary of the birth of Confucius and recognizing his invaluable contributions to philosophy and social and political thought. The fact that 2,560 years have passed since the birth of Confucius and we hadn't acknowledged it, I really think that could have waited a little bit longer in terms of the importance of the work that we are doing.

So, here we are again doing what our colleagues across the aisle have been so good at this session, short-circuiting the legislative process so we can jam through another major spending bill without the benefit of Members or, more importantly, the citizens of this country having the opportunity to read it.

This rule enables us to take up the next rule, and that rule will let the House consider more than $1 trillion in spending, all done almost in the blink of an eye if you put it in the context of the birth of Confucius. But let us not be fooled by this attempt to say that something is a crisis. The reason we are doing this on the spur of the moment is because our Speaker and several Members are going to leave today to go to Copenhagen to talk with people about climate control. And they're going to emit much, much carbon on their way to do that, which really is sort of hypocritical in terms of what the conference is all about. So we have folks talking out of both sides of their mouths here over and over and over again.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. My good friend from North Carolina has suggested that this isn't an emergency. I would say that I hear every day from constituents in my district who feel that we are in a time of emergency. In Maine, we have 20,000 unemployed workers who are facing the end of their unemployment benefits. A very critical thing that we are about to talk about today is the extension of unemployment benefits.

Now, we are anxious for the economy to improve, but the fact is in my State unemployment benefits are the fourth largest payroll. That is a tragedy that we have to deal with. We have to make sure that those people, in the middle of a cold winter, don't go without their vital support and that our State doesn't go without a critical part of our economy.

Many of those people can't even stand a delay because the fact is if they go for even a few days or weeks without their benefits, they've already hit the end of their credit card limits, they've already gone as far as they can possibly go. Many workers have talked to me about the fact that they are using their COBRA subsidy; they were laid off, and the fact is this extended that as well.

As far as I'm concerned, there are many critical things in this bill. This is the time to get it passed. People say to me all the time, When are you going to get something done in Washington? As far as I'm concerned, this is something we have to get done, and we need to get back to work today.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, I now yield such time as he may consume to the distinguished gentleman from California and ranking member of the Rules Committee, Mr. DREIER.

(Mr. DREIER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DREIER. Madam Speaker, our friend from Maine is absolutely right. This is a very, very challenging time for people who are dealing with the economic downturn through which we have suffered, and it is essential that we do a number of the things that are before us today.

The national security of the United States of America is priority number one. I always argue that the five most important words in the middle of the preamble of the U.S. Constitution are "provide for the common defense." I say that, Madam Speaker, because if you think about the issues with which we regularly contend here, nearly all of them can be done either by an individual, within a family, within a church or community, a city, a county, or a State level of governing, but our national defense can only be handled by the Federal Government. So I will acknowledge it is very, very important for us to ensure that our men and women in uniform have what they need. And I will acknowledge that as we deal with the economic downturn, ensuring that people have job opportunities is a very, very, very important priority for us.

I happen to think that we have gone in the exact opposite direction when it comes to the notion of encouraging long-term private sector job creation and economic growth. I believe that we should deal with that issue in a bipartisan way. And when I say bipartisan, I'm referring to two Presidents in the last half century; one is John F. Kennedy, the other Ronald Reagan. John F. Kennedy, when we were dealing with economic challenges in the early 1960s, decided very clearly that the best way to get the economy back on track, the best way to encourage private sector job creation and economic growth was to do what? Bring about broad, marginal tax rate reduction, reducing the top rate on capital gains and taking the top rate on job creators, men and women who are out there working to create more and more opportunity for their fellow Americans.

Well, Madam Speaker, that kind of plan was put into place in the early 1960s with a Democratic Congress and a Democratic President of the United States. And guess what happened? During the decade of the 1960s, we saw a doubling of the flow of revenues to the Federal Treasury because of the heralded John F. Kennedy tax cuts; again, a Democratic President and a Democratic Congress.

Rush forward from the early 1960s to the early 1980s, two decades. I was privileged to be a Member of the 97th Congress which convened in January of 1981. We were dealing with very, very serious economic problems, some of which were even more challenging than exist today. In the early 1980s, people will recall that interest rates were well into double digits, we had an unemployment rate that dramatically exceeded where we are today, and if you look at the overall challenge, it was similar. How did we deal with that, Madam Speaker? We dealt with it by doing, under Ronald Reagan, exactly what President John Kennedy, a great Democratic President, did. Under Ronald Reagan, we saw broad reductions across the board of marginal tax rates, we saw a reduction in the capital gains rate.

And what happened? As we encouraged those job creators out there in our economy, what happened, Madam Speaker, was we saw, again, a doubling of the flow of revenues to the Federal Treasury and we saw good, long-term private sector jobs created.

Now, the thing that is most troubling about what it is that we are doing is, while we have seen—I am really happy to see this reduction of 10.2 percent to 10 percent, the unemployment rate; it's a positive sign. The problem is that it's not private sector job creation; what we are seeing is public sector job creation.

I will acknowledge that infrastructure spending is important. I represent the Los Angeles Basin, and we have very serious infrastructure problems. And so I recognize that government does have an appropriate role in dealing with infrastructure, and jobs are created when we put resources into infrastructure. I will acknowledge that.

But if you look at the other areas, when the President had his job summit the other day, we had a meeting of Republicans. One of the economists who participated was Kevin Hassett of the American Enterprise Institute, and he provided us with an amazing number. He said that he had his staff at AEI, the American Enterprise Institute, sit down and look at the challenge of the entire nearly $1 trillion in stimulus spending. He said, Tell me what would happen if we were to have taken that entire stimulus bill and just hired people.

Well, his staff came up with the following conclusion, Madam Speaker. He reported to us that if you look at the average wage rate in the United States, it's $37,000 a year. That's the average wage rate across the country. If we were to take the entire stimulus bill and simply hire people, guess how many jobs would be created? I was stunned when Mr. Hasset reported to us that that number is 21 million. And when you look at how the stimulus dollars have been expended, we obviously haven't created that many jobs, Madam Speaker. But the fact is, if we were to take all of those resources and just hire people at the average wage rate across the United States of America, it would be 21 million jobs that would have been created.

That is not the way to deal with the challenge of the economic downturn. The way to deal with it is to encourage long-term private sector job creation and economic growth. That is why, when we look at these priorities and the urgency of dealing with the challenges that exist today, that is what we should be doing.

Now, as Ms. FOXX has appropriately said, Madam Speaker, we are here with a virtually unprecedented scenario before us. First, this rule gives something that according to our staff has not happened before, and that is, it gives the Chair the authority to just, without any action by the Members of the House, adjourn the House. That is a troubling sign. And it is troubling but not terribly surprising based on what we have seen over the past 3 years since we had first unveiled to us a document known as "A New Direction for America." This was the proposal that was put forward by the now-Speaker of the House, who was then minority leader. And as minority leader, she was very concerned.

And I will acknowledge, having done a less than perfect job in my position as chairman of the House Rules Committee, I am proud of what our work product was, but I could have done better, and I will acknowledge that freely here. But it's interesting to note what "A New Direction for America" actually had. I would like to just share a couple of brief lines from that, if I might, Madam Speaker.

It says, Bills should be developed following full hearings and open subcommittee and committee markups, with appropriate referrals to other committees. Members should have at least 24 hours to examine a bill prior to consideration at the subcommittee level. Bills should generally come to the floor under a procedure that allows open, full, and fair debate.

I am going to repeat that, Madam Speaker. It says, Bills should come to the floor under a procedure that allows open, full, and fair debate consisting of a full amendment process that grants the minority the right to offer its alternatives, including a substitute.

Members should have at least 24 hours to examine bill and conference report text prior to floor consideration. Rules governing floor debate must be reported before 10 p.m. for a bill to be considered the following day.

Now, Madam Speaker, as we know, virtually all of that has been thrown out the window.

The other thing that is unprecedented—and I mentioned this in the Rules Committee when I confirmed it with our staff—to my knowledge, this is the first session ever to go through the entire session of Congress without any bill being considered under an open rule. I know that my friend from Maine was there upstairs when I raised this issue, and I hope very much that she does have an opportunity soon, because as we've talked about—and this bill that is coming before us is an appropriations bill—again, for the first time ever we had the appropriations process shut down, shut down, denying Members an opportunity to offer amendments. Never before in the history of the Republic has that taken place, and we now have, unfortunately, seen that.

But as we prepare to extend Christmas and Hanukkah greetings to our colleagues and our friends across the country, it is very unfortunate that we have now—if we do in fact see today as the last day of the first session of this Congress—an entire session without any open rules.

I will tell you that there are many people on the Rules Committee who work long and hard to deal with challenges. We, as Ms. FOXX said, met into the evening last night, and then we were here at 7:30 this morning.

One of our Rules Committee staff members, Shane Chambers, who has worked long and hard, is getting ready to leave. I would like to say, Madam Speaker, how much I appreciate his work. He and his wife and new baby are moving to Dallas, Texas. I am sure that he will have an opportunity—even with a new baby—to get more rest than he does as a staff member on the House Rules Committee. But I would like to express appreciation to those staff members on both sides of the aisle who do work long and hard to address these challenges.

I am going to urge my colleagues to join in voting "no" on this rule because I believe that we can do better. This is not the appropriate way, and it is not what was promised to the American people.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, I do want to thank my colleague, the ranking member on the committee, both for his history lesson and also for extending holiday greetings to those across the country. I do appreciate that, as a new Member, I often learn bits of the past from the things that he discusses with us, and I want to join him in thanking our hard-working staff. He is absolutely right. We were here late into the evening, and we were here early in the morning. I know that my colleagues put in many hours and that our staffs work very hard, and I want them to know I appreciate greatly their hard work on our behalf and for dealing with many of the challenges we often have before us which make our procedural challenges even more difficult as we try to determine how to get so much work done that is before us and with so much more to do. That is why we are here today—to talk about this same-day rule, to talk about the work that is before us.

I yield as much time as he is interested in consuming to my good colleague from Colorado (Mr. PERLMUTTER).

Mr. PERLMUTTER. I appreciate my friend from Maine giving me some time to respond to my friend from California.

Madam Speaker, I think we were getting a little lesson in history about Kennedy, about Reagan, and about the Recovery Act that was passed earlier this session.

I'm glad my friend is now returning, because what he forgot to mention was that, with John Kennedy, when those tax cuts were made, the highest marginal rates were 70 percent. Today's highest marginal rates are half that. So we need to understand, when those cuts were made, it was a substantial amount higher than what we've experienced today. I would also remind my friend that, in the Recovery Act, which was passed earlier this year, $300 billion—about 40 percent of that bill—was in the form of tax cuts. So those kinds of efforts are being made.

I would also remind my friend that, when President Reagan came in in 1981, he did take some tough steps in trying to rebuild the economy, which was suffering from high interest rates and from a number of other things, and it wasn't just nirvana the next day. At least in Colorado, we had years of recession that lasted almost until 1990.

So what we see before us, really, I think, as a result of stabilizing the banking system last fall and of rejuvenating the economy in the spring with the Recovery Act, is downward pressure on unemployment. We are not out of the woods, but it is getting better. We can continue to do better than what we saw at the end of the Bush administration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. I yield the gentleman another 1 minute.

Mr. DREIER. Would the gentleman yield?

Mr. PERLMUTTER. I yield 10 seconds to my friend from California.

Mr. DREIER. I am going to need more than 10 seconds to respond. I would be happy to ask my friend from the Grandfather community if she might yield 1 minute to the gentleman.

Ms. FOXX. I am happy to yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Colorado.

Mr. DREIER. Would the gentleman yield?

Mr. PERLMUTTER. I yield to my friend.

Mr. DREIER. I thank my friend for yielding.

Madam Speaker, let me just say very quickly that, under John F. Kennedy, it's true. We saw a 70 percent marginal rate dramatically reduced. We are not asking for a halving of marginal rates. The $300 billion in tax cuts have not been focused on job creators, which is exactly what President Kennedy did then.

I also want to say, Madam Speaker, that I recognize very well that, if you look at the provisions that have been put into place within the past year, we've not been focused on that private sector job creation that President Kennedy and President Reagan perceived.

I thank my friend for yielding.

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Reclaiming my time, I appreciate that, but I would disagree with my friend by saying, first of all, we provided tax credits for first-time home buyers to stimulate home construction and home sales. We provided tax credits, net operating loss, carrybacks, and carryforwards for businesses. We provided tax credits on depreciation. There are many, many business tax credits that have gone to stimulate the economy and to create jobs. So I would disagree.

Mr. DREIER. Will the gentleman further yield?

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Just for a second.

Mr. DREIER. Madam Speaker, let me just say that, again, the example that I used, the bipartisan example of the Kennedy/Reagan tax cuts, were marginal rate reductions for individuals, which encouraged job creation and a reduction of the capital gains rate, and we've chosen to increase taxes.

Mr. PERLMUTTER. I take back my time.

Madam Speaker, the business types of tax cuts as well as individual tax cuts are part of the package that is helping this country recover, but we aren't there yet. We haven't finished yet. We helped Wall Street with TARP money. That same money should be able to be available to Main Street. That's the purpose of today's bill. That's why this rule is important.

I would urge an "aye" vote on this rule as well as an "aye" vote on the underlying bill.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California.

Mr. DREIER. Madam Speaker, I would be happy to engage in a colloquy further with my friend from Colorado to simply say that I believe very, very strongly, Madam Speaker, that it is important for us to recognize what needs to be done to encourage job creation and economic growth. What we have seen in the past year, unfortunately, has been a dramatic expansion of the size and scope and reach of government, which, frankly, I think, would concern both John F. Kennedy and Ronald Reagan.

The fact is the notion of this regulatory burden and tax cuts that are not modeled after the pro-growth model of President Kennedy and President Reagan are not going to create the kind of opportunity that we need. Why? Because we constantly hear this class warfare argument of "tax the rich."

This week's Economist has a very interesting piece, Madam Speaker, in which it focuses on the bonus tax that Prime Minister Gordon Brown in Great Britain is putting into place. The piece in The Economist is entitled, "Class Warrior." It focuses on the fact, again, that Prime Minister Brown is trying to, with his policy, get the economy going when the British economy is, in fact, among those in Europe, doing the worst of the economies. We are in a position right now where he is engaging in class warfare, and The Economist has this great line, which reads, "Market reforms are not what class warriors do."

As we continue to attack job creators, as we continue to attack those at the upper end of the spectrum who are, in fact, struggling right now to get our economy back on track to create the private sector jobs, we've got policies here that are undermining that.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. DREIER. Of course, I am happy to yield.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. I am happy to yield back again to my wonderful colleague from Colorado.

Mr. DREIER. I have got time. I will yield to him.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. We will yield to everybody.

I want to answer one thing. The two of you have been entered into a colloquy, a very interesting one, going back to Kennedy.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman from California has expired.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. I am happy to engage in a colloquy with both of my colleagues here, but let me just make one point to my much more senior and well-informed Members.

Mr. DREIER. If the gentlewoman would yield, that means older.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. No, I don't think, actually, they are all older.

Anyway, I just want to say that, while this has been a very interesting history lesson and while I greatly appreciate my colleague from Colorado and his understanding of the financial services industry and of this world that we've been working so hard on to both regulate and to deal with, much of my colleague from California's remarks have been referring to President Kennedy and to President Reagan, which were very different eras.

I just want to remind my colleagues on the floor that we are here at the end of the Bush administration. When President Obama came to office, yes, the Democrats had been here for 2 years before and there were things that we were unable to fix when we were simply in the majority. The fact is that President Obama and this particular Congress—and I came here as a freshman—inherited the worst recession since the Great Depression, two wars that weren't paid for, a broken health care system, and a 1950s energy policy. That is what we have had to deal with. As my colleagues know, this has not been an easy year. We are here over and over again, attempting to deal with this.

I yield 1 minute to my colleague from Colorado (Mr. PERLMUTTER).

Mr. PERLMUTTER. I appreciate my friend from Maine yielding.

I would just say to my colleague from Maine, as well as to my colleague from California, that I think that Ms. PINGREE has a very substantial point. My friend from California complained about the regulatory burden.

One of the reasons that this country is facing the recession that we are facing is as a result of the Wild West approach on Wall Street where there was no regulatory burden, or if there was, it was ignored by the regulators under the Bush administration. As a consequence, the private sector was brought to its knees last fall and is just now getting on its feet as a result of the rejuvenation—the Recovery Act—which was passed by this Congress and by President Obama. It is those kinds of things that have required intervention by the Federal Government to get this country back on its feet. We are not there yet, but we are heading in the right direction.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, I find it very interesting that my colleague from Maine says we find ourselves here at the end of the Bush administration. We have been in the Obama administration for a year, yet our colleagues across the aisle cannot stop hearkening back to President Bush and blaming him for everything that has happened in this country in the last year when President Bush hasn't been in office and while the Republicans have not been in control. The Democrats are in control. They have been in control of the Congress for 3 years.

They actually inherited from President Bush and from the Republican-controlled Congress a very excellent economy—55 straight months of job growth. In the first month that the Democrats took over the Congress, the economy started going downhill, and we can document that very, very easily. It isn't the Bush administration that deserves the blame for the ills of the economy; it's the Democrat-controlled Congress, which began in January of 2007, which is when the economy started going sour.

I want to go back to the issue at hand, which is: Why do we have closed rules? Why do we have a same-day martial law rule? Why isn't there time for us to debate the important issues that the American people want us to be debating?

Why is it, as my colleague from California has pointed out, that our most important function, that being the defense of this Nation and the appropriations for that part of the country—which can be done by no other group of people in this country as the States can't do it and the locals can't do it—is left to be done on a day when everybody is trying to get out for Christmas, and we are doing it in a rush?

The Members aren't allowed to read the bill. The 72-hour rule has gone out the window. Nobody is allowed to read the bill because there is not enough time to do it. We have been operating, as my colleague said, under closed rules with bills with no amendments while we are doing things like recognizing the Grand Concourse on its 100th anniversary as the preeminent thoroughfare in the borough of the Bronx and as an important nexus of commerce and culture for the City of New York.

That is how our colleagues want to spend their time, which is by dealing with issues that are not a part of our critical job here in the House of Representatives, by dealing with things that could have been done on a voice vote; but we have to have no amendments allowed and no debate time because there isn't time to do these things, according to the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, and this is what we are doing.

Madam Speaker, I had an opportunity this week to, once more, visit Arlington National Cemetery. It is always a sobering thing to do. I went particularly to the active duty section this time where men and women who are currently serving our country have lost their lives. It gets one's attention. There were parents and relatives there, grieving, who had recently lost loved ones. I visited the eternal flame of John Kennedy. I don't have to be reminded of his comments in his inaugural speech, "Ask not what your country can do for you. Ask what you can do for your country."

We are in a totally different time, as my colleague has said. We are in a time where we have people representing this country who want wealth redistribution. They want to take money from some people and give it to others.

In fact, that seems to be their entire focus, spread the wealth around, take up time on frivolous issues. Don't deal with what's important, don't deal with national security, because we really don't want to talk about that. That's not what's important. But that is what is important to us.

I watched the soldiers who guard the Tomb of the Unknowns, and I was given some insight into the preparation that they have for that job and how difficult it is to get it.

Would that Members of Congress had a tiny little percentage of the dedication that these soldiers have for doing their jobs. They do everything with perfection. Perfection is not just the goal; it is the standard that those people live up to. We are falling far short of the standard that our military people uphold for our country.

We are so fortunate that we have men and women willing to serve and have been willing to serve since the founding of this country. This Congress is falling short of the goals that they set.

I support our military. I support the funding for our military and our troops, the equipment, the medical care and all that we are going to appropriate, but I don't support this martial law way of operating. I don't support the arrogance of this administration and this Congress to bring things up at the last minute and to disregard the needs of those people.

To put on the bills things that are irrelevant, things they don't think they can pass any other way, what a travesty, what a shame. What a shame on this Congress that we are doing this bill at the last minute and that we are putting these things on here.

We should be voting on appropriations for our military and honoring them here just before the holidays.

Madam Speaker, I will ask my colleagues to vote "no" on this same-day rule and "no" on the next rule so that we could stop and debate this and not be up against a deadline for a group of our Members to go to Copenhagen, adding to the carbon problem while they are going over there to talk about it.

I yield back the balance of my time. Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Thank you to my colleague from North Carolina for her thoughts. While we don't always agree, I appreciate her reminding us about the soldiers who have fallen, about their families, about her visit to Arlington Cemetery.

I want to concur. I had the privilege of visiting the cemetery myself this week. Not only did I also grieve for those families who were there visiting the gravestones of their loved ones and their family members, and many who were just there to think about the people who they didn't even know who served for us.

I was also tremendously proud to see the thousands of wreaths that decorated those graves that had been brought down from my home State, the State of Maine, in honor of our fallen soldiers. There were 16,000 that were brought to Arlington Cemetery, and there were many people who traveled with them to make sure that we show the proper respect for our military, for our soldiers, and for those who served their country in the past and virtually every day.

I want to just say that we are here today in part to talk about making sure that there is adequate funding for our military. Yes, we all wish that our colleagues in the Senate had acted faster on this bill, that we weren't dealing with continuing resolutions, but this is the particular situation that we are in. It is very important that we finish our work before the end of the year, before the end of the holidays, that we recognize our soldiers, our current military, and many of the other needs in this bill, many of which will be discussed as soon as we finish the debate on this same-day rule.

Madam Speaker, in closing, I just want to say that the rule before us this morning simply allows the consideration of these measures to move forward.

We have heard a lot about the process this morning. I want to simply state for the record in the 109th Congress, before I was a Member of this body, the Republican majority reported out over 20 rules that allowed for same-day consideration.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote for this rule and for the underlying measures before us today. These programs are too important. Our constituents are in too much turmoil to slow this process down any further.

I urge a "yes" vote on the previous question and on the rule.

The material previously referred to by Ms. FOXX is as follows:

AMENDMENT TO H. RES. 973 OFFERED BY MS. FOXX OF NORTH CAROLINA

At the end of the resolution, insert the following new section:

SEC. 2. On the third legislative day after the adoption of this resolution, immediately after the third daily order of business under clause 1 of rule XIV and without intervention of any point of order, the House shall proceed to the consideration of the resolution (H. Res. 554) amending the Rules of the House of Representatives to require that legislation and conference reports be available on the Internet for 72 hours before consideration by the House, and for other purposes. The resolution shall be considered as read. The previous question shall be considered as ordered on the resolution and any amendment thereto to final adoption without intervening motion or demand for division of the question except: (1) one hour of debate equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Rules; (2) an amendment, if offered by the Minority Leader or his designee and if printed in that portion of the Congressional Record designated for that purpose in clause 8 of rule XVIII at least one legislative day prior to its consideration; which shall be in order without intervention of any point of order or demand for division of the question, shall be considered as read and shall be separately debatable for twenty minutes equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent; and (3) one motion to recommit which shall not contain instructions. Clause 1(c) of rule XIX shall not apply to the consideration of House Resolution 554.

THE VOTE ON THE PREVIOUS QUESTION: WHAT IT REALLY MEANS

This vote, the vote on whether to order the previous question on a special rule, is not merely a procedural vote. A vote against ordering the previous question is a vote against the Democratic majority agenda and a vote to allow the opposition, at least for the moment, to offer an alternative plan. It is a vote about what the House should be debating.

Mr. Clarence Cannon's Precedents of the House of Representatives, (VI, 308-311) describes the vote on the previous question on the rule as "a motion to direct or control the consideration of the subject before the House being made by the Member in charge." To defeat the previous question is to give the opposition a chance to decide the subject before the House. Cannon cites the Speaker's ruling of January 13, 1920, to the effect that "the refusal of the House to sustain the demand for the previous question passes the control of the resolution to the opposition" in order to offer an amendment. On March 15, 1909, a member of the majority party offered a rule resolution. The House defeated the previous question and a member of the opposition rose to a parliamentary inquiry, asking who was entitled to recognition. Speaker Joseph G. Cannon (R-Illinois) said: "The previous question having been refused, the gentleman from New York, Mr. Fitzgerald, who had asked the gentleman to yield to him for an amendment, is entitled to the first recognition."

Because the vote today may look bad for the Democratic majority they will say "the vote on the previous question is simply a vote on whether to proceed to an immediate vote on adopting the resolution . . . [and] has no substantive legislative or policy implications whatsoever." But that is not what they have always said. Listen to the definition of the previous question used in the Floor Procedures Manual published by the Rules Committee in the 109th Congress, (page 56). Here's how the Rules Committee described the rule using information form Congressional Quarterly's "American Congressional Dictionary": "If the previous question is defeated, control of debate shifts to the leading opposition member (usually the minority Floor Manager) who then manages an hour of debate and may offer a germane amendment to the pending business."

Deschler's Procedure in the U.S. House of Representatives, the subchapter titled "Amending Special Rules" states: "a refusal to order the previous question on such a rule [a special rule reported from the Committee on Rules] opens the resolution to amendment and further debate." (Chapter 21, section 21.2) Section 21.3 continues: Upon rejection of the motion for the previous question on a resolution reported from the Committee on Rules, control shifts to the Member leading the opposition to the previous question, who may offer a proper amendment or motion and who controls the time for debate thereon."

Clearly, the vote on the previous question on a rule does have substantive policy implications. It is one of the only available tools for those who oppose the Democratic majority's agenda and allows those with alternative views the opportunity to offer an alternative plan.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on ordering the previous question.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The concurrent resolution is not debatable. The question is on the concurrent resolution.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. FLAKE. Madam Speaker, I raise a point of order against H. Res. 976 because the resolution violates section 426(a) of the Congressional Budget Act. The resolution contains a waiver of all points of order against consideration of the legislation, which includes a waiver of section 425 of the Congressional Budget Act, which causes a violation of section 426(1).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Arizona makes a point of order that the resolution violates section 426(a) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

The gentleman has met the threshold burden under the rule, and the gentleman from Arizona and a Member opposed each will control 10 minutes of debate on the question of consideration. After that debate, the Chair will put the question of consideration.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Arizona.

Mr. FLAKE. Madam Speaker, approximately 68 years ago, in January of 1941, Sam Rayburn was elected Speaker of the House of Representatives. Just prior to his swearing in, he rose on the House floor and said the following:

"You have elevated me to a position, I must confess, that has been one of the ambitions of my lifetime. The House of Representatives has been my life and my love for this more than a quarter of a century. I love its traditions; I love its precedents; I love its dignity; I glory in the power of the House of Representatives. It is my highest hope and my unswerving aim to preserve, protect, and defend the rights, prerogatives, and the power of the House of Representatives."

What a beautiful statement. You can't help but hear and feel the words of love that Speaker Rayburn felt for this House. As Speaker, he considered himself a custodian of its traditions, its precedents and, as he put it, its dignity.

You might ask why I tell this story, why I raise this point. It is because we are about to consider a bill that endorses and condones a practice that has placed a dark and ominous cloud over this institution. This practice, for lack of a better term, can be called circular fund-raising. It involves the awarding of earmarks, which are essentially no-bid contracts, in close proximity to the receipt of campaign contributions from the earmark recipients.

This legislation contains more than 500 earmarks where a private, for-profit company is the intended recipient. Let me repeat that. This legislation we are about to consider contains more than 500 earmarks, or no-bid contracts, directed to private companies. In many cases, the Members of the Congress securing these no-bid contracts have either received, or will soon receive after this legislation is enacted into law, large campaign contributions from the executives of these companies and/or the lobbyists that represent them.

By now my colleagues are well aware of the PMA scandal which was largely centered on the practice of circular fund-raising. Since news broke in February 2008 of the FBI's raid of the PMA offices, press reports and editorials from coast to coast have raised questions about the action of that firm and the integrity of this body, sowing public distrust and tarnishing the dignity of the House. Just listen to what is being said off the Hill and beyond the beltway.

ABC's news site, The Blotter, noted that PMA's "operations—millions out to lawmakers, hundreds of millions back in earmarks for clients—have made it, for many observers, the poster child for tacit 'pay-to-play' politics in Washington."

An editorial in The New York Times entitled, "Political Animal 101" referred to "the relationship between campaign donors and the customized appropriations they are fed by grateful lawmakers" as "the ultimate in symbiotic survival" and "cynical influence trading."

An article in The Kansas City Star noted that "the earmark game gets a bit less baffling" when taxpayers consider "the campaign donors that grease political palms."

The Columbus Dispatch summed it up when they noted, "Congress has an abysmal public approval rating of 26 percent as of early November, and the smell of quid pro quo certainly doesn't help."

The embarrassing coverage isn't just limited to domestic press. The Irish Times noted that "U.S. Congressmen tread a fine line between legitimate political fund-raising and influence-peddling, between friendship with lobbyists and outright corruption." They go on, "Now a leaked confidential report, prepared by the committee (on Ethics) in July and detailed in yesterday's Washington Post, has provided a rare glimpse into the cesspool of Capitol Hill politics."

Madam Speaker, I have here that article referred to from The Washington Post dated October 30 of this year. It notes that seven Members who sit on the Appropriations Committee, the Subcommittee on Defense, are "under scrutiny by ethics investigators." The article notes that "Together, the seven legislators have personally steered more than $200 million in earmarks to clients of the PMA Group in the past 2 years, and received more than $6.2 million in campaign contributions from PMA and its clients in the past decade."

According to The Wall Street Journal, Members who sit on the Defense Subcommittee have this year alone "received a total of $141,000 in campaign contributions from companies that received earmarks from the lawmakers."

So here we are today, Madam Speaker, with a backdrop of investigations into the practice of circular fund-raising by the Justice Department and our own Ethics Committee, yet we are poised to pass a Defense appropriations bill that contains more than 500 no-bid contracts for private companies.

In mid-January of 2010, we will see a quarterly report from the Office of Congressional Ethics that will shed light into their investigations. Thereafter, it is likely that our own Ethics Committee will have to provide additional notice of their actions related to the PMA scandal.

If the future is anything like the past, additional scandals will spring from the earmarks that we approve today. We are surely, as the poet said, “traipsing down a flower-strewn path unpricked by thorns of reason.”

I should note that circular fund-raising is not a partisan issue; both parties engage in it. The cloud that hangs over this body rains on Republicans and Democrats alike. But it is fair to ask, what about the dignity of this body? Are we appropriately concerned that the words “pay-to-play,” “quid pro quo,” “swamp” and “cesspool” are increasingly routine in articles describing the appropriations process? Should we have no standard higher than whether the abuse of the process rises to the level of an indictable offense?

One thing is clear: The practice of circular fund-raising will someday end. The question is, who will end it? Will it take us, in our own initiative, to clean our own House, or will we wait for the Justice Department to launch more investigations and take further action?

My own hope is that those who find themselves in leadership positions today will summon the dormant custodial spirit of those who have protected and defended this wonderful institution long before we arrived in this Chamber. We owe it to them to correct the process that led to this flawed piece of legislation before us.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, I claim time in opposition.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentlewoman is recognized for 10 minutes.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, as my colleagues know, we have been here before. This is the same point of order that has been raised against almost every appropriations measure during this Congress, and each time it is used to discuss something other than its intended purpose.

I would want to respond to my good colleague from Arizona that I, too, share concerns about the earmarking process, and I encourage him to become a cosponsor on the fair elections bill. As we have in Maine, public financing takes away much of the scrutiny around the link between campaign contributions and earmarks.

But once again, this particular debate is about delaying consideration of this bill and ultimately stopping it altogether. I hope my colleagues will again vote “yes” so we can consider this important legislation on its merits and not stop it on a procedural motion.

This rule provides for enactment of legislation to fund our Nation’s defense. The brave men and women who serve in the military, particularly those who are currently at war in Iraq and Afghanistan, deserve a swift enactment of this legislation.

This legislation that we will take up later today will also divert TARP money to programs that create and save jobs across the country. We do this by investing $75 billion of TARP money into highways, transit, school renovation, hiring teachers, police, firefighters, supporting our small businesses, funding job training, and affordable housing. And for those hardest hit by the recession, this bill also provides emergency relief by extending programs like unemployment benefits, COBRA, FMAP, our health care funding for the State, and the child care tax credit.

Those who oppose this measure can vote against it on final passage. We must consider this rule, and we must pass this critical legislation today.

I have the right to close, but in the end I will urge my colleagues to vote “yes” and consider the rule.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FLAKE. Madam Speaker, may I inquire as to the time remaining?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Arizona controls 3 remaining minutes.

Mr. FLAKE. I am accused of using a procedural measure to bring up earmarks again. Let me tell you why I’m doing that. I’m doing that because this year, for the first time in the history of this institution, every appropriations bill that came to the floor—including this one, including the Defense appropriations bill—came under a structured or closed rule with only certain amendments being offered. That’s the first time in the history of this institution where every appropriations bill has come to the floor in that manner.

And so individuals like myself and others were only allowed to offer the amendments that the other side wanted us to offer, the ones that they said we could offer rather than the ones that we ourselves would choose. I was fortunate in that I got 10 of the 550-some amendments I offered on this bill. I offered that many because that’s how many no-bid contracts for private companies are contained in the bill, and I thought that they deserved some scrutiny.

I wish that the Appropriations Committee was vetting these earmarks; given this, it’s clear that they’re not. This is one of hundreds of articles out there. There is a cloud hanging over this institution because of prior Defense bills, and this is going to end up the same way. We are guaranteeing that there will be scandal that springs from earmarks approved in this bill because they haven’t been appropriately vetted, and they haven’t been because we weren’t allowed an open rule for people to bring to the floor amendments that they wanted to offer.

I mentioned that I was fortunate in that I got 10 of them. Some of my colleagues offered multiple amendments on multiple appropriations bills throughout the year and weren’t given the opportunity to offer any of them, not one. Here are Members across the country wanting to represent their constituents, and through the entire appropriations process, 12 bills this year, weren’t given the opportunity to offer one amendment because we have the equivalent of martial law on appropriations bills.

And why? Because we were told we had to get it done so we wouldn’t do any omnibus bills at the end of the year. Well, here we are, we just approved a massive omnibus bill last week, and we’re here today because the Defense bill was held just so that we could tag on additional items that people who wouldn’t want to vote for them anyway would have to because it’s a Defense bill. That’s just no way to conduct business. This institution deserves better than this. It deserves better than to have a bill that has more than 500 no-bid contracts for private companies of which articles have been written and will be written, making a cloud hang over this body.

As I mentioned, this isn’t a partisan issue. This isn’t where one party is in the right and one party is in the wrong. We are both doing this, and we shouldn’t. And it will come back to haunt us as surely as other practices have in the past.

Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, again I want to urge my colleagues to vote “yes” on this motion to consider so that we can debate and pass this and the other important items covered by this rule.

Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. All time for debate has expired.

The question is, Shall the House now consider the resolution?

The question of consideration was decided in the affirmative.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentlewoman from Maine (Ms. PINGREE) is recognized for 1 hour.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentlewoman from North Carolina, Dr. Foxx. All time yielded during consideration of the rule is for debate only.

GENERAL LEAVE

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. I ask unanimous consent that all Members be given 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on House Resolution 976.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Maine?

There was no objection.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, House Resolution 976 provides for the consideration of the Senate amendment to H.R. 3326, House Joint Resolution 64, H.R. 4314, and the Senate amendment to H.R. 2847.

For the Senate amendment to H.R. 3326, the rule makes in order a motion to concur in the Senate amendment with the House amendment, provides 1 hour of debate controlled by the Committee on Appropriations, and waives all points of order against consideration of the motion except those arising under clause 10 of rule XI.

The rule provides for consideration of H.J. Res. 64 under a closed rule. It provides for 1 hour of debate controlled by the Committee on Appropriations. It provides one motion to recommit with or without instructions. It waives all points of order against consideration of the joint resolution except those arising under clause 9 or 10 of rule XXI, and it waives all points of order against provisions in the joint resolution.

The rule provides for consideration of H.R. 4314 under a closed rule. It provides for 1 hour of debate controlled by the Committee on Ways and Means. It provides one motion to recommit with or without instructions. It waives all points of order against consideration of the bill except those arising under clause 9 or 10 of rule XXI, and it waives all points of order against provisions in the bill.

For the Senate amendment to H.R. 2847, the rule makes in order a motion to concur in the Senate amendment with the House amendment. It provides 1 hour of debate on the motion controlled by the Committee on Appropriations, and it waives all points of order against consideration of the motion except those arising under clause 10 of rule XXI.

The rule provides that in the engrossment of the House amendment to the Senate amendment to H.R. 2847, the Clerk shall add the text of H.R. 2920 as passed by the House.

The rule also provides that measures may be considered under suspension of the rules at any time during the remainder of the first session of the 111th Congress.

The rule waives the requirement of a two-thirds vote to consider a rule on the same day it is reported from the Rules Committee for the remainder of the first session of the 111th Congress.

The rule provides that the Chair of the Committee on Appropriations may insert in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD explanatory materials on the Senate amendments and the motions regarding H.R. 3326 and H.R. 2847.

The rule provides that, on any legislative day before January 12, 2010, the Speaker may dispense with organizational or legislative business.

The rule provides that, before January 12, 2010, the Chair may declare the House adjourned.

The rule provides for pro forma sessions until the House adjourns sine die.

And finally, the rule provides that, on any legislative day of the first session of the 111th Congress, the Speaker may declare the House adjourned.

Madam Speaker, the rule before us today allows the House to consider the Department of Defense Appropriations Act for fiscal year 2010, which is the last appropriations bill for this fiscal year.

The conference agreement on H.R. 3326 provides over $363 billion towards protecting our troops abroad and taking better care of their families at home. To help protect our troops, this bill provides increased funding for the Mine Resistant Ambush Protected Vehicle Fund and for the procurement of new Humvees and of new heavy and medium tactical vehicles. This is particularly important given the casualty rate and the difficulties our soldiers are experiencing in Afghanistan.

H.R. 3326 increases pay for all servicemembers by 3.4 percent, and it fully funds the requested end strength levels for active reserve and selected reserve personnel. The bill provides over $29 billion for top-of-the-line medical care, including $120 million for traumatic brain injury and psychological health, and it increases funding for the wounded, the ill and injured warrior programs.

The conference agreement also includes over $472 million for family advocacy programs, and it fully funds the family support and yellow ribbon programs. The bill also includes $20 million for the Army National Guard family assistance centers and reintegration programs; but this bill cannot provide for the common defense without a common effort.

In my home State of Maine, there are men and women who work every day to help in this effort. The funding in this bill would have been wasted if it weren't for the efforts of the welders, designers, and metal workers of the Bath Ironworks; of the skilled factory workers and assembly men at Vintech in Biddeford, Maine; of the world-class machinists and engineers at Pratt and Whitney in North Berwick; or of the dedicated laborers and nuclear engineers at the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard.

This is a clear example of why the bills before us today are so interconnected. Our economic security and our national security are inextricably linked, and our economic security is still in dire straits.

Madam Speaker, if you were sitting at a boardroom table on Wall Street today, you might hear the employees with Goldman Sachs discussing their $1 billion in profits or bonuses or you might hear employees of Citibank discussing raises for their top executives. You might also hear that the stock market has gone up 60 percent since the spring. You might even hear terms like "economic recovery" or "rebound." So, if you are sitting at that boardroom table on Wall Street, you might think that the economy has fully bounced back and that we are out of the woods. You may start to believe that there is nothing but smooth sailing ahead.

Yet, if you were at a kitchen table on Main Street in my home State of Maine, you would hear a very different story. Rather than talk of large profits, you would hear families discussing a savings account that has all but disappeared. Instead of listening to talk of raises or bonuses, you would hear families debating cutbacks on food or cutbacks on health care. Instead of hearing phrases like "economic recovery" or "rebound," you would hear terms like "high unemployment" and "mounting debt."

For the big banks on Wall Street, the economic recovery may be at hand, but for the millions of unemployed workers and for the thousands of small businesses that are struggling to get by, the economic recovery is still a long way off. In my State and all across the country, there are millions of Americans who want to get back to work, but they need us to lend the same helping hand that we gave to Wall Street in its time of need.

Madam Speaker, the rule before us today allows for the consideration of the Jobs for Main Street Act, which will move us down that road. This legislation invests in our Nation's infrastructure, and it puts more Americans back to work by providing $48 billion to rebuild and repair our national transportation system. This investment provides a measurable return, not only by creating and preserving jobs but by literally building the foundation for a long-term economic recovery. This bill will also preserve the jobs of teachers, of police officers, and of firefighters. For those who have already lost their jobs, the Jobs Act extends unemployment benefits for 2 months, and it maintains the current COBRA subsidy.

These programs—these investments, the economic lifelines—have a real impact. Just this week, I heard from a constituent of mine who said these words: Something needs to be done. There are less than 4 weeks left for my husband's unemployment. After that, we won't be able to pay the rent, and we will be out on the streets with a child under 2 years old. Every day, I wonder what is going to happen next, and I even have nightmares. You bail out these large banks which then only raise our interest rates and lower our credit lines—and for what? That doesn't help the little guy like us. Do something to help us.

Madam Speaker, we have the opportunity and we have the obligation to take the bailout money that was used as a lifeline to Wall Street and to give that money back to the American people and to those who have been hit the hardest by these tough economic times. The COBRA subsidy we passed this spring began expiring a few weeks ago. If we don't act now, it will completely disappear by January 1. In my State, full payment for COBRA uses up nearly 90 percent of the average unemployment benefits. That means out-of-work Mainers end up with only about $150 a month left after paying the full cost of their health insurance.

We need to act now, and we need to act fast to ensure that Main Street recovers. If we do not act, we will have only assured that Wall Street keeps their bonuses while American families lose their benefits. We will have only watched Wall Street get rid of their debt while watching small businesses take on more.

Madam Speaker, we have already put more than enough into shoring up Wall Street. Now we need to focus on creating jobs for the average American that will rebuild our economy from the bottom up.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. FOXX. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I thank my colleague from Maine for yielding time.

Madam Speaker, the Department of Defense appropriations bill for fiscal year 2010 is intended to provide equipment and technology for our troops. Our country's greatest treasure lies in the bravery, in the dedication, and in the ability of our servicemen and -women. These courageous individuals protect our freedoms every day.

We thank them, and we thank their families for their support, dedication, and sacrifice.

This bill provides top-of-the-line medical care for our troops, including funding for traumatic brain injury and psychological health. This bill provides funding for wounded, ill, and injured servicemembers as well as for cancer research. This bill provides our military with a pay increase, and it continues efforts to end the practice of stop loss—compensating troops for every month their terms of service will be involuntarily extended in 2010. This bill includes funding to provide support for our country's military families who sacrifice every day on behalf of our Nation and to whom we owe a great debt. This bill provides our troops with first-class military equipment and readiness training, ensuring they are fully prepared to successfully perform their missions.

However, while this bill contains funding for several important and necessary initiatives, I would be remiss if I did not mention my disappointment in the overall funding levels when compared to the increases we have seen throughout the appropriations season this year. While the bill does receive, roughly, a 4.5 percent increase over last year, this increase is not comparable to nondefense appropriations bills we have voted on this year, which average a 12 percent increase in funding levels. As we have noted before, the Federal Government is the only unit of government to provide for our national security.

These represent the wrong priorities of the Democrats, who are in charge of the Congress, and of the Obama administration. Increasing spending for domestic priorities by double digits while, in comparison, shortchanging national defense represents a dangerous, wrongheaded policy that does not rightly prioritize the security of our Nation.

Thus, while I am pleased that several items in this bill are being funded in order to provide our troops with the tools, training, and medical services they need and deserve, I am disappointed that, after increasing the funding levels for domestic appropriations bills by an average of 12 percent, the Democrats in control decided only to increase our defense spending by 4.5 percent—less than half—for the coming year.

This is the last appropriations bill, and that is because it has been held in order for the majority to put into it things that are not related, which I will be discussing a bit more, but the substance of the DOD appropriations bill is not the source of my concern.

The extent of the closed rule before us today allows for the consideration of a variety of additional legislation that has been cobbled together without committee consideration. As my colleagues have said before, our colleagues across the aisle have gone to great lengths to shut down debate. Therefore, I urge my colleagues to vote “no” on the rule so the bill can be returned to the committee and can be brought back under regular order.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to a member of the Committee on Rules, the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MCGOVERN).

Mr. MCGOVERN. I thank my colleague for yielding.

Madam Speaker, I rise in support of this rule, and specifically, I rise in support of the Jobs for Main Street Act, which we made in order under this rule. This important bill will provide the following:

$48 billion for highways, transit, and other infrastructure projects; $27 billion to hire teachers, police, firefighters, and for other job training programs. That's $75 billion for job-creating programs that are proven successes and that will help put Americans back to work. On top of that, the Jobs for Main Street Act provides $79 billion in emergency relief funding that will go to critical safety net programs like unemployment benefits, health insurance for unemployed workers, Federal matching funds for Medicaid, and funding for the child tax credit.

All told, Madam Speaker, the Jobs for Main Street Act is a good bill, one that will build on the success of the Recovery Act, which was signed into law earlier this year and which is one that will put people back to work. We know that these are difficult economic times, and we recognize that the American public is hurting. With the Jobs for Main Street Act, we will continue to stimulate the economy, to shrink the unemployment rate, and, more importantly, to create new jobs.

Ten months after President Obama signed the Recovery Act into law, we are seeing real results across the country. According to the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee, real jobs are being created by the Recovery Act, and we are seeing the impact of these jobs in the unemployment figures. Look at the results:

Because of the Recovery Act, we have seen the creation of almost 630,000 direct and indirect jobs in the transportation industry alone. That's 210,000 direct hires alone. The result of these direct hires is a $1.1 billion payroll. It is $179 million in unemployment compensation not spent. It is people's insurance restored, health insurance restored, and it is $230 million in paid Federal taxes. Additional jobs have been created because of the clean water and high-speed rail projects.

All told, the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee estimates that the Recovery Act has created or has sustained approximately 857,000 jobs. All of this underscores the importance of public infrastructure programs. These aren't projects just for the safety and well-being of our friends and neighbors; they are also projects that put these friends and neighbors back to work.

Madam Speaker, this Congress is acting. This House will pass the Jobs for Main Street Act and even more jobs will be created.

Earlier this year, my Republican friends chose politics over the needs of the American people, and every single one of them opposed the Recovery and Reinvestment Act.

They liked the same old, same old. Well, that was their way of thinking. That's the old way of thinking. That way of thinking took Bill Clinton's accomplishments in creating a record number of jobs and eliminating our deficits and paying down the debt and turned it into George Bush's recession, a recession that cost millions of Americans jobs, a recession that added billions and billions to our debt and added that debt on the backs of our children and our grandchildren.

Madam Speaker, people in this country want us to act. People want us to create jobs, and that's what we are going to do.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, I would now like to yield 3 minutes to my very distinguished colleague from Texas, one of only five CPAs in the House, Mr. CONAWAY.

Mr. CONAWAY. I thank the gentleman from North Carolina.

I want to talk to two aspects of this rule, one that sets up the vote on a trick that allows us to vote on the “son of stimulus” bill that will be coming before us later on this afternoon, and that is voting, having stripped out the Senate amendment to H.R. 2847 and put in place this other legislation.

This trick silences the minority one more time. It would not allow for a motion to recommit and/or a substitute on that bill.

This legislation of some $150 billion was apparently thrown together in the dark last night, posted on the Internet about 11:10, so we are now 12 hours and 25 minutes into being able to study this bill, again thrown together. It will increase the deficit in spite of the rhetoric that says we are going to use TARP money to do that.

The intent of TARP all along was once it was paid back was to be back into the Treasury to reduce the amount of money we have to borrow and/or reduce the deficit. There are two provisions in this slush fund and this bill that you need to be aware of. One is that it creates additional billion-dollar spending in the Barney Frank trust fund, the housing slush fund, and makes ACORN available to get back into the game, much to the chagrin of this body, as we voted on.

It also replaces $2 billion in the Cash for Clunkers money that came out of the stimulus bill last summer. We were on the bill when the proponents of the Cash for Clunkers said this will not increase the deficit because we will take it out of the stimulus money. Immediately the Speaker came to the floor, along with the others, and said, au contraire, we will find a replacement for that $2 billion, and it's in this bill.

Now the stimulus bill, the first stimulus, is up to 787 billion, because, as you all know we all enjoyed the Cash for Clunkers work, but this money is back in the bill with respect to the new stimulus.

The other bill I would like to talk about is the Defense Department appropriations bill. This rule waives the demand, waives the requirement that the chairman of the Appropriations Committee post on the Internet the earmarks and/or plus-ups, depending on how you want to call those, in this bill, some 1,700 of them, we were told. Some are good, some are bad, but we ought to know what's in there.

They were shortly posted on the Internet last night for a brief period of time and then taken down. Madam Speaker, I would like to know what's in this bill that embarrasses the majority that they will not allow this transparency to come before us to allow us to look at it. Like I said, I am not against or for any of those necessarily, but we don't know what they are.

By not posting them until after this bill is voted on sometime between now and the end of the year, we are going to be voting blind one more time at the specific request of the majority. It is your responsibility, Madam Speaker, through the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, to have posted these earmarks on the Internet so that those of us could look at them and see them.

We are not going to see those. What has been stuck in here in the dark of night between last summer when we passed the bill and when we are going to vote on this afternoon? Why are there things in there that's going to embarrass the majority before we take this vote?

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote against this rule and against the underlying bill on the "son of stimulus" bill.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from New York, a member of the Committee on Rules, Mr. ARCURI.

Mr. ARCURI. I would like to thank my colleague from Maine for yielding.

I rise today in support of consideration of H.R. 3326, the Department of Defense Appropriations Act and the underlying rule, not for the reasons just stated by my friend from Texas, but because the bill ensures that our brave men and women who are in the military are paid what they deserve to be paid for defending us, that they have the tools to fight the war on terror and that they are able to do the things that we ask them to do, and that is to fight terror, to keep us safe. That is why I support this bill and the underlying rule.

I would like to thank and commend the members of the Appropriations Committee in the House and Senate, their counterparts for bringing before us this bipartisan approach that puts the preparedness and safety of our troops first, and also continues President Obama's pledge to put the cost of the war on the books.

The bill does not include funding for an escalation of troops in Afghanistan, and I have heard some of my colleagues on the other side of the aisle criticize that we may have to consider a supplemental measure to provide funds for that purpose. I want to make it very clear. There is a difference between requesting supplemental funding to address changes on the ground and simply using the supplemental appropriation acts to fund the majority of the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan as we have done under the prior administration.

The House passed our version of the Defense Appropriations Act on July 30 of this year. At that time we determined the amount of spending necessary for the ongoing operation in Iraq and Afghanistan. Since that time, our generals have stated that they believe conditions in Afghanistan warrant additional troops. President Obama is listening to those generals in the field and may require additional funds. However, that is what supplemental appropriations acts are intended for, responding to changes in circumstances throughout the year, not for funding ongoing operations.

In addition to ensuring that our troops have first-class weapons and equipment, the bill also includes other important aspects that improve transparency and accountability of the Defense Department procurement process.

For instance, congressional earmarks account for only 1 percent of the total funding of this bill. In addition, for the first time, this House-Senate agreement retains the requirement that has been included in every House-passed appropriations bill this year that requires any earmark for a private company to be competed.

I applaud the leadership of our side of the Capitol to institute this important new measure of accountability in the earmark process, and I hope that it will become a part of all final spending bills as we go forward.

I urge my colleagues to support this rule and the bill.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, I now would like to yield 3 minutes to another distinguished colleague from Texas (Mr. HENSARLING).

Mr. HENSARLING. I thank the gentlewoman for yielding.

Madam Speaker, apparently the House is due to adjourn for the year today. Before it does, the House will apparently present the American people with a number of Christmas gifts wrapped up in one nice neat little package represented by this rule.

The first Christmas gift that the majority is giving the American people is the fifth, fifth increase in the debt ceiling since they took control of Congress, raising the debt ceiling an additional $290 billion, more debt to be placed upon the backs of our children and grandchildren.

The second gift for the American people at Christmas time is, guess what, yet another stimulus bill, this one weighing in at $150 billion. I lose track, Madam Speaker. I don't know if this is stimulus 4, stimulus 5. It's a little bit like those old "Friday the 13th" movies: it just doesn't go away.

The next gift, Madam Speaker, is kind of a recycled gift, one that they have given the American people all year and that is unemployment, double-digit unemployment under the economic policies of this administration, under this Democratic controlled Congress. They continue to give the American people double-digit unemployment.

The rule that is before us, Madam Speaker, allows for more of the same. I would hope, I would hope that one day, for the sake of the country, that my friends on the other side of the aisle will realize that you cannot spend your way into more jobs, you cannot borrow your way into more jobs, you cannot bail out your way into more jobs. That is not the recipe.

We suffer from double-digit unemployment, not through a lack of bailouts in spending and debt, which is the hallmark of this Congress. If we truly want to create jobs, Madam Speaker, the first thing we have to do is show the American people that we are serious about this sea of red ink. Nobody wants to launch a new business enterprise in an economy that is going to be socked with debt and taxes, impossible double-digit inflation as the debt has to be monetized.

The uncertainty and cost of a nationalized health care system, which is going to cost the American people their freedom, their opportunities—not to mention a trillion dollars. There is a $600 billion energy tax passed by the majority. Last week we just passed the Perpetual Wall Street Bailout and Credit Contraction Act of 2009.

Madam Speaker, where does it all end? If we want jobs, we have to reject the failed policies. This rule brings more of the same. Let's vote against the spending, against the debt, against the bailouts.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, before I yield to one of my colleagues, I do want to mention one point of concern I have in the bill.

The conference agreement on H.R. 3326 is the first step towards cutting wasteful defense spending, but it is by no means perfect. It is no means the last step that we must take. The conference agreement provides $465 million for the development of an alternative engine for the F-35 Joint Strike Fighter. This provision represents businesses as usual in Washington for providing funds for an engine that's already being built and already being built well.

There is no need to devote our precious Federal dollars to a wasteful alternative engine program at this time when Americans are struggling to find jobs to pay their medical bills and to put food on the table. Every defense bill that we spend wisely contributes to our national security, and every defense dollar that we waste hampers our economic security.

Madam Speaker, I would like to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. HARE).

Mr. HARE. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of the rule and the underlying bill, the Jobs for Main Street Act.

First I would like to thank all the members of the Democratic leadership for their hard work in putting together a jobs bill, the Jobs for Main Street Act. It is an important step forward.

As we all know, since December of 2007, our Nation has faced the greatest economic crisis since the Great Depression. As a result, 15 million, or 10 percent, of our Americans are out of work. The Jobs for Main Street Act is an important first step in reemploying America and making our families more secure.

Specifically, I want to call attention to several principles that I have championed that have been included in this bill, such as extending the COBRA subsidy. This is a critical safety net for the millions of unemployed across this country, protecting and expanding our Nation's critical workforce with teachers, police and firefighters; putting people to work to improve and rehabilitate our Federal, State and local public lands.

I would also like to commend Chairman OBERSTAR for his leadership on the transportation and infrastructure portion of this bill. There is no better way to invest in our economy and create jobs than by investing in infrastructure.

For example, only 4 percent of the Recovery Act went to programs under the jurisdiction of Chairman OBERSTAR. However, that 4 percent for infrastructure has created 25 percent of the jobs under the Recovery Act. This is a testament to the effectiveness of investing in infrastructure. Over half of this bill is dedicated to investing in our roads, bridges, trails, transit systems, airports, and waterways.

Madam Speaker, I look forward to working with leadership to ensure that this Congress passes this bill and takes further action in the next session to put Americans back to work.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, I now would like to yield to a third colleague from Texas (Mr. CULBERSON), who has come to speak against this rule, one of the most fiscally conservative Members of the House, such time as he may consume.

Mr. CULBERSON. Madam Speaker, I want us to slow down for just a minute and think about what is happening here today. The House is scheduled to vote today on a package of four massive bills, spending over $1.1 trillion hard-earned tax dollars that will be paid for by additional debt that our children must repay.

Worst of all, these bills were only posted on the Internet last night for the American people to see at about 11 o'clock, so literally 13 hours for the public, for the taxpayers, for the Members of Congress to read these bills spending over $1.1 trillion. And I've scouted around, Madam Speaker, and the only copy of the bill before us, the Defense bill, that anybody can find is the one up there on the Clerk's desk.

These bills were put up on the Internet 13 hours ago. They're not even outside in the House lobby. And it's always tradition that at an absolute minimum that Members of Congress would be able to physically read the bill outside in the lobby. But this is all I found: this empty box outside in the lobby is all we have before us today. And $1.1 trillion spent in a little over 12 hours. Why the rush? Why are we rushing to do this? So Speaker PELOSI can catch a plane to Copenhagen.

We're spending $1.1 trillion on top of the $6.7 trillion that this liberal majority has already spent this year. That means in the course of 12 months, this liberal majority in Congress has already spent in this House nearly $8 trillion in 12 months. It's unprecedented. It is unsupportable. It will bankrupt this Nation and crush our children under a burden of debt that they cannot possibly repay without crushing tax burdens and massive sacrifices. We may be the first generation in American history that leaves our children worse off than the world we inherited from our parents. It's just unacceptable and outrageous.

My colleague Representative BRIAN BAIRD and I, Madam Speaker, introduced legislation earlier this year to require the House to lay these bills out, every bill, for at least 72 hours before they can be voted on on the floor.

And I just would ask the Speaker a simple question: what's more important, giving the American people time to read these bills, to give the Members of Congress time to read these bills, or to catch an airplane to a global warming conference? That's really what's going on here today.

I would ask Speaker PELOSI in all sincerity, Madam Speaker, please cancel your flight. Give the American people time to read these spending bills.

It's time to stop forcing Congress to vote blind.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Members are reminded to direct their remarks to the Chair.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. DICKS), a member of the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. DICKS. I wanted to discuss a change that was made this year in the appropriations process, and I just want to read it into the RECORD to correct something that was said previously.

"Each congressionally directed spending item specified in this Act"—this is the defense bill—"or the explanatory statement regarding this Act that is also identified in Senate report 111-74 and intended for award to a for-profit entity shall be subject to acquisition regulations for full and open competition on the same basis as each spending item intended for a for-profit entity that is contained in the budget request of the President.

"Exceptions: Subsection (a) shall not apply to any contract awarded, (1), by a means that is required by Federal statute, including for a purchase made under a mandated preferential program; (2), pursuant to the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 631 et seq.); or (3), in an amount less than the simplified acquisition threshold described in section 302A(a) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (41 U.S.C. 252a(a)).

"Any congressionally directed spending item specified in this Act or the explanatory statement regarding this Act that is intended for award to a for-profit entity and is not covered by the competition requirement specified in subsection (a), shall be awarded under full and open competition, except that any contract previously awarded under full and open competition that remains in effect during fiscal year 2010 shall be considered to have satisfied the conditions of full and open competition.

"In this section, the term 'congressionally directed spending item' means the following:

"A congressionally directed spending item, as defined in rule XLIV of the Standing Rules of the Senate; a congressional earmark for purposes of rule XXI of the House of Representatives."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. I yield the gentleman an additional 30 seconds.

Mr. DICKS. I think this clarifies the statement that was made previously by the gentleman from Arizona.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, the West continues to be well-represented here. I now yield 3 minutes to our colleague from Arizona (Mr. FLAKE).

Mr. FLAKE. I thank the gentlewoman for yielding.

I had hoped that the gentleman would rise and explain what he just explained.

Now, I will gladly yield to him to explain why this would only apply to earmarks by House Members alone and why the competition requirements don't apply to earmarks that are jointly requested by a House and Senate Member. If we're hanging our hat on language that requires that these earmarks be subject to competition, then surely we would extend it to anything that had our name on it, but we're not.

My understanding is that the language only applies to those earmarks that are requested solely by a House Member, and that if you have a Senate Member on your earmark request, then it is not subject to competition. The language just explained does not apply to it. So you can't have it both ways.

Now, I will argue that it doesn't matter anyway, because right now if you talk to the Department of Defense, and I have, we've held meetings in my office with the procurement officials, and we've asked them, How does this work when these earmarks come over? Are they subject to competition? They said, Yes, we follow the rules. Yet when you ask them to do a cursory examination or a full-fledged examination of those earmarks that were requested in prior years, you will find an uncanny alignment, as you might expect, between the intended recipient and those who actually got the earmarks in the end.

So you can say until you're blue in the face we're going to subject these to full and open competition. The Department of Defense already says that. And these articles that I already talked about, these scandals that are currently underway are under a policy where the Department of Defense already says we subject these to full and open competition. But let me tell you, if an earmark comes over from a Member of Congress, particularly from those on the Appropriations Committee—and I should explain that the majority of these earmarks, a disproportionate number, are from the powerful Members on the Appropriations Committee—believe me, those procurement officials at the Department of Defense take that into account. They know who butters their bread, and they know that they'd better award this contract to the intended recipient or they might not get funded the next year. If that's not the case, why have we seen so much an uncanny alignment between the intended recipient and those who actually got the earmark in the first place?

So, first, again let me say if we're hanging our hat on the language that says these are subject to competition, then why wouldn't we apply it to every earmark that is contained in this bill? It doesn't apply to Senate earmarks, nor does it apply to earmarks requested by both Senate and House Members. So are we saying, well, we're going to subject some to competition and that means something, but these others, yes, it's okay if there are no-bid contracts? That simply doesn't work.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. DICKS).

Mr. DICKS. Again I want to just say this is an initiative that Mr. OBEY put into place this year. This is the first year we've had this initiative. And what it says is that if an earmark is directed to a for-profit company, there must be full and open competition. This was extended to the United States Senate as well.

So, again, the gentleman from Arizona misleads the House of Representatives on a very important and a very sensitive matter.

There ought to be competition on these things, and I thought the gentleman would recognize how important it was and compliment Mr. OBEY for his initiative, but I don't hear that.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, having a charge of misspeaking is very serious. I would like, therefore, to yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. FLAKE) to speak again on the rule.

Mr. FLAKE. I thank the gentlewoman for her indulgence here.

This is important, and I would ask the gentleman and would yield to him to respond, is it your understanding, then, that this language, this new competition language, applies to Senate earmarks as well as earmarks requested by both House and Senate Members?

Mr. DICKS. It is my understanding that the language that came out of conference applies both to the House and Senate earmarks for for-profit companies requiring competition. There are some little variations because of Section 8(a) and other restrictions that the Senate still claims that should be followed, but this is a major step forward, and I think Mr. OBEY deserves great credit for this. So I just want to clear this up, that on district directed for-profit companies there is full and open competition.

Mr. FLAKE. I thank the gentleman. Let me simply say if that is the case, that is in conflict with the agreement that we understand to be in effect.

The agreement we understand to be in effect and what I was told is that only those earmarks that are requested solely by a House Member has the language that applies to competition. If it is an earmark requested by both a House and a Senate Member, then it does not apply this year, and supposedly it will next year, although obviously there are no guarantees. We can't bind a future session. And that if it is a Senate earmark, they didn't agree to this at all. That's what we understand. If there is some difference there, then please let's have the chairman of the Appropriations Committee explain it.

But, again, the question here is if that language is so important, then why wouldn't we apply it across the board?

And doesn't it strike everybody a little bit funny that you have an earmark that, when a Member requests it from the Appropriations Committee, they say this earmark of this amount, $500,000, $2 million, $2.5 million, whatever, is to go to this company at this address? It's that specific. It goes to that company at that address.

Now, the Appropriations Committee will say we're just providing a look-see, and so the Department of Defense can say, well, we didn't know that that company existed but now we do, and we're doing nothing more than simply giving them a look-see and giving them a chance to see which companies those are. I think that doesn't quite pass the laugh test.

Mr. DICKS. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. FLAKE. Yes, I will.

Mr. DICKS. I think the gentleman is trying to confuse himself.

Clearly what we're talking about here is that there has been a decision to have full and open competitions. The gentleman has been an advocate for that. It doesn't matter how it's written in. The law says "full and open competition." So please don't try to confuse yourself and the House and the American people. This is a reform that you've been advocating for. You ought to be saying thank you for doing it, and it's the right thing to do. But you'd rather have the issue than to resolve something.

Mr. FLAKE. I thank the gentleman for explaining my motives.

But in truth what I would like to see is no more earmarks in the defense bill because when you have an earmark, you don't have full and open competition. What I'm talking about is I would not like to see no-bid contracts for private companies in the defense bill. When you have that, I don't know how in the world you can say we have full and open competition.

Like I say, I don't believe that that language means much at all, but to the extent that you believe it does mean something, then at least you should apply it across the board, not just to earmarks sought by Members of the House solely but those earmarks that are requested by Senate Members as well. How can we say with a straight face that, hey, we're doing things right because we're applying that competition language to us, but all you have to do is to get a Senate Member to request it along with you and then you don't have to subject it to full and open competition. It simply doesn't make sense, Madam Speaker.

I thank the gentlewoman for her indulgence and I appreciate this discussion.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair reminds Members to direct their remarks to the Chair.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Let me thank the distinguished gentlelady from Maine.

Madam Speaker, I wish to start by wishing America a very Merry Christmas, and to many other Americans, a happy holiday. And I'd like to give my thanks to the Rules Committee and the staff of the Rules Committee for doing an enormous job. Our chairwoman, LOUISE SLAUGHTER, has been at the forefront of the major successes we have had on behalf of the American people. I offer my appreciation as well for Chairman JOHN MURTHA, who, in his astuteness and commitment to the men and women of the United States military, finds many of us today supporting the Defense appropriations bill, even as we begin to consider the next steps in Afghanistan.

But why am I standing here today to be able to speak to my colleagues and the American people? One, because history gets distorted. We are in this predicament because the last administration of Republican leadership took away our surplus that had been created in the 1990s. They dashed and dashed and destroyed and devastated. Isn't it interesting that you'd come now to complain about a leadership, President and Democratic leadership in Congress, that have had to make the political sacrifice to ensure that Americans can work?

And so let me just set the record straight. The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act—that secured no Republican votes—created 3.5 million jobs and gave 95 percent of American workers a tax cut. And today, as we speak, we are cutting the job loss every single month. Why I'm standing here today is because I'm enthusiastically supporting this rule, because we will then pass a jobs bill, and I will be able to go home to those in the 18th Congressional District who told me over the Thanksgiving holiday as I was participating in feeding those on Thanksgiving Day, I lost my job from a major corporation. Well, I'm going to tell them that because of infrastructure funding, $48 billion, in fact, that we will be able to invest in highways and mass transit. One billion dollars in Federal investments to highways creates 27,800 jobs. Is there something wrong with that? The wrongness of it is that the other side is not thinking about the American people, and has not had a good thought about how to invest in America.

This jobs bill is going to keep States from cutting teachers and police and firefighters, and it's going to provide job training. I am proud that they have taken my ideas and many of our ideas, but work that I have done on summer youth jobs. They're going to put 150,000 people in job training positions. One of the ideas that can be incorporated that I have put forward in a bill is to make sure that people can keep their unemployment while they are in a job training and receive a stipend. Dignity, jobs, is what we're talking about.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentlewoman has expired.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. I yield the gentlewoman 15 additional seconds.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. And then, my small business friends, once and for all we'll answer your question about getting loans. But the big thing is, Riverside General Hospital, because of the astuteness of those who worked on the Defense bill, will get $1 million for the first time, an African American hospital, to help our soldiers with post-traumatic stress disorder. I have worked on this for 4 years. It's a celebration. Merry Christmas to America.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, I want to say thank you to our colleague from Arizona for his very valuable input on the issue of earmarks, and say that I join him in opposing all earmarks in any of our bills until we fix this broken system. And I think what we need is a study of how these specific earmarks then get awarded, since there seems to be open competition. And I would welcome the majority to institute such a study and just see how open the competition is.

I now yield 3 minutes to my colleague from Iowa (Mr. KING).

Mr. KING of Iowa. Madam Speaker, before I take up the subject that I came here to talk about, I can't help but remark that the gentlelady from Texas said that the people on our side had not had a good thought about how to invest in America. Not a good thought. I would submit that the good thoughts are right there on the immigration naturalization flash cards. What is the economic system of America? Flip the card over, and if you want to be naturalized as a citizen, you need to answer the question this way. Free enterprise capitalism.

Free enterprise capitalism has been the enemy of this administration. Tim Geithner said that free enterprise capitalism is what brought us to the brink of ruin. Can you imagine tearing asunder the very foundation, one of the principal pillars of American exceptionalism, and arguing that those that have stood up and defended it and refurbished it somehow hadn't had a good thought about America.

I would ask again, why do we need African American hospitals? Why can't we have hospitals that take care of God's children? Why can't we all be members of the human race? Why is there any legislation that's brought into this Congress that sets aside special privileges for people based upon their skin color rather than the content of their character? I think that this is the wrong path. We've got to embrace each other as individuals. This wallowing in self-guilt has gone on and on, Madam Speaker.

We had a President—Clinton—that went and apologized to entire continents. Now we have a President Obama that has apologized to entire continents as well for Americanism. In this bill, on page 109 of the bill, we have another apology, an apology from Congress. First, it's got some good things in there. It talks about Native Americans. It recognizes the special legal and political relationship that Indian tribes have in the United States. That's good. It commends the Native Peoples for the thousands of years they have stewarded and protected this land. Part of that's real good. Part of that record's not real good. This doesn't say so. In fact, the third piece says it recognizes that there have been years of official depredations, ill-conceived policies, and the breaking of covenants by the Federal Government regarding Indian tribes. That's true. There's also another side to that thing that isn't negative.

And now it says, on page 109 of the bill, we, as Congress, ask the President—the United States, acting through Congress, actually—to apologize on behalf of the people of the United States to all Native Peoples for the many instances of violence, maltreatment, and neglect inflicted on Native Peoples by citizens of the United States; as if there were no guilt on the other side.

Madam Speaker, I would direct the attention of this body to the Declaration of Independence. And there, on paragraph 29 of 32, as I count them, it says, and I'm going to stop short of violating the political correctness, but I am going to read directly from the Declaration of Independence.

He has excited domestic insurrections among us—speaking of King George—and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, and there I stop and commend the text of the Declaration of Independence which apparently violates this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. KING of Iowa. I urge the rejection of this rule for this and many other reasons.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CUMMINGS).

Mr. CUMMINGS. Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of the rule and the underlying bill, H.R. 2847, the Jobs for Main Street Act.

As a member of the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee and chairman of the Coast Guard and Maritime Transportation Subcommittee, I've seen hundreds of thousands of jobs created through infrastructure funding. I've seen improvements created by that funding slow the recession and help begin our recovery. However, that recovery is simply not complete. We still have far too many Americans without jobs.

The COBRA, unemployment and food stamp extensions in this bill are crucial to help those who are in need or who have lost a job through no fault of their own. These small lifelines can be immense to those who are suffering. For some Americans who still face foreclosure, this funding can help keep them in their homes so that the loss of their job does not result in the further devastation of an entire family.

Finally, the jobs we create through our work today must be open to all Americans, including the minority communities who are being particularly decimated by unemployment, foreclosure and a crisis of credit.

Before we passed the Recovery Act, I requested bonding assistance, allowing small and disadvantaged businesses to obtain the insurance they needed to win contracts to become prime contractors and to hire workers. The bonding assistance program created in that act led to much-needed jobs in minority communities, and so I requested further such assistance in this act. The $20 million included in this bill today will ensure that jobs created will be available to every American and every business in every community so they can compete on an even playing field.

I support fair competition for government projects and the jobs that they will create. I encourage all my colleagues to support the underlying bill and the rule that will bring this matter to the floor.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, you know, I'm sitting here listening to the crocodile tears, particularly of my colleague from Maine who spoke earlier about the many people in her district who want to have jobs. And it is the very policies that she and her party have passed in this session of Congress that have caused those people to lose their jobs. What we need to do is let the American people keep their money. Their money. It is not the government's money. It is the hard-earned money of those who work in this country.

And let me point out, even President Obama has said, and I'm going to quote, November 18, 2009: It is important, though, to recognize if we keep on adding to the debt, even in the midst of this recovery, that at some point people could lose confidence in the U.S. economy in a way that can actually lead to a double dip recession.

But what are we doing today? Adding to the debt, with the support of the President. Do they think the American people are not paying attention? To the contrary, more than ever, the American people are paying attention to what's going on in this Congress, and they have spoken in many, many ways. They have spoken through the polls, they have spoken through election polls in terms of where they're voting, and they're telling us every day this is not what they want this Congress to be doing.

They also are aware of the fact that this Congress is breaking every promise that it made before the majority was elected. And I want to say, with apologies to Elizabeth Barrett Browning and her sonnet No. 43, how many ways can we count the promises that have been broken? Many, many ways. Too many ways to talk about today.

But let me give some examples—one from Majority Leader HOYER:

"I think that is a very important pursuit. Our committees and Members are served on both sides of the aisle by pursuing regular order. Regular order gives to everybody the opportunity to participate in the process in a fashion which will effect, in my opinion, the most consensus and best product."

Again, a letter to Majority Leader HOYER from members of the Democrat Blue Dog and New Democratic Caucuses which said:

"Committees must function thoroughly and inclusively, and cooperation must ensue between the parties and the Houses to ensure that our legislative tactics enable rather than impede progress. In general, we must engender an atmosphere that allows partisan games to cease and collaboration to succeed. We look forward to working with you to restore this institution."

And what are we getting? Just the opposite. Even Speaker PELOSI endorsed the idea of regular order with her spokesperson stating at the time:

"The Speaker prefers to consider legislation in regular order and the committees of jurisdiction held hearings and markups on the current economic recovery bill. In a few cases, because of urgent financial crises, the leadership agreed to use expedited procedures."

Let us forget, promises Democrats made in their 2006 document entitled A New Direction for America, which promised that:

"Bills should be developed following full hearings and open subcommittee and committee markups with appropriate referrals to other committees. Members should have at least 24 hours to examine a bill prior to consideration at the subcommittee level."

And we've pointed out it's barely been 12 hours since this bill, the bill underlying this rule, was presented.

"Bills should generally come to the floor under a procedure that allows open, full and fair debate, consisting of a full amendment process that grants the minority the right to offer its alternatives, including a substitute."

As Mr. DREIER pointed out earlier, this is the first Congress in the history of this country that has not allowed that.

□ 1230

"Members should have at least 24 hours to examine bill and conference report text prior to floor consideration. Rules governing for debate must be reported before 10 p.m. for a bill to be considered the following day."

We can go on and on and on about promises broken. The President said bills would be available for 72 hours. The President promised he would post bills 5 days before signing them. He said he would read every bill line for line, and he said there would be no earmarks. He would veto bills with earmarks.

This is a bill with 1,700 earmarks. Is he going to veto the bill? I doubt it.

So here we have one promise after another that's broken. How can the American people believe anything that is said by the other side after this?

Again, they're paying attention. I know they're paying attention, and I believe that there will be consequences to the fact that these promises have been broken.

Madam Speaker, I will enter into the RECORD a letter written by Republicans, 173 of us, to Speaker PELOSI on December 11, 2009, asking that we not continue this practice.

WASHINGTON, DC,

Hon. NANCY PELOSI,
Speaker of the House, The Capitol,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MADAM SPEAKER: We write today to express our strong opposition to reports that the Democrat Majority is considering attaching unrelated and extremely controversial proposals, such as an increase in the public debt limit, to the Fiscal Year 2010 Defense Appropriations bill. We object to maneuvers to use our troops as leverage to enact proposals that the Majority either cannot pass on their own or for which they wish to avoid directly voting on and we will oppose a Defense Appropriations package that includes such provisions.

Unfortunately, there seems to be a pattern developing this year of using legislation that supports our men and women in uniform to pass other contentious proposals that are extraneous to our troops. We should supply those who risk their lives for our country with the resources they need without conditions and without using them to accomplish other legislative goals. House Republicans stand ready to help the Majority enact a defense bill that meets the needs of our troops, but we will not assist your effort to use the troops to enact an increase in our national debt limit so as to finance the irresponsible spending policies of your party.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, I rise to discuss at least one thing my colleague and friend from North Carolina mentioned. I'm a Northerner, so I can't claim to be an expert on crocodiles, but I assume that when you're talking about crocodile tears, you're talking about being insincere, and I want to say I receive letters from my constituents every day about the urgency of what we are doing today. And I have to say that like it or not, I cannot get through the pile of letters without crying tears for real. It's very, very difficult to think about the small businesses, laid-off individuals, individuals worrying about their jobs, what they're going through in my district and the urgency with which they view the actions that we are about to take today and the importance of moving on from this rule and getting to the actual debate.

I want to read one of them that is in front of me here before I yield a little time to my colleague from California.

This one says: "My housemate and I were both laid off, me in September 08 and she in February 09. We have applied diligently for work in and around Portland with no luck. We had to cash in our meager 401(k)'s, and have been very thankful for the COBRA subsidy so that we could afford insurance during this most harsh of times. But our money is running out fast.

"As you know, the subsidy is about to expire, and we cannot afford the huge jump in premium. We cannot afford both the mortgage and the insurance. We cannot afford our prescriptions, and our health care will be at stake, as if things weren't bad enough. We will lose our home.

"PLEASE help push through the COBRA extension and continuation of the ARRA COBRA subsidy. It is an immediate fix for so many families who will surely gain employment over the next 6 months now that the economy has finally taken an upswing."

Madam Speaker, those are the things that make us all cry real tears and make us want to pass this rule and go on to passing this legislation today.

Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. GARAMENDI).

Mr. GARAMENDI. Madam Speaker, I just heard a fine exposition on promises. There is one promise that overrides all of the others, and that's the promise that I think each one of us made to our constituents to do everything that we possibly could to see that they were well cared for and that this government was acting on their behalf. If we are simply looking at a rule and whether it's going to be applied and that becomes the most important promise of all, then we are forgetting about the well-being of Americans, of whom there are 35 million unemployed, of whom there are, in my district, tens of thousands, more than one out of eight either unemployed or underemployed. My promise to those people is that I will do everything I possibly can to see that they have a job.

This rule allows us to get to that. It allows us to get to the point of providing a jobs program that's going to provide at least $35 billion for highways and transit, that's going to provide some 500,000 young men and women the opportunity to have summer jobs, to expand AmeriCorps so that people can provide services and employment.

It's also going to take care of those who are unemployed, who, for no reason of their own, have found themselves out of a job. It's time for us to stand for them, and it's, frankly, time for us to move away from the notion of just providing those unemployment benefits to providing a job.

Far better that there be taxpayers than tax receivers. That's what this is about. It gives us an opportunity to do that, and we will do everything we possibly can on our side of the aisle to make the fundamental promise of making sure that the Federal Government is doing everything it possibly can to provide jobs and opportunities for businesses, for employment, and for taxpayers to actually have a job so they can pay taxes.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, I would just like to point out it's not the role of Federal Government to provide jobs. It's not our job to take money from some and give to others, to try to make them dependent on the government.

I urge my colleagues, Madam Speaker, to defeat the previous question so an amendment can be added to the rule. The amendment to the rule will provide for separate consideration of House Resolution 554, a resolution to require that legislation and conference reports be posted on the Internet for 72 hours prior to consideration by the House, and does not affect the bill made in order by the rule.

I will insert the text of the amendment and extraneous materials immediately prior to the vote on the previous question, and I ask my colleagues to vote "no" on the previous question and the rule.

I yield back the balance of my time. Ms. PINGREE of Maine. Madam Speaker, the legislation we are considering today is about investing in jobs. It is about investing in infrastructure, and it is about rebalancing our economy. So it's not just the big banks and Wall Street firms that benefit from an economic recovery. This bill is about helping the American family.

This week, a New York Times/CBS News poll surveyed unemployed Americans. Not surprisingly, they found that being unemployed takes a toll far beyond what can be measured in dollars and cents. Half of the people surveyed said they had begun to suffer from depression and anxiety, half said the recession has caused them to make major life changes, and nearly half said they have seen changes in their children's behavior that they know is a result of their difficult financial situation.

We are not just helping men and women who've lost their job, who have suffered from uncertainty, emotional pain, and indignation, but we are helping their families. We are helping their children. It is time for us to invest in the jobs and policies that will get the American Dream back on track and restore the promise of opportunity and prosperity for everyone.

I urge a "yes" vote on the previous question and on the rule.

The material previously referred to by Ms. FOXX is as follows:

OFFERED BY MS. FOXX

At the end of the resolution, insert the following new section:

SEC. 32. On the third legislative day after the adoption of this resolution, immediately after the third daily order of business under clause 1 of rule XIV and without intervention of any point of order, the House shall proceed to the consideration of the resolution (H. Res. 554) amending the Rules of the House of Representatives to require that legislation and conference reports be available on the Internet for 72 hours before consideration by the House, and for other purposes. The resolution shall be considered as read. The previous question shall be considered as ordered on the resolution and any amendment thereto to final adoption without intervening motion or demand for division of the question except: (1) one hour of debate equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Rules; (2) an amendment, if offered by the Minority Leader or his designee and if printed in that portion of the Congressional Record designated for that purpose in clause 8 of rule XVIII at least one legislative day prior to its consideration, which shall be in order without intervention of any point of order or demand for division of the question, shall be considered as read and shall be separately debatable for twenty minutes equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent; and (3) one motion to recommit which shall not contain instructions. Clause 1(c) of rule XIX shall not apply to the consideration of House Resolution 554.

THE VOTE ON THE PREVIOUS QUESTION: WHAT IT REALLY MEANS

This vote, the vote on whether to order the previous question on a special rule, is not merely a procedural vote. A vote against ordering the previous question is a vote against the Democratic majority agenda and a vote to allow the opposition, at least for the moment, to offer an alternative plan. It is a vote about what the House should be debating.

Mr. Clarence Cannon's Precedents of the House of Representatives, (VI, 308-311) describes the vote on the previous question on the rule as "a motion to direct or control the consideration of the subject before the House being made by the Member in charge." To defeat the previous question is to give the opposition a chance to decide the subject before the House. Cannon cites the Speaker's ruling of January 13, 1920, to the effect that "the refusal of the House to sustain the demand for the previous question passes the control of the resolution to the opposition" in order to offer an amendment. On March 15, 1909, a member of the majority party offered a rule resolution. The House defeated the previous question and a member of the opposition rose to a parliamentary inquiry, asking who was entitled to recognition. Speaker Joseph G. Cannon (R-Illinois) said: "The previous question having been refused, the gentleman from New York, Mr. Fitzgerald, who had asked the gentleman to yield to him for an amendment, is entitled to the first recognition."

Because the vote today may look bad for the Democratic majority they will say "the vote on the previous question is simply a vote on whether to proceed to an immediate vote on adopting the resolution . . . [and] has no substantive legislative or policy implications whatsoever." But that is not what they have always said. Listen to the definition of the previous question used in the Floor Procedures Manual published by the Rules Committee in the 109th Congress, (page 56). Here's how the Rules Committee described the rule using information from Congressional Quarterly's "American Congressional Dictionary": "If the previous question is defeated, control of debate shifts to the leading opposition member (usually the minority Floor Manager) who then manages an hour of debate and may offer a germane amendment to the pending business."

Deschler's Procedure in the U.S. House of Representatives, the subchapter titled "Amending Special Rules" states: "a refusal to order the previous question on such a rule [a special rule reported from the Committee on Rules] opens the resolution to amendment and further debate." (Chapter 21, section 21.2) Section 21.3 continues: "Upon rejection of the motion for the previous question on a resolution reported from the Committee on Rules, control shifts to the Member leading the opposition to the previous question, who may offer a proper amendment or motion and who controls the time for debate thereon."

Clearly, the vote on the previous question on a rule does have substantive policy implications. It is one of the only available tools for those who oppose the Democratic majority's agenda and allows those with alternative views the opportunity to offer an alternative plan.

Ms. PINGREE of Maine. I yield back the balance of my time and move the previous question on the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on ordering the previous question.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 and clause 9 of rule XX, this 15-minute vote on ordering the previous question will be followed by 5-minute votes on adoption of H. Res. 976, if ordered, and suspension of the rules with regard to H. Res. 905.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 235, nays 193, not voting 6, as follows:

SEC. 8108. (a) FINDINGS.—The Senate makes the following findings:

(1) Real time intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance (ISR) is critical to our warfighters in fighting the ongoing wars in Iraq and Afghanistan.

(2) Secretary of Defense Gates and the military leadership of the United States have highlighted the importance of collecting and disseminating critical intelligence and battlefield information to our troops on the ground in Iraq and Afghanistan.

(3) The Chief of Staff of the Air Force, General Norton Schwartz, has stated that the Air Force is “all-in” for the joint fight.

(4) One of the most effective and heavily tasked intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance assets operating today is the Air Force’s E-8C Joint Surveillance Target Attack Radar System, also known as Joint STARS.

(5) Commanders in the field rely on Joint STARS to give them a long range view of the battlefield and detect moving targets in all weather conditions as well as tactical support to Brigade Combat Teams, Joint Tactical Air Controllers and Special Operations Forces convoy overwatch.

(6) Joint STARS is a joint platform, flown by a mix of active duty Air Force and Air National Guard personnel and operated by a joint Army, Air Force, and Marine crew, supporting missions for all the Armed Forces.

(7) With a limited number of airframes, Joint STARS has flown over 55,000 combat hours and 900 sorties over Iraq and Afghanistan and directly contributed to the discovery of hundreds of Improvised Explosive Devices.

(8) The current engines greatly limit the performance of Joint STARS aircraft and are the highest cause of maintenance problems and mission aborts.

(9) There is no other current or programmed aircraft or weapon system that can provide the detailed, broad-area ground moving target indicator (GMTI) and airborne battle management support for the warfighter that Joint STARS provides.

(10) With the significant operational savings that new engines will bring to the Joint STARS, re-engining Joint STARS will pay for itself by 2017 due to reduced operations, sustainment, and fuel costs.

(11) In December 2002, a JSTARS re-engining study determined that re-engining provided significant benefits and cost savings. However, delays in executing the re-engining program continue to result in increased costs for the re-engining effort.

(12) The budget request for the Department of Defense for fiscal year 2010 included $205,000,000 in Aircraft Procurement, Air Force, and $16,000,000 in Research, Development, Test, and Evaluation, Air Force for Joint STARS re-engining.

(13) On September 22, 2009, the Department of Defense re-affirmed their support for the President’s Budget request for Joint STARS re-engining.

(14) On September 30, 2009, the Undersecretary of Defense (Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics) signed an Acquisition Decision Memorandum directing that the Air Force proceed with the Joint STARS re-engining effort, to include expenditure of procurement and research, development, test, and evaluation funds.

(b) SENSE OF SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) Funds for re-engining of the E-8C Joint Surveillance Target Attack Radar System (Joint STARS) should be appropriated in the correct appropriations accounts and in the amounts required in fiscal year 2010 to execute the Joint STARS Re-Engining System Design and Development Program; and

(2) the Air Force should proceed with currently planned efforts to re-engine Joint STARS aircraft, to include expending both procurement and research, development, test, and evaluation funds.

(B) related threat reduction technologies; and

(2) the Administrator for Nuclear Security should expand the mission of the Nevada Test Site to carry out the role described in paragraph (1), including by—

(A) fully utilizing the inherent capabilities and uniquely secure location of the Site;

(B) continuing to support the Nation's nuclear weapons program and other national security programs; and

(C) renaming the Site to reflect the expanded mission of the Site.

(b) Not later than one year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator for Nuclear Security shall submit to the congressional defense committees a plan for improving the infrastructure of the Nevada Test Site of the National Nuclear Security Administration and, if the Administrator deems appropriate, all other sites under the jurisdiction of the National Nuclear Security Administration—

(1) to fulfill the expanded mission of the Site described in subsection (a); and

The gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. MURTHA) and the gentleman from Florida (Mr. YOUNG) each will control 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. MURTHA. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and to include tabular and extraneous material.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

Mr. MURTHA. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, Members of the House, this is the largest appropriations bill that we have ever handled. It was completely bipartisan. We never did anything without working together. It is basically the same bill we voted on before it went to the Senate but with a few minor changes. I am pleased to say that we made some conciliatory changes with the White House and also with the Senate. This, as a matter of fact, is $625 billion. The House passed $636 billion. It pays for first-class medical care for military personnel.

I have to say I don't usually talk on any one thing, but having been out at Bethesda in intensive care for 2 days, I have to endorse the money that we have spent on the care at Bethesda. They did a marvelous job, and I am so pleased about the way the money is being handled out there.

Medical research, of course, the committee under my leadership and under the leadership of JERRY LEWIS and BILL YOUNG, has always been in the forefront. There are peer-reviewed programs, which have turned out to be as good as any programs you will find any place. We are supporting military families, operations and maintenance, civilian workforce, and insourcing. We are trying to reduce the contractors, and we are struggling in doing that. The inspector of general oversight, we worked at that for 2 or 3 years. This bill includes the MRAP program and $526 million for situational awareness.

In other words, this is as good a bill as we could come up with given the amount of money that was apportioned to us.

The Fiscal Year 2010 Defense Appropriations Bill puts troops first, ensuring their readiness, providing them with first class weapons and equipment, and ensuring the availability of care and support for their families.

The bill makes critical investments in the health, well-being and readiness of our armed forces; addressing issues raised by service members, their families, and Department of Defense officials in testimony before the Congress, and discovered through visits to military bases across the United States and overseas. The bill also reins in the use of contractors and begins to return inherently governmental functions to Department of Defense personnel.

For the first time since the beginning of operations in Iraq, this bill includes funding for Overseas Contingency Operations in Afghanistan and Iraq for the upcoming fiscal year; providing $128.3 billion to support current operations, and to meet the needs of our troops in the field and their families here at home. The bill does not address the President's new Afghanistan security strategy because the Administration has yet to request funding for that initiative.

[Bill total in billions]

2009 Total Enacted .....	$625.3
President's Request .....	640.1
House Passed .....	636.3
Senate Passed .....	636.3
2010 Total Bill .....	636.3

The increase includes $307 million above the request to provide for shortfalls in the TRICARE program. The bill also includes $300 million above the request for transportation infrastructure issues related to base closure.

To provide quality medical care for service members and their families, and address the serious financial challenges facing the Defense Health Program, the bill recommends the following funding:

HIV Research .....	$20,000,000
Wound Care Research .....	13,000,000
Traumatic Brain Injury and Psychological Health Research ($372m budget + $120m over budget) .....	120,000,000

The bill includes funding for quality child care, job training for spouses, and expanded counseling and outreach to families that have experienced the separation and stress of war. The bill fully funds $472.4 million for Family Advocacy programs and fully funds Family Support and Yellow Ribbon programs.

Operation and Maintenance: The bill recommends $154 billion for operation and maintenance, an increase of $1.3 billion above the fiscal year 2009 enacted level. The recommendation includes funding above the budget request for the following items:

Hybrid Operations Readiness Training (Hybrid—DoD's new terminology for full-spectrum training) .....	$43,000,000
Army Helicopter Readiness Training .....	142,000,000

Navy Aircraft Depot Maintenance .....	35,000,000
Environmental Restoration .....	32,500,000

The recommendation rebalances funding from preparing for Cold War-era types of conflicts to the highest priority readiness requirements for the hybrid operations that the military services will be facing for the foreseeable future. The bill also includes adjustments based on trends in DoD budget execution.

Civilian Workforce and In-Sourcing: The bill supports increased funding for DoD civilian personnel to in-source workload. The Department estimates that every position converted from contract to federal civilian saves on average $44,000 per year. Additionally, the bill includes general provisions to suspend further conversions by the Department of Defense from government functions to contractors.

The bill also includes $100 million, as requested, to fund further development and training for the DoD acquisition workforce.

Inspector General Oversight: the bill includes $288 million, $16 million above the request, for the Inspector General to hire additional investigators to ensure proper oversight of DoD acquisition and contracting.

Additionally, this funding provides for the final increments of funding for the CVN-78 Aircraft Carrier, the third DDG-1000 Guided Missile Destroyer, and the tenth LPD-17 Amphibious Transport Dock.

$30 million, not requested, for the shipbuilding loan guarantee program to assist in stimulating the domestic shipbuilding industry.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF HOUSE AMENDMENT TO THE SENATE AMENDMENT TO H.R. 3326—DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2010

DIVISION A DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS ACT, FISCAL YEAR 2010

Following is an explanation of the effects of Division A, which makes appropriations for the Department of Defense for fiscal year 2010. As provided in Section 8124 of the consolidated bill, this explanatory statement shall have the same effect with respect to the allocation of funds and the implementation of this as if it were a joint explanatory statement of a committee of the conference.

The recommendation on the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2010, incorporates some of the provisions of both the House and Senate versions of the bill. The language and allocations set forth in House Report 111-230 and Senate Report 111-74 should be complied with unless specifically addressed to the contrary in the accompanying bill and explanatory statement.

The Senate amendment deleted the entire House bill after the enacting clause and inserted new language. The recommendation includes revised language.

DEFINITION OF PROGRAM, PROJECT, AND ACTIVITY

For the purposes of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 (Public Law 99-177) as amended by the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Reaffirmation Act of 1987 (Public Law 100-119) and by the Budget Enforcement Act of 1990 (Public Law 101-508), the term program, project, and activity for appropriations contained in this Act shall be defined as the most specific level of budget items identified in the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2010, the related classified annexes and explanatory statements, and the P-1 and R-1 budget justification documents as subsequently modified by congressional action. The following exception to the above definition shall apply: for the military personnel and the operation and maintenance accounts, for which the term "program, project, and activity" is defined as the appropriations accounts contained in the Department of Defense Appropriations Act.

At the time the President submits the budget for fiscal year 2011, the Secretary of Defense is directed to transmit to the congressional defense committees budget justification documents to be known as the "M-1" and "0-1" which shall identify, at the budget activity, activity group, and sub-activity group level, the amounts requested by the President to be appropriated to the Department of Defense for military personnel and operation and maintenance in any budget request, or amended budget request, for fiscal year 2011.

CLASSIFIED ANNEX

Adjustments to classified programs are addressed in the accompanying classified annex.

CONGRESSIONAL SPECIAL INTEREST ITEMS

Items for which additional funds have been provided as shown in the project level tables or in paragraphs using the phrase "only for" or "only to" are congressional special interest items for purposes of the Base for Reprogramming (DD Form 1414). Each of these items must be carried on the DD Form 1414 at the stated amount, as specifically addressed in these materials.

REPROGRAMMING GUIDANCE

The Department of Defense is directed to follow the reprogramming guidance for acquisition accounts as contained herein under titles III and IV. For operation and maintenance accounts, the Department shall follow the reprogramming guidelines contained herein under title II. The dollar threshold for reprogramming funds shall remain at $15,000,000 for operation and maintenance; $20,000,000 for procurement; and $10,000,000 for research, development, test and evaluation.

Also, the Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller) is directed to continue to provide the congressional defense committees quarterly, spreadsheet-based DD Form 1416 reports for service and defense-wide accounts in titles I, II, III and IV of this Act. The Department shall continue to follow the limitation that prior approval reprogrammings are set at either the specified dollar threshold or 20 percent of the procurement or research, development, test and evaluation line, whichever is less. The percentage change limitation applies to both the program increases and decreases. Additionally, this percentage change applies to the program base value at the time the below threshold movement of funds is executed. These thresholds are cumulative from the base for reprogramming as made by any adjustment action.

Therefore, if the combined value of transfers into or out of operation and maintenance (0-1), a procurement (P-1) or research, development, test and evaluation (R-1) line exceed the identified threshold, the Department of Defense must submit a prior approval reprogramming to the congressional defense committees. In addition, guidelines on the application of prior approval reprogramming procedures for congressional special interest items are established elsewhere in these materials.

FUNDING INCREASES

The funding increases outlined in the tables for each appropriation account shall be provided only for the specific purposes indicated in the table.

JOINT SURVEILLANCE-TARGET ATTACK RADAR SYSTEM (JSTARS) PROGRAM

The Department of Defense decision to proceed with the JSTARS re-engineing program is supported in the recommendation. It is noted that the JSTARS program has been used as a source of funds for reprogrammings in the past. The Air Force is encouraged to restore those prior year funds if additional resources are needed. The recommendation provides, $115,900,000, an increase of $46,000,000, in the Research, Development, Test and Evaluation funding and provides $54,000,000 in the Aircraft Procurement, Air Force appropriation.

The recommendation does not include language that restricts the obligation of funds for the JSTARS re-engineing program, as provided in the Senate report.

In addition, the Air Force is not directed to transfer a SYERS-3 sensor to complete the SYERS Demonstration Program. The Air Force should have the sensor for an adequate time, and the necessary financial resources have already been appropriated to ensure completion of the demonstration program. The Secretary of the Air Force is directed to submit a written notification to the congressional defense committees on the status of the demonstration program not later than 60 days after the enactment of this Act.

COMBAT AIR FORCE RESTRUCTURE

The lack of detail and analysis provided to the Congress regarding the Air Force's Combat Air Force restructure plan that would retire 248 legacy F-15, F-16 and A-10 aircraft is concerning. Therefore, it is directed that the reports stipulated in Sec. 1075 of the Conference Report accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act of Fiscal Year 2010 also be transmitted to the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate.

Additionally, there is concern with the personnel costs and potential acquisition costs associated with the Air Force proposal to remove the training of F-15 pilots and related personnel from Tyndall Air Force Base. The Secretary of the Air Force is directed to provide a cost-benefit analysis of this proposal regarding Tyndall Air Force Base and Kingsley Field in Klamath Falls which shall include an analysis of factors impacting F-15 training quantity and quality at each location, to include training synergies, airspace access and availability. The report shall identify and explain the justification for where F-15 Basic Crew Chief Training, Air Control Squadron Training and Intelligence Formal Training will be established and maintained. The report shall include analysis on simulator and ancillary training access, expected effect on the quality and experience of the instructor base, future military construction requirements and special considerations and costs required due to the differing training environments and climatology at each base.

Moreover, the Department is requested to identify airfields that share runways for both Air Force and commercial operations within the continental United States. The Department is requested to include Air Force policy on and analysis of the training and operational mission impacts at bases with shared runways.

Additionally, the Secretary of the Air Force is directed to conduct an independent review by a Federally Funded Research and Development Center (FFRDC) on the impact of the restructure on the Nation's combat air forces. The Secretary of the Air Force is directed to provide the three described reports on April 1, 2010. The Secretary of the Air Force is further directed that no funds may be obligated on executing the Combat Air Force restructure until submission to the congressional defense committees of all directed reports.

CONTRACTING FRAUD

The numerous reports and allegations of defense contractors defrauding the government is concerning. Therefore, the Secretary of Defense is encouraged to strengthen policies and safeguards against such abuse. The Secretary of Defense is directed, in coordination with the Department of Defense Inspector General, to report to the congressional defense committees on contracting fraud. The report shall include an assessment of the total value of Department of Defense contracts entered into with contractors that have been indicted for, settled charges of, been fined by any Federal department or agency for, or been convicted of fraud in connection with any contract or other transaction entered into with the Federal Government over the past ten years. The report shall also include recommendations on how to penalize contractors who are repeatedly involved in contract fraud allegations. Finally, the report shall describe the actions taken to strengthen Department policies and safeguards against contractor fraud. The report should be submitted not later than March 15, 2010.

2001 NUCLEAR POSTURE REVIEW

Section 1041(c) of P.L. 106-398, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001, required the Secretary of Defense to submit to Congress, in unclassified and classified forms as necessary, a report on the results of the 2001 Nuclear Posture Review. The Secretary of Defense is encouraged to provide the unclassified report of the 2001 Nuclear Posture Review to the congressional defense committees as soon after submission of the 2009 Nuclear Posture Review as is possible.

SENIOR MENTORS PROGRAM

There is deep concern over the Department of Defense's Senior Mentors Program. The Department spends millions of dollars each year to place retired general officers on contract to act as advisors and mentors. It is of concern that the Department uses large defense industry firms as the prime contractor to serve as third party "go betweens." There is also concern that the contracts and task orders appear to be written almost as personal services contracts. Therefore, the Department of Defense Inspector General is directed to review the Senior Mentors Program and report to the congressional defense committees no later than March 31, 2010.

INTELLIGENCE, SURVEILLANCE AND RECONNAISSANCE

Senate Report 111-20 directed the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on the strategy to transition the responsibilities of the Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance (ISR) Task Force. Although the report was supposed to have been submitted no later than October 1, 2009, the Department has only recently begun to address this reporting requirement.

The recommendation reiterates the concerns leading to the reporting requirement, and the Secretary of Defense is directed to submit the report within 30 days of enactment of this Act.

Furthermore, over the past two years, Congress has approved significant increases in ISR collection, processing, and dissemination in support of overseas contingency operations. The Secretary of Defense is directed to provide a classified report to the congressional defense committees within 90 days of enactment of this Act that describes the deployment of additional ISR capabilities, particularly tactical signals intelligence and full motion video, to support combat operations in Afghanistan. The report should address the adequacy of these capabilities to support troop commitments to Afghanistan as well as the plans to correct any shortfalls.

CASH INCENTIVES

The recommendation supports the services' use of cash incentives to meet the extraordinary recruiting and retention challenges they have faced since September 11, 2001. The services are commended for their successful efforts to grow and maintain the finest fighting force in the world under very difficult circumstances. Because the services are generally meeting or exceeding their recruitment and retention goals, it is the belief that now is an opportune time to examine whether the use and size of these cash incentives can be reduced to maximize their manning utility while lowering costs. Therefore, the Secretary of Defense is directed to provide a report to the Committee on Appropriations of both the House of Representatives and the Senate that describes these cash incentives, to include the number of cash incentives used for recruiting and retention, the average amount provided for each Military Occupational Specialty (MOS), and the length of contract when these incentive options are accepted by recruits and those reenlisting. This report shall also include a quantitative analysis of the optimal size of these incentives and an actuarially-based estimate of the impact on recruiting and retention of a 10 percent and a 20 percent reduction of the amounts provided per incentive. This report shall be submitted no later than 120 days after the enactment of this Act.

UNDISTRIBUTED REDUCTIONS BASED ON HISTORICAL UNDEREXECUTION

Both the House and Senate recommend execution reductions to the operation and maintenance accounts. The House's adjustment is based on the Government Accountability Office's analysis of historical budget execution trends. The Senate's adjustment is based on the historical difference between the request and obligations for restoration and modernization, citing data that the execution of appropriated funds was significantly different than what was requested for certain budget line items. Since the issues behind these recommendations are so similar, the recommendation includes an undistributed reduction to each of the operation and maintenance accounts based on historical underexecution. This reduction shall be applied to any budget line item with the exception of Facilities Sustainment, Restoration and Modernization lines.

FINANCIAL IMPROVEMENT AND AUDIT READINESS

It is concerning that the Department of Defense is not placing enough emphasis on improving financial management processes, internal controls and audit readiness capability. The Department should continue to develop and implement the Financial Improvement and Audit Readiness (FIAR) plan to correct financial management deficiencies and meet audit readiness objectives. Such actions would likely result in significant programmatic savings, increased efficiencies, and an improved ability to properly spend and account for the Department's critical assets and resources. The recommendation supports the Department of Defense's FIAR planning and financial improvement programs.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE
REPROGRAMMINGS

The recommendation includes a provision identical to the provision enacted in fiscal year 2009 that requires the Department to submit the DD Form 1414, Base for Reprogramming Actions, for each of the fiscal year 2010 appropriations accounts within 60 days after the enactment of this Act. This provision prohibits the Department from executing any reprogramming or transfer of funds for any purpose other than originally appropriated until the aforementioned report is submitted to the House and the Senate Committees on Appropriations.

With respect to the Services' operation and maintenance accounts, the Department shall submit prior approval reprogramming requests to the congressional defense committees for proposed transfers of funds in excess of $15,000,000 to or from the levels specified for budget activities. In addition, the Department shall follow prior approval reprogramming procedures for transfers in excess of $15,000,000 out of the following budget sub-activities:

Operation and Maintenance, Army:
Land Forces Depot Maintenance
Operation and Maintenance, Navy:
Aircraft Depot Maintenance
Ship Depot Maintenance
Operation and Maintenance, Marine Corps:
Depot Maintenance
Operation and Maintenance, Air Force:
Air Operations Depot Maintenance
Mobility Operations Depot Maintenance
Basic Skills/Training Depot Maintenance
Logistics Operations Depot Maintenance

In addition, the Department shall follow prior approval reprogramming procedures for transfers in excess of $15,000,000 into the following budget sub-activity:

Operation and Maintenance, Army National Guard:

Other Personnel Support/Recruiting and Advertising

Further, the Department shall provide written notification of cumulative transfers in excess of $15,000,000 from the following budget sub-activities:

Operation and Maintenance, Army:
Maneuver Units
Modular Support Brigades
Land Forces Operations Support
Force Readiness Operations Support
Base Operations Support
Facilities, Sustainment, Restoration and Modernization
Operation and Maintenance, Navy:
Facilities Sustainment, Restoration and Modernization
Operation and Maintenance, Marine Corps:
Facilities Sustainment, Restoration and Modernization
Operation and Maintenance, Air Force:
Primary Combat Forces
Combat Enhancement Forces
Combat Communications
Facilities Sustainment, Restoration and Modernization

With respect to Operation and Maintenance, Defense-Wide, proposed transfers of funds to or from the levels specified for defense agencies in excess of $15,000,000 shall be subject to prior approval reprogramming procedures. In addition, the Department shall provide written notification of cumulative transfers in excess of $15,000,000 or 20 percent, whichever is less, from the following line items identified in the Operation and Maintenance, Defense-Wide project level table contained in this Act:

Defense Legal Services Agency
Office of the Secretary of Defense:
Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics Programs
Personnel and Readiness
Comptroller and Chief Financial Officer
Under Secretary of Defense (Intelligence)
Under Secretary of Defense (Policy)
Director, Program Analysis and Evaluation

Assistant Secretary for Defense (Networks and Information Integration)

A congressional interest item contained in Operation and Maintenance, Defense-Wide is defined only as a specified increase provided in this Act.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE BUDGET
EXECUTION DATA

The Secretary of Defense is directed to continue to provide the congressional defense committees with quarterly budget execution data. Such data should be provided not later than 45 days past the close of each quarter for the fiscal year, and shall be provided for each 0-1 budget activity, activity group, and sub-activity group for each of the active, defense-wide, reserve and National Guard components. For each 0-1 budget activity, activity group, and sub-activity group, these reports shall include: the budget request and actual obligations; the Department of Defense distribution of unallocated congressional adjustments to the budget request; all adjustments made in establishing the Base for Reprogramming (DD Form 1414) report; all adjustments resulting from below threshold reprogrammings; and all adjustments resulting from prior approval reprogramming requests.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT CONTRACTING PROCEDURES

Section 811 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 (Public Law 111-84) included a provision amending Federal government contracting procedures for 8(a) Native American sole source Federal contracts. The provision requires that any 8(a) Native American contracts in excess of $20,000,000 will now be subject to an additional level of review through the Justification and Approval process. The effect that this additional requirement will have on the efficiency of the contracting process and the competitiveness of Native American companies is unknown. Therefore, the Secretary of Defense is directed to submit a report 90 days after the implementation of the new contracting procedures. This report shall detail the impact of the provision on the selection of Native American companies for large dollar contracts; discuss how the provision is affecting the contracting process, whether an excessive administrative burden has been placed on contracting personnel; and provide recommendations for how the provision can be amended to mitigate any unintended negative consequences.

MILITARY TIRES

As part of the Tire Commodity Management Privatization initiative, undertaken in compliance with the Base Realignment and Closure Act of 2005, the Department of Defense shifted responsibility for tire supply, storage, and distribution from the Defense Logistics Agency to a contractor who would be in charge of procuring and distributing all ground and air military tires worldwide for the Department and the military services. It is recognized that the intent of this initiative was to lower costs and streamline the process of getting tires to the warfighter and that the current prime contractor has exceeded expectations. However, having a tire manufacturer as the manager as well as the vendor creates a perception of a lack of competition.

The Secretary of Defense is directed to award new military ground vehicle and aircraft tire management contracts when the existing base contract expires. The new contract should prohibit any tire manufacturer from acting as a prime contractor for the management of the contract. The existing Navy aircraft tire contracts are exempted provided the Department of the Navy certifies that these contracts represent the best value to the government.

INFORMATION OPERATIONS

The Department of Defense must improve both budgetary and policy oversight of its strategic communications and information operations programs. The Department's leadership has only recently become aware of the variety, scope, and magnitude of funding associated with these programs across the services and at all levels within the combatant commands. Fiscal year 2010 Department of Defense budget justification materials provided to the Congress initially indicated the request included nearly one billion dollars across the Department of Defense and within the services for information operations programs. However, after the congressional defense committees made several inquiries during the budget review process, it was determined by the Department that the budget request for these activities was actually $626,200,000 for fiscal year 2010, $360,000,000 less than originally indicated.

As part of its own efforts, the Department has improved its ability to account for the vast sums of dollars that have been spent on these programs in the past, and those being requested in the current budget submission. However, throughout the budget review process of the House and Senate Appropriations Committees, repeated questions to the Department about the execution of appropriated funds and the proposed use of requested funding were too often answered with varied responses or admissions of uncertainty. The Congress cannot be expected to continue supporting programs which lack accountability and clear direction.

The Department of Defense should formulate, coordinate, operate and account for its strategic communications and information operations programs within an enterprisewide architecture. This should include designating an individual or individuals with authority to ensure that the programs support national security policies and strategies, that they are properly coordinated with other government departments and agencies, and that appropriated dollars are obligated, expended, and accounted for in accordance with the intent justified and communicated to the Congress, and for the purposes appropriated. In this regard, the recommendation concurs with the reporting requirement included in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 regarding the Department's efforts to develop enterprise-wide oversight and coordination mechanisms for military strategic communications and information operations programs. This report should also include an evaluation of proposals to establish or empower an office within the Secretary of Defense with Executive Agent authority over military strategic communications and information operations programs.

The Congress has a need for better budget justification and execution documentation for congressional oversight of information operations program funds. The classified annex to the Supplemental Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2009 included a reporting requirement on Department of Defense strategic communications programs. The Department should submit such a report annually with updated informative materials and data. Accordingly, the Under Secretary of Defense for Policy, in coordination with the Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller), shall submit a strategic communications and information operations programs report to the congressional defense committees not later than 30 days after the submission of the President's annual budget request to Congress. The report shall include supplemental budget justification materials for strategic communication programs to include information operations, psychological operations, and influence activities of the Department of Defense for which base budget, supplemental, or overseas contingency operation funds have been appropriated or requested over the fiscal year 2007 through 2011 period, including: program strategies, target audiences, goals, and measures of effectiveness; budget exhibits at the appropriations account and sub-activity level; spend plans (including positions and other direct costs and locations). The report shall include an annex for necessary explanatory and supporting classified information. Within this annex the Department should specifically designate, and include a comprehensive explanation of, any programs, activities, or operations where the involvement of the United States Government may be anything less than publicly acknowledged.

Finally, funding requested for United States Central Command (CENTCOM) information operations programs in Afghanistan has grown from $39,900,000 in fiscal year 2008, to a request of $243,800,000 in fiscal year 2010, a 500 percent increase. Of the $109,700,000 specifically appropriated for United States Forces—Afghanistan (USFOR-A) information operations programs in fiscal year 2009, only $63,400,000 was obligated. The remaining $46,300,000 (42 percent of the appropriation) was used by CENTCOM and the Army for other purposes in Afghanistan. The large increase in the funding requested and the ability of CENTCOM to execute this funding based on its prior year execution is of concern. Accordingly, the Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller) is directed to provide a classified quarterly report to the congressional defense committees on the obligation and expenditure of those funds requested and appropriated in Title IX of this Act, "Operation and Maintenance, Army" for CENTCOM's United States Forces—Afghanistan and External Information Program—Afghanistan information operation programs and activities. The report shall identify any of the funds provided that have been obligated or expended for other than information operation activities, or transferred either above or below the reprogramming threshold notification requirements, and the purposes for which the funds were otherwise used.

The recommendation makes the following reductions to the Department of Defense request for information operations and strategic communications programs:

ARMY AND AIR FORCE EXCHANGE SERVICE

There is deep concern that Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES) decisions to construct new restaurants will negatively impact locally-owned restaurants of the same franchise in the community. Such actions, especially in areas with economic conditions that cannot support multiple restaurants of the same franchise, are harmful to the community. As partners with the community, the Department should consider these implications when making decisions about building new retail, restaurant or concessions services on an installation. Accordingly, the Department is directed to report to the congressional defense committees within 90 days after enactment of this Act on the decision process to open new AAFES restaurants at Fort Stewart, and what considerations were made to account for the potential impact of such openings on the locally-owned restaurants of the same franchise.

ACCOUNTABILITY OF COMMON ACCESS CARDS

House Report 111-230 on the Department of Defense Appropriations Bill, 2010 noted major problems cited by the Department of Defense Inspector General regarding Common Access Card abuses by contractors. A program has been established to provide secure credentials to contractors and is currently being tested at Fort Belvoir, Virginia. These steps to address the force protection deficiencies cited by the Inspector General are encouraging and the Department should work to continue to improve the process for issuing Common Access Cards and to improve the security of Department of Defense facilities.

JUNIOR RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

The Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps (JROTC) helps instill the essential qualities of character, citizenship, and fitness in its participants. The Department is commended for JROTC's proven track record of developing leadership potential, logical thinking and enhanced oral and verbal communication skills. JROTC's valuable role is an outlet through which its participants remain engaged, dedicated and disciplined in their academic and extracurricular endeavors. JROTC's emphasis on the importance of high school graduation, college attendance, and other advanced educational and employment opportunities which contribute to a successful future is to be applauded. In order to extend and enhance the benefits of this invaluable program, the recommendation provides $12,000,000 above the budget request only for a pilot program of JROTC units that would expand the scope and availability of this program in localities that desire to participate in such a program.

DEFENSE INFORMATION SYSTEMS AGENCY

Funding for the Senior Leadership Enterprise (SLE), in the amount of $55,924,000 is restored following a briefing by representatives from the Defense Information Systems Agency (DISA). It is concerning that DISA failed to include any information on SLE in either the classified or unclassified budget justification documents. Further, DISA failed to respond to repeated requests for information on SLE prior to the House markup of the fiscal year 2010 Defense Appropriations bill. Because DISA's request for this new program lacked any budget justification or explanation, the House declined to fund the request. The Director, Defense Information Systems Agency is urged to review the organization's legislative affairs operations to ensure more responsive, effective communications with Congress in the future.

SECURITY AND STABILIZATION ASSISTANCE
(SECTION 1207 AUTHORITY)

The recommendation includes $97,090,000 for the Security and Stabilization Assistance Program. It is not anticipated that additional Department of Defense resources will be provided to this program in the future. The recommendation is $100,000,000 below the budget request, which is similar to the amount recommended for the Complex Crises Fund and Transitions Initiatives in the Department of State, Foreign Operations, and Related Programs Appropriations Act, 2010. The Complex Crises Fund was recently created to provide the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) and the Department of State with increased resources and flexibility to respond to urgent requirements, in much the same manner and for similar purposes as projects funded under section 207. The establishment of the Complex Crises Fund will enable USAID and the Department of State to meet emergent requirements that fall under their purview without relying on the Department of Defense. The $97,090,000 recommended for Security and Stabilization Assistance is provided as a bridging mechanism until the Complex Crises Fund is fully implemented. Although future Security and Stabilization Assistance projects should be funded in USAID and Department of State budget requests, the Secretary of Defense, the Director, USAID and the Secretary of State are directed to maintain and strengthen the interagency process created from the section 1207 program when formulating, reviewing, and approving future projects that would have been funded through section 1207.

BRIGADE BASING REMEDIATION

The House report expressed concerns regarding the impact on local communities following a decision by the Secretary of Defense to reverse the planned growth in the number of Army Brigade Combat Teams (BCT) from 45 to 48. The report called for in the House report on efforts by the Department to mitigate the impact of this decision is of great interest, and the Department of Defense is expected to act promptly to prepare this report.

OFFICE OF THE UNDER SECRETARY OF DEFENSE
(COMPTROLLER) AND CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER

The recommendation provides $2,348,000 for the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller) and Chief Financial Officer for the costs associated with the recruitment, hiring, training, retention and pay for additional Federal employees to improve fiscal management and oversight. The Department is strongly urged to exempt the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller) and Chief Financial Officer from internal Department headquarters personnel ceilings if necessary to ensure proper fiscal management and budget oversight.

COMMISSION ON WARTIME CONTRACTING

The recommendation includes an additional $3,200,000 for the Commission on Wartime Contracting, providing a total of $12,300,000 for Commission operations in fiscal year 2010.

NATIONAL SECURITY SPACE OFFICE

The recommendation strongly supports an integrated national security space architecture planning function that provides strategic, senior-level decision-making within the Department of Defense with timely and cogent space system architecture alternatives. Therefore, the recommendation provides $7,000,000 for the National Security Space Office (NSSO) and transfers the management and tasking to the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics (USD (AT&L)), Space and Intelligence Office (SIO). This new arrangement will accomplish the original intent of the office as the Department of Defense's space architecture planning organization. Therefore, the USD(AT&L)/SIO is directed to revise the NSSO charter and provide a roadmap and goals to the congressional defense committees within 180 days of enactment of this Act on how this office will be used in future space system architecture planning.

MILITARY VOTING

A number of new authorities have been established in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010 with regard to military voting. The Department of Defense is expected to use the necessary resources to implement these new requirements and to ensure that uniformed servicemembers, their family members, and overseas citizens have the full opportunity to vote, particularly at a time when so many military personnel are serving in combat areas.

ARMY NATIONAL GUARD RECRUITING AND ADVERTISING

The Senate reduced funding to Sub-activity Group 434, Other Personnel Support, based on unjustified growth in recruiting and advertising between fiscal year 2009 and fiscal year 2010. Since the time of that proposed reduction, the Army National Guard has adequately justified the budget request for recruiting and advertising. The reason for the skewed original analysis was attributed to the amount of funding the Army National Guard realigns into Sub-activity Group 434 in the year of execution. In fiscal years 2007–2009, the Army National Guard realigned between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 each year into recruiting and advertising. Because the Army National Guard has had flexibility to move a large amount of funding in the past, the recommendation includes an undistributed reduction to Operation and Maintenance, Army National Guard due to the migration of funds from other sources into recruiting and advertising. New prior approval reprogramming guidelines for the Army National Guard are addressed in the operation and maintenance overview.

The report shall be provided to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations not later than May 15, 2010. ## SPECIAL INTEREST ITEMS

Items for which additional funds have been provided as shown in the project level tables or in paragraphs using the phrase “only for” or “only to” are congressional interest items for purposes of the Base for Reprogramming Department of Defense form (DD Form 1414). Each of these items must be carried on the DD Form 1414 at the stated amount, as specifically addressed in these materials.

C-130 AVIONICS MODERNIZATION PROGRAM

The recommendation provides no funding in Aircraft Procurement, Air Force for the C-130 Avionics Modernization Program given that the fiscal year 2009 funds have thus far not been put on contract due to a delayed Milestone C decision. Based on these delays, the funding requested for fiscal year 2010 is early to need. The Under Secretary of Defense (Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics) is strongly encouraged to make a decision on the acquisition strategy and proceed expeditiously with the program of record in order to provide this needed capability to Active, Guard, and Reserve C-130 aircraft.

C-130 FIREFIGHTING CAPABILITY

The Secretary of the Air Force, the Chief of the Air Force Reserve and the Director of the National Guard Bureau, are directed, within 60 days of enactment of this Act, to create an Integrated Working Group (IWG) in conjunction with the United States Department of Agriculture Forest Service (USDAFS) and the Department of the Interior for the purpose of coordinating the joint use of Federal forest firefighting assets, and, within 90 days after formation of the IWG, to submit a report to the congressional defense committees; the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations, Subcommittees on Interior; the House Energy and Commerce Committee and Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, detailing the following:

1. The viability of the Air National Guard, the Air Force Reserve, and the USDAFS to jointly operate a fleet of new C-130s procured for the primary purposes of firefighting duties at the request of the USDAFS, and equipped with the latest proven firefighting technology.

2. Any and all prior analyses done in the past ten years by the Department of the Air Force, the National Guard Bureau or the USDAFS concerning the recapitalization of the national firefighting fleet.

3. A new business case analysis which examines the cost and operational effectiveness of procurement of new C-130 aircraft and joint cooperation between the Department of the Air Force, the National Guard Bureau and the USDAFS for the firefighting mission as compared to the present approach of utilizing the current fleet of aging firefighting aircraft available via commercial operator contracts.

4. Any existing legislative impediments to interagency cooperation and joint operation of a dedicated firefighting fleet by the Department of the Air Force, the National Guard Bureau and the USDAFS.

5. An assessment and accounting of public-private property losses as well as taxpayer expenses spent annually fighting forest and wildfires and how such losses can be mitigated by the described joint firefighting business model with respect to the Department of the Air Force, the National Guard Bureau and the USDAFS.

An interim report shall be submitted to Congress not later than 90 days after enactment of this Act detailing the progress made on the final report.

NON-INTRUSIVE INSPECTION TECHNOLOGIES

Vehicle and cargo-borne threats to U.S. forward operating bases and unmet requests for fielding non-intrusive inspection (NII) technologies for base access control to detect hidden weapons, explosives and personnel, increase the operating risk for our forces. The Secretary of Defense is directed to prioritize the NII technology needs of the 100 highest-risk bases and submit a schedule for NII technology procurement for these bases to the congressional defense committees not later than 30 days after enactment of this Act.

JOINT STRIKE FIGHTER

Concerns persist regarding the progress of the F-35 Joint Strike Fighter (JSF) program. Last year, the Department of Defense established a Joint Estimating Team (JET) to evaluate this program. The JET reported that the program would cost significantly more and take longer to fully develop and test than the Department was then projecting. Although the JET has yet to officially report out for 2009, the initial indications are that cost growth and schedule issues remain. Nevertheless, the Department insists that the program is on track to achieve both the cost and schedule currently reflected in the program of record.

Therefore, the JSF procurement program is provided $6,840,478,000, and the JSF program is designated as a congressional special interest item. The Secretary of Defense is directed to ensure that all 30 aircraft be procured as requested in the budget. The Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics is directed to provide the findings of the JET along with recent studies on the test program and causes of cost growth to the congressional defense committees no later than January 15, 2010.

REPROGRAMMING GUIDANCE FOR ACQUISITION ACCOUNTS

It is the intent of Congress that the program baseline for reprogramming funds reflects all approved adjustment actions: the initial appropriation as well as any rescissions, supplemental appropriations and approved Department of Defense 1415 reprogrammings. The Secretary of Defense is directed to ensure that financial management regulations incorporate approved reprogramming actions as an adjustment to the base for reprogramming value.

The Department of Defense is directed to continue to follow the reprogramming guidance specified in the report accompanying the House version of the fiscal year 2006 Department of Defense Appropriations Act (H.R. 109-119). Specifically, the dollar threshold for reprogramming funds will remain at $20,000,000 for procurement and $10,000,000 for research, development, test, and evaluation. The Department shall continue to follow the limitation that prior approval reprogrammings are set at either the specified dollar threshold or 20 percent of the procurement or research, development, test and evaluation line, whichever is less. The percentage change limitation applies to both program increases and decreases. Additionally, this percentage change applies to the program base value at the time the below threshold movement of funds is executed. These thresholds are cumulative from the base for reprogramming value as modified by any adjustment action. Therefore, if the combined value of transfers into or out of a procurement (P-1) or research, development, test, and evaluation (R-1) line exceeds the identified threshold, the Department of Defense must submit a prior approval reprogramming request to the congressional defense committees. In addition, guidelines on the application of prior approval reprogramming procedures for congressional special interest items are established elsewhere in this report. This guidance is effective for fiscal year 2010 and forward.

REPROGRAMMING REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

The Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller) is directed to continue to provide the congressional defense committees quarterly, spreadsheet-based DD1416 reports for service and defense-wide accounts in titles III and IV of this Act as required in the statement of the managers accompanying the conference report on the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2006.

FUNDING INCREASES

The funding increases outlined in these tables shall be provided only for the specific purposes indicated in the table.

BRADLEY FIGHTING VEHICLE

The various versions of the Bradley Fighting Vehicle family have continued to provide excellent performance in combat operations. The Bradleys have assumed a heavy workload in Iraq and have achieved survivability goals second only to the M1 Abrams Tank. However, there are concerns that the termination of the Future Combat Systems manned ground vehicles has created considerable uncertainty regarding the current Bradley. Congress has been consistent in its strong support for robust Bradley programs, providing $784,600,000 for Bradley reset and remanufacture in the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2009. The Army is strongly urged to sustain the Bradley industrial base by accomplishing vehicle restoration and reset efforts to the zero hours, zero miles standard plus survivability upgrades.

The recommendation fully supports the fiscal year 2010 budget request for Bradley modifications of $526,356,000 in base budget funding, plus $243,600,000 for overseas contingency operations, for a total of $769,956,000. The Army is expected to apply the funding to sustain the Bradley industrial base, continue upgrades of Bradley Operation Desert Storm (ODS) variants to the ODS Situational Awareness variant, and reset Bradley

Fighting Vehicles to the zero hours, zero miles standard, plus 963 survivability enhancements. The Army is encouraged to include Bradley Fighting Vehicles from prepositioned equipment sets in the rotation through the reset and remanufacture program.

It is understood that the Army's M-113 divestiture decision will affect approximately 4,100 M-113 type vehicles, including ambulance, mortar, command post and fire support variants. Strong consideration should be given to replacing these vehicles in the Heavy Brigade Combat Teams with a Bradley-based vehicle to leverage the Bradley's track record of proven performance as well as the existing logistics support.

There is a disparity in digital data management between the engineer units in certain Heavy Brigade Combat Teams and the infantry and tank units that they support. The digital brigades have digital Abrams Tanks, matched with digital A3 Bradleys, but the engineers have non-digital Bradley ODS variants, which limits the engineers' ability to be fully integrated into the information network. The Army is urged to procure Bradley A3 variants with digital configuration for engineer units in heavy brigades that have the Bradley A3 and M1A2 System Enhancement Package Abrams tank.

Added survivability enhancements and other improvements have increased the weight of the Bradley Fighting Vehicle and adversely impacted some aspects of performance. The Army is expected to give strong consideration to Space, Weight, and Power improvements with the funds provided in Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Army and to incorporate these improvements into the fleet at the earliest opportunity.

In addition, the recommendation fully supports the Army's M109 Paladin Howitzer/Field Artillery Ammunition Resupply Vehicle Integrated Management (PIM) program for fiscal year 2010, including a transfer of $91,500,000 from the procurement request to the Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Army appropriation. The Vietnam-era M109 Paladin self-propelled howitzer requires major upgrades in mobility, maintainability and reliability and the PIM program, which incorporated an upgraded turret and fire control system with a Bradley Fighting Vehicle chassis, offers vast improvements in mobility and fire support. The Army is urged to move ahead promptly with the Paladin PIM program.

AMMUNITION FACILITIES AND EQUIPMENT

The Army is planning to transfer or consolidate government-owned ammunition assets to private ammunition manufacturers. In order to ensure a comprehensive understanding of these plans, the Secretary of the Army is directed to provide a report to the congressional defense committees not later than 60 days after enactment of this Act on any plans to consolidate government-owned ammunition production assets or to transfer by sale, lease, loan or donation government-owned ammunition production equipment or facilities to a private ammunition manufacturer. The report shall include the Secretary of the Army's assessment of the following: a cost-benefit risk analysis for consolidating or transferring government-owned ammunition production equipment or facilities to private ammunition manufacturers, including cost-savings comparisons; a projection of the impact on the ammunition production industrial base in the United States of consolidating or transferring such equipment or facilities to private ammunition manufacturers; a projection of the capability to meet current and future ammunition production requirements by both government-owned and private ammunition manufacturers, as well as a combination of the two sources of production assets; and the potential impact on national security and military readiness.

Furthermore, if additional consolidation or transfers are required during fiscal year 2010 and are not addressed in the report submitted to the congressional defense committees, the Secretary of the Army is directed to certify to the congressional defense committees that the transfer or consolidation will not increase the cost of ammunition procurement or negatively impact national security, military readiness, government ammunition production or the United States ammunition production industrial base.

Finally, there is an existing contract to operate the Milan and Iowa Army Ammunition Plants (AAP) that would transform, at the contractor's expense, the Iowa AAP into a Joint Munitions Load, Assemble and Pack facility and transform the Milan AAP into a Logistics Center of Excellence/Joint Munitions Storage and Distribution Center by 2011. The Secretary of the Army is directed to notify the congressional defense committees not later than 30 days prior to any modification to this contract. In addition, the Government Accountability Office (GAO) is directed to conduct an audit on the amount and sources of funds used in furtherance of this contract.

ARMY TRUCK PROGRAM

Concerns persist regarding the absence of an overall truck acquisition strategy to guide the Army's plans and programs. It is not clear that the Army has conducted the needed analyses for sound acquisition plans or to reap potential savings. Not later than 180 days after the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Army shall provide a report to the congressional defense committees detailing the Army's acquisition strategy for future truck procurement.

NETWORKED COMMUNICATIONS CAPABILITIES

The recommendation continues to support the overall objectives of the Joint Tactical Radio System (JTRS) program, but concerns remain about the technical risk, cost and availability of the JTRS radios. While the JTRS family of radios and waveforms has successfully tested several variants and demonstrated key networking waveforms, full testing objectives have not been realized. The Secretary of Defense is encouraged to examine lower-risk approaches to bridge the networked communications gap while providing interoperability and moving toward a competitive radio business model. Competition is encouraged between legacy and com-mercially available radios and waveforms that meet the majority of JTRS approved standards until such time as the JTRS radios are fielded. Additionally, the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Networks and Information Integration is encouraged to examine the cost effectiveness of such an approach and to submit a report to the congressional defense committees not later than March 15, 2010, with recommendations for closing any networked communications capability gap with commercially available and legacy radios and waveforms.

MODIFICATION OF IN-SERVICE EQUIPMENT

According to accounting reports, the Army has over $1,284,000,000 in prior year funding available for Modification of In-Service Equipment, Budget Activity-1. Therefore, the recommendation provides $2,314,000 for this program in fiscal year 2010, a reduction of $8,000,000. Additionally, due to the large prior year funding balance, the recommendation includes a reduction of $195,950,000 in the title IX portion of this program.

RAPID EQUIPPING FORCE

For fiscal year 2010, the recommendation provides $13,370,000 for Rapid Equipping Force funding, a reduction of $35,400,000 from the budget request due to funding available in prior year accounts. There is concern with the Army's demand driven approach in providing Soldier Wearable Acoustic Targeting Systems (SWATS) to soldiers, and a strong belief that the equipment should be made available to all deploying units, not just those units submitting Urgent Needs Statements.

The Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2009 provided $50,000,000 for SWATS. However, the slow pace of obligating available funding for the life-saving SWATS, and the lack of urgency in establishing a basis of issue plan and making it a Program of Record causes concern. The Army is expected to correct the situation quickly.

The Secretary of the Army has yet to provide a report on the acquisition objective and basis of issue plan for both vehicular and soldier wearable sniper detection equipment as directed in the Joint Explanatory Statement accompanying the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2009. The report shall be provided to the congressional defense committees not later than 60 days after enactment of this Act.

F-18 AIRCRAFT

The variants of the F-18 aircraft have been the workhorses of the Navy's aviation fleet for a generation. Consistent with the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010, a multi-year procurement strategy has been approved to complete the pro-urement of the F-18E/F/G aircraft as the Navy transitions to the Joint Strike Fighter aircraft.

SHIPBUILDING

The fiscal year 2010 shipbuilding budget request from the Department once again falls short of the quantity of ten ships nominally required to reach and maintain the required fleet size of 313 ships. Further, the Department's revised acquisition strategy for the Littoral Combat Ship, solidified after the submission of the budget, has reduced the requested number of ships from a quantity of eight to a quantity of seven. In an effort to position the Department to request additional ship quantities in fiscal year 2011, the recommendation includes an additional $170,000,000 of advance procurement funding for the LHA (Replacement) helicopter assault ship and $250,000,000 of additional advance procurement funding for the DDG-51 Guided Missile Destroyer program.

COMMON HULL FORMS

The Navy has discussed in testimony the use of existing hull forms for the design of future ships in an effort to reduce the cost of these ships. Candidate ships include, but are not limited to the replacement command ship, future dock landing ships, future surface combatant, and hospital ships. Candidate hull forms include, but are not limited to, the LPD-17, T-AKE, National Security Cutter, Patrol Coastal and DDG-51 hull forms all currently in use. This initiative continues to have strong support and the Secretary of the Navy is directed to submit a report that outlines the benefits of using an existing hull form for future ship construction. The report should include candidate hull forms, candidate ship classes (including survivability requirements), potential cost savings (including under multi-year procurement authority), and the timeframe of when the decision would be made to use an existing hull form for future designs. This report should be submitted to the congressional defense committees not later than March 15th, 2010.

LITTORAL COMBAT SHIP (LCS)

The recommendation includes $1,080,000,000 for the construction of two Littoral Combat Ships (LCS), a reduction of $300,000,000 and one ship from the budget request. This adjustment properly prices the program and is consistent with the Navy's revised acquisition strategy for the LCS program which calls for down selecting to a single ship design in fiscal year 2010, versus the two designs that the program has been carrying. The recommendation supports this strategy which should result in reduced program costs as a result of reducing the overhead within the program. Further, the recommendation provides an additional $60,000,000 to the LCS research and development program for the development of a technical data package that will allow a future second source of the winning LCS design.

Additionally, in compliance with previous congressional direction, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Research, Development, and Acquisition (ASN (RDA)) provides the congressional defense committees a monthly progress report on LCS construction costs. Presently, these reports provide cost information only for the first two LCS platforms (LCS-1 and LCS-2). The ASN (RDA) is directed to provide the same monthly cost reports for LCS-3 and LCS-4 upon enactment of this Act.

LEASING OF FOREIGN BUILT SHIPS

There exists strong interest in the impact that the review of future requirements in the Quadrennial Defense Review will have on the Navy's practice of leasing foreign built ships. Therefore, the Secretary of the Navy is directed to update its March 2008 report on the use of such leases and address impacts on American seafarers, sealift capabilities, and naval shipbuilding.

DDG-51 GUIDED MISSILE DESTROYER

The recommendation includes $578,996,000, an increase of $250,000,000 above the budget request, for advance procurement of components for the two DDG-51 destroyers planned in fiscal year 2011. The recommendation fully supports re-start of the DDG-51 program and provides additional funding in an effort to re-start the program in a more efficient and cost effective manner.

SHIP SERVICE TURBINE GENERATOR ROTORS

The budget request includes $3,330,000 for an Ohio-class submarine Ship's Service Turbine Generator (SSTG) rotor. The recommendation provides no funds for the rotor because the procurement does not result in a usable end item in violation of the full funding policy. The Secretary of the Navy is urged to submit a fiscal year 2010 reprogramming request that fully funds the SSTG rotor in order to support the planned installation schedule.

WEAPONS RANGE SUPPORT EQUIPMENT

Due to carryover of production engineering funding in the weapons range support equipment program, the recommendation reduces the program by $1,000,000. This reduction is to be applied only against the fiscal year 2010 production engineering funding and shall not reduce funds available for completion of auxiliary systems in support of Magnetic Silencing Facility military construction.

C-17 GLOBEMASTER III

The recent actions of the Air Force to address and curtail the wide use of undefinitized contract actions (UCA) are encouraging. To further encourage a sense of urgency to reduce the number of UCAs, bill language has been included that limits obligations for modifications until all C-17 UCAs funded with prior year "Aircraft Procurement, Air Force" funds are definitized or certifications of need are made by the Secretary of the Air Force.

The Under Secretary of Defense (Acquisition, Technology and Logistics) (USD(AT&L)) is directed to review contracting procedures within the Air Force and provide a report to the congressional defense committees not later than 90 days after enactment of this Act detailing a strategy to reduce current and minimize further undefinitized contracts in the Air Force. Additionally, the USD(AT&L) is directed to provide to the congressional defense committees a consolidated list of undefinitized contracts within the Department of Defense by November 15 and April 15 of each year.

The recommendation provides an additional $2,500,000,000 for the procurement of ten C-17 aircraft, associated spares, support equipment and training equipment as required.

OPERATIONAL SUPPORT AND VIP SPECIAL AIRLIFT MISSION AIRCRAFT

The recommendation includes $220,444,000 for operational support and VIP special mission aircraft, which is the amount and quantity requested by the President. The Department of Defense maintains a number of aircraft to provide safe and secure transportation for senior government officials as well as the Combatant Commanders and other senior military leadership. The fleet of aircraft is aging creating maintenance and reliability issues. For example, the Department of Defense grounded the C-9 aircraft within the fleet due to several safety of flight issues. Accordingly, the Secretary of Defense is directed to provide a report on the health of the fleet, inventory requirements and the plans to sustain and upgrade the aircraft in the future to the congressional defense committees, within 90 days after enactment of this Act.

EVOLVED EXPENDABLE LAUNCH VEHICLE

There is concern that the Air Force has not established a robust process for managing content on the Evolved Expendable Launch Vehicle (EELV) Launch Capabilities contract. Therefore, the Secretary of the Air Force is directed to establish a formal systems engineering process which includes the National Reconnaissance Office as the functional manager for space launch for the Intelligence Community, as a voting member, in order to prioritize and manage all efforts encompassed by the EELV Launch Capabilities contract.

MULTI-SATELLITE VEHICLE PROCUREMENT STRATEGIES

The language on multi-satellite vehicle procurement strategy as described in House

Report 111-230 is supported in the recommendation. In addition to the programs listed in House Report 111-230, the five year investment strategy is also directed to consider Wideband Global Satellite and Advanced Extremely High Frequency satellite systems for future multi-vehicle purchases.

BASE INFORMATION INFRASTRUCTURE

The fiscal year 2010 budget request includes $425,780,000 for the Combat Information Transport System (CITS), an increase of $88,590,000 from the amount appropriated in fiscal year 2009. This requested increase stemmed from a requirement to modernize the information transport system at stand-alone Air National Guard (ANG) bases. While there is support for funding the ANG requirement, it is recognized that the CITS program has yet to obligate $126,700,000 in fiscal year 2008 funding, and, despite reallocating over $90,000,000 away from CITS, the service has yet to obligate an additional $87,500,000 in fiscal year 2009 funding. Therefore, the Base Information Infrastructure request is reduced by $100,000,000, and the Secretary of the Air Force is directed to allocate no less than $100,000,000 of the appropriated amount to Air National Guard modernization.

JOINT LIGHT TACTICAL VEHICLE

The budget request includes a total of $90,099,000 to continue technology development for the Joint Light Tactical Vehicle (JLTV). The acquisition strategy involves competitive prototyping of vehicles from three contractors, followed by a down-select to two vehicles in fiscal year 2011 to proceed into the engineering and manufacturing development phase of the program. The recommendation fully supports this development strategy, which shares a number of elements of the reforms that have been written into law by the Weapon Systems Acquisition Reform Act of 2009. However, the program has yet to demonstrate itself as a model for a successful development program despite the reformed acquisition strategy. The funding profile has not changed despite a four month delay in initiating the program. Deficiencies in billings have resulted in the program falling far behind the financial benchmarks established by the Department of Defense. Program management has been complicated due to the different funding strategies pursued by the Army and the Marine Corps. There is great concern that of the $217,255,000 Congress has approved for JLTV since fiscal year 2007, only $53,128,000 had been expended through the end of fiscal year 2009. Despite these challenges, information has been provided that the program is proceeding in accordance with its revised schedule, billing errors are being addressed, budget execution is being corrected and prior year funding will be exhausted in 2010. Based upon these assurances, the recommendation contains full funding for the budget request. Careful oversight of program execution and military requirements will continue to ensure the commitment of the Army and Marine Corps to the success of the program.

EJECTION SEATS

The US16E ejection seat was competitively selected as the ejection seat for the F-35 Joint Strike Fighter. The progress made on this ejection seat is encouraging and the program of record is fully supported.

ENERGETICS

House language noted that the efforts of the military Services as coordinated through the Office of the Secretary of Defense, with the Department of Energy, have led to steady progress in the last decade in advancing the science of energetics and revitalizing the research and development workforce.

However, a report on energetics in the Department of Defense, as directed in House

Report 110-652, and which was to be provided to the congressional defense committees not later than March 1, 2009, was completed June 2009, and was finally delivered September 2, 2009.

House language recommended that the Department of Defense capitalize on best practices within the individual Services to advance the state of the energetics field, and directed that no funds be expended for the creation of a new Executive Agent or Executive Director for Advanced Energetics. The Senate included no similar language.

The recommendation includes no language regarding the use of funds for the creation of a new Executive Agent or Executive Director for Advanced Energetics and directs instead that the Secretary of Defense shall provide a report to the congressional defense committees not later than October 1, 2010, on progress being made on the findings and actions in the June 2009 report.

DOMESTIC ENERGY PRODUCTION

There is concern that a plan has not been presented to fund continued development and risk mitigation of domestic gas centrifuge enrichment technology during fiscal year 2010. Despite that, there is support for efforts to develop domestic gas centrifuge enrichment technology so that it can move to commercial scale uranium enrichment operations and potentially serve as a domestic source of fuel for nuclear power and the enrichment requirements of the defense community. Therefore, the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Department of Energy, is urged to explore utilizing all possible existing statutory authority to fund this important activity and to report to the Committees on Appropriations of both the House and Senate no later than 30 days following enactment of this Act regarding funding options.

SPECIAL INTEREST ITEMS

Items for which additional funds have been provided as shown in the project level tables or in paragraphs using the phrase "only for" or "only to" are congressional interest items for purposes of the Base for Reprogramming Department of Defense form (DD Form 1414). Each of these items must be carried on the DD Form 1414 at the stated amount, as specifically addressed in these materials.

REPROGRAMMING GUIDANCE FOR ACQUISITION ACCOUNTS

It is the intent of Congress that the program baseline for reprogramming funds reflects all approved adjustment actions: the initial appropriation as well as any rescissions, supplemental appropriations and approved Department of Defense 1415 reprogrammings. The Secretary of Defense is directed to ensure that financial management regulations incorporate approved reprogramming actions as an adjustment to the base for reprogramming value.

The Department of Defense is directed to continue to follow the reprogramming guidance specified in the report accompanying the House version of the fiscal year 2006 Department of Defense Appropriations Act (H.R. 109-119). Specifically, the dollar threshold for reprogramming funds will remain at $20,000,000 for procurement and $10,000,000 for research, development, test, and evaluation. The Department shall continue to follow the limitation that prior approval reprogrammings are set at either the specified dollar threshold or 20 percent of the procurement or research, development, test and evaluation line, whichever is less. The percentage change limitation applies to both program increases and decreases. Additionally, this percentage change applies to the program base value at the time the below threshold movement of funds is executed. These thresholds are cumulative from the base for reprogramming value as modified by any adjustment action. Therefore, if the combined value of transfers into or out of a procurement (P-1) or research, development, test, and evaluation (R-1) line exceeds the identified threshold, the Department of Defense must submit a prior approval reprogramming request to the congressional defense committees. In addition, guidelines on the application of prior approval reprogramming procedures for congressional special interest items are established elsewhere in this report. This guidance is effective for fiscal year 2010 and forward.

REPROGRAMMING REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

The Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller) is directed to continue to provide the congressional defense committees quarterly, spreadsheet-based DD 1416 reports for service and defense-wide accounts in titles III and IV of this Act as required in the statement of the managers accompanying the conference report on the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2006.

FUNDING INCREASES

The funding increases outlined in these tables shall be provided only for the specific purposes indicated in the table.

ENHANCED MEDIUM ALTITUDE
RECONNAISSANCE AND SURVEILLANCE SYSTEM

The fiscal year 2010 budget request includes $210,035,000 in Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Army to initiate the restructured Aerial Common Sensor (ACS) program. However, the Department of Defense has advised that the ACS has been terminated as a program of record and established in its place the Enhanced Medium Altitude Reconnaissance and Surveillance System (EMARSS), which provides a fixed-wing, multi-sensor, integrated intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance capability to the warfighter. Additionally, the fiscal year 2010 Overseas Contingency Operations (OCO) budget request includes $105,000,000 to procure EMARSS C-12 aircraft and to modify those aircraft with special mission hardware as a quick reaction capability to satisfy theater-based requirements. The Department based its OCO request on the assumption that ACS would not deliver capability to the war fighter for several years. However, with EMARSS selected as a new program of record in lieu of ACS, the EMARSS quick reaction capability request is duplicative of the program of record, and under current schedules, system deliveries for the program of record are expected shortly after deliveries of the so-called quick reaction capability. Accordingly, the recommendation provides no funding in the OCO title for procurement and modification of C-12 aircraft. In order to establish EMARSS as a program of record while fulfilling urgent theater-based fielding requirements, the recommendation includes $116,035,000 in Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Army, to fully fund the new EMARSS program of record and to accelerate its fielding while establishing a standardized, sustainable intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance program.

REPORT ON THE USE OF LIVE PRIMATES IN
LOGICAL AGENTS

The Secretary of Defense is directed to submit to the congressional defense committees, not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, a report setting forth a detailed description of the requirements for use by the Department of Defense of live primates at the United States Army Medical Research Institute of Chemical Defense, and elsewhere, to demonstrate the effects of chemical or biological agents or chemical (such as physostigmine) or biological agent simulants in training programs. The report shall include, at a minimum, the following:

- (1) The number of live primates used in the training;
- (2) The average lifespan of primates from the point of introduction into such training programs;
- (3) An explanation as to why the use of primates in such training is more advantageous and realistic than the use of human simulators or other alternatives; and
- (4) An estimate of the cost of converting from the use of primates to human simulators in such training.

PRESIDENTIAL HELICOPTER

The House report directed the Secretary of Defense to report on the use of certain funds for the VH-71 Presidential Helicopter. The Senate report contained no similar language. The recommendation does not retain the House language.

BONE MARROW REGISTRY

The recommendation includes $31,500,000 for the Department of the Navy, to be administered by the C.W. Bill Young Marrow Donor Recruitment and Research Program, also known as and referred to within the Naval Medical Research Center as the Bone Marrow Registry. Funds appropriated for the

C.W. Bill Young Marrow Donor Recruitment and Research Program shall remain available only for the purposes for which they were appropriated, and may only be obligated for the C.W. Bill Young Marrow Program. This donor center has recruited more than 525,000 Department of Defense volunteers and provides more marrow donors per week than any other donor center in the nation. More than 3,360 servicemembers and other Department volunteers from this donor center have provided marrow to save the lives of patients. The success of this national and international life-saving program for military and civilian patients, which now includes more than 7,500,000 potential volunteer donors, is admirable. Further, the agencies involved in contingency planning are encouraged to continue to include the C.W. Bill Young Marrow Donor Recruitment and Research Program in the development and testing of their contingency plans. The Department of Defense form (DD Form 1414) shall show this as a congressional interest item. The Department of Defense is further directed to release all the funds appropriated for this purpose to the C.W. Bill Young Marrow Donor Recruitment and Research Program within 60 days of the enactment of this Act.

AERIAL REFUELING TANKER PROGRAM

The recommendation includes $15,000,000 in Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Air Force for program management and a general provision providing $291,715,000 in a Tanker Replacement Transfer Fund.

Not later than 10 days after the release of the final request for proposal soliciting bids for an aerial tanker replacement aircraft, the Secretary of the Air Force is directed to submit a report to the congressional defense committees that includes a description of changes from the draft proposal to the final request for proposal and the rationale for each change.

The Secretary of the Air Force is encouraged to pursue tanker recapitalization at a rate of 36 aircraft per year instead of 12 or 15 aircraft in the current plan. This quantity will recapitalize the fleet in one-third the time and allow for a rapid retirement of the aging KC-135 aircraft. Furthermore, a more accelerated procurement strategy will avoid the large sustainment and modernization costs associated with keeping the legacy KC-135 fleet in the inventory longer.

MODULAR AERIAL SPRAY SYSTEM (MASS)
REPLACEMENT

The modular aerial spray system (MASS) is maintained by the Air Force Reserve and is the only fixed-wing aerial spray capability in the Department of the Defense. The current program is over 20 years old and is becoming increasingly difficult to maintain, leading to increased cost and the inability to conduct required missions. There is presently no recapitalization plan to replace the system. The Secretary of the Air Force is encouraged to pursue a recapitalization program in order to maintain this needed capability.

EVOLVED EXPENDABLE LAUNCH VEHICLE
COMMON UPPER STAGE

The recommendation includes $20,000,000 to study options and begin research and development to achieve a common upper stage between the Atlas and Delta launch vehicle families. The Air Force is urged to develop a process to modify Delta IV RL-10 upper stage engines to the Atlas V RL-10 configuration to enable more efficient use of the existing RL-10 inventory. The study shall also investigate how to modify the upper stage(s) to enable Centaur and the Delta Cryogenic Second Stage to use a common RL-10 engine and other potential modifications to achieve a truly common upper stage.

EVOLVED EXPENDABLE LAUNCH VEHICLE
SUSTAINMENT PLAN

The Secretary of the Air Force, in consultation with the Director of the National Reconnaissance Office, is directed to submit an Evolved Expendable Launch Vehicle sustainment plan as described in House Report 111-230 to the congressional defense committees with the fiscal year 2011 budget submission.

15-YEAR SPACE SYSTEM INVESTMENT STRATEGY

The recommendation supports language on a long-term space system investment strategy as described in House Report 111-230. The investment strategy is directed to span 15 years rather than the originally proposed 30 years. In addition, the Under Secretary of Defense (Acquisition, Technology and Logistics) is directed, in coordination with the Secretary of the Air Force and the Under Secretary of Defense (Intelligence), to deliver this Space System Investment Strategy to the congressional defense committees not later than May 1, 2010. As necessary, the report should contain a classified appendix.

NATIONAL POLAR-ORBITING OPERATIONAL
ENVIRONMENTAL SATELLITE SYSTEM

There is concern about the executability and management of the National Polar-orbiting Operational Environmental Satellite System (NPOESS) program. Therefore, it is directed that not more than 50 percent of the funds made available to the Department of Defense for the NPOESS program shall be obligated or expended until the Under Secretary of Defense (Acquisition, Technology and Logistics) certifies in writing to the congressional defense committees that the NPOESS program is being executed in support of the requirements, timelines and acquisition policies needed to meet Department of Defense missions.

The Secretary of Defense is directed, in consultation with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, to perform an independent cost analysis of all recommended programmatic and acquisition alternatives. This analysis shall be submitted to the Committee on Appropriations, Subcommittees on Defense and Commerce, Justice, Science and Related Agencies, of both the House and Senate, in addition to any other congressional oversight committee before any contract changes are signed and any major documents are revised by the government.

OPERATIONALLY RESPONSIVE SPACE

The Director of the Operationally Responsive Space program office is urged to provide the congressional defense committees with independent cost, schedule and performance estimates prior to initiating any satellite development activity.

DARPA NEW START PROGRAMS

The Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency's (DARPA's) fiscal year 2010 budget request includes $135,170,000 for new start programs, a significant increase over the $28,000,000 executed for new starts in fiscal year 2009 and the $16,000,000 executed for new starts in fiscal year 2008. The recently appointed Director of DARPA did not have an opportunity to adjust DARPA's fiscal year 2010 budget submission to reflect the new administration's priorities. Additionally, management changes instituted to address DARPA's historic budget execution challenges are likely to require some time before taking effect.

Therefore, the recommendation denies all funding for the requested new start programs. Instead, following the receipt of additional information from the new DARPA Director, the recommendation provides $85,000,000 in multiple program elements, as requested by the Director, for fiscal year 2010 new starts to be selected by the Director in fiscal year 2010. None of these funds may be obligated until the Director provides details to the congressional defense committees on the programs to be initiated, to include descriptions, program objectives, the expected duration of the DARPA effort and associated out-year funding requirements and planned technology readiness levels to be achieved by DARPA and Service transition partners. This is an exception to conventional budgeting procedures and the Director of DARPA is directed to use established budgeting procedures for its fiscal year 2011 budget submission.

RAPID EXPLOITATION OF INNOVATIVE TECHNOLOGIES IN ALL AREAS OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

The recommendation provides $4,500,000 for fiscal year 2010 new starts in Rapid Exploitation of Innovative Technologies (REITS) and directs the Commander, Special Operations Command, to provide quarterly reports to the congressional defense committees on the use of any current fiscal year or prior year funds provided for REITS, to include individual project schedules, cost estimates and transition plans. The Commander, Special Operations Command, is further directed to submit an annual report to the congressional defense committees on the actual cost, schedule to complete and transition to operational use or further development for all projects for which REITS funds were executed.

GROUND-BASED MISSILE DEFENSE

In addition to the reporting requirements contained in Sections 232 and 233 of H.R. 2647, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010, the Director of the Missile Defense Agency (MDA) is directed to provide a report on how MDA will utilize the funds in the Ground-based Midcourse Defense (GMD) program in fiscal year 2010 to maintain the Ground-Based Interceptor (GBI) production line. The report shall identify the number of GBIs that are being produced in fiscal year 2010. Furthermore, the report shall include a discussion of MDA's GMD Analysis of Alternatives that was conducted as a result of U.S. Northern Command's Ballistic Missile Defense study that was provided to MDA in October 2008. These reports shall be submitted to the congressional defense committees at the same time the President submits the fiscal year 2011 budget request to Congress.

BALLISTIC MISSILE DEFENSE TEST AND TARGETS

There is strong support for a robust testing program for the Missile Defense Agency (MDA). In December of 2008, the Director of MDA initiated a review of the entire Ballistic Missile Defense test program and developed the Integrated Master Test Plan (IMTP) that was signed in late July 2009, well after the submission of the fiscal year 2010 budget request. The IMTP's primary purpose is to establish and document the executable test baseline program from fiscal year 2010 and out to satisfy critical engagement conditions and empirical measurement events data collection requirements.

Since the plan was submitted, it has become known that some tests scheduled for fiscal year 2010 have slipped to fiscal year 2011 and that target synchronization with the new test plan still needs clarification. Furthermore, the fiscal year 2010 budget requests an increase of $50,000,000 over last year's funding level. However, MDA has not expended over $500,000,000 of fiscal year 2009 funds and those funds will be carried over into fiscal year 2010 in the test and target program. Therefore, the recommendation reduces the budget request by $135,800,000 due to a premature request of funding.

EARLY INTERCEPTOR

The Director of the Missile Defense Agency (MDA) is conducting a 90-day study on the different components of the early interceptor to evaluate how best to incorporate them into the Integrated Master Test Plan and MDA's new focus on early/ascent-phase intercept. The recommendation includes $80,000,000 in Line 27, Ballistic Missile Defense Technology, only for the development of the relevant technologies and incorporation of existing technologies to support the early intercept program. Additionally, MDA is urged to use previously appropriated funds in other program elements that would be complimentary or enhance the relevant technologies for early/ascent-phase intercept.

TWO-STAGE GROUND-BASED INTERCEPTOR

The Missile Defense Agency (MDA) is encouraged to continue developing and testing the two-stage ground-based interceptor. It is understood that over $173,000,000 has already been obligated in prior year funding to support development and testing. MDA is encouraged to provide at least $50,000,000 in fiscal year 2010 funds to continue the two-stage interceptor program.

Furthermore, the Under Secretary of Defense for Policy is directed to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by June 1, 2010. The report shall include a plan for the continuation of the two-stage ground-based interceptor program as well as how MDA plans to leverage the development and testing of the interceptor to modernize the Ground-based Midcourse Defense system. If the report recommends continuation of the two-stage interceptor program, it shall address any options for basing two-stage interceptors in Europe or the United States to provide enhanced defense in response to future long-range missile threats from Iran. The report shall also include a description of how such a site may be made interoperable with the planned missile defense architecture for Europe and the United States. Finally, the report shall include an independent cost estimate for the two-stage ground-based interceptor plan that is recommended.

GLOBAL SUPPLY CHAIN SECURITY

The national security establishment currently relies on electronic and computer components manufactured predominately overseas. The Department of Defense requires a trusted procurement process to provide classified handling, chain of custody, tracking and vital control of mission critical information technology system components. Accordingly, the Department is urged to provide the necessary resources to establish a Secure Procurement Logistics pilot project within the Cyber Security Initiative to perform secure procurement and logistics support for mission critical information technology.

DEFENSE HEALTH PROGRAM REPROGRAMMING PROCEDURES

There is concern regarding the transfer of funds from Direct (or In-house) Care to pay for contractor-provided medical care. To limit such transfers and continue oversight within the Defense Health Program operation and maintenance account, the explanatory statement includes language which limits the funds available for Private Sector Care under the TRICARE program subject to prior approval reprogramming procedures. The bill language and accompanying recommendation should not be interpreted by the Department as limiting the amount of funds that may be transferred to the Direct Care System from other budget activities within the Defense Health Program. In addition, the Services are not properly budgeting for actual execution levels among the budget activity groups and, therefore, the Direct Care System is continued as a special interest item. Any transfer of funds from the Direct (or In-house) Care budget activity into the Private Sector Care budget activity or any other budget activity will require the Department of Defense to follow prior approval reprogramming procedures.

CARRYOVER

For fiscal year 2010, the recommendation includes a one percent carryover authority for the Defense Health Program. The Assistant Secretary of Defense for Health Affairs is directed to submit a detailed spending plan for any fiscal year 2009 designated carryover funds to the congressional defense committees by January 4, 2010. In addition, the Department shall, not fewer than 30 days prior to executing the carryover funds, notify the congressional defense committees in writing of the details of any such obligation. Finally, to address the continuing funding shortfalls in medical information technology, the Department is directed to use available carryover funds to address this deficit.

MEDICAL INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

Over the past few years, criticism regarding the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs medical information technology has grown. Both Departments developed their current systems and infrastructure independent of one another, primarily using proprietary technology and hardware that is costly, not user-friendly and technologically unsustainable. As such, both Departments have now chosen to modernize their systems and infrastructure to address many of those issues, as well as addressing the issues surrounding interoperability between both Departments and the private sector. These systems must also address new requirements made evident by continuing overseas operations, including the ability to expand based on future technology requirements.

Unfortunately, it appears that both Departments are not sufficiently coordinating their efforts, and that lessons learned are not being used to develop an efficient and cost-effective means for data interoperability and information technology modernization. The recommendation recognizes that each Department has unique system requirements; however, both Departments do have common functions that should result in the development of common technology solutions and architecture. Areas that should be joint business practices include lab work, pharmacy orders, digital radiology transmittal, third-party collections and patient appointment scheduling. Both Departments are continuing to work on interoperability between their current systems and improving the transmittal of medical records from one system to another. However, there is significant concern that the necessary efforts being made to jointly develop the required future systems are inadequate. Therefore, the Joint Executive Council (JEC) and the Health Executive Council (HEC) are directed to report to the Committees on Appropriations of the House and the Senate not later than January 11, 2010, on a complete and thorough review of the technology requirements of each Department. The report shall detail each requirement, to include those that are deemed unique to each Department, include a justification of why the requirement can or cannot be developed jointly, and identify the path forward to develop such joint technology. In addition, the JEC and the HEC are directed to coordinate this report with the Department of Health and Human Services as it seeks to modernize electronic health records throughout the private sector. If done correctly and efficiently, the efforts of both Departments can be used as an example of how to modernize medical information technology.

MILITARY MEDICAL RESEARCH

The recommendation provides $120,000,000 for Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI) and Psychological Health research and treatment efforts. The fiscal year 2010 budget submission included $372,000,000 to address numerous unique military medical areas of concern including TBI and Psychological Health. The Department is encouraged to refer to the language in the House and Senate reports regarding gaps in research that need to be addressed within this funding to close those disparities.

It is understood that the Department of Defense is putting pressure on Health Affairs to obligate these funds in an expedited manner during fiscal year 2010 and as a result, Requests for Information (RFI) on grant proposals for this funding have already been published prior to the completion of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2010. These actions are not supported by this recommendation since funding has not been appropriated and the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate were never notified of a new start request. Since the submission of the President's budget request, the Department has been repeatedly asked for a distributable list of medical research capability gaps that will be addressed with the additional $372,000,000. Therefore, the Secretary of Defense is directed to provide a distributable list of medical research capability gaps that will be addressed using these funds not later than 15 days after enactment of this Act.

PEER-REVIEWED MEDICAL RESEARCH PROGRAM

The recommendation provides $50,000,000 for a Peer-Reviewed Medical Research Program. The Secretary of Defense, in conjunction with the Service Surgeons General, is directed to select medical research projects of clear scientific merit and direct relevance to military health. Research areas considered under this funding are restricted to: Blood Cancer, Chronic Migraine and Post-traumatic headache, Dystonia, Drug Abuse, Epilepsy, Fragile X Syndrome, Inflammatory Bowel Disease, Interstitial Cystitis, Kidney Cancer, Lupus, Melanoma, Mesothelioma, Neuroblastoma, Osteoporosis and related bone disease, Padgett's Disease, Pheochromocytoma, Polycystic Kidney Disease, Post Traumatic Osteoarthritis, Scleroderma, Social Work Research, and Tinnitus. The recommendation emphasizes that the additional funding provided under the Peer-Reviewed Medical Research Program shall be devoted only to the purposes listed above.

HYPERBARIC OXYGEN THERAPY

The Secretary of Defense, not later than 60 days after enactment of this Act, shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the use of hyperbaric oxygen therapy (HBOT). The report shall include the number of members of the Armed Forces, veterans and civilians being treated with HBOT; the types of conditions being treated and the respective success rate for each condition; the current inventory, location, and rate of use for hyperbaric oxygen chambers; and any plans for expanding the use of HBOT for treatment.

DIRECT HIRE AUTHORITY

The Secretary of Defense is directed to immediately implement Section 1107 of the National Defense Authorization Act, 2008 (Public Law 110-181) which provides adequate authority for the medical specialty hiring needs of the Department of Defense. The Secretary of Defense is further directed that no later than 30 days after enactment of this Act the Department shall notify the congressional defense committees the action has been taken to implement the direct hire authority across the Department, including the civilian entities.

REDUCING SCAR FORMATION

The United States Army Institute of Surgical Research and the Armed Forces Institute of Regenerative Medicine is currently doing research to reduce scarring following battlefield injuries in conjunction with academia. The Surgeon General of the Army is urged to use funds provided for continuation of studies into new methods for wound healing and scar reduction capabilities including proceeding to a clinical study and for further product development.

MEDICAL TRANSPORTATION INFRASTRUCTURE

After reviewing the Base Realignment and Closure (BRAC) Health Systems Advisory Subcommittee's (the Committee) review of the design plans for medical centers, including the responses from the Department of Defense and the Committee, there remains deep concern about the state of the master plan to complete world class medical facilities. Failures to implement the recommendations of this plan may lead to degraded medical care for military personnel, their dependents and retirees.

The recommendation includes $300,000,000 in the Defense Health Program operation and maintenance account for transportation issues stemming from the realignments associated with the 2005 BRAC. The Secretary of Defense is directed to provide a report to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations detailing the status of the implementation of the BRAC Health Systems Advisory Subcommittee's plan, and on plans for the recommended funding increase, no later than 90 days after the enactment of this Act.

INTELLIGENCE COMMUNITY'S BUSINESS TRANSFORMATION OFFICE

The Director of National Intelligence is directed to submit a report 90 days after the enactment of this Act that: 1) addresses the procurement challenges facing the Business Transformation Office; 2) explains where the most efficient and secure place to store the Community's business data will be for the foreseeable future; and 3) reviews the process for hiring highly qualified experts and provides recommendations that streamline the current bureaucratic process to one that allows the Director of the Business Transformation Office to efficiently build an effective staff. Finally, the report should provide a target date when all National Intelligence Program funds will achieve a sustainable unqualified audit opinion.

INTELLIGENCE COMMUNITY EDUCATION AND TRAINING STRATEGIC DESIGN

The lack of a strategic plan for the Intelligence Community training programs and professional education curriculum is concerning. The current patchwork of courses, language training efforts and schools is the result of multiple programs and initiatives instead of a coherent strategy. The Director of National Intelligence needs to benchmark successful programs such as the Department of Defense's National Defense University, and develop an appropriate educational and professional development strategy for the Community to create an innovative and competitive 21st century professional intelligence workforce. The Director of National Intelligence is encouraged to take steps to establish the Intelligence Community's capstone school in a manner that takes best advantage of opportunities for learning synergies and a transformative learning environment with other national security students. Further, no later than March 1, 2010, the Director of National Intelligence is directed to submit a report to the intelligence oversight committees on the feasibility of evolving the National Defense Intelligence College to a fee-for-service program.

TITLE IX—OVERSEAS CONTINGENCY OPERATIONS

REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

The Secretary of Defense is directed to provide a report to the congressional defense committees within 30 days of the enactment of this Act on the allocation of the funds within the accounts listed in this title. The Secretary shall submit updated reports 30 days after the end of each fiscal quarter until funds listed in this title are no longer available for obligation. This report shall include: a detailed accounting of obligations and expenditures of appropriations provided in this title by program and sub-activity group for the continuation of military operations in Iraq and Afghanistan; and a listing of equipment procured using funds provided in this title.

Additionally, the Secretary of Defense is directed to continue to report incremental contingency operations costs for Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom on a monthly basis in the Cost of War Execution report as required by Department of Defense Financial Management Regulation, chapter 23, volume 12. Further, the Secretary of Defense is directed to continue to provide the Cost of War reports to the congressional defense committees that include the following information by appropriation: funding appropriated, funding allocated, monthly obligations, monthly disbursements, cumulative fiscal year obligations and cumulative fiscal year disbursements.

In order to meet unanticipated requirements, the Department of Defense may need to transfer funds within these appropriations accounts for purposes other than those specified in this report. The Secretary of Defense is directed to follow normal prior approval reprogramming procedures should it be necessary to transfer funding between different appropriations accounts in this title.

PROGRESS REPORT ON IRAQ

Section 316 of Public Law 111-32, Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2009 directed the Secretary of Defense to submit to Congress on a quarterly basis a report on "Iraq Troop Drawdown Status, Goals and Timetable." Section 316 requires this report to be prepared and submitted every 90 days through September 30, 2010. The recommendation does not repeat section 9010 from the House-passed Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2010 which repeated this requirement. It is expected that the Department will continue to submit the report as required through September 30, 2010.

BUDGET AMENDMENT

The recommendation fully funds an increase in the Army's end strength, as requested by the Department of Defense in a formal budget amendment submitted on August 13, 2009, after the House had already completed consideration of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2010. The budget amendment, which provides $1,012,600,000 to recruit, retain and support an additional 15,000 soldiers in fiscal year 2010, has been accepted. It is understood that these additional soldiers, and the 7,000 additional soldiers the Department plans to add in fiscal year 2011, are needed temporarily to allow existing Brigade Combat Teams to deploy at full strength. There is a concern about the strain on the Army imposed by the on-going high operations tempo in Iraq and the increased demand in Afghanistan. There is also concern about the Department's decision to fund this temporary growth in end-strength by reducing funding for much-needed trucks and tactical vehicles. While it is believed that combat units in the theater of operations are being provided with the required quantity of high-quality tactical vehicles, concern remains that the Department is not requesting adequate funding to reset and replenish damaged and worn-out vehicles or addressing vehicle shortages in the National Guard and the reserve forces. Accordingly, the recommendation provides funding of $1,063,038,000 for High Mobility Multipurpose Wheeled Vehicles (HMMWV), and $863,357,000 for the Family of Medium Tactical Vehicles. The recommendation provides much needed trucks for the active Army, the Army National Guard and the Army Reserve.

MI-17 HELICOPTERS

There is concern with the Department's growing reliance on the Mi-17 helicopter to meet critical tactical lift requirements for Afghanistan, Iraq and Pakistan security forces. This platform has exceptionally-high maintenance requirements. Parts and service are not readily available in the theater of operations. Furthermore, the Mi-17 is in high demand by U.S. forces operating in and training for Afghanistan, but there are only two foreign-owned plants producing new aircraft at this time. Therefore, the Secretary of Defense is directed to report to the congressional defense committees not later than sixty days after the enactment of this Act on the Department of Defense's current and anticipated demand for Mi-17s for U.S., Afghanistan, Iraq and Pakistan security forces, the anticipated availability or shortage of additional airframes, the sustainability of the airframes currently slated for use by Afghanistan and Iraq security forces, an analysis of alternative airframes, and the future costs and funding sources available for procuring Mi-17s.

MEDICAL TREATMENT FOR CONTRACTORS

There is concern that American workers are not getting reasonable medical treatment for injuries they have suffered while working in a combat zone. Accordingly, the Department is urged to encourage Federal contractors to provide access to the most effective treatment available for injuries suffered while working outside the United States in support of military operations, including Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom; and encourage Federal contractors performing a Federal contract outside the United States to ensure that American workers performing the contract receive the same benefits for injuries suffered outside the United States that they would receive if they were working within the United States.

COMMANDER'S EMERGENCY RESPONSE
PROGRAM

The recommendation provides $1,200,000,000 for the Commander's Emergency Response Program (CERP) in fiscal year 2010, $300,000,000 below the request. Included in this amount is $1,000,000,000 for CERP in Afghanistan and $200,000,000 for CERP in Iraq. The amount provided for CERP in Afghanistan effectively doubles what has been committed in Afghanistan for fiscal year 2009. Additionally, with the redeployment from Iraq and withdrawal from the major cities, CERP requirements in that theater of operations will decrease significantly in fiscal year 2010. Of the funds provided for CERP, $500,000,000 shall be withheld pending completion and submission of the report described below.

The Department of Defense needs to greatly improve its management and oversight of CERP and its justifications of CERP budget requests. Additionally, there is concern that the Department's plan to significantly increase the use of CERP in Afghanistan does not yet include an increase in the number of personnel qualified to conduct proper oversight and management of those funds. Therefore, the Secretary of Defense is directed to conduct a thorough review of CERP and submit a report to the congressional defense committees not later than 180 days after enactment of this Act. This report shall include: the process by which CERP budget requests are generated and justified; existing management and oversight of CERP funds and contracts by the Department of the Army, the Undersecretary of Defense, Comptroller, and U.S. Central Command; the number of personnel required and the number of personnel currently deployed to Afghanistan with Joint Contracting Command and U.S. Forces—Afghanistan specifically in support of CERP; a separate assessment for Iraq and Afghanistan of the goals, purpose and expected requirement for CERP funds in the coming year; the coordination process of projects with other U.S. government agencies and Non-Governmental Organizations carrying out projects in Iraq and Afghanistan; the requirements for the sustainment of projects carried out under CERP; the procedures for ensuring that projects carried out under CERP are coordinated with the host governments and local community leaders; and the process and systems for tracking projects carried out under CERP. ## UP ARMORED HMMWVS

The fiscal year 2010 budget request for Overseas Contingency Operations includes funding for the procurement of up-armored HMMWVs. At the request of the Marine Corps, Congress appropriated $177,200,000 in fiscal year 2009 supplemental funding for the procurement of Frag Kit 4 underbody armor protection for M1114 vehicles in theater. However, it is understood that the Marine Corps has rescinded that requirement due to technical difficulties and will not procure any Frag Kit 4 kits. Therefore, the Commandant of the Marine Corps is directed to apply the funds previously appropriated for the procurement of Frag Kit 4 kits for the procurement of up-armored HMMWVs for contingency operations instead.

FAMILY OF HEAVY TACTICAL VEHICLES

The recommendation includes $803,230,000 for the Family of Heavy Tactical Vehicles. The funding provides for the purchase of a variety of heavy trucks, tractors and trailers including Heavy Expanded Mobility Tactical Trucks; Heavy Equipment Transporter Tractors; Heavy Equipment Transporter Trailers; and other heavy transport systems to support line haul, local haul, unit resupply and other missions. These trucks and trailers provide critical support to units in the field. The Army is expected to promptly procure these heavy trucks and trailers as described in budget justification materials.

COMMON REMOTELY OPERATED WEAPONS STATION

The recommendation provides $495,000,000 for Common Remotely Operated Weapons Stations (CROWS), which includes the $235,000,000 in the budget request, a transfer of $360,000,000 from Other Procurement, Army, and a program reduction of $100,000,000. Although there is strong support for the CROWS program, this reduction will avoid funding ahead of need. It is understood that funding for CROWS systems is available in the funding lines for other weapons systems and tactical vehicles. Should additional CROWS funding be required in fiscal year 2010, the Army should reprogram internally to meet the demand. The Army is encouraged to make the CROWS System a Program of Record.

MINE RESISTANT AMBUSH PROTECTED (MRAP) AND MINE RESISTANT AMBUSH PROTECTED ALL TERRAIN VEHICLES (M-ATVs)

The recommendation provides $6,281,000,000, an increase of $825,000,000 over the request to address additional M-ATV vehicle requirements, as identified by the Department. The Department shall continue to adhere to the execution and reporting requirements contained in section 8122 of Public Law 110-116.

TRAINING DEVICES FOR MINE RESISTANT AMBUSH PROTECTED (MRAP) AND MINE RESISTANT AMBUSH PROTECTED ALL TERRAIN VEHICLES (M-ATVs)

In response to the threat of Improvised Explosive Devices (IEDs) to Forces in theater, the Department of Defense has procured more than 16,000 MRAPs, and recently validated a requirement of more than 6,000 light-weight MRAPs, M-ATVs, for operations in Afghanistan.

Due to the weight of the heavy armor and high center of gravity, the driving characteristics of both the MRAP and M-ATV are considerably different from other vehicles that are in use by the military. Aggressive safety training helps avoid casualties due to roll-overs and other types of accidents. Emergency egress training, including the emergency operation of the heavy armored doors is essential. It is understood that MRAP vehicles and virtual trainers have been provided to home station training facilities for active component, National Guard and Reserve units to prepare service members to operate and maintain these vehicles, which they will receive upon their arrival in the combat theaters. The military services are encouraged to take maximum advantage of these training devices to prepare servicemembers for operations in and around MRAPs and M-ATVs. The Department is expected to use funds available in this Act to procure additional training devices, including virtual vehicle trainers if required.

NATIONAL GUARD AND RESERVE EQUIPMENT

The recommendation provides $950,000,000 for the National Guard and Reserve Equipment Account. Of that amount, $575,000,000 is for the Army National Guard; $135,000,000 for the Air National Guard; $85,000,000 for the U.S. Army Reserve; $55,000,000 for the Navy Reserve; $45,000,000 for the Marine Corps Reserve; and $55,000,000 for the Air Force Reserve to meet urgent equipment needs that may arise this fiscal year.

This funding will allow the Guard and reserve components to procure high priority equipment that will complement the combined State and Federal missions.

MODERNIZATION PRIORITIES

Each National Guard and reserve component Chief shall submit to the congressional defense committees a detailed assessment of that component's modernization priorities not later than 30 days after enactment of this Act. The National Guard and reserve component Chiefs should exercise control of the funds provided in this account, to better ensure that the most urgent National Guard and reserve equipment modernization priorities are addressed with the funding provided in this appropriation.

SABER FOCUS

The Saber Focus demonstration program is envisioned to provide a much needed capability to the warfighter. The Congress has provided over $200,000,000 for this effort, funded entirely outside the normal bud-eting process. The Department has been given numerous opportunities to fund this potentially game-changing program in its base budget but has chosen not to do so, largely due to schedule slips with the actual demonstration. The demonstration is currently scheduled in fiscal year 2010 and will utilize funding carried over from fiscal year 2009. Therefore, the recommendation provides $16,900,000 for the Saber Focus program, a reduction of $35,000,000, which should be sufficient to finally transition the program to a Program of Record.

DIVISION B—OTHER MATTERS

Section 1001 provides such sums as are necessary for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), to be held in reserve for use in such amounts and at such times as may be necessary to carry out the program. The fiscal year 2010 appropriation for SNAP was based on the latest official projection available to Congress at that time—the Office of Management and Budget’s Mid-Session Review—and can support a large increase in participation over fiscal year 2009. However, increases in participation levels in the latter part of fiscal year 2009 were very high. If those rates of increase continue, the current appropriation level would not be sufficient to meet program participation.

Section 1002 provides $400,000,000 in additional funding for state administrative expenses under the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, to assist states in dealing with high program participation levels, designated as an emergency requirement.

Section 1003 extends the authorization for compulsory copyright license used by satellite television providers to February 28, 2010. Funding is fully offset.

Section 1004 provides extension to certain provisions of the USA PATRIOT Improvement and Reauthorization Act of 2005 and the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act of 2004 until February 28, 2010.

Section 1005 extends the National Flood Insurance Program through February 28, 2010.

Section 1006 provides $125,000,000 to the Small Business Administration (SBA), to continue two temporary enhancements to SBA loan guarantee programs made by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 and which are nearly out of funding. One of the enhancements being extended allows the SBA to guarantee 90 percent of certain small business loans, instead of the 75 percent allowed under permanent law (or 85 percent for small loans), thereby encouraging banks to make these loans by reducing the amount they have at risk and the reserves they must hold. The other reduces fees paid by lenders and borrowers. The funding provided in the bill is estimated to be sufficient to continue both items through February 28, 2010. The bill also extends the expiration date of the authorization for the 90 percent loan guarantees from February 17 to February 28, 2010. Funding is fully offset.

Section 1007 will release upon enactment to Swain County, North Carolina $4,000,000 of previously appropriated funds, with the remaining $8,800,000 to be made available 120 days after the County, the state of North Carolina, the Interior Department and the Tennessee Valley Authority reach a settlement.

Section 1008 extends the authorization for the highway, transit, highway safety and motor carrier safety programs of the Department of Transportation until February 28, 2010.

Section 1009 provides an extension of expiring UI benefit provisions that were established or continued in the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, including the Emergency Unemployment Compensation program, 100 percent Federal funding for the Extended Benefits program, and the extra $25 weekly UI benefit through February 28, 2010.

Section 1010 extends the 65 percent COBRA health insurance subsidy from nine to 15 months for individuals who have lost their jobs. The job lost eligibility date is extended in the provision through February 28, 2010.

Section 1011 delays a scheduled 21.2 percent reduction in Medicare’s 2010 physician payments through February 28, 2010.

Section 1012 includes a provision to freeze the Department of Health and Human Services poverty guidelines at 2009 levels in order to prevent a reduction in eligibility for certain means-tested programs, including Medicaid, Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), and child nutrition, through March 1, 2010.

Section 1013 rescinds funds from the digital television conversion coupon program.

Section 1014 provides that explanatory statement submitted by the Chairman of the Defense Subcommittee shall have the same effect as a joint explanatory statement.

Though clause 9(b) of rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives technically only applies to conference reports, the following is a list of congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits that were neither (1) included in the House bill or Senate amendment on H.R. 3326, nor (2) in a report of a committee of either House on this bill or on a companion measure.

I reserve the balance of my time. Mr. YOUNG of Florida. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I want to congratulate all of the members of the subcommittee for having worked so hard all year long to get this product to where we finally have final passage on the issue.

The House passed this bill 4½ months ago. The Senate passed it in September. It has been a bit of a painful process along the way because a lot of suggestions and a lot of ideas were raised of which we could agree to some and could not agree to others.

Anyway, we have produced what I think is a good package. I may not be as enthusiastic about this one as I have been for many others in the past, but it is a good bill. It does provide what our soldiers, what our sailors, what our marines, and what our airmen need in order to do their jobs and to protect themselves while they're at it.

I would have said "Coast Guard," but we don't have the jurisdiction in this subcommittee for the Coast Guard. Yet we recognize the importance of the United States Coast Guard as well.

The bill is not too much different from the House bill that we passed 4½ months ago. There has had to be some negotiation, obviously, but I think we provided what our soldiers need and what our country needs. There is a 3.4 percent pay raise for the members of our military. It wasn't quite that big when it came to us, but we increased it to give a little more of a substantial pay raise to the members of our military.

There is one point that I was questioned about which I need to make clear: There is no money in this bill to move detainees from Guantanamo or to buy or build new facilities in the United States for detaining Guantanamo detainees. So there is no money in this bill for that purpose.

All in all, it's a good bill and one that I can support enthusiastically. As I think most of the Members know, Madam Speaker, a number of other temporary issues have been added to this bill at the leadership level, and we do not object to that. We think that that is perfectly acceptable. In fact, I think it's a good idea in some of the cases.

I yield to the ranking member on the full committee, who chaired this subcommittee for quite a few years, the gentleman from California (Mr. LEWIS), who has been a major player in our Defense appropriations for years.

Mr. LEWIS of California. I very much appreciate my colleague for yielding.

Madam Speaker, my friend, Mr. MURTHA, has spent some time at Bethesda, and I would like to recognize the contributions that he has made to this bill and to the work he has done with Mr. YOUNG.

Madam Speaker, it has taken months to get to this point but I'm pleased to see that we are finally considering a Defense Appropriations bill to provide funds for the men and women of our armed forces and the national security needs of our country.

We should have been on the House floor months ago—months ago—passing a clean Defense funding bill. Like many Members, I questioned the priorities of the Democrat leadership in moving this year's funding bills, particularly the decision to send the President the Legislative Branch conference report as our first completed bill. It sent an unmistakable signal that the House majority was putting the needs of Congress first and placing the needs of our troops at the end of the line.

I know there has been great temptation to use the Defense bill as the vehicle to carry many unrelated legislative items that could not and would not muster enough support to pass on their own. And while this package before us is far from clean, it's a streamlined version of what was, just a few days ago, shaping up to be the mother of all Christmas tree bills.

It was Chairman OBEY who, on December 18th, 2005 said, and I quote, "The defense bill ought to be about delivering equipment and supporting our troops. There is something especially outrageous and callous about the willingness of the majority party leadership to allow the Defense Department bill in a time of war to be held hostage to totally unrelated legislative items."

But that is precisely what we are doing by including a variety of non-defense related legislative provisions in this package. Some items like COBRA, food stamps, and so-called "poverty guidelines" have been manipulated in a way to suit the Chairman's purposes for redistributing income in America but do not reflect the agreement reached to garner bipartisan support on this bill.

We are also designating as emergency spending an additional $20 billion worth of program extensions. I'm not arguing that some of these are unworthy but merely pointing out that they should have no place in a defense spending bill. At the very least, we should pay for them honestly rather than continuing to add to our mountain of debt.

More curious to me is the fact that buried within this legislation is an airdropped Member project in the form of bill language authorizing the payment of nearly $13 million to a county in North Carolina. I can only assume that this project meets all of the necessary requirements for congressional projects. No one seems to know how or why this project was included in this package but it's there in black and white for the world to see.

Also disconcerting is the fact that the underlying defense spending bill fails to include funding needed for additional MRAPS to support the 30,000 troop surge in Afghanistan. My understanding is that the House and Senate majority and minority were in full agreement to funding an additional 4,000 MRAPS—and yet a decision was made at another level—perhaps even at a staff level—to leave this vital funding out of this package. Again, it's a decision like this that causes me to scratch my head and question the priorities of this majority leadership.

At the end of the day, this legislation is far from perfect; I would vote against Division B if given the opportunity. But it is a vast improvement over the massive train wreck that was heading our way earlier this week. I strongly support the underlying defense portion of this package and ask our colleagues to support our troops who are defending freedom at home and abroad.

Mr. CONYERS. Madam Speaker, I rise in opposition to H.R. 3326, the Fiscal Year 2010 Department of Defense Appropriations Act.

The President's announcement last week came as no surprise to me and many of my colleagues; he has consistently stated throughout the Presidential campaign and during his first year in office that he is committed to shifting military resources from Iraq into Afghanistan. Nonetheless, I am disappointed the President has moved ahead with, what I believe to be, an incorrect course of action.

As we move forward in this process, it is imperative that the House consider all options about how to best succeed in Afghanistan. It is in this spirit today that I want to announce the creation of a new "Peace and Progress in Afghanistan Caucus" that will give Democrats and Republicans a place to organize and advocate for a new strategy that recognizes the need to redeploy our troops, while strengthening our civilian and diplomatic approaches.

The presence of military troops in Afghanistan is having a detrimental effect on our efforts to secure a lasting peace in the region and diffuse the threat of international terrorism. Our military presence only inflames anti-American resentment.

Only by pursuing a wide-ranging policy that focuses on reorienting the United States' commitment to the Afghan government and people by emphasizing indigenous reconciliation and reconstruction strategies, rigorous regional diplomacy, and swift redeployment of the US military, will we ultimately succeed in Afghanistan."

I was extremely heartened that two of the three prongs of the President's new strategy focus on a civilian surge and on diplomacy with Pakistan. It is a shame that the funding in this bill will not support these worthy approaches. The President believes that the United States can transform resentment into hope by working with our humanitarian and local government partners on the ground to give the Afghan people access to education, strong civic institutions, and a sustainable, legitimate source of income.

I believe that a new focus on a civilian surge should also empower local NGOs and initiatives that directly benefit the Afghan people, like the highly successful National Solidarity Project, an Afghan-run community development program.

Similarly, if the Pakistani people understand that we are committed to helping secure their safety and prosperity, they will step up their efforts to combat terrorism within their borders. Additionally, I believe we must expand our thinking beyond Pakistan to include other actors and countries that affect the greater region. One of the least discussed aspects of this conflict is the role India must play in promoting regional peace. For years, the Pakistani military and intelligence services have been hesitant to crack down on Taliban militants operating in the tribal regions because they fear the establishment of an Afghan government that would be susceptible to Indian influence. Such a worst case scenario, in their view, would give one of their traditional regional foes a foothold on both their northern and southern borders.

In order to secure a long-term regional peace, the President must engage India and Pakistan to seek a final political agreement on Kashmir. Only when Pakistan feels secure in the south, will the Pakistani army be able to focus its efforts on defeating the Taliban who dwell along the Afghan border.

I look forward to working with the President to promote and expand these critical approaches to securing victory.

The President has committed to ending the war in a responsible manner. Although we disagree on the means being employed to reach that laudable goal at the moment, I believe that I and other pro-peace, pro-national security Members of Congress can help him can craft a successful policy that will bring our troops home as soon as possible.

In the meantime, I will continue to oppose funding a war that emphasizes a heavy military footprint. No amount of additional troops can bring a war with no military solution to an end.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Madam Speaker, as we enter the final days of 2009, I'm pleased to join my colleagues in Congress to pass a series of bills that will protect jobs, spur employment, and strengthen the ability of families to make it through economic hardship. Among these measures is H.R. 3326, the "Fiscal Year 2010 Department of Defense Appropriations Act." Although I remain extremely frustrated by large portions of this bill that spend too much on the wrong things, I voted for it to provide resources for our troops, including hundreds of Oregonians stationed abroad, and for Oregon's economy.

The bill includes a number of hard-fought provisions that will make a difference for Oregon's economy. Universities like Portland State, Oregon, and Oregon State, local companies like Precision Castparts and our regional manufacturing initiative, the Manufacturing 21 Coalition, will see needed investment in programs to treat traumatic brain injury and develop a skilled workforce. These are the right investments—targeted and timely. Spending billions of dollars on items that the Pentagon doesn't need and the President didn't want takes resources away from addressing the deficit, or from critical investments like our own people.

This bill is also a vehicle for making sure that millions of people can bridge this economic downturn. This legislation ensures that ordinary Americans do not lose unemployment benefits, that the unemployed have access to health care, that doctors in Oregon and around the country are not subjected to the egregious Medicare reimbursement cuts. These efforts demand support.

I look forward to swift enactment of these much-needed provisions. Grinding the legislative process to a halt only short-changes honest Americans. It is my sincere wish that in the New Year we renew a spirit of cooperation in the Senate and across the aisle.

Mr. BRALEY of Iowa. Madam Speaker, I rise today to express my support for the Defense Appropriations Act for FY10 and am glad that it includes extensions of several laws that are set to expire, such as extending unemployment benefits and COBRA health insurance. I am also pleased that it includes important items such as a delay of the scheduled 21 percent cut in Medicare payments to doctors and an extension of highway programs.

I am disappointed, however, that several tax extenders that were passed by the House last week as part of the Tax Extenders Act will not be considered before the end of the year, such as the biodiesel tax credit. Although there has been some discussion to pass these extenders retroactively early next year, Congress' failure to extend the current credit before the end of the year could cause harm to the biodiesel facilities in my District. Unlike other tax extenders, the biodiesel tax credit is liquid and a retroactive tax bill is still not as effective as ensuring the tax credit continues uninterrupted. We not only need to get this extended in the short-term, but we need to come up with a longer-term plan to provide more security for investment in biodiesel which is good for the economy, the environment, and energy security.

I am also concerned that Congress has failed to extend the 1.0 Floor on the Work Geographic Practice Cost Index (GPCI) under Medicare Part B, which expires at the end of this year. This is exactly why we need to address these unfair GPCIs once and for all, which only serve to penalize Iowa medical providers who choose to accept Medicare patients. I have called for a permanent extension of the 1.0 Floor, and I have secured language in the Health Care Reform bill to address geographic disparities in Medicare. However, the current floor is still set to expire at the end of this year. I will continue to urge my colleagues to address this problem through a retroactive fix as soon as possible next year, and through a permanent fix of the unfair geographic adjusters under Medicare.

To help Iowa's farmers, it is also essential to extend the five-year depreciation for farming business machinery and equipment, as well as extensions of provisions encouraging farmers to set aside land for conservation. As we continue to work our way out of the harshest economic climate since the Great Depression, these tax credits will play a tremendous role in encouraging job creation and strengthening Iowa's middle class families. We also need to extend the Research and Development tax credit. By renewing this credit, we are taking meaningful steps to encourage companies to hire Iowa's educated and experienced workers for good-paying 21st century jobs that can't be outsourced.

Thanks again, Madam Speaker, for your leadership. We have gotten a lot accomplished this year, but it is critical that we make the tax extenders package a high priority item. I encourage you to work with the Senate to get this passed into law so that we don't lose jobs in the industries that rely on these credits at the same time that we are working so hard to create them.

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of the 2010 Department of Defense Appropriations Act.

This measure represents Congress's commitment to the millions of dedicated men and women, in and out of uniform, throughout the Department of Defense, who work to address the national security challenges of the country. This bill also expresses our commitment to their families, whose service to the country is recognized and greatly appreciated.

In total, the act appropriates $636.3 billion for DoD programs, operations and troop support. This represents a 2 percent increase of current funding levels, and while not including funding for the President's proposed troop increase in Afghanistan, includes $128.2 billion for military operations in Iraq and Afghanistan.

The bill contains funds to meet the logistical needs of our military including new and updated equipment, combat vehicles and battle gear. The measure also includes funding for military pay raises, military health care benefits and quality of life improvements for the troops and their families.

Since first clearing this chamber in July, there have been important add-ons made to the bill. These add-ons include a number of non-defense provisions—such as an extension of certain emergency unemployment insurance benefits; an extension of a 65 percent premium subsidy for COBRA health insurance, allowing recipients to obtain the subsidized insurance coverage for six additional months; a delay, until February, of a scheduled 21 percent cut in Medicare payments to doctors; funding for nutrition assistance; and $400 million for state administrative expenses.

Additionally, I am especially pleased that today's DoD Appropriations bill includes an unprecedented fund of $300 million set aside for the purpose of mitigating BRAC-related transportation and community impacts at the new Walter Reed National Military Medical Center and Fort Belvoir. Congress is committed to building world class facilities for our wounded warriors in the national capital region, and these funds are an integral part of that effort. I want to thank Congressman MORAN, Chairman MURTHA, and Chairman OBEY, as well as Senator MIKULSKI and Senator CARDIN, for their partnership on this initiative. I look forward to working with our Senate colleagues, the Department of Defense, and other stakeholders to make these funds available for their intended purpose at the soonest possible date.

Madam Speaker, as the country prepares to ask even more of our service members, it is our responsibility to do all we can to honor our commitments to them and their families—While we can never fully repay the debt we owe them, we can work to ensure that they have the resources they need to do their jobs abroad and the resources they need to meet their obligations here at home.

I encourage my colleagues join me in support of the bill.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Madam Speaker, I rise to discuss the $2.4 million that was included at my request in the FY10 Defense Appropriations Bill for Synthetic Liquid Fuels.

Considering the large amounts of potential CO<sub>2</sub> emissions produced by a coal or a natural gas-to-liquids facility, technologies will have to be developed to ascertain the feasibility of sequestering the CO<sub>2</sub>.

Recent investigations by the U.S. Department of Energy have shown that between 8 and 12 billion barrels of additional oil can be recovered from the existing Alaska North Slope oil fields with using CO<sub>2</sub> enhanced oil recovery technology. Alaska North Slope oil reservoirs present a potentially large target or "sink" for sequestering the CO<sub>2</sub> generated in a Fairbanks-based coal-to-liquids or a coal/gas-to-liquids plant, thereby enhancing conventional oil recovery as a by-product. However, very little practical study of CO<sub>2</sub> sequestration has directly addressed the Alaska North Slope area. Moreover, in the present case, effective CO<sub>2</sub> sequestration is highly dependent on the technologically and economically-feasible transportation of CO<sub>2</sub> from the Fairbanks source to the Alaska North Slope. Additionally, for the Alaska Natural Gas Pipeline proposed to bring the Alaska North Slope natural gas to world markets, to be successful, accommodation for the handling of about 480 mmscf CO<sub>2</sub>/day, assuming 4 bscf/day of natural gas, from the Prudhoe Bay Unit must be considered.

The study paid for by these monies would investigate the feasibility of gathering, delivering and utilizing the resultant CO<sub>2</sub> from the plant for enhanced oil recovery on the North Slope of Alaska, thereby simultaneously sequestering CO<sub>2</sub> and increasing domestic oil production. If this proves feasible, the construction of the proposed would supply the U.S. military with domestically produced synthetic fuel and greatly increase U.S. oil production from existing oil fields.

Mr. MICA. Madam Speaker, although I voted "yes" in support of H.R. 3326, the Defense Appropriations Bill, and consider myself a strong advocate for those in military service to our nation, I want to express my opposition to funds appropriated in this measure to move and house Terrorists from Guantanamo to Illinois. Having personally visited Guantanamo I can attest that prisoners and detainees have accommodations for better than many seniors, veterans and law-abiding Americans. These terrorists are enemy combatants who committed international acts of war and terror and should not be entitled to our civil or criminal system of justice.

Furthermore after spending nearly half a billion dollars on the Guantanamo facility to now waste a half a billion dollars more on that scum of the earth is a horrible insult to all Americans and every taxpayer. When you think that this administration cannot possibly come up with another dramatic waste of public funds it seems today in this rarified air in Washington one never ceases to be stunned and annoyed.

Unfortunately, the wasteful action and insult relating to Guantanamo is only one of a number of unacceptable provisions that have been tucked into the Defense Appropriations Bill.

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN. Madam Speaker, I want to echo the comments of my Ranking Members, Mr. YOUNG and Mr. LEWIS. This is a good bill, thanks to the hard work of our Chairman JACK MURTHA, his Ranking Member BILL YOUNG and their capable staffs.

Clearly, had I written the bill, I would have written it differently in certain areas. (I certainly would not have tacked on a record increase in the debt limit!)

My major regret is that we should have done more.

This bill started out $3.5 billion short of the President's request— despite the fact that we are engaged in two, hard-fought wars.

And now, we have a larger mission in Afghanistan involving more soldiers and Marines and a more complex and expensive operations to support and resupply them.

At a time when this Congress has found the 'will and the wallet' to throw billions of borrowed dollars at every domestic program under the sun, our leaders are finding ways to cut defense—sometimes subtle, sometimes blatant.

I tell my Colleagues who have pledged to support a strong national defense, that this bill is the high water mark. It's all downhill from here.

With that said, Madam Speaker, there is much to like in the base bill.

I support reform of our military acquisition processes.

I support Secretary Gates' program to re-examine our national security priorities in light of the new irregular challenges and threats that are proliferating well beyond Iraq and Afghanistan.

I support funding in the bill for: a 3.4 percent pay raise for our troops (all volunteers); over $29 billion to provide first class medical care through our Defense Health program; $15 billion to allow the Navy to build seven ships; funding for more F/A-18 aircraft. We also set the stage for a future multi-year procurement of the F-18 aircraft to begin to close the Navy's "fighter gap;" $6.3 billion for 6,600 more lightweight MRAPs for Afghanistan. These vehicles are badly needed as IED's have proliferated;

However, I wish we could find a way to restore the cuts to missile defense and ensure that the F-22 assembly line keeps rolling.

In this context, Madam Speaker, I worry that this Administration is not making the investments today to ensure that we will be prepared to defend our interests against all threats in the years to come.

I must also add that I am very concerned about the Majority's insistence on using this bill, and our troops, to pass unrelated, and sometimes controversial provisions. For example, this bill should not be the vehicle to legislate Medicare doctor's payments, COBRA, Satellite television, nutrition assistance reauthorization, the PATRIOT Act and other provisions.

In closing, I thank Chairman MURTHA and Ranking Member YOUNG for their leadership.

Ms. RICHARDSON. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3326, the FY2010 Defense Appropriations Act," which provides $636.3 billion in defense funding. This bill keeps faith with our troops and provides the funding needed to ensure they are the best trained, best prepared, best equipped, and best cared for fighting force in the history of the world. That is the least we can do for those who willingly risk their lives to keep us safe.

Madam Speaker, I also support the bill because it makes the needed investments to keep our nation strong, safe, and respected in the world. One of the most important investments is the $2.5 billion in funding provided to build and maintain 10 C-17 Air Force cargo aircraft, which is assembled in my district but serves the nation and helps protect the peace the world over.

I want to thank Chairman MURTHA and Chairman OBEY for working with me to secure this funding and also for masterly shepherding this legislation to the floor.

Madam Speaker, in my remaining time let me briefly explain why I fight so hard for the C-17, as Chairman MURTHA can attest: Airlift is the enabler of global reach, global power, and global vigilance. This is what makes us a superpower.

The C-17 is the best airlift aircraft in the world because of its ability to fly long distances and land in remote airfields in rough, land-locked regions.

The C-17 is the premier transporter for military, humanitarian and peacekeeping missions because it can:

Take off from a 7,600-ft. airfield, carry a payload of 160,000 pounds, fly 2,400 nautical miles, refuel while in flight and land in 3,000 ft. or less on a small unpaved or paved airfield in day or night.

In addition to the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq, the C-17 has proved its mettle in humanitarian missions to Darfur, Myanmar, China, and Georgia in the former Soviet Union.

The men and women who design and build the C-17 represent a critical component of our nation's industrial base and a workforce that is second to none.

At a time when we are adding to our troop strength in the Army and Marine Corps overall, and expanding our deployment to Afghanistan, it only makes sense to continue production of the C-17, the only program that provides for strategic airlift over the long term.

For California alone, the C-17 program at Long Beach contributes almost 14,000 direct jobs and an economic impact of $2 billion.

In conclusion, Madam Speaker, I support this bill because it restores and enhances the readiness of our troops, equipment, and defense infrastructure. It takes care of our military personnel and their families. And it authorizes the needed investments to keep our nation strong, safe, and respected in the world.

I urge my colleagues to join me in voting for the bill on final passage.

Mr. HOLT. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of this important bill.

To help support our troops and their families, this bill provides a much-deserved 3.4 percent military pay increase, as well as $472.4 million for Family Advocacy programs and full funding for Family Support and Yellow Ribbon to provide support to military families, including quality child care, job training for spouses, and expanded counseling and outreach to families experiencing the separation and stress of war. Additionally, H.R. 3326 provides $29.2 billion ($3 billion above the 2009 level) for the Defense Health Program to provide quality medical care for servicemembers and their including $120 million for Traumatic Brain Injury and Psychological Health Research.

Regarding the Defense Department's operations, I'm pleased that the bill provides $5 billion to allow defense personnel, not contractors, to perform critical department functions. The Department estimates that every position that is converted from contract to federal civilian saves on average $44,000 per year. Additionally, the bill reduces contracted advisory and assistance services by $51 million, and includes general provisions to stop further conversions by the Department of Defense from government functions to contractors. The bill also contains important policy provisions I support, including a bar on the establishment of permanent bases in Iraq or Afghanistan, and the continuation of a general requirement prohibiting the torture of detainees held in U.S. custody.

I am disappointed that we were forced to include in this bill a 60 day extension of three expiring Patriot Act authorities. The very good Patriot Act reform bill reported out of the Judiciary Committee eliminates over-broad surveillance authorities, tightens requirements for the issuance of national security letters, and contains important oversight requirements that will help us protect our people from both potential terrorists and an out-of-control executive branch. That bill should be passed by the House in January 2010 and the Senate should adopt it.

Some non-defense policy items are also attached to this bill, including expanded unemployment benefits, including increased payouts and longer duration of benefits, through February 28, 2010. The bill also extends from nine to 15 months (to February 28, 2010) the 65 percent COBRA health insurance subsidy for individuals who have lost their jobs. The COBRA subsidy extension would help New Jersey families between jobs immediately, as without this subsidy the average New Jersey family would pay $1,156 a month for COBRA coverage, which would consume over two-thirds of their unemployment benefits.

Overall, this bill meets important national security and domestic policy needs, and I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this bill.

Mr. BOYD. Madam Speaker, I want to thank Chairman MURTHA and Ranking Member YOUNG for their work on the Fiscal Year 2010 Defense Appropriations Act. This bill will ensure that our military members have the equipment, training and resources they need to continue to defend our great nation, particularly in light of the continuing engagements in Iraq and Afghanistan. As a Vietnam veteran, I understand the sacrifices our troops are making and they are never far from my mind in the work I do here.

I specifically want to highlight the section in the bill under consideration today regarding the Combat Air Force restructure plan and thank the Chairman for his work with me on this provision to delay the early retirement of F-15s from Tyndall Air Force Base. I also want to acknowledge and thank the Secretary of the Air Force and the Chief of Staff for their incredible dedication and willingness to resolve this tough issue with me.

This six month delay of the Combat Air Force restructure plan stipulated in H.R. 3326 represents a tremendous legislative victory for Bay County and is the result of a year's worth of efforts by our community. Working together, we have put Tyndall in a strategic position to be a key component of the Air Force's next generation fighter infrastructure. It has been made clear from the very highest levels of the Air Force, from the Chief and Secretary, that Tyndall is a national jewel that plays, and will continue to play, a valuable role in our country's defense.

I also want to thank the people of Bay County, particularly the Bay Defense Alliance, who have been partners with me as we worked together to protect the economic interest of our community and security interests of our country. It is no secret from the halls of Congress to the halls of the Pentagon that the community supporting Tyndall Air Force Base is top notch.

Additionally, I look forward to the results of the reporting requirements in this bill that will help us all better understand the Air Force's fighter requirements and the impact that the drawdown would have on our nation's combat air forces and the communities that support them.

In summary, this bill will make sure that our nation remains the strongest military in the world and I strongly support it.

Mr. ETHERIDGE. Madam Speaker, I am pleased once again to rise in support of H.R. 3326 the Fiscal Year 2010 Defense Appropriations Act. In addition to making important investments to keep the American people safe, strengthen our military, and support our troops, this amended bill makes sure that the American economy is safe, strengthens our recovery, and supports those in need.

As a veteran of the U.S. Army, and the representative of Fort Bragg and Pope Air Force Base, I am proud of our troops who serve our country, and pleased that we are completing our work on funding their efforts in Iraq and Afghanistan, meeting their equipment needs at home, and fulfilling our commitment to our troops and their families. I spoke about many of those provisions when this bill first passed in July.

This amended bill also keeps our commitment to the working men and women of America who deserve support in this economic downturn. As the representative of a state with one of the highest unemployment rates in the nation, I am proud that this bill will provide a degree of economic security for workers who are struggling during this holiday season. Extending benefits for folks who are having trouble finding a job is the right thing to do for families and our recovering economy. The temporary support in this bill will help North Carolinians maintain health care coverage and pay their bills while they get back on their feet and find their next job opportunity.

This bill continues our efforts to get the economy back on track and create jobs. The families who receive extended benefits will be putting money right back into our local economy—buying groceries, filling their cars with gas, and making their mortgage payments on time. The bill also extends improvements to Small Business Administration guaranteed loans so that small businesses can secure the financing they need in these tight economic times. Small business are a major engine of our economy, and are responsible for almost all year-over-year job growth. We must make sure they can get the funding they need to create jobs so we can reduce unemployment and restore our economy.

Madam Speaker, this bill already made sure our Armed forces have the support they need to protect the American people. The amendments we are voting on today also make sure we preserve our economic safety net and promote American prosperity.

I urge my colleagues to join me in support of H.R. 3326.

Mrs. BACHMANN. Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 3326, the Fiscal Year 2010 Department of Defense Appropriations Act, as amended by the Senate. However, while I applaud the hard work of House leadership in bringing this much needed legislation to the floor, I regret that an opportunity to more fully address the threat posed by suspected terrorists currently under detention by the United States government has been missed.

The United States military is responsible for keeping Americans safe. And in light of the challenge that we face in Iraq and Afghanistan, the Federal Government's commitment to our soldiers has never been more important. As such, I'm pleased we're working to ensure that the promises we've made to those who serve in our Armed Forces are kept. Whether it's the 3.4 percent military pay increase or the $104 billion to improve military equipment, I believe we must ensure our troops receive the support they deserve for the great sacrifice they have made by serving our country, and clearly this bill represents a strong show of that support.

However, while H.R. 3326, as passed, is a strong bill, I was disappointed that one of the most troubling issues of the day was not addressed. Critical to ensuring individual Americans' safety is the future treatment of the dangerous enemy combatants housed at the Guantanamo detention facility. Rather than allowing Khalid Sheikh Mohammed to be tried in New York City through our civilian court system and transporting Guantanamo detainees to Thomson Correctional Institution in Illinois, Congress should unequivocally restrict enemy combatants to trial by military commission and permanently deny funding to transport them into our country.

Madam Speaker, we are at a critical juncture in our nation's history. However, as we work to bolster a strong national defense, we cannot ignore the ever-present threat posed by those rogue agents who wish to do us harm. I believe a cornerstone of addressing this threat is to remove the current legal ambiguity with regard to detainee treatment. By trying these detainees in a civilian setting, we are allowing them to exploit our judicial system for personal gain and undermine the work of our military commissions, which have served our nation for centuries.

So while I am pleased to be here on the floor today supporting our troops, it is my sincere hope that the questions surrounding America's prosecution of enemy combatants will be answered in a way that best ensures our national security.

Mr. TIAHRT. Madam Speaker, the base bill of H.R. 3326, the FY2010 Defense Appropriations bill, effectively meets the needs of our men and women in uniform. Although not perfect, H.R. 3326 takes important steps to invest in the people and equipment of the United States Armed Forces. Sadly, Democrat leadership has once again decided to use this vital and non-partisan piece of legislation to enact controversial measures, such as bringing terrorists to U.S. soil.

The United States military is the strongest in the world due to our people, training and equipment. I am happy to say that each of those is strongly supported in this legislation.

Our military men and women are patriots and the world's finest soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines. Congress has a moral obligation to offer them our thanks and unwavering support. Although we can never fully repay their sacrifice and commitment, H.R. 3326 at least provides a pay raise. The bill provides a 3.4 percent pay raise for all servicemembers, which is 0.5% higher than that proposed by the Obama administration.

Our military and their families deserve the world's finest medical care. H.R. 3326 makes a $30 billion investment to care for sick and wounded servicemembers and their families. This includes $370 million for medical research and $120 million for Traumatic Brain Injury and psychological health research.

The legislation also provides $500 million for family advocacy programs that support military families. With so many servicemen and women deployed overseas, our military families are under particular strain. Whether at Fort Riley or McConnell Air Force Base, Kansas families need this extra assistance when their loved ones are deployed. The bill makes the right investments to ensure they are protected and supported.

Given the diverse roles our military performs—from safeguarding nuclear weapons to fighting terrorists in the jungles of the Philippines—rigorous training is essential to ensure our troops are ready for action and come home safely when the job is done. To achieve this objective, H.R. 3326 provides $154 billion for operations and maintenance accounts. During the 1990s, our nation had a “hollow military”—filled with people and equipment, but lacking the necessary training and readiness to be successful. We must never allow this to occur again.

Ensuring that our military has the finest equipment available is essential, and H.R. 3326 makes some necessary investments. With funding for the Next Generation Aerial Refueling Aircraft replacement, the Navy's Multi-mission Maritime Aircraft, and additional C-17 aircraft, among many other programs, our troops will have the most advanced equipment to effectively carry out the will of this nation and return home safely. These programs also create high-paying Kansas jobs that we so desperately need.

While this legislation makes the right investments in our fighting men and women and their families, it also includes a dangerous provision for our nation: allowing terrorists detainees currently held at Guantanamo Bay to be brought to the United States.

Terrorists do not belong in the streets or prisons of America. Following the dangerous decision to house unrepentant terrorists in the Midwest, this legislation does nothing to restrict the president's obsession with closing the detention facility at Guantanamo Bay and bringing terrorists to the United States. We have the most secure, state-of-the-art detention and interrogation facility in the world at Guantanamo Bay. That is where the terrorists should remain. They should never be brought to the United States.

Although Democrats continue to play politics with this spending bill, I cannot do the same. Our men and women in uniform deserve the resources to carry out the will of this nation, and this bill provides those. Therefore, I intend to vote for H.R. 3326 and I encourage my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. STARK. Madam Speaker, I rise to oppose yet another increase in war and defense spending. I have never voted for a Defense Appropriations bill. I will not start today. Throwing more money toward a war in Iraq that should never have been started and a war in Afghanistan that should be over diminishes our ability to address the real issues impacting families.

War spending already swallows over 50 percent of our discretionary budget. This bill will add $11 billion to an already bloated Defense budget, as President Obama eyes billions more for a troop increase in Afghanistan.

There are good things in this bill. I helped write provisions that will extend COBRA subsidies and prevent pay-cuts to Medicare physicians. The bill also extends unemployment benefits at a time when Americans are struggling to find jobs. While I support these provisions, I cannot support a bill where the good provisions are dwarfed by the $636.3 billion outlay for defense.

The right priorities for Congress are addressed in another bill we will consider today, the Jobs for Main Street Act (H.R. 2847). This legislation would put people to work rebuilding our country. It would invest in building schools, improving our transit systems, and upgrading our water infrastructure. It would prevent the lay-offs of teachers, police, and firefighters.

The Jobs for Main Street Act also would provide better protections for laid-off workers than the provisions in the Defense bill. It would extend emergency unemployment insurance benefits for an additional six months, and allow millions to maintain health care by expanding the COBRA subsidy to 15 months and extending the eligibility period to June 30th. This is the type of escalation our country needs.

Congress should not be giving more money to the Pentagon to wage war. We should be focused on creating jobs, providing health care for all Americans, and improving our education system. That is why I am voting for the Jobs for Main Street Act and against the wasteful Defense Appropriations bill.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise as a Member of the Foreign Affairs Committee to support House passage H.R. 3326, making appropriations for the Department of Defense for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2010. I urge the Congress to support the President's initiatives to terminate or reduce programs that fund narrowly focused activities, duplicate existing programs, or that have outlived their usefulness, specifically including the Kinetic Energy Interceptor program. The Congress is encouraged to adopt proposals made by the administration that would better target scarce resources and redirect funds to programs with greater potential for results.

I believe in a strong procurement approach that takes advantage of the efficiencies associated with an award to a single contractor.

I look forward to working with the Congress to address concerns regarding statutory direction to re-organize certain offices within the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI), reductions to cyber security programs, and cuts to classified activities in ODNI.

The measure provides more funding for equipment depleted by the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, special pay raises, and quality of life improvements for the troops and their families. It partially offsets these increases by cutting funding from current levels for missile defense and futuristic programs like the Future Combat System of new vehicles. I support the President in adding more money into the budget for our military families. I am disappointed that this bill appropriates no funds for the closure of the prison at Guantanamo, and blocks the transfer of prisoners. The bill references a detailed plan for the disposition of the detainees to be submitted and I look forward to seeing this plan. It also provides a 3.4% pay increase for military personnel, and a 2% pay raise for civilian federal employees which is vital in maintaining the morale of the troops and the federal law enforcement personnel that help secure America.

Finally, this bill prohibits the use of funds in the bill to establish permanent military bases in Iraq or U.S. control of Iraqi oil resources.

The bill also continues the prohibition on the use of funds provided for the Iraq Security Forces for the construction of facilities for the Iraqi government.

I support all provisions that require the Defense secretary to report to Congress on troop drawdown status and goals relating to the withdrawal of U.S. forces from Iraq by the end of 2011. The report, which is due 90 days after enactment and every 90 days thereafter, must include the following:

A detailed, month-by-month description of the transition of U.S. military forces and equipment out of Iraq;

A detailed, month-by-month description of the transition of U.S. contractors out of Iraq; and

How the Iraqi government is assuming the responsibility for reconciliation initiatives as the U.S. role transitions.

It is absolutely imperative that the U.S. Congress and the President agree on an eventual drawdown and removal of our forces from Iraq.

I am proud of the support to the military and their children that the FY 2010 Defense Appropriations bill provides. Congress approved a 3.4 percent increase in military pay, 0.5 percent above the Department of Defense request. This bill includes $29.2 billion for medical care for the Defense Health Program, which provides medical care for members of the armed services and their families. Included in the health care funding are $372 million for military medical research and $120 million for Traumatic Brain Injury and Psychological Health Research.

The FY10 Defense Appropriations bill included $472.4 million for Family Advocacy programs including Family Support and Yellow Ribbon. These programs include quality child care, job training for spouses, and an expansion of counseling services. For the families that experience the daily heartache of having a loved one far away, these programs reach out and provide support. I want to thank Chairman MURTHA for his untiring support of our troops and their families.

I want to stress that none of these funds will go toward the administration's plan to send 30,000 additional troops to Afghanistan, and I will continue to scrutinize the economic, military and social impacts of the administration's request. I am concerned about the cost of sending additional troops, as well as the effect that a larger presence in Afghanistan will have on troop morale. The White House estimates that it will cost $1 million per year for each additional soldier deployed, and I believe that $30 billion would be better spent on developing new jobs, and fixing our broken healthcare system, as well as in using "smart power" to peacefully work on the Afghan cease-fire.

The cost and the long-term commitment were given renewed significance on Tuesday, December 9, 2009 when Afghan President Hamid Karzai said, as reported in the New York Times, that "Afghanistan would not be able to pay for its own security until at least 2024." Secretary Robert Gates echoed that sentiment when he said that "For another 15 to 20 years, Afghanistan will not be able to sustain a force of that nature and capacity with its own resources." If our strategy is to use $50 billion to build up Afghanistan's police and military forces as well as a decades-long commitment, I am not sure that the American people will support such an effort.

Yet, no matter your opinion on their role in conflict, it is important that our troops are prepared for the current combat environment. As such, the Defense appropriations bill includes $154 billion to increase the readiness of our armed forces, helping to refocus our military away from the Cold-War era type of conflict.

A bill of this magnitude must include safeguards against waste, abuse, and fraud. Not only does this bill increase the resources at the disposal of the Department of Defense (DOD) Inspector General, it also enhances the focus on taking inherently governmental functions out of the hands of contractors.

Finally, it will be a great celebration in Houston with the establishment of the Riverside General Hospital Post Traumatic Stress Disorder Center with a $1 million grant. Additionally, I have received over $4 million in green job, technology, and medical research funding. These dollars will work for the 18th Congressional District and the American people.

Mr. YOUNG of Florida. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONYERS) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 1110, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (during the vote). Members have 2 minutes remaining in this vote.

□ 1407

So (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Mr. RADANOVICH. Madam Speaker, I was unable to make today's votes on the House floor due to a family illness. Had I been present I would have voted as follows:

“Yea” on rollcall vote No. 985, on the motion to concur in the Senate Amendment with a House Amendment to H.R. 3326, the Department of Defense Appropriations Act of 2010.

“Aye” on rollcall vote No. 986, to suspend the rules and adopt H.R. 1110, the PHONE Act of 2009.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Ms. HIRONO. Madam Speaker, on rollcall No. 985 and 986, had I been present, I would have voted "yes" on both.

FURTHER CONTINUING APPROPRIATIONS, FISCAL YEAR 2010

Mr. OBEY. Madam Speaker, pursuant to House Resolution 976, I call up the joint resolution (H.J. Res. 64) making further continuing appropriations for fiscal year 2010, and for other purposes, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the title of the joint resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 976, the joint resolution is considered read.

The text of the joint resolution is as follows:

H.J. RES. 64

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Continuing Appropriations Resolution, 2010 (division B of Public Law 111-68) is further amended by striking the date specified in section 106(3) and inserting "December 23, 2009".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. OBEY) and the gentleman from California (Mr. LEWIS) each will control 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Wisconsin.

Mr. OBEY. Madam Speaker, before I start, I don't see either one of them on the House floor now, but I just want to take this time to note that today is the birthday of the distinguished gentleman from Florida (Mr. YOUNG), the ranking member of the Defense appropriations subcommittee, and also of the gentleman from Washington (Mr. DICKS), who is the second ranking Democrat on the same subcommittee. So in their absence, I think we wanted to wish them well.

With that, Madam Speaker, I would simply say this is a simple joint resolution, a continuing resolution, which takes the Congress to December 23, next Wednesday. It is made necessary by the fact that it is just possible that the Senate might not finish its work before the 18th. They have been known for their speed, but this may be an exception. It is also useful in order to give the President additional time to review the Defense bill before he signs it.

With that, I would urge support, and I am prepared to yield back after the gentleman has made his remarks.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Madam Speaker, this is a simple 5-day CR, and I happily yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Madam Speaker, I would again urge support for the resolution, and I would yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. All time for debate has expired.

Pursuant to House Resolution 976, the previous question is ordered.

The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the joint resolution.

The joint resolution was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, was read the third time, and passed, and a motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

PERMITTING CONTINUED FINANCING OF GOVERNMENT OPERATIONS

Mr. STARK. Madam Speaker, pursuant to House Resolution 976, I call up the bill (H.R. 4314) to permit continued financing of Government operations, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 976, the bill is considered read.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 4314

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. CONTINUED FINANCING OF GOVERNMENT OPERATIONS.

Subsection (b) of section 3101 of title 31, United States Code, is amended by striking the dollar amount contained therein and inserting "$12,394,000,000.000".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from California (Mr. STARK) and the gentleman from Nevada (Mr. HELLER) each will control 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

□ 1415

Mr. STARK. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. STARK asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. STARK. This bill is necessary to allow the government to keep operating past the new year so that we can adjourn for the year. The Treasury Department has told us we will reach our current limit on the national debt on December 31—Happy New Year. Unlike past years, the Treasury Department has informed us they don't have the ability to maneuver and buy more time, so the United States would begin to default on its debt if we do not act.

The bill would raise the debt limit by $290 billion, enough to last through February 11. Unfortunately, we will have to revisit this issue early next year. I wish we could have avoided that, but to do so, we would have had to resolve differences with the Senate over a budget commission and a statutory PAYGO. With the Senate preoccupied on other matters, that would be impossible before the holidays. Even if the Senate were to pass the larger debt limit increase we sent over to them, we would still have to act again next year.

It's important that we do this, as I said, to keep the government running. I don't like to raise the debt limit, but I do like being in the majority, and I do like seeing us pay our bills because we have an international obligation to many of our creditors.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield myself 2 minutes.

Madam Speaker, here we go again. Christmas is a week away and Congress is scrambling at the last minute just so we can go home. While Americans are doing last-minute holiday shopping, the majority party is doing its last-minute spending. This year, many families are cutting back on their holiday shopping. The average holiday spending by Americans this year has dropped to $343 per person from $372 a year ago. You would think that during these tough times when most Americans are forced to tighten their belts, Congress would do the same. No chance under this majority.

This majority stumbled into 2009 with a budget that raised the deficit by $1.8 trillion. Then Congress decided to pass an $800 billion stimulus bill, $3 billion on Cash for Clunkers, $1.3 trillion on the Democratic health care bill, a trillion dollars on cap-and-trade and, recently, another $447 billion was spent on Washington, D.C., bureaucrats. After all this spending, the national debt is now $12 trillion. Every American citizen will now owe more than $39,000 to pay for Washington's spending.

Now Democrats want to raise the debt limit to allow even more spending in 2010. The real fat cat is the Federal Government which spends, spends, spends while the American public gets stuck with the bill.

I urge my colleagues to reject raising the debt limit. Give the gift that America deserves: a responsible Federal budget.

Merry Christmas to everyone.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STARK. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the distinguished committee member of Ways and Means, Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts, be allowed to control the time for our side.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I might consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise in support of the debt limit legislation we are considering today, and I want to thank Mr. RANGEL for his hard work on the bill in the waning days of the Congress this first session.

Let me talk about what the bill does. This bill is simply about continuing operations for the Federal Government. That is the title of the legislation. "Continuing operations" means getting the Social Security checks out on time, an almost sacred duty that we have. This means providing support for our troops and keeping our museums and our parks open. That is what an increase in the debt limit will allow. Simply stated, this is about bills that have already been incurred.

Now, I will, during my time here, resist the temptation to become overly partisan and speak specifically to the issue that is in front of us until there is a misstatement of the facts in opposition.

What this bill does not do is increase or decrease spending. That is a key consideration. Those decisions have already been made through the regular order. Let me emphasize the following: This bill does not raise nor does it cut taxes. That is different legislation. I respect the opinion of all Members here—who, by the way, my hunch is have been on all sides of this issue during their time here in the Congress. But we all desire the same, and that is to bring our budget into balance with the future. Beyond that, there is broad agreement. But this bill is simply paying the check after the items have already been ordered. This bill would raise the limit by $290 billion, which is estimated to allow the government to operate through February 11 and allow us to adjourn for the year.

Despite what some might say, the Treasury Department will reach the current limit on the national debt by December 31, and they have told us that there is no ability to do extraordinary measures that will, indeed, stretch that out.

Now, I hope that the offering that I make to resist demagoguery on this issue will be met. If not, we certainly will have an opportunity during the course of the next hour to slug it out based upon the facts, and I hope that we will regard Social Security and veterans bills that have already been incurred to be paid. We certainly can have moments of instructions here—we're all indeed prepared for that on all sides—but I hope that the opportunity to resist the temptation to dismiss the reality of what we're doing here will be before all of us.

I reserve my time.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California (Mr. HERGER).

Mr. HERGER. Madam Speaker, President Obama and congressional Democrats have maxed out the national credit card with reckless spending, and they're back for more.

The American people are tired of overspending and tired of policies that have done nothing to lift us out of this economic downturn. Democrats rammed through a so-called stimulus that left us asking: Where are the jobs? Now congressional Democrats are asking for more money that they will turn around later this afternoon and spend on another stimulus bill that spends even more on failed policies.

Madam Speaker, it's time for Congress to say "no" to endless debt that is an albatross around the neck of our Nation's economy and future generations. Vote "no" on this increased debt limit.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, I would like to yield to a voice of fiscal responsibility here in the House, to Mr. BOYD, the gentleman from Florida, for 2 minutes.

Mr. BOYD. I thank my friend, Mr. NEAL, for yielding.

I think all of us here today—certainly in this game of inside baseball—understand that we have to raise the debt limit. We don't have a choice to let our Nation go into default on its bonds.

But I do come today to ask you to support it. I come reluctantly. And I am glad to hear that my friends on both sides of the aisle now are for fiscal responsibility.

I think many of us over here have been saying for years—particularly for the last 8, 9 years—that policies that we were pursuing starting in 2001 of spending more than we were taking in on an annual basis had to stop. We found ourselves in pretty good shape in 2001, and then we changed the policies, and you know the rest of the story, the history of that.

Many of us have been working all during that 8-year period to try to re-install the tools that we could use to return fiscal discipline to our government: the tools such as pay-as-you-go rules, something that we had in place in the 1990s that was allowed to expire by the Congress and the administration in 2002; discretionary spending limit.

There are lots of tools that can be used, but in the last 9 years, this Congress and the administrations have rejected those tools, and it's time for us to put those back into place.

We don't have the will here at the United States Congress to discipline ourselves. I think both parties have proven that over the years. So we have to come back with those tools such as pay-as-you-go, discretionary spending caps, sequestration, whatever it takes. There's a good idea floating around on both sides of the Capitol here. It's called the SAFE Commission.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. I yield the gentleman an additional 1 minute.

Mr. BOYD. So what we're trying to do here is hit the pause button for less than 60 days, and we will move forward, break for the Christmas holiday, and then come back, and we have to focus on this issue of fiscal responsibility.

I have said to my party leaders, as I have said to the other party leaders over the last 8 years, we have to look beyond the ends of our nose and we have to focus on fiscal responsibility. And the first step we have to do is keep our country from going into default on its bonds. And then we have to move forward to reinstall such tools as PAYGO, commissions, whatever it takes to get us focused on getting our government back to the point of acting in a responsible way for fiscal matters.

Mr. HERGER. Madam Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the Republican Conference Chair, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. PENCE).

(Mr. PENCE asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PENCE. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

I rise today in opposition to H.R. 4314. It is a bill that will increase the statutory limit on the national debt by $290 billion.

Now, my distinguished colleague and friend just called that "hitting the pause button," and that was evidence of his characteristic candor, because as everybody in this body knows, this $290 billion increase in the statutory limit on the national debt is simply a down payment on the nearly $2 trillion increase in the national debt that this Democratic majority intends to move in this Congress after the first of the year.

Increasing the national debt. You know, it's moments like this that I have really got to say that the American people have had it. I mean, at a time of economic difficulty for working families, small businesses, and family farmers all across this country, a time when families are sitting down at kitchen tables, huddled around aluminum desks in small businesses, in basements with fluorescent lights hanging, they're figuring out where to cut back. They're figuring out what expenses to put off. They're just figuring out how to make it from one month to the next.

And those families and those small businesses don't have the ability to walk down to the bank and just increase their debt limit with the wave of the hand. I mean, they have got to make hard choices. And to their undying credit, the American people are making those hard choices. And the reason they're so frustrated looking at Washington, D.C., today is because they see a national government that is completely out of step with the character and the values and the sacrifice that the American people are practicing every day—not that it's anything new.

As the distinguished chairman just said a few moments ago, when Republicans were in control, we did our share of spending and overspending. Republicans doubled the national debt in the 8 years of the last administration. But this Democratic majority just passed a budget that will double the national debt in the next 5 years and triple it in 10.

After 3 years of Democratic control in the House, the national debt has increased by 39 percent. The national deficit hit a record of $1.4 trillion. In this fiscal year, it's expected to reach a new record of $1.8 trillion. Millions of Americans are asking, Madam Speaker, when will it stop? When will Washington get the message that we can't borrow, spend and bail our way back to a growing America, that we've got to begin, Republicans and Democrats, to practice what we so love to preach when we are home: fiscal discipline, fiscal responsibility? And then we come here right before the Christmas break on the day we are probably headed out of this building, and we're going to pass a $290 billion increase in the statutory limit on the national debt.

The American people don't want more debt for Christmas. This Congress ought to be sticking around, making the hard choices, reducing the size and scope of government and reforming these entitlements. Do the work the way the American people are doing the work, so help us, God.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, before I come to my friend's comments, I want to yield myself such time as I might consume.

Madam Speaker, I spoke with Chairman RANGEL earlier, and it is our intention, as we did this month in passing the Tax Extenders Act of 2009, to make sure that those provisions hold. That bill contains a 1-year extension of dozens of important expiring provisions, including the popular R&D credit, the sales tax deduction and the college tuition deduction, among many others.

We are now hearing the Senate may not take up this provision, or provisions, and pass the bill before they expire on December 31. It is our intention to insist upon the House position and to work to ensure that our bill providing a seamless extension of these tax benefits will be enacted as soon as possible in the new year.

These provisions are crucial for both American business and individual taxpayers, and I am pleased that we were able to get the House to pass this bill before the year concluded, but it is disappointing that the other body will not be able to take it up this year. It is our goal, however, to ensure that this bill will provide a seamless extension when enacted based upon the House measure.

Madam Speaker, I want to thank Mr. PENCE because I thought that the tone of what he offered was entirely reasonable because he didn't pass out partisan blame in the instance that brings us here at this time. But a gentle reminder, I don't know how you could have voted for the war in Iraq and not vote now to pay the bill, because that's part of what we are being asked to do today. I understand how difficult this is, why it causes heartburn. But having said that, how can you say that you were willing to commit 160,000 soldiers to Iraq, and when the bill comes due, not pay it? That essentially is the argument that is in front of us today.

And I understand the arguments about those American families who are having a difficult time as we proceed to this holiday season, and we want to be as helpful to them as we can. And as they gather around the kitchen table to talk about the problems they have, we understand that we want to provide as much support for them as we can. But let's not forget the Social Security recipients who are currently sitting around the table as they watch this debate, wondering if their checks are going to be mailed to them on time at the first of the year.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the ranking member of Ways and Means, the gentleman from Michigan, Mr. CAMP.

Mr. CAMP. I thank the gentleman from Nevada for yielding, and also I want to thank him for his leadership on the Ways and Means Committee this year.

The bill before us is a candid admission by the majority that their tax, borrow, and spend ways have driven America deeper and deeper into debt. In fact, because of the failed trillion-dollar stimulus spending bill, America's unemployment is higher than predicted and revenues are lower. But that hasn't stopped the majority from continuing to spend, spend, spend.

Just last week, the majority rolled six major spending bills into one omnibus bill that increased, on average, Federal spending by 11 percent. Now, the bill before us asks us to increase the debt limit another $290 billion. The American people are asking: where are the jobs? But all they have been shown is more deficits and more debt.

Let's be honest with the American people. It really isn't $290 billion the majority wants to increase the debt limit by. It's more like $1.8 trillion. In a few short months, we'll be right back here voting on another bill to increase the debt limit, probably by another $1.5 trillion.

At the end of 2007, the public debt equaled 65 percent of our gross domestic product, or GDP. By the end of 2009, the figure will exceed 83 percent, and according to President Obama's own budget projections, it will exceed 100 percent of gross domestic product by 2011. Think about it: at the rate the majority is spending, the Federal debt in 2011 will exceed the value of all goods and services produced by the economy that year.

This isn't just a Democrat or a Republican problem. It's a huge problem for every single American. It threatens our economic recovery and our future prosperity. So let's remember the words of then-Senator Obama in 2006 who warned of the dangers of raising the debt limit without addressing the underlying cause. Here is what he said: "The fact that we are here today to debate raising America's debt limit is a sign of leadership failure. It is a sign that the U.S. Government can't pay its own bills. It is a sign that we now depend on ongoing financial assistance from foreign countries to finance our government's reckless fiscal policies."

"Increasing America's debt weakens us domestically and internationally. Leadership means 'that the buck stops here.' Instead, Washington is shifting the burden of bad choices today onto the backs of our children and grandchildren. America has a debt problem and a failure of leadership. Americans deserve better."

Americans do indeed deserve better than what they have received this year. But rather than heed that warning, Appropriations Committee Chairman OBEY recently said: "We don't really have a choice. The bill's already been run up; the credit card has already been used. When you get the bill in the mail, you need to pay it."

The gentleman from Wisconsin was correct: the credit card has been used. But this legislation doesn't pay the bill. It doesn't even make the minimum monthly payment. It simply asks for more credit.

After going on a $1.4 trillion deficit spending binge and maxing out the taxpayers' credit cards, Democrats are now asking to increase the credit limit. We should not be asking for more credit. We should be developing a plan to control Federal spending so that future generations are not trapped under this mountain of debt.

Until we see a plan to actually address this underlying problem, as then-Senator Obama warned we must, I cannot, in good conscience, vote for this legislation.

I urge my colleagues to vote "no."

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, at this time, I would like to yield 4 minutes to my friend, the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. TANNER) who was my classmate here 21 years ago and is, in my judgment, as thoughtful as any Member of this House on the issues of the national debt.

Mr. TANNER. Thank you, Mr. NEAL. Madam Speaker, what we are seeing today is the culmination of a decade-long mismanagement of our Nation's finances. In the year 2000, the revenue and expenditure stream coming to Washington were both around 19 percent of gross domestic product. In other words, we were breaking even. The second worse thing that happened in 2001 after, of course, 9/11 happened, in February when the Congressional Budget Office said that their forecast would be a $5 trillion surplus over the next 10 years. People around here became euphoric. We are filthy rich. We can cut taxes. We can do everything, and we are going to be fine. In fact, the first Bush Secretary of the Treasury came before the Ways and Means Committee and said he was concerned that we would pay off the national debt so quickly that we would have to pay a premium to get our paper back.

Well, in June of 2001, we embarked on a new economic game plan for this country. Two and a half months later, 9/11, every assumption that went into the conclusion there would be a $5 trillion surplus over the next 10 years was no longer valid. But what did Congress do? Kept right on going. By 2003, if you look at the Treasury records, by 2003, income coming into Washington was down to 16.3 percent of gross domestic product, and expenditures were over 20 percent because we had gone to war in Afghanistan and Iraq, among other reasons.

What did we do? We borrowed the gap. We started borrowing in 2002, -3, -4, -5, a decade-long mismanagement by both parties. And for the people who just last week stripped out to pay for and added another $70 billion on a motion to recommit and to talk about debt and deficits now, when they ought to be trying to help us, what we're doing, as ALLEN BOYD said earlier, we're putting the pause button on this.

We must have statutory PAYGO that was allowed to lapse in 2002 so that you didn't have to pay for anything. You could just blithely pass tax cuts, increase spending and borrow the difference, because do you know something? The people we're borrowing it from aren't here. They don't have a vote.

I remember one time he said, will you vote for a supermajority to raise taxes? I said, no. There's plenty of pressure in the system not to raise taxes. I will vote not to borrow money because there's nobody here protesting what we're doing to the children of this country and the children yet to be born here.

And so, Madam Speaker, it's the responsible thing to do today. But I tell you, this is very short term, like 60 days. When we come back, we've got to insist on a commission or on a statutory PAYGO, on something to break this business-as-usual gridlock that has been going on here this entire decade.

And I defy anybody to argue honestly that it is not a decade-old problem. The last time we broke even, basically, was the fiscal year 2001. And so we have to do this; but when we get back here, when the final chapter is written of this book, I hope we have the ability to come together, and we need the help, we need the help of the Republicans to help us put in statutory PAYGO and the commission, some of these things that will do it.

The problem is not what we're doing. We have a structural deficit. Income right now is about 17½ percent of gross domestic product. Expenditures are over 20.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. I yield the gentleman 2 additional minutes.

Mr. TANNER. It's a structural deficit. When one considers that Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, interest on the debt and the national defense account for 85 cents out of every dollar, you can't cut enough out of the 15 percent to take care of this problem. It's not what we're doing. It's not what we're spending. It's what we're not doing, and that is we are not addressing the structural deficit.

And the only way we are going to get at that is through either statutory PAYGO or an entitlement commission, and hopefully both. It's not what we're doing, it's what we're not doing, and it is a decade-old problem that is getting worse every year. And until this Congress can come together, Democrats and Republicans, what we have around here is too many Republican Americans or too many Democratic Americans instead of American Democrats and American Republicans.

I'm telling you, the time is now for American Democrats and American Republicans to get together over the next 60 days and figure out what we're going to do, because we are on an unsustainable financial course.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Texas, a colleague of mine on Ways and Means, Mr. BRADY.

Mr. BRADY of Texas. Madam Speaker, it is interesting to hear our Democrat friend's newfound interest in paying for the war. That hasn't always been the case. Here is what the current majority leader said on this House floor in 2004 when the debt limit was proposed to be raised and we were at war. What now-majority leader Mr. HOYER said: raising the debt limit is immoral. Its disastrous consequence has threatened to cripple our future prosperity and haunt future generations. He said this policy of borrow and spend is not only irresponsible, it is immoral, and it must stop. We are literally mortgaging our future.

These are their words, not ours.

The truth of the matter is, what we are voting on today is a down payment, a two-step, $2 trillion increase in our debt, two-step, $2 trillion increase in our debt. And what it means for American families is that the day NANCY PELOSI took the gavel to become Speaker of this House, every man, woman and child in America owed $29,000 in debt. Today, as a result of this vote and next year's debt limit, every person in America will owe $45,000 in public debt.

□ 1445

Three years, we've increased to $45,000 in public debt. It is responsible to pay our bills; it's irresponsible to keep going into debt and asking for more credit while we do it. It's time to stop spending.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to my friend, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS).

(Mr. ANDREWS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ANDREWS. I thank my friend for yielding.

A tired old tradition is being carried out on the House floor today. When it comes time to extend the national debt ceiling, the Members in the minority get up and express outrage, and enough Members in the majority get up and show responsibility and vote to do what needs to be done to pay the Nation's bills.

Madam Speaker, I know a lot of people watching this are scratching their heads and saying, how did we get to such a terrible predicament? Whose fault is it? And I think they're tired of hearing whose fault it is because, frankly, when the other side is in the majority, we say it's their fault; when they're in the minority, they say it's our fault.

I think a history lesson is in order. In 2001, as Mr. TANNER said, we were looking at a projected $5 trillion surplus over the decade that we're now closing out. We're going to take in $5 trillion more than we spent. There were three things that happened in that decade that injured that prospect. The first was horrific, unavoidable, and the fault of no one in this room; it was the terrorist attack on the country on September 11, 2001, which had and still has negative economic consequences as well as security consequences for the country.

The second thing that happened, in my view, is that two disastrous choices were made. The first was to launch two wars by borrowing the money to pay for those wars in Iraq and in Afghanistan. We certainly can disagree—and we have around here a lot—as to whether or not those wars were or were not in the national interest, but I think we should have understood that it was absolutely not in the national interest to defy historic tradition and finance those wars by borrowing money, unlike more responsible predecessors of ours had done in other times.

The second disastrous decision was a tax cut, a huge majority of which benefited the wealthiest 5 or 10 percent of people in this country. That created a mountain of debt that shifted us from a projected $5 trillion surplus to a projected deficit instead.

Then followed the financial meltdown of the fall of 2008. The Treasury Secretary told us in no uncertain terms that he felt that we were perhaps a few days away from the collapse of the global economy. So to this floor came a $700 billion bailout bill for the banking industry, and a lot of Members on both sides voted for it. I think it was the right vote because I do think it staved off that calamity from happening, and that added to the national debt. And yes, there were decisions made since the new administration came in to do the stimulus bill in a way that was not paid for.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, I yield the gentleman from New Jersey 1 additional minute.

Mr. ANDREWS. And I know there is disagreement over whether that was the right thing to do. I think it was absolutely the right thing to do because it stimulated between 600,000 and 1.6 million jobs thus far being saved or created.

Let me say this to you: irrespective of how you recount the history as to how we got here, here we are. And to deal with this problem it seems to me there are three inescapable things we have to do. The first is to get entitlement spending under control. Frankly, our side believes the health care reform bill does exactly that, and the Congressional Budget Office would concur—nearly $500 billion in entitlement reductions over a 10-year period. Second, you have to get revenue back on track. Our budget calls for a repeal of the tax reductions for those that are in the top 5 percent or so of the country. I think that is the responsible thing to do. No one on the other side voted for that. And finally, we have to stop spending $300 or $400 billion a year to buy oil from other parts of the world. We had legislation here that would put us on that path and build American jobs. Almost no one—single digits—on the other side voted for that.

So this is the day when the minority expresses outrage. There ought to be some other days when the minority expresses some ideas, some plans on how to fix the problem.

Vote "yes."

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. BARTLETT).

(Mr. BARTLETT asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BARTLETT. Madam Speaker, during the Clinton administration, Washington was telling America that we had a budget surplus and we were paying down the debt. Now, while we were telling America that, we had the embarrassing necessity of raising the debt limit ceiling. Why would you have to raise the debt limit ceiling if you're paying down the debt? Surprise, surprise; Washington was not being truthful.

What we were doing was taking money from lockboxes, surplus trust fund moneys, Social Security and Medicare, and paying down the public debt—one more dollar of debt in the trust funds, one less dollar of debt in the public debt. That did nothing to reduce the national debt. And we had other trust fund surpluses for which there was no lockbox. We happily took and spent that money. If we kept our books on the accrual method, there never was a moment in time when we, in fact, reduced the national debt.

Now, talking about accounting methods, our government keeps Enron kind of books. If we kept our books the way we force all but the smallest businesses to keep their books, using the accrual method, we would be showing about $60 trillion in debt. That's $200,000 in debt for every man, woman, and child. Clearly, clearly unmanageable.

We should be ashamed that we're here today talking about raising the debt limit ceiling once again. We should be here debating how we're going to balance the budget and then pay down the debt, because I have 10 kids, 17 grandkids, and two great-grandkids, and we have already mortgaged their future. We don't need to do anymore.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL).

(Mr. RANGEL asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. RANGEL. Let me first thank Chairman NEAL for the great job that he has done over the years in terms of presenting legislation that is so sorely needed in this House. And let me speculate in terms of how far is it going to go that we are going to have this partisanship in the House of Representatives.

You know, we have a saying that once we're overseas, we leave the Democratic label and the Republican label behind us. But believe me, the flag and the credibility of the United States' credit is on the line. And whether it's the Chinese, the Japanese, or the European Union, it seems to me that the pride that we once had in terms of being the leader of the world, not only in fiscal policy, but in foreign policy, is on the line.

No one out there in our communities is going to look at this as a Republican issue or a Democratic issue. They're going to look at it as an American issue. And they're going to look at the Congress. Why? Because we have the full faith and credit of the United States of America in our hand. People have political problems with raising the debt limit, but our country has fiscal problems. And Treasury has assured us, as he has the minority, that they don't have these fiscal gimmicks in order to play around with it.

I know a lot of people know it's going to pass, and so, therefore, they're not going to vote for it. But somebody—maybe our kids and grandkids—is going to ask, Did the United States of America ever forfeit and didn't pay its debts? And some historian teacher will say, yes, they did. And they will want to know what Congress did it, and who did it; they're not going to ask whether you're a Democrat or Republican.

So we've got plenty of time to fight—we have at least a year. But, please, when the credibility of the United States of America is on the line, don't ask which side you're on; be with your country.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. GINNY BROWN-WAITE).

Ms. GINNY BROWN-WAITE of Florida. I thank the gentleman.

Madam Speaker, I rise today in opposition to H.R. 4314, which, according to the majority, "permits continued funding for government operations." That sure sounds a lot better than H.R. 4314, a bill to borrow another $300 billion from China. Or we could also entitle it, H.R. 4314, a license to keep spending like a teenager with a credit card.

Madam Speaker, the United States is already paying $250 billion per year in interest payments alone on the debt. We are paying more for that interest by borrowing more. That just doesn't make sense.

The argument that we have already spent the money, and when the bill comes in the mail we have to pay it, is misleading. Every American with a maxed out credit card would love to be able to pay his bills by simply raising his limit. That is what we're doing here today, ladies and gentlemen. That includes the 15 million unemployed Americans who are still wondering when the so-called stimulus is going to create or save their jobs.

I urge my colleagues to vote against more borrowing and to certainly vote against this bill. America does not want more debt.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, might I inquire as to how much time remains on both sides?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Massachusetts controls 9 minutes; the gentleman from Nevada controls 16 minutes.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. HENSARLING).

Mr. HENSARLING. Madam Speaker, never in history have so few acted so fast to indebted so many. Since the Democrats have taken control of Congress, this is the fifth time that they have come here to raise the debt ceiling—today, $290 billion more.

Under their watch, the national debt has increased $3.4 trillion, or almost $30,000 for every household in America. Under their fiscal policies, we now have a $1.4 trillion deficit, our Nation's first. They passed a budget that will triple the national debt in just 10 years, and they are causing us to borrow 40 cents on the dollar from the Chinese and send the bill to our children and grandchildren.

Now, when Republicans controlled this body and the deficit was $300 billion and falling, the now-majority leader said, "That's fiscal child abuse," and the now-Speaker called it "immoral." And now under their watch it's five times greater, and all we hear is a chorus of "que sera, sera."

It's Christmastime, and the Democrats give us $290 billion more of debt. Merry Christmas.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to my friend, the gentleman from New York, a voice of good sense on the issues of debt, Mr. CROWLEY.

Mr. CROWLEY. I thank my good friend from Massachusetts for yielding me the time.

The Republicans keep claiming that Federal spending and deficits are growing under the Democrats, but let's look at the facts.

Republican Conference Chairman MIKE PENCE said just a few minutes ago that they, the Republicans, doubled the national debt in 8 years to almost $12 trillion. And you know what? MIKE is right. About an hour or so ago Republican JEFF FLAKE said spending was out of control when Republicans were in charge of Congress and the White House. And you know what? He was right as well. And the funny thing, when President George Bush was voted into office he inherited a multi-trillion dollar surplus of funds from President Clinton and the Democrats. So the party who borrowed and spent and squandered surpluses is now standing in the way of moving forward in the right path.

The very Republicans who refused to run the country like our constituents have to run their households—buying only what they can afford—are opposed to legislation that will ensure all new spending and tax cuts are paid for. This would prevent us from adding to the deficit, yet Republicans are opposed, arguing they should be allowed to tax and borrow from the Chinese at will, but only for their priorities.

So the hangover from President Bush and Republican control of Congress still lingers. It was Republicans who pushed a $700 billion bailout package for the banks, a package that Democrats and President Obama are demanding be paid back—and with interest—from those very same banks. Then we had tax cuts for the wealthiest in America, with no assistance to the middle class, and then a refusal to fund the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq. Democrats are correcting these disastrous decisions by our Republican colleagues.

The only thing more galling than the inaccuracy and denial of the Republicans of their own records and votes is their hypocrisy on this issue of their own out-of-control spending and legacy of deficits.

Mr. HELLER. I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. SCALISE).

Mr. SCALISE. I want to thank the gentleman from Nevada for yielding.

Madam Speaker, this is my congressional voting card. Unfortunately, some of the liberals running this Congress think that this is a credit card that has an unlimited balance. Today, they stand before us, trying to add another $290 billion of limit onto their credit cards because they have maxed out the previous at $12 trillion. The American people are saying enough is enough. They want us to cap the debt, and we need to.

We filed legislation that has over 70 cosponsors that would do just that—that would cap the debt and say now let's start paying it down. The first rule of hole says, when you find yourself in a hole, the first thing you do is stop digging. The American people are saying stop the massive spending. Stop adding to our debt. Stop throwing more and more spending and debt onto the backs of our children and our grandchildren. Let's rein in fiscal irresponsibility.

That's why we are opposing this legislation. We proposed responsible alternatives like the CAP the DEBT Act. Of course, they don't want to bring it up because all they want to do is walk around here, thinking that they're Santa Claus at Christmastime, borrowing more money and spending more money that we don't have.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, I will remind the gentleman it wasn't a liberal sitting in the White House who decided to invade Iraq for which the costs have now come due.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to a friend of mine, a colleague on the Ways and Means Committee, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. ROSKAM).

Mr. ROSKAM. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Madam Speaker, it is the holiday season, and the majority is saying, Cheers.

Here we are, and it's really been an unbelievable party, hasn't it? I mean here we are, and you have all of these folks who have come together, doubling the national debt, as was described, over a 5-year period. The majority will now triple the national debt, and it is as if all they can do is keep serving. No discipline. Hey, cheers. Here you go. Enjoy. Well, here is what happens at the end of that binge. Here is what happens at the end of that kegger:

Ultimately, the old man drives up into the driveway and looks around, and the party is going to be over. Who is going to be there to clean it up? Our children and our grandchildren, Madam Speaker. They are the ones who will be there, taking care of this mess over a long period of time.

So we ought not be continuing serving a government that has been over-served time and time and time again. Instead, what we ought to do is avoid the generational theft, do what is right by our children and grandchildren and not increase this debt.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. I yield myself 1 minute.

Madam Speaker, this is not a cheery time for the American people. This is a very difficult time. A reminder: The legislation in front of us now is to pay for the war in Iraq, to pay for the war in Afghanistan, to pay for our veterans' hospitals, and to pay for next month's Social Security recipients to receive their checks on time.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GOHMERT).

Mr. GOHMERT. Madam Speaker, we were asked: How can we vote to have troops go to Iraq and not be willing to pay for them?

Well, the problem is we keep having things added to the bills that will pay for these things. We keep adding things like Gitmo language, like we're going to move the people from Gitmo and spend tens or hundreds of millions of dollars unnecessarily just to make some political point.

We hear people across the aisle say, Gee. You know, we can't afford to lose respect around the world if we forfeit on the debt. Don't forfeit on the debt. You don't gain respect when you keep calling the credit card company and saying, I know I'm not making any payments, but if you'll just keep increasing my debt limit, I know you'll have more respect for me. No, that's not how it works.

We are told across the aisle we have no solutions. Go look at the bills that are waiting to come to the floor. I've got a zero baseline budget that doesn't allow the automatic increases. That would make a huge contribution, and we could bring down the debt. Yet there are no indications, nothing to indicate that the spending is going to be controlled. It is outrageous what we are doing to future generations. Any parent who would go in and tell the bank, Keep loaning to me, and I promise my kids will repay it, would be considered an unfit parent.

Yes, the people in America were promised change. What they have gotten is exponentially more spending than Republicans had done before. It's time for a change. Stop spending. Vote this down.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. I yield myself 30 seconds.

Madam Speaker, the war in Iraq is going to cost more than $1 trillion. The VA hospital commitment that we are going to make for the next 30 years to our well-deserving veterans is going to cost an additional $1 trillion. That is the issue that is before us this afternoon.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON).

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Madam Speaker, I was just thinking about the people back home who may be watching this. They hear the Democrats blaming the Republicans for all of these things that are costing so much money, and that's the reason we have to raise the national debt. You know, I looked at a $1.4 trillion deficit last year, and we're already ahead of that this year. We are not in charge. You folks are.

The health care bill that you're trying to ram through is going to cost $1 trillion to $3 trillion, and the stimulus bill is going to cost over $1 trillion when you add interest.

The bottom line is we have got to stop spending. We are spending too much money. Whether you are a Democrat or a Republican, the American people back home are saying, Get your house in order. Quit spending so much money. Live within your means like we have to.

We have 10 percent unemployment right now, and the people back home don't want us wasting money that will end up resulting in our having to raise taxes, which we don't want to do and which I won't vote for, and end up resulting in inflation, which is going to be hung on our kids in the future. So we have to quit spending instead of just raising the debt.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. STEARNS).

(Mr. STEARNS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. STEARNS. Madam Speaker, let me say to my colleague from Massachusetts that he and I came in together. Back in 1988, we were both elected, and he and I served in the same class together. As I recollect, he was mayor of Springfield.

You balanced your budget as mayor. You had to balance your budget. Now, we've been up here trying to balance the budget, you and I, for almost 21 years. It has not been successful. I supported a balanced budget—both a constitutional amendment as well as a legislative balanced budget. I don't believe you or your colleagues did. I say this because, frankly, we have been talking about deficit as long as you and I have been in Congress. We can blame Republicans. We can blame Democrats, but let's just look at the record for a second.

When you and I came in under Bush I, do you remember those deficits? They talked about $250 billion, and we just lamented about it and lamented about it, and we complained about it. Well, you know, that's what happened. It has exploded. So now we're looking at deficits that are a lot larger, as my colleague mentioned, $1.4 trillion.

When you look at Bush II, George W. Bush, he had deficits of $600 billion. I remember the folks on that side were complaining about how terrible that was at $600 billion.

Well, the problem is now we're talking almost two, three times that amount of money. Actually, when you go back and look at when Ronald Reagan was President, critics called great criticism to him. They said the deficit was out of control in this country. The deficits were about $250 billion. So the point I am trying to make is that the deficit under Republican Presidents and even under Republican control of the House and the Senate and the White House was small, very small, to what we have today.

You can say that there is good reason for this vote today because you support our troops and our wars, and you also support veterans. I think that's true. Yet there has been no effort by your side to hold the appropriations bill.

I have been on the House floor, and I say to my colleague, your appropriations bills are 13 percent larger than last year's. Almost every one of them was 13, 18—One was almost 20 percent. How in the world can you justify appropriations bills that are so large?

So in the end, Democrats are not trying to reduce costs nor balance the budget. In fact, they are recklessly encouraging more government spending. That is why they need to increase the debt ceiling.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Mr. STEARNS is, indeed, my friend, and we are classmates.

Madam Speaker, he conveniently left out those 4 years when Bill Clinton left a balanced budget to America, when the deficits were eliminated and when the debt was coming down. That's the key consideration here as we begin this debate. Indeed, this is about paying for our veterans' hospitals, paying for the war in Iraq, paying for the war in Afghanistan, and making sure that those Social Security checks get out on January 1.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, may I inquire as to the time remaining on both sides?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Nevada controls 8½ minutes, and the gentleman from Massachusetts controls 5¾ minutes.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the Republican policy Chair, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. McCOTTER).

Mr. McCOTTER. I thank the gentleman.

Madam Speaker, a quick point that was raised by our esteemed colleague from Massachusetts about how President Clinton left 4 years of balanced budgets: It was with the assistance of a Republican majority in the Congress, which is an exceptional precedent, you'll remember, as we head to the polls in 2010.

As we address this issue of raising the debt ceiling, let us be charitable in this, the giving season. Let us recall that, as the Democratic Party's argument today is "the same but more," let us look at what they have tried to give the American people over the course of the past year for stocking stuffers.

First, Americans got higher unemployment, higher spending, higher deficits, and higher taxes.

Secondly, senior citizens got a $500 billion cut in Medicare. Terrorists got new rights, new trials, and new cells on American soil, and Federal Government bureaucrats got raises.

I think that we should question our priorities and the direction in which we are taking ourselves before we decide to spend more money on this. It strikes me that it is very justifiable for the American people to watch this debate, to watch the debt ceiling be raised, and to come to the distinct conclusion that the Democratic majority in Congress has proven itself too costly and too crazy too quickly.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Utah (Mr. CHAFFETZ).

Mr. CHAFFETZ. I thank the gentleman.

Madam Speaker, I am a freshman in this body. I didn't help create this mess, but I am here to help clean it up. The fact of the matter is we have to spend less than we are spending now. We have to be responsible stewards of the American people's money.

We are $12 trillion in debt. Remember, if you spend $1 million a day every day, it would take you nearly 3,000 years just to get to $1 trillion, and we are $12 trillion in debt. When is this body going to say no?

This body is not making difficult decisions. I am sorry, but the Democrats in control have refused to find a solution to things that don't cost literally hundreds of billions of dollars every time we turn around. We can't be all things to all people. We have to learn to say "no." At what point will there actually be a cap? At what point will there actually be a ceiling? We see no hope on the horizon for that.

We have got to be responsible stewards of the American people's money. We cannot be all things to all people. We are spending nearly $600 million a day just in interest on our debt.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on H.R. 4314.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Massachusetts?

There was no objection.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (during the call). There are 2 minutes remaining.

□ 1548

The SPEAKER pro tempore. 415 Members have recorded their presence. A quorum is present.

PERMITTING CONTINUED FINANCING OF GOVERNMENT OPERATIONS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, I would like to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the Republican leader, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BOEHNER).

Mr. BOEHNER. My colleagues, there's been a lot of lecturing on the House floor today from my Democrat colleagues about fiscal responsibility. And I heard a lot of about fiscal responsibility in 2005 and 2006 when the then-minority wanted to take the majority.

I think it's time for everyone in this room to take their fair share of blame for the spending that's gone on in this town for far too long. For 36 of the last 40 years, we've spent more than what we've taken in. There's not a household in America that could get by with this. There's not a company in America that could get by with it. And certainly, this government can't get by with it.

For the last 3 years, the Democrat majority, though, after having run on this mantra of fiscal responsibility, has done nothing more than spend, spend, spend and spend. Now, we did our best in 2007 and 2008 to put the brakes on all that spending, and succeeded somewhat. But after this year, for you to criticize us about fiscal responsibility and to lecture us about fiscal responsibility after spending $1 trillion on a stimulus bill that was supposed to be about creating jobs, and what have we done? We've created more unemployment. We've not put anyone back to work. And we're asking our kids and grandkids to pay $1 trillion in principal and interest for a bill that's not doing anything other than increasing spending.

But what makes this bill that's on the floor here today to increase the debt limit by $290 billion a real joke is that as soon as this vote is over, we're going to take up Stimulus II or, as we like to call it, Son of Stimulus. We're going to take up Son of Stimulus, which is going to spend $150 billion on the same kind of failed spending programs that we passed earlier this year.

And what are we going to do? We're going to use that TARP money that those banks and those financial institutions have paid back. Well, where'd that money come from? We had to go borrow it. Everybody knows, everybody that voted for or against TARP in this Chamber, knows that money was intended to go to pay down the deficit. And to take that $150 billion and spend it on more wasteful Washington spending is putting it right on the backs of our kids and grandkids. That's going to happen right after this vote.

Who are we kidding? We're not kidding anybody. I just think it's time to put the brakes on all of it. Let's get really serious about cutting spending. And the way we start is by saying no to increasing the debt limit.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, let me recognize for 1 minute the Majority Leader, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. HOYER), a voice for fiscal reason in this institution.

Mr. HOYER. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

A little over a year ago, Mr. BOEHNER and I spoke on a bill that I said would be noted as a day of consequence in the House of Representatives. That bill was to, at the request of President Bush and Secretary Paulson and Ben Bernanke, give some $700 billion to the Treasury to try to stabilize the financial sector of our economy. Mr. BOEHNER voted for that. My friend, Mr. BLUNT, voted for that. I believe Mr. CANTOR voted for that. Others of you voted for that. And many on our side voted for that bill. It failed.

And we came back here a few days later, on Friday, and that bill was called up again. It was called up again because we knew that there really wasn't an option. Mr. Bernanke, President Bush's appointee as Chairman of the Federal Reserve, said that we were at risk of going into a depression if we did not vote for that bill. Nobody wanted to vote for that bill on either side of the aisle. That was a bill that we ultimately concluded on that Friday, approximately half of the Republican side of the aisle, a little more than half on my side of the aisle, was a bill that we needed to pass to avoid the risk of depression.

Since that time, over the next 4 months, we saw an erosion in the economy, not a depression, but the worst recession we had seen in 8 years. Now I have a speech here that we've prepared. I'm not going to give it because it, to some degree, points the finger at one another. And I agree with Mr. BOEHNER. There's blame to go around. We have been concerned about cutting revenues and increasing spending during the first part of this decade. You have been concerned about the spending that we believed was necessary to make to try to create jobs and bring our economy back.

Mr. BOEHNER and I disagree on the impact of the Recovery and Reinvestment Act. Since its passage, the stock market has gone from 6,500 to 10,500.

Anybody who opens up their 401(k) or Keogh or Thrift Savings Plan believes that we've made progress on that because their value has gone up about 60 percent. That's progress, but not success. We want to get back to where it was in terms of the value of those plans.

In addition, in the last month of the Bush administration, we lost 741,000 jobs, after adopting a policy that many believed, on your side of the aisle, would lift our economy. And, in fact, it did for a while. But it did not create the kind of jobs you wanted. And, in fact, on average, over the 8 years of the Bush administration, it produced approximately 4,200 jobs per month, on average, in comparison with the 216,000 jobs, on average, per month that the Clinton administration saw during its term.

So we could point fingers, but that would not be particularly useful. I have listened to this debate, and I am chastened. And I want to plead guilty, because I've demagogued this issue as well. We had a quote presented about the morality of incurring debt. It was taken a little out of context, but we all say things that we look back on. And I voted against increasing the debt. It was a demagoguing vote. I voted four times against raising the debt. It was a demagoguing vote. I want to admit that and tell people. Why? Because I didn't believe then, nor do I believe now, that not paying America's bills is an option that Americans expect of us. Americans expect us to pay our bills. Some Americans would like us not to incur some bills for war, but if we do incur bills for war, they would like us to pay for it. Some Americans would not like us to incur bills for nutritional programs or education or whatever else may be, too much, too little, but if we do incur those bills, Americans expect us to pay the bill.

I have a list here of everybody who spoke who was here who voted to increase the debt limit four times during the time that you were in charge of the House and of the Presidency. And we didn't support it. My suspicion is that we will find ourselves in the same place today. You all are not responsible for the running of the government or the passing of policy. We are. I understand that. And so my presumption is, perhaps, to a person, as we did on this side of the aisle, you will vote against this bill.

And so I say to my friends on this side of the aisle, the American people have given us a responsibility. The American people have reposed in us a trust. And this year, in meeting that confidence and trust, we have taken some very tough votes. One of the things I said that was quoted that was immoral, that's the quote you used, and if you take out the whole quote, which a lot of times none of us do, we take the part of the quote that we like, I said that not to pay for what we buy, and to jettison PAYGO, was not right.

One of the reasons that we find ourselves in this position is because we haven't adopted a statutory PAYGO, and we should adopt statutory PAYGO. I understand my friends on this side of the aisle are not clapping. And the reason you're not clapping is because you believe, correctly, that that will constrain you in effecting tax cuts, because you believe that cutting taxes does not create debt.

The tragedy is, during the 8 years President Bush was President and you were in charge—because we couldn't pass any economic policy past President Bush's budget veto—you incurred $2 trillion of debt as you cut revenues and increased spending at a greater rate than was increased under the Clinton administration, and you were in charge of everything. But Mr. BOEHNER is correct, my grandchildren and his don't care whether you did it, we did it, or we did it together.

But my colleagues on this side of the aisle, if we take seriously that oath to protect and preserve this Nation, there is no one on either side of the aisle, Republican or Democrat, conservative or liberal, who will rationalize that America's not paying its debt is a good policy, because all of us know it is a disastrous policy and that the consequences of not passing this bill, in the stock market, globally with our creditors, and, yes, with Mom and Pop running that store in my town and your town, will be very substantial and unacceptable.

So we come, as I said on the TARP vote, to a day of consequences. Not every day is a day of consequence in this House, the people's House. We vote on suspension bills and post offices and this, that, and the other. And even the bills that we'll consider next, we'll send it to the Senate or we won't send it to the Senate, and the world will little note nor long remember, as Abraham Lincoln said. But if America and its duly elected Representatives say to the rest of the world, We will not pay our bills, that will be of consequence.

It is not about pointing fingers. It is about taking responsibility. It is about showing courage to do what all of us know. Whatever the rhetoric on this floor has been today, what all of us know is the only option for a responsible country, for a country that is perceived around the world as the wealthiest country on the face of the Earth, and for us to say this day, We will not pay our bills, that the consequences in January to the person who receives Social Security, the consequences to the Defense Department—not that they won't pay their bills. They're going to have to under the emergency clause. But the fact of the matter is, my friends, this is absolutely essential to do.

Therefore, on my side of the aisle, I ask us to do it. And don't point fingers at their side if they don't do it, because we didn't do it. And very frankly, my friends, we have to stop that. We have to stop it for whoever is in charge, because Americans expect better of us.

I ask you, therefore, as we consider this, we ought to vote on it not because we agreed with policy A or policy B or tax cut Y or tax increase Z, but because we know—and I tell my young friend who spoke on the floor about fiscal responsibility who is here for the first time—as we debate these issues on spending and cutting, that they are legitimate to debate, discuss, and vote however one believes is necessary.

But in the final analysis, when the roll is called as to whether America will be a responsible debtor, whether we incurred that debt as a result of decreasing taxes, which we did, or increased spending, which we have, it matters not. What matters is that America pays its bills. Vote for this bill.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Madam Speaker, I voted for legislation increasing the debt ceiling that will get us two months into the next year. We are dealing with the sad consequence of Americans living beyond their means for the last eight years. Even though I have argued and voted against these expansions, such as an unfunded and ill-advised war, an unfunded expansion of Medicare, and tax cuts that were not sustainable, I nonetheless feel an obligation to increase the debt ceiling so that the federal government can continue to operate.

This vote allows the government to continue to pay Social Security benefits, Medicaid and Medicare support, and the salaries of those serving in our uniformed services.

At a time of continued challenge for the economy, we have higher demands for countercyclical programs like food stamps, unemployment benefits and support for state and local infrastructure projects. Unemployment and the economy would be much worse had we not made the recovery investment early this year, but even that has not been sufficient for the economy to fully rebound. It would be the height of irresponsibility for Congress to shut down the government, especially while we face these incredible challenges.

In the long run, Congress will have to address comprehensively the level of government service, the nature of our revenue system, and how we extract more value from federal investments. It is in this context that we can constructively address our economic challenges, including our investments in job creation and reducing the federal deficit. This has been my top priority in this Congress as in previous sessions and should be at the top of the congressional agenda as we move forward. In the meantime, raising the debt ceiling is a critical factor to keep the economy recovering and the government functioning.

Mr. HOLT. Madam Speaker, I rise today to vote against allowing the United States to default on its debt, although not otherwise in favor of increasing the debt ceiling. As my colleagues know, this is the fourth time we've done that since enactment of the Housing and Economic Recovery Act in July 2008, just as the economic crisis was exploding upon us. Although a comprehensive and expeditious response was necessary, each such increase has represented hundreds of billions of dollars in additional debt.

In July 2008 Congress increased the debt ceiling by $800 billion. A mere three months later, in October 2008, the Emergency Economic Stabilization Act increased the debt ceiling by another $700 billion all because of President Bush's decision to pursue two wars on borrowed money. Four months after that, in February 2009, the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act increased the debt ceiling yet again by $789 billion because of the continued decline of the economy and efforts to deal with it. And today, we increase it by $290 billion more, to bring the ceiling to a staggering $12,394,000,000,000. The fact that the current increase is much smaller than the previous increases is no consolation, since the Treasury Department has indicated that it will only cover obligations due until February 11, 2010—a mere two months from now. Not to mention the fact that the entire debt ceiling was only about that much—$300 billion—during World War II.

These increases don't come for free—we're mortgaging our future on them. We have voted to accelerate inflation and increase our long-term fiscal challenges. Before next February arrives, we must all give intensive thought to how to return this country to the surplus conditions in enjoyed in the late 1990s. Between fiscal years 1998 and 2001, the federal government ran at a surplus and the debt ceiling only increased by $450 billion. The surplus vanished after fiscal year 2001, and the debt ceiling has increased by more than ten times that amount ($44.66 trillion) since then.

This deficit spending has provided much-needed economic stimulus in a time of crippling economic recession, and there is no dispute that we urgently needed to implement such stimulus measures over the course of the past year. But we are now in recovery, and it is time to get this economic train back on the right track. I support this increase with no pleasure, and I look forward to working with all my colleagues to bring down the debt ceiling as soon as possible.

Mr. LANGEVIN. Madam Speaker, it is with great reservation that I vote for H.R. 4314, a bill to increase the statutory debt limit by $290 billion. While I am keenly aware of the need for such action to ensure that the Federal Government doesn't default on its obligations, this represents a greater problem of borrowing and spending that we must begin to address now.

There is no doubt in my mind that the actions taken by this Congress over the past year prevented a serious recession from turning into a calamitous economic depression. I also know that there are many families in my State that will require continued support and assistance as we cope with a 12.9 percent unemployment rate. However, as we attempt to enact policies that further stimulate the economy and get people back to work, we cannot lose sight of our fiscal challenges. We must refocus on deficit reduction and chart a course to a sustainable budgetary path.

That is why I was pleased to vote for the Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act, PAYGO, Act, which passed the House on July 22nd. This bill reestablishes the same rules enacted in the 1990's which led to record surpluses, by requiring that any mandatory spending increases or tax reductions be fully offset. Unfortunately, the Senate has not yet acted on this measure, but I look forward to working with them and my colleagues in the House to ensure that we reduce our deficit and debt obligations as we achieve continued economic stability.

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 4314, which will increase the statutory debt limit by an amount sufficient to cover obligations through February 11, 2010.

As we take concrete steps to bolster our economic recovery while getting the nation's fiscal house in order, this measure will ensure the uninterrupted operation of government into the first part of next year. In so doing, it affirms the full faith and credit of the United States, supports job creation and economic growth, and gives the House and Senate additional time to reach agreement on appropriate budget targets for the out years. Importantly, this temporary legislation is also offered alongside the House's twice-expressed commitment to statutory PAYGO legislation, whose use has been demonstrated to bring our budgets back into balance over time.

Accordingly, I urge a "yes" vote.

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, I urge adoption of the resolution and yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. All time for debate has expired.

Pursuant to House Resolution 976, the previous question is ordered on the bill.

The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was read the third time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the passage of the bill.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

RECORDED VOTE

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, this 15-minute vote on passage of H.R. 4314 will be followed by a 5-minute vote on the motion to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 3714, if ordered.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—ayes 218, noes 214, not voting 3, as follows:

(1) Firearm traces are designed to assist law enforcement authorities in conducting investigations by tracking the sale and possession of specific firearms. Law enforcement agencies may request firearm traces for any reason, and those reasons are not necessarily reported to the Federal Government. Not all firearms used in crime are traced and not all firearms traced are used in crime.

(2) Firearms selected for tracing are not chosen for purposes of determining which types, makes, or models of firearms are used for illicit purposes. The firearms selected do not constitute a random sample and should not be considered representative of the larger universe of all firearms used by criminals, or any subset of that universe. Firearms are normally traced to the first retail seller, and sources reported for firearms traced do not necessarily represent the sources or methods by which firearms in general are acquired for use in crime.

(b) The foregoing exemption from obtaining an export license—

(1) does not exempt an exporter from filing any Shipper's Export Declaration or notification letter required by law, or from being otherwise eligible under the laws of the United States to possess, ship, transport, or export the articles enumerated in subsection (a); and

(2) does not permit the export without a license of—

This Act may be cited as the “Jobs for Main Street Act, 2010”.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The motion shall be debatable for 1 hour equally divided and controlled by the Chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Appropriations.

The gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. OBEY) and the gentleman from California (Mr. LEWIS) each will control 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Wisconsin.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. OBEY. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the pending legislation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Wisconsin?

There was no objection.

Mr. OBEY. Madam Speaker, I think people understand what this legislation is—it is an effort to redirect some $75 billion from TARP funds that in the past have been directed to help Wall Street. Instead, direct them to Main Street to try to help Americans who are struggling to hang onto their jobs, their houses, and their health care. I think the need for it is obvious, and I urge passage.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Madam Speaker, Chairman OBEY calls this legislation the Jobs for Main Street Act; I call it economic insanity. Truly, this is one of those rare occasions when I hardly know where to begin.

It is because of legislation like this and the manner in which it was produced that the public has lost faith in this Congress and why confidence in Washington is at an all-time low.

This legislation repeats the failures of the so-called “Recovery Act” by pouring another $150 billion into programs included in the original stimulus package that have so far failed to produce real results or real jobs.

Secondly, this legislation adds an additional $150 billion to a budget deficit that has already tripled in the last year. The Democrat majority claims that this spending is offset with funds from the TARP program, but under present law these dollars are already dedicated to reducing our debt. The public should not be fooled; every dollar will come out of the Treasury and taxpayers will be footing the bill.

Further, this legislation is a virtual mystery to almost every single Member of the House. I think we got the basic material like at 11 o’clock last night, I think. Its contents were released just shy of midnight last night for most, and there is no way for anyone to have read or understood it completely. How much thought or Member input really went into it? I dare say very, very little.

Ironically, it was Chairman OBEY who said on December 11, 2006, We will work to restore an accountable, above-board, transparent process for funding decisions and put an end to the abuses that have harmed the credibility of the Congress. This is a demonstration project of just how serious Mr. OBEY was about that.

Let me take just a moment to outline the transparent process by which this legislation comes before us today. Chairman OBEY instructed his majority staff not to share any details or information with the minority staff about the bill. Chairman OBEY's staff sent the bill to the Rules Committee at 11 o'clock last night. It has had no hearings, no markup, and is prevented from being amended on the House floor today. Mr. Speaker, martial law in the House of Representatives is hardly change that we can believe in.

Yet another irony in today's debate is that the Democrat majority has suddenly found religion by championing so-called "PAYGO" rules. This is occurring at the very same time that they are proposing to spend another $150 billion and even as they have voted to increase the debt limit. We pass the debt limit, spend another $150 billion.

Not long ago, small business in America was the backbone and the lifeblood of our national economy. Today, higher taxes and excessive government regulations have small business in a stranglehold, and that's even before Congress puts its stamp of approval on government-run health care.

With all this reliance on Uncle Sam, why don't we just put everyone in the United States on the Federal Government payroll and call it a day? In essence, that's what this fatally flawed process attempts to do.

According to Transportation Weekly, "Even if you only count title I of the stimulus II bill as an appropriations bill, it would still be the third largest fiscal year 2010 discretionary appropriations bill—bigger than Agriculture, Commerce-Justice, Energy and Water, Financial Services, Homeland Security, Interior and Environment, legislative branch, State/foreign operations, and the THUD bill."

Imagine what Ranking Member DAVID OBEY's reaction would have been had a GOP majority moved a supplement of this size to the House floor on less than 24-hours' notice and with no committee markup? Can you imagine the screaming from the rooftops? We have seen that before.

On more than one occasion, my friend, the majority leader, has suggested that the House minority has become the so-called party of "no," but he forgot to finish the sentence. House Republicans are the party of no more spending beyond our means. We are the party of no more increases to the historic debt limit. Republicans in the House are the party of no more busting the spending cap and calling it "emergency spending."

Our country's economy will never recover as long as Congress continues making the same mistakes over and over again. Spending by this House majority is unconstrained and unsustainable. Billions and billions and billions spent on the continued expansion of government will only exacerbate our financial troubles and will bring little or no relief to those without jobs.

Through this legislation, Congress is demonstrating once again that it is both unwilling and incapable of restraining its appetite to spend. This is nothing short of a taxpayer-funded Christmas shopping spree, financed with money borrowed from the Chinese.

I appeal to my friends, the Blue Dogs, to take a stand on this legislation. If you are serious about making a statement, this is your chance. Are the Blue Dogs serious about deficit reduction? If so, then vote "no."

Madam Speaker, simply put, this is an awful bill produced through a dreadful process. I strongly urge a "no" vote.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY, Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for his support.

I now yield 4 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR).

Mr. OBERSTAR, I thank the distinguished Chair of the Appropriations Committee, my good friend from across the waters in Wisconsin, Mr. OBEY, and I applaud him for his extraordinary persistence and leadership in bringing to us this Jobs for Main Street Act. He has been consistent, persistent, forceful, vocal, and very laser beam-oriented on creating jobs.

Madam Speaker, in this Jobs for Main Street, $39 billion is allocated to additional transportation and infrastructure investment to create and sustain family-wage construction jobs and, at the same time, rebuilding the Nation's highways and bridges and wastewater treatment systems.

We extend in this provision the highway and highway safety and transit programs through September 30, 2010. There is $27.5 billion for highways, $8.4 billion for transit, as in the current Recovery Act. There is $800 million for Amtrak, $500 million for airports where an extraordinary success was achieved with nearly all of the airport projects being either completed or under contract on the job, improving our airport capacity. There is $1 billion for the Clean Water State Revolving Loan Funds to improve wastewater treatment facilities and to build new ones where they don't exist today. There is $715 million for the Corps of Engineers, and there is $100 million for ship construction to help our maritime interests.

We have a highly successful record on that portion of the stimulus that comes from the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure from which both Mr. OBEY and the distinguished Republican leader are graduates.

There are 220,000 direct jobs on over 8,000 projects. There are 630,000 direct jobs and jobs in the supply chain, supplying asphalt, cement, pipe, concrete, and culverts for this program. There is $10 billion paid in payroll checks and $179 million in unemployment insurance compensation checks avoided, and there is $230 million in taxes paid to the Federal Government by those on these jobs, and there is more to come.

The results: There are 28,000 miles of highway pavement—improved, widened, expanded—underway right now. That is what we have achieved to this day, and we have more to come. There are 1,200 bridges restored, repaired, replaced, and with this addition in the Jobs for Main Street Act, we will have 56,000 miles of pavement rebuilt in the coming year. That will be 10,000 miles more than the entire Interstate Highway System just in this one bill.

That is an investment in America.

I assure my colleagues that this Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure will continue its vigorous oversight and accountability and transparency. Every month, every Member has received this report from our committee, a report with 14 categories of progress for each State under these key programs. You can track how many funds are associated with projects completed, how many projects are underway, the total job hours created and sustained, and the total payroll for hours created or sustained in every month for every State.

We are making this clear that we are accountable and that we are investing in America and that we will continue to do this under the Jobs for Main Street program.

Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 2847, the "Jobs for Main Street Act, 2010".

This bill provides more than $39 billion of additional transportation and infrastructure investment to help create and sustain family-wage construction jobs and rebuild our Nation's infrastructure. The bill also extends the highway, highway safety, and public transit programs for the current fiscal year, through September 30, 2010.

One-half of the $75 billion provided by H.R. 2847 is dedicated to transportation infrastructure investment, including: $27.5 billion for highways, $8.4 billion for transit, $800 million for Amtrak, $500 million for airports, and $100 million for ship construction.

In addition, H.R. 2847 provides $11 billion for other infrastructure investment, including $1 billion for Clean Water State Revolving Funds and $715 million for Corps of Engineers infrastructure investments.

Each of these investments is paid for—we use the Wall Street bailout funds to rebuild Main Street.

These investments will build upon the investments already underway pursuant to the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (P.L. 111-5) (Recovery Act), and will create and sustain more than 1 million good, family-wage jobs.

The transportation and infrastructure investments of the Recovery Act have already played a key role in putting Americans back to work. Federal agencies, States, and their local partners have demonstrated they can deliver transportation and infrastructure projects and create urgently needed employment in the tight timeframes set forth in the Recovery Act. This Act has already resulted in almost 7,900 highway and transit projects breaking ground as well as hundreds of thousands of workers getting off the bench and back on the job all across the Nation.

However, we have only begun to stem the tide of unemployment caused by the worst recession since the Great Depression. More than 1.7 million construction workers are out of work and the unemployment rate in construction is 19.4 percent—the highest unemployment rate of any industrial sector. In addition, the private sector construction market has collapsed. At a recent hearing of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, the president of an asphalt supply company testified that, although historically his company has received one-half of its work from the private sector and one-half of its work from the public sector, 98.5 percent of his current business is public sector work.

To make matters worse, State budget crises are severely limiting States' ability to move forward with their own infrastructure programs or find matching funds for Federal transportation programs.

Although the critical investments made by the Recovery Act have stemmed the tide of unemployment in the construction industry, they have not been sufficient to completely counteract the loss of private sector and State investments.

Congress must act now to pass the "Jobs for Main Street Act, 2010", and build upon the successes of the Recovery Act.

The Jobs Act "doubles down" on the highway and transit investments of the Recovery Act and will immediately create and sustain jobs. The Jobs Act provides almost $36 billion for highway and transit investment and much of it can be, and will be, put to use within 90 days for ready-to-go projects.

According to a December 2009 American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials, AASHTO, survey of State Departments of Transportation, there are 7,497 ready-to-go highway and bridge projects, totaling $47.3 billion. Furthermore, according to a December 2009 American Public Transportation Association, APTA, survey, there are thousands of ready-to-go transit projects, totaling $15 billion.

In addition, Congress must also act now to extend the core Federal highway, highway safety, and transit programs. The long-term authorization for these programs, SAFETEA-LU, expired on September 30, 2009. Since then, these programs have been extended on a short-term basis at a funding level that is about $12 billion below the fiscal year 2009 authorized level. H.R. 3326, the fiscal year 2010 Defense appropriations bill, will provide an additional short-term extension of these programs, to February 28, 2010, but still at the reduced funding level.

H.R. 2847 includes the Surface Transportation Extension Act (STEA) of 2009, which extends the highway, highway safety, and transit programs through September 30, 2010, at the levels assumed in the FY 2010 budget resolution. This one-year extension will provide greater certainty for States in their transportation planning, and increase funding to nearly the FY 2009 authorized level.

STEA also includes provisions that will stabilize the Highway Trust Fund. Specifically, STEA restores to the Highway Trust Fund interest payments foregone on the Trust Fund's previous cash balances. Since 1998, the Trust Fund has been the only major Federal trust fund that does not accrue interest. The restoration of interest for this period, 1998–2009, results in transferring $14.7 billion to the Highway Account of the Highway Trust Fund, and $4.8 billion to the Mass Transit Account of the Highway Trust Fund.

In addition, STEA allows the Highway Trust Fund to accrue interest on all balances going forward, which will increase Trust Fund receipts by an estimated $500 million to $1 billion annually, in the near-term.

Finally, under STEA, the General Fund, rather than the Highway Trust Fund, will support longstanding fuel tax exemptions, such as those provided to State and local governments. Full refund payments will continue to be made from the General Fund, but the Highway Trust Fund will no longer bear the cost of these refunds. The end user will see no change in their process for obtaining a refund. This provision will increase Trust Fund revenues by about $1.7 billion annually, for a total of $9.8 billion over six years.

I regret that the Other Body was unable to complete action on a multi-year surface transportation bill this year. I urge the Senate to focus on the needs of the millions of Americans who are without jobs or who are in danger of losing their jobs, Americans who are struggling to provide for their families, and desperately need the jobs that would be created not only by the bill before us today, but also by a long-term authorization of surface transportation programs.

I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting H.R. 2847, the "Jobs for Main Street Act, 2010".

Mr. LEWIS of California. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Georgia, JACK KINGSTON.

Mr. KINGSTON. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Madam Speaker, I want to say, in January, the President rushed through a massive stimulus bill of $787 billion, which was supposed to be targeted and timely for shovel-ready projects. We had to do this to keep unemployment from going to 8 percent. Well, now it's at 10 percent. Rather than going back into the stimulus program and doing major surgery, we are adding yet another spending bill from a different account.

To begin with, the stimulus bill only had about 27 percent in public works-type projects. Most of it went to plus-up pet political projects of Congress and to create 31 brand new Federal Government programs. Even then, 12 percent of the money is all that has left town. Most of it is still in Washington, D.C.

To give you some examples, there is a Smart Grid program of $4.5 billion. None of the funds have been spent. There is a $2.2 billion alternative fuel program. None of those funds have been spent. There is a $4 billion energy innovative technology loan program. Only $2 million has been spent. There is an $8 billion high-speed rail project of which zero funds have been spent. There is $1 billion for the COPS grants program, and no funds from it have left Washington, D.C.

Before we go spending additional money, wouldn't it make sense to try to figure out what the logjam is?

You can go to the Web site of the stimulus program, and you can see the jobs that were created in the 99th District of the Virgin Islands or in the 42nd District of Connecticut. The only problem is there are no such districts. They are fictitious numbers. You could go to Augusta, Georgia, and look at the housing projects where 317 jobs were created. Only it really wasn't for creating jobs. It was a bonus for existing employees. Again, from the administration's Web site, $937 million was spent on 10,000 projects from which no jobs were created. The stimulus program is not working. We need to re-vamp it.

Another reason we don't have jobs under this administration is because of the cap-and-trade policy.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. LEWIS of California. I yield an additional 30 seconds to the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. KINGSTON. The cap-and-trade proposal is a scheme based on some phony numbers, not all of the numbers. Incidentally, I don't recommend Al Gore's book to anybody, but if you have time for reading today, keep that one in mind. It's going to run jobs overseas. We need to take a look at it. Particularly, it needs to be based on real numbers, not on phony numbers.

The health care policy is an 8 percent tax on small businesses with a myriad of new rules and regulations with the possibility of lawsuits. There is the banking bill, which is just going to crunch credit all over America. This is not the right thing to do at the last minute.

Mr. OBEY. Madam Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), chairman of the Education and Labor Committee.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I thank the gentleman for yielding, and I thank him for all of his work on this legislation.

Madam Speaker, today, Congress has the opportunity to continue the effort to rebuild the American economy. We have made significant progress since January when more than 600,000 people were losing their jobs. Last month, it was 11,000—a dramatic improvement. In fact, in November, a year ago, it was over 700,000 people who were losing their jobs. I don't know what the figure has to be before the Republicans decide they ought to help Americans keep their jobs, to find new jobs, and to get jobs so they can support their families.

The fact is, every day, as to the Recovery Act, which they want to continue to lampoon and the rest of it, more and more economists and more and more fiscal analysts of the markets in this country are telling us that the Recovery Act is the reason that we have moved from a negative GDP to a positive GDP. It is the reason we have saved or created more than 1.6 million jobs. Those aren't our words. Those are the words of the people who are in the private sector who are talking about this market.

What are they warning us about now?

It's not just the traditional jobs. It's a question of—and this comes again from private analysts—whether or not local governments which are somewhere between $200 billion and $300 billion underwater because of the economy, because of the recession and because of their loss of receipts and revenues can create a wave of unemployment that will swamp the good news that is taking place and the news that we hope will get better and that we think will get better. It can overwhelm the positive job numbers that we are starting to see, and it can create that kind of problem.

It also means that, once again, we can see—and what this legislation prevents—is that wave of layoffs in teachers, in firefighters, in police, and in first responders because we know that that's about keeping our communities healthy and safe. It's about making sure that our kids do not become the victims of this economy because of the layoffs, the shorter school days, the larger classes that are taking place, and the shorter school years. The States are going to struggle with this.

We know from the private sector, if you look around at what has taken place in this recession, that the leaders in the private sector decided, in this kind of economy, this is when you want to invest in your future. That is what we are doing. We are investing in the future of our children and of our young people going to college. We are creating additional slots so they can get into community colleges, so that they can get job training, and so that they can have teachers and decent class sizes. That is what this legislation is about.

It's about trying to create job opportunities, and it's about holding onto job opportunities for American families. It's also to make sure that their children do not lose a year of educational opportunity and so that they do not slide back from the progress that we're seeing. All across this country, as the test scores are getting better and as proficiency is getting better among fourth graders and eighth graders, that is the progress that we have made. This recession could wreck it all, and we've seen it all across the country.

Rio Vista, Texas, laid off 15 percent of its teachers. Dearborn, Michigan, just approved 200 teacher layoffs. The LA Unified School District laid off 2,000 teachers and maybe another 1,500 teachers next year.

You can stop that from happening. You can stop that from happening by voting for this legislation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. OBEY. I yield the gentleman an additional 1 minute.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. This is about our future. This is about a jobs program that is paid for. This is about taking the money that was dedicated to working on Wall Street and making sure that it works for Main Street. This is your opportunity so that you can go home and say that you did everything you could to try to maintain the positive direction that the economy is starting to indicate, but we are not there yet.

Again, if you listen to the analysts, it can be overwhelmed by the loss of jobs and by the wave of unemployment that could take place at State and local governments, and our children's educational opportunities can be overwhelmed.

Mr. OBERSTAR laid out the infrastructure piece that is so important in terms of the investment, not only in jobs, but in terms of the investment in the future of this country in highways and transit. This is about human capital. This is about whether or not we can retain first responders, teachers and whether or not we can retain the growth, economic proficiency, and achievement that our children are getting in school today.

Let's not lose that because, through no fault of their own, the recession whacked their teachers, whacked their classrooms, whacked their school districts, and then all of a sudden, those opportunities were gone. We should not let that happen. We can vote against its happening today. We can vote for a jobs bill that works on Main Street.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Madam Speaker, I am very pleased to recognize the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN) for 2 minutes.

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Madam Speaker, there is no question that the American people are hurting. Since the start of this recession in 2007, 6.9 million people have lost their jobs. A third of those without jobs have been unemployed for more than 6 months. That's a post-World War II high.

Clearly Congress needs to find a way to spur private sector job creation, a bipartisan way, not one rammed through without public hearings. Madam Speaker, a famous son of New Jersey once said, and that's Yogi Berra, "It's déjà vu all over again."

Congress and the President enacted in February a trillion-dollar stimulus package with the promise that its shovel-ready spending would keep unemployment from exceeding 8 percent. While the Nation's official unemployment is 10 percent, the real unemployment and underemployment now exceed 17 percent.

Yet the majority is suggesting that we double down on spending borrowed dollars in many of the same areas touched by the first stimulus. For example, only 7 percent of the $2 billion in the stimulus bill for the Army Corps of Engineers civil construction has been spent. Yet this bill adds another $750 million.

Only 8 percent of the $1 billion in the stimulus for Bureau of Reclamation water projects has been spent. This legislation includes another $100 million.

The stimulus contained $4 billion for Energy Innovation Loans. Just 10 percent has been spent since February. So let's make sure to approve another $1 billion.

Of the $36 billion the Department of Energy has been given, about $955 million has been spent and only $17.5 billion has been obligated.

If this isn't bad enough, where is the funding coming from? It's coming from the TARP program, Troubled Asset Relief Program. That money, when it is paid back, is supposed to go to reduce the deficit. Here we are spending.

I rise to oppose this bill. This bill needs to be opposed.

Mr. OBEY. I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT).

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I appreciate you giving me a minute to speak on this.

This is the single most important issue facing the American people, jobs. You talk about troubled assets, what greater troubled assets do we have than jobs and homes? These are the troubled assets that the American people want us to respond to.

Throughout the length and breadth of this country, small towns, country towns, from Michigan, Ohio, throughout wherever it is, people are concerned about jobs. The misery index is high, the depression index is high. Do you know what a job means?

Here we have got $75 billion. What better place to put it than in small businesses, into the heart and the soul of the American economy, at the middle and at the bottom where people will spend it.

Ladies and gentlemen of this Congress, this is Christmastime. Next week is Christmas. What better Christmas gift can we give the American people than this jobs bill that will put our people back to work, that will build our homes, that will help our families, that will give them hope where they need it. They deserve this Christmas present this day.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Madam Speaker, it is my honor to recognize the ranking member of the Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies, the gentleman from Kansas, for 3 minutes, Mr. TIAHRT.

Mr. TIAHRT. I thank the gentleman from California.

Madam Speaker, 10 months ago we stood here and told you the stimulus bill would not help the economy recover. We told you it would not work because the $787 billion plus interest would only grow the size of government. You can't grow the economy from the government down. You have to grow it from the ground up.

By any standard, we were right. Now we have news accounts of how the money was spent, mostly on government workers writing more government regulations. Then there was the news about the pay raises for Head Start teachers and the buyouts for university professors and unemployment is double digits. It's 10 percent.

Today on the floor we have the "son of the stimulus" bill. It's another $154 billion of failed economic policies that will only prolong the economic pain.

This bill includes another $750 million for green jobs on top of the previous bill's $750 million. So far, no green jobs have been created.

The "son of the stimulus" adds $23 billion to State and local governments on top of the $53 billion in the stimulus bill.

You can't isolate State and local governments from the recession. If you do, they will do nothing to help with the recovery. History tells us what works. When we have the opportunity in America, new ideas come into the marketplace and the economy will grow. When the economy grows, the Federal revenue grows without raising taxes.

Here is how you create opportunity: stop spending, stop borrowing. You can't grow the economy from the government down. Freeze regulations, audit every one of them and only keep the ones where the benefit exceeds the cost.

Keep taxes low. When you do, people save. They invest; they spend. All of that's good for the economy. Lower health care costs, not by taking over with the government, but by addressing defensive medicine, by addressing tort reform and by incorporating free market principles and then become energy independent. That alone would solve your unemployment problem.

Now, it's true that providing the opportunity for the economy to grow does not pay back the government unions for all they have done for you in the last election. Government unions should be pleased with this bill, but the American taxpayers should not. They should be angry.

For those that are unemployed workers, well, we are sorry, because this bill will not do anything for the unemployment rate. It's a failed economic policy that only pays back those who invested in the last election for the majority party.

Madam Speaker, I would ask my colleagues to vote "no" on this legislation and, instead, do something that will help the economy recover by providing opportunity for the unemployed workers.

Mr. OBEY. Madam Speaker, I yield myself 2 minutes.

Madam Speaker, when President Bush left office, we were losing over 700,000 jobs a month. We passed the economic recovery package, and we have gotten that down to about 11,000 jobs a month. That's not enough, but it's terrific progress.

I am somewhat bemused, however, by all of the comments by our friends on the minority side of the aisle denouncing the recovery package and saying that it didn't work. Not a single one of them voted for it on this House floor.

But if you check newspaper accounts around the country, you will see, for instance, that the minority leader, in a June 15 press statement, said that he was pleased that Federal officials stepped in and ordered Ohio to use all of its construction dollars for shovel-ready projects that will create much-needed jobs.

The minority whip vowed to shed partisan politics to help the economy. He met with transportation officials about how his home State of Virginia could apply for stimulus grants to build a rail line.

The minority chief deputy whip, in his own press release, outright praised the courthouse in his district receiving funds from the recovery package to build a new courthouse. He said, "I applaud this funding for the Bakersfield Federal courthouse."

My Republican colleague from New Jersey (Mr. LANCE) announced by a press release that his district received $13 million from the Recovery Act for local flood control projects. "This is outstanding news," he said. He even sent a letter to President Obama asking for speedy release of those recovery funds.

Another of our colleagues from Michigan on that side of the aisle issued a press release saying he was pleased to announce that his international airport would receive $12.7 million from funds received by the Recovery Act.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. OBEY. I yield myself 1 additional minute.

Another of our colleagues on the minority side from Illinois said, "There is no question these grants will be of assistance in creating jobs."

I can go on and on and on citing Member after Member who denounced the bill on the House floor and then went home to their districts and issued grandiose press releases expressing their support for the results of the recovery package.

I have a little difficulty following that ping pong ball when it's bouncing on both sides of the table. I have a little difficulty following the folks on that side of the aisle when they decide to fall off both sides of the same horse. I wish you would make up your mind: which do we believe, your statements that you make at home or the statements and the votes you cast on this House floor?

Mr. LEWIS of California. I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Missouri, who is the ranking member on the Financial Services and General Government Subcommittee, Mrs. EMERSON.

Mrs. EMERSON. Madam Speaker, I want to say a couple of things first. Number one, I don't know if the American people realize that since 2007 this Congress has increased spending on nondefense, nonveterans discretionary spending and, including the stimulus in that, by 85 percent, 85 percent. In so doing, we still have 30 percent unemployment in the construction trades in the State of Missouri, and there is no excuse for that. This bill does very little to help that, very, very little.

As a matter of fact, some of the stimulus money that went to create new jobs in my congressional district—actually, our job training people were told that anybody who is in job training counted as a new job. Now that's disingenuous at best, and it's not fair to a person who is being counted as having a job and one is not there waiting for them when they graduate.

I really want to talk today about my concerns about the use of TARP funds to offset additional government spending. You know, when we debated this legislation, we were told the funds were going to be repaid and that in the long term the Federal Government could make money on the TARP program.

However, today we are debating whether to use TARP funds, which the administration really had no plans to spend, as an offset for yet more government spending. This is a gimmick extraordinaire.

We just debated a bill to increase the debt limit to $12.4 trillion. Using this budget gimmick as an offset for $75 billion in new spending is not going to reduce the debt one bit. Every economist in America says if we don't reduce the debt in this country, then our economy will go away.

It is going to ensure, this bill does, that our government debt is going to continue to grow, increasing our dependence on China, on other foreign investors and increasing the financial burden on our children and grandchildren.

Mr. OBEY. Could I inquire how much time is left on both sides.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Wisconsin has 17½ minutes remaining, and the gentleman from California has 14 minutes remaining.

Mr. OBEY. I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished chairman of the Ways and Means Committee (Mr. RANGEL).

(Mr. RANGEL asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. RANGEL. Chairman OBEY, let me thank you for not just saying what are we going to do about the jobs, but bringing this all together and doing something about it. One of our great Presidents, Jack Kennedy, once said that sometimes your party just asks too much of you.

I know that's what my Republican friends must feel today, because there is no question in my mind that they have just as much compassion in their heart for those jobless people as we do. They know, as we do, that those who have lost their homes, lost their dignity, lost their job, didn't do it by being Democrats or being Republicans.

I recognize that when you go in a room and make a decision to say "no," you are kind of stuck with it, so we are not naive enough to believe that I can change your mind about what you already decided, but I do hope that when you go back to your home districts, and you recognize what is happening to people who are jobless, many of whom are hopeless, many have lost their skills and many who hope soon it will not continue, have lost what it's like to believe that in this great country there is no limit to how far that you could go.

So maybe next year would be different. Maybe the guys in the street will be following you around, as we find people grabbing Members of the Congress, saying, Hey, my dad needs a job, Congressman, Congresswoman, can you help?

We're trying to help. It was a big crisis and a lot of blame to go around. But collectively someone thought that TARP would work. Well, it had some successes. One thing is certain: We're not going back there. This time it's not the banks. It's not Wall Street in my area. It's now going to be Main Street, so that once again you have an opportunity to explain what are you doing in the Congress.

Well, I know it didn't go over big to say that you were bailing out banks. It certainly didn't go over in my district. How about we're trying to bail out our people. We're trying to restore the hope and confidence they had. We're trying to keep kids in school. We're trying to put food on their table. Sure, we talk about food stamps and food pantry, but we're trying to restore that dignity that make Americans so much different from other people.

In the Ways and Means Committee, where we have jurisdiction over COBRA, this is another step to have dignity. You lose your job, you lose your health care. What a terrible thing to be looking for work and you're sick and you can't even go to the doctor. Worse still, if there are sick people in your family and you don't have the insurance. Well, the Federal Government comes in not with handouts but saying can we give you a hand with your responsibility to provide health care? And that's what we've done on our committee.

We've taken unemployment benefits. You know, you can get enough checks for the length of time—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. OBEY. I yield the gentleman an additional 1 minute.

Mr. RANGEL. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

In any event, we got aid out there for school construction. It's not just to make certain that we have a place for our kids to learn to become the leaders of tomorrow but also that people can get bricks and mortar and rebuild those schools and renovate those schools, and that's what we're doing.

We've been able to make certain that at least the Ways and Means Committee can join in with the other committees, under the leadership of our great Speaker and DAVE OBEY, to be able to say this is not all that we want to do; this is all that we can do.

Maybe over the holidays you might be able to get back to your leadership and say, We've been faithful. But we've found out that many in our districts have lost jobs, lost their home, lost their health insurance, and really lost hope. Just saying "no" is not going to work.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CAMP), ranking member of the Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. CAMP. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Albert Einstein once said, "The definition of insanity is doing the same thing over and over again and expecting different results."

Yet even though their stimulus bill hasn't created a single job and has resulted in 10 percent unemployment, House Democrats have brought to the floor today a stimulus II bill that explicitly amends, continues, or expands numerous provisions of their failed stimulus I bill.

And here's a graphic depiction of this insanity.

How does spending more on the Bureau of Reclamation create jobs now when it didn't before? How does transit capital assistance create jobs now when it didn't before? And how do more loan guarantees create jobs now when they didn't before?

This is a "son of stimulus" bill. Let's stop the insanity. Vote "no."

Mr. OBEY. Madam Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. FRANK), the chairman of the banking committee.

Mr. FRANK of Massachusetts. Madam Speaker, the assertion that the economic recovery bill, the stimulus bill, has created no jobs is, I must say, one of the least intellectually supportable statements I have heard on this House floor, and I've been here a long time. There's an argument about how much and how little, but no competent economist denies that it helped create jobs.

Here's where we are: The fact is that the Obama recovery from the Bush recession has been going more slowly than many of us would like, but it is undeniable by every statistic it is going forward.

Now, if you listen to my Republican colleagues, you learn that the third worst day in American history was January 21, 2009. The worst day, of course, was Pearl Harbor, and then we had the terrible mass murders of 2001. But to pick a day when there were no mass deaths, what was the worst day? January 21, 2009, because according to this debate, guess what happened on January 21, 2009? The Federal budget, which was apparently in surplus, all of a sudden punched into deficit. Unemployment suddenly appeared. The war in Afghanistan, by the way, was going wonderfully until January 21, 2009. There were no bailouts until January 21, 2009. Some of you may have thought they happened in September of last year, but, no, apparently it all started on January 21, 2009.

And not only that—and I have to say I'm quoting my partner, Jim, here—it was one of the worst outbreaks of disease in American history. Mass amnesia seized the Republican Party on January 21, 2009. They forgot that the Bush recession started under President Bush in 2007, after they had controlled both the House and the Senate and the Presidency for the longest time. They forgot that the deficit had mushroomed under them. They forgot that trying to pay for two wars with five tax cuts was kind of a bad idea, and at least you shouldn't be surprised it resulted in a deficit.

So what we are now doing is trying to undo that. And adults understand that you cannot go from a terrible decline to rapid increase without passing through a transitional period. We are passing through it by every economic statistic.

Now, I agree the situation was worse than we thought, and it is getting better more slowly than we had hoped, but it is clearly getting better. And, again, if you listen to my Republican colleagues, the world began on January 21, 2009. I know some of them thought it started 4,000 years ago, and they didn't believe in evolution. I didn't think they thought it all started when Barack Obama became President.

We do try here to help. I was astounded to hear the gentleman from Michigan say it hasn't created one job. Madam Speaker, tell that to the cops and firefighters in my district who were rehired because of this. Tell that to the people now working to clean up a Superfund site in my district which was funded by this bill. This denial of reality to evade responsibility for the dilemma we are in is breathtaking.

So I want to congratulate the gentleman from Wisconsin, who has been the most consistent advocate of social fairness and economic effectiveness that we've had, for a wonderful bill.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Madam Speaker, it's my privilege to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. HENSARLING), Chairman FRANK's great friend from the committee.

Mr. HENSARLING. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

You know, repeating failure over and over might be amusing if it wasn't for the fact that so many of our countrymen are suffering.

I heard the distinguished chairman of the Financial Services Committee share with us his history lesson, but also I might add if we look at press reports, clearly Democrats have had trouble counting jobs in America.

What we do know is that the Department of Labor says that we still have double-digit unemployment under this President and this Democratic Congress. What we know is that the Department of Labor says that since the first stimulus bill was passed, to add an extra trillion dollars of spending and debt for future generations to pick up, that 3.6 million of our fellow countrymen have lost their jobs.

The history lesson that I hope my friends on the other side of the aisle would learn is that you cannot spend your way into more jobs. You cannot borrow your way into more jobs. And you cannot bail out your way into more jobs. And, Madam Speaker, the legislation they bring before us does exactly that. It's more of the same. It is "son of stimulus."

Spend another $150 billion of taxpayer money. How many more jobs have to be lost? It wasn't an hour ago that this body just voted for $290 billion more of debt ceiling, borrowing the money from the Chinese, sending the bill to our children and grandchildren. How many more jobs have to be lost? Bailout funds, bailout funds for the States, bailout funds for the municipalities. How many more bailouts, how many more jobs have to be lost?

In this economy, small business, they want to create the jobs, but take away your trillion-dollar takeover of health care, take away your $600 billion national energy tax, take away your perpetual Wall Street bailout bill, and jobs will come back to America.

Those are the policies that we need, Madam Speaker.

Mr. OBEY. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentlewoman from Connecticut (Ms. DELAURO).

Ms. DELAURO. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of this jobs bill.

We have seen 23 straight months of job losses. What does this mean? It means that families are under a huge stress. It means there are hungry children in the United States of America. It means a lost generation of American workers.

We owe a response to those families contending with joblessness and the financial havoc it wreaks on their lives. It is not only the moral thing to do; it is our obligation as legislators and as citizens.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill. It redirects $75 billion of TARP funds, money that was spent on Wall Street, and it moves it toward key infrastructure investments, which will provide jobs now. It provides a foundation for long-term prosperity. It helps to stabilize our public sector workforce. It supports teachers, police officers, firefighters, and other public servants. And as important, it cuts taxes for 16 million struggling families by making the child tax credit available to working families with children.

They lost their jobs. They lost their health benefits. Their work hours were cut short. And, yes, their child tax credit was decreased. Refundable tax credits are the most fiscally stimulative policies that we can put into place. Don't listen to me. Listen to economists. And it puts money into the hands of families who are living today paycheck to paycheck, and their spending in turn leads to a strong boost in job creation. Let's put that TARP money to work where it always belonged, in the hands of the American people.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill. We need to get America back to work.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Madam Speaker, it's my privilege to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. CANTOR), the Republican whip.

Mr. CANTOR. I thank the gentleman from California.

Madam Speaker, Winston Churchill once said that, "All men make mistakes, but only wise men learn from their mistakes."

Today it is apparent that Congress has not learned anything. The bill on the floor today is just another round of spending that doubles down the failure of last February's so-called stimulus plan while ballooning the deficit.

The first stimulus plan and bill failed to hold down unemployment, but it successfully increased our reliance on borrowed money. Worse, a lot of the money designated for infrastructure, those shovel-ready projects we all heard about, hasn't even gotten out of Washington yet. Why is it still here if it was designed to create jobs?

Sadly, pouring billions into the very same programs will meet a similar dismal fate. Just as bad, this legislation continues to fall hopelessly short of providing real relief to small businesses so they can resume hiring, investing, and expanding.

Now is not the time to spend an additional $150 billion we don't have. It's time to come together to ease the burden on small businesses and to start giving them a sense of certainty so they can go about the business of creating jobs and prosperity.

Madam Speaker, I urge a "no" vote on this so-called "jobs" bill.

Mr. OBEY. I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

(Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Only the lack of clarity and poor eyesight can call this the so-called jobs bill, because if we've looked over the last year, the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act helped save 3.5 million jobs. They named Chairman Bernanke as the person of the year, but his twin was the work that was done on this floor by the Democratic leadership to invest in America. My district has a 9 percent unemployment. In Saturday's Washington Post, three parents were seen with lights out and children who are hungry. Oh, yes, this sounds like spend, spend, spend, but I tell you, if we can invest a billion dollars in infrastructure, we create 27,800 jobs, and I'm proud to invest 35 billion of those dollars in fixing the highways and the roads of America.

I am glad 150,000 Americans will now be able to get training in high professional jobs, and I am glad that we are working on a metro system that will create jobs in our district.

Vote for this bill. It's jobs, jobs, jobs. Get good glasses and you'll see that.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Madam Speaker, by way of inquiry of my chairman, aside, Mr. Chairman, from the unprecedented and secretive process by which this bill was put together and is being brought to the floor, the rule before us contained a most unusual provision to allow the chairman to submit a report explaining the legislation. It would be very helpful to all Members before we vote on over $154 billion in spending to actually have the benefit of the chairman's explanation.

I, for one, have not only not seen this report, I didn't even know he was writing one. Therefore, I would ask the chairman, is there a copy of this report, and will you make it available now so that Members will have a chance to see it before we vote on this bill?

Mr. OBEY. Well, I find it very interesting that the gentleman has not raised this point with respect to the Defense appropriations bill. But let me simply say that the explanatory statement for this bill is very short. It is on our Web site. It was posted there this morning.

Mr. LEWIS of California. The chairman certainly might have given us the courtesy of communicating that that was his intention ahead of time. And it's very clearly stated within the report that the Members would have it available to them. Obviously, the chairman has chosen to ignore that side of the responsibility.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Might I inquire how much time is remaining on both sides?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Wisconsin controls 7½ minutes, and the gentleman from California controls 8 minutes.

Mr. OBEY. I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FATTAH).

Mr. FATTAH. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of this legislation. The Republican minority has been fairly consistent. When we focused on health care, they said, well, 85 percent of the people in the country have health care, so let's not turn things upside down, let's not sacrifice too much to try to deal with the tens of millions who don't have it; 85 percent have it.

On the jobs front, 90 percent of the people in the country have jobs. So I can see their lack of empathy for the 10 percent who don't, and they don't see a need for us to act. But as we come to this holiday season, as we look and see many of our citizens who not only have not a job at this moment, mainly because of policies enacted, this unwarranted war in Iraq and fiscal policies that have had us a double-digit national debt in the trillions before Barack Obama was sworn into office, but they don't really see a need for us to do a great deal of effort here to try to put Americans back to work.

I want to thank the chairman for authoring this legislation which is bifurcated, both focused on jobs and also in helping people in a difficult moment. That's what I think America ought to be about. I rise in support of this legislation.

Mr. OBEY. Could I inquire of the gentleman how many speakers he has remaining.

Mr. LEWIS of California. We have no speakers remaining. I might make a few remarks after I hear what the chairman has to say.

Mr. OBEY. Well, I am the last speaker, and since I have the right to close, I would suggest you use your time and then we'll use ours.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Can you give me an idea how much of your time you intend to take?

Mr. OBEY. The remainder of the time.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Ten minutes?

Mr. OBEY. No, we don't have 10 minutes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Wisconsin controls 6½ remaining minutes, and the gentleman from California 8 minutes.

Mr. LEWIS of California. I think it would be very important for the Members to know, Madam Speaker, that up to this point, only about 15 percent of the first piece of this package has been spent, so Stimulus I is a long ways away from being spent. And I think we all know that the agencies are awash in money coming through the pipeline, and they wonder where it's going to go from here. It's significant to know that as we spend the people's money in this process, with very, very little information available to our Members, the majority is choosing to push another $150 billion down that pipeline, regardless of what has been spent already.

It seems to me that one of the lessons to be learned here is that the American people are much smarter than we give them credit for. They know that just throwing money at every perceived problem out there is no way to solve such a problem. In the meantime, I will listen with interest to my chairman's closing remarks.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Madam Speaker, we have heard three times at least now our friends on the minority side indicate that only 12 percent of the original stimulus funding has, quote, left the Treasury. That's a very slippery way to put it, because the fact is that what "left the Treasury" means is that after funds are obligated to those who will actually spend it, and after the bills have been paid by those recipients, then the money has, indeed, left the Treasury. The real term to focus on is what has been obligated. And the fact is that for the programs in this bill, 70 percent of the funds previously appro-riated to those programs have already been obligated. So much for that argument.

Example: The minority press release states, "No funds out of the $1 billion provided for COPS has left the Treasury." The fact is, all of that funding has been awarded.

The minority press release states, "Only $235 million out of the $6.4 billion for EPA wastewater grants has left the Treasury." The fact is, 99 percent of that funding has already been provided to the States. So much for that straw man.

Let me, Madam Speaker, simply make this observation: we have before us a bill that determines to redirect $75 billion, which had initially been directed to help Wall Street, and we want to, instead, redirect that money to help Main Street. So we provide $27 billion, for instance, for highway infrastructure projects to put people back in construction. You're either for it or you're against it.

We have provided enough funding in this legislation to assist more than 670 communities address their growing backlog of water and sewer repairs and put people to work in the process. You're either for it or against it.

We've provided $27 billion from Wall Street to Main Street to try to stabilize public service jobs. We're trying to preserve 250,000 teaching jobs over the next 2 years, for instance. You're either for doing that or you're against it.

We're trying to use $500 million to preserve the jobs of thousands of firefighters all across the country. You are either going to help or you're not.

We are trying to provide 250,000 disadvantaged youth with summer employment opportunities. You're either going to help them or you're not.

We're trying to provide 250,000 students with additional college work study funds so they can stay in school. You're either going to help those students or you're not.

We're trying to provide funding for approximately 150,000 individuals in high-growth and emerging industry sectors where we know there are job growth possibilities. You're either going to help support that or not.

We are trying to provide unemployment insurance for 6 months rather than the 2-month extension that was in the previous bill today. You're either going to help those people or not.

We are trying to provide $23 billion to extend the higher Federal match for payments to doctors, or we're not.

So, basically, it's about time to decide where you're coming from. An article in the New York Times today described what happens when you lose your job. It pointed out that more than half of the Nation's unemployed workers have had to borrow money from friends or relatives since losing their jobs. They've had to cut back on doctor visits. That same article indicates that a quarter of those polled had said they'd lost their home or been threatened with foreclosure. They also noted that half of the adults surveyed admitted to feeling embarrassed or ashamed as a result of being out of work. And nearly half of the respondents said they no longer had health insurance. The question is, are you going to help those people or not?

We can argue what our economic philosophy is until the cows come home, as they say in my area, but it seems to me that the question simply is, We've got a problem; what are you going to do about it?

JOBS FOR MAIN STREET ACT, 2010
EXPLANATORY STATEMENT
THE JOBS CRISIS

A jobs bill is urgently needed because of the worst job situation since the Great Depression of the 1930s. The vast majority of fair-minded economists have concluded that the Recovery Act has had a positive effect on the job situation and they also agree that sizeable and targeted deficit spending makes sense at this time of unusually high unemployment, low inflation, and low interest rates, but not after the economy recovers.

The current recession has been especially severe in the labor market:

The unemployment rate has reached 10 percent. Almost every age and education group is experiencing higher unemployment than at any time since the 1930s.

This dismal unemployment situation is not expected to improve any time soon. The Blue Chip consensus of economic forecasters expects the unemployment rate to get worse early next year and still be 9.9 percent at the end of 2010.

The number of people unemployed has more than doubled in the last two years, from 7.2 million to 15.4 million, an increase of 8.2 million. 10.6 million more people would have a job today if employment growth had simply kept up with population growth over the last two years.

The crisis in the job-market goes beyond the increase in unemployment. The number of people working part time but seeking full-time work has doubled in two years, from 4.5 million to 9.2 million. The number of people who want a job but are too discouraged to look for work has risen by 1.4 million or 30 percent in two years.

The total number of people who are either unemployed or working part-time for economic reasons or have dropped out of the labor force but want a job has risen by 14.2 million in just two years.

Other indicators make the case for a jobs bill:

For the first time since the 1930s, manufacturing is using less than two-thirds of its capacity. So much unused capacity means that production can be very responsive to new demand without increases in prices.

With its Federal funds rate at virtually zero, the Federal Reserve's capacity to stimulate the economy is limited.

The rates on Federal government borrowing remain unusually low.

The evidence is overwhelming that the Recovery Act has made the job situation substantially better than it would have been without the Recovery Act.

The Congressional Budget Office recently estimated that, as of September, the Recovery Act had already raised employment by 600,000 to 1.6 million. All major private forecasters have made similar estimates.

The rate of job loss has declined from 700,000 a month for the three months before the Recovery Act to just 11,000 job losses last month.

A recent Wall Street Journal survey of economic forecasters found that a clear majority supported additional jobs measures, a position that they would not have taken unless they believed the first round had worked.

Continued high unemployment takes a toll on those unemployed and their families who experience the frustration of not finding work. Local communities also suffer a loss of tax base which forces cutbacks on education and other services vital to everyone in the community.

It makes sense for the Federal government to invest more in expanding training opportunities at times of high unemployment. State and local governments face pressures to cut back on all spending, including education. On the other hand, the lack of work opportunities gives many people more time to devote to education and upgrading job skills.

Faster reduction of unemployment is in the long-term interest of the Nation's economy. When people have jobs, they have money to spend that has a multiplier effect on the economy generally. In addition, prolonged unemployment causes workers' skills to erode which reduces the Nation's productive capacity.

TITLE I—INFRASTRUCTURE AND JOBS INVESTMENT

CHAPTER 1—DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE COMMUNITY ORIENTED POLICING SERVICES (INCLUDING TRANSFERS OF FUNDS)

The bill provides $1,179,000,000 for Community Oriented Policing Services grants for the hiring and rehiring of an estimated 5,500 law enforcement officers.

The bill provides an additional $715,000,000 for Construction to support an estimated 7,800 jobs. This funding will support the construction of water resource projects in areas where they can quickly create jobs. Unemployment in the construction industry in November was 19.4 percent, up from just 6.2 percent two years ago. The projects will also provide long-term economic benefits through lasting infrastructure improvements. The Corps is directed to consider the following criteria when allocating funds: programs, projects or activities that can be commenced quickly; programs, projects or activities that will create high and immediate employment; programs, projects or activities that will be executed by contract or direct hire of temporary labor; and programs, projects or activities that are located in a state with high unemployment.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR BUREAU OF RECLAMATION WATER AND RELATED RESOURCES (INCLUDING TRANSFERS OF FUNDS)

The bill provides an additional $100,000,000 to support an estimated 1,000 jobs for the programs of the Bureau of Reclamation. This funding will support the construction of water supply projects in areas where they can quickly create jobs in the construction industry. Unemployment in that sector was 19.4 percent in November, up from just 6.2 percent two years ago. The Bureau is directed to consider the following criteria when allocating funds: programs, projects or activities that can be commenced quickly; programs, projects or activities that will create high and immediate employment; programs, projects or activities that will be executed by contract or direct hire of temporary labor; and programs, projects or activities that are located in a state with high unemployment. Additionally, funds are provided to respond to drought in western and southwestern United States by expediting projects and activities that supplement existing water supplies such as through the title XVI program, meeting fish and wildlife needs, adding flexibility to water delivery systems, or addressing other factors to reduce conflict over limited water supplies.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY ENERGY PROGRAMS

TITLE 17 INNOVATIVE TECHNOLOGY LOAN GUARANTEE PROGRAM

The bill provides an additional $2,000,000,000 for the cost of guaranteed loans authorized by section 1705 of the Energy Policy Act of 2005. This funding should support an estimated 22,000 jobs in the renewable energy sector, providing a boost to the construction industry as well as contribute to the Nation's goals for energy independence. Most renewable energy funds are spent on materials and workmanship to build and maintain the facilities, rather than on costly energy imports. Further, as we build manufacturing capability in the United States, renewable energy technologies developed and built here can be sold overseas, providing a boost to the U.S. trade deficit.

INCENTIVES FOR INNOVATIVE TECHNOLOGIES LOAN GUARANTEE PROGRAMS

Section 1201 includes a provision modifying the Energy Policy Act of 2005 authorization for the Department of Energy's Innovative Loan Guarantee Program.

CHAPTER 3—HOMELAND SECURITY FEDERAL EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AGENCY

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT MANAGEMENT OF LANDS AND RESOURCES

The bill provides $20,000,000 as an additional amount for "Management of Lands and Resources" to support an estimated 1,000 term jobs. These funds should be used to increase term employment for activities on all Bureau of Land Management lands including maintenance, resource management, invasive species management, and inventory and monitoring.

UNITED STATES FISH AND WILDLIFE SERVICE RESOURCE MANAGEMENT

The bill provides $30,000,000 as an additional amount for "Resource Management" to support an estimated 1,500 term jobs. ##### DEPARTMENT-WIDE PROGRAMS

WILDLAND FIRE MANAGEMENT

The bill provides $20,000,000 as an additional amount for "Wildland Fire Management" to support an estimated 1,000 term jobs. ##### ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

STATE AND TRIBAL ASSISTANCE GRANTS

(INCLUDING TRANSFERS OF FUNDS)

The bill provides $2,000,000,000 for water and wastewater infrastructure improvements, of which $1,000,000,000 is for the Clean Water State Revolving Fund and $1,000,000,000 is for the Safe Drinking Water State Revolving Fund. This funding will support approximately 44,000 jobs and will assist more than 670 communities and cities construct vitally needed projects to address the ever growing backlog of sewer and water repairs and rehabilitation. The bill provides that half of the funds include additional subsidies such as principal forgiveness and grants, making it easier for more communities to have access to this program.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

FOREST SERVICE

STATE AND PRIVATE FORESTRY

The bill provides $75,000,000 as an additional amount for "State and Private Forestry" to support an estimated 3,800 term jobs. These funds are for financial assistance to States and other authorized cooperators, to increase term employment for activities, including reducing wildfire hazards, forest health management, restoring and rehabilitating forests damaged by pests or invasive species, enhancing urban and community ecosystems, and providing cooperation and technical assistance. The Forest Service should not require cost share for the use of these urgently needed funds.

NATIONAL FOREST SYSTEM

The bill provides $40,000,000 as an additional amount for "National Forest System" to support an estimated 2,000 term jobs. These funds should be used to increase term employment, including management, protection, improvement and utilization activities on the National Forest System, and including maintenance, resource management, visitor services enhancement, forest health, habitat and watershed enhancement, invasive species management, and necessary inventory and monitoring.

WILDLAND FIRE MANAGEMENT

The bill provides $35,000,000 as an additional amount for "Wildland Fire Management" to support an estimated 1,800 term jobs. ##### GENERAL PROVISIONS—THIS CHAPTER

Section 1401 allows funds for management and oversight provided to the Environmental Protection Agency in this Act to be available until September 30, 2012, and the funds may be transferred to the "Environmental Programs and Management” account as needed.

Section 1402 requires the Secretaries of the Interior and Agriculture to utilize, to the maximum extent practicable, the Public Lands Corps, Youth Conservation Corps, Student Conservation Association, Job Corps, Corps Network members and other related partnerships with Federal, State, local, tribal or non-profit groups that serve young adults, underserved and minority populations, veterans and special needs individuals.

CHAPTER 5—LABOR, HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES, AND EDUCATION, AND RELATED AGENCIES

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING ADMINISTRATION TRAINING AND EMPLOYMENT SERVICES

The bill includes $500,000,000 for a summer employment program for youths. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), the unemployment rate for teenagers (age 16-19) reached 26.7 percent in November 2009—the highest level recorded since BLS began collecting data. These funds will support summer youth employment for approximately 250,000 disadvantaged youths.

HIGH GROWTH JOBS

The bill includes $750,000,000 for competitive grants to support job training for approximately 150,000 individuals in high growth and emerging industry sectors, particularly in the health care and green industries that are adding jobs despite difficult economic conditions. Grants for job training in green industries will focus on programs that train workers living in areas of high poverty.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

EDUCATION JOBS FUND

The bill includes $23,000,000,000 for an Education Jobs Fund to help States cope with the most dramatic decline in State tax receipts on record—due to the worst recession in 30 years. These funds will help States to save or create an estimated 250,000 jobs over the next two years. Of the total appropriation, 95 percent of the funds will be allocated by States to school districts and public institutions of higher education to retain or create jobs providing early childhood education, elementary, secondary, or postsecondary education services or for modernization, renovation, and repair of facilities. The remaining 5 percent of funds is reserved for State education-related jobs and administration of the Education Jobs Fund.

STUDENT FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

The bill includes $300,000,000 to support the College Work Study program, which supports low- and moderate-income undergraduate and graduate students who work while attending college. Together with institutional matching funds, this appropriation will support work-study jobs for approximately 250,000 financially needy students.

RELATED AGENCIES

OPERATING EXPENSES

(INCLUDING TRANSFERS OF FUNDS)

The bill provides $200,000,000 for AmeriCorps programs and the National Service Trust, which will support an additional 25,000 AmeriCorps Members. This funding will enable these individuals to serve their communities while earning an education award to further their education or pay off student loans. AmeriCorps members conduct vital services for nonprofits and communities including financial counseling, disaster response, housing support, and after school programs. The Corporation has seen an unprecedented level of interest from States, localities, and nonprofit organizations in its programs. Between November 2008 and April 2009, AmeriCorps received 76,404 online applications, up 230 percent compared to the same period in the year before.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—THIS CHAPTER

ISSUER ALLOWED REFUNDABLE CREDIT FOR QUALIFIED ZONE ACADEMY BONDS (QZABS) AND QUALIFIED SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION BONDS (QSCBs)

Section 1501 includes several provisions pertaining to QSCBs and QZABS, which finance public school construction, rehabilitation, and repair. Because the market for tax credits on QSCBs and QZABS currently is small given economic conditions, the bill would allow a State, local government, or tribal government issuing QSCBs or QZABS to elect to receive a direct payment from the Federal government equal to the amount of the tax credit that would have otherwise been payable on these bonds. The bill also includes a technical correction that clarifies that large local school districts are allowed to carry their 2009 and 2010 allocations of QSCBs into future years if they are not issued.

CHAPTER 6—TRANSPORTATION AND HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

FEDERAL AVIATION ADMINISTRATION

GRANTS-IN-AID FOR AIRPORTS

The bill provides $500,000,000 for the Federal Aviation Administration to provide discretionary airport grants to repair and improve critical infrastructure at our Nation's airports. Projects funded under this Act, as well as under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, use the criteria established for grants under the AIP program and provide long-term economic, safety and capacity benefits to the Nation's airport system. This funding will support an estimated 5,000 jobs.

FEDERAL HIGHWAY ADMINISTRATION

HIGHWAY INFRASTRUCTURE INVESTMENT

The bill provides $27,500,000,000 for additional highway infrastructure investment to support an estimated 299,000 jobs. Funds are distributed by formula, with a portion of the funds within each State being suballocated by population areas. Set asides are also provided for: management and oversight; Indian reservation roads; park roads and parkways; forest highways; refuge roads; ferry boats; on-the-job training programs focused on minorities, women, and the socially and economically disadvantaged; a bonding assistance program for minority and disadvantaged businesses; Puerto Rico and the territories; and environmentally friendly transportation enhancements.

FEDERAL RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION

CAPITAL GRANTS TO THE NATIONAL RAILROAD PASSENGER CORPORATION

The bill provides $800,000,000 for capital grants to the National Railroad Passenger Corporation (Amtrak) for fleet modernization, including the rehabilitation of existing and acquisition of new passenger equipment, including fuel efficient locomotives. The Secretary of Transportation is directed to give priority to domestically manufactured equipment, including components and sub-components used for rehabilitation. In addition, new acquisitions should be part of a larger strategy to work with domestic manufacturers to create a standardized next generation corridor equipment fleet. This funding supports an estimated 9,000 jobs.

FEDERAL TRANSIT ADMINISTRATION

TRANSIT CAPITAL ASSISTANCE

The bill provides $6,150,000,000 for urban and rural formula grants to support an estimated 67,000 jobs. Within the total amount, 80 percent of the funds shall be provided through the Federal Transit Administration's (FTA) urbanized formula; 10 percent shall be provided through FTA's rural formula; and 10 percent shall be provided through FTA's growing states and high density formula. In addition, the bill provides 2.5 percent of the rural funds for tribal transit needs and includes $100,000,000 for discretionary grants to public transit agencies for capital investments that will assist in reducing the energy consumption or greenhouse gas emissions of their public transit agencies.

FIXED GUIDEWAY INFRASTRUCTURE INVESTMENT

The bill provides $1,750,000,000, to support an estimated 19,000 jobs, to be distributed through an existing authorized formula for capital projects to modernize or improve existing fixed guideway systems, including purchase and rehabilitation of rolling stock, track, equipment and facilities.

CAPITAL INVESTMENT GRANTS

The bill provides $500,000,000, to support an estimated 5,000 jobs, to be distributed on a discretionary basis for New Starts and Small Starts projects that are already in construction or are nearly ready to begin construction.

MARITIME ADMINISTRATION

MARITIME GUARANTEED LOAN (TITLE XI) PROGRAM ACCOUNT

(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

The bill provides $100,000,000 for the Maritime Guaranteed Loan (Title XI) program to allow vessels and shipyards to obtain long-term financing for growth and modernization projects.

GENERAL PROVISION—DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT

Section 1601 ensures continued State investment in certain identified programs for which the State receives funding in this Act and requires grant recipients to report regularly on the use of those funds.

DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

PUBLIC AND INDIAN HOUSING

PUBLIC HOUSING CAPITAL FUND

The bill provides $1,000,000,000 for the Public Housing Capital Fund for additional repairs and rehabilitation of public housing, including increasing the energy efficiency of units and making critical safety repairs. The Secretary is directed to award these funds competitively to public housing agencies that submitted applications in the competition for funds conducted in fiscal year 2009. In that competition, HUD received applications totaling approximately $3,700,000,000 for Capital Fund projects, but was only able to fund $1,000,000,000 in awards. This funding will spur construction quickly, especially since HUD has ready-to-go applications for projects on hand. This funding will support an estimated 10,900 construction jobs.

COMMUNITY PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT

HOUSING TRUST FUND

The bill provides $1,000,000,000 for the National Housing Trust Fund to provide communities with funds to build, preserve, and rehabilitate rental homes that are affordable for extremely and very low income households; and $65,000,000 for project-based vouchers to support units built by the Trust Fund. Nationwide, for every 100 extremely low income renter households, there are only 37 homes they can afford, further, capital expenditures for housing will create jobs in the construction industry. This funding will support an estimated 19,000 construction jobs.

CHAPTER 7—GENERAL PROVISION
TARP REDUCTION

Section 1701 reduces the ceiling on loans, investments and other assistance under the Troubled Asset Relief Program (TARP) by $150,000,000.

Section 1702 provides that all funds under this title shall be subject to section 1604 of division A of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009.

Section 1703 makes appropriations in this title subject to American Recovery and Reinvestment Act reporting and transparency requirements and Inspector General oversight.

TITLE II—SURFACE TRANSPORTATION EXTENSION

This title extends the authorization for the highway, transit, highway safety and motor carrier safety programs of the Department of Transportation until September 30, 2010. In addition, the bill includes language that provides 100 percent federal share for the transportation programs authorized in the title, repeals the provision that prohibits Highway Trust Fund balances from earning interest, and restores $20,000,000,000 to the Highway Trust Fund.

This title also strengthens the Buy America requirements for highway and transit projects, and provides greater transparency for Buy America waivers.

TITLE III—UNEMPLOYMENT AND OTHER EMERGENCY NEEDS

CHAPTER 1—AGRICULTURE AND RURAL DEVELOPMENT

GENERAL PROVISION—THIS CHAPTER
(RESCISSION)

RELIEF FOR DISCRIMINATION IN A CREDIT PROGRAM OF THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE UNDER THE EQUAL CREDIT OPPORTUNITY ACT

Section 3101 extends the statute of limitations for claims of discrimination in USDA's credit programs that have been pending at USDA.

CHAPTER 2—FINANCIAL SERVICES AND GENERAL GOVERNMENT
INDEPENDENT AGENCIES

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION
BUSINESS LOANS PROGRAM ACCOUNT

The bill provides $354,000,000 to the Small Business Administration (SBA), to continue two temporary enhancements to SBA loan guarantee programs made by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 and which are nearly out of funding. One of the enhancements being extended allows the SBA to guarantee 90 percent of certain small business loans, instead of the 75 percent allowed under permanent law (or 85 percent for small loans), thereby encouraging banks to make these loans by reducing the amount they have at risk and the reserves they must hold. The other reduces fees paid by lenders and borrowers. The funding provided in the bill is estimated to be sufficient to continue both items through the end of fiscal year 2010. The bill also extends the expiration date of the authorization for the 90 percent loan guarantees to September 30, 2010.

GENERAL PROVISION—THIS CHAPTER
(RESCISSION)

Section 3201 rescinds funds that will lapse at the end of fiscal year 2010.

CHAPTER 3—LABOR, HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES, AND EDUCATION
GENERAL PROVISIONS—THIS CHAPTER
ASSISTANCE FOR UNEMPLOYED WORKERS AND STRUGGLING FAMILIES

Section 3301 provides a six-month extension of expiring UI benefit provisions that were established or continued in the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, including the Emergency Unemployment Compensation program, 100 percent Federal funding for the Extended Benefits program, and the extra $25 weekly UI benefit.

EXTENSION AND IMPROVEMENT OF PREMIUM ASSISTANCE FOR COBRA BENEFITS

Section 3302 extends the 65 percent COBRA health insurance subsidy from nine to 15 months for individuals who have lost their jobs. The job lost eligibility date is extended in the provision through June 30, 2010.

EXTENSION OF RECOVERY ACT INCREASE IN THE FEDERAL MEDICAL ASSISTANCE PERCENTAGE
(FMAP)

Section 3303 extends for six months, through June 2010, the FMAP provision in the Recovery Act, which increases the Federal match for Medicaid for all State programs.

REPEAL OF EARNED INCOME THRESHOLD FOR DETERMINING REFUNDABLE PORTION OF CHILD TAX CREDIT

Section 3304 increases the eligibility for the refundable portion of the child tax credit. The bill would increase the eligibility for the refundable child tax credit in 2010. For 2009, the child tax credit is refundable to the extent of 15 percent of the taxpayer's earned income in excess of $3,000. The bill would eliminate this floor for 2010.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES (HHS) POVERTY GUIDELINES

Section 3305 includes a provision to freeze the HHS poverty guidelines at 2009 levels in order to prevent a reduction in eligibility for certain means-tested programs, including Medicaid, Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), and child nutrition, in 2010.

REFUNDS DISREGARDED IN THE ADMINISTRATION OF FEDERAL PROGRAMS AND FEDERALLY ASSISTED PROGRAMS

Section 3306 provides, for one year, the exclusion of tax refunds as income for the purpose of assessing eligibility for means-tested programs supported by Federal funds.

Section 3307 permanently authorizes a provision to help Social Security and Supplemental Security Income disability claimants retain professional representation.

CHAPTER 4—GENERAL PROVISION—THIS TITLE

Section 3401 provides an emergency designation and PAYGO emergency designation.

TITLE IV—GENERAL PROVISIONS—THIS ACT

Section 4001 establishes a period of availability for funds.

DISCLOSURE OF EARMARKS AND CONGRESSIONALLY DIRECTED SPENDING ITEMS

Pursuant to clause 9 of rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives, neither the amended bill nor the explanatory statement contains any congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits.

With that, I would yield to the Speaker to conclude my remarks.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentlewoman from California is recognized.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Madam Speaker, I certainly would not object, but I had asked the chairman about additional speakers, and clearly I would never, ever detract from our Speaker, but in the meantime, a little straightforward discussion would be helpful.

Mr. OBEY. If the gentleman would yield. Well, he doesn't have the time. I will simply take the time to say that if I had known that the Speaker had been able to come to the floor, I certainly would have told the gentleman. I simply didn't know, and I trust that he believes me.

Mr. LEWIS of California. I certainly do.

Mr. OBEY. I thank the gentleman for that clarification.

Ms. PELOSI. Madam Speaker, I thank the distinguished chairman for yielding, for his unyielding work on behalf of America's working families, and in this case today for the creation of jobs, to grow our economy and to help those who have lost their jobs through no fault of their own.

I am grateful to the distinguished ranking member, Mr. LEWIS, for his courtesy. Yes, my apology. I didn't realize the debate would go to this point. But I did want to take the opportunity to talk about jobs to our colleagues and to this Congress in general.

Just to put it in perspective, 1 year ago, in January, the job loss was 740,000 jobs for that 1 month alone. Fast forward to now, and the job loss for November is 11,000 jobs. Seven hundred forty thousand 10 months ago; 11,000 jobs this month. We don't want to lose any jobs. But we are on the road to recovery, and we are there because this Congress made some very important and difficult decisions to take us there. We are on the road to recovery because of the leadership of President Barack Obama, who stood on the steps of the Capitol on his inauguration and asked for swift, bold action now so that we could take the country in a new direction and create jobs and grow our economy.

One week and 1 day from the President's inaugural address, this House of Representatives passed the Recovery Act. We were able to do so because we were ready. We had been ready with job creation packages, but we could not get the resources until we had a new President to make the investments, which took us from 740,000 jobs lost in January, in the first month of this year—the President, I am reminded, was inaugurated on January 20, toward the end of that month—and then 11,000 jobs.

I also want to call to our colleagues' attention back to the first quarter of 2009, and the GDP rate of growth was a negative. It was a minus 6.4 percent, a result of the failed economic policies of the previous administration. As of November 24, 2009, the GDP has a positive 2.8 and is growing; a swing of 9.2 percent in the GDP from negative, minus 6.4 to positive 2.8.

At the same time, I call to the attention of my colleagues that because of this new direction to grow our economy, the stock market was at a nadir. The first of 2009, we're at 7,000. We are now over 10,000, an increase of over 3,000 points in the stock market. Economists tell us that some of this change is directly related to the recovery package that we passed in January, the fiscally sound budget that we passed 100 days after the President's inauguration, which was a blueprint for the future, a statement of our national values that talked about how we could create jobs, lower taxes for the middle class—over 95 percent of the American people got a tax cut—and how we could reduce the deficit. It's all about job creation and reducing the deficit.

Three pillars of changing the economy in that budget were investments in health care, in education, and in energy to prevent climate change, to create new green jobs for the future, and to do so through science and innovation. Innovation begins in the classroom and is central to our competitiveness—innovation to reduce the cost of health care to families, to businesses, to our budget, and to our economy to make us competitive and keep us number one in the world's economy. All of this was passed by the House of Representatives: energy, climate change, education, and health care.

Then finally, this past week, we passed the regulatory reform legislation. Mr. FRANK is here, our chairman. It is the work of many people in this Congress. We passed regulatory reform to hold Wall Street accountable, to say that the party is over, to say that we are creating jobs for Main Street, not just wealth for Wall Street. We respect the creation of wealth and what it means to an economy and how it relates to the creation of jobs, but we cannot have a creation of wealth at the exploitation of the American worker. We did pass this regulatory reform without one Republican vote to hold Wall Street accountable, without one Republican vote.

So here we are today, after this plan that started on the steps of the Capitol—the inauguration of our new President—that had deep seeds in what we had tried to do before we had a Democratic administration but what we had been working for, so we were ready. And now today we want to pass this legislation which does two things: It creates jobs and saves jobs by investments in building the infrastructure of America. It doesn't do everything we would want, but what we do in there is paid for, building the infrastructure of America.

What it also invests in is to help States, cities, and localities keep their fiscal soundness so that they don't have to lay off teachers, firefighters, police officers, and people who work to meet the health needs of people in our community. This is important not only for public safety. That is self-evident. It is not only important because we don't want to lose our teachers. It is about the education of our children and how seriously that can be undermined with the layoffs and the uncertainty in the local and State budgets.

But on top of all of that, while we're concerned about what this does to working families and how important it is for people to have their jobs—they are also consumers—to the extent that they lose their jobs, our economy loses consumers. And when our economy loses consumers, we're in big trouble, economic trouble. We cannot let that happen.

So today, we have before us that package for job creation and job retention which is fiscally sound and which is paid for by using TARP funds, the unused TARP funds which were the subject of great debate but which, I do believe, saved us, pulled us from the brink of the financial crisis we were in as our recovery package later pulled us from the brink of economic disaster.

In addition to that, we have some safety net provisions about the extension of unemployment insurance, of COBRA to meet the health needs of those who are unemployed, which all expire the end of December, and other issues that relate to the well-being of America's working families, to address the concerns of the unemployed but, in addition to that, to create jobs in a fiscally sound way.

Fiscal responsibility is very important to us. It is our responsibility to our children not to increase the deficit, and that is why our health bill does not add one dime to the deficit; in fact, it decreases the deficit. I see Chairman RANGEL shaking his head. It is an important part of paying for that legislation. And Mr. MILLER and Mr. WAXMAN were so much an important part of that health care bill.

So here we are today with an opportunity to modestly and in a paid-for way address the issue of jobs. It's a four-letter word. Let's use that four-letter word everywhere we go—jobs, jobs, jobs.

I urge my colleagues, while some of your districts and some of your States may be doing better than other parts of the country, this is the time for us to recognize that we are a national economy and that what happens in one State has an impact on our national recovery.

I thank Chairman OBEY for his great leadership in putting this package together. I urge our colleagues to act on behalf of America's working families through the creation of jobs in a fiscally sound way, to honor our responsibility of public safety by protecting our first responders and our responsibility to our children to make sure that their education does not have a gap, because we have a budgetary gap, and understanding the role that consumers play in our economy. I hope that we will have a strong "yes" vote on this legislation.

With that, Mr. Chairman, I commend you again.

Mr. LANGEVIN. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 2847, the Jobs for Main Street Act, which redirects Trouble Asset Relief Program (TARP) funds from Wall Street to Main Street, where our towns, small businesses and families need it most.

While we have seen some significant improvements since this time last year, we are still feeling the repercussions of the worst economic downturn since the Great Depression. Many older Americans are entering retirement with deflated savings, forced to dramatically adjust plans and expectations for their golden years. Millions of our constituents remain unemployed, desperately searching for jobs that simply aren't there. Rhode Island families are struggling to pay bills and mortgage payments, and in too many cases, those who used to have two salaries to rely on must now make do with only one. While we have brought the economy back from the brink, we must do more to limit job loss and create new employment opportunities.

H.R. 2847 addresses these issues by re-directing $48 billion in unused TARP funds to highway infrastructure, school renovation grants, public transportation investments and airport improvement grants. To address our housing needs, this measure contains $1 billion for the National Housing Trust Fund that provides communities with funds to build, preserve and rehabilitate affordable rental homes and $1 billion for the Public Housing Capital Fund for repairs and rehabilitation of public housing.

The Jobs for Main Street Act also uses $27 billion in TARP funds to stabilize public service jobs, including teachers, firefighters and police officers. It funds an Education Jobs Fund to help states retain or create jobs in school districts and public higher education institutions. And it includes funding for AmeriCorps, the College Work Study program, and job training for high growth and emerging industry sectors, including those in health care and green industries.

Small businesses have borne the brunt of this economic crisis, and their inability to access credit to keep their businesses operating has clearly added to the high unemployment rate across the nation, and especially in Rhode Island. It is imperative that our small businesses have access to the tools they need to weather this economic downturn, as well as to keep and create jobs. H.R. 2847 will help by extending Recovery Act provisions that eliminated fees on SBA loans and guaranteeing these loans at 90 percent. This gives local banks and credit unions the confidence to lend to small businesses.

This measure also extends crucial American Recovery and Reinvestment Act safety net programs that provide invaluable health and social services to our nation's low-income and disabled citizens with the inclusion of $23.5 billion in enhanced funding for state Medicaid programs. It further extends a provision to assist recently unemployed individuals and their families by helping them maintain their health coverage through a 65 percent subsidy for health insurance premiums under COBRA from nine months to 15 months and also extends unemployment benefits by six months.

This job creation package will help move our country further down the road to recovery and help our families in need during this holiday season. I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. DINGELL. Madam Speaker, I rise today to offer my unequivocal support for H.R. 2847, the Jobs for Main Street Act. As a federal representative from the state of Michigan, I can attest to the hardship facing my constituents, and others across the state, as a direct result of unemployment. This legislation will build off the progress made by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act and create jobs quickly through projects needed by the community such as new roads, water facilities, and by protecting the jobs we have in the fields of education and law enforcement.

H.R. 2847 is legislation that will greatly help the 15th District in Michigan. There is no question that Michigan has been hit the hardest and the earliest by this economic recession, leading unemployment across the country for months, which is now almost 15 percent. Yet this does not tell the full story. Since 2000, Michigan has lost over 800,000 jobs, roughly one in every six, and in Detroit alone 45 percent of working-age adults are unemployed. Combine this with the fact that for every job opening about six people are applying, and you can see why the workers in Michigan are facing a perfect storm.

This legislation will help to calm this storm by investing in public works projects that will create new jobs, setting aside $48 billion for rebuilding our roads and bridges, modernizing public buildings, constructing new water facilities, and building and preserving affordable rental houses. We will also help to save or create jobs in our public schools, our police and fire departments, while training workers in growing fields such as health care and alternative energy or "green" fields.

Further, this legislation will extend emergency unemployment benefits through June 2010, and extend and expand the COBRA subsidy through June and expand the months of help from 9 months to 15 months. These changes will help the nearly one million workers exhausting their unemployment benefits by January and the hundreds of thousands of workers who have already begun rolling off the COBRA subsidy program.

It is imperative that both the House and the Senate pass H.R. 2847 quickly. This legislation is not a hand-out; rather it is an immediate injection into local economies across the country. It is funding America families will use to keep their heat on this Christmas, to pay their mortgage for the next few months, and keep their health insurance through the summer. Quite frankly this funding is a crutch until these workers can find their next job, or complete the training they need for a second career.

Madam Speaker, after spending this summer bailing out Wall Street, it is time that we help Main Street. I urge my colleagues to reiterate their support to the American families in need and vote in favor of H.R. 2847.

Mr. LINDER. Madam Speaker, I rise in opposition to this legislation, and in particular the provisions adding $40 billion to the deficit, leading to even more tax hikes on jobs, and ultimately increasing unemployment across the Nation. Those provisions are just the latest in a series of massive expansions of Federal unemployment benefits dating back to 2008. And here we are again with yet another extension of Federal unemployment benefits, at enormous expense to taxpayers. But no matter how much Congress spends and no matter how many benefit extensions this body passes, my colleagues on the other side of the aisle can't seem to understand that Americans want paychecks, not unemployment checks. Until they drop their job-killing government health care takeover and energy and other massive tax hikes, jobs and paychecks will continue to be in far too short supply.

PROMISING MILLIONS OF NEW JOBS, DELIVERING MILLIONS MORE UNEMPLOYED

Jobs and paychecks are definitely not what Democrats have delivered to date. They insisted their so-called 2009 stimulus bill would create 3.5 million jobs and keep unemployment from rising above 8 percent. Instead we have lost almost 3 million jobs since then as unemployment rose to 10 percent:

GRAPHIC REMOVED

These rates are more than just abstract numbers. They represent real Americans who are no longer receiving a paycheck to provide for themselves and their families—a total of 3.7 million more unemployed than the President promised if his stimulus bill became law. Those 3.7 million people could form an unemployment line stretching literally from Washington, D.C. to Chicago, Illinois. No amount of Federal spending, no White House jobs summit, and not even millions of unemployment checks can distract from that sorry record of job destruction.

The American people are not fooled, either. A current CBS/New York Times poll finds that 61 percent think the $1 trillion 2009 stimulus bill has either had no effect or made the economy worse. Half as many, only 32 percent, think the stimulus bill has made things better.

WORST "JOBS SPEAKER" EVER

In an attempt to distract from this grim record, Democrats have taken to blaming the last President for the failure of their own stimulus plan to create jobs. On December 4, 2009, 35 months after she became Speaker and 11 months after Barack Obama became President, House Speaker NANCY PELOSI said "Bush Administration policies created a huge jobs deficit." Yet every one of the "Bush Administration" job losses she decried happened on her watch as Speaker. The facts show NANCY PELOSI is the worst Speaker in terms of job creation since official data began in 1939. More than 6 million jobs—4.5 percent of all jobs in the U.S. economy—have been destroyed since she became Speaker in 2007:

WORST "JOBS PRESIDENT" SINCE HERBERT HOOVER

Further, and despite repeated claims from the President and various Administration officials that stimulus "is working," Barack Obama has compiled the worst jobs record since Herbert Hoover:

PROVIDING RECORD AMOUNTS OF UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

In response to this horrific record of rising unemployment and job destruction, the Democrat leadership has only one "solution"—paying even more unemployment benefits. This latest extension comes just one month after the House considered the last expansion of unemployment benefits, which added 20 more weeks of Federal unemployment benefits, increasing total benefits to an unprecedented 99 weeks in most of the U.S.:

GRAPHIC REMOVED

The USA Today last week called this payment of 99 weeks of unemployment benefits "excessive" and "a disincentive to find work."

They're right. Everyone from Presidential advisor Larry Summers to the New York Times, Washington Post, and Congressional Budget Office agree that's a concern, especially as the job market starts to recover. And we all hope it will start to recover in the coming months.

CREATING RECORD UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFIT RECEIPT

But regardless of Democrats' current "jobs" rhetoric, there is no evidence this bill will deliver jobs and paychecks—just millions more unemployment checks. Those checks will be in addition to the all-time record number of unemployment benefits currently being paid to 9.5 million Americans per week last month. The Federal extended benefits programs are now so enormous—and the 2009 stimulus law was such an utter failure at stemming the tide of job loss and long-term unemployment—that soon more Americans will collect Federal extended benefits than regular State unemployment checks for the first time ever:

GRAPHIC REMOVED

ADDING MASSIVELY TO DEFICITS AND DEBT

These unemployment checks cost a tremendous amount of money. Since "emergency" Federal unemployment benefits began in mid-2008, the Federal government has spent an astonishing $100 billion on these programs. That is 4 times what the Federal government spent on emergency unemployment benefits in the wake of the 2001 recession and terrorist attacks. The tidal wave of recent spending has bankrupted the Federal unemployment accounts and forced Democrats to engage in a massive and growing bailout with general revenues. The legislation before us adds to those massive totals, increasing Federal spending by $7 billion per month, or a total of over $40 billion more during just the next six months. All of which will add to our record deficits and debt.

Tellingly, none of these additional unemployment benefits will be paid for, despite Democrats' recent claims of fiscal responsibility. For example, last week on the House floor, senior Ways and Means Member Sander Levin of Michigan said of a bill that permanently raised taxes to pay for temporary tax relief "What we are suggesting here is fiscal responsibility. Don't dig the hole deeper and deeper. Step up and pay for it." The next day, Speaker PELOSI held a news conference at which she said: "On jobs, we hope next week that in our final appropriations bill we will be able to have a jobs piece that will create jobs in the near term to address the needs of those who are unemployed and do so in a fiscally sound way."

Yet here we are again digging that hole deeper, and doing nothing "in a fiscally sound way." None of our Democrat colleagues suggest we "step up and pay for" this new spending either. This despite the fact that, even before this measure passes, debt and unemployment have increased by a staggering 55 percent since President Obama took office just 11 months ago:

MORE UNEMPLOYMENT AND BENEFIT SPENDING TO COME

No one seriously thinks all this spending—or the job losses—will end with this extension, either. That means at least some of the "emergency" spending in today's bill is likely to continue for years ahead. The President's economist, Dr. Christina Romer, anticipated as much this past weekend when she said "I'm not going to say the recession is over until the unemployment rate is down to normal levels." She went on to define "normal" as "where we were before the recession." How long might that take? According to a recent study by economists at Rutgers, the U.S. won't return to pre-recession employment levels until 2017. That would mean the current recession, in Dr. Romer's view, would last a decade, or as long as the Depression of the 1930s.

THE COMING WAVE OF JOB-KILLING TAX HIKES

The Federal unemployment accounts are exhausted and most Federal benefits are currently supported by general revenues—the same source of funding for welfare benefits. State unemployment benefits, in contrast, remain supported either by State payroll taxes, or Federal loans—also supported by Federal general revenues and which will also have to be repaid with future State tax hikes.

Those State tax hikes are already under way. On December 8, 2009, the bipartisan National Association of State Workforce Administrators issued a report that 35 States will increase State unemployment payroll taxes in 2010. These are direct taxes on jobs, made worse by the failure of the 2009 stimulus law to create jobs and stem unemployment. The NASWA report notes the 2010 tax hikes range up to a stunning 600 percent. As one small businessman said simply, "This is a job killer." (A list of other recent quotes about how these tax hikes will destroy jobs is included below.)

As the above data shows, Democrat stimulus legislation has succeeded in increasing unemployment, not reducing it. Instead of creating 3.5 million new jobs, the 2009 stimulus bill has been followed by almost 3 million job losses. And now record unemployment benefit payments that followed have become their own engine of job destruction, contributing to an enormous wave of Federal borrowing and State tax hikes that will stifle job growth for years to come.

Adding to the pain, Democrat energy policies would increase the price of energy and kill millions of jobs. Democrat health policies would make health care and health insurance more expensive and kill millions more jobs. And other Democrat spending proposals in this second (or really third or fourth, depending on how one counts) stimulus bill will further drive up the debt and kill even more jobs.

We can and must do better. It's well past time for us to shelve Democrats' job-killing energy, health care, and tax hike agendas. We will then unleash America's job creation engine so laid off workers can finally get back to work. That effort should start with a vote against this legislation, and a renewed commitment to offer unemployed workers real help in finding new work, instead of just more benefit checks.

APPENDIX: RECENT QUOTES ABOUT HOW STATE UNEMPLOYMENT TAX HIKES WILL KILL JOBS FROM SEA TO SHINING SEA

California: "Tax may feed unemployment: business owners fear insurance spike," March 30, 2009:

"Thanks to the tanking economy and past benefit hikes, the state's system for providing unemployment benefits is insolvent. And the fix that state lawmakers are considering is to dramatically raise the taxes employers pay into the system. The irony: That could force companies to lay off employees. Take, for example, Steve Diels, who owns a Redondo Beach call center. Any tax increase could force him to fill out some pink slips. 'Right now, my profit margin has slipped and I'm doing everything I can to avoid laying anyone off,' said Diels, a Redondo Beach city councilman who employs 38 people at Aamcom Inc. 'But if they increase the unemployment tax, employers like me will have to lay people off and that will only make things worse with the unemployment fund.'"

Connecticut: "State may tax business to bail out broke jobless fund," December 5, 2009:

"Tony Sheridan, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Eastern Connecticut, said . . . 'It's a tough situation and there's not one single business that can stand a tax increase.'"

Florida: "Creating more jobs is 'Job No. 1,'" December 10, 2009

"A good example of policy that discourages hiring is the impending radical increase in the unemployment tax in Florida, triggered by the depletion of the unemployment trust fund by record jobless claims. That increase is so steep—from $8.40 per employee to $100 for the minimum tax; from $378 to $459 for the maximum—that it could not only discourage hiring, it could put some businesses under."

Hawaii: "Big payroll tax reset weighs on Hawaii business," December 4, 2009:

"Big Island contractor Hinchcliff Drywall Construction will see a more than six-fold increase in its payroll taxes next year, which will soar from the current $18,500 annually to $116,350. . . . 'I don't understand why the rates were not raised gradually over the period of two or three years—it almost seems a bit backwards,' said Michelle Danihel-Kreusling, controller of Hinchcliff Drywall, which employs 80 people. 'Practically cutting off your nose to spite your face,' she said. 'This rate hike will either require many businesses to either drastically reduce their labor force or close shop completely, both of which would increase the unemployment rate.'"

Maine: "Maine raises unemployment tax by $54 million," December 1, 2009:

"David Clough, Maine director of the National Federation of Independent Businesses, said his members will be hit hard by the tax hike. He said it will cost jobs, either from layoffs or positions that go unfilled."

Maryland: "Rising unemployment taxes could hinder hiring," November 22, 2009:

"Employers already are squeezed by tight credit, rising health care costs, wary consumers and a higher minimum wage. Now, the surging jobless rate is imposing another cost. It's forcing higher state taxes on companies to pay for unemployment insurance claims. Some employers say the extra costs make them less likely to hire. . . . Chuck Ferrar, who owns a liquor store in Annapolis, Md., expects to pay $9,000 in unemployment taxes next year, up from $3,000 this year. Health care costs for his employees will rise by $8,000, or 17.5 percent. 'When you start adding this up, it turns into real money,' he said. 'If I lose an employee through attrition, I will not replace him. You can't afford to do it.'"

Massachusetts: "Unemployment at 33-year high; insurance fund running dry," October 16, 2009:

"'This is a breathtakingly bad picture,' said Michael Widmer, president of the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation, a business-funded public policy group, and also a member of the advisory council that monitors the solvency of the two accounts that fund unemployment benefits. 'They're putting additional taxes on employers, and we are seeing our jobs erode,' Widmer said in an interview. 'It's devastating in terms of the state's competitiveness.'"

Michigan: "New unemployment-insurance taxes: $63 million in 2010," September 13, 2009:

"Frank Lope, an alliance board member and chairman of Romulus-based Aztec Manufacturing Corp., said . . . 'It's going to be another impediment on businesses as they go to look at hiring people,' Lopez said. 'It's just another, so to speak, of the many nails in the coffin for continued growth of businesses in the state of Michigan.'"

Nevada: "Businesses May See Huge Tax Increase," September 23, 2009:

"Some financial experts are still concerned that a huge jump in the unemployment benefit tax will force businesses to lay off employees to pay for the increase."

North Carolina: "N.C. borrowing billions for jobless," December 1, 2009:

"Walden, the economist, said raising taxes would be a mistake as long as the economy is hurting. 'In essence, you can look at that as a tax on new employees, and we don't want to do that,' he said. The deep recession has made it impossible for North Carolina to forecast how much unemployment tax funds the state will receive from employers next year, Clegg said. 'Not to be maudlin, but I don't know who will be paying taxes in the first quarter of 2010 because I don't know what businesses will survive,' he said."

Rhode Island: "R.I. businesses to pay higher jobless taxes," November 23, 2009:

"Mark Higgins, dean of the University of Rhode Island's College of Business Administration, said the tax hike was inevitable. . . . Depending on the circumstances, the tax increase is one factor that could discourage a business from hiring next year, Higgins said. Higher unemployment tax 'just increases the cost of hiring somebody,' he said. 'It increases the cost of payroll . . . [and] of keeping [an employee] on the payroll,' he said."

Mr. VAN HOLLEN, Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of the Jobs for Main Street Act. Now that recent initiatives aimed at stabilizing our financial system and stimulating our economy are beginning to have their intended effect, this targeted legislation is laser-focused on job creation to ensure that all Americans will have an opportunity to participate in our ongoing economic recovery.

Specifically, the Jobs for Main Street Act invests $48 billion in our nation's highways, transit systems, school facilities, water infrastructure and housing stock. In addition to putting hundreds of thousands of Americans back to work, these funds will make needed improvements and renovations to our nation's aging infrastructure. $27 billion is provided to hire, train and equip an estimated 820,000 teachers, police, firefighters and other public service personnel. Job-generating small businesses will get greater access to Small Business Administration (SBA) loans by eliminating fees and by providing higher guarantees to the private banks that lend to them. These measures, in addition to the small business Recovery Act initiatives that preceded them, will help generate well over $9 billion in new small business lending.

To help Americans who are out of work or have lost their employer-provided health insurance, this legislation extends emergency unemployment and COBRA benefits through June, 2010. States will receive an extra six months of federal matching funds to help cover their Medicaid costs through June, 2011, and the families of 16 million low-income children will get a tax cut through greater access to the Child Tax Credit.

Madam Speaker, this Congress on a bipartisan basis extended support to Wall Street during a period of potentially catastrophic systemic risk and extraordinary need. It is now high time we make an equally extraordinary effort on behalf of creating jobs for Main Street so that the prosperity we are creating is broadly shared by all.

Mr. BUYER. Madam Speaker, I rise in opposition to H.R. 2847 the, "Jobs for Main Street Act of 2009."

Madam Speaker, once again members are being asked to vote on a 100-page bill, which was posted in the dead of night in the name of creating jobs that unfortunately will probably never materialize. What it will do is needlessly expand the size of the Federal Government. Madam Speaker, this is not the type of open and transparent process that the American people want or deserve.

I am especially concerned that this bill spends millions of taxpayer dollars on innumerable pork barrel programs and pet projects, but it does not spend a dime to help create jobs for veterans. Recent unemployment numbers from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics show that in the month of November there were over one million unemployed veterans, and that is unacceptable.

The unemployment rate among our newest veterans, ages 18–24, remains extremely high at 20 percent. Equally disturbing is that 700,000 of the one million unemployed veterans are between the ages of 35 and 64, the years normally characterized by both highest earning power and highest financial need for important items such as paying mortgages and tuitions.

Madam Speaker, it is because of these alarming statistics that earlier this month I was joined by many members of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs in introducing H.R. 4220 the Promoting Jobs for Veterans Act of 2009. H.R. 4220 would help veterans find employment by providing funding and incentives for them to pursue employment training and education. The bill would also expand opportunities within the Federal Government for veteran-owned and service disabled veteran-owned small businesses.

It was my hope that any "jobs package" would have included provisions such as those from H.R. 4220 to help those who have defended freedom, and it is unfortunate that the heavy handed tactics being used today have effectively prevented anyone from offering an amendment to include these provisions.

Madam Speaker, I believe that veterans could serve as an important catalyst to economic recovery. Veterans are dedicated employees and engaged entrepreneurs, and this would expand job and entrepreneurial opportunities for these selfless individuals. It is my hope that early in the next session we can consider H.R. 4220 and examine other ways to improve employment opportunities for our veterans.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Madam Speaker, the U.S. economy continues to limp along mired in a jobless recovery. Wall Street banks have begun to recover thanks to a $700 billion bailout paid for by taxpayers. Unfortunately, everyone else continues to suffer the effects of the economic collapse. Oregon's unemployment rate exceeds 11 percent and small businesses in my district can't get banks to lend to them. I have long advocated for a targeted jobs recovery program that focuses on substantial investments in our Nation's infrastructure, which will create jobs quickly and leave a long-term benefit for future generations.

I reluctantly voted for H.R. 2847, the Jobs for Main Street Act because it begins to make these investments that are both desperately needed and effective at creating jobs. There are nearly 10,000 of ready-to-go infrastructure projects across the country that have been postponed or delayed due to decades of underinvestment and underfunding. There are 61,000 miles of the National Highway System in poor or fair condition. 152,000 bridges are structurally deficient or functionally obsolete. The Nation's largest transit agencies face a combined $80 billion maintenance backlog to bring their rail systems to a state of good repair.

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, ARRA, provided a mere $34 billion for highway and transit formula programs. Nearly 70 percent of the funding has already been put out to bid on over 9,500 infrastructure projects. The 7,900 Recovery Act infrastructure projects have created or sustained more than 210,000 direct jobs, as well as 630,000 indirect jobs in the past nine months.

As the ARRA Act infrastructure funding draws to a close, there are still over 9,000 shovel ready infrastructure projects across the country that could proceed within 120 days. The projects include 7,500 in ready-to-go highway and bridge projects; over 1,800 in ready-to-go transit, rail, port, and aviation projects; and an estimated $21 billion worth of projects that transit agencies across the country could undertake immediately. These projects will create not just public sector construction jobs, but will procure American-made transit buses, trains, electrical equipment, computer systems and software designed by private sector, American engineers.

H.R. 2847 represents the bare minimum of what we need to do. Should the Senate redirect this effort to tax cuts or other ineffective job creation policies, I will have a very difficult time supporting a final bill.

Mr. CONYERS. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of passage of the Jobs for Main Street Act of 2010.

I believe this legislation is one of the most cost effective ways to provide cities across this country with desperately needed federal funding to help create and stabilize jobs, assist families who need their unemployment benefits extended, and to ensure that they can keep their health insurance.

Passage of the Jobs for Main Street Act of 2010 is critically important for America's working families, and unemployed individuals, given the current economic status of this country.

The Nation is experiencing extreme difficulties leading to high unemployment rates, especially in my home State of Michigan. Passage of this bill will provide real tangible relief for those who are depending on the Federal Government to help them survive in a time of financial crisis—not empty rhetoric and promises that help nobody.

The Jobs for Main Street Act of 2010 will help reduce these problems by stabilizing and creating jobs through infrastructure investments, an increase in public service jobs, and provide emergency relief for families hurt by the economy.

The bill will provide billions of dollars to create or save jobs with targeted investments for highways and transit, school renovation, hiring teachers, police, and firefighters, small business, job training and affordable housing which are essential elements in promoting economic growth.

However, passage of the Jobs for Main Street Act of 2010 is just the beginning of the process to put America back to work. We must act quickly to establish a full-employment economy, where every American who wants a job should be able to find one; and at a livable wage. This can and must be done if America is ever going to become a truly productive country.

During the depression, President Roosevelt put millions of Americans to work by creating public service jobs such as building roads, national parks, and rural electrification systems. We can do the same by creating a 21st century public works jobs program for America that can quickly employ the millions of citizens in this country who simply cannot find employment in the private sector.

The passage of this legislation will help put our Nation on the road to recovery. Therefore, I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. HOLT. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 2847, the Jobs for Main Street Act. This legislation would provide jobs for tens of thousands of Americans, preserve thousands more jobs, and continue essential benefits to aid the unemployed without increasing the national debt.

We have taken important steps to bring our economy back from the worst economic crisis in three-quarters of a century. We've made important investments in our infrastructure, clean energy jobs, science research, and the next generation of workers.

There are clear signs that the economy is improving. Instead of shrinking by 6.4 percent a quarter, the economy has grown by 2.8 percent. Instead of losing 741,000 jobs a month, as the economy did a year ago, last month the economy shed 11,000 jobs. These are encouraging signs.

Yet, I'm not going to sit on my hands and wait for job creation. Families in New Jersey, who have lost a job or had their hours or paychecks cut, are still hurting. And we know employers have cut jobs more sharply and are more hesitant to replace them than in previous downturns.

The government can and should work together to increase employment opportunities in the short-term, mid-term, and long-term. Economists, business leaders, financial experts, among others, have argued that the Federal Government, and only the Federal Government, can inject into the economy a stimulus of sufficient size to make up for the frozen, collapsing economy. The package we are considering today will build on our previous investment, creating needed jobs and helping those who continue to be unemployed.

The Jobs for Main Street Act would redirect $48.3 billion to put Americans to work rebuilding our Nation's crumbling roads and bridges, modernizing public buildings, and improving air and water quality. Specifically it would invest $27.5 billion in highway infrastructure improvements, $8.4 billion for transit improvements, and $800 million to improve Amtrak. It is estimated that this investment will create over 750,000 new jobs. Additionally, H.R. 2847 would invest $2.8 billion in clean water infrastructure, aquatic ecosystem restoration, and flood mitigation; creating another 50,000 jobs. It also will put contractors back to work by providing states with $4.1 billion for school construction, rehabilitation, and renovations. The $270 million that this legislation would invest in improving and protecting Federal, State, and local public lands would support approximately 14,000 short-term jobs, improving service to visitors, reducing the large backlog in facilities and habitat restoration needs, and reducing hazardous fuels that lead to damaging and expensive wildfires. These investments will do more than create jobs in the short term, they will provide long term benefits to all Americans.

Over the past year, I have held a number of events focused on jobs. Two months ago, I brought 50 central Jersey small business owners to Washington to hear their concerns and help them access helpful programs. Two weeks ago, I hosted a jobs forum in central New Jersey. At both events, I heard from small business owners struggling to get the credit and loans they need. The Jobs for Main Street Act would help those small businesses by eliminating fees on Small Business Administration loans and by providing a strong guarantee for Small Business Administration loans to encourage more banks to lend to small businesses. Small businesses are the engine that drives our economy, and during rough economic times they are also the engine that drives job creation. This is one step that Congress is taking to help our small businesses, who generate jobs and develop the innovative products of the future.

I especially am pleased this bill provides funding to ensure that states can keep police officers, firefighters, teachers, and other State and local employees on the job. Without this funding, States would be forced to make the difficult decision between cutting jobs and services or increasing taxes. That is a choice that no state should have to make, especially in difficult economic times.

The Jobs for Main Street Act includes $1.18 billion to help put more than 5,500 law enforcement officers on the beat throughout the United States, and $500 million to retain, rehire, and hire firefighters across the United States. According to the International Association of Firefighters, nearly 6,000 firefighters have been laid off or are subject to layoffs. An additional 6,000 positions have been lost through attrition. The bill would provide $18.9 billion to school districts and public institutions of higher education to retain or create 250,000 teaching jobs.

The recession has hit those between the ages of 16 and 25 particularly hard, and the unemployment rate is especially high for this group. The Jobs for Main Street Act would provide much needed job training and temporary public service positions to get these individuals back to work. The bill would provide $200 million to hire an additional 25,000 AmeriCorps Members, this funding would enable those individuals to serve their communities while earning an education award to further their education or pay off student loans. With the teenage unemployment rate at its highest rate in history, 27.8 percent, this legislation would invest $500 million to create 250,000 summer jobs for disadvantaged youth. H.R. 2847 would help up to 250,000 students stay in school by investing $300 million in the College Work Study program, which supports low- and moderate-income undergraduate and graduate students who work while attending college. Additionally, this legislation would provide $750 million for competitive grants to support job training for approximately 150,000 individuals in high growth and emerging industry sectors, particularly in the health care and green industries that are adding jobs despite difficult economic conditions.

For those workers struggling to maintain their health insurance while in between jobs, this bill would extend the COBRA subsidy established in the Recovery Act, which has already benefited approximately 7 million Americans. This expanded COBRA subsidy would help workers for 15 months with their COBRA health insurance premiums and help more Americans access this benefit. Job losses also have caused State Medicaid rolls to swell. This bill temporarily would increase the Federal Government's contribution to Medicaid to ensure States are able to provide health coverage to these workers. This two-prong approach will help ensure millions of unemployed workers are able to maintain health coverage for their families.

When we talk about jobs, we are not just talking about the economy. We are talking about the dignity that comes from holding a steady job that supports your family. The Jobs for Main Street Act recognizes this, and would help our families in real ways. I urge my colleagues to support it.

Mr. ETHERIDGE. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 2847, the Jobs for Main Street Act. Over the last year, our economy has sustained serious damage. Although recent signs are pointing to an upswing in the overall economy, millions of Americans are jobless or have seen their hours drastically cut. The national unemployment rate is 10 percent while in my State of North Carolina the figure is 11 percent statewide, and reaches as high as 13 percent in parts of my district. Action is needed to help solve this crisis.

H.R. 2847 builds on earlier actions taken by Congress to create jobs and get Americans back to work. This bill provides $48.3 billion for highway construction, mass transit, and other infrastructure projects. Our Nation's infrastructure is in need of a serious update, and repairing our highways, renovating our schools, building new mass transit, and improving our airports and water and sewer facilities provides vitally needed jobs to Americans across the country. This bill also extends authorization for highway, transit, and safety funding, the Safe, Accountable, Flexible, Efficient Transportation Equity Act (SAFETEA-LU) through September of 2010. H.R. 2847 is a timely bill and gets funding in place for infrastructure projects that can start with the spring construction season.

I would like to thank Chairman RANGEL, and Speaker PELOSI, for their work to make Qualified School Construction Bonds more effective in this bill. I worked with Chairman RANGEL to create these bonds to put the Federal Government in partnership with local schools to meet their needs and help create jobs. Where these bonds have been issued, they are having a great impact on our economy and our communities. However, contrary to the intentions of the bill, only 15 percent of the 2009 QSCB bond allocations have been used to date. This bill allows State or local governments who issue QSCBs or Qualified Zone Academy Bonds to choose a direct payment to cover the interest they would otherwise have to fund themselves, at no additional cost to the Federal Government since the payment is equal to the tax credit that would otherwise be received by the investor. As I have mentioned before, investing in school construction and modernization is one of the best ways to help Main Street, create jobs, and address pressing national needs. I am pleased that we were able to make this change in the bill to bring funds quickly to our local schools and communities.

H.R. 2847 also provides $26.7 billion in aid for State and local governments. These funds are used to retain police, firefighters, teachers, and other workers who would otherwise lose their jobs due to State and local revenue shortfalls. This bill also provides assistance for those struggling the most in today's economy by extending the emergency unemployment benefits initiative for six months and the COBRA health insurance subsidy for an additional six months. H.R. 2847 includes $26.1 billion in tax credits for other assistance initiatives like the Child Care Tax Credit and Social Security legal assistance. Finally, H.R. 2847 targets small businesses, the economic engines that create the majority of new jobs, by extending funds for the Small Business Administration to continue affordable long-term loans for new startups.

Not only does this bill create jobs and boost the economy, it does so in a fiscally responsible manner. It includes the previously House-passed PAYGO language and would be paid for in part by savings from the Troubled Asset Relief Program, TARP. It's time for Wall Street to help shoulder some of the burden on Main Street. I support strong job creation measures and I support H.R. 2847. I urge my colleagues to join me in voting for its passage.

Mr. CARSON of Indiana. Madam Speaker, as we consider this final important jobs creating measure, I would like to draw attention to one of the important pieces of the legislation: the extension of the eligibility period for COBRA benefits. Unemployment numbers continue to hover nationally at 10 percent; however, in many areas of the country these numbers are far higher. With these high numbers comes a decline in access to healthcare benefits and thus the need for this critical provision.

Congress passed the landmark Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (COBRA) health benefit provisions in 1986, and it has maintained a successful program by providing a continuation of group health coverage for individuals and families that might otherwise have been terminated. And, through the economic stimulus package passed in February, a 65 percent subsidy was provided for COBRA benefits for nine months and has been a welcome relief for thousands of unemployed workers who otherwise would not have been able to afford the COBRA premiums.

Many individuals and families have already exhausted their subsidy and are trying to figure out how to maintain their health insurance coverage. The problem is especially felt by older Americans who are close to retirement age and not yet eligible for Medicare, as they tend to use more health care services. Providing our constituents with the ability to maintain health coverage when they become unemployed is a key to ensuring these individuals do not fall through the cracks and end up without the health insurance they need. I urge passage of this important legislation.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 2487, the Jobs for Main Street Act. I salute my colleague Chairman OBEY for this bill that is the opening salvo in our effort to tackle one of the most important issues of the day facing our nation.

The bill redirects $48.3 billion from Wall Street to help put people to work rebuilding our crumbling roads and bridges, modernizing public buildings, and cleaning our air and water. I'm happy that we gave the American people a gift with $27.5 billion to make additional highway infrastructure investments. These projects support jobs in the short term while saving commuters time and money in the long term.

Another gift was made in the area of transit, with $8.4 billion for public transportation investments including $6.15 billion for urban and rural formula grants; $500 million for capital investment grants for new or expanded fixed guide way projects; and $1.75 billion in formula funds to address repair needs of existing subway, light rail and commuter rail systems. Public transportation saves Americans time and money, reducing carbon emissions by 37 million metric tons each year, which is timely as the world's eyes are centered on the debates in Copenhagen.

These gifts are news to the ears of my constituents. Let me share with you that in my district, which covers parts of the nation's fourth largest city, Houston, TX, our unemployment rate stands at nearly 9%. While this rate is more than a full percentage point below the national average, it should be noted that over 110,000 jobs were lost in the first 10 months of this year. Regrettably, a disproportionate share of those impacted by these job losses in my district have been African Americans and Latinos.

Yet, this "jobs disparity" is not limited to Houston; data from the Department of Labor indicates that African Americans throughout the nation today, in the era of President Obama, are still the last hired and the first fired. Specifically, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that the unemployment rate for African American men (20 and older) was 16.5 percent as of October of this year, and 12.4 percent for African American women at the same age level.

Historically, experts have suggested that the antidote to unemployment is education. However, Labor Department statistics appear to indicate that education, alone, does not level the playing field. In fact, higher education amongst African Americans may strangely enough even make it more difficult to obtain a job. For the first 10 months of this year, as the recession has dragged on, unemployment for least educated workers was the same for African Americans and the general population. However, in 2009, the unemployment rate for African American college graduates 25 and older has been nearly twice that of their Caucasian American male counterparts (8.4 percent compared with 4.4 percent). According to a New York Times article published on December 1st, even African American college graduates with degrees from Ivy League schools such as Yale, my alma mater, are finding themselves in the ranks of the unemployed.

In addition to the racial dimension of this "jobs disparity," the recent economic downturn has focused a spotlight on a widening gap between employment rates among men and women, particularly in the African American community. It has been reported that since the nation's slowdown has been most pronounced in the manual labor sectors, men with the lowest levels of education have suffered the brunt of the unemployment crisis. CNN commentators recently described our current economic condition as a "man-cession."

According to a recent Bureau of Labor Statistics report, the unemployment rate for African American men aged 20 and older was 4.1 percent higher than the unemployment rate for African American women of the same age group, which was 12.4 percent. This gender unemployment gap among African Americans mirrors a similar gap between Caucasian and Latino Americans, thus demonstrating a nationwide trend.

Friends, we are in a battle for the hearts and souls of America, literally and figuratively. To win this battle, we must take bold action, like passing health care reform legislation in both chambers of Congress. Madam Speaker, I concur with the assessment that the health reform legislation voted out of this chamber last month in fact a "jobs bill."

As evidence of this, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that last month's slight dip in the unemployment rate was caused by the fact that for the third straight month, hospitals reported solid payroll additions, with 6,800 new jobs created. In the first 11 months of this year, the healthcare sector created 249,700 new jobs, an average of 22,700 new health care jobs each month, according to BLS' preliminary data. Since the start of the recession in December 2007, overall 7.9 million people in America have lost their jobs, while the healthcare sector has created 613,000 jobs.

In an article published in HealthLeaders Media, it was reported that the healthcare sector—from hospitals, to physicians' offices, to residential mental health homes, kidney dialysis centers, and blood and organ banks—grew by 21,000 payroll additions in November and 613,000 payroll additions since the start of the recession in December 2007. The home healthcare services sector reported 7,300 payroll additions in November, BLS preliminary data show.

Recognizing this Madam Speaker, I am working with health care and labor leaders to craft a jobs bill that create innovative new retraining programs in partnership with our Historically Black Colleges and Universities like Texas Southern University in my District or Howard University, here in Washington, DC. These training programs would focus on retooling workers for jobs in the growth sectors such as health, biotech, and information technology. In addition to funding for job training, I propose that we provide stipends to those who are unemployed and who participate in training programs to assist them in caring for their families. Along with this, my jobs bill would allow unemployed workers participating in job retraining to continue receiving unemployment benefits.

As a senior member of the Judiciary Committee, I am also working with the DOJ to incorporate into my jobs legislation a measure that would assist ex-offenders who are returning to the job market with strikes against them. In addition to eliminating any barriers for ex-offenders, I am also studying how we can encourage states to suspend criminal prosecution of fathers and other parents who are delinquent in child support so long as they are making good faith efforts to find jobs in this difficult employment market.

Madam Speaker, I also propose that we task the Department of Labor to expand its definition of the unemployed to cover not only those currently receiving unemployment compensation, but also those who have run out of unemployment insurance, known as the long term unemployed. I suspect that if we had accurate data that captured the entire unemployment picture, we would see jobless figures of upwards of 25–30 percent.

In addition, Madam Speaker, I also plan to propose we offer assistance to the underemployed, including thousands of lawyers and other professionals who work as part-timers or temp workers. Many of these professionals split their time between working for others and operating their own small firms. Furthermore, it has been noted that while larger firms are enjoying the benefit of government funded bailouts, our African American law firms, accounting firms, investment banking firms and media outlets are being left out of the funds directed at stimulating Wall Street. As Comcast and NBC Universal and other firms seek government permission to merge, I intend to work with these companies to ensure that our African American businesses are included, not left out of the deal flow.

Another jobs initiative would focus on creating apprentice and internship programs managed by cities and nonprofits like the Urban League. This is a take off of a Department of Labor that was very successful in the 1970s, which helped our nation rebound from its last recession.

Madam Speaker, during the 1930s–40s, the FDR Administration developed the Work Progress Administration (WPA). The WPA created thousands of jobs and helped lift our nation from depression. I am drafting legislation that would create a WPA for the 21st Century. This concept involves providing stimulus dollars to several federal agencies such as Interior, Transportation, and HHS to fund large scale projects.

Under my legislation, the new WPA would include modern day infrastructure and other projects including making broadband wireless Internet service available for all Americans, not just in wealthier suburban and downtown districts. In addition, we should create high speed rail and environmentally friendly highways and byways.

Finally, I plan that we work with HHS and the Energy Department to build new Green Hospitals across the country. This project would ensure that our nation's healthcare facilities are themselves healthy.

Madam Speaker, many of our unemployed constituents in Houston and around the nation are asking us a simple question: how long, how long before I can find a job? I say to them, not long . . . help is on the way. With the introduction and passage of jobs legislation offered by myself and the rest of the Congressional Black Caucus, help for the unemployed and underemployed, help for small businesses, is on the way.

I ask my colleagues to join me in supporting H.R. 2847, the Jobs for Main Street Act.

RESIGNATION FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following resignation from the House of Representatives:

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES,
December 16, 2009.

HON. NANCY PELOSI,
Speaker of the House of Representatives, H-232,
U.S. Capitol, Washington, DC.

DEAR SPEAKER PELOSI: This letter is to formally notify you that on October 26, 2009 I sent a letter to Governor Charlie Crist of Florida stating that I will be resigning as the United States Representative from the 19th Congressional District of Florida at the end of the day on January 3, 2010.

I have been honored to serve in the United States House of Representatives for the past 13 years, and I will be eternally grateful to the residents of Florida's 19th Congressional District for giving me the opportunity to be their representative in Washington. When I leave Congress this January, I will serve as the president of the Center for Middle East Peace and Economic Cooperation, where I will take on the critical challenges facing the Middle East. In the coming years, Israeli, Palestinian, and Arab leaders will be faced with monumental decisions that will dramatically affect the region and the entire world for decades. I am confident that now is the best time for me to dedicate myself fully to these significant issues.

While I am deeply saddened to leave this august body, I am looking forward to continuing much of my work in Congress in a different capacity in my new role with the Center for Middle East Peace. I especially want to thank you personally, Speaker Pelosi, for your extraordinary leadership during these difficult times for our nation as well as the kindness and courtesy you have always extended to me. I have particularly admired the dignified manner and deep sense of conviction that you display as Speaker of the House. The opportunity to work with you and all our colleagues in the House has been a great privilege indeed, and I hope to continue these friendships for many years to come.

With warm regards,

ROBERT WEXLER.

HONORING MS. PATRICIA FISHER

(Mr. MEEKS of New York asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. MEEKS of New York. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a remarkable woman. Ms. Pat Fisher, who is my office manager, who is retiring next week after 33 years on the Hill.

She came into my office not too long ago and said, You know, I've been thinking about it. I served 11 years with your predecessor, Floyd Flake, and 11 years with his predecessor, Joe Addabbo, and now 11 years with you, and it's time for me to go home to my family.

And she has done it with such grace and such style. She is indeed a treasure and comes here with her father, who served in this House for 50 years. They love this place.

But let me tell you that Pat Fisher, she is a time-honored treasure who will truly be missed. She has been the gatekeeper for the Sixth Congressional District of New York for 33 years. And not only will Washington and this House miss her, but the 640,000 people who comprise the Sixth Congressional District of New York. We will miss her dearly. We wish her well and much success. Our loss will be her husband, Joe's, gain, and the rest of her family's: her daughter, her son, and her grandchild.

We wish you all the luck in the world. Thank you for your service to this great Nation and to the Sixth Congressional District.

TRIBUTE TO STAFF SERGEANT
DENNIS J. HANSEN

(Mr. JORDAN of Ohio asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. JORDAN of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of one of America's fallen heroes, Army Staff Sergeant Dennis J. Hansen of Scottsville, New York, and formerly of Indian Lake, Ohio.

Born in Salt Lake City, Staff Sergeant Hansen was stationed at Fort Drum, New York, and assigned to the 1st Battalion, 32nd Infantry Regiment, 10th Mountain Division. He spent more than 8 years in the Marine Corps before joining the Army.

During his military career, Dennis served deployments in Africa, Kosovo, Japan, Panama, Cuba, Iraq, Afghanistan, and the Mediterranean.

He died on December 7, 2009, as a result of injuries sustained while serving his country in Afghanistan in support of Operation Enduring Freedom. Dennis, age 31, is survived by his loving family, including his wife, Jennifer; their children; and his parents, Dwight and Bonnie.

In reading of Dennis's life and speaking with his family members, it was clear he had a positive impact on the lives of everyone around him. He was a leader, a family man, an accomplished wrestler in his youth, and a champion in every sense of the word. He bravely stood up and volunteered to serve. He gave his life in defense of his family, his community, his State, and his Nation. For this we owe him and his family a great debt of gratitude.

Dennis will be missed each and every day. But the strength of his character and the courage he demonstrated through his service will live on.

ROBERT WEXLER

(Mr. COHEN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, today ends the first year of the 111th Congress, a Congress that's done much to try to preserve this country's economic security, improve its place among the nations of the world, worked against the global warming problems we have, and protect our planet.

So much of what we've accomplished has been a group effort, and one of the people that's been a part of that group is Congressman ROBERT WEXLER of Florida. I was privileged to sit next to Congressman WEXLER in the Judiciary Committee. Congressman WEXLER served 13 years in this House, and today he cast his last vote and walked off this floor.

I watched him as he walked off. I was sad to see him leave because he was an outstanding Member of Congress like so many people are here who are dedicated to making this country better, working hard, speaking his opinion to try to make this country a better place. I'm proud to have served in this Congress and to have served with ROBERT WEXLER. I'm proud to be a Member of this Congress, and I want to say to ROBERT WEXLER, you've been an outstanding Congressman, and this Congress will miss you.

OUR UNCONSCIONABLE NATIONAL DEBT

(Mr. COFFMAN of Colorado asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. COFFMAN of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, the Democrat majority voted today to raise our national debt limit by $290 billion. That vote we took today to raise the debt limit, rollcall vote 988, served as a terrible reminder of all of the votes we didn't take. The debt limit increase vote is the direct opposite of the votes we should have cast earlier this year—the votes to curb spending, the votes to cut pork, the votes for real economic stimulus, the votes for meaningful fiscal discipline.

Today our national debt is $12.13 trillion. More exactly, it is $12,134,970,556,795.04. Since January 6, 2009, the start of this 111th Congress, the national debt has increased by $1.4 trillion. I am sadly familiar with these numbers because I began to place the amount of the national debt in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD on a daily basis since last month as a reminder to all of us. We need to stop this borrowing and spending. I urge all of my colleagues to embrace fiscal discipline.

JOBS ARE BEING CREATED IN OUR COMMUNITIES

(Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to indicate that jobs are being created in our communities. And if anyone thinks that the loss of 109,000 jobs in my community in Harris County has not hurt families during this season, then they need to be aware of the necessity of the various people who need work.

I'm very proud that in the Defense bill that was passed, we have created jobs. We have created a number of jobs, and those jobs have been the kind of jobs that will serve the entire community: solar jobs, $800,000; technology jobs, $1 million; Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder Center for the Riverside General Hospital that will help our local soldiers, that is $1 million.

All total, $4.8 million have been secured by the 18th Congressional District to provide jobs in Houston to ensure minority research or research on health issues, to ensure green technology jobs, to put people to work.

Mr. Speaker, this is the beginning of a great day when we provide jobs for the 18th Congressional District and all of America. Merry Christmas to my constituents, as I've said, and Merry Christmas to our first family and all that they have done for America.

WHO DAT!

(Mr. CAO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. CAO. Mr. Speaker, the New Orleans Saints are having an historic season. Their success has provided our city so much hope that I wanted to give constituents a chance to honor them.

Today's statement is from Michael DesJardins of New Orleans. Michael writes:

"I believe! Finally. It's been 40 or so years of hope and disappointment—much more disappointment. As I bask in the glow of another victory by the Saints, I have finally let my heart believe that this could be the year. They have the spirit, the talent and the determination. They seem to like and support one another. Their success is not a product of stardom but of common effort by the whole team. They have transformed the Saints into a powerful organization that lifts up the whole community. We can all learn from them.

"Long-suffering, leading to hope, only to be dashed by the heartbreak of defeat and disappointment. This story of the Saints' past could be the story of our city government.

"Our Sainted team has been transformed into a constellation of bright shining stars. Dare we believe that New Orleans can share in that transformation?"

Thank you, and I yield back. Who Dat!

SPECIAL ORDERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. GARAMENDI). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 6, 2009, and under a previous order of the House, the following Members will be recognized for 5 minutes each.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONYERS) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. CONYERS addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

CREDIT IS FROZEN IN THIS COUNTRY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, the job market is bleak. A major reason is that bank credit is frozen in this country still. Business can't get loans to hire and function. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation reports that lending has declined for the last five consecutive quarters.

This chart amply demonstrates that. It was in the Washington Post yesterday.

Credit in the real banking sector has dried up. I'm not talking about the political TARP bailout fund banking sector being managed by Treasury. I'm talking about the impact of that on the rest of the banking system where credit is simply not being lent across this country. Businesses are clamoring to get loans, only to be rejected from coast to coast. The normal banking sector is not functioning. TARP destroyed over $600 billion of real bank capital as the Treasury moved itself into the driver's seat of picking winners and losers. Wall Street banks literally, and the way they've been handled, have blunted real economic recovery as businesses cannot get loans to conduct their affairs, to hire new employees, to pay current employees or buy equipment because they simply don't have access to credit.

Sadly, what's happened over this period of time is our local banks and the non Big 5 banks in the country have tried to compete in this economy. The Big 5—the ones that got the TARP funds from the taxpayers—have gone from holding 30 percent of the deposits in this country to 40 percent. They're getting bigger, which means it's even harder for the other thousands of banks across this country to compete.

Our financial system started seizing up after TARP was passed when normal banks refused to lend to each other in overnight transactions, and this has just gotten worse ever since. They lost confidence in the banking system itself.

So, where does small business go to get operating loans? The Washington Post gave us a little insight on that yesterday, and I wish to place that article in the RECORD. Some of what it says is:

"The administration's options continue to be constrained by the belief of many officials that meddling in the details of banking is counterproductive."

Well, what do they think the TARP is? It's ultimate meddling. It's total meddling. And, in fact, it prevents normal lending from being restored as banks across this country see that some banks get a special deal if they go to the Treasury and others get thrown aside or merged. A lot of those big banks have used the money to buy other banks, making our banking system much less competitive, much more concentrated.

While the White House has raised the temperature of its rhetoric in recent weeks about what's going wrong, their policy measures simply have not followed. Indeed, they extended the TARP for another year.

Now there are some activists across this country calling on the President to do much more. One of them, Reverend Jesse Jackson, left a meeting in Atlanta on Monday with ministers and others who are facing foreclosure even on their churches and homes. The Reverend Jackson, as the article reports, called on President Obama to use future Federal fair lending laws to force the banks to help struggling communities. He said, and I quote, "Banks got Federal money at zero interest, but homeowners and churches are paying pre-TARP prices for their losses. The banking system must be made accountable. The Attorney General should have been in that meeting as well." I agree with Reverend Jackson.

"The banking industry," the article says, "has reduced lending"—as this chart demonstrates—"for five consecutive quarters, even as it has regained profitability thanks to vast public aid from the people of the United States. The amount of money on loan from banks fell by about $600 billion, or 7.2 percent, from September 2008 to September 2009, according to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation."

This is not a recipe for economic recovery, not in the real economy. This is the second time the President has convened bank executives to urge their increased lending. The first was in March. But you know what the article says, it did little to slow the slide.

There are two actions that immediately could make a difference. One deals with the President meeting with the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Financial Accounting Standards Board and looking at mark-to-market accounting, which has destroyed over $600 billion of capital in our financial system. Credit is frozen. The very banks we have bailed out have decreased their lending over these five quarters that I've talked about, and Treasury, who is in charge of the TARP, literally is picking winners and losers.

We need reform of mark-to-market accounting, and we need somebody in the administration to look at the Making Home Affordable program to make sure that we allow people to remain in their homes so we don't have increasing foreclosures, particularly over these winter months. The problem is that they can't see the forest because the big trees, the big five, are blocking their view of what is happening across this country.

IN WHITE HOUSE MEETING, OBAMA CALLS ON BANKS TO INCREASE LENDING

(By Binyamin Appelbaum and Michael A. Fletcher)

President Obama exhorted the nation's biggest banks on Monday to make "extraordinary" efforts to increase lending, even as some of those firms are racing to distance themselves from government control.

The nation's most powerful bankers sat in the Roosevelt Room at the White House and nodded as the president spoke, but some executives and industry officials said afterward that increasing lending is largely beyond their ability.

Meanwhile, Citigroup and Wells Fargo announced plans Monday to spend billions of dollars—not on lending, but to repay federal aid. Citigroup chief executive Vikram Pandit missed the White House meeting to rally investor support.

Bank executives say they itch to make profitable loans, as many as possible, but are struggling to find qualified borrowers. They also say that the administration is asking for increased lending even as it pursues financial reforms that will limit the ability of banks to make loans.

Some note that a recession caused by an orgy of lending must be solved in part through greater restraint.

Obama has come under increasing pressure to demonstrate his concern for the plight of Americans caught in a rising tide of joblessness, even as the larger economy appears headed to recovery. The White House portrayed Monday's meeting as a chance for the president to channel the anger of Americans who think federal programs intended to revive the broader economy have succeeded only in restoring Wall Street's profitability.

"America's banks received extraordinary assistance from American taxpayers to rebuild their industry," the president said after the meeting. "And now that they're back on their feet, we expect an extraordinary commitment from them to help rebuild our economy."

Obama added that he expects not just effort but "results."

Some administration officials privately conceded that borrowing always declines during recessions, and that they are struggling to find effective ways of spurring new lending. Furthermore, the administration's options continued to be constrained by the belief of many officials that meddling in the details of banking is counterproductive.

The administration also is surrendering a measure of leverage over the industry as banks repay federal aid provided under the Troubled Assets Relief Program—although officials are eager to shed the political baggage of aiding big Wall Street firms. With the announcements Monday by Citigroup and Wells Fargo that they would repay federal aid, all of the nine major banks that got money late last year will be on track to pay it back.

As a result, while the White House has raised the temperature of its rhetoric in recent weeks, policy measures have not followed.

Some activists are calling on the president to do more. Just after leaving an Atlanta meeting Monday with ministers and others, some of whom are facing foreclosure on their churches and homes, the Rev. Jesse Jackson called on Obama to use federal fair-lending laws to force the banks to help struggling communities.

"Banks got federal money at zero interest, but homeowners and churches are paying pre-TARP prices for their loans," Jackson said. "The banking system must be made accountable. The attorney general should have been in that meeting."

The Congressional Black Caucus and other Democrats, who are concerned that administration efforts to slow foreclosures have come nowhere near meeting their stated goals, have also been pressing for additional steps to help distressed homeowners.

The banking industry has reduced lending for five consecutive quarters, even as it has regained profitability thanks to vast public aid. The amount of money on loan from banks fell by about $600 billion, or 7.2 percent, from September 2008 to September 2009, according to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

The White House initially portrayed the meeting with bankers as an opportunity to discuss strategies for increasing lending. But the president set a sterner tone over the weekend, telling the CBS show "60 Minutes": "I did not run for office to be helping out a bunch of fat-cat bankers on Wall Street."

One day later, the president was more temperate, saying that he did not intend to "vilify" any company or industry and that he appreciated existing efforts to increase lending, such as reviewing rejected applications to see whether loans can be approved. The president suggested Monday that banks should review applications three and four times if necessary.

Bankers also emerged from the meeting in a conciliatory mood, saying they share the administration's goals.

"Every bank in that room talked about adding many, many small-business originators and setting very aggressive goals for small-business lending next year," said Richard Davis, chief executive of US Bancorp.

Bank of America plans to increase small-business lending by $5 billion next year. J.P. Morgan Chase has committed to an increase of $4 billion.

"This is simply what a bank should do," J.P. Morgan chief executive Jamie Dimon said in a statement released before the meeting.

This is the second time the president has convened bank executives to urge increased lending. The first meeting, in March, did little to slow the slide. The president said Monday that he continues to get "too many letters from small businesses who explain that they are creditworthy and banks that they've had a long-term relationship with are still having problems giving them loans." But the White House on Monday deflected the value of the rhetoric.

"I think that the bully pulpit can be a powerful thing," said press secretary Robert Gibbs.

Obama said he also discussed the need for financial reform, urging the bank executives not to lobby against proposals such as the creation of an agency to protect borrowers from lending abuses. And the president said he once again urged moderation in executive compensation.

"I made it clear that it is both in the country's interest and ultimately in the financial industry's interest to have updated rules of the road to prevent abuse and excess," Obama said afterward. "I have no intention of letting their lobbyists thwart reforms."

Bank executives, however, say that they strongly favor reform—they just differ with the administration about some of the particulars.

The guest list for the meeting included the top executives of 12 of the nation's largest banks, but there were three late scratches. Goldman Sachs's Lloyd C. Blankfein, John Mack of Morgan Stanley and Citigroup's Richard Parsons participated in the meeting by telephone because the flight all three had planned to take from New York to Washington was delayed by fog.

AMERICANS MAKE THIS COUNTRY GREAT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from North Carolina (Ms. FOXX) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. FOXX. Mr. Speaker, at the close of 2009, as we look to and prepare for a new year, I'm prompted to call attention to the remarkable American people who have, once again, weathered a difficult year with dignity and toughness. Sometimes the Washington establishment forgets that the solutions to America's problems lie outside this capital city.

Yes, Americans from almost every walk of life are tightening their belts and making due with less this year, but Americans continue to be an extraordinarily resourceful people who inspire me in my work every day.

As we prepare to celebrate Christmas, entering in a new year, I hope we can all draw inspiration from the American people. We live in a Nation of innovators and hardworking entrepreneurs. Their resourcefulness is unlimited. The spirit of American opportunity lives and thrives among them.

And let's not forget the North Carolinians who, with their characteristic generosity and work ethic, illustrate the greatness at work in America, even in seasons of considerable difficulty. I look to them as a source of inspiration and hope. People like those who call North Carolina home have always been the best hope for the preservation of our tradition of individual liberty and government by and for the people, whether in good times or bad.

Mr. Speaker, Washington would do well to stop and watch, listen, and learn from everyday Americans as they go about their lives and do the things that help make our Nation great.

May God continue to bless us all.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from California (Ms. WOOLSEY) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Ms. WOOLSEY addressed the House. Her remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. JONES) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. JONES addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

AMERICANS WANT THEIR COUNTRY BACK

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. POE) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, as we end the month, the year, the decade, this session of Congress, some observations:

Fifteen million Americans are unemployed. We have 10 percent unemployment and higher throughout the United States.

Spending is totally out of control. The country is broke, so we borrow money from China and Japan, and it seems they own our Nation. And the taxrats have not seen a tax bill they didn't believe in.

Domestic policy is simple: Spend money, spend money we don't have, then borrow it, and then raise taxes on the American people.

The government's financial system is also simple: If it moves, tax it; if it keeps moving, regulate it; and if it stops moving, then subsidize it. Today we raised the debt ceiling so more money can be spent as soon as we get back in January. Now we're over $12 trillion in debt.

The House has turned our Nation's health care over to the government. You know, the government who tried to run a health care vaccine program that was a total failure, where school kids didn't get the vaccine while Wall Street fat cats did. And yet the Federal Government wants to now run America's health.

The House voted on a cap-and-trade tax bill that will add a tax on energy consumption for all Americans and punish energy consumption and encourage domestic oil producers to go somewhere else.

Congress has given more money away to foreign countries that hate us while ignoring problems at home.

Many Members of Congress have already left on planes, headed to Denmark to talk about how we must control the climate because man is the evildoer and scourge of the Earth. Of course, the Al Gore warmers have been caught this year hiding data that shows reasonable minds disagree with their theory of global warming. Plus, the warmers want to force Americans to spend millions of dollars to implement changes on their yet unproven theories.

The government, in essence, has taken over Wall Street, the financial industry, the automobile industry. You know, General Motors needs to change its name to Government Motors. The Federal Government has taken over the mortgage industry, the banks, and the salaries of some executives.

More American freedom and liberty has been stolen from us, and more assaults on the Constitution have occurred than at any time in our history. And today, the radical open border crowd has announced new legislation, arrogantly demanding amnesty for millions of illegals in this country with, also, visa preferences for those nations with the most foreigners in the United States. So much for border security.

We have a new military strategy that's implemented. It's called the surge and retreat plan. That strategy is in Afghanistan where we're going to surge and send a bunch of troops in, but yet in 18 months, according to the administration, they're coming home. No strategy like that has ever been used in military history before.

And of course Gitmo, down there in Cuba where we house terrorists, it's getting a new ZIP Code. We're moving it to the United States and putting it in Illinois. And of course the country has seen that we've prosecuted our Navy SEALs and given rides to terrorists.

What an odd year it's been. It is the arrogance of power that says government is the answer to everything. Our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor have been turned over to government opportunists. Reagan said that government is the problem, not the answer, and I agree with him.

But, Mr. Speaker, not all is gloom, doom, and despair. There is great hope. The American people are not fooled. People in our country now fear the government, and people are mad, and people are involved. And even though the D.C. crowd pays no attention to them, I've got news for the elites: The people are not going away in the darkness of the night. They will not give up without a fight, because the American cause is righteous, and the people's actions are just.

Government should not underestimate the American soul and the American spirit. They are a force to be reckoned with. Mr. Speaker, the people want their country back, and they will get it back. After all, the Constitution says, "We the People," not, "We, the subjects."

And that's just the way it is.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. POLIS) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. POLIS addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

HONORING SPECIALIST MICHAEL COTE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. CASSIDY) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. CASSIDY. Mr. Speaker, this may be the last address given on the floor of the House of Representatives this year. It is fitting that it is a tribute to Michael Cote, a specialist who gave his life while fighting to defend us in Iraq.

Specialist Cote was from Denham Springs, Louisiana. After graduating from Denham Springs High School, he met his wife, Ashlee, when the two were in basic training. They passed notes back and forth during their training and snuck off to church services to be together on weekends. Just days after basic training ended, the two soldiers were married.

Michael was serving in Iraq when their daughter, Brooke, was born in March, but he found a way to be on the phone with Ashlee during the delivery. She delivered in Baton Rouge.

Ashlee tells me that Michael liked to fish and hunt. She says he was an all-around country boy who liked to goof around but always knew when it was time to be a soldier.

Michael was serving as a crew chief when his Black Hawk helicopter went down in Balad, Iraq, in September.

On the day of his memorial service, the people of Denham Springs lined the streets to wave American flags as the procession went by. Families brought their children and grandchildren out to honor Specialist Cote, a tribute to a man friends and family in Denham Springs say they knew would grow up to be a soldier.

His mother, Carol Bass, tells me that she visits the grave daily.

Mr. Speaker, we mourn with Ashlee, Brooke, and Mrs. Bass the loss of Specialist Cote, but let us celebrate his patriotism, his dedication to country, his sacrifice on behalf of our security.

We are forever indebted to the men and women of our armed services, soldiers like Michael Cote, who put themselves in harm's way so that we may live freely and in peace.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. DEAL) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. DEAL of Georgia addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO) is recognized for 5 minutes.

REFLECTIONS FROM 2009

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, in the rush of a debate in an earlier 1-minute, I was not able to capture the somberness of the moment. As our colleagues have finished their work and have, in fact, recognized the need of this Nation, I think it is important to summarize how important it is to keep our minds focused as we return back in the new year.

We know that this country is a resilient country. People are tough, and they've gotten tougher. We are blessed by the fact that we have a country of laws. We're a democratic Nation. If there is oppression in our Nation, we have a court system to seek to be redeemed. We have the amenities of life, technology, transportation, clean water. But in every country comes a time when things are not as good as they need to be, and I think we should clarify what has been done over these last couple of months.

I was here during the past two Presidential terms. When I say "two Presidential terms," the past and former Presidents. I voted for the 1997 Budget Reconciliation Act that generated an enormous surplus and created an opportunity for millions of our children to be insured. That was 1997. We had a surplus as that previous administration, the Clinton administration, left office.

We had a tragedy on 9/11, and we had to respond to that enormous tragedy, a terrorist act, and I joined with my colleagues to respond to that by allowing our Nation to defend itself by going into Afghanistan. I did not support the detour into Iraq. However, I support the men and women, and I mourn for those families who have lost loved ones.

So what have we done over this year? We have fought for America, and that is why there was the political sacrifice. Some people say that's your job, to vote for the TARP—not willingly. We didn't want a fat-cat bill. We didn't want a bill that paid people to stuff their pockets. We wanted to ensure that businesses stayed open, that we had the opportunity for small businesses, my friends and neighbors, my constituents to get money to keep those jobs.

All right, it wasn't perfect, but the numbers don't fib. We did create jobs. We kept businesses open. The President has gone to the mat by saying to these fat cats, Look, we are in a capitalistic system. I understand that. But he's gone to them and said, You have to lend to small businesses.

Mr. Speaker, we have done a lot. And in doing a lot, we have provided the opportunity for the kinds of dollars coming to the districts.

So let me just say this: $48 billion in highways, transit and other infrastructure. We are going to be able to stop the bleeding by keeping our teachers, our police, our firefighters and job training. That's $27 billion. We are going to guarantee the loans, guarantee loans to ensure that we will have the opportunity to loan money to our small businesses. That's an important statement.

And I wanted to be sure by looking at what I have to let my constituents know of the kind of projects that come out of the Defense bill. Because someone would make the argument, why support a Defense bill? Let me tell you. I've already spoken about the first post-traumatic stress disorder center in an African American hospital for $1 million, $800,000 for the Center for Research on Minority Health-Prostate Cancer research project, jobs; $800,000 for high-efficiency solar energy generation and storage, jobs; $1.6 million for science, technology, engineering and mathematics initiative, jobs. And then $1 million with a private collaborator that is independent of Federal dollars that will give $1 million to one of the poorest school districts in my community, public and private partnership, Mr. Speaker.

Let us not leave this place in shame. We came from the deep darkness of an economic recession. We have saved jobs. We are creating jobs. We are moving forward. And I want to stop reading articles about mothers who are on the front pages of our newspapers who cannot turn on the lights and cannot feed their children.

Let me wish everyone, again, as I have done, a happy holiday and say that this Congress deserves the recognition for those who have put themselves on the line to be able to help the needy. I look forward to us coming back, passing health care, and going on with the jobs effort.

REVISIONS TO THE ALLOCATIONS AND BUDGETARY AGGREGATES ESTABLISHED BY THE CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS ON THE BUDGET FOR FISCAL YEAR 2010 AND THE PERIOD OF FISCAL YEAR 2010 THROUGH 2014

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SPRATT. Madam Speaker, under sections 421(a)(4) and 423(a)(1) of S. Con. Res.

13, the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2010, I hereby submit for printing in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD a revision to the budget aggregates and allocations for certain House committees for fiscal year 2010 and the period of fiscal years 2010 through 2014. These adjustments respond to House consideration of the House amendment to the Senate amendment to the bill H.R. 3326, Making appropriations for the Department of Defense for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2010, and for other purposes. Section 1011 of the House amendment includes funding for Medicare improvements. The House amendment also designates certain funding for overseas deployments and other activities pursuant to S. Con. Res. 13. Corresponding tables are attached.

This revision represents an adjustment for the purposes of sections 302 and 311 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, as amended. For the purposes of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, as amended, this revised allocation is to be considered as an allocation included in the budget resolution, pursuant to section 427(b) of S. Con. Res. 13.

Any questions may be directed to Ellen Balis or Gail Millar at 226-7200.

JOB CREATION THEORIES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 6, 2009, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. AKIN) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. AKIN. Mr. Speaker, it's a treat to be able to join you and my colleagues and fellow Americans that might possibly be tuned in. This is a bit like the last day of school. We think the voting is done for this year, and yet the work is not done. In fact, America, among other things, is suffering from a considerably high level of unemployment. And that was going to be the topic for this evening.

I want to talk a little bit about employment, spending and the different theories that people have as to how jobs are created. And there are some theories out there that don't work very well, and there are some that do work well. And history tells us the difference between the two.

I thought what I might do this evening would be to start with something which, in a way, may seem remedial. It should seem fairly basic because most Americans have plenty of common sense. And I think that it's important, though, to start at the basic level and start defining your terms as we talk about the problem of unemployment.

Now, there are certain series of things, I have identified six—there may be other ways economists might look at it differently—but there are six things that are job killers. To start with, we need to understand where jobs come from. Jobs come from businesses. What sort of businesses? Well, if you take a look at businesses that have 500 employees or less, those businesses employ about 90 percent of the Americans that have jobs in the private sector. Five hundred or less employees, those, many people would say, are small businesses.

Well, what are the things that these small businesses need in order to create these jobs, 90 percent of the jobs in America? Well, the first thing is that there are certain things that are killers of jobs. The first is economic uncertainty. Let's talk about that for just a minute. Economic uncertainty. Put yourself in charge of a business. Say you have 100 employees and you're manufacturing some product, and you just really don't know what's going to happen with the economy. And so there is a level of uncertainty. Maybe political things are going on which increase your level of uncertainty. You don't know whether or not perhaps we are going to go into some kind of economic slump.

And so what are you going to do if you are a president of a small business? Well, what you're going to do is, in the State of Missouri, they call it hunkering down. You say, I'm not going to take a lot of risks; I'm going to prepare for some sort of an economic storm, or at least be prepared that I'm not too extended. I don't want to take a lot of risk when there is economic uncertainty.

And what sort of risks might those be? The risk might be to add a wing on your building, to buy a new machine, to start a new process, to patent a new invention and decide to try to produce it and sell it on a market. All of those things create jobs. But you're not liable to take a high-risk position if there's a high level of economic uncertainty. So economic uncertainty is a job killer.

The next thing is consumption reduction. That's a fancy word for saying you got a business slowdown. People aren't buying as much stuff. Everybody is worried. People are having a hard time economically. They are not spending as much money. People aren't making investments, and so your business is going along with all the other businesses around you, when you are in a time when there is a recession going on, it's an economic uncertainty. It's a form of economic uncertainty, I suppose, and that is you're thinking, hey, it used to be last year we had orders for 100 widgets. But this year, it looks like we are only getting orders for 50. So you're not going to be thinking about getting a machine that will make widgets more efficiently. You're not going to be thinking about making investments in adding to the building so you can increase production because you're expecting that you're going to sell less this year than you did because of the fact that there is a slowdown in the economy. So a slowdown in the economy tends to affect businesses and therefore affects jobs. Pretty much common sense, I think.

And then excessive taxation. How does that hurt jobs? Well, here is the deal. You're, again, the president of a business. Maybe you have 100 employees. And you find out, all of a sudden, that your taxes are really going up. Now, if you have a lot of taxes, that means you don't have very much choice, you're going to have to pay those taxes. What is the tax going to be paid with? Well, it's going to be paid with the money from your company, from the profits and the proceeds of the company that you have.

And, hopefully, you have 100 employees, you're paying them, you're selling product, and you're selling product for more than it costs you, and so you're making some profits, and you're pocketing those profits. But now you understand that there's going to be a whole lot of taxation coming down the pike.

So one of the things that taxation is going to do is take money away from the guy that owns the business. And when you do that, he doesn't have the money to spend on adding additions to the building or perhaps taking a risk on introducing new products or maybe even inventing some different ways of doing things. And so the taxation takes the place of investment that would normally be made in the company. When that investment is made, that usually results in hiring more people. But the hiring more people isn't going to happen if you have excessive taxation.

In fact, we have found historically that if you drive the business owners with enough taxation, you can not only stop job creation; you can stop the whole business and bring it into bankruptcy and destroy the engine that creates jobs. So excessive taxation is a big factor in killing jobs.

Another thing is insufficient liquidity. Now, that sounds like a fancy thing. There's nothing too fancy about it. The fact is that businesses need money to run on, just like the engine in your car needs oil. And what happens is the business, let's say it's a machine shop, decides that they want to buy a new piece of equipment. That new piece of equipment is going to cost them $5 million. Well, you have got your machinists there in your company, but you don't have any $5 million to buy this new piece of equipment; but you figured out that if you had that piece of equipment that in a matter of 2½ or 3 years, you could pay for the whole piece of equipment just by the kinds of products that you could make on it so you can say, hey, this is a great investment. I can pay this off relatively quickly, but I don't have that million, couple million, dollars to buy this new piece of equipment.

So what do you do? Well, you're going to have to go out and get a loan. And when you take a loan, you're going to pay interest on that loan. But then you get that piece of equipment in, and it's running just beautifully for you. You get all those orders, you make these parts, and pretty soon you pay off the piece of equipment.

How did that happen? It happened because you were able to borrow money, which people call liquidity, and you can borrow money and get that tool or whatever it was. When you did it, you hired a few people to run the new piece of equipment and, of course, you created jobs.

If you do not have that liquidity, if you can't borrow money that you need, then what happens? Well, then you can't buy the new pieces of equipment. And guess what? You're killing jobs or the potential for creating jobs.

Another thing is excessive government spending. Oh, now wait a minute. Now, how can the government spending affect jobs in America? Well, it turns out that there is an effect indeed. And what it is is when the government spends a lot of money, it has to get that money from somewhere. Guess where the money comes from? The private sector. Where does the money come from? From taxes. And so as the government tries to collect more and more money to appease its appetite for spending, what happens is that affects liquidity, and it plays out as taxation. And so as the government does a whole lot of spending, you find that it tends to kill jobs.

Now, it may not appear to kill jobs in the short term. If the government does a whole lot of spending—let's just say the government decides to spend $150 billion. We just decided to do that a few hours ago here on the floor, $150 billion for "son of stimulus." This is stimulus Jr., mini-stimulus, $150 billion stimulus, still real money to most people, and real money to the U.S. Government, although you wouldn't know it by the way we spend it. Today, by the way, we did a pretty good job of spending money. We spent about $1.1 trillion today, but mini-stimulus was just $150 billion, still a lot of money.

And that government spending, let's say you go out and hire a whole lot of people. Well, wouldn't you create jobs, Congressman AKIN? Well, you would in a temporary sense. You could put some people on a government payroll. But what economists have found is that when you temporarily hire someone from the government, what you're doing is you're taking money out of the economy through this government spending.

In fact, what happens is for every one job you create in government, you're taking 2.2 jobs out of the private sector. So it's one of these things where it may seem like you're doing well. It's a little bit like drinking salt water. You're getting a drink, but the salt makes you even more thirsty than you were before. So it's kind of very much a losing proposition when you start to get into this excessive government spending.

And then the other thing, of course, is excessive government mandates and red tape. We have a picture here that my staffer found of some poor CEO buried in red tape, all kinds of memos, pieces of paper, and all kinds of regulations. I think that your common sense will show why this is a problem, because let's say particularly you're a small business. Well, you have a certain number of employees. Those employees, you have them working right away, making product that you can sell because you have a clean, lean and efficient process. And you don't have very many people that are management people, just a few people to try to keep an eye and organize things and get some orders in the door.

And all of a sudden, somebody from the government knocks on your door, knock knock knock, and says, hey, you didn't fill out such and such form. And somebody else knocks or calls and says, you didn't fill out this form. You didn't fill out this form. Did you do this? Have you applied for this? Did you get this? And pretty soon, you have all kinds of employees. And what do they produce? They produce paperwork. Paperwork for whom? For the government.

And so if you get more and more red tape and excessive mandates, obviously that is one of the things where you may seem like you're creating jobs; but in effect, you're making the business less efficient so it cannot grow and really put those good producing jobs on to the payroll.

tend to get rid of the actual productive private.

So all of these things, all of these conditions kill jobs. So if the Federal Government wants to create jobs—first of all, we have to understand something: The Federal Government can't create jobs. The whole concept of stimulus is a false assumption. The only thing the Federal Government can do is create the conditions so the people in the private sector can create the jobs. We can create an environment that is helpful in producing jobs, but the Federal Government, when it tries to hire people, all that does is take jobs away from the private sector. So all of these things are job killers.

So let's go in a more positive light and say, well, what do you do to create jobs? Well, just the reverse of these things, and that will tend to create jobs. In fact, you might even have some trouble in a couple of areas, but you're doing very well in some other areas, and you could create some jobs.

This whole bit about the problem with unemployment in America is not really that complicated when you understand that the jobs come largely from these 500-employee and smaller size companies, and that they're created by the fact that those companies and the owner of those companies have enough money they can invest in their company and can do the new processes, innovation and the ideas that Americans are so great in doing. That's what makes the economy strong, and that's what makes jobs.

Now, we have here a cartoon. We have the President here speaking to a small businessman, and the President is saying here, Now, give me one good reason why you're not hiring? And what do we have coming into the china shop? Well, we have three big bulls: One is the health care referendum; there is cap-and-trade, or cap-and-tax; and then another is a war tax. Well, the point here in a cartoon form, obviously the bulls are not going to have a good influence on the china shop. And the President doesn't seem to get what's going on with the businessman. He's not looking too excited about a good reason for why you're not hiring with these guys coming in the door.

Now, let's take this back to what we were just talking about, health care reform. Health care reform was going to introduce probably, at a minimum, $1 trillion worth of spending, or close to it. So what happens if the government does a whole lot of spending? Well, they're going to do a whole lot of taxing. Guess who is going to be taxed with several different types of taxes to pay for socialized medicine? Well, it was going to be the small businessman.

So now what have you done relative to our chart here when you have the Senate—and the House has already passed this $1 trillion socialized medicine bill that has all these mandates on small business—what have you done in terms of jobs when you pass this socialized medicine? Well, first of all, you are creating economic uncertainty, because the bill hasn't passed. We don't quite know what's going to happen. So there is uncertainty. There is also the slowdown in the economy, which of course is not helped by a tremendous level of spending and debt.

Excessive taxation. Of course the taxation in the socialized medicine bill is going to fall very heavily on these small business owners. If you take their money away and force them to provide all this health care, they're going to have an incentive, one, to get rid of employees, because they can't afford them anymore because the health care is so expensive for them. So they're going to figure out ways to get rid of employees, not hire them. And what they're going to do, because of the excessive taxation, is they're not going to be investing in new equipment. So it's going to be a job killer. That was what one of these bulls is.

And then cap-and-trade, or cap-and-tax here, bull number two. That, of course, is the large tax that was going to be part of the solution to global warming. And we're going to talk about that a little bit too, but that also had a very, very large tax associated with it. Not only did it have a very big tax to increase the cost of energy, it had a very large tax in terms of red tape. In fact, I suppose that the red tape and the amount of additional Federal authority to regulate anything in the energy area, including even how individual American citizens' houses are built—that is, building codes at the Federal level, building codes regulating how you build your house and whether it has the proper carbon footprint or green footprint all in this bill with not only the largest tax in history, but also a great deal of red tape.

These are all things that hurt jobs. And so should we be surprised that we're getting a high level of unemployment? We should not be surprised. We are breaking all the basic laws.

Here is the first stimulus bill. We were told last spring—late spring and early summer—that we needed to pass a $787 billion stimulus bill. And what was the idea of the stimulus bill? The idea of the stimulus bill was that government is going to spend a whole lot of money, and by spending money, the economy is going to be better. Now, that entire premise is suspect. If the economy was going to be better by us spending money, we would have one of the most robust, healthy economies in the whole world. We wouldn't have any unemployment. We would be going gangbusters if Federal spending was the thing that was going to make the economy good.

But most people with a little common sense, if your family budget is in trouble, the thing you're going to do is not run down to the local store with your credit card and stack up a whole lot of debt and spend like mad—unless you're a little bit nutty or had too much to drink.

But anyway, we were told that the thing to do is we've got to pass this $787 billion stimulus bill. And we were told, if you don't pass it, do you know what's going to happen, America, and you, Congressmen, that are representing Americans? If you don't pass this stimulus bill, you may see unemployment go up to 8 percent if you don't pass this stimulus bill.

So this is the President's forecast of what's going to happen if we pass this stimulus bill right here. You see this is 8 percent unemployment, and he says we're going to keep it under 8 if you just get this $787 billion into our hands to spend. Without the stimulus, he said, this is what's going to happen; if you don't pass the stimulus, it's going to do this:

First, the red line here is what has actually happened. Is this red line a surprise? No, it wasn't a surprise at all. I stood here on this floor 6 months ago with similar charts and said this stimulus isn't going to work. Is it because I'm very smart or brilliant? No, it's not at all. It's simply because I know a little bit about history. I know what will and I know what will not work.

If the Democrats had known something about history, they would have, at a minimum, learned something from a fellow Democrat. This Democrat's name was Henry Morgenthau. He was Franklin Roosevelt's Treasury Secretary, and he appeared before the House Ways and Means Committee, right here in Congress, in 1939. Now, we have some old people in Congress; not too many people probably remember Henry Morgenthau, but they could know something about history and about Franklin Delano Roosevelt. And here is what Henry Morgenthau said: After 8 years of spending money on this—it's called Keynesian economics. Henry Morgenthau was a close buddy and associate of little Lord Keynes—he was a strange little fellow, that British man—and came up with this idea that we could stimulate the economy by spending money. And so they went at it, hammer and tongs, stimulating away, spending lots of money.

At the end of 8 years, this is how well it works: Henry Morgenthau appears before the House Ways and Means Committee: We have tried spending money. We are spending more than we've ever spent before, and it does not work. That's pretty straightforward English, we've been spending money, more than we ever did before, and it doesn't work. I say, after 8 years of the administration, we have just as much unemployment as when we started, and an enormous debt to boot.

And so it's not rocket science to see that this idea of spending $787 billion that we don't have, it's not rocket science for us to be able to stand here 6 months ago and say, hey, we hope it works, but it's not going to work. It has never worked in history before; it's a lousy solution, it's going to make the problem worse. We said all of those things. Dozens of people stood on this floor and said those things. And it's not because they're so smart, it's just because we understand the basics of what it takes to make jobs. And the thing that kills jobs is too much government spending.

Now, I will say about the stimulus bill that we put in place, it would have made Henry Morgenthau very uncomfortable, because it wasn't even traditional, old-fashioned stimulus. Old-fashioned stimulus is like making highways or building hydroelectric plants or hard job creation. This thing was more an expansion of wealth here. It was giving money so that organizations like ACORN could apply for community organizing, and a lot of things that really were never going to create jobs in the first place, or if they were, they were government jobs. And those things, the result has been, look, we've got unemployment; by the time you get into the latter part of this year, up in excess of 10 percent, not 8 percent, but 10 percent unemployment. And that's not a big surprise.

And so today, what did we do? We passed mini-stimulus, little brother to big brother stimulus. This was only, instead of $787 billion, $150 billion today. And did we learn anything from our experience? No, nothing at all, apparently. I think it was Einstein who said that if you repeat the same thing over and over again expecting a different result, you may just be crazy. And that's what we have done today. We came up with a junior stimulus bill, and we passed it on this floor. And the people who voted for it were the Democrats. They were a little reluctant in voting for it because it didn't work very well the first time when they did the stimulus, and they're not so confident that it's going to work again.

So, what are we looking at in terms of Obama-Pelosi spending? Well, you've got the second half of the Wall Street bailout here, $350 billion. Then you've got this economic stimulus thing that has not worked, that we said it wouldn't work, it doesn't work, it will never work, and yet they spent $787 billion—well, they haven't spent it all, they're just slopping it into other government programs. And then you've got the SCHIP, and then the appropriations, another $410 billion over there. IMF bailout—that chart is wrong, it's probably about $110 billion.

And then the House got really excited about doing some really serious spending, and they passed this cap-and-tax, which is that global warming bill. And that was—let me see what the number on that is here, get the chart turned around—that was $846 billion. The reason on this chart that that's a little hazy is because the Senators weren't brilliant enough to go along with this $800 billion cap-and-tax or cap-and-trade bill. Now, this is going to extend a huge government net over the energy business, and it was probably worse in terms of red tape and government than it was in terms of its tax.

Now, the ironic thing is that I'm an engineer. And the thing about this bill that's particularly frustrating is that it doesn't appear that there is a consistency between the stated purpose and what the bill does. Let's assume for a minute that global warming is an imminent threat, it's something that we need to spend billions of dollars on that sometimes people don't call it global warming anymore because it isn't clear that the planet is warming, and so they call it "climate change."

But anyway, the theory runs along the lines that there are these various organic kinds of pollutants, particularly CO<sub>2</sub>, carbon dioxide, that's the bubbles in soda pop. And the theory runs that if mankind makes enough of this CO<sub>2</sub>—which we make by burning carbon or burning coal or burning gasoline or diesel, or whatever, we make CO<sub>2</sub>. And if we make enough of this, what happens is the CO<sub>2</sub> then reacts with other kinds of effects, particularly water vapor and clouds in the atmosphere, and they amplify the effect of the CO<sub>2</sub>, and the sun warms it up, and the climate gets hot and melts down. That's the general idea.

Now, let's just assume for a moment that that were true, and that it were a bad thing for us to make CO<sub>2</sub>—I don't believe that that's entirely true, some of that is true, but a lot of it's not. But let's just say, for instance, that we really did believe CO<sub>2</sub> is a big problem and we needed to spend billions of dollars.

Do we need to give the Federal Government all this regulatory authority over building codes, how you put a wing on your house and all this kind of stuff? The answer is of course it's not necessary at all. Let's say that instead what we wanted to do was to reduce the CO<sub>2</sub> in America, reduce the CO<sub>2</sub> by the amount of all of the passenger cars that drive on the highways in America. Let's say that's our objective. Just to start with, we're worried about CO<sub>2</sub>, we want to basically make it so that it was the equivalent, from a generation of CO<sub>2</sub>, of turning off all of the American passenger cars on our roads in America. That would be a pretty ambitious goal. If you were worried about CO<sub>2</sub>, that would be a pretty good place to start maybe.

Well, the fact is you could accomplish it relatively easily for much, much less money than what is here and with much less government regulation. What you would have to do would be to simply take the coal-fired plants that produce 20 percent of America's electrical output and replace them with nuclear plants. Currently, 20 percent of the electricity in America is produced in nuclear plants. If we were to go from 20 to a little over 40 percent in nuclear generation, we would eliminate the CO<sub>2</sub> from effectively every passenger car in America. That is not that complicated, and the nuclear plants are pretty efficient. Over time, they would probably prove to be not much different in cost than the coal-fired plants are, but that is the question.

Is that really the objective—to get rid of CO<sub>2</sub> or is it that we just want more taxes and government control? I've become a little cynical because the engineering solution to this problem is not where the legislation went in the House.

Then, of course, we've got this other thing here. It's a little bit of a side-track.

The bottom line is, if you make energy cost expensive and if you tax people a whole lot for energy, what is that going to do to jobs? It's going to get rid of jobs. So everything we've been doing here—everything we are doing—is killing jobs, and we can't seem to understand why the small business can't make the jobs.

Now we go on to the government health care proposal passed here on this floor not so long ago. What is the price tag on that? Well, even with a little bit of financial hocus-pocus, it is still up there in terms of $1 trillion. We spent $1.1 trillion today, but some of it was for the appropriations for the defense of our country. To add to this big socialized medicine bill, to add $1 trillion more on top of all of these other things, is going to bury our economy.

Well, now wait a minute, Congressman AKIN. Aren't you overstating your case? I mean you are a Republican, and it seems like you're bashing those Democrats for overspending. Under the Bush administration, didn't you spend too much money? Well, let's just take a look at that question.

The worst deficit of the Bush administration occurred in 2008 under the Pelosi Congress. That worst deficit was $455 billion. Now, that was a bad deficit, $455 billion. Maybe even a more effective number to ask is, What was that deficit as a percent of the gross domestic product of America? That's a way of looking at that number. That was about 3.1 percent, which is actually fairly common as you look back over a number of Presidents who did that kind of spending. Anyway, that was 2008 under a Pelosi Congress, Bush's worst spending—$455 billion.

What happened this year? Under a Pelosi Congress and President Obama, instead of $455 billion, it was $1.4 trillion. That's more than three times more than Bush's biggest spending. I wasn't fond of his biggest spending, and people who know my voting record know I did not support some of the costly elements that were there. This year, we're three times over what we were with Bush—at $1.4 trillion.

What does that do to our deficit as a percent of GDP? We go from 3.1 to 9.9 percent of our debt to GDP, which is, by the way, the highest level since World War II. So this track record here doesn't make a lot of sense—billions and trillions of dollars.

Well, what does this all mean? If you put it in context, what we're saying here is, this year, there was three times more spending than Bush's most aggressive spending. We're making Bush look like Ebenezer Scrooge with the level of spending this year.

What does that spending do? Of course it affects unemployment. It affects jobs because that spending has to come out of the pockets of American taxpayers. Some of those pockets—in fact, some of the deep pockets—are the people who own the businesses who can no longer do the innovation and make the improvements to create jobs. That is a very, very serious problem.

You have to say that this is a new era of irresponsibility, the national debt of the United States at $16.17 trillion. So, in other words, have we been spending too much money? Yeah, we sure have, but this year has been a regular budget buster, and that is of serious, serious concern. Of course, in the long term, we have the concern with Medicare and Medicaid growing over time, absorbing more and more of the budget.

There is a certain level the American economy can sustain in taxes. If you raise the taxes higher, what happens is that the economy suffers so badly that you don't actually collect any more money from the government, and that overtaxing is pointed out by a guy by the name of Laffer. He had a thing called a Laffer curve. It's an interesting idea. You think, Well, look. We really want to spend all this money because it's really good to take care of global warming and to pay for everybody and to give them all free health care with a socialized health care system, and we've got to do this because this is all kinds of additional money that we're schlepping around and giving to different people. We've got the Wall Street bailout. We've got to pick winners and losers, and so we're going to be having to spend this Wall Street.

Then as people come back and pay back some of the Wall Street, now what we're going to do is turn that money around and give it to other businesses, so now the government is playing in the private business. If we'd had a President who'd fired the president of General Motors a number of years ago, that would have raised some eyebrows, indeed.

So, when we get done with all of this, the problem is that it is creating unemployment. It's a problem of jobs. It gets back to these things here, which are just awfully simple, but they're inflexible, immovable kinds of facts, and that is when you follow the policy that we've been doing, which is, first of all, we're increasing red tape and government regulation; we're engaging in excessive government spending unlike anything that has ever happened before in our history; we have a problem—and I haven't talked about this—of insufficient liquidity. This is also a problem. We've got about a perfect storm going on for small businesses in America. Here is what has happened:

The Federal Reserve doesn't actually print money, but they call it "printed money." They've increased the liquidity in America, and they did that by a factor of 10 last year. In other words, if you look at a chart of the amount of M1 money supply, it runs along, up and down like a saw tooth, and all of a sudden, we get to last year and—boom. Excuse me. I think it was the end of last year—this year—and the thing jumps by a factor of 10. So the Federal Reserve created all of this money. Boom. It printed a whole lot of it, and that's available at a very low interest rate, and the big banks have access to that.

The question is: Does all of that liquidity get down to the small business man? Because if you could get that liquidity into the hands of the small business man and if you could knock his taxation back, all of a sudden, presto zingo, you've got the formula to get the economy back chugging and churning.

It's not the government that is going to fix the economy. It's American individuals. It's the free enterprise spirit of Americans. It's the people who love freedom, who have the ingenuity, who say there's a better way to do this. I think I could do it. I think I could build my own business, and I could make a living for my family this way. These people have the courage to take the risks, to put the equipment together, to put the systems together, to put the inventions together. America grows one dream at a time. They are the people who pull us out of recessions, and it is those people who we are hurting with excessive taxation.

As to this liquidity thing, the problem now is that the small businesses can't get their hands on money at a reasonable interest rate. Here is what happened. That liquidity that the big bank has trickles down to the little bank, and the little bank gets some of it. All of these Federal regulators are running around, and the bank is saying, Man, I am not going to loan money to any small business unless I know it's a slam dunk. They're going to pay me back because I'm already skating on a very thin edge. I've got a lot of assets that my bank owns that are not too strong, and I'm afraid they're going to shut me down and that my bank is going to go out of business, so I am not going to loan money very easily to just anybody who comes down the pike. When you do come down the pike and want to borrow money, I'll tell you what: I'm going to charge you a pretty good interest rate on that money.

So what happens is the small business man is already intimidated because of the threats of all of these taxations that are coming along, and the economy has slowed down. He has got economic uncertainty. He has got a slowdown in the economy. He's getting excessive taxation. Now, I haven't even talked about all of the taxes he's facing.

First of all, the Bush tax cuts are expiring, so the death tax is coming back. The dividend tax, the capital gains tax, all of those are coming due because those tax things are expiring, and they're coming back, resetting at a higher rate.

So the small business man sees the death tax, capital gains, dividend taxes. Now he's seeing the other taxes we talked about, which are socialized medicine, energy taxes and cap-and-trade. What other things has he got coming? He has got these taxations coming. Now, with that, he's thinking, Oh, my goodness. I'm not too sure I really want to borrow anything.

Even if he does get the courage to borrow something because he has to, he'll go to the bank, and the bank will say, Ah. Before, I was giving you a couple percent interest on those loans. It was a 3-year, a 5-year loan for your business. Now I'm going to need to get a little more interest from you. I think about 4 or 5 or 6 percent is what I want now.

All of a sudden, the small business man, even if he qualifies and if he has a solid, strong business, it's going to be harder for him. These days, it's increasingly harder for him to get liquidity. So, aside from the taxation, excessive government spending, aside from the red tape and mandates, the economic uncertainty and the slowdown, now he's also getting hit with the problem of liquidity. This is fairly close to a perfect storm for small business. So guess what? We're not very surprised that unemployment has been going up.

Now, do we have any good news? It's always nice to have a little bit of good news somewhere. Until we fix these things or at least a number of them, you are not going to hear much about good news. People can say, Oh, the stock market is fine, and everything is going well. We've hit the bottom. Everybody looks at these things like they're cycles that repeat. It doesn't have to be a cycle. You know, FDR managed to take a recession and turn it into a Great Depression because he did the wrong things. We can follow in his footsteps, but we don't have to.

The point is we don't have to follow Keynesian economics. We don't have to do all of this tremendous level of spending and taxation. It's not necessary. It's not what the Republicans are proposing. We know it won't work, and we have learned from Morgenthau, and we have learned from other people as well.

What is the solution? Well, actually, it's kind of interesting. One of the people who learned the solution was JFK, a Democrat. What he did was what? Well, he cut taxes. Oh, my goodness. A Democrat cutting taxes? Yeah, JFK actually did. We had a recession. He understood that businesses have to have some breathing room, so he cut taxes. Guess what? The economy improved.

Then Ronald Reagan comes along. Ronald Reagan had the same basic idea. He said, Hey, we've got a bad economy. How can we ever compete with the Soviet Union when our economy is all in trouble? So what did he do? He had a huge tax cut—two or three times what George Bush's tax cut was. Everybody called it trickle-down economics and made fun of Ronald Reagan for about a year or so until the economy turned around and took off like a horse, and it pulled us on ahead. He continued to spend money on defense. He bankrupted the Soviet Union. The Berlin Wall fell down, and the Western World was freed from the threat of an aggressive, Marxist/communist regime that was bent on taking over the free world. This is all because he understood these basic principles.

So who is it who has given us the model? JFK, Ronald Reagan, and also President Bush—the last President—all understood this principle. You've got to get off of the taxation and big government spending.

Here is the funny thing that is interesting. It was called sometimes "supply side economics." People made fun of it, but here is how it works, and you can see, in your own logic, how it would be. Let's say somebody appointed you to be king for the year and that your job was to raise money for your little government and your kingdom and that the only thing you could do was tax loaves of bread. People in your kingdom liked to eat bread. They bought loaves of bread, so you had the power to tax them on loaves of bread.

Well, you start thinking in your own mind, How would you do that? Well, you might say, first of all, Well, I could put a penny a loaf on the bread, and I could collect a certain amount of money. You could figure out how many loaves of bread are sold. At a penny apiece, you could figure out some revenue. Then you get to thinking, You know, I'll bet I could raise more money for my little kingdom if, instead, I put a $10 tax on every loaf of bread. Then you'd think, Wow, that would be a whole lot except what would happen is people wouldn't buy as much bread, so I really wouldn't get as much tax as I first thought I would.

So, as you play with this back and forth in your mind, you come to the conclusion that there is an optimum point where, if you raise or lower the taxes, you will get less tax revenue. Well, that's the thing that Ronald Reagan, JFK, and Bush II understood. They understood that, if you get off the taxes, the government can actually take in more money than they would have taken in if the taxes were higher. It sounds like making water run uphill, but it isn't. As you think about the loaf of bread, you think, Wait a minute. You can tax something so much that no one will buy it anymore, and you'll basically stall the economy.

What happened when Bush was faced with a recession when I first came to Congress in 2001, he was criticized roundly for this. After a little while—I guess it was about 2003—he got around to this, he reduced dividends, capital gains and death taxes. Now those things affect the guys that own these small businesses.

When he did that, almost immediately, what happened was government revenues went up even though the taxes, rate of taxation, went down. Well, how in the world could that be? It's this same principle. It was called the Laffer curve. It was first published, I think, by Art Laffer, an economist.

The solution to this doesn't mean that Americans have to sit around with no jobs and suffer tremendously with a lousy economy. The solution is available. The solution has been used time after time in American history. The thing that we are doing now has also been used to turn a recession into a depression.

What we have to do is stop spending too much money. It's not very complicated; the same thing you would do in your family budget. You can't say that you are fiscally responsible, criticize George Bush for creating all of these problems when his highest level of spending at 455 billion is less than one-third of what we have just spent in this year at $1.4 trillion.

When we get the ratio of debt to gross domestic product higher than it's been since the Second World War, you know something is wrong, and it is not that complicated. This whole idea of employment and what makes jobs is very straightforward.

What I hear the Democrats frequently doing is beating on their drum. We are going to tax that old rich man. We are going to get the rich man. We are going to take his money away from him and give it all to other people.

Well, the only trouble with that is, the trouble with socialism is sooner or later you run out of other people's money. Guess who it is you are going to tax? If you say you are going to tax the rich man, some of those rich men are the guys that own these companies, the men and women, the entrepreneurs who own the companies. Many times the amount of profit that the company makes is like their profit. They plow it back into more jobs.

Now, if you tax those people out of their hides, guess what's going to happen. They don't have any money to reinvest in their company, and you kill jobs. You cannot separate the people that run the business and the jobs. They are not separable.

If you really want jobs, you have to have employers. You can't have employees with no employers.

If you tax the employers too much, then they can't have employees. It's not that very complicated. Yet what we hear constantly is all these fat cats, we are going to run the tax up on these well-to-do people.

Well, as it is today, you might be amused to know that 50 percent of Americans pay about 1 percent of the tax revenue in America. Fifty percent of Americans pay about 1 percent—I believe my numbers on that are pretty close to right. You could also say that a very, very large percent of taxes are paid by a very small percent of Americans.

Now, if you drive that too hard, what happens again is you squeeze the small business and the wheels come off the tracks. That's what we have been doing, and we have not been making the situation better.

It's not complicated. We can fix it, but we can't fix it with what we did today. Today the Democrats decided to increase the debt ceiling, another $300 billion. They decided to spend money on the defense of our country, which I supported and voted for, but also another $150 billion in this stimulus kind of thing which didn't work before, and we know it's not going to work again.

We are not using the right approach. We are not going back to the basics of how jobs are created. What we are doing is we are spending Americans' money. Not just our own money, not just our kids' money, our grandchildren's money at this kind of rate. We cannot afford these kinds of programs in the condition of our economy.

We can right the economy. There's things that can be done to fix it. There's a great deal that can be done with health care. Even if you believe in global warming, and it is a high priority to spend billions of dollars on it, even if you believe that, there are a whole lot of better solutions and a whole lot of government redtape and taxes.

You can move to the nuclear model, which is going to reduce CO<sub>2</sub> significantly. This economic stimulus, we saw how effective that was. That's the thing that we are claiming we are going to keep our unemployment below 8 percent, and here we are closer to 10.

Now, of course, the Wall Street bailout: this was a failed idea from the start. It was sold to the Congress that the entire American economy was going to collapse, that there was going to be sulfurous smoke billowing out of the earth. There are going to be hail storms and brick bats falling from the sky if we didn't come up with $700 million in unmarked bills, and we wanted it in a big hurry because we made a big public announcement, the stock market is watching you, Congress.

Congress obliged. I think it was a bad decision. They passed that stimulus bill. Now we have got politicians running around inside the private sector deciding on the salaries of private employees.

The recent bill that we passed here just last week gives the Federal Government the authority to regulate financial transactions and, at least in theory, could give them the power to determine the salary of a bank teller. Do we really think that that's a job that Congress and the Federal Government can do efficiently, is to determine the salary of people in private industry?

Is that what we really want our government doing? Do we trust our government to be telling us whether we can put an addition on our house and we have to prove that the carbon footprint of our house is just right to be able to allow us to put an addition on our house?

Do we need to have a energy taxed a whole lot more when the economy is in the condition it is now? Is this threat of global warming which—by the way, a whole series of emails and electronic files were released from the scientific university in England that is the center for collecting all the data on global warming, it found that these scientists had been fudging the data. What they found was, in fact, that they were very less than professional and had been doing everything they could to quash any article appearing in a journal that would question the absolute rigid science that global warming was an imminent disaster on this planet.

Well, when the evidence of the fact that the data had been doctored, that they had been intentionally trying to quash the opinions of dissenters, trying to say that it's settled science—it's nothing settled at all, what these emails revealed in East Anglia. But that was kind of dubious science all the way along.

The question is, is that as important as our dependence on foreign oil? I am not so sure that it is.

Even if it is, there's a solution to that which is replacing coal-fired, carbon-burning plants with nuclear plants. France has 80 percent nuclear generation. If we went to 40, we would, equivalent, get rid of the CO<sub>2</sub> from all of those passenger cars.

This is not the approach we have been taking. The whole wrong economics of what we have been doing is wrong. That's why people are feeling pain. They are feeling unemployment. That's why people can't make their mortgage payments. That's why people are having to move in with their parents and all kinds of other sacrifices are being made.

That's a tragedy, because this is something that's not that complicated. It's something that—there are models that show us what we should be doing in government. The Republican Party has proposed all of the things that I am talking about in solutions, that is, in terms of health care, are we saying there isn't something that should be done? Of course there are things that should be done in health care.

If you have got a problem with the plumbing in the kitchen sink, it doesn't mean you remodel the entire kitchen. That's what the Democrats have proposed. In socialized medicine, the government could take over all of health care. You don't have to do that, but there are things that we can do to improve the situation and can build on what we have.

We have a very, very good health care system in terms of delivery. The pay-for piece of it is broken, and it's because about a third of Americans don't pay anything for their health care. No wonder that starts to create stress in the system.

There are things that we can do to improve the efficiency and the way our health care system works, but it doesn't mean scrap the whole thing and give it to the government. In each of these areas there are good proposals, ways to solve these problems.

When we are talking about jobs and employment, we have to remember what the basic principles are. The basic principles are those small businesses have to be healthy, and they are never healthy when we spend too much money, when we create too much redtape and when we tax too much and also when we don't get the right rules in terms of liquidity.

I heard on the floor here not so long ago, the Democrats saying that this entire recession is the fault of George Bush. Of course, he is the one that brought the hurricane—it's always convenient to find somebody to blame.

But what's to blame in this recession? What's to blame in terms of job losses? Well, it's these things here. Anybody who has ever run a small business, you can check these with anybody who has a friend, talk to somebody who runs a small business. Ask them: Is economic uncertainty a problem in terms of creating jobs? Oh, yes, yes. Slowdown in the economy? Yes, that makes me concerned. Excessive taxation? Oh, yes, you are going to tax me a whole lot.

We have got this thing called a death tax. The death tax, the way it works is when it goes back into effect in 2011 or 2012, let's say you have got a business, maybe it's a farm. You have got the thousand acres and Dad is running the farm. Dad dies and passes the farm on to his son.

The government says, well, your dad died so we are going to tax you. Well, how come you are taxing? He already paid his taxes. Yes, we are going to tax him again. It's a double taxation, and we want 45 percent of the value of the farm.

The son says, well, that means I would have to sell half the land from a thousand acres and go to 500. I would have to get rid of half of my tractors and combines and other equipment. The farm really wouldn't work at 500 acres. It needs a full thousand acres. Sorry, Bub, you owe Uncle Sam the death tax.

What that does is what? It kills small business when you do that death tax. These are things that people know you just can't do this and expect to have a strong economy.

That's where we have been making some mistakes. Unfortunately this last year these mistakes have come home to roost.

You could say, well, this is Bush's mistake because he got the whole economy messed up in the first place.

Well, let's go back to that record. Let's go back to that conservative newspaper, the New York Times. On September 11, September 11, 2003, the New York Times reported, first of all, that President George Bush was worried about what was going on with Freddie and Fannie. Freddie and Fannie had apparently lost a few billion dollars, didn't know where they had put it.

That said, these financial institutions that were quasi-public, the implication was that the government would be in the bag if something went wrong with Freddie and Fannie.

He is quoted, September 11, 2003, in the New York Times saying that Congress needs to give him authority to regulate Freddie and Fannie more. In a matter of a year or two, we here in the House, it was a Republican House at that time, passed a bill to give the President authority to get into Freddie and Fannie's finances and to regulate them more because they were out of control.

The bill went to the Senate, as you can expect; but it was killed by the Democrats in a filibuster on the floor. It never saw the light of day. It was never passed.

So it was that Freddie and Fannie, failing, along with other parts of that real estate market, which was created by laws that we had made, saying that banks had to make loans to people who couldn't afford to pay them, and also this wild speculation that came from a very, very low interest rate and a lot of liquidity created by Greenspan, you put that all together and you get a bubble in the real estate market. The bubble pops and things come apart.

Now, you could try and blame that thing on Bush, but it really wouldn't be accurate to do that. He saw, at least in 2003, that we were in trouble and recognized we should do something about it. It's easy to try to blame problems that are created by overspending and over-taxation on the Republicans, but the fact of the matter is this Congress has got 80 Democrats more than it does Republicans. This is not exactly what you call a Republican control of the Congress or the House.

Over in the Senate, the Democrats have a working 60-vote majority, so they could even break filibusters and pass what they want. They have had a year to work on this, and we can see what they have done.

We have seen what happened to their spending. We have seen all these different things they put money into. These ones that are foggy are the ones that are just done by the House. The Senate has not passed them.

We have seen what's happened to employment as a result of that excessive spending. It has not been good, and it's not been good for a reason.

We have, today, again, continued in the same policy. I think Americans are getting tired of it. I think they realize you can't blame it on someone else, that these are basic factors that people understand. It's businesses that create jobs; and if you tax the businesses too much, and if you have the wrong environment for the businesses, they are not going to be able to keep the economy going.

Ironically, something that suffers a great deal in a poor economy are governments. Governments depend on tax revenues for their revenues, and the States really take a beating because many of them have balanced budgets that they have to meet. So if you happen to be some poor governor in a State when you have a Congress like this that's spending money wildly and forgetting the basic principles of economics, you've got a lot of problems.

So this cartoon is as a lot of cartoons that have a certain amount of sense and humor to them. "Now give me one good reason why you're not hiring." Well, we've seen a whole lot of reasons why we're not hiring, and the trouble is that we have essentially exasperated every single one of these things, and that's why there are not jobs here.

So we're closing up here, then, on this segment on unemployment and on spending and what it is that creates it. There's nothing here that's very complicated. Like most things in life, if you understand the mechanics and how they work, they're not very difficult. We're doing some things that are wrong in terms of jobs. If we want to have jobs, we can do it. It's not the government that's going to create the jobs. It's you, my friends, the American people that will create the jobs. But we have to give you an economic environment that is conducive to creating jobs, and that does not mean a whole lot more money in spending, such as our $150 billion in stimulus II, "son of stimulus," if you want to call it that, the failed bill from last summer that didn't work. It does not include increasing the debt limit, as we did today, by $300 billion. What it includes is the same basic principle that JFK, Ronald Reagan, and Bush used, which is getting the government off the backs of the people of the United States.

This is a sad situation. My father fought in World War II, and their mindset was, we're going to give of ourselves a whole lot so the next generation, our children, can have more than we did. Some of them didn't go to college, and they said we want our kids to go to college. We want to leave America a better place.

Is that the heritage of this day, that we want to leave America a worse place, that we want to leave our kids and our grandkids up to their ears in debt, having a less bright future than what we had? Can't we learn from the great generation that fought World War II that we want to leave America a better place?

I believe the American public will say we want to go back to leaving this a stronger, better, freer country than when we inherited it, and I think we will do that. But we will do that by changing these false premises and policies that are leading us down the primrose path.

I thank the Speaker for allowing me to talk on these very important questions, and I would say Merry Christmas, wonderful holidays to Americans. God bless you and goodnight.

THE IRAQ AND AFGHANISTAN WARS AND HEALTH CARE REFORM

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. TONKO). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 6, 2009, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. GRAYSON) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the majority leader.

Mr. GRAYSON. Mr. Speaker, in some respects the policy regarding the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan comes down to the subject of leadership. And as I have said, leadership is sometimes simply a question of looking into the future, seeing what's inevitable, and doing what you need to do to make the future come faster. I think that's true in both the case of Iraq and the case of Afghanistan.

In the case of the Israelites in Egypt, Moses did not say to the pharaoh, Would you please let my people go starting 2 or 3 years from now? Instead what he said is "Let my people go" now.

We all know that sooner or later our troops will be withdrawn from Iraq. They will be withdrawn from Afghanistan. So the question is why not now?

Now, if you ask that question to the other side, the people who want to perpetuate these wars, the answer is always the same in one form or another. That answer is, something bad is going to happen. But what that really means when you get down to it is that something bad might happen. Nobody knows for sure what might happen. They're speculating that something bad might happen. But you can be sure that if the war is perpetuated, something bad will happen. And that is the loss of American lives, the loss of foreign lives, the loss of our national treasure.

In the case of Iraq, $3 trillion already and the amount grows every day. This in a country like ours with a total net worth accumulated over more than two centuries of $50 trillion. We have taken 6 percent of what our great grandparents and our grandparents and our parents produced and left to us and everything that we've toiled to produce over the course of our lives and everything that our children have produced. We have taken 6 percent of all of that and dumped it into the sands of Mesopotamia and lost 4,000 American lives and countless Iraqi lives to boot. Now, this is what happened because we entered into this war, because we continue this war, because the war continues to this day.

We have an enemy in this war. The enemy is called al Qaeda; al Qaeda in Iraq, al Qaeda in Pakistan, wherever they might be, but that's the name they go by. But ask yourself, what could they have possibly done to inflict that on us? What could al Qaeda have done to make us lose $3 trillion, 4,000 American lives, countless lives of other people? What could they have possibly done? They would have literally had to vaporize New England in order to inflict the same amount of economic damage on us to destroy 6 percent of our economy. It simply wasn't possible. It isn't possible. It never was possible.

And that's why the war was such a mistake to begin with. It was born in sin, it lives in sin, and in the end it will die in sin. It never should have started, and it never should be perpetuated because every day the war continues. Every single day is another day that we risk American lives, on many occasions we lose American lives, other people die, and again our national treasure is dissipated until in the end it will be gone.

As Senator KERRY once asked, famously, "How do you ask a man to be the last man to die in Vietnam?" That's a good question. How do we ask a man today to be the last man to die in Afghanistan? How do we ask an American soldier today to be the last American soldier to die in Iraq? There is no good answer to that question. There's no good answer to why we continue to perpetuate these wars knowing full well that they will end. And they'll end only one way.

Paul Simon once had a song called "50 Ways to Leave Your Lover." There actually are 50 Ways or more to start a war. That much is true.

Once the Europeans fought a war because a pirate cut off a man's ear, the War of Jenkin's Ear, and that plunged two different nations into war for years. At another time a murder was committed. A man was shot, one man, only one man. He happened to be Archduke Ferdinand, and an entire continent was plunged into war. That was the origin of World War I.

There are all sorts of ways to begin a war. There are all sorts of ways to perpetuate a war. The Hundred Years' War in Europe was fought for more than a hundred years, left two different countries, both England and France, absolutely penniless, as many wars often do, for the simple reason that it takes an awful lot of effort to build a school, almost no effort at all to blow it up. And the same thing is true of anything that you can create. So wars destroy, and very often they destroy the countries engaged in them.

In the case of America, when America starts a war, when America is involved in a war, we are so strong, we are so powerful that the only way to end a war is for us to end it. There is only one way to end the war that America is involved in, and that is for us to decide as a country enough is enough, we're done. We spend more on our defense than all other countries combined, and the result of that is that these decisions are made by us, often by the people in this room, often by the President. And it's up to us to decide when enough is enough, when enough people have died, when enough money has been lost, when the price in both blood and money is simply too high. I submit that we've reached that point in Iraq a long time ago. We reached that point in Afghanistan a long time ago.

In the case of Afghanistan, within 2 months after 9/11, we had expelled the Taliban Government from the capital.

Within 3 months we had expelled al Qaeda from the country, and our enemies were no longer even in Afghanistan at that point. They were in Pakistan and they remain there today. It's not a secret. Everybody knows it. So the result of that is within 2 months or 3 months after 9/11, we had won our victory in Afghanistan, and at some later point even in Iraq I seem to remember our President standing on an aircraft carrier and behind him the giant sign "Mission Accomplished."

Yet both these wars go on and on and on for one reason, one reason only: It's because we Americans decide to perpetuate them. And we do so out of fear, out of the sense that something bad might happen, without realizing that something bad happens every single day that we are at war. So there may be 50 ways to start a war, but there's only one way to end it, and that's for us to end it and hopefully not too much longer from now.

I think the President missed an opportunity. He took office with a great deal of goodwill on the part of not only my party, the Democratic Party, but also on the part of good people all around America who simply want better lives for themselves. Let's not squander that opportunity. We all deserve a direction that we regard as the right direction. There are too many people in this country even today who think we're going in the wrong direction. In Iraq the wrong direction is simply the same direction. The same thing is true in Afghanistan. The wrong direction is the same direction. We voted for change. We deserve change. That's just as true with these foreign wars as it is with anything else.

We know that at some point in the future these wars will be over. And with regard to what the situation will be then, we will know that George Bush started these wars and I sincerely do hope, I sincerely do hope, that Barack Obama will end them, if not right now then as soon as possible.

Then at that point the poet Percy Bysshe Shelley will tell us what the circumstances are at that point, and I yield to Percy Bysshe Shelley for a moment or two. He described those circumstances in the poem "Ozymandias." This is what those circumstances will be like when these wars are over:

"I met a traveller from an antique land

Who said: Two vast and trunkless legs of stone

Stand in the desert. Near them on the sand,

Half sunk, a shattered visage lies, whose frown

And wrinkled lip, and sneer of cold command

Tell that its sculptor well those passions read

Which yet survive, stamped on these lifeless things,

The hand that mocked them and the heart that fed.

And on the pedestal these words appear:

'My name is George W. Bush, king of kings:

Look on my works, ye Mighty, and despair!'

Nothing beside remains. Round the decay

Of that colossal wreck, boundless and bare,

The lone and level sands stretch far away."

The lone and level sands will stretch far away when these wars are over, these monuments to the mistakes of our previous President. But in the end that's what it will be, simply a statue in the desert, pointless, endless, bare.

With regard to the issue of health care, we are now waiting for the Senate to act, this House having acted quite a while ago now.

And I have to wonder why. Why are we waiting so long? What facts are different today on this day in December than were any different in November, or any different in October, any different in September, August, July? What can we do today that we could not have done then? I think the sad fact is, nothing. Nothing has really changed. The fundamental facts are the same. Americans are still denied care every single day on the basis of pre-existing conditions, on the basis of reaching lifetime caps. There are still millions upon millions of Americans who have no health care coverage. There's a million, who, every year, go bankrupt because of that. And there are thousands upon thousands who die every single month for the simple reason that they have no health care coverage. That's been true, not only for this month, not only for last month, but for year upon year.

And we Democrats in the House of Representatives, we took it upon ourselves, with the political capital that you, the American people had given to us, we took it upon ourselves to make that our priority once we had done what we could to steady the shaken economy. We delivered. We did what we needed to do. And we have waited and waited and waited for the Senate to do what it needs to do.

I pointed out here on this pedestal several weeks ago that the cost of delay is death. People die every single day, 121 of them, 122, every single day because they have no health care coverage in America. And I pointed out that there are people here in this Chamber who are dead set against health care reform, even at the cost of the lives of their own constituents. I gave their names. I gave their numbers for how many people would die in each of their districts on account of our not passing health care reform. Now I think it's time to do the same for the obstructionists in the Senate, those people who think that health care reform doesn't serve their own purposes, and they are, therefore, willing to deny it to their own constituents.

This is not a case of one State opting out. This is a case of Senators, en masse, deciding, one by one, that there will be no health care reform, not just for their States, but for all America. And so what I've done is I've created another list. This is a list of States and a list of those who die in that State, one by one, on account of there being no health care coverage, not once, but year after year after year. And now I propose to provide that list to you all. You'll be able to see it at our Web site later on today.

In the State of Alabama, the number is 541 deaths each year.

In the State of Alaska, 124 deaths each year.

In the State of Arizona, 1,185 deaths each year.

In the State of Connecticut, 326 deaths each year.

In Georgia, 1,640 deaths each year.

In Idaho, 217 deaths each year.

In Indiana, 727 deaths each year.

In Iowa, 272.

In Kentucky, 609.

In Louisiana, 800.

In the State of Maine, 123 deaths each year.

In Mississippi, 518 deaths.

In Missouri, 714 deaths.

In Nebraska, 216 deaths.

In Nevada, 450 deaths.

In New Hampshire, 132 deaths.

In North Carolina, 1,424 deaths.

In Ohio, 1,279 deaths.

In Oklahoma, 550 deaths.

In South Dakota, 88 deaths.

In Tennessee, 883 deaths.

In the State of Texas, 5,857 deaths each year for lack of health coverage.

In Utah, 342 deaths.

In Wyoming, 69 deaths.

And on it goes.

And for those Senators who have shown some reluctance or some lack of interest in health care reform, I'm going to provide your names right now to go with your States.

In Alabama, I'm talking about JEFF SESSIONS and RICHARD SHELBY; in Alaska, LISA MURKOWSKI; in Arizona, JON KYL and JOHN MCCAIN; in Connecticut, JOSEPH LIEBERMAN; in Florida, GEORGE LEMIEUX; in Georgia, SAXBY CHAMBLISS and JOHNNY ISAKSON; in Idaho, MIKE CRAPO and JAMES RISCH; in Indiana, DICK LUGAR; in Iowa, CHUCK GRASSLEY; in Kansas, SAM BROWNBACK and PAT ROBERTS; in Kentucky, JIM BUNNING and MITCH MCCONNELL; in Louisiana, DAVID VITTER; in Maine, SUSAN COLLINS and OLYMPIA SNOWE; in Mississippi, THAD COCHRAN and ROGER WICKER; in Missouri, CHRISTOPHER BOND; in Nebraska, MIKE JOHANNIS and BEN NELSON; in Nevada, JOHN ENSIGN; in New Hampshire, JUDD GREGG; in North Carolina, RICHARD BURR; in Ohio, GEORGE VOINOVICH; in Oklahoma, TOM COBURN and JAMES INHOFE; in South Carolina, JIM DEMINT and LINDSEY GRAHAM; in South Dakota, JOHN THUNE; in Tennessee, LAMAR ALEXANDER and BOB CORKER; in Texas, JOHN CORNYN and KAY BAILEY HUTCHISON; in Utah, ROBERT BENNETT and ORRIN HATCH; and in Wyoming, JOHN BARRASSO and MICHAEL ENZI.

Please remember these names. These are the people who have stalled health care in this country. These are the people who have watched when, day after day, month after month, people go broke, people remain sick and people even die because they have no health care in this country. And I want to assure each one of you who has done anything to obstruct health care reform in this country that people will remember. Maybe not the people who die, but the people who love them, the people whose names I read day after day at our Web site, NamesOfTheDead.com, and the people whose stories I told day after day. These are people who are gone, but the names, the list grows every single day until we solve this problem. And then, in the end, when we do solve this problem—and it's inevitable. Every other industrial country in the entire world has health insurance for everyone. When we do join the ranks of those countries, people are going to remember who made that happen and show kindness and love to them. People are going to remember who blocked it, and they'll show undying hatred. People are going to remember.

And you'll remember, too. You'll remember that when the time came for you to do something for your fellow man, to stop the suffering, to stop the hurt, to stop the pain and to stop the dying, you did nothing, or you didn't do enough. You're going to remember that, and you're going to know that blood is on your hands.

May God have mercy on your soul.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would remind the Member to refrain from engaging in personalities toward the Senate or its Members. Remarks in debate may include policy criticisms, but may not descend to personalities.

VACATING 5-MINUTE SPECIAL ORDER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the request for a 5-minute special order speech in favor of the gentleman from Florida (Mr. GRAYSON) is hereby vacated.

There was no objection.

THE RELIGIOUS HERITAGE OF THE UNITED STATES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 6, 2009, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GOHMERT) is recognized for 60 minutes.

Mr. GOHMERT. Mr. Speaker, it's interesting following the gentleman from Florida. In the spirit of Christmas, it sounds like accusing previously Members of Congress and now Members of the Senate of basically being responsible for deaths. I can't help but address that in this respect—ignorance is a dangerous thing, and the fact is, if you will examine, Mr. Speaker, the statistics of those, for example, you take numbers I'm familiar with of women who find a localized tumor, of breast cancer, they have a 98 percent chance of success, of complete elimination of the cancer. That's in the United States with our health care.

If we go to what the gentleman from Florida is proposing, as we see in other countries like England, it's about 20 points less. In other words, the program the gentleman from Florida is advocating would be responsible for killing one out of five women who find those type tumors. And you can run those statistics throughout health care.

So, despite what some have said—I know not intentionally trying to misrepresent, because I know the gentleman is an honorable man. As Shakespeare said, so are they all, all honorable men. But they're wrong about the facts. And the truth is, we have numerous proposals to reform health care and to provide health care for everyone. But one of the great misrepresentations that's been made this year in this House is that so-called health care reform is about health care reform. It is not. We've heard everyone from the President to lots of people on this side of the aisle say that yes, we want to insure 30 million more people. Well, the statistics tell us if they do their program, then they are going to be millions who lose their health care insurance. And even if you wanted to insure 30 million people, well, the statistics indicate those 30 million are in approximately 10 million households, and you can insure those 10 million households for potentially less than $10,000. So for $100 billion, you could insure all the people that they say they need to add to the health care insurance rolls for $100 billion. And yet the estimates are anywhere from $1.2 trillion to $2.5 trillion as to what they're proposing will cost.

That makes it clear that the truth is their proposals are not about health care reform. They are about government control. And consistently, when you go through the statistics of the success rates with regard to different types of cancer, if you go to the programs being advocated, then people get on lists and they die waiting on those lists. People die waiting for the treatment, the therapy, the diagnostics that require lists in a socialized medicine setting.

But I want to get away from the partisan politics and the nasty allegations that have been made in here just prior to me speaking, and back and forth throughout this year, because this may well be the last hour that we have here in the House before we recess for Christmas and before we come back next year. So, instead of getting into all this rancor, I thought it would be good to help address an area that some people have just not had education about, and that this is the appropriate place, Mr. Speaker, to make sure that the record is correct, because we have so much wonderful history in this building, in this House.

For example, I hear people really concerned around this building, around the Supreme Court, across the way, around Capitol Hill here, about someone, my goodness, praying in public. Well, we begin every day we're in session here in the House and the Senate's in session with a prayer.

Many are ignorant from the place in which that tradition started, where it came. You have to go back to 1787, the Constitutional Convention.

The Constitutional Convention, people may recall, began in 1787 as a result of the failure of the Articles of Confederation. And for those that know history, they would know that the revolution was won in 1783. It was the Treaty of Paris in which England finally recognized the United States' right to exist as a Nation, and George Washington did something that had never been done in the history of mankind before or since then, and that is lead a revolutionary military, win the revolution, and then resign and go home when he could be Caesar, he could be king, emperor, whatever. That was not his goal. His goal, as he said, was to do his duty to God, basically, and his country, kind of like the Scout oath.

Anyway, here they are in Philadelphia, Independence Hall, 1787. It's June. Benjamin Franklin is 80 years old. Now, many people say, Well, we know he was a deist from history. That means he believed there was a creator out there but that he believed God, the creator, created things and then stood back and let everything happen and that he never interfered. Well, those who also know history know that there were times in his life when Benjamin Franklin sowed some wild seeds, and that included some in Europe and in England. But by the time of the Constitutional Convention, there in Independence Hall in Philadelphia, 1787, Benjamin Franklin was between 2 and 3 years away from meeting his judge, meeting his maker, and he knew that. He was as brilliant as ever, as witty, an amazing man, the genius that he was, and there he sits.

There is a picture right outside the House floor depicting that area in Independence Hall where they were meeting. Now, in the beautiful painting, the windows are open. Well, the windows were covered. It may have been by blankets instead of beautiful lined curtains depicted in the scene. But for nearly 5 weeks, they went without accomplishing much of anything. Finally, the 80-year-old Ben Franklin rose and was recognized by the President of the Constitutional Convention, George Washington. And we have these words because James Madison recorded them as secretary of that convention.

These are the exact words of Benjamin Franklin, June 28, 1787, in Philadelphia during the Constitutional Congress. Benjamin Franklin said: "Mr. President, the small progress we have made after 4 or 5 weeks' close attendance and continual reasonings with each other, our different sentiments on almost every question, several of the last producing as many noes as ayes, is, methinks, a melancholy proof of the imperfection of human understanding. We, indeed, seem to feel our own want of political wisdom, since we've been running about in search of it. We have gone back to ancient history for models of government and examined the different forms of those republics which, having been formed with the seeds of their own dissolution, now no longer exist. And we have viewed modern states all around Europe but find none of their constitutions suitable to our circumstances.

"In this situation of this assembly groping, as it were, in the dark to find political truth, and scarce able to distinguish it when presented to us, how has it happened, sir, that we have not hitherto once thought of humbly applying to the Father of lights to illuminate our understanding? In the beginning contest with Great Britain, when we were sensible of danger, we had daily prayer in this room. Our prayers, sir, were heard and they were graciously answered. All of us who were engaged in the struggle must have observed frequent instances of a superintending providence in our favor. To that kind providence we owe this happy opportunity of consulting in peace on the means of establishing our future national felicity. And have we now forgotten that powerful friend? or do we imagine that we no longer need His assistance?"

Ben Franklin goes on and says: "I have lived, sir, a long time, and the longer I live, the more convincing proofs I see of this truth—that God governs in the affairs of men. And if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without His notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without His aid? We have been assured, sir, in the sacred writings that, 'except the Lord build the House, they labor in vain that build it.' I firmly believe this; and I also believe that without His concurring aid, we shall succeed in this political building no better than the builders of Babel. We shall be divided by our little partial local interests; our projects will be confounded, and we, ourselves, shall become a reproach and a byword down to future age. And what is worse, mankind may hereafter this unfortunate instance despair of establishing governments by human wisdom and leave it to chance, war, and conquest.

"I therefore beg leave to move that, henceforth, prayers imploring the assistance of Heaven and its blessings on our deliberations be held in this assembly every morning before we proceed to business, and that one or more of the clergy of this city be requested to officiate in that service."

His motion was seconded, and then Ben Franklin's motion was adopted unanimously. And from that day to this day, we do not begin Congress in this body without a prayer to begin.

Now, for those who say Ben Franklin obviously was a deist who didn't believe, believed a God or creator created things but never intervened, his own words seem to defy that. He begged and implored Congress to begin with prayer every day because, as he said, "Our prayers, sir, were heard, and they were graciously answered."

So, Mr. Speaker, also, here again, in the spirit of bipartisanship, in the spirit, for me, of Christmas that has been so historically observed in this Nation, we want to just go through and make sure people understand our heritage.

Now, the great thing about our Constitution, it does allow for freedom of religion and a freedom not to worship at all. That is because they're based on the teachings of Christ and his willingness to allow all men to make their own decisions for themselves, knowing, as he did, that one day, all people will meet their maker. But let's go back to the person that found the New World, as it was called. This was Christopher Columbus.

You don't find many history books which have these kinds of quotes in it. This is Christopher Columbus in his own hand, in his own journal. He said: "It was the Lord who put it into my mind (I could feel His hand upon me) the fact that it would be possible to sail from here to the Indies. All who heard of my project rejected it with laughter, ridiculing me. There is no question that the inspiration was from the Holy Spirit, because He comforted me with the rays of marvelous inspiration from the Holy Scriptures."

Now there are those today who say the real lesson of Columbus is that it's amazing what you can do, even when you don't know where you're going, you don't know where you are when you get there, so long as you get the government to pay for it. But I would submit that there was a creator, a creator as Christopher Columbus believed, who put this into his mind to sail west and discover this area so that the greatest nation in the history of mankind could arise.

Now if you go to the Pilgrims who came across, originally from the Netherlands to England and to America by way of stopping in England, this was 1620. Part of the Pilgrims' compact, these are their words, "In the name of God, Amen . . . Having undertaken for the glory of God, and advancement of the Christian faith, and the honor of our king and country, a voyage to plant the first colony in the northern parts of Virginia, do by these presents, solemnly and mutually in the presence of God and one another, covenant and combine ourselves together in a civil body politick." That was the Pilgrims on the Mayflower, November 11, 1620.

I have had people I have met from Harvard University who are not familiar with their history and the fact that Harvard University, September 26, 1642, this was part of their code. It was part of their handbook.

Harvard University: "Let every student be plainly instructed, and earnestly pressed to consider well, the main end of his life and studies is to know God and Jesus Christ, which is eternal life, John 17:3; and therefore to lay Christ in the bottom, as the only foundation of all sound knowledge and learning. And seeing the Lord only giveth the wisdom, Let every one seriously set himself by prayer in secret to seek it of him, Proverbs 2:3." That's Harvard University at its founding back around the year 1642.

In George Washington's own personal prayer book, which he read from daily, this is one of the entries in that prayer book that was in Washington's possession when he passed away: "O most glorious God and Jesus Christ, I acknowledge and confess my faults in the weak and imperfect performance of the duties of this day. I called on Thee for pardon and forgiveness of sins, but so coldly and carelessly that my prayers are come my sin and stand in need of pardon. I have heard Thy holy word, but with such deadness of spirit that I have been an unprofitable and forgetful hearer . . . Let me live according to those holy rules which Thou hast this day, according to those holy rules which Thou hast this day prescribed in Thy holy word . . . Direct me to the true object, Jesus Christ, the way, the truth and life. Bless, O Lord, all the people of this land." That's George Washington's prayer book.

Here is a quote from Thomas Jefferson, as we know, who wrote basically the Declaration of Independence at the urging of John Adams, and it was Jefferson who was the third President after John Adams. Jefferson in 1782—and for those who visit Washington, this is inscribed inside the Jefferson Memorial.

Jefferson said: "Can the liberties of a nation be thought secure when we have removed their only firm basis, a conviction in the minds of people that their liberties are the gift of God?"

Jedidiah Morse, who is called the father of the American geography, also father of Samuel Morse—folks who know history know who that is. On April 25, 1799, Jedidiah Morse said: "Whenever the pillars of Christianity shall be overthrown, our present republican forms of government, and all the blessings which flow from them, must fall with them."

James Madison, the fourth President, March 4, 1815, in his Thanksgiving Day proclamation said: "No people ought to feel greater obligations to celebrate the goodness of the Great Disposer of events and of the destiny of nations than the people of the United States. His kind providence originally conducted them to one of the best portions of the dwelling place allotted for the

Then John Quincy Adams, who was the son of John Adams, John Quincy Adams was the sixth President. Some think he may have been the smartest President, but there's no way to know. He was a brilliant man, the youngest diplomat ever appointed in America when he was 11 years of age. He knew all the Founders. His father, John Adams, allowed him to accompany him to so many events and things. He knew the Founders. He knew the founding.

And John Quincy Adams in 1821 on July 4 said, "The highest glory of the American Revolution was this, it connected in one indissoluble bond the principles of the civil government with the principles of Christianity, wherefrom the day of the Declaration they, the American people, were bound by the laws of God which they all, and by the laws of the Gospel which they nearly all, acknowledged as the rules of their conduct."

Noah Webster, 1833, said: "The moral principles and precepts contained in the Scriptures ought to form the basis of all our civil constitutions and laws. All the miseries and evils which men suffer from, vice, crime, ambition, injustice, oppression, slavery and war, proceed from their despising or neglecting the precepts contained in the Bible."

Alexis de Tocqueville, 1835, said: "There is no country in the world where the Christian religion retains a greater influence over the souls of men than in America; and there can be no greater proof of its utility and of its conformity to human nature than that its influence is powerfully felt over the most enlightened and free Nation of the Earth."

Again, John Quincy Adams, he was defeated in 1828 for a second term by Andrew Jackson. Then in 1830, he believed it was God's call for him to run for Congress, run for the House of Representatives, after having been President. He was elected and served for 17 years in the House of Representatives, just down the hall in Statuary Hall. It was John Quincy Adams who was retained to represent the Africans who were aboard the Armistad in their case before the Supreme Court. Anthony Hopkins did a wonderful job of portraying John Quincy Adams in the movie "Armistad." I think in the movie his closing argument was around 10 to 12 minutes, whereas in real life it spilled into a third day.

John Quincy Adams, 1837, after he had been in the House 6 years, he said, "Is it not that the Declaration of Independence first organized the social compact on the Foundation of the Redeemer's mission upon Earth? That it laid the cornerstone of human government upon the first precepts of Christianity?"

And all of these people believed. People in America will be able to worship the way they choose or do not choose because the Nation was founded upon Christian precepts that allowed that freedom as no other nation in the history of mankind.

Andrew Jackson, 1845, this was just a few weeks before his death, and of course, people that know Jackson know that he was quite a rounder and he had quite a life. But, again, as he was just a few weeks before his death, he knew he was going to meet his Maker. Andrew Jackson said these words: "Sir, I am in the hands of a merciful God. I have full confidence in His goodness and mercy. The Bible is true. I have tried to conform to its spirit as near as possible. Upon that sacred volume I rest my hope for eternal salvation, through the merits and blood of our blessed Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ." That was Andrew Jackson just a few weeks before his death, May 29, 1845.

Daniel Webster, considered the greatest orator probably of all times in this country, served in the House, served in the Senate, thought perhaps he might be President one day, but he urged a compromise which cost him the election. Whether he was right or wrong, he believed if we didn't have the Compromise of 1850 then the Nation was doomed, that there would be a civil war in 1850 from which the Nation may not survive.

So he did a very selfless thing and stood up and urged the Compromise of 1850, knowing that he would lose his base. But he believed it was to save the country. Daniel Webster said in 1852: "If we and our posterity shall be true to the Christian religion, if we and they shall live always in the fear of God and shall respect His Commandments, we may have the highest hopes of the future fortunes of our country. But if we and our prosperity neglect religious instruction and authority, violate the rules of eternal justice, trifle with the injunctions of morality, and recklessly destroy the political Constitution which holds us together, no man can tell how sudden a catastrophe may overwhelm us that shall bury all our glory in profound obscurity."

Daniel Webster, 1852.

Now the Senate Judiciary Committee in 1853 stated this as a committee: "We are a Christian people, not because the law demands it, nor to gain exclusive benefits or to avoid legal disabilities, but from choice and education; and in a land thus universally Christian what is to be expected, what desired, but that we shall pay due regard to Christianity?" Senate Judiciary Committee, January 19, 1853.

Abraham Lincoln, our 16th President, February 11, 1861, said this: "Unless the great God who assisted Washington shall be with me and aid me, I must fail; but if the same Omniscent Mind and Mighty Arm that directed and protected him shall guide and support me, I shall not fail. Let us all pray that the God of our fathers may not forsake us now." Abraham Lincoln, February 11, 1861.

We can skip over to the President's inaugural address, 1865, again, Abraham Lincoln. He said: "Both" talking about both sides of the Civil War, the North and the South. He said: "Both read the same Bible and pray to the same God, and each invokes His aid against the other. The prayers of both could not be answered. That of neither has been answered fully. The Almighty has His own purposes. 'Woe unto the world because of offenses; for if it must needs be that offenses come, but woe to that man by whom the offense cometh.'"

Lincoln, in that same inaugural address, went on and said: "If we shall suppose that American slavery is one of those offenses which"—and he knew it was an offense. He knew it to his soul that slavery was an offense and that it would be difficult for God to ever bless America as long as slavery existed. And Christian people in this country did not treat their brothers and sisters as brothers and sisters. So Lincoln goes on in that address. And you can feel the analysis that he did as he went back and forth within himself trying to figure out how a just and mighty God could allow this type of injustice.

So Lincoln goes on and he says: "If we shall suppose that American slavery is one of those offenses which, in the Providence of God, must needs come, but which, having continued through His appointed time, He now wills to remove, and that He gives to both North and South this terrible war as the woe due to those by whom the offense came, shall we discern therein any departure from those divine attributes which the believers in a living God ascribe to Him?"

"Fondly do we hope, fervently do we pray, that this mighty scourge of war may speedily pass away. Yet, if God wills that it continue until all the wealth piled by the bondsman's 250 years of unrequited toil shall be sunk, and every drop of blood drawn with the lash shall be paid by another drawn with the sword, as was said 3,000 years ago, so it must still be said 'the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.'"

Lincoln went on: "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in, to bind up the Nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow and his orphan, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all Nations."

Abraham Lincoln, 1865.

Edward Everett, the Massachusetts Governor also served as U.S. Secretary of State, U.S. Senator, he spoke immediately before Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. He said this: "All the distinctive features and superiority of our Republican institutions"—and he wasn't talking about the Republican Party, he was talking about the Nation. This is considered a Republic. Senator Everett said the "superiority of our Republican institutions are derived from the teachings of Scripture."

William Seward was a U.S. Senator, a Governor of New York, Secretary of State under Lincoln. And it was interesting, Lincoln had such a diverse cabinet. Many of them didn't like each other, didn't like him, and yet he took all of that information together and made executive decisions.

William Seward said: "I know not how long a Republican Government can flourish among a great people who have not the Bible. But this I do know: that the existing government of this country never could have had existence but for the Bible. And, further, I do in my conscience believe that if at every decade of years a copy of the Bible could be found in every family in the land, its Republican institutions should be perpetuated."

1862, Andrew Johnson, he was Vice President, and he said: "Let us look forward to the time when we can take the Flag of our country and nail it below the cross, and there let it wave as it waved in the olden times, and let us gather around it and inscribe for our motto, 'Liberty and Union, one and inseparable, now and forever,' and exclaim: Christ first, our country next."

U.S. Grant, the 18th President, 1876, said this: "Hold fast to the Bible as the sheet-anchor of your liberties; write its precepts in your hearts and practice them in your lives. To the influence of this book we are indebted for all the progress made in true civilization and to this we must look as our guide in the future."

Now, Mr. Speaker, in reading these quotes, I think it is important for people to know I'm not trying to push my religion on anyone else. But I think it is imperative that we at least know where the Founders were, where the heart was of those who provided for this incredible government, the incredible Nation we have that I believe is the greatest in the history of mankind.

This was in the case of Church of the Holy Trinity v. the United States, in the opinion, February 29, 1892. The Supreme Court said: "Our laws and our institutions must necessarily be based upon and embody the teachings of the Redeemer of mankind. It is impossible that it should be otherwise and in this sense and to this extent, our civilization and our institutions are emphatically Christian. This is a religious people. This is historically true. From the discovery of this continent to the present hour, there is a single voice making this affirmation. We find everywhere a clear recognition of the same truth. These and many other matters which might be noticed at a volume of unofficial declarations to the massive organic utterances that this is a Christian Nation." That was the Supreme Court in their opinion Church of the Holy Trinity v. United States, 1892.

Theodore Roosevelt, 1917, our 26th President, said: "In this actual world, a churchless community, a community where men have abandoned and scoffed at, or ignored their Christian duties, is a community on the rapid downgrade."

Warren G. Harding, our 29th President, 1920 said: "It is my conviction that the fundamental trouble with the people of the United States is that they have gotten too far away from the Almighty God."

Calvin Coolidge, our 30th President, 1923, said: "The foundations of our society and our government rest so much on the teachings of the Bible that it would be difficult to support them if faith in these teachings would cease to be practically universal in our country."

Franklin D. Roosevelt, October 6, 1935, said: We cannot read the history of our rise and development as a Nation without reckoning with the place the Bible has occupied in shaping the advances of the Republic. Where we have been the truest and most consistent in obeying its precepts we have attained the greatest measure of contentment and prosperity. Again, Franklin Roosevelt, 1935.

1943, President Hoover, in a joint statement with former First Ladies Mrs. Coolidge, Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Taft, Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Cleveland, gave this statement: The whole inspiration for our civilization springs from the teachings of Christ and the lessons of the prophets. To read the Bible for these fundamentals is a necessity of American life.

Harry Truman, our 33rd President, in 1952 said this: The basis of our Bill of Rights comes from the teachings we get from Exodus and St. Matthew, from Isaiah and St. Paul. I don't think we emphasize that enough these days. If we don't have a proper fundamental moral background, we will finally end up with a government which does not believe in rights for anyone but the State. Profound. That was Harry Truman, 1952.

Charles Malik, our ambassador to the United Nations from Lebanon and the president of the U.N. General Assembly in 1958, made this statement in 1958: Whoever tries to conceive the American word without taking full account of the suffering and love and salvation of Christ is only dreaming. I know how embarrassing this matter is to politicians, bureaucrats, businessmen and cynics; but whatever these honored men think, the irrefutable truth is that the soul of America is at its best and highest, Christian. That was the U.N. ambassador and president of the U.N. General Assembly in 1958.

Now, Ronald Reagan, our 40th President, 1984, said: The frustrating thing is that those who are attacking religion claim they are doing it in the name of tolerance, freedom, and open-mindedness. Question: Isn't the real truth that they are intolerant of religion? They refuse to tolerate its importance in our lives. Ronald Reagan, 1984.

Now, I point out these quotes from our history. I could read volumes and volumes of quotes basically along the same lines, not trying to push Christian religion on anyone, but just so that people understand where we came from. It's incredible the amount of ignorance on the basis of this Nation, the foundation of this Nation.

Let me go to some of our Founders directly. Sam Adams. He was called, back at that time by those who knew and knew well, the "Father of the American Revolution." Samuel Adams was a signer of the Declaration of Independence. In the will of Samuel Adams he says this: I . . . recommend my soul to that Almighty Being who gave it, and my body I commit to the dust, relying upon the merits of Jesus Christ for a pardon of all my sins. That was the Father of the American Revolution, Samuel Adams.

In a letter written by Charles Carroll to Charles Wharton, Charles Carroll was a signer of the Declaration of Independence, one of the 56. He said: On the mercy of my Redeemer I rely for salvation and on His merits; not on the works I have done in obedience to His precepts.

William Cushing was the first Associate Justice appointed by George Washington to the Supreme Court. William Cushing in his will said: Sensible of my mortality, but being of sound mind, after recommending my soul to Almighty God through the merits of my Redeemer and my body to the Earth.

John Dickinson was also a signer of the Constitution. In his will he said: Rendering thanks to my Creator for my existence and station among His works, for my birth in a country enlightened by the Gospel and enjoying freedom, and for all His other kindnesses, to Him I resign myself, humbly confiding in His goodness and in His mercy through Jesus Christ for the events of eternity. Again, John Dickinson, signer of the Declaration of Independence.

John Hancock we know signed the Declaration larger than anyone else, President of the Continental Congress in 1776 when the Declaration of Independence was signed and made public. In his will he said: I, John Hancock . . . being advanced in years and being of perfect mind and memory—thanks be given to God—therefore calling to mind the mortality of my body and knowing it is appointed for all men once to die (Hebrews 9:27), do make and ordain this my last will and testament . . . Principally and first of all, I give and recommend my soul into the hands of God that gave it, and my body I recommend to the Earth, nothing doubting but at the general resurrection I shall receive the same again by the mercy and power of God. Again, that was John Hancock.

Patrick Henry, the Governor of Virginia, a patriot, made that stirring speech that I gave on the radio in fifth grade, made this statement: This is all the inheritance I can give to my dear family—this was in his will—the religion of Christ can give them one which will make them rich indeed.

John Jay played such an important role in this Nation's founding and negotiations of treaties. I believe he helped negotiate the Treaty of Paris in 1783, and so many others, but he was also the first Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court. In his will, Chief Justice John Jay said: Unto Him who is the author and giver of all good, I render sincere and humble thanks for His manifold and unmerited blessings, and especially for our redemption and salvation by His beloved son. He has been pleased to bless me with excellent parents, with a virtuous wife, and with worthy children. His protection has accompanied me through many eventful years, faithfully employed in the service of my country; His providence has not only conducted me to this tranquil situation, but also given me abundant reason to be contented and thankful. Blessed be His holy name. John Jay.

Daniel St. Thomas Jenifer was a signer of the Constitution. In his will he said: In the name of God, Amen. I, Daniel St. Thomas Jenifer . . . of disposing mind and memory, commend my soul to my blessed Redeemer.

Henry Knox, Revolutionary War general, extremely important to the success of the American Revolution, said in his will: First, I think it proper to express my unshaken opinion of the immortality of my soul or mind, and to dedicate and devote the same to the supreme head of the universe—to that great and tremendous Jehovah—who created the universal frame of nature, worlds, and systems in number infinite. To this awfully sublime Being do I resign my spirit with unlimited confidence of His mercy and protection.

John Langdon was a signer of the Constitution back in 1787. He also said: In the name of God, Amen. I, John Langdon, considering the uncertainty of life and that it is appointed unto all men once to die—again, Hebrews 9:27—do make and ordain and publish this my last will and testament.

John Morton, signer of the Declaration of Independence, said in his will: With an awful reverence to the great Almighty God, Creator of all mankind, I, John Morton, being sick and weak in body but sound of mind and memory, thanks be given to Almighty God for the same, for all His mercies and favors, and considering the certainty of death and the uncertainty of the times thereof, do, for the settling of such temporal estate as it hath pleased God to bless me with in this life.

There are so many others, just one after another, vesting these same type things, signers of the Declaration of Independence, signers of the Constitution.

Jonathan Trumbull said this in his will: Principally and first of all, I bequeath my soul to God, the Creator and Giver thereof, and body to the Earth, nothing doubting but that I shall receive the same again at the General Resurrection through the power of Almighty God, believing and hoping for eternal life through the merits of my dear exalted Jesus Christ. That was Jonathan Trumble, who painted four of the paintings that are out here in our Rotunda.

One of the things that has run throughout this Nation, you go back to the Constitution, these were the Founders I've been quoting, those who were able to come together and have a Declaration of Independence, who sought, as Benjamin Franklin said, God's help in the revolution, and who sought him in the difficult, trying times after the Articles of Confederation were passed. And who they sought, as Benjamin Franklin pointed out in those great words I read, 1787, when afterwards they were finally able to come together with a constitution.

But as we know from our history, the Constitution was not afforded to all people as it should have been. They said, as these Founders I've read, that they were Christians, and yet as Christians they should have recognized that we could not expect God to bless America while we were treating our brothers and sisters by putting them in chains and bondage.

Martin Luther King came along after the Civil War. Abraham Lincoln, as I've read, made clear his beliefs in the Almighty and His grace and mercy and justice, and that's why he pushed for an end of slavery. But even still, it took Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and those who worked with him to bring about civil rights and an abdication of the supreme Constitution that we hold so dear to all people. It doesn't require that everyone receive equal things; it requires equal opportunity.

I would remind my friends that Martin Luther King, Jr. was an ordained Christian minister. He said in his letter from Birmingham jail: But more basically, I am in Birmingham because injustice is here. Just as the prophets of the 8th century B.C. left their villages and carried their "thus saith the Lord" far beyond the boundaries of their home towns, and just as the Apostle Paul left his village of Tarsus and carried the Gospel of Jesus Christ to the four corners of the Greco-Roman world, so I am compelled to carry the gospel of freedom beyond my own home town. Like Paul, I must constantly respond to the Macedonian call for aid. That was in 1963. Profound words, Martin Luther King.

One of his quotes in 1963 from Birmingham jail: Whenever the early Christians entered the town, the people in power became disturbed and immediately sought to convict the Christians for being disturbers of the peace and outside agitators. But the Christians pressed on, and in the conviction that they were a colony of heaven called to obey God rather than man, small in number, they were big in commitment. They were too God-intoxicated to be astronomically intimidated. Powerful, powerful words, Martin Luther King.

Well, I think it's worth noting also, we have an original copy of the Treaty of Paris, 1783, located in the Department of State in a glass case. I didn't realize how that started until I saw that copy there, but it made sense once I saw it. In big bold letters at the top of the Treaty of Paris—in this is the one that was negotiated in Paris in 1783 after surrendering at Yorktown to get England to sign onto a treaty indicating they would observe the United States' right to exist as an independent Nation.

It starts out in big block bold letters, "In the name of the most holy and undivided Trinity." When I first saw that I thought, I wonder why they would start like that. And then you realize, you're asking the nation of England to sign a treaty and pledging not to ever attack or fail to recognize its right to exist independently of England. What do you get them to swear under that is so important and so manifest that they would not dare go back on their word? Well, they decided at that time it was to start with the words, In the name of the most holy and undivided Trinity.

Those who are familiar with the War of 1812, 1814, we're up here on Jenkins Hill, where the Capitol was built, and the British proceeded across burning every public building, proceeded to the Capitol, set fire down the hall in Statuary Hall, what was then the House of Representatives, went down and set fire to the Senate Inn, and went to the White House, set fire there. The White House was terribly damaged inside.

The Capitol, by all rights, with the intensity of the fire and with the munitions that were spread to make the fire get more hot, should have collapsed and fallen in on itself, but it didn't because a rain came and put out the fire.

By the way, the next day, there was such a huge, straight-line wind. Some thought it was tornadic, but most believed it was a straight-line wind. It was so intense that it blew their canons off their mounts. Some credit the wind with killing soldiers.

"As the British troops were preparing to leave, a conversation was noted between the British admiral and a Washington lady regarding the storm. The admiral exclaimed, 'Great God, Madam! Is this the kind of storm to which you are accustomed in this infernal country?'"

"The lady answered, 'No, sir. This is a special interposition of Providence to drive our enemies from our city.'" The weather drove them out. The American soldiers were not able to.

A little history about the White House nativity scene: It's Italian—made in Naples around the time of the United States War for Independence, the late 1700s. It has been on exhibit in the East Room of the White House during the holiday season since 1967. In 1999, a new tableau was made for the nativity scene. The design of the new display was inspired by historical Neapolitan presepios, which is the Italian term for "Christ," from the Baroque period, which incorporated architectural elements found in the 1700s.

That is a little bit about the nativity scene. There has been a lot said about that recently.

As far as the history of the White House Christmas tree, in 1889, the tradition of placing an indoor decorated tree in the White House began on Christmas morning during the Presidency of Benjamin Harrison. It was in 1895 that First Lady Frances Cleveland created a technology savvy tree when she hung electric lights on the White House tree, which was introduced into the White House in 1891.

There is just so much history with our Founding Fathers.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, December 24—obviously Christmas Eve—1934, said, "This is the second year that I have joined with you on this happy occasion. Then, as now, with millions of others, we celebrate the happy observance of Christmas.

"The year toward which we looked then with anticipation and hope has passed," Roosevelt goes on. "We have seen fulfilled many things that a year ago were only hopes. Our human life thus goes on from anticipation and hope to fulfillment. This year again, we are entitled to new hopes and new anticipations."

He goes on and he says, "Just across the street is the house he occupied 100 years ago, the house the people of the country have built for their Presidents. From its windows, I see this monument to this man of courage." He is talking about Washington. "It is an inspiration to me as it should be to all Americans.

"And so let us make the spirit of Christmas of 1934 that of courage and unity. It is the way to greater happiness and well-being. That is, I believe, an important part of what the Maker of Christmas would have it mean.

"In this sense," Roosevelt says, "the scriptures admonish us to be strong and of good courage, to fear not, to dwell together in unity."

He said, "I wish you one and all, here and everywhere, a very, very Merry Christmas." Franklin Roosevelt.

I have a number of other speeches that he gave on Christmas. Time will not allow me to read all of those.

I will go to 1962, John F. Kennedy, when he said: "Ladies and gentlemen, Secretary Udall, members of the clergy: With the lighting of this tree, which is an old ceremony in Washington and one which has been among the most important responsibilities of a good many Presidents of the United States, we initiate, in a formal way, the Christmas season.

"We mark the festival of Christmas, which is the most sacred and hopeful day in our civilization. For nearly 2,000 years, the message of Christmas, the message of peace and goodwill towards all men, has been the guiding star of our endeavors.

"This morning, I had a meeting at the White House, which included some of our representatives from far countries in Africa and Asia. They were returning to their posts for the Christmas holidays. Talking with them afterwards, I was struck by the fact that, in the far-off continents, Muslims, Hindus, Buddhists, as well as Christians, pause from their labors on the 25th day of December to celebrate the birthday of the Prince of Peace.

"There could be no more striking proof that Christmas is truly the universal holiday of all men. It is the day when all of us dedicate our thoughts to others, when all are reminded that mercy and compassion are the enduring virtues, when all show by small deeds and large and by acts that it is more blessed to give than to receive."

He goes on to talk about the Christmas spirit.

As my time grows short here, I want to finish with a speech Ronald Reagan gave, his Christmas message in 1988.

He said: "The themes of Christmas and of coming home for the holidays have long been intertwined in song and story. There is a profound irony and lesson in this because Christmas celebrates the coming of a Savior who was born without a home.

"There was no room at the inn for the Holy Family. Weary of travel, a young Mary, close to childbirth, and her carpenter husband, Joseph, found but the rude shelter of a stable. There was born the King of Kings, the Prince of Peace—an event on which all history would turn.

"Jesus would again be without a home, and more than once—on the flight to Egypt and during His public ministry when He said, 'The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of man hath nowhere to lay his head.'"

Ronald Reagan goes on. "From His very infancy on, our Redeemer was reminding us that, from then on, we would never lack a home in Him. Like the shepherds to whom the angel of the Lord appeared on the first Christmas Day, we could always say, 'Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.'

"As we come home with gladness to family and friends this Christmas, let us also remember our neighbors who cannot go home themselves. Our compassion and concern this Christmas and all year long will mean much to the hospitalized, the homeless, the convalescent, the orphaned—and will surely lead us on our way to the joy and peace of Bethlehem and the Christ Child who bids us come. For it is only in finding and living the eternal meaning of the Nativity that we can be truly happy, truly at peace, truly home.

“Merry Christmas, and God bless you.” Ronald Reagan.

Mr. Speaker, with that wish from Reagan, I do now hereby move that we adjourn.
