coaching and teaching these fine student athletes. The motto of Carroll College is “Not for School, but for life.” Certainly the members of Carroll’s football team have learned many life lessons. Coach Van Diest preaches the importance of getting a quality education, teamwork, and the need to give back to the community. Last year 32 Fighting Saints were named to the Frontier Conference All-Academic team.

The Fighting Saints have a dedicated following throughout Montana. Thousands of fans dressed in purple and gold pack into Nelson Stadium on the Carroll campus for each home game. I always look forward to joining them whenever I can. And numerous fans made the long trip to Georgia to cheer on the Fighting Saints in the national title game.

Now another reason that I am so excited about the Saints winning another title is because of a bet I made with my good friend Tom Johnson. I put a case of Montana microbrew beer on the line with confidence knowing the Saints would pull out the win, and Senator Johnson put up some buffalo steaks, and I thank Senator Johnson for being such a good sport. I would also like to commend the University of Sioux Falls on a fine football season.

My congratulations and admiration goes out to all the Carroll coaches and players for their success and being great ambassadors for the State of Montana. Their hard work, dedication, and grit truly represent the best that Big Sky country has to offer. I look forward to cheering them on again next season as they go for title No. 7.

SAN FRANCISCO MUSEUM OF MODERN ART

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I take this time to recognize the 75th anniversary of the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, SFMOMA. For 75 years, SFMOMA has engaged and inspired Bay Area residents and visitors alike through first-rate exhibitions, public programs, and special events that enrich and educate the community.

SFMOMA was founded in 1935 by Dr. Grace Louise McVann Morley. At the time of its founding, SFMOMA was the first and only museum on the west coast dedicated solely to modern and contemporary art. Dr. Morley, a visionary and committed leader, went on to serve as the museum’s director for 23 years. Under her guidance, SFMOMA showcased innovative and challenging art by both new and established artists, helping to cement San Francisco’s position as a leader in the world of modern art.

SFMOMA’s leadership has never been limited to art alone but also extends to influencing public policy, establishing avenues to success for local and regional artists and exhibiting work that addresses current political and social movements.

To accommodate the expansion of the museum over the years, artwork was divided into four different departments: architectural and design, media arts, painting and sculpture, and photography. In addition to traditional exhibitions, SFMOMA now offers film festivals, live art performances, and educational programs for children and teens. The museum has also developed a new web site and blog including a streaming video series, an online tool for browsing the collection, and additional interactive features that make the museum more accessible than ever before.

Last year, SFMOMA entered into an exciting partnership with Doris and Donald Fisher, founders of the Gap, enabling the museum to exhibit the Fishers’ personal art collection, known internationally to be one of the most comprehensive and extraordinary collections of modern art in the world. The collection is comprised of more than 1,100 works by 185 20th and 21st century American and European artists.

Today, SFMOMA retains more than 26,000 pieces of art in its permanent collection, including photographs, design objects, sculptures, and other artworks. The museum is currently planning a major expansion to support its ongoing growth and to showcase the Doris and Donald Fisher Collection. This will allow SFMOMA to continue evolving and offering additional programs for the community to learn, engage, and interact with each other and with some of the greatest works of modern art.

Earlier this year, SFMOMA marked its 75th anniversary by offering 3 free days of special programs entitled “75 Years of Looking Forward.” As a result, thousands visited the museum, eager to take advantage of the opportunity to celebrate this cherished institution. SFMOMA hosts 800,000 visitors annually and boasts the largest member base of any modern or contemporary art museum in the United States. I commend SFMOMA for serving the community superbly for the past 75 years. Audiences have been captivated and inspired by SFMOMA’s collections and special exhibitions, and I wish this venerable cultural institution much success in the decades to come.

REMEMBERING DR. HELEN MAYNOR SCHEIBECK

Mrs. HAGAN. Mr. President, last week the Nation lost Dr. Helen Maynor Scheibeck—a great civil rights leader and a passionate advocate for American Indian rights.

Born in Lumberton, NC, as a proud member of the Lumbee Tribe, Dr. Scheibeck’s passing is a true loss for the Lumbee and the greater American Indian community. A champion for American Indian sovereignty, Dr. Scheibeck worked constantly throughout her incredibly prolific career to enable future generations of Indian leaders to build healthier and better-educated communities.

In her early work on Capitol Hill, Dr. Scheibeck served on the staff of North Carolina Senator J. Bennett Johnston, who then chaired the Senate Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights. This work helped lay the foundation for the historic 1968 Indian Bill of Rights that extended constitutional rights and protections to American Indians nationwide. Similarly, Dr. Scheibeck’s efforts to organize the 1962 Capitol Conference on Poverty helped to ensure that Indian communities were a focus of the nationwide war on poverty.

Her commitment to self-determination and individual responsibility is further exemplified by Dr. Scheibeck’s work to empower tribal leaders to govern and educate their communities. Working on behalf of the Carter administration, Dr. Scheibeck’s leadership was instrumental in enabling Federal policies to support Indian sovereignty. Most notably, her efforts helped to ensure the passage of the Indian Education Act of 1975 and the Tribally Controlled Community College Assistance Act of 1978, which enabled Indian leaders to provide better educational opportunities for current and future generations.

Working throughout her life to provide a forum for Indian leaders in our Nation’s Capital, Dr. Scheibeck was instrumental in establishing the National Museum of the American Indian. As Assistant Director in the early years of the museum, Dr. Scheibeck guided the Office of Education and its program in cultural arts. In so doing, she sought to bring the experience of the American Indian to the National Mall and to demonstrate the applicability of Indian education models to educators throughout the world.

Finally, much of Dr. Scheibeck’s life was devoted to the cause of recognition for the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina. Her life’s work helped reverse the Federal Government’s efforts to terminate relationships with American Indian tribes. Sadly, though, Dr. Scheibeck’s own Lumbee Tribe still bears the burden of this unfortunate policy, and she fought throughout her life to provide the Lumbee with the full recognition that they so deserve. While Dr. Scheibeck did not live to see this dream become a reality, her life and work have helped to sustain the drive for Lumbee recognition for decades.

Dr. Helen Maynor Scheibeck’s presence and contributions throughout Indian Country are irreplaceable, and her tireless efforts on behalf of American Indians throughout the country will continue to inspire future Indian leaders for generations to come.

POEM FOR SENATOR ROBERT BYRD

Mrs. LIEBERMAN. Madam President, I ask to have printed in the Record the... following poem written in the memory of the late Senator Robert C. Byrd by Albert Carey Caswell.

The poem follows:

FROM SO LITTLE
From so little . . .
Can come so much!
From so humble beginnings . . .
Can, come as such . . .
Greatness, that only a heart can bring . . .
As from life’s mistakes . . .
But, comes life’s lessons . . . time and time again such blessings!
For only in open hearts, will so ring!
In the kind, that dares great men to dream great dreams!
Who come from almost nothing!
To grow and involve, all into a many splendid thing!
As from such humble beginnings, as but comes such things!
From a coal miners father, and his dreams
A child, who would bless this our Nation all in his being!
A giant, who upon the Senate floor . . . his thundering voice would so ring!
Who fell in love, with one of our Forefathers greatest dreams!
The Great American Experiment, called Democracy to all things!
Democracy, and The United States Senate . . . all in this wing!
And, that from so little . What time and faith and courage, can so bring!
A man who so honored tradition, in all his fiber and all his being . . .
All in his great intuition, knowing that these were but time tested things . . .
But, so sacred as so essential . . . but to our Nation’s very being!
Like, a mother cub . . . Protecting her young!
With all of his heart and soul, he would not let this great body be undone!
And that some things you must not, and should not change!
Time Tested, that for this our Nation to thrive must so remain!
For he was a visionary, a scholar, and a student of the past, and legislation history to last!
And with his very heart and soul, he so protected our forefathers great dream of gold!
For he so wisely knew, that some things no greater can be!
Never mess with perfection you see!
So with each new and succeeding year, a champion for The Senate grew up so here!
As this was but, his second greatest love so clear!
His first, his beloved Erma, a marriage of seventy years . . .
As This Master of Senate, so soon appeared . . . the kind even Webster would revere!
And now, into the next world Robert you have gone, but ever your memory will live on!
As but a lesson to us all . . .
As from what so little, can grow so tall!
A Champion of The United States Senate, From Robert Byrd!
As now up in Heaven, your voice is heard!•

TRIBUTE TO WILLIAMS S. GREENBERG

• Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I would like to recognize Brigadier General (Retired) William S. Greenberg, one of my constituents, who was honored on October 14, 2010, with the Rutgers Law School Alumni Association Public Service Award. Bill Greenberg has a long association with Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey. He is a member of the Newark law class of 1967. In 1968, as president of the Student Bar Association, he gave a memorable law school building on behalf of the student body. He was join. In that ceremony by then-Chief Justice of the United States Earl Warren.

Following his graduation from Rutgers, he enlisted in the 5th Squadron of the 117th Cavalry of the 50th Armored Division, the Jersey Blues, and was selected as the outstanding enlisted cavalry trooper of the training cycle while at Fort Knox. Returning to New Jersey, he, served as law secretary to Judge Robert A. Matthews, a Rutgers Law School alumnus, then sitting as a judge of the New Jersey Superior Court, Chancery Division, in Hudson County, and later as presiding judge of the Superior Court, Appellate Division.

Bill Greenberg began a long and distinguished career as a lawyer, bar leader, and soldier, author, public servant, and benefactor with McCarter & English, New Jersey’s oldest and largest law firm, which the region’s most respected, where Bill is a senior partner today.

Throughout his career, his connection to Rutgers has remained strong, as exemplified by his support of the Justice Monroe Greenberg Scholarship Fund. He was chosen one of four commissioners of the New Jersey State Commission of Investigation by his Rutgers Law classmate, the late Alan J. Karcher, then-speaker of the New Jersey General Assembly. During a public-service leave from McCarter & English, he served as assistant counsel to Gov. Richard J. Hughes, himself a graduate of Rutgers Law School. He represented the Governor in an important case in front of the highest court in New Jersey prior to the New Jersey Supreme Court. This was the first of many important cases Bill Greenberg has argued. He has more than 100 published opinions on his credit. During his more than 40 years of private practice, he has founded his own law firm, served in many public positions, has been a noted litigator and bar association leader, as well as an author and benefactor of many educational and charitable institutions.

For his杰出, he served as a member of the New Jersey Supreme Court, the Superior Court, Appellate Division, the Jersey Blues, and was selected Lawyer of the Year by the New Jersey Law Journal, the leading law publication of record in our State. This year, he received the Major General Howard Louderback Award for lifetime service from the New Jersey Committee of the Department of Defense Committee for Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve.

I was pleased to recommend Bill Greenberg to the White House to be Chairman of the Reserve Forces Policy Board. He was selected by Secretary Gates for that important position in August 2009 and reappointed in August 2010. This board, created by Congress in 1952, is the principal policy adviser to the Secretary of Defense on Reserve component matters. I was pleased to make this recommendation because of General Greenberg’s background of 27 years of military service in the Reserve components as an enlisted cavalry trooper, a member of the Judge Advocate General’s Corps, and as a flag officer. More importantly, he established the Military Legal Assistance Program of the New Jersey State Bar Association for wounded or injured reservists called to duty after September 11, 2001. He personally and with members of his law firm, McCarter & English, has represented over 50 individual soldiers at Walter Reed in obtaining adequate
