following poem written in the memory of the late Senator Robert C. Byrd by Albert Carey Caswell.

The poem begins:

FROM SO LITTLE

From so little . . .
Can come so much!
From so few beginnings . . .
Can, come as such . . .
Greatness, that only a heart can bring . . .
As from life's mistakes . . .
But, comes life's lessons . . . time and time again such blessings!
For only in open hearts, will so ring!
In the kind, that dares great men to dream great dreams!
Who come from almost nothing!
To grow and involve, all into a many splendifd thing!
As from such humble beginnings, as but comes such things!
From a coal miners father, and his dreams

A child, who would bless this our Nation all in his being!
A giant, who upon the Senate floor . . . his thundering voice would so ring!
Who fell in love, the first, one of our Forefathers greatest dreams!
The Great American Experiment, called Democracy, and the United States Senate . . . all in this wing!
And, that from so little . What time and faith and courage, can so bring!
A man who so honored tradition, in all his fiber and all his being . . .
All in his great intuition, knowing that these were but time tested things . . .
But, so sacred and so essential . . . but to our Nation's very being!
Like, a mother cub . . . Protecting her young!
With all of his heart and soul, he would not let this great body be undone!
And that some things you must not, and should not change!

Time Test, that for this our Nation to thrive must so remain!
For he was a visionary, a scholar, and a student of the past, and legislation history to last!
And with his very heart and soul, he so protected our forefathers great dream of gold!
For he so wisely knew, that some things no greater can be!
Never mess with perfection you see!
So with each new and succeeding year, a champion for The Senate grew up so her!
As this was but, his second greatest love so clear!
His first, his beloved Erma, a marriage of seventy years . . .
As This Master of Senate, so soon appeared . . .
the kind even Webster would revere!
And now, into the next world Robert you have gone, but ever your memory will live on!
As but a lesson to us all . . .
As from what so little, can grow so tall!
A Champion of The United States Senate, from Robert Byrd's . . .
As now up in Heaven, your voice is heard!

TRIBUTE TO WILLIAMS S. GREENBERG

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I would like to recognize Brigadier General (Retired) William S. Greenberg, one of my constituents, who was honored on October 14, 2010, with the Rutgers Law School Alumni Association Public Service Award. Bill Greenberg has a long association with Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey. He is a member of the Newark law class of 1967. In 1968, as president of the Student Bar Association, he gave a memorable talk on the functions of a law school building on behalf of the student body. He was joined in that ceremony by then-Chief Justice of the United States Earl Warren.

Following his graduation from Rutgers, he enlisted in the 5th Squadron of the 117th Cavalry of the 50th Armored Division, the Jersey Blues, and was selected as the outstanding enlisted cavalry trooper of the training cycle while at Fort Knox. Returning to New Jersey, he served as law secretary to Judge Robert A. Matthews, a Rutgers Law School alumnus, then sitting as a judge of the New Jersey Superior Court, Chancery Division, in Hudson County, and later as presiding judge of the Superior Court, Appellate Division.

Bill Greenberg began a long and distinguished career as a lawyer, bar leader, and soldier, author, public servant, and benefactor with McCarter & English, New Jersey's oldest and largest law firm. He is the region's most respected, where Bill is a senior partner today.

Throughout his career, his connection to Rutgers has remained strong, as exemplified by his support of the Justice Morton Pashman Scholarship Fund. He was chosen one of four commissioners of the New Jersey State Commission of Investigation by his Rutgers Law classmate, the late Alan J. Karcher, then-speaker of the New Jersey General Assembly. During a public-service leave from McCarter & English, he served as assistant counsel to Gov. Richard J. Hughes, himself a graduate of Rutgers Law School. He represented the Governor in an important case involving senatorial courtesy before the New Jersey Supreme Court. This was the first of many important cases Bill Greenberg has argued. He has more than 100 published opinions to his credit. During his more than 40 years of private practice, he has founded his own law firm, served in many public positions, has been a noted litigator and bar association leader, as well as an author and benefactor of many educational and charitable institutions.

He served in the U.S. Army Reserve, as a flag officer in the 5th Squadron. He was a commissioner of the New Jersey State Scholarship Commission. He was appointed by the Supreme Court of New Jersey to the Mercer County Ethics Committee and the Civil Practice Committee. He also served as a member of the New Jersey Supreme Court Committee on the admission of foreign attorneys, a groundbreaking effort by the New Jersey Supreme Court to permit Cuban lawyers who had emigrated to New Jersey to be permitted to take the bar examination.

He was a trustee of both the New Jersey State Bar Association and the New Jersey State Bar Foundation. He served as chair of the Military Law Section of the New Jersey State Bar Association. In addition to holding many offices in the Association of Trial Lawyers of America, New Jersey—the New Jersey Association for Justice—where he served as its president. He is aCookies and similar technologies are necessary or used to make our website work, to improve your browsing experience and to show personalized content and ads. He is an author and frequent lecturer on many litigation matters, and for over 20 years he has been the author and editor of the Civil Trial Handbook, Volume 47 of the New Jersey Practice Series, now in its fifth edition.

Civic minded and charitable, Bill Greenberg serves as a vice president of the Thanks To Scandinavia Educational and Charitable Trust of New York, which gives educational scholarships to recognize the efforts made by the Scandinavian countries to save Jews during World War II. He is chairman of the Mary Sachs Charitable Trust in Harrisburg, PA, established by his great aunt, which has over the last 50 years distributed millions of dollars in scholarships and other aid to educational and charitable organizations in central Pennsylvania. He and his wife, the former Betty Kaufmann Wolf of Pittsburgh, have established the Dr. Peter Scardino Trust at the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center to aid needy cancer patients. In addition, he and his wife have established endowed scholarships at Johns Hopkins and Brown Universities for needy students and have contributed substantially to the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton.

He recently received the Distinguished Alumnus Award from Johns Hopkins and serves on its undergraduate advisory board. In December 2009, he was selected Lawyer of the Year by the New Jersey Law Journal, the leading law publication of record in our State. This year, he received the Major General Howard Louderback Award for lifetime service from the New Jersey Committee of the Department of Defense Committee for Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve.

I was pleased to recommend Bill Greenberg to the White House to be Chairman of the Reserve Forces Policy Board. He was selected by Secretary Gates for that important position in August 2009 and reappointed in August 2010. This board, created by Congress in 1952, is the principal policy adviser to the Secretary of Defense on Reserve component matters. I was pleased to make this recommendation because of General Greenberg's background of 27 years of military service in the Reserve components as an enlisted cavalry trooper, a member of the Judge Advocate General's Corps, and as a flag officer. More importantly, he established the Military Legal Assistance Program of the New Jersey State Bar Association for wounded or injured reservists called to duty after September 11, 2001. He personally and with members of his law firm, McCarter & English, has represented over 50 individual soldiers at Walter Reed in obtaining adequate services. military and veterans compensation. He is widely recognized as an expert in the field as well as a selfless advocate for individual soldiers and veterans in their legal struggles.

To those of us who are privileged to know Bill Greenberg personally, he brings classic definition to the word patriotism, and dedication to all that he undertakes. These qualities have been recognized by his colleagues in the legal profession and in the Pentagon, where he has served with distinction and honor for more than 40 years. He has a strong sense of duty to his fellow veterans and a commitment to filling a niche in their city or town. Today I recognize Agren Appliance, a company that started with the basics and has blossomed into a familiar name to residents of Lewiston-Auburn, ME, for over 40 years.

The Agren family began serving the community in 1939, when they opened two repair trucks to fix appliances for families and individuals throughout the greater Lewiston-Auburn area. Their only technology was a rotary telephone to receive calls from those requiring assistance. Over time, the family developed a reputation for its reliability, gaining regular customers and parlaying that recognition into future success.

As a result of its strong and growing standing, Agren opened its first brick-and-mortar store in Auburn in 1978, carrying the Whirlpool brand of products. Over time, the company further expanded its reach, opening branches in the coastal town of Brunswick in 1983, as well as south Paris, in western Maine, in 1986. Later, Agren Appliance opened stores in south Portland and midcoast Maine, covering a large swath of the state’s population. And on Monday, Agren Appliance moved from its former south Paris location to a newer, larger storefront—the former community in 1969, when they operated their repair business into a trusted name for appliance and furniture needs. I am always impressed by the ingenuity of small businesses like Agren, which has witnessed marked growth because of a strong work ethic and dedication to knowing and serving the community. I thank all of the company’s employees for their hard work, and wish them much success in the years to come.
