IN SUPPORT OF THE NATIONAL TRADEMARK EXPO

HON. JAMES P. MORAN

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 11, 2011

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to express my support of the United States Patent and Trademark Office's (USPTO) National Trademark Expo. In a time of ongoing challenges for the American and global economy, I want to join the USPTO in its efforts to recognize the vital role trademarks play in the economy.

Trademarks are words, names, symbols, sounds, or colors that identify and distinguish the goods and services of one party from those of others. American innovation and its associated intellectual property are very important to job creation and economic recovery. The USPTO facilitates the efficient approval of intellectual property rights to deliver goods and services to the global market. Through the registration of trademarks, the agency assists businesses in protecting their investments, promoting goods and services, and safeguarding consumers against confusion and deception in the marketplace.

The USPTO disseminates trademark information at the Expo to educate the public about the important role trademarks play in our society and the global marketplace. The National Trademark Expos have been very successful events attended by the trademark community and the public at large. This year's 2-day event will be held on Friday, October 14th, from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., and Saturday, October 15th, from 10:00 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the USPTO headquarters in Alexandria, Virginia.

During the Trademark Expo, Chubby Checker will twist with the audience and costumed trademarked characters to music played by Max Impact, the rock band of the United States Air Force. A new cast of characters featuring registered trademarks including Barbie, The Pink Panther, The Very Hungry Caterpillar, Hamburger Helper, Rita's Ice Guy, and Fruit of the Loom "fruit suits" will join veteran Expo characters GEICO's Gecko, Crayola crayons' mascot "Tip," Pillsbury's Doughboy, Curious George, Clifford the Big Red Dog, Popeye, Olive Oyl, the 5-Hour Energy Bottle, Spuddy Buddy, Reese's Peanut Butter Cups, and Hershey's Milk Chocolate Bar. Large inflatable characters, including a Pinocchio Giant Inflatable, a Bridgestone Tire, GEICO's Gecko, Collegiate mascots and NFL Football player inflatables of the Washington Redskins and Baltimore Ravens will once again transform the USPTO's campus into a "Trademark Theme Park". A NASCAR show car for 5-Hour Energy, a UPS truck, and Caterpillar machines will also decorate the grounds. A story time featuring literary trademarked characters sponsored by Hooray for Books!, a local children's bookstore, will help tell the story of the prevalence of trademarks in our daily lives and their value as source indicators.

Some of America's leading large corporations, small businesses, governmental agencies, and non-profit corporations will highlight the various types of trademarks, the breadth of trademarks used by one source, interesting stories about trademarks and their creation, and the benefits of federal trademark registration. The exhibitors include 5-Hour Energy; 1000 Cranes, LLC; American Girl, LLC; American Intellectual Property Law Association (AIPLA); Bigsby Division and the Gretsch Company; Bridgestone Americas, Inc.; Caterpillar Inc; City of Falls Church; CMG Worldwide, Inc.; Cotton Incorporated; Elevation Burger; GED Testing Service; GEICO; Idaho Potato Commission; International Trademark Association (INTA); Mattel, Inc.; Rita's Italian Ice; The Girl Scout Council of the Nation's Capital; The Hershey Company; The Pepsom Group; Travelers; UPS; U.S. Air Force; U.S. Department of Commerce, International Trade Administration; U.S. Department of Homeland Security, Immigration and Customs Enforcement, National IPR Coordination Center; U.S. Department of Homeland Security, Customs and Border Protection; U.S. Department of Interior, Indian Arts and Crafts Board (IACB); and U.S. Department of the Army.

The Expo will also feature educational seminars, children's workshops, story time and guided tours. Educational seminars will include presentations on "What Every Small Business Should Know About Intellectual Property," "Counterfeiting & Piracy—Why Buy 'Legit'?", "Common Mistakes to Avoid When Filing for Trademark Registration," "Know What You're Buying: American Indian Art and Imitations," and "Trademarks 101" which covers basic facts about trademarks and trademark law. A video made to instruct pro se applicants will play in the National Inventors Hall of Fame Museum throughout the Expo. Also, the Museum's current exhibit titled "Exercising Ingenuity: Inventions in Health and Fitness" highlights trademarks related to fitness and health.

The National Trademark Expo will also display different types of trademarks including non-traditional trademarks such as sound marks, which are marks comprised of a sound or series of sounds, highlighted in an exciting interactive exhibit, and trademarks that identify shapes and configurations of products highlighted in an elaborate display of trademarked bottle shapes and a variety of other goods. Banners will feature century-old registered trademarks, the evolution and transformation of trademarks, the history of people behind certain trademarks, and other information about trademarks.

I applaud the USPTO for its continued efforts to educate the public on the important role of trademarks and the benefits of federal registration through the National Trademark Expo. I urge my colleagues to join me in recognizing the USPTO, at this time when trademark protection and intellectual property rights play an increasingly important role in our global economy. And, I encourage the public and my fellow Members of Congress and staff to bring their family and friends to this family friendly and free event.

RECOGNIZING THE EFFORTS OF THE LAKESHORE AREAS RE-GIONAL RECOVERY OF INDIANA

HON. PETER J. VISCLOSKY

OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 11, 2011

Mr. VISCLOSKY. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I stand before you today to recognize the efforts of the Lakeshore Areas Regional Recovery of Indiana, or LARRI for short, and to recognize its esteemed partners for their dedication as this organization reaches the end of its third, and final, year of operation. Although LARRI has served the Region admirably since the widespread flooding of Northwest Indiana in September of 2008, its work has come to an end, and the organization ceased operations on September 30, 2011.

LARRI was formed by a coalition of dedicated non-profit organizations in response to the heavy flooding of Northwest Indiana in September of 2008. As the Little Calumet overflowed its banks, LARRI went into immediate action for its neighbors in need, and by the time it closed its doors, LARRI had coordinated more than 6,000 volunteers in removing 15,920 pounds of debris, building 5 homes, restoring another 600 more, and relocating 26 displaced families to new homes throughout the area. In short, LARRI has helped to get a struggling region back on its feet with nothing more than volunteer time and donations. They are true examples of a civic spirit to which we can all aspire. Notable contributors to LARRI's philanthropic mission include: the Lake Area United Way, United Way of Porter County, Ridge United Methodist Church, Northwest Indiana Community Action Corporation, American Red Cross of Northwest Indiana, the Salvation Army, Dyer United Methodist Church, Gary Neighborhood, the Geminus Corporation, Continuum of Care Northwest Indiana, Lutheran Church Charities, Catholic Charities, McShane's Business Products and Solutions, and the Gary 411 newspaper, as well as individuals John Beebe and Ted Prettyman.

Mr. Speaker, Northwest Indiana is fortunate to have such an impressive array of willing humanitarians, and I ask that you and my other distinguished colleagues join me in recognizing this outstanding organization on its campaign. Although LARRI's efforts lasted a mere three years, this should only add to the profound impact the organization had on Northwest Indiana. I ask that you join me in honoring its individual members who freely gave so much of their time in service to their community.

CEMENT SECTOR REGULATORY RELIEF ACT OF 2011

SPEECH OF

HON. BETTY McCOLLUM

OF MINNESOTA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 5, 2011

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 2681) to provide additional time for the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency to issue achievable standards for cement manufacturing facilities, and for other purposes:

Ms. McCOLLUM. Mr. Chair, I want to clearly state my opposition to H.R. 2681, the so-called Cement Sector Regulatory Relief Act. This legislation is a special interest giveaway that will fail to create jobs and will expose American families to unnecessary and unacceptable health risks.

Last month, President Obama proposed the American Jobs Act to address the Nation's unemployment crisis. Economist Mark Zandi of Moody Analytics—a former McCain Presidential advisor—said the American Jobs Act would add 1.9 million jobs. Dozens of other independent economists agree this legislation would create jobs, boost economic growth and protect the country from slipping back into recession. Despite the urgent need to create jobs and grow the economy, the House Republican majority is refusing to bring the American Jobs Act to the floor for a vote.

Instead of passing the American Jobs Act, the majority is advancing a series of ideological bills that will cripple clean air and clean water protections. H.R. 2681 is the latest of these Republican assaults on public health. H.R. 2681 would delay the implementation of science-based rules to significantly reduce toxic emissions from cement plants. The 1990 Clean Air Act required the cement industry to reduce mercury and other pollutants. Today, cement plants are the third largest source of mercury pollution in the United States. Thousands of families living in the shadow of these plants are now suffering from increased rates of neurological disorders, birth defects, learning disabilities, cancer and cardiovascular problems. Developing fetuses, infants and pregnant women are particularly vulnerable to the deadly effects of mercury.

After 11 years of consultation with the cement industry and other stakeholders, the Environmental Protection Agency has finalized a proposal to close this dangerous loophole. For every $1 spent on complying with the EPA's proposed rules, the U.S. economy is projected to reap $7–19 dollars in benefits from lower health care costs and higher productivity. This incredible return on investment shows that smart regulation can produce cleaner air, better health and a stronger economy.

Instead of offering a competing economic analysis, House Republicans are using anecdotal evidence to argue these new rules will harm employment in the cement industry. Contrary to what supporters of H.R. 2681 argue, employment in the cement industry has decreased due to efficiency gains in production and consolidation in the sector, not federal regulation. Even Republican economists are pushing back on the argument that federal regulation has a significant impact on job creation and retention. Bruce Bartlett, former economic advisor to President Reagan, is refuting these claims with data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics showing that businesses do not cite regulation as a leading cause of layoffs. According to this data, regulations were responsible for a minuscule 0.2 percent of layoffs in 2010. Despite the evidence, Republicans continue to cling to their anti-regulatory red herrings.

While H.R. 2681 may provide good partisan talking points for cable television and talk-radio, this legislation threatens real harm to families in Minnesota, and across the country. According to EPA's analysis, delaying the clean-up of toxic pollution from the cement industry for four years as called for in H.R. 2681 would result in devastating health effects, including up to: 10,000 premature deaths; 68,000 asthma attacks; 6,000 non-fatal heart attacks; and 520,000 days when people miss work because of illness.

For over forty years, the country has made tremendous bipartisan progress in cleaning up our environment while maintaining robust economic growth. We need to return to this tradition and refocus our attention on legislation that will actually address America's pressing jobs crisis. I urge my colleagues to reject this legislation, end the political games, and stand up for the health of American families.

RECOGNIZING THE IMPORTANCE OF BREAST CANCER AWARENESS

HON. ANDRÉ CARSON

OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 11, 2011

Mr. CARSON of Indiana. Mr. Speaker, providing everyone with access to affordable health care continues to be an important issue in this Congress, and it is even more critical to the individuals seeking preventive care and treatment. This October, I would like to ask you, our colleagues and our communities to join me in recognizing the impact breast cancer has had on families across the nation.

Breast cancer is one of the leading cancers among women and tens of thousands die each year in this country as a result of this devastating illness. With proper education, screening and treatment, those deaths can be prevented. As we work to encourage research to find a cure, we must remember to be proactive by supporting breast cancer awareness that can save the lives of our mothers, sisters, wives and daughters.
