The Senate met at 12 noon and was called to order by the President pro tempore (Mr. HATCH).

PRAYER
The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Gracious God, Ruler of all nature, Your strong right hand continues to sustain us.

Lord, remind our lawmakers of their accountability to You. Provide them with such a passion to please You that they will maintain a conscience void of offense toward You and humanity. In the flurry of legislative activities, may they not forget those on life's margins.

Lord, guide our Senators to perform those actions that bring the greatest glory to Your Name. Remind them of that Golden Rule, which states: What you don't want done to you don't do to someone else. May integrity and honesty protect them as they put their hope in You.

We pray in Your great Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE
The President pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME
The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Moran). Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Morning business is closed.

The Senate has continued to address ObamaCare's failures in the 7 years since they passed it. It is increasingly clear that ObamaCare is a direct assault on the middle class. It is getting worse, and we have to act to finally move beyond its failures.

Sitting on the sidelines and accepting the status quo will not bring help to anyone's constituents. We have the opportunity to provide relief to those struggling families, and we should take it. Senators will have more opportunities to offer their thoughts as we work toward an agreement, and every Member will have the ability to engage in a robust debate out here on the Senate floor.

But, if one thing is clear, it is this: ObamaCare is a direct assault on the middle class. It is getting worse, and we have to act to finally move beyond its failures.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk read the nomination of Neomi Rao, of the District of Columbia, to be Administrative of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will proceed to executive session to resume consideration of the Rao nomination, which the clerk will report.

The senior assistant legislative clerk read the nomination of Neomi Rao, of the District of Columbia, to be Administrative of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER
Mr. McConnel, Mr. President, yesterday, Senate Republicans gathered down at the White House for another discussion on the way forward on healthcare. We had a productive conversation. I appreciate the administration's engagement, and I look forward to more discussions in the days that lie ahead.

We will continue working so that we can bring legislation to the floor for debate and, ultimately, a vote. We know that we cannot afford to delay on this issue. We have to get this done for the American people. That is a sentiment that is widely shared in our conference, and I think I speak for everyone in acknowledging, once again, that the ObamaCare status quo is unacceptable and that it simply cannot continue.

ObamaCare has caused premiums to increase by an average of 105 percent in the vast majority of States on the Federal exchange. Next year, premiums will again increase across the country—by as much as 43 percent in Iowa, 59 percent in Maryland, and 80 percent in New Mexico.

ObamaCare has led to 70 percent of our counties having little or no choice of insurance on the exchange this year. Next year, dozens of counties are projected to have no choice at all, which could leave thousands trapped, forced by law to purchase ObamaCare insurance but left without the means to do so. Seven years after Democrats forced ObamaCare on our country, these are the painful realities for countless families across our country.

It is unfortunate that our Democratic colleagues have refused to work with us in a serious way to comprehensively address ObamaCare's failures in the 7 years since they passed it. I regret that they continue to demonstrate an unserious attitude about all of this today, but it is increasingly clear that ObamaCare's negative trends will only get worse, hurting even more Americans all along the way, unless we act. This should not be acceptable to anyone.

Sitting on the sidelines and accepting the status quo will not bring help to anyone's constituents. We have the opportunity to provide relief to those struggling families, and we should take it. Senators will have more opportunities to offer their thoughts as we work toward an agreement, and every Member will have the ability to engage in a robust debate out here on the Senate floor.

But, if one thing is clear, it is this: ObamaCare is a direct assault on the middle class. It is getting worse, and we have to act to finally move beyond its failures.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. Durbin. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. Durbin. Mr. President, the Senate will be going home this week for the Fourth of July recess, and most of us will be back in our homes with our families and in our hometowns and moving around. I still think the topic of conversation is going to be healthcare.

I think this conversation and debate in Washington has really touched a lot of families and businesses and individuals across America. For the first time, people say that is because about 6 years ago, I voted for the Affordable Care Act, what is known as ObamaCare. For the longest time, I was sure it was the right vote, and I am still sure today, but I appreciate because we tried to provide health insurance for a lot of people in America who didn’t have it.

In my State of Illinois, we cut the percentage of uninsured people in half because of the Affordable Care Act. A large number of them are now covered by Medicaid, and a large number are able to buy health insurance through private insurance exchanges.

But for the longest time, when we asked people in America “What about ObamaCare? What about the Affordable Care Act?” we got mixed reviews. Less than a majority supported it.

Then we embarked on this conversation, this debate in Washington in the Senate over the last 6 months, and an interesting thing happened. When the Republicans, who are in the majority in the Senate and the House, who were determined to repeal ObamaCare, set out to do that, they found out it was a big, heavy lift.

So now, today, we have an interesting thing that has happened. For the first time in the last several weeks, a majority of the American people support the Affordable Care Act. All of those years after we passed it, when we were talking about the good things it did, people were skeptical, but when the notion of repealing it came up, people started saying: Well, what would I lose? What about my son? What about my daughter? And when the notion of repealing it came up, people started saying: Well, what would I lose? What about my son? What about my daughter?

Then they added a provision that the Affordable Care Act so that now, when you buy health insurance policies you buy so that you don’t get tricked into buying something that is going to provide protection but only enough and not enough when you really need it.

Well, it is an eye-opener, but there are many diagnoses or accidents that could happen to you next week that would cost more than $100,000. So a lot of people found themselves facing personal bankruptcy because they had a limit on their health insurance policy and faced a cancer diagnosis and knew they would have to spend $150,000 or $200,000 for the most basic care.

Well, it turned out that insurance companies defined “preexisting condition” to include everything, such as acne when you were a teenager or asthma when you went so far as to say that being a woman was a preexisting condition. Some of those things made no sense, so we said: That is over. We are not going to let that happen anymore. One out of three Americans has a preexisting condition. You can’t discriminate against a person because they are of a family with a child who has survived diabetes or is living with diabetes or a spouse who survived cancer surgery. So we said that from now on, when you buy a health insurance policy, it is going to cover the basics.

We also said: When you sell health insurance, you can’t discriminate against people because of a preexisting condition.

We did something else that I want to mention because I don’t want it over-looked. And when the legislation was sent back here in the last row, in the second seat, named Paul Wellstone of Minnesota. Paul Wellstone was a great guy. You couldn’t help but love him whatever your politics. Over here was Pete Domenici, and he was a conservative Republican Senator from New Mexico. Wellstone from Minnesota, Domenici from New Mexico—what would those two have in common? What they had in common was that they both had family members in their family with a mental illness, and they watched what happened to their loved one in their family. The two teamed up and said: From this point forward, when you buy health insurance in America, it is not going to be just physical health that it is going to cover, it is going to cover mental health as well.

So many families are touched by mental illness, some very serious, and some so serious they need but not need medical help, and they all should be covered. So they put that provision in the Affordable Care Act so that now, when you buy a health insurance policy in America, it is not hit or miss; it covers mental illness, as it should.

Then they added a provision that most of us didn’t pay attention to, and we should, and we do now: mental illness and substance abuse treatment. For example, there used to be lifetime limits. People would buy health insurance and say: I am going to keep a lifetime limit. How could I ever need health insurance for more than $100,000 a year?

Well, it is an eye-opener, but there are many diagnoses or accidents that could happen to you next week that would cost more than $100,000. So a lot of people found themselves facing personal bankruptcy because they had a limit on their health insurance policy and faced a cancer diagnosis and knew they would have to spend $150,000 or $200,000 for the most basic care.

and the Health and Education Committee, which is chaired by Senator Lamar Alexander, a friend of mine, Republican of Tennessee, and the ranking member, Senator Patty Murray of Washington. We had a chance to take the bill to the committee and to debate a bill that is going to be very important to have public hearings and witnesses. But we didn’t do that.

Instead, the Republican majority said: We are going to do this on our own. We don’t need any Democratic input. The Republican Senators will meet in a room and write the alternative to the House healthcare replacement bill, and they did. It went on for weeks, and no one saw it. There were no reports of what it included and what was inside of it. Then, 6 days ago—6 days ago—it was announced. We took a look at it, and it wasn’t that much different from what the House had done.

The Congressional Budget Office released it on Monday of this week and said that 22 million Americans would lose their health insurance under the Republican healthcare plan—22 million. And—this part was really troubling—there would be a dramatic increase in costs for people between the ages of 50 and 64. Some of them would see increases of up to $8,400 a year in premium costs because of the Senate Republican plan.

What was the reaction of the medical profession in my State, the Illinois Medical Society, the State Medical Society, the Illinois State Hospital Association? They came forward and said: The doctors in my State, the Illinois State Hospital Association said that if we cut back on Medicaid, hospitals in my State, the Illinois State Hospital Association will have to cut back in services and may face closure.

The doctors in my State, the Illinois State Medical Society, came forward and said: Vote against the Senate Republican plan and the House Republican plan? It was the same reaction. They said: Senator, vote against it.

The doctors in my State, the Illinois State Medical Society, came forward and said: Vote against the Senate Republican plan and the House Republican plan because we know what happens when people lose health insurance. They still get sick. They don’t come to see us early on when we can prevent things from getting worse; they come to see us when things are pretty bad and pretty expensive and pretty dangerous.

So the doctors opposed it, the nurses opposed it, the pediatricians opposed it. Not one single medical advocacy group in my State supported the Republican bill, which was unveiled 6 days ago.

When it came to preexisting conditions, it wasn’t just the medical groups that opposed the Senate bill. The cancer society, the heart association, the lung association—most of the major disease groups stepped up and said: The preexisting condition provisions in this bill are unacceptable, and, sadly, the policies that are going to be sold may not cover the basics that people absolutely need.

Then the other thing came out. What drove this whole debate, what started healthcare reform in the House of Representatives and in the Senate was not healthcare reform, but a tax cut. You see, the Affordable Care Act imposed new taxes, particularly on higher income individuals, and the money from those taxes went into sponsoring people who didn’t have health insurance or who couldn’t buy their health insurance premiums. The Republicans in both the House and the Senate said: The first thing we will do is cut those taxes—about $700 billion worth of taxes. Ultimately, they took all the health insurance money from the system with this tax cut and other cuts. When you pull that kind of money out of healthcare in America, fewer people have health insurance, fewer people have a helping hand when it comes to paying their premiums.

The reaction to the Senate Republican bill over the last 6 days has been growing opposition—growing opposition, until yesterday. Senator McConnell announced: We are not going to vote on it this week. We were supposed to vote on it this week. He said that he may return to it when we come back from the July 4th recess.

Here is the point I wanted to make on the subject as well. I am glad we have reached the point that these proposals from the House and the Senate are not going to move forward quickly to become the law of the land. Too many people would be hurt—too many innocents—too many people this week would lose their health insurance. The cost of health insurance would go up dramatically. The premiums would go up, particularly for people over the age of 50. We would see hospitals facing closure across our States. We would see out-of-pocket treatment for mental illness and substance abuse. The list goes on and on. It would have been a terrible outcome, and certainly doing this in order to give a tax cut to the wealthy people of this country makes no sense.

Incidentally, how much is the tax cut? If your annual income is $1 million a year, under the Republican plan, your tax cut is over $50,000 a year. The people who are wealthy aren’t asking me for that tax cut, and the people who will suffer because of it are folks who aren’t making anywhere near $1 million a year.

Here is what we need to acknowledge: The current healthcare system in America needs to be improved. There are things that the Affordable Care Act need to be addressed, and we need to do it in an honorable fashion, and we need to do it on a bipartisan basis.

I have talked to some Republican Senators. Senator McConnell has pulled this bill back, and they want to sit down and talk.

Senator McConnell said that there will be no conversations with Democrats; Republicans will do it by themselves. I hope over the Fourth of July holiday the bipartisan Senate will, the Democratic Senate who, in good faith, want to sit down and make a better healthcare system for America so that more people have the peace of mind and security of health insurance and so that it is more affordable for families all across the board.

The biggest, toughest part of healthcare today is the so-called individual health insurance market; 5 or 6 million individuals don’t have health insurance plans don’t have it where they work, and they don’t qualify for Medicaid. Those are the ones who are seeing their premiums spike. Can’t we take the collective wisdom of Democrats and Republicans and sit down and add the problem effectively? Of course we can, but we need to have a starting point.

So my plea to the Republican leadership is to listen carefully, as our Democratic leader, Chuck Schumer, said yesterday. Once you take repeal off the table, once you take this massive tax cut for the wealthy off the table, we are ready to pull up a chair and sit down at the table.

It is going to be a breath of fresh air in America in this day and age, in light of all that is going on, if Democrats and Republicans worked constructively together to make the healthcare system better, more affordable, and stronger for families and businesses across our Nation? I think that is why we were sent here. I think that is the reason we are supposed to be here, and I sincerely hope that happens next.

So we are ending the debate in the Senate this week, but we are not ending the debate in America. I urge those who think this is an important issue, and I am one of them, to speak up and to go home—I am going home soon—and to meet with people and have a conversation about where we go next as a nation. We can solve this problem, and I know we can do it in a constructive way.

If we show that kind of bipartisan leadership in the Senate, I think the House will join us and we will do the same thing. I think then we can have a bipartisan approach too. What a relief it would be, with all of the breakdown in comity, all of the breakdown in communications politically, the warring camps that have become the American political scene. If we can show why there is a Senate and why there is a House and why people run for these offices—it is to solve problems, not to put out a press release, not to stake out a political position, but to solve a problem. This is a problem that needs solving.

I hope that over the next week, both parties will reflect on it, and when we return after the Fourth of July recess, we can roll up our sleeves and go to work.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

RECOGNITION OF THE MINORITY LEADER

The Democratic leader is recognized.

HEALTHCARE LEGISLATION

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, yesterday afternoon, my friend the Republican chairman said that the majority would delay the vote on the motion to proceed to this particular Senate Republican healthcare bill. We Democrats take no solace in that fact. Unfortunately, the majority seems intent on continuing their efforts to pass this healthcare bill.

Over the next few days and weeks, I expect to see buyouts and bailouts, backtrack deals and kickbacks to individual Senators to try and buy their vote. What I don’t expect to see yet is a dramatic rethink of the core of the Republican healthcare bill, but I am hopeful we can get to that point.

So far, every single version of the Republican TrumpCare bill in the House and the same bills that are the same basic core to it. The details have changed a bit around the edges, but the core remains the same in each and every version: slash Medicaid to the bone in order to give a massive tax break to a very small wealthy America, cut support for Americans in nursing homes, those suffering from opioid addiction, and those with a preexisting condition to pay for a tax break for the wealthiest few.

The premise of every Republican healthcare bill so far is to cut back on healthcare for Americans who need it most in order to give a tax break to the people who need it the least. There is just no moral calculus to justify it. It doesn’t fix any of the problems in our current healthcare system like high premiums, high deductibles, counties where there are not enough insurance options, and it is not what the American people are for. The American people are not for tax breaks for the wealthiest of Americans, nor are they for cutting Medicaid.

A USA TODAY poll this morning showed only 12 percent of Americans support this bill. At a level of 12 percent, even huge numbers of Trump supporters are opposed to this bill. The level of popular support is not going to change one bit with a tweak that wins over this Senator or that. A bill with this twisted idea at its core will fail time and time again. That is why the vote has to be held yesterday. You can be sure, if it were popular with the American people, it wouldn’t have had to be pulled.

I make my friends on the Republican side and President Trump an offer. Let’s start over. Let’s abandon more tax breaks for the rich. Let’s abandon cuts to Medicaid, and discuss what the American people are really concerned about: premiums, deductibles, the cost and quality of healthcare. President Obama invited both parties, Democrats and Republicans, to Blair House to discuss healthcare reform in front of the American people early in his first term as President. President Trump, I challenge you to invite us—all 100 of us, Republicans and Democrats—to Blair House to discuss a new bipartisan way forward on healthcare in front of all the American people.

Mr. President, have talked about in your campaign: lower costs, better healthcare, covering everybody—not on tax cuts for the rich, not on slashing Medicaid. President Trump, you said you would cut Medicaid. We don’t want to either.

We Democrats are genuinely interested in finding a place where our two parties can come together on healthcare. We want to bring down premiums. We want to bring down deductibles too. We want to stabilize the marketplace. We want to control the outrageous costs of prescription drugs—another thing the President talked about in his campaign. There is no more common ground for us to come together around. We believe our healthcare system has made important progress over the past 8 years, but it still needs to be improved in many ways. We admit the Affordable Care Act isn’t perfect. There are areas in which we can improve on that law and on our entire healthcare system. So let’s talk together about how we can achieve that in a bipartisan way.

If my Republican friends abandon cuts to Medicaid, highly unpopular with the American people; abandon tax breaks for the wealthiest few, highly unpopular with the American people, we Democrats are more than willing to meet with them and the White House to talk about how to improve healthcare for the American people, how to lower deductibles, how to provide better healthcare for more people at a lower cost because that is what we Democrats are fighting for: the average American family, not the wealthiest few.

Today, we can turn over a new leaf and discuss healthcare legislation the way our Founders intended our government to discuss legislation: as a true debate between all of our country’s representatives.

Yesterday, the majority leader reminded Republican Senators that if they failed on their partisan healthcare bill, they would have to negotiate with me, the minority leader, and by implication with our colleagues. When did the prospect of bipartisanship become a cudgel instead of an opportunity? When did bipartisanship become a threat? That is not how Congress is supposed to work. Negotiations with the minority to seek a compromise should be the first option, not the last resort.

Let’s start over and get back to legis-lating in a way deserving of the grand tradition of the Senate as the world’s greatest deliberative body. Providing affordable and quality healthcare is an issue we should grapple with, all of us together. It is one of the most important things we can do for our country.

We can do it but only if we do it together and put the partisan ideology aside.

So I challenge the President, invite us all to Blair House. Let’s see what we can come up with. Let’s try. We Democrats have, on several occasions, sent the President our language asking for bipartisan talks on healthcare. So far we have been rebuffed. Now, with the demise of this bill yesterday—its inability to get enough votes to proceed—we have another opportunity to go back to the drawing board.

We are willing to debate and compromise on healthcare, but we have to be included, and it has to be a discussion on how to actually improve our healthcare system for the American people, not slash Medicaid to pay for tax cuts for the wealthy. We can meet, and we can try or the Republicans can stick to the same partisan approach on healthcare, which so hurts working families and so harms people. President Trump, my Republican friends, the choice is yours.

Thank you.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Tillis). Mr. President, the Senator from Indiana.

Mr. DONNELLY. Mr. President, for all of the discussion about delays, politics, the process, vote counts, budget scores and analysis, it is critical we remember that this healthcare debate is not about the President, it is about our friends and neighbors, our families. It is about moms and dads, sons and daughters, sisters and brothers, grandmas and grandpas.

We all agree every person needs access to quality, affordable healthcare. Regardless of how healthy you are today, everyone needs the peace of mind that if they get sick, they will be able to get the care they need. We all know someone who has fought cancer, diabetes, multiple sclerosis, another thing the President, have talked about in your campaign. It is about moms and dads, sons and daughters, fighting our loved ones, our friends and neighbors, our families.

In our shared experiences and relationships are shared values. Each of us wants our loved ones to be healthy and to live long, full, happy lives. We want what is in the best interests of our families, our friends, and our neighbors.

I have seen these values firsthand through the stories of Hoosiers who recently wrote to me out of desperate times. My wife didn’t make this choice. Like everyone else who suffers from multiple sclerosis, an autoimmune disease that attacks the nerves in her brain and spinal cord. As Conor wrote me, ‘Like everyone else who suffers from MS, my wife didn’t make this choice.'
She did not choose this disease... sometimes people get sick or are diagnosed with chronic conditions through no fault of their own.

If untreated, she would become severely disabled, and her condition would likely be terminal. The best possible outcome for Sarah is controlling the disease and limiting the spread of the symptoms because there currently is not any cure.

Conor and Sarah worry that under the Senate healthcare proposal, they would be subject to annual and lifetime caps, making Sarah's treatment unaffordable. Through the Senate healthcare bill, States could seek waivers that would allow them to get rid of essential health benefits and implement annual and lifetime caps, even for health insurance plans that people receive through their work, just like Sarah does. For Conor and Sarah and others who suffer from conditions like MS, the reforms that prohibit limits on coverage allow them to have the peace of mind that they can live full lives, despite their disease and their diagnosis.

It is stories like Sarah's and Conor's that remind us why this is such an important debate. It is inherently personal. It is about the health, the well-being, and it is even about the life and death of our loved ones. It is about not going to the ER just to visit a doctor. It is about financial security. It is about financial security so our families aren't one illness or one sickness away from bankruptcy.

Take, for example, Beth and Brad from Plainfield, IN. They are the proud parents of Kyle. Kyle has special needs, and he relies on Medicaid, not only for his healthcare but literally to help keep the family together. Beth recently wrote to me:

Kyle is on a home and community-based Medicaid waiver, which is not mandated. If Medicaid is cut, Kyle and others like him are in real danger of losing coverage for home nursing and nutrition among many other things. Without home nursing, Brad or I will also have to quit working. And without enough, for it ourselves, we will be placed in the horrific situation of either not being able to give our child what he needs at home, or institutionalizing our precious boy. We want to care for our son at home. We want to work and pay for his primary insurance that reduces the amount of Medicaid money needed. We want the independence and responsibility that the minimal supports through Medicaid allows.

And Lori from Kokomo, IN, wrote to me about her 3-year-old daughter Savannah:

She has a long list of medical issues. She has had 2 open-heart surgeries, 8 heart catheterizations, 1 pacemaker placement, and countless other procedures. Her medical bills, at 3 years old, are in the millions, and she still will need more cardiac surgery in the future. Her annual care—just her medications with specialist therapies, etc.—are more than our annual income, despite my husband working 3 jobs. The Senate GOP bill puts her life in grave danger.

Lifetime limits and waiving of Essential Health Benefits means she will lose her private insurance. Allowing alteration or waiver of Essential Health Benefits will be catastrophic for Savannah and others with pre-existing or chronic conditions. I will be forced to loco and say "Sorry honey, Mommy and Daddy don't have enough money for your surgery."

As a dad, the health and well-being of my family is on my mind every day, and I know that every mom and dad across our country feel the same way.

My faith teaches me that we are all God's children, and every man, woman, and child should have a shot at being able to live up to their God-given potential. We will move Heaven and Earth to take care of our kids. These values are shared across Indiana and across our entire beloved country.

My faith also teaches me that we all deserve to live with dignity.

Claudia from Muncie wrote to me:

I am a 55-year-old, medically-retired flight paramedic and RN. My career was cut short when I was diagnosed with ALS—Lou Gehrig's Disease—in 2005. Without Medicaid and the waiver I would be institutionalized. Because of the Medicaid covers, I am still able to be a mother.

For two decades, I was the person who came to the hospital when you didn't. Please, don't fail me or my family now.

This bill would fail Claudia and millions of others. It would force Claudia's family and families across the country to pay more, not less, or to even put critical healthcare out of reach. You don't have to take my word for it, though.

The American Heart Association calls this bill "heartless." The Catholic Health Association says the bill is "devastating." The American Academy of Pediatrics says it "fails children."

The American Cancer Society says the bill could "greatly harm millions of cancer patients, survivors, and those at risk for the disease." AARP, the American Medical Association, the American Hospital Association, and Catholic Charities openly oppose the waiver that would cut billions from Medicaid.

Here in the Senate, we have been hired by the people we represent to continue the proud American tradition of leaving our children a country that is even better than when it was given to us. We owe it to the people we serve to ensure they have healthcare that is affordable and accessible.

Ohio's Governor, John Kasich, recently said, when he talked about the challenges with our healthcare system, that "this will never ever be solved with a one-party approach. He is right.

In order to strengthen our healthcare system, we would be a lot better served by working together with a bipartisan effort and with input from those who provide healthcare every single day—the doctors, the nurses, the hospitals in urban communities and in rural communities all across our country.

Most importantly, we need to remember the patients and the caregivers who rely on our healthcare system. We can't do justice to this. The public's of Housier common sense would be a huge part of it.

I yield the floor.
that the Senate healthcare bill that we saw this week does not hit the mark. I urge my colleagues to use the coming days to really think about what this bill will mean for the families in their State.

I feel fortunate that Michiganders have been willing to share their heart-felt stories with me in recent years. They are fearful that repealing the Affordable Care Act will not only put them in further jeopardy, but also their friends, family, and neighbors. I have heard from Amy from Metro Detroit. She is 53 years old and has type 1 diabetes, also known as juvenile diabetes. Amy is a self-employed small business owner. Before the Affordable Care Act, insurance companies viewed her diabetes diagnosis as a preexisting condition and were able to charge her more because of it. After the Affordable Care Act was implemented, Amy was able to shop around and find a much more affordable plan with the same level of benefits that she had before. While Amy does not qualify for subsidies to help purchase insurance, she was still able to cut her healthcare costs in half because of the Affordable Care Act. Amy fears—and rightfully so—that if the Republican healthcare bill passes, her costs may skyrocket, jeopardizing her business and everything she has worked her entire life for.

I have heard from Tammy, who lives in Marne, MI. Tammy’s daughter Erin is 10 years old. Erin was diagnosed with cystic fibrosis at 18 months. She takes 23 pills a day and goes to therapy treatments each and every day. She is a fighter, and her whole family has pulled together to support her, but they are also very worried about her future. Erin’s family has private insurance, but they supplement the high cost of her care through Medicaid. Tammy is afraid that the $800 billion cut to Medicaid will jeopardize their ability to afford Erin’s care and would cast an absolutely devastating blow to their family.

Finally, take Stefanie from Livonia, MI. Stefanie worked her entire life in the customer service industry, primarily in retail and in restaurants. She was never offered health insurance by her previous employers, and, until the Affordable Care Act, she never had health insurance as an adult. Then, in December 2015, Stephanie’s third floor apartment caught fire, and she was left to make a life or death decision: whether to jump from her third floor apartment or die inside the burning building. Well, Stefanie jumped from the window to save her life, and she sustained serious injuries, including a broken spine. Before the Affordable Care Act, she was able to receive treatment for her injuries, which included a month’s stay in the hospital, multiple surgeries, and absolutely excruciating physical therapy. She was finally able to heal in the end. Stefanie’s treatment came in close to $700,000, an amount that would surely bankrupt nearly any American.

These stories and many more are what health insurance is truly about. For people like Stefanie, Amy, and Erin, we should do more listening than talking. We should listen to Stefanie, Amy, and Erin, and we should listen to the health experts who have expressed their strong opposition to this bill and the impact that it will have on the healthcare system in this country.

I would urge my colleagues to listen to the AARP, the American Academy of Pediatrics, the American Diabetes Association, the American Hospital Association, the American Heart Association, the American Medical Association, the Children’s Hospital Association, the National Alliance on Mental Illness, the National Breast Cancer Coalition, and the National Council on Aging, just to name a few.

I am not just hearing from these national groups. I am also hearing from local Michiganians all across my State. Hospitals and community clinics in Michigan—particularly, the ones in the rural areas—are telling me this bill could cause them to close their doors. They will jeopardize access to care in communities that are already medically underserved. Costs will go up for seniors and individuals with preexisting conditions, like Amy. No one chooses to get sick. But when we are confronting a disease or injury, health insurance is a lifeline. It allows us to get better, to get back on our feet, and it simply allows us to keep living.

In American society, healthcare coverage is our promise that if you work hard and you play by the rules, you will have the healthcare you need when you need it the most. As I have already said, no one in this great country should be forced into bankruptcy because they are sick, and no one—no one—should ever die because they can’t afford quality insurance.

The Republican healthcare bill is irresponsible. This bill will strip away health care for millions of Americans. This bill would put more and more Americans at risk of financial ruin from unpaid medical bills, and it would put more Americans at risk of dying because they can’t afford the care they so desperately need.

This bill cannot and should not be salvaged with minor tweaks and arm-twisting to win a few votes.

I urge my colleagues to go back to the drawing board and begin an open, bipartisan process where we all listen to our constituents, hold hearings with experts, and work together to keep what works and to fix what doesn’t. Let’s let common sense rule the day and not partisan ideology. We should work back toward a better healthcare policy as a family, and ensure that everyone has access to quality, affordable healthcare. Michiganders and all Americans deserve nothing less.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BARRASSO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

Mr. BARRASSO. Mr. President, I come to the floor today as the pain of ObamaCare around the country continues to worsen. Insurers continue to rise. ObamaCare is collapsing, basically, more and more every day. People in every State of this Union have seen their healthcare costs skyrocket. It has happened everywhere around the country.

We must do something to help the American people who are suffering under the heavy weight that ObamaCare has placed on their lives. I was at a hospital this past weekend in Casper, WY, my hometown, and I talked to doctors, nurses, and patients. What I hear at home in Wyoming is that there is an urgent need to do something about the high costs and the limited choices under the Obama healthcare law. We are having discussions right now about the very best way to do that. Whatever we come up with, it is going to be a fundamental change in a direction away from ObamaCare. That is what America wants. That is what America needs. It is what the American people are asking us to do.

One of the biggest steps we need to take is to get rid of the ObamaCare mandates and penalties. People fear about it day in and day out. I heard about it in my office yesterday from a woman who was in town visiting on another matter, but she talked about her experience with the ObamaCare situation where her premiums have gone way up, and the deductibles are up so high that even though they are counted under ObamaCare as having insurance, her husband would tell you that he will not go to a doctor because, with a $5,500 deductible, he cannot afford to. But he is counted under ObamaCare. He wants more choices. He wants more control of his own life. And he wants to eliminate the taxes and the mandates.

I am sure the Presiding Officer hears this at home: People hate the fact that there is a mandate that says they have to buy insurance that Washington says they have to buy—that the Democrats have said they have to buy—rather than what might be best for their family and be cheaper and work better for them and be more tailored to their family’s needs.

There are more than 19 million people across the country who have decided that they might face the penalty to the IRS or they received a waiver so they didn’t have to get ObamaCare insurance—either pay the penalty or get a waiver. These are people who made the fundamental decision that ObamaCare insurance was not a good deal for them.

The second thing we need to do, I believe, is to repeal the burdensome and expensive ObamaCare taxes. Healthcare costs have been soaring under ObamaCare. One of the reasons is because the healthcare law added almost $1 trillion of additional taxes on to the backs of hard-working Americans. These are the taxes that specifically raised the healthcare costs for people buying health insurance and healthcare. They put taxes on things needed by people who are in need of medical care. Somebody who needs a pacemaker, someone who needs a walker, a wheelchair, an artificial joint—all of these additional taxes that all of these users of medical devices, medical supplies, over-the-counter pain medicines, over-the-counter medicine for fever, sore throat, as well as prescription medications. The taxes are on just about everything, and then, of course, the tax on health insurance itself. So if you buy health insurance, you have to pay a tax on that. What is that going to do to the cost of health insurance? It is going to raise the cost for people who have health insurance.

When the Democrats were debating and voting in support of the ObamaCare law on this floor of the Senate, they conveniently failed to mention all of these new taxes to the American people.

The third important thing that Republicans are committed to doing is to give much more flexibility to the States when it comes to making and developing healthcare solutions for the future and communities.

I served 5 years in the Wyoming State Senate. We always felt that we could do a lot better job if we just had a little more local control, a little less in terms of government mandates, and make that same amount of money work that much better and go that much further and take care of that many more people.

Medicaid is the prime example. I had a State legislator in from Wyoming who is here with me today—thanks to the Governor, my colleague from New Hampshire, as well as people in New Hampshire is the worst public health crisis in modern history.

When it comes to developing good ideas about improving America’s healthcare, I always believe in more flexibility and local control and patient control. The more we are working with doctors and communities, working with State legislatures, the more work we are doing in every State; we don’t need Washington telling all of us what to do. If we give people and States more options, there will be more affordable options for insurance as well as for care.

Democrats tried their goal of a onesize-fits-all, Washington-mandated approach. That is what ObamaCare was all about, and it did not work.

I want to talk about one other thing Republicans are committed to doing with our healthcare reform plan, and that is stabilizing insurance markets while other reforms can take effect.

The ObamaCare exchanges are completely failing apart. Week after week, there was another headline about the disaster that is ObamaCare. We look at a headline in a Chicago paper: “Another Obamacare rate shock.” “Another” and “shock” with rates—that is what people are seeing around the country.

Last week, we learned that another 77,000 people in Indiana will lose their ObamaCare plans. Two more insurance companies are leaving the market there. Across the country, there are more than 40 counties where no one will be selling ObamaCare insurance next year—no one.

Premiums have already doubled because of ObamaCare in the last 4 years. Next year, people’s rates may go up another 40 percent, 50 percent—well above that in other places. We cannot allow this to continue. The American people cannot afford it, it is not good for our country, and it is not good for the people living in this country.

We need to help support people who do need help paying their premiums. We need to give insurance companies more flexibility to offer the kinds of plans that people actually want to buy. We need to give States the ability to support their markets in ways that make sense for people in that State.

The discussion draft of our plan includes ideas to help keep the individual market going in a much stronger way than it is under ObamaCare today. It stabilizes the markets.

The insurance company Anthem put out a statement on Monday. The company said that these kinds of ideas “will markedly improve the stability of the individual market and moderate premium increases.”

Anthem has been dropping out of exchanges across the country because the markets are unsustainable under ObamaCare. That has to be one of our goals and continue to discuss legislation stabilizing the markets and reducing premiums. There are a lot of good ideas on ways to do it. We are committed to exploring those ideas and putting together a plan that will help give people the care they need, from a doctor they choose, at lower costs. That is what the American people want us to do. That is what we are working on.

There are limits under the Senate rules that keep us from doing some things we would all like to do. If Democrats are ready to work with us and to be part of the conversation, I think we can do some things to make this bill better. But the situation here today in this country for healthcare is not working. ObamaCare has collapsed. Healthcare is in a state of crisis. Those who supported ObamaCare and voted for it have caused it. We are just trying to clean up the mess.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Mrs. SHAHEEN. Mr. President, after the public, after an effort to prevent not only Democrats in this body but women in this body from participating in putting together a new health care bill, last week saw Senate Republican leaders put forward their bill to repeal the Affordable Care Act.

Like its companion bill in the House, this legislation imposes draconian cuts to Medicaid, our Nation’s principal program for insuring children, people with disabilities, and seniors in nursing homes. It drives up costs for middle- and low-income Americans while delivering huge new tax cuts to the wealthier in this country.

I start with the premise that you can’t take health insurance away from 22 million Americans and call it reform or better care. I think President Trump was accurate when he described this approach simply as mean. The fact is, this legislation is a direct threat to the health and well-being of millions of Americans, including tens of thousands in New Hampshire.

The opioid epidemic in the country and in New Hampshire is the worst public health crisis in modern history.

In New Hampshire, thanks to the expansion of Medicaid, done by a Republican legislature and a Democratic Governor, my colleague from New Hampshire who is now in the Senate, who is here with me today—thanks to their bipartisan work, nearly 11,000 Granite Staters have been able to access lifesaving treatment under the Medicaid Program for substance use disorders. By completely reversing the Medicaid expansion, the Senate bill released last week would cost who knows how many lives and would be a crippling setback in our fight against the opioid crisis.

Medicaid covers one out of three children in New Hampshire, as well as people with disabilities and seniors in nursing homes. In concert with the President’s budget, this bill being proposed by the Senate would cut Medicaid funding in half by the year 2027. Cuts of that magnitude simply cannot be done without having devastating effects on children and other vulnerable people across New Hampshire.

Then, of course, this legislation blocks all Federal funding for Planned Parenthood. We have more than 12,000 Granite Staters who would lose coverage under the Republican leader’s bill. These are people who rely on that coverage for basic care, as well as for treatment of cancer, heart disease, diabetes, and other chronic illnesses, and they are deeply afraid that they will be among the 22 million Americans who will lose their health coverage if the Senate bill becomes law.

Last Friday, Senator HASSAN and I convened an emergency public field hearing in Concord. We wanted to hear directly from Granite Staters who would be affected by the Senate bill. I have to say—and I am sure my colleague agrees with me—it was an extraordinary event, with over 200 attendees. They overflowed the overflow room. This is a picture of the room where we held the hearing, and we can see people lined up on either side of the room, waiting to take their turn to testify.

Senator HASSAN and I heard firsthand from healthcare providers, from people in recovery from substance use disorders, from parents of children with chronic diseases and disabilities, and so many others who are concerned about this legislation. We listened to emotional, heartfelt statements about the uncertainty, anxiety, and anger this Senate bill has caused. I was especially moved by testimony from a 9-year-old daughter Rosie, who was diagnosed with cystic fibrosis just 2 weeks after birth. Rosie also suffers from juvenile rheumatoid arthritis. Rosie must follow a strict regimen of medications to keep the cystic fibrosis under control. Paula fears that the repeal of the Affordable Care Act and cuts to Medicaid will leave her daughter without coverage for her preexisting condition and that insurance companies will once again impose a lifetime dollar limit on benefits.

For Paula, and for any parent, the prospect of not being able to access lifesaving care for a child is profoundly upsetting. Paula said: I don’t know what I am going to do if the Affordable Care Act goes away. What will Rosie do when she is off of our insurance and she is not able to find insurance again?

Sarah Sadowski of Concord, NH, testified about her 9-year-old daughter who has cerebral palsy. She said:

The Affordable Care Act was a huge moment of hope. I cannot face what life would look like with pre-existing conditions, lifetime limits, and countless hours on the phone with insurance companies.

At the field hearing, we also heard important testimony about others who rely on Medicaid. For example, Medicaided Americans who pay more than 1.5 million Americans with disabilities and nearly 6 million seniors in nursing homes. In fact, these two groups alone account for nearly two-thirds of all Medicaid expenditures. Yet the Republican leader’s plan to cut Medicaid funding in half over the next decade would have dire consequences for these Americans.

Brendan Williams, CEO of the New Hampshire Health Care Association, told our hearing that 63 percent of nursing home residents in New Hampshire rely on Medicaid. As was reported on Sunday in the New York Times, the deep cuts to Medicaid included in the Senate bill would force many retirees out of their current states to require residents’ families to help pay for care. For many families, this is just not an option. They don’t have the finances to be able to do that. So what happens? Their loved ones get kicked out of their homes. We also heard compelling testimony from health care providers who treat people with substance use disorders. Melissa Fernald is a private clinician in Wolfeboro, NH. She told us: For the majority of [Medicaid expansion] patients, it is the first time they have had health insurance. It allowed me to assist patients, it is the first time they have had from healthcare providers who treat patients, it is the first time they have had health insurance. It allowed me to assist patients, it is the first time they have had health insurance. It allowed me to assist patients, it is the first time they have had health insurance.

Again, if your heart is not moved by the morality of these kinds of stories and by the values I think we should have in this country, who need help, we should be moved by the economics of this. It is going to cost a whole lot more when we kick people with substance use disorders off of their insurance, when they go to emergency rooms to get their care, or when they die than to make sure they get the help they need.

The Senate bill to repeal the Affordable Care Act and radically cut Medicaid is a threat to healthcare coverage for people like Brendan and Sarah in every other State in this country. I am grateful to all of those Granite Staters who attended our field hearing on Friday. I know that in other States across this country, large numbers of people are turning out to express overwhelming opposition to the Republican leader’s bill. I heard this morning that polling shows that just 17 percent of Americans support this legislation. We need to listen. We need to stop this headlong rush to pass a cruel and heartless bill.

For ordinary people in New Hampshire—the people whom Senator HASSAN and I heard from on Friday—peeling the Affordable Care Act and gutting the Medicaid Program isn’t about politics. It is a matter of life and death. We need to listen to the voices of ordinary people whose lives and finances would be turned upside down by this cruel bill.

There is a better way forward for both the Senate and our country. It is time for Republicans and Democrats to put ideology and partisanship aside and come together to do what is right for ordinary working people in this country.

The majority leader’s decision to delay a vote on the bill is an opportunity for all of us in the Senate. When we come back after next week’s July 4th recess, let’s come together in an open and inclusive process. The right way forward is for Republicans and Democrats to work together to strengthen the parts of the Affordable Care Act that are working, including Medicaid expansion, and to fix what is not working.

According to poll after poll, this is what the majority of the American people want us to do. It is time now to respect their wishes and to strengthen the Affordable Care Act so it works for all Americans. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Ms. HASSAN. Mr. President, I rise today to join my friend and colleague, Senator HASSAN, to discuss the stories and concerns we heard from our constituents in New Hampshire about how they would be hurt if TrumpCare becomes law.

Even though Republican leadership has delayed a vote on TrumpCare this week, we know that the fundamentals of what is wrong with TrumpCare will not change.

TrumpCare would force Granite Staters to pay more for worse insurance versus to give back billions of dollars in tax breaks to corporate special interests—including Big Pharma—at the expense of hard-working Americans and the programs they rely on. This is the basic principle of TrumpCare, and it is unacceptable.

TrumpCare would be a disaster for people in New Hampshire. Granite Staters know this, and they have been standing up and speaking out against this dangerous bill.

Senator KENNEDY discussed, we held an emergency hearing last week in Concord to hear from our constituents about how TrumpCare would impact them. We held this emergency hearing at 2 p.m., on a Friday afternoon, in the summer, and with just a day’s notice. Yet hundreds of people showed up. Over 50 people shared their personal stories about the importance of healthcare, of how they have benefited from the important protections that are provided under current law—including maternity care, prescription drug coverage, and coverage for substance use disorder services—and the protections against insurance company
Jeff also said that he was concerned about the fact that TrumpCare cuts and caps Medicaid, which we know is really just code for massive cuts that would force States to choose between slashing benefits, reducing the number of people who can get care, or both. Senator SHAHEEN and I also heard from several Granite Staters who have benefited from the Affordable Care Act and who are concerned that TrumpCare would reduce the care they receive while raising their costs. One of these people was Enna, from Exeter, NH. Enna said:

I am self-employed and purchase health insurance through the Marketplace here in New Hampshire. The ACA had given me the opportunity to purchase affordable health insurance for myself and my family of four. She explained:

We were unable to maintain insurance consistently prior to the ACA, and even when we did have it, critical preventative care—for myself, as a woman—was not covered by our previous policy.

She said this about TrumpCare:

[It] would make our health care less comprehensive, cause even less affordable. I am certain that our risk of financial and/or health catastrophe would be significantly greater under TrumpCare.

There is no doubt that we should all be working together in order to improve the Affordable Care Act, build on the progress we have made, and lower healthcare costs for all of our citizens. I am willing to work with any of my colleagues on bipartisan solutions in order to maintain, but we know that TrumpCare is not the answer. While my Republican colleagues have delayed a vote on this bill, no one believes that TrumpCare is dead yet.

I am going to continue to share the stories of Granite Staters who would have to pay more money for less care under TrumpCare. I will keep working to ensure that TrumpCare never becomes law. I urge my colleagues to take the time to listen to their constituents who would be hurt under TrumpCare.

The people of New Hampshire have been so brave. They have come forward, and they have talked about their most personal, difficult, and challenging experiences. They have laid themselves bare before the rest of us so we could understand what they have gone through and so we could understand that if we are not committed to a healthcare system in which every American can enjoy a democracy—can have meaningful, truly affordable access to the type of care that each of us would want for our own family, then we are not doing our job as a democracy at all.

We need to protect and defend what we have, and, then, we need to improve what we have. We need to come together and make sure that healthcare is truly available to every one of us, so that we can be healthy and productive and so that we can come to a good result.

The assistant bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. KING. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KING. Mr. President, I want to talk about the healthcare bill, the healthcare issue, and talk a bit about how we can find a solution and then work the solution through.

For the last 2 days, as a member of the Armed Services Committee, I have been in our markup. In that markup, we considered somewhere in the neighborhood of 250 to 300. Of those 250 amendments, approximately 210 of them were either compromised—an agreement was worked out between the proponents of the amendment and those who had reservations—and they were either withdrawn or became part of the bill by unanimous consent. Of the 25 or 30 that were left for votes, however, we had good debate. The members talked about their point of view. The people who opposed them gave their points of view. We had a vigorous discussion and debate and then we voted. The important thing to me—and I am pretty sure I am right about this, I kept a mental note as we went through the votes—I don’t believe there was a single party-line vote in the Armed Services Committee on any amendment. The votes were sometimes more Republicans, more Democrats, but there wasn’t a single party-line vote. In other words, the process worked as it was intended to work, as it should work, and as it can work.

So I have a radical suggestion for those who are seeking a solution to this healthcare issue; that is, submit a bill and put it before the requisite committees, have hearings, have debates, have information, get information from around the country, from experts, from people who know about the topic, and that is how we make good laws. A bill that doesn’t go through any of that process, that is concocted in secret and sprung on the Congress at the last minute, almost by definition will not be a good bill. Bad process—bad bill, and that is what we had happen in this case.

I think this is a time—we are going into a recess at the end of this week. Let’s take a deep breath, and instead of trying to tinker around and attract a few extra votes and find something that barely pass the skin of its teeth, let’s step back and submit this issue to the Finance Committee and the HELP Committee. Let’s try to work through to find a real solution involving both parties, involving all of those who are interested in this, and not have to make a decision that is going to be bad for this country on this incredibly complex and difficult and incredibly important issue. We don’t have to try to do it in the dark. Let’s do it in the light of day. Let’s have open hearings and committee markups, have hearings, discussion and debate, and then as our system is designed, we can come to a good result.
Let’s talk about the bill that is currently before us. I guess it is before us. It hasn’t really been submitted to any of the committees, but I am told it is coming to the floor. It was going to be this week. Now it is going to be the week before the recess. At least that is what we were told yesterday.

Why is this a bad bill? I have been watching some of the commentary on this bill, and there is a lot of discussion about the Congressional Budget Office analysis. Is it correct, did they use the right baseline, are they good at projecting how many people are going to sign up for healthcare, and all of those kinds of questions. People are questioning the Congressional Budget Office. I happen to think they tend to be pretty nonpartisan, straightforward, good, scientific, and quantitative analysts of these kinds of issues. They issued their report saying 22 million people lose their healthcare. This is about people. It is not about ideology. It is very straightforward.

There is a really easy way to cut through all of the questions about whether they analyzed it properly and who is going to lose and who is going to win. Take it at a simple chart that is. I think, the the baseline of the Congressional Budget Office analysis. This is really all you need to know about this bill: Medicaid loses $772 billion over the next 10 years, and the tax credit and selective coverage provisions—that is the ACHA—loses $102 billion. It is $1.1 trillion out of the healthcare system. You cannot take $1.1 trillion out of the healthcare system and not hurt people. You can’t do it. We don’t have to argue about how many here, what age, and all of that kind of thing. We are talking about a massive cut to the support that is enabling American people to get healthcare.

In Maine, if you cut all these numbers down as near as I can tell, it is about $400 to $500 million a year. I was the Governor of Maine. I know that $400 and $500 million a year is huge. People talk about: Well, we are going to cut Medicaid back. We are going to trim the growth rate. We are going to lower the way it is calculated and make it a per capita cap, all of these things, and we are going to give the States flexibility. The magic word “flexibility”—as if the flexibility enables you somehow conjure up Medicare trillion. What you are really giving the States is the flexibility to decide between the elderly and the disabled or children. That is what this is all about.

There is another option, by the way. The States can always raise taxes to make up for this difference, and that is one of the most frustrating things to me, again, as a former Governor. We are talking about this reduces the Federal deficit by $350 billion over 10 years. Yes, you shifted these trillion dollars to the States. That is nice work if you can get it. That is balancing the Federal books on the backs of the States. If we want to make the Federal budget look better, why don’t we just let the States pay for the Air Force? That is a Federal expenditure. Shift that to the States. That will help us with our budget deficit, but it is a fake balancing of the budget because you are simply shifting the cost over to somebody else—another level of government.

The shorthand for that is shift and shaft. That is what we are talking about, either the State government is going to be shafted because they are going to have to raise taxes or the people who are going to lose the support are going to be shafted. We are talking about real people.

Let me talk about Medicaid for a minute. Medicaid is sometimes characterized—and I have even heard some of my colleagues use Medicaid and welfare in the same breath, as if Medicaid is a welfare program. It is not. It is a critically necessary support for healthcare for people who need it. That is the way we pay for some of the people we call it welfare. We would denote them—not welfare recipients. They are getting a lifetime, a true lifetime that is actually keeping them alive.

In Maine, 70 percent of the people in nursing homes are on Medicaid. Nationwide, the number is 62 percent. So when you talk about Medicaid and cutting Medicaid, you are talking about Aunt Minnie in the nursing home. You are not talking about some welfare recipients who is ripping off the system. You are talking about your relatives who are in nursing homes, and 70 percent of the people in nursing homes are being supported by Medicaid. In Maine, we call it MaineCare.

So you can’t shrink this amount of money and think it is not going to have impacts on people, and that is why this bill is so pernicious. Here is what the bill is all about: a one-half trillion-dollar tax cut to the top 2 percent. Let’s be clear what is going on here. There is an equation of one-half trillion dollars of tax cuts and more than one-half trillion dollars of cuts to benefits—money to the wealthy; healthcare away from the poor. That is the equation. That is what this bill is all about. This isn’t a healthcare bill. This is a tax cut bill dressed up like a healthcare bill. Why is this a bad bill? I have been talking about this reduces the Federal deficit by $350 billion over 10 years. Yes, you shifted these trillion dollars to the States. That was nice work if you can get it. That is balancing the Federal books on the backs of the States. If we want to make the things we are really talking about who pays. The deeper issue is how much we are paying. The problem is—and the reason we need Medicaid and the reason we need Medicare and the reason we need the Affordable Care Act—people can’t afford it. You can’t break our companies that are trying dutifully to keep up with the increase in costs of healthcare.

Don’t fall for this idea that somehow the Affordable Care Act caused all the increases. I remember—again, harking back to when I was the Governor of Maine in the late 1980s, early 2000s—healthcare costs were going up 6 percent. 8 percent a year—10 years before the Affordable Care Act. That is in place. The private—the individual market for health insurance was already on a drastic upward climb. So to blame it somehow on the Affordable Care Act just doesn’t wash in terms of the history.

The deep problem, as I say, is the overall cost of healthcare. We have to start talking about that issue. That is a separate issue from what we are talking about here as to who pays. We have to talk about different kinds of delivery systems. We have to talk about a huge increase in preventive care. We have to talk about helping people stay out of the hospital, stay out of the medical system. The cheapest medical procedure of all is the one you don’t have to perform. So many of our diseases—our chronic diseases like diabetest—are based upon the choices people are making and their lack of adequate care early in the disease. That is a separate discussion. I think that is one we really have to look at. However this debate is resolved in the next few weeks or few days, we have to talk about the deeper issue of the overall cost. If we don’t get a handle on that, then all of this other stuff is going to be—it is not going to solve the problem because the deeper issue is the enormous cost we pay in this country, which is almost twice as much as anybody in the world per capita.

You could say: But we have the best healthcare in the world. Yes, we do, for the people who can afford it. But for millions of people who can’t afford it, who have either no or skimpy care, it is not the best healthcare system in the world.

There are no statistical indicators that tell us we are doing very well. On things like longevity, prenatal care, infant mortality, we are way down. We don’t tell us we are doing very well. On things like longevity, prenatal care, infant mortality, we are way down. We are not the best healthcare system in the world.

I had a tele-townhall Monday night. It was sponsored by the AARP of Maine. At the peak, they tell me there were 10,000 people on that call. I took questions, and the questions from seniors in Maine were full of concern—“fears,” he said, “too strong a word, although in several cases it wasn’t, but very deep concern about what the effect of this will be on them, on their mothers, on people who are depending on Medicaid for their care.

One lady who called pays $8,000 a month for chemotherapy drugs. If it weren’t for her support under the Affordable Care Act and Medicaid, she said on the phone, “I’d be dead.” That is what we are talking about here. We are talking about real people.

The final sort of public point I want to make before I talk about some of the people who are going to be affected by this is that I hear sometimes the proponents saying: The free market is going to solve this problem. The free market is miraculous; it can solve all problems.

I am a huge believer in the free market. I am a thoroughgoing capitalist. I started a business. I ran a business. I understand the free market. The problem is, the free market is not a free market. If you go to buy a car, that is a free market. You can go online and compare. You can test drive. You can find the prices at the four dealers that are in your neighborhood. You can do all of those things. That is a free market. You don’t have that in healthcare.

No. 1, you don’t know the price. You call your local hospital and say: What will it cost me to get my knee replaced? Nobody can tell you. You don’t know the price.

No. 2, it is very hard to compare products. You can do it if you can really dig and get word of mouth on who is a good doctor and who isn’t.

No. 3, you don’t say what you want; the provider tells you what you need. Imagine going into a car dealership and the car dealer saying: I am going to tell you I think you need this Mercedes over here. I think that is what you need, and by the way, you pay for it.

Our system is set up such that providers are paid for delivering a service, not keeping you well. They get paid by procedures, fee-for-service, not for keeping you well. There is no money in prevention. We have to change that. We have to change that.

Now let me talk about people. These are some people I have talked about before, and I just want to sort of go through them.

You know who this is. This is a Maine lobsterman. This is a guy; his name is David Osgood. The ACA gave them a chance to get insurance. It gave them an opportunity to get insurance where before it was practically impossible. He said it has given them some comfort, some reassurance. He said: “We’ll call it that—‘comfort.’ That is the best they can say. ‘We’ll be okay.’” This is one of the most independent, toughest professions there is in this country, but he is not part of a big corporation, and he doesn’t have somebody to pay part of his healthcare. He has to make it work, and the ACA gave him an opportunity that he didn’t have before to give some confidence to his family and to his life.

There are 75,000 people in Maine just like him who got coverage under the ACA, many of them for the first time, and those are the calls we are getting in my office.

This is Jonathan Edwards and Jen Schroth. This is sort of a funny story. It tells you what Maine is like. I know Jen’s mother. I worked with Jen’s mother in the early eighties. Maine is a big small town with very long roads. We all know each other. And it just happens that here we are, 25 years later, and I have become acquainted with Jen.

She and her husband are farmers. They are small farmers in coastal Maine. She thinks it is irresponsible to go without health insurance, especially when you are going to have procedures, fee-for-service, not for prevention. We have to change that.

I am a huge believer in the free market. I am a thoroughgoing capitalist. I have a tele-townhall Monday night. Two of my kids graduated from Mount Ararat. She even has a job she was offered after years of volunteering. Everything she has achieved has been accomplished with help from her family and dedicated teachers and therapists almost exclusively funded through special education in the public schools and Medicaid.

By the way, having a child with disabilities has nothing to do with your income. You could be high income, low income, middle income. You can do with the luck of the draw. It has to do with bad fortune, and it could hit anybody. So, again, this idea that Medicaid is some kind of welfare program is just not true. It is not true.

So, Mr. President, the reason I am here is because of these people. The reason I am here is to stand up for these people because they can’t be here to do it themselves. We have to do better. The failure to get the votes to vote on this bill this week gives us all a chance to take a deep breath, to step back and say: Sure, there are things wrong with the Affordable Care Act. There are things we can do. But let’s do the right thing. The right thing is to get the vote. We can have amendments. We can do what we did in the Armed Services Committee over the last 2 days and have a real discussion and debate. I know it is possible because I sat there and saw it happen. It can be done, and we can do it here.

Let’s take a week not to try to browbeat and push and make special deals... to try to get 51 votes or 50 votes and then the Vice President breaks the tie. It goes to the House, and they don’t even look at it—they will pass it. And then we will be embarked on a path that is really going to hurt the American people.

We have to have help. Healthcare is too expensive, and regular people in this country can’t afford it. We have to have help, and this is the place where people are looking to find that help. Let’s try to work together. I am certainly willing to work with anybody who will listen. But if they are starting from a premise of gutting Medicaid and giving somebody else a huge tax cut, that doesn’t work. Let’s talk about the real problem. You want to talk about healthcare, let’s talk about it. Let’s talk about how we can lower the cost of healthcare, how we can lower deductibles, how we can lower premiums, and how we can provide new options to people in the health insurance market. And let’s talk about what we are going to do that is going to have such tragic results on individuals and families and on the fabric of our society.

Mr. President, I believe we can do better. I believe we can do better, and we have an opportunity to do so. It sort of dropped into our laps this week. We have 10 days to work on this, to think about it, to try to come up with a solution or at least begin the process of a solution. There is no deadline here next week, but let’s begin the process.

As we begin, I have this radical idea of referring these bills to committees here in the Senate, having hearings, getting expert opinions, listening to the country, listening to the hospital association that says this is a terrible bill. The American Medical Association says this bill violates the basic principle of the medical profession: First, do no harm. This bill will do harm.

To the person who I have heard of who is for it—only people who have an agenda to cut Medicaid because they don’t like Federal support or people who have an agenda to change the Affordable Care Act because it has Obama’s name on it. That is not a good enough reason to strike at the heart of our people, our communities, and our society.

One final point. I have been talking about people; let me talk about jobs. In Maine and 160 counties, the hospital is the largest employer. I talked to a hospital director an hour ago. They are desperate about what is going to happen to the hospital in the community. They told me something. This idea of this bill, this approach, is going to kill them. It is going to cause them to at least shrink their services or close. In Maine, because we are a rural State with far-flung communities, that means people are going to be a long way from available care—one hour, 2 hours—and that is a tragedy for our community. It is going to cause them to at long distance from available care. They are desperate about what is going to happen to a hospital director an hour ago.

This Congress, this government, can do better, and I hope we will. Thank you, Mr. President.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. TOOMEY). The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, this is a little out of character. Confession is good for the soul. One of my very favorites—maybe my most favorite—of spectator sports is, of all things, girls’ softball.

Now, a lot of people don’t even know anything about the sport. It is pretty incredible. I am pleased to tell you that Oklahoma City is the home of a very famous ASA Hall of Fame stadium, which is the world’s No. 1 softball field. The Big 12 Softball Championship and the Women’s College World Series are held.

This past May, the Sooners won the championship game at the Big 12 softball tournament between Oklahoma and Oklahoma State, which also has a great team, at this impressive stadium. The Sooners won.

Then, on June 6, they became the 2017 Women’s World Series national champions in Oklahoma City. The team consisted of all-star players and experienced players.

The players: Kelsey Arnold, Falepolima Aviu, Caleigh Clifton, Alissa Dalton, Macey Hatfield, Shay Knighten, Mariah Lopes, Paige Lowary, Kylie Lundberg, Nicole Mendes, Melanie Olmos, Paige Parker, Nicole Pendley, Raegan Rogers, Sydney Rogers, Hannah Sparks, Vanessa Taukeiaho, and Lea Wadach.

The coaches: Patty Gasso, Melyssa Lombardi, JT Gasso, Jackie Bishop, Lacey Main, and Andrea Gasso.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. GARINDER). The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BLUMENTHAL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. GARINDER). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BLUMENTHAL. Mr. President, over the last 10 days, I have conducted emergency field hearings, giving my constituents in Connecticut an opportunity to be heard, a chance for their voices and faces to be part of considering the Republican healthcare or really, more accurately, wealth care bill. The whole or characterisation of the bill came from one of my constituents who said: this plan is not healthcare, it is wealth care because it produces a massive transfer of wealth from the poor and middle-class Americans, whose healthcare would be deeply harmed, to the richest Americans, who would enjoy the benefits of hundreds of billions of dollars in tax cuts.

That kind of voice and criticism deserves to be heard here. Yet my Republican colleagues and their leadership have gone from total secrecy to total chaos. They are in chaos because they have refused to heed the voices and faces of ordinary, average working people—middle-class people, the most vulnerable people who would be deeply harmed by this proposal.

One woman at one of my hearings in Connecticut, knowing what would happen under this bill, said to me:

Do the right thing. Save the Affordable Care Act and save lives.

She was not exaggerating when she said lives are at stake. She is right. This very eloquent woman, Amy Etkind, knows all too well what this bill means for Americans like her, and the need, literally, is the “love of her life.” She told me about him during a hearing in New Haven Friday afternoon—about how he has struggled with addiction, mental health issues, and now diabetes. He is alive today because of Medicaid, and he has access to the services he needs. As she said, “If Medicaid were to go away, he would be literally dead in a very short period of time.”

When we say the Republican plan would kill people—no hyperbole, no exaggeration. It is plain, simple fact. As Ronald Reagan said, “Facts are stubborn things.” The fact is, this bill would cost the State of Connecticut nearly $3 billion in Federal funding over the next 10 years. These cuts, mainly to Medicaid, cannot and will not be replaced, as the CBO has predicted. It would leave States like Connecticut in an impossible position: either raise taxes to pay the difference or cut Medicaid enrollment to insure people like Amy’s husband at risk, literally, of death; putting out on the streets the senior citizens living in the Monsignor Bojnowski Manor in New Britain, where they are enjoying great care—a high-quality environment because of Medicaid.

Many of them are middle-class folks who worked hard, played by the rules, and exhausted their savings. They are vulnerable now because of the cost of healthcare and their care, in particular. The failure to be on them, the people who are affected, not so much the numbers, but we know from the numbers that the Republican plan would disastrously raise premiums by 20 percent and would cut enrollment impact on the individual market—premiums and enrollment, apart from Medicaid, on the individual market. These numbers are from the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities. They are fact. Facts are stubborn things.

We know also what the effects would be—what the numbers are for people who are middle income. The elimination of the tax credits for middle-income people paying their premiums would be nothing short of disastrous.

We focused on Medicaid. I talked to you about Amy and the love of her life and what the effects would be of the destruction of Medicaid, but here we are talking about the elimination of tax breaks that help middle-income people. I don’t need to explain this graph. For someone with $26,500 in income, the Senate plan would jump to $6,500 from the present $1,700. For somebody earning in the midfifties, the jump is even greater, and it is true even for people who are earning $80,200. They will have to pay more of their income, and receive less. It is not only that the Senate plan is disastrous because it is more costly, it is also going to impact the quality of care by reducing the standards; eliminating the strict requirements on pre-existing conditions, the protections on annual and lifetime caps for coverage, defunding Planned Parenthood, continuing the war on women’s healthcare. The long and short of it is that this measure is bad for America.

Tia spoke to me at these hearings about the opioid epidemic. If there is one example that breaks our hearts and wrenches our guts, it is the effect on people who are trying to recover from opioid addiction and abuse. Their recovery would be shredded—maybe stopped—by gutting Medicaid coverage.

Another woman who spoke at my hearing, Donna Sager, called herself “the perfect example as to why our healthcare plans must include pre-existing conditions and not punish people like me with high premiums.” Donna, as she told me, is 63 years old and not yet eligible for Medicare. When she was 36, she was diagnosed with a rare form of hereditary colon cancer. For 27 years she has been undergoing major surgeries, constant screening, doctor visits to make sure she can remain as healthy as she can. Then she told me about her husband, a man in his seventies, and she said this:

He would like to retire, but how can he with all my medical expenses? I am frightened. The Republican healthcare bill gets paid. Changes to pre-existing coverage will be extremely damaging to me, how will I pay these costs and high premium? The Republican healthcare plan wants to punish me for having cancer.

She closed by saying:

It is as though Washington wants to punish me again for having cancer and being older. I never expected that the greatest country in the world would treat me like this.

There is a path forward, and it requires our Republican colleagues very simply to start over, to work with Democrats, to abandon this misguided, myopic effort to repeal, repeat, repeat. That mantra simply is not a policy for American healthcare.

What is needed is to build on the Affordable Care Act, to improve it, to correct its defects. We can do it if we work together and if we focus on the rising costs of medical care and try to break down the regulatory barriers to entering insurance markets and seek to eliminate them, if we focus on the FDA drug approval process and seek to responsibly and safely expedite new drugs coming to market, if we enable Medicare to negotiate drug prices as the VA does. Those examples of improving the present system are doable. They require leadership, which has been lacking and most particularly lacking at the White House.

Yesterday, we saw a picture that is worth a thousand words: the President of the United States sitting with Members of this body, but only Members of this body from the other side of the aisle—only Republican Senators. It was almost the entire membership on the Republican side. Not a single Democrat was invited, not a single Democrat consulted, not a single Democrat involved in the continuing process now of producing yet another plan behind closed doors in secrecy.

The majority leader announced it just today. The effort is to have another version to be submitted to the CBO by Friday, but that process simply continues the present fatal flaw in my Republican colleagues’ thinking, which is that they can do it with only one party. I want to give credit to our Republican colleagues who had the courage and strength to say no because they saw it was bad for America.

I am closing. I want my Republican colleagues will be going home this weekend. They have been looking at themselves in the mirror, at their consciences, and they have been seeing something they don’t like—a moral failing in this bill, not just a political failing or a policy defect but a real moral failing.

Healthcare is a right, and even if my Republican colleagues disagree on that point, they have to recognize that taking care of the sick, of people like Amy’s husband, is not an optional issue. Their healthcare bill gets passed. Changes to pre-existing coverage will be extremely damaging to me, how will I pay these costs and high premium? The Republican healthcare plan wants to punish me for having cancer.

She closed by saying:

It is as though Washington wants to punish me again for having cancer and being older. I never expected that the greatest country in the world would treat me like this.
This wealth care plan is doomed to failure. Even if it passes, it is doomed to fail America. It is a moral failing, not just a policy failing. The health of our consciences, as well as our physical well-being, hangs in the balance.

This bill will mean worse care for seniors, children, the disabled, rural communities, and working families all trying to make ends meet. It will mean no care for 22 million people, according to the latest Budget Committee report. The bill cancels health insurance and slashes Medicaid funding, all so Republicans can give big tax breaks to the richest Americans.

President Trump called the original House bill—The Senate Republicans’ healthcare bill isn’t just mean; it is cruel. It is cruel to take away nursing home care that seniors depend on, cruel to take away necessary medical services from disabled children. Make no mistake, this bill will cost lives.

This version of TrumpCare is a massive redistribution of wealth from working families, seniors, and the disabled to the wealthy. But the Republicans’ bill is not Robin Hood in reverse. TrumpCare doesn’t just take money away from the poor to give to the rich; it takes away people’s healthcare and robs families of their health and ability to work, care for their families, contribute to society, and lead happy and healthy lives.

This bill was drafted in secret. Only a handful of Republicans and their lobbyist friends got to see the bill. It is no wonder the American people hate what TrumpCare would do to them and to their families. This TrumpCare is cruel; there is no doubt about it.

It is good that Leader McConnell decided not to call a vote this week on this terrible bill, but I am by no means satisfied. We need to hear from the Republican leadership that they are ready to work with Democrats to improve the Affordable Care Act, not gut it, and to truly improve our healthcare system. This is what the American people are demanding, and this is what we in Congress should be working toward on a bipartisan basis.

We created Medicaid in 1965 to serve a critical need. Since then, Medicaid has become one of the most successful programs for making sure low-income people get the healthcare they need. People get treatment for illnesses that once were a death sentence.

The American people support a government that doesn’t leave its most vulnerable behind. But the current Senate bill cuts Medicaid by more than $70 billion. Let’s be clear, these cuts have nothing to do with better healthcare. They are a ruthless tactic to fund tax cuts for the wealthy. On the Senate Floor, the President vowed not to cut Medicaid. He said it a number of times. Last week, he tweeted that he is “very supportive” of the bill. Yesterday, he met with the Republican caucus and told them to pass the bill. By supporting this bill, the President breaks the promise he made during the campaign.

Medicaid expansion has allowed millions of Americans and over 265,000 people in my State to see a doctor. Many of these folks are disabled, don’t have health insurance through their jobs or can’t afford private health insurance. Medicaid expansion is literally a life-line, but TrumpCare wipes this out. I can’t believe that our Republican friends are doing this to New Mexico children and their families.

Take 1½ year old Rafe—this is Rafe. Rafe is here with his mom Jessica and his dad Sam, a veteran. They are from Albuquerque, NM. Rafe was born with cortical visual impairment—a kind of legal blindness. Significant developmental delays. He faced monumental medical challenges. But Jessica and Sam have been able to access the intensive medical care, early intervention services, medical equipment, and therapies he needs through a combination of their military insurance and Medicaid.

Now Rafe’s parents are scared he will lose his Medicaid services. Their military insurance alone doesn’t cover all the therapies Rafe needs. They need Medicaid. Without it, Rafe’s chances for a better life are threatened. They worry about—and this is their quote—“dealing with insurance, finding healthcare, tracking down specialty doctors, keeping up with therapy appointments and doctor’s appointments.” They worry whether Rafe will be able to walk, feed himself, graduate from high school, and get a job. Now they must worry whether he will get the medical care he needs to give him the opportunity to do all of those things.

Let’s talk about Carmen and her three children. Carmen is a single parent. She serves Native American students as a teacher, a coach, dorm parent, and higher education administrator. The small nonprofit organization Carmen works for doesn’t offer health insurance. For the past 4 years, Medicaid has helped pay for the healthcare for her two sons.

Now Carmen’s worries are doubled. Her kids have nut allergies and need EpiPens at school and at home. According to Carmen, “When I renewed their EpiPen prescription for school this past fall, I was astounded that the price sky-rockeeted to $741 to fill one prescription!”

Now Carmen is worried; she doesn’t know whether her kids will lose Medicaid or how she will pay for prescription refills. She asked: “Please continue to fight for the Affordable Care Act because you are fighting for me and my family’s well-being.”

It is cruel to threaten Rafe’s chances for a healthier life. I tweet that Carmen might not be able to pay for EpiPens for her kids. TrumpCare threatens these two families and millions more.

TrumpCare will hurt seniors, so it is not surprising that AARP strongly opposes it. AARP opposes the TrumpCare age tax that allows insurance companies to charge seniors up to five times more for their premiums. The age tax, combined with reducing tax credits for premiums, will price seniors out of health care. They did everything their Medicare. AARP is calling on every Senator to vote no on the Senate Republicans’ bill.

Medicaid pays for an astounding 62 percent of all nursing home care. By cutting Medicaid, Republicans threaten our mothers, our fathers, and our grandchildren in nursing homes. States can’t bear the burden of these costs. Republicans want to shift them.

The new Senate bill is cruel. If the bill becomes law, the state of New Mexico can’t handle this. This cost-shift sets States up to cut reimbursement rates and reduce eligibility for services at nursing homes. Medicaid pays 61 percent of nursing home care in my State. New Mexico’s 74 nursing homes will be impacted by these cuts.

Many of the folks in nursing homes are middle-class Americans who worked all their lives, paid taxes, and retired. They did everything right, but because skilled nursing care is so expensive, they have outlived their life savings, and now Medicaid pays the cost of care at the end of their lives, allowing them to live with dignity.

Senate Republicans may say that one improvement in their bill over the House bill is it protects people with preexisting conditions, but the American people shouldn’t be fooled. People with preexisting conditions are not protected under the Senate bill the way they are now protected under the ACA.

The Senate Republican bill still allows States to waive the essential health benefits that all insurance companies must now provide under the ACA. These benefits include prescriptions, hospital stays, rehabilitative services, and laboratory services. If States waive the benefits, people with serious illnesses would have to pay out of pocket for these services or buy additional insurance, or if these services are covered but are not essential health benefits, insurance companies can put annual or lifetime limits on the services, and people with serious illnesses could end up with no coverage or be priced out of services.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE S3821

All this sends us back to the time when people faced not getting care or going bankrupt if they got sick. We passed the ACA because the American people agreed no one should go broke to pay for lifesaving care and that insurance companies shouldn’t be able to place limits on the care someone could get in their lifetime. Why do Republicans want to take us back?

Finally, the steep cuts to Medicaid would devastate hospitals, especially rural hospitals. There is no mistake—rural hospitals are already struggling. Medicaid cuts will force some to close their doors if TrumpCare becomes law.

In New Mexico, our rural hospitals are often an economic anchor for the community. Hospital administrators in my State are very worried. Medicaid has helped the Guadalupe County Hospital cut its uninsured payer rate from 14 percent to 4 percent from 2014 to 2016. Its uncompensated care decreased 23 percent over that same period. The hospital’s administrator, Christina Campos, fears what might happen if TrumpCare becomes law. She is urging me to protect access to care in rural areas.

I will fight hard to keep residents in our rural areas insured and to keep rural hospitals open in New Mexico and across the Nation.

The President and congressional Republicans want to take us back to the days when healthcare was a privilege for those who could afford it. The American people do not support the Republicans’ cruel plans. Congress should listen to the pleas of our constituents. The American people reject the framework of TrumpCare. They reject gutting Medicaid and the Medicaid expansion. They reject making seniors pay more for healthcare. They reject making healthcare inaccessible for those with fewer resources.

The Republicans need to go back to the drawing board and begin to work with Democrats. I say to my colleagues across the aisle, do not take healthcare and the American people for granted. We must lead a productive and happy life away from millions of Americans. Together, we can make affordable healthcare a reality for all.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. LEE). The Senator from North Dakota.

Ms. HEITKAMP. Mr. President, one of the things that the healthcare law changes here have demonstrated is that partisanship in Congress has reached a new low. I am tired of reading about who is to blame for what, and I know Americans and North Dakotans are too. Most importantly, it certainly doesn’t do anything to help American families get better.

We should all want to improve our healthcare system so it works better for families and for businesses. It should be a bipartisan discussion, not a political exercise. I am here, as are many of my colleagues, because that is what we hope to accomplish.

For years, I have been offering reasonable reforms to make the current health reform law work better. I want such reforms to be bipartisan. I want to have a larger conversation about healthcare in this country. But the Republican Senate bill, the Better Care Reconciliation Act, is simply not the way to have those discussions. Frankly, this bill is a nonstarter—in fact, I can tell you, deeply panicked—about how this bill would make care less available and less affordable.

There are commonsense actions we can and should take right now to make sure American families aren’t hurt in the near term. That is why we are here today.

Action and uncertainty caused by the administration, as well as House Republicans’ refusal to address the uncertainty in the insurance markets threatening significant cost increases for consumers in 2018. The administration has been unwilling to commit funding for cost-sharing reduction payments, and some Republicans have been working to dismantle the health reform law by not funding critical reinsurance programs. These actions make it extraordinarily difficult for insurers to plan and make business decisions for 2018—decisions insurers and families need right now.

If insurers can’t rely on these funds to support healthcare programs that make it possible for health insurance costs to remain affordable for families, the health insurance premium filings for the next term will reflect that uncertainty. Health insurance rates for 2018 that have already been filed in some of our States demonstrate that fact.

Let’s talk about the facts. Independent analysts from the Congressional Budget Office and Standard & Poor’s have said that the insurance markets were expected to stabilize this year and could stabilize this year unless the administration causes disruption. If you look at the numbers from last year, you will see that health plans were offered in every county in this country.

Today, we are here to offer a few bills that will make an immediate and real difference for families to address health insurance rate increases that we expect in 2018. These are commonsense bills that should be bipartisan.

We hope our colleagues across the aisle will work with us in a bipartisan way so we can provide immediate relief and guarantee stability for the individual market—stability that will enable individuals and families in all of our States to avoid serious increases in their health insurance rates.

No family should face bankruptcy to cover their healthcare costs because in some areas we can’t even implement the bill that we have and instead continue to stall and play the game of politics against the interests of the American people and, certainly in many cases, some of sickest among us and people who have a whole lot of healthcare insecurity. This is politics. We cannot continue to play politics with people’s health.

Some of the issues we are working to address were included, interestingly enough, in the Senate healthcare bill—a clear acknowledgment from the Republicans that these changes are necessary for the health market to function in 2018.

Some of us have been standing up here because time is of the essence. I hope our colleagues will join us in this effort. We want to work with them. We hope they will work with us. We hope we can at least at a minimum get together and solve the problem for 2018 while we are debating the future of healthcare delivery in this country.

I will call on my friend, the great Senator from New Hampshire, Senator JEANNE SHAHEEN, to offer what I think the specific idea is and a bill on which I am a cosponsor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. LEE). Mrs. SHAHEEN, the Senator from New Hampshire.

Mrs. SHAHEEN. Mr. President, I am very pleased to join my colleague from North Dakota, Senator HEITKAMP, and appreciate all of the efforts she is making to try to address the challenges we are facing in the healthcare markets across this country. Like her and like so many of my colleagues, I am not going to be here. I have come to the floor this afternoon because we want to take urgent steps and we can take steps today to address the uncertainty in our health insurance markets. We can take steps today that can hold down premiums.

I have heard Senators on both sides of the aisle who have expressed concern about looming premium increases in the Affordable Care Act marketplaces. We need to use the insurance market stabilization funds to support healthcare programs. These actions make it extraordinarily difficult for insurers to plan and make business decisions for 2018—decisions insurers and families need right now.

Some of the issues we are working to address were included, interestingly enough, in the Senate healthcare bill—a clear acknowledgment from the Republicans that these changes are necessary for the health market to function in 2018.

Insurers regularly cite the Trump administration’s refusal to commit to making cost-sharing reduction payments, also known as CSRs. These CSR payments were included in the Affordable Care Act in order to help Americans afford insurance once they had it. The ACA requires insurers to reduce deductibles and copayments for workers and families who are recipients of these payments. Because of the cost-sharing reduction payments, the CSRs, patients pay less for their care and the government reimburses the insurers.

These reductions and payments are built into the rates insurers are charging for 2017. Yet the Trump administration has refused to commit to paying these reimbursements because of a partisan lawsuit that has been brought by House Republican leaders.

Because of the radically uncertain landscape insurers are facing right now, many of them are doing one of two things: Some are pulling out of the ACA marketplaces altogether; and others are dramatically increasing premiums. The end result is fewer choices and higher costs for American families.

Last year in my State of New Hampshire, this matter is held. We represent New Hampshire, and people have been very concerned about what is happening right now. Last year, the insurance markets were stable, and health insurance premiums increased an average of just 2 percent—the lowest annual rate in 10 years. Today, we are facing a radically different story, in large part because of the uncertainty this administration is causing by refusing to guarantee insurers cost-sharing reduction payments. What we are seeing is that those insurance companies are protecting themselves by raising premiums on patients.

The same thing is happening in other States. In some cases, insurers are filing two different rates—a set that would guarantee the administration continuing to make cost-sharing reduction payments and an alternative set with higher premiums to account for continuing uncertainty and the possibility that this administration will stop making those payments.

Unfortunately, the Trump administration continues to send mixed signals to insurers, and of course it has threatened to stop paying cost-sharing reduction payments altogether. If this were to happen, insurers could immediately exit the markets for breach of contract.

So we are kind of in this perverse limbo situation. The administration creates uncertainty by refusing to commit to continuing the administration's CSR payments, and the insurers protect themselves by exiting the markets or raising rates. And it is the premium holders, the families out there, who are hurt by this political football that the administration seems to be intent on continuing.

That is why I have introduced the Marketplace Certainty Act, which is a bill to appropriate funding for the cost-sharing reduction payments in order to make good on our commitment to help working families with their deductibles and cost sharing.

I believe that the House Republican leaders' lawsuit has no merit but that the chaos it has caused by allowing the Trump administration to waver on these promised payments requires that we act now.

I am pleased to be joined in this legislation by Senators BALDWIN, BLUMENTHAL, CARDEN, CARPER, COONS, KAIN, HASSAN, HERTZFELD, CORNER, MAST, MINTO, MARKAY, WYDEN, STABENOW, and I am sure that by tomorrow, we will have even more Senators on this bill.

We could pass it right now. Right now, we could end this manufactured crisis. We could immediately provide certainty and stability to the health insurance markets for all of our constituents. That would be good for the Republicans, and it would be good for the Democrats. Mostly, it would be good for the families out there who are experiencing this uncertainty.

We could do this. It would give us the breathing space we need to come together on a bipartisan basis to improve the law, strengthen what is working and to fix what is not. In poll after poll, that is what the American people want us to do. They want us to stop the partisan bickering. They want us to work together. They want us to make common cause now that this law works for every American.

Mr. President, at this point, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of S. 1462, the Marketplace Certainty Act; that the bill be considered read a third time and passed; and that the motion to reconsider be considered made and laid upon the table with no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

The Senator from Wyoming.

Mr. BARRASSO. Mr. President, reserving the right to object, I just had an opportunity to read the legislation of the Senator from New Hampshire. It appeared that the legislation was just filed today. Instead of giving the American people time to read the bill, the Senate is being asked to pass the legislation now. At a minimum, shouldn't the American people have at least a day to read the proposal?

Putting that aside, this bill seeks to address another major failure of ObamaCare. That is what they are trying to do here. As a doctor, I want insurance to be affordable for patients across the country. This bill confirms what we all know—that ObamaCare is not affordable.

The Senator is well aware of the large premium increases in her own State. It is not just the premiums that are skyrocketing. This week, I spoke to a woman in Wyoming. She told me that the deductible under her ObamaCare plan is so high that her husband refuses to go visit the doctor. She said that it is $6,500 for her and $6,500 for him and that he will not go to a doctor with that kind of a deductible. According to supporters of ObamaCare, this person is actually covered under ObamaCare, but as a doctor, I see things differently in that healthcare must be more affordable for everyone.

The Senator's proposal seeks to throw more money at a systemic problem with ObamaCare. Instead, we should be passing bills that actually bring down the cost of care.

When the Senate mentions the CSRs, I will point out that absolutely every payment has been made—every one—all the way up until today.

People also talk about the sabotage of the market. To me, the sabotaging of the insurance companies and the insurance market in this country has been because of ObamaCare’s mandating that people buy insurance—buy more than they want, more than they need, and more than they can afford in so many cases, and it is insurance that provides very hollow opportunities to actually use the insurance.

Again, I appreciate the acknowledgment that ObamaCare is clearly not working; however, our focus should be on the policies that make healthcare more affordable to all Americans.

I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

The Democratic leader.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that we get our full amount of time and that the time my friend from Wyoming uses be from the Republicans' time at some point later. The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is no order for divided time.

Mr. SCHUMER. Oh. So we have as much time as we need?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is no order.

Mr. SCHUMER. I thank the President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Mrs. SHAHEEN. Mr. President, while I am disappointed, I am not surprised that my colleague from Wyoming has objected to our effort to move forward. He is objecting to ending the uncertainty we have experienced, which is forcing insurers to raise rates because of the uncertainty with which this administration is administering the Affordable Care Act. They have been very clear that they want marketplaces to implode so that the act does not work for people. Senator BARRASSO is objecting to a commonsense step to stabilize the insurance marketplaces.

This is not going to be the last word because this is a commitment we made to American families. The instability here in Washington is what is causing the instability not only in insurance markets but in the country at large.

We are approaching the Fourth of July, which is next week. When our Founders declared independence on July 4, 1776, Benjamin Franklin warned that we must all hang together or we will all hang separately. It is no different today. We all need to come together. We need to work across the aisle. We need to improve the healthcare system so that it works for all Americans. That is our goal. That is why we are here on the floor today, and we need to start by making sure the insurers have some certainty so that they can keep rates low for American families. We will be back, have no doubts about that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Missouri.

Mrs. McCASKILL. Mr. President, I have to say that there are a lot of things my friend from Wyoming could have said in his objection, but to lecture us about bringing out a bill that people have not had a chance to read is a rather unkind move in our legislative journey on healthcare. I do not know if he thought that through before he said it, but I can assure you that when it came out of his mouth, all of us on this side were saying: You have got to be kidding me. Really? It was just a little much.

I know we are all talking around the obvious, and that is that we need to fix the healthcare system in America, so that people do not have to go into their pockets as often, so that insurance is reliable, and so that the markets are more stable. We are going to have a lot of opportunity, I hope, to come together on that just that. I hope my friend from Wyoming and my other friends on the other side of the aisle will be part of that.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUEST—S. 1201

We have a very simple solution to the bare counties, and I hope people will think this through before they just object. I am going to have 25 bare counties, mostly as a result of the sabotaging of the exchanges by this administration. People in those counties are looking to me for an answer, and I do not blame them for being worried. How can we solve that problem today? S. 1201, the Health Care Options for All Act, which I have introduced, will solve that problem today.

All we have to do is say to anyone who is in a bare county in America—and I know my colleague from Ohio, Senator Brown, has some counties, and I know my colleague from Indiana has some counties—if you do not have an insurer in your county, you can come with your state to buy insurance from the same places our staffs buy it and most Members of Congress buy it. Those are national plans. They are in every State in the Union because Members of Congress have staff members in every State in the Union. There is no need to attract more plans. There is no need to do anything complicated. You just take the subsidies that you are entitled to and you buy insurance at the same place Congress buys it.

We can do it today. If we do not do it today, do you know what we are saying to the people who live in Ohio and Indiana and Missouri? We are saying that we are entitled to something better than they have and that they should not be allowed to buy what we can buy. Now, that takes some nerve. If we are not willing to take this simple, basic step, people in these counties should be angry and take up pitchforks—metaphorically, of course.

The reason that is so critical there that my staff uses that are in Springfield, Cape Girardeau, Columbia—and I am sure my colleagues could talk about their staffs using these plans all over the country—I would like to make those available to regular folks in my State who want to be able to lay their heads on their pillows tonight and not worry about whether they are going to have insurance next year.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Finance be discharged from further consideration of S. 1201, the Health Care Options for All Act; that the Senate proceed to its immediate consideration; that the bill be considered read a third time and passed; and that the motion to reconsider be considered made and laid upon the table with no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

The Senator from Wyoming, Mr. BARRASSO. Mr. President, reserving my right to object, before coming to the Senate, I practiced medicine in Wyoming for over 20 years. That is why I am passionate about improving the quality of care and lowering the cost of healthcare. Unfortunately, we know healthcare is in a crisis. Premiums and deductibles are skyrocketing, and insurance is unaffordable.

It is interesting to hear the comments when we are talking about the sabotaging of the marketplace. It is ObamaCare that has sabotaged the marketplace. The Presiding Officer knows that when you look at the co-ops that were set up all around the country under ObamaCare, one after another went bankrupt—belly-up, shut down—and left people uncovered. That was before even knowing the Republican nominee for President was going to be in 2016. That is ObamaCare. That was at a time when all there was out there was the Obama healthcare law. One cop after another failed, and it cost the taxpayers billions of dollars—guaranteed loans that will never be paid back.

Just like the bill we just discussed, this proposal is an important acknowledgment by the Senator from Missouri. It is the acknowledgment that ObamaCar’s collapsing insurance markets are affecting people all around the country. In Missouri, 18,000 people in 25 counties will have zero options on the ObamaCare exchanges—zero. They have been promised that their preexisting conditions will be covered, and now no one is selling insurance in those counties in that State. They have basically been misled by ObamaCare that they will be covered for preexisting conditions. In the Republican plan, what we are doing is covering people who have preexisting conditions.

Let me say again that next year thousands of people in Missouri will have no insurance company that will be willing to sell insurance in the ObamaCare exchange. It is clear that insurance markets in Missouri are collapsing, as they are all around the country.

This bill is not the solution. Instead of giving people more choices in Missouri, what does the bill do? It sends people to Washington, DC, to buy their health insurance—a typical solution from the other side of the aisle. Instead of empowering States with more flexibility and the authority at the State level, they think once again that Washington knows best. They think that the people who are in the pockets of this bureaucrat who is hundreds of miles away than talk with local people who live and work in their communities.

The simple fact is that ObamaCare is not providing patients with the increased choices they were promised. We need to rescue people in Missouri and across the country from ObamaCare. This bill is the wrong approach.

I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mrs. McCASKILL. Mr. President, will the Senator yield for a question?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Wyoming does not have the floor.

The Senator from Missouri.

Mrs. McCASKILL. Mr. President, the next time I will know, when he is giving a speech, before he objects, to start then.

I am pretty sure that his staff in Wyoming is not coming up to Washington to buy their insurance. I am pretty sure that all of our staffs—I am pretty sure that the President’s Office’s staffs, those who work for him in Utah—are not coming to Washington to buy their insurance. I am pretty sure Senator MANCHIN’s staff and Senator PATTY MURRAY’s staff and all of our staffs who live all over this country are not coming to Washington to buy their insurance. They are getting good health insurance plans.

I just think it takes incredible nerve to lecture me about people in Missouri having no insurance while the Senator from Wyoming is objecting to letting them get the same insurance he has. Really? That is what this has come to, this partisan exercise?

We don’t have to fix this permanently this way, but we could do it just temporarily to give people peace of mind until we figure out the right way forward. But how dare Members of this Chamber tell people in my State they are not entitled to buy what we have, when they have no other options at this moment.

Let’s move forward together and fix it—all of it. But to get a lecture that people in my State don’t deserve what my staff has or what Senator BARRASSO’s staff has—no wonder people are upset with Washington.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Ms. KLOBUCHAR. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Wyoming for her good idea and for her passion for this issue and for her correct statement that when people sign up for these exchanges, they don’t have to go by train, plane, or automobile to Washington, DC, to get their insurance.

I yield, when I was home this weekend, over and over, concern from people whom I was surprised to see come up to me. Several people in Winona, MN, came up to me and said: We are Republicans, but we don’t think it is fair if some people may rather pay higher tax cuts are going to the wealthiest.

I heard from people in Lanesboro, MN, small business owners who were worried about what was happening with the proposal from the other side. In Northfield, MN, the town of “Cows, Colleges and Contentment.” I can tell you that they were not very content at the Northfield Hospital as they saw the devastating impact this bill would have on rural hospitals.

So that is why I so appreciate my colleague from North Dakota, Senator HERTITKAMP, bringing people together today to talk about the fact that there is another way forward.

There is another way forward, and the people in this Chamber have done this before. Senator MCCONNELL negotiated with Senator Boxer on a major transportation bill. The last time we had an issue with doctors’ fees, we were able to get that done on a bipartisan basis. So what we are simply asking our colleagues to do is to start afresh and to look at what we could do together to help the people of this country without sabotaging the current healthcare delivery system and without taking this out on the most vulnerable through Medicaid cuts.

Here are some ideas. As to prescription drug prices, why would we not allow the 41 million seniors in this country to harness their bargaining power—as my friend Senator NELSON from Florida understands because he knows there are a lot of seniors in Florida—to harness that bargaining power for lower costs on prescription drugs. The current law bans us from doing that. So all we want to do is to lift that ban and let our seniors negotiate. That is not in this bill we are considering from the Republican side. This is something we can come together and work on.

We can get less expensive drugs in the form of generic drugs. Yet, right now, we have a situation where major prescription drug companies are paying generic companies to keep their products off the market. It is called pay for delay. Senator GRASSLEY and I have a bill to eliminate that. We can bring in less expensive drugs from other countries if, in fact, we have a situation where the prices have ballooned, as they have for the top 10 selling drugs in America. Four of them have gone up over 100 percent.

The exchanges are another area where we have agreement. Senator COLLINS has been working on this. Senator KAINES and Senator CARPER have a bill on this, and Senator SHAHEEN is working on the cost-sharing issue. We can work together to make insurance more affordable for people who are in the exchange.

As to our small business rates, we must work on that. I truly believe we can come together. I will end with this. I got to be at that baseball game in the crowd with the 25,000 people who were watching the two teams go at it, each other. Senator DONNELLY of Indiana was on the field. At the end of the game, after the Democratic team won, they didn’t keep the trophy. They handed the trophy to the Republican team and asked them to place that trophy in Congressman SCALISE’s office.

We are not two teams. We are one team, and that is for our country, for America. So let’s work together on this bill.

Thank you very much, Mr. President.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Delaware.

Mr. CARPER. Mr. President, I love what the Senator from Minnesota just said. I am a retired Navy captain. For years we had healthy competition among the branches of our military services. I salute the folks in the Army, the Marines, the Air Force, and Coast Guard. I always say: The Navy salutes you. Then I also say: a different uniform, the same team. To the extent that we can do that, what we really are on the same team, and I think the American people are anxious for us to start acting that way.

What I hope we will do is to hit the pause button right now on the legislation that has pulled off the floor and that we will use this time as an opportunity not to go to our separate corners and figure out how to do the other team in when we return here in 10 days. I hope we will, as some of our colleagues have suggested, explore some ideas where we can work together.

Some have talked about how to make the marketplaces work. It is not a Republican idea or a Democratic idea. There are the tax credits for the exchange, which is a Republican idea. The individual mandate and the idea that there cannot be prohibitions on insurers denying coverage are Republican ideas too. Those are all ideas from 1993, taken from Mitt Romney, who put them in RomneyCare in Massachusetts, and we put them in the Affordable Care Act.

We didn’t just do this and shut out the Republicans. We had 80 days where we worked on the legislation. I was on the Finance Committee with Senator SCHUMER and others, and we had, I think, a dozen or more hearings and dozens of amendments—over 300 amendments in all. Some 160 Republican amendments were included in the bill. To somehow say that they were being shut out is nonsense. That is a reinvention of history.

Let’s do it the right way. At the end of the day, we will do what President Trump has been calling for, for the last 5, 6, 7, 8 months, as I recall. He said: Why don’t we cover everybody, why don’t we provide better coverage, and why don’t we do it in a more affordable way.

Unfortunately, what Republicans have offered and what they pulled off the floor doesn’t do that. It provides less coverage for more money. It says to people—the least well off in our society—that the Republicans have less coverage in order to give folks who make a lot of money, and really don’t need a tax break, a tax break.

That is not consistent with the Golden Rule. The President knows it well. We are supposed to treat other people the way we want to be treated. That is an example of a failure with respect to the Golden Rule.

I came here to get things done. We tried hard to involve the Republicans 8 years ago. They may not acknowledge that. The people in this country still want us to really bear down and work together. We can do this. On the other side of the day, we will be better as a party, we will be better as a body, and we will be better as a country.

I want to thank Senator WARNER for letting me speak before him. Thank you so much. I will say to Senator KAINES: Thank you for allowing me to be your partner on a great reinsurance plan that will help stabilize the exchanges. I am delighted to be your wingman. Thank you.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Virginia.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I urge my friend, the Senator from Delaware, to get to the train station.

First of all, I wish to thank Senator HERTITKAMP for bringing this group together. There has been a lot of talk about what ideas can fix the Affordable Care Act, and here we are hearing some of the ideas that we will offer.

Senator KAINES has heard me hear this story before, but before I was in politics, I had a pretty long career in venture capital and invested in a lot of businesses. Some of those businesses managed to eke out a living, but the thing that was remarkable about the companies that were the most successful weren’t the ones that had the perfect business plan. They weren’t the ones that had the newest ideas. The companies that were the most successful were the ones that were able to adapt and change. I never, ever invested in a business that ever met its business plan. Every one had to change in some way—alter.

The truth of the matter is, as to the Affordable Care Act, for all its good things, there were things we got wrong. I will be the first to acknowledge that. There have been a lot of us in this body who over the last couple of years—again, I thank the Senator from North Dakota, who has been a part of these discussions—who need to do a little less bureaucracy in the ACA in terms of reporting requirements. Maybe we ought to have a cheaper option. We have gold and silver and bronze. I remember working with the former Senator from Alaska on this. Maybe we ought to have a copper plan, as well, to try to get those young people invested in buying that first plan.

We said that maybe we ought to take an idea that came from the other side of the aisle, and as long as we have appropriate consumer protections, go ahead and let insurance products get sold across State lines so there is more competition. Then, we saw more problems arise. Unfortunately, problems arose with the ACA, as we have seen this administration and others try to knock out some of the building blocks that built up the ACA—risk corridors, cost sharing, or more recently the administration’s, that we may just ignore part of the bill that says there is an individual mandate. Consequently, that means the insurance company had to charge a heck of a lot more money because they weren’t sure whether the law was going to be in force.

We have had people like the Senator from New Hampshire say: Well, I had an idea on cost sharing that might fix it. My dear friends, the other Senator from Virginia and the Senator from Delaware said: Let’s go out and do that reinsurance plan, so that if there are extraordinarily high-cost plans, maybe that will be a secondary backdoor so premiums will not have to be so high. I am proud to support and be a cosponsor on both of those pieces of legislation.

Then, as only the Senator from Missouri can do, she came up with the most obvious of, at least, a short-term solution, which was to go gosh, if for any reason, because there have been efforts to sabotage the ACA, we don’t have enough offerings for at least some stopgap period, we ought to allow all the folks in our States, if they don’t have any coverage, to at least get the same kind of coverage we get. That is kind of Harry Truman basic common sense—Missouri common sense.

So I hope our colleagues, after they get out of one more secret meeting in one more basement or secret location, will come back and start talking about these solutions—solutions that don’t start with the premise that we are going to give folks like me a tax cut or that we are going to take a meat ax to Medicaid or that we are going to come up with something that will take 22 million Americans off of health insurance.

The ACA didn’t get it entirely right. There is a lot of room for improvement. We have asked our friends on the other side to meet us halfway and to try to bring the kind of bipartisan spirit we all talk about on this issue that affects each and every American and one-sixth of our economy. We can do it. We can do it right, but it is going to take the kind of cooperation and the kinds of good ideas that are being offered by my colleagues on the floor.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Florida.

Mr. NELSON. Mr. President, all of the Florida people walk up to me and say: Bill, what is going on? Why can’t Congress get together? Why can’t we work together? We do in our committees. We do usually work together. We certainly do with Senator TRUMEx, who is the chairman of the Commerce Committee. This Senator is the ranking member. We get a lot of things out. We are going to mark up the FAA bill tomorrow. There are a lot of controversial issues. We are going to get that out. Why can’t we do it with healthcare?

So, last night, I had a telephone town hall in my State of Florida and 6,000 people joined. They asked questions for an hour. Often, they would get through asking their question and they would say: I wish you guys could work together. So that is what we have been hearing in all of these speeches.

Well, let me give one suggestion that would lower premiums in the existing law, the Affordable Care Act, 13 percent. I had it costed out in Florida. Every now and then, you are going to have a catastrophic loss. It is kind of like when I was the elected insurance commissioner of Florida, and I inherited the mess after the monster hurricane. Hurricane Andrew was such a monster hurricane that it took down a million homes in south Florida, you know, because the losses were so big. So we had to try to get insurance companies to come back into Florida. We created a reinsurance fund. We called it the Florida Hurricane Catastrophic Fund, which was to reinsure, or insure, the insurance companies against catastrophic loss.

That is what we can do right here. We could be like my poor constituent, Megan, who fought cancer for 2 years, two transplants, and ultimately lost the battle, but the bill was $8 million. That is hard for any insurance company to swallow, but those are going to be limited, isolated cases.

Why don’t we create a reinsurance fund for the marketplace in the Affordable Care Act to help the insurance companies with catastrophic loss? I asked: If we did that in Florida, with the Florida marketplace, what would it mean? It would reduce the insurance premiums under the marketplace in Florida by 13 percent. That is just one suggestion.

Every one of us has a suggestion. Put all of these suggestions together, and we are talking about really fixing the current law, instead of this roadway we see our friends on the other side of the aisle going down—a solution that is going to take coverage away from 22 million people and is going to cut $3800 billion out of Medicaid and eviscerate Medicare or that is going to charge premium dollars for Americans five times as much as the young. We don’t have to do that. Let’s come up with a creative idea to fix the existing law.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Virginia.

Mr. Kaine. Mr. President, I also rise to talk about my own involvement in this in the last few months. The story, to me, exemplifies an important principle, and that is a bad process will produce a bad product. This bill was the subject of a very bad process. The bill that was put on the floor was a bill that ignored and shut out all Democrats from participating. More importantly, it shut out the committee members from participating. Most importantly, it shut out the public from participating. That led to a bill that was destined to be bad. So we ought to fix it.

Our Democratic leader is just exiting the Chamber. He asked me after I came back from the national ticket—as a cabinet nominee, what would you be on the HELP Committee? This is the committee I have wanted to be on since I came to the Senate—Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions. I have been a mayor; and I have been a governor. I have been a local and State government for 60 years. Education is the biggest line item, and health is the second biggest line item. This is what I actually know something about. I was so thrilled to join the committee. But, boy, was I naive. I assumed that being on the HELP Committee meant we would get to have a hearing about a healthcare bill.

I got on the committee on the 3rd of January. On the 5th of January, with many of my colleagues, we wrote a letter to the Republican leader and to the Republican chair of Health and Finance—13 of us; we had been on the committee for 2 days—and said: If you want to talk about improving healthcare, we have to sit down with you right now and talk about improvements to healthcare.

I guess I am a naive 58-year-old. I thought, now I am on the committee. Now I am where things will happen, and we will get to actually fix healthcare. But instead, since I have been on the committee—and I have committee colleagues here who will attest to this—we have had hearings on higher ed, we have had hearings on Cabinet nominees, we have had hearings on FDA reform issues. But the one taboo topic on our committee is that we are not allowed to have a hearing about the healthcare bill.

We asked for one after the House passed their bill; we couldn’t have a hearing. The Senate bill has been put on the floor; we haven’t had a hearing, and as far as we know, there will be no hearing. So those of us who are focused on this issue have no opportunity, but, more important—it is not about committee membership. For us, to be talking about this and wondering what a hearing is about, a hearing is about hearing from the public. You have a witness table.
You get a patient and a doctor and a nurse. You get an insurance executive and a pharmaceutical executive. You get a small business having a hard time buying health insurance. You get them all to sit there and tell you what they like, what they don’t like, and what can be done. That is what has been shunted aside in this process, so the public isn’t heard and the committees can’t do their work.

Our ranking member on this committee, Senator Amos Washburn, has written: I had watched her as the Budget chair—where work out a great bipartisan budget deal in December of 2013, with then-House Budget chair, now-House Speaker PAUL RYAN. We worked it out. It was bipartisan.

I watched our ranking Democrat on the HELP Committee work with the chair on the HELP Committee, LAMAR ALEXANDER, 2 years ago to do something most people thought was impossible: undo and rewrite No Child Left Behind into the Every Student Succeeds Act. It was 7 years past the reauthorization date because it was too controversial. But I watch them use the committee process, entertain ideas, hear from the public, rewrite the bill, then conference with the House, and then get it to the President for signature.

Why is healthcare taboo on the HELP Committee? Let the committees do their best to do the greatest deliberative body in the world deliberate. Let the Senate be the Senate, and let us work together.

My colleagues have mentioned that I put an idea on the table. It is not a fix—everything idea, but it is a particular idea with a lot of bipartisan cred, and it is the notion, as some of my colleagues have said, of reinsurance. Senator CARPER and I have introduced the Reinsurance Succeeds Act. It is a bipartisan member work out a great bipartisan budget deal in December of 2013, in which the House, and then get it to the President for signature.

The right process is this: When the President calls for tax reform, the Senate Finance; Senator Alexander and Senator Reed leading us in that. We get to the end of the day, and we had a committee vote. After that discussion and listening to one another across the table, back and forth, the committee vote was 27 to 0—27 to 0. We got all the Dems on board.

The Presiding Officer knows the next step-back this week enables us to take that chance, and we should seize it and work together.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Ms. HEITKAMP. Mr. President, I wish to make some concluding remarks.

I share the concerns that Senator BARRASSO expressed. I hear from ranch families and I hear from farm families about the unaffordability of their health insurance premiums. I hear about high deductibles. I hear about what has happened in the health insurance market has made it more difficult for them to cover their families. I hear that.

We have solutions we have been talking about that could lower those costs. Some of those people are on the exchanges, that drives the healthcare costs up.

But I have a question. I have a question for people who are advancing the Republican healthcare bill: Why do you have to give the richest Americans in this country a tremendous tax break to solve that problem? How does giving the top 0.1 percent of taxpayers in this country over a $250,000 a year tax break—how does that fix the problem for my ranchers? How does that fix the problem for my farm families? You know the honest answer: It doesn’t.

I need to understand how taking billions of the Medicaid system, driving sicker, older people who tend to be in the Medicaid population onto the exchanges into the individual marketplace—how does that help that farm family we talk about almost every week on the floor of the Senate, that farm family, that individual who is paying excess premiums? It does nothing for them.

This is all some smoke-and-mirrors deal. What we have done today—almost 15 of us have come to the floor, and what we are saying is: Let’s fix the problems. We can all acknowledge that we have a healthcare system where really sick people have a hard time finding affordability. When you put really sick people into an insurance pool, it drives up the cost for everyone.

How do we manage that? The insurance industry tells me the average time on the individual exchange is 10 months. How do you take someone with five chronic conditions and manage them in a 10-month period? You don’t. So they hop from plan to plan, costing more and more.

If you want to reduce costs, you have to figure out how we can better treat the sickest among us. Until we do that, we will not achieve the common goal, which is reducing and bending the costs of healthcare in this country. We cannot achieve that goal. When all we are doing is saying: No, we don’t want to pay, we are going to make the States pay or we are going to make people on the individual exchange pay or we are going to make people do what they have done before, which is not have coverage and put them into uncompensated care, that will not solve the problem.

We have some great examples here for the immediate concern that we have about the premiums that are going to be expressed. In some ways, this reflects concerns about the increased costs of healthcare and what is happening in that individual market, but it is being driven by the failure to fulfill the statutory obligation—reinsurance, cost sharing.

I do have to point out that I found it interesting to see the objection to the President’s bill that was that, oh, we haven’t had time to take a look at it, haven’t had time to even considering this cost-sharing issue. Really?

This is the last page of the Republican bill, page 145, stating in section 208, “Funding for Cost-Sharing Payments.” I will give you, it is a different schedule, different formula in the Shafeen bill, but this is not a new concept. If we wanted today to give the insurance industry the certainty they needed, we would not object to the fact that the premium increases reflected not uncertainty but reflected actual costs, we would do this: We would take up Jeanne’s bill. The very bill that the Republicans have advanced says, “There is appropriated to the Secretary of Health and Human Services, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, such sums that may be necessary for payments for cost-sharing redounded by the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (including adjustments to any prior obligations).”

The same provision was in the House bill. How can it be objectionable to have to put a provision that has been advanced in both Republican bills? How can that be objectionable when so much is riding on that, when the healthcare and availability of insurance to our families is riding on making sure we at least have some kind of stopgap measures in the exchanges that will guarantee a stability that will make insurance available?

If we don’t know what is going to happen with those counties—we know there are counties that haven’t even have uninsured in them. Senator McCaskill offered an opportunity. Guess what. How about they get their insurance where our staff get our insurance or some among us get our insurance? Is that not what it is some kind of Washington solution.

What is ironic about that is that provision that made Senate staff in our home States get their health insurance on the DC exchange came from Senator Grassley during the debate on the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, not a Democratic idea. It was a Republican idea and certainly something that bears at least a discussion, certainly something that ought to be talked about here.

Let’s not pretend there has been an outreach to people on the Democratic side. Today the Democratic leader offered to go to Blair House, offered to bring people together at Blair House, have a sitdown on healthcare, offered to go to the Senate—the Old Senate Chamber, no cameras, let’s talk about healthcare. What we get is: You are not serious.

I want you to know I am dead serious about sitting down and trying to fashion a healthcare plan that actually fixes the problems we have right now in affordability of health insurance.

When someone says, well, you have to accept tax breaks as part of that for the richest Americans, think about this: 40 million Americans will get a tax break under the Republican bill—400. Just 400 Americans will get a tax break under the Republican bill, equal to what it would cost for Medicaid expansion in four States.

Make no mistake, this is not healthcare reform we are talking about. That bill is not healthcare reform. It is entitlement reform in Medicaid, shifting costs to States and patients. It is tax reform, making sure the wealthiest among us get a tax break.

If we want to talk about healthcare reform, if we want to talk about fixing the ACA, let’s not throw out what is working. Let’s make sure we are fixing and addressing the problems that we here express every day that come in our mail and that we know we have to address in order to make the system fair, that is, younger, healthier people need a break. They need to find an affordable product.

How are we going to do that? We have seen ideas here today, ideas that could take care of—even if we just made them temporary, even if we made them permanent. At this point, we could stabilize all of this today and begin that today, but yet it is objected to.

I think the message we want to send is we stand ready to fix the healthcare system. We stand ready to work with the other side of the aisle. We stand ready to address the concerns we hear from our constituents about the healthcare system.

If we really want to respond to the concerns the American public has about the U.S. Congress, we better start working together. We better start finding a path forward to solve problems, real problems, not pretend problems but real problems in this country.

That way we will, in fact, enrich and enhance our democracy. Until we do that, we continue to struggle to get credibility with the American public, and that is not, ladies and gentlemen, Members of the Senate, a formula for success for our democracy.

With that, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Tillis). The majority leader.
