The House met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mrs. Mimi Walters of California).

DESIGNATION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC, November 2, 2017.

I hereby appoint the Honorable Mimi Walters to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

P. D. RYAN, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

MORNING-HOUR DEBATE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of January 3, 2017, the Chair will now recognize Members from lists submitted by the majority and minority leaders for morning-hour debate.

The Chair will alternate recognition between the parties. All time shall be equally allocated between the parties, and in no event shall debate continue beyond 11:50 a.m. Each Member, other than the majority and minority leaders and the minority whip, shall be limited to 5 minutes.

REMEMBERING PAT GILBREATH

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. Aguilar) for 5 minutes.

Mr. AGUILAR. Madam Speaker, today, I rise to honor the life of someone I was lucky to call a colleague and mentor—Redlands City Council member Pat Gilbreath.

I was heartbroken to learn of Pat’s passing in early October, but I will always be grateful for her countless contributions to our community. Her imprint can be seen throughout the city of Redlands and our region. She was the earliest advocate for Redlands’ passenger rail, supported the Healthy Communities Initiative and Open Space Initiative to honor our citrus heritage.

When I was just starting out on the city council, Pat’s leadership and poise helped shape the type of public servant that I aim to be. She was pragmatic, measured, and listened intently to the public.

I will always be thankful for everything that she taught me, not the least of which was how to hide the chocolate in the city council dais so we could eat it during our late night council meetings.

A loving mother and grandmother, she was always proud to beam about her family. I know that when they look at her legacy and the impact she made in the community, her family can be just as proud of her.

Pat will always be remembered in our region for her thoughtfulness, her dedication, and her problem-solving ability. I will always remember her for her friendship.

ERIE COUNTY INNOVATION BEEHIVE SUPPORTS ENTREPRENEURS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Thompson) for 5 minutes.

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Madam Speaker, I recently visited the Innovation Commons at Penn State Behrend in Erie County, which is an idea lab that offers support for entrepreneurs and startup companies.

It opened in January of 2016 to innovators, including those at the student level, who sought a place to organize, collaborate, compose, and construct their ideas.

The Innovation Commons is a part of the Innovation Beehive, which is housed at, and managed by, Penn State Behrend. It is in partnership with three additional Erie County universities: Mercyhurst, Gannon, and Edinboro. It was the first of its kind in 2016, and its success established a business network across Erie County—or, in other words, the beehive.

The beehive sites will operate as both individual service providers and as part of a larger, connected network, with multiple points of access for entrepreneurs. All services will be available to the public and to businesses seeking to develop new products or enter new markets.

Each lab will specialize in different aspects of product or business development:

Edinboro University will provide advertising, marketing, and public relations strategies for business startups. Both current students and those entrepreneurs in the community can all seek assistance with all of these universities. The lab, which will be equipped with high-end printers, art supplies, drafting tables, and other multimedia support, will be located in the Baron-Forness Library.

Gannon University will focus on business development, including business analysis. The Gannon beehive, which will be located in the Center for Business Ingenuity, will offer access to the Small Business Development Center and the Erie Technology Incubator.

Mercyhurst University will provide business intelligence services and solutions to help developers commercialize their ideas. Blended faculty-student teams will use high-end computers, plotters, and other tools to develop custom intelligence products from within the Ridge College of Intelligence Studies.

Madam Speaker, this northwest Pennsylvania Innovation Beehive network is working to serve the region. It will enable innovators to access universities’ resources and applied research.
capabilities for new business development or expansion at little to no cost. I recently participated in a roundtable discussion with the university presidents, and I am very excited to see this collaborative effort take root in Erie County. This is an excellent partnership that will give innovators and students hands-on, real-world experience to test their ideas and make their dreams become reality.

Madam Speaker, I am glad to see Erie County leveraging the strengths of these four universities for the betterment of the community. I look forward to seeing what this brings to the region.

REPUBLICAN TAX PLAN

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York (Mr. JEFFRIES) for 5 minutes.

Mr. JEFFRIES. Madam Speaker, the so-called Republican tax plan will increase taxes on the middle class, explode the deficit, and undermine Medicare and Medicaid. It will saddle your children and grandchildren with more than $1 trillion in debt, simply to provide millionaires and billionaires with a massive tax cut.

Now, House Republicans will argue that trickle-down economics, supply-side economics, and dynamic scoring will somehow magically save the day. But the notion that massive tax cuts for millionaires and billionaires will somehow result in strong economic growth is a phony, fraudulent, and fake notion that trickle-down economics, supply-side economics, and dynamic scoring will somehow magically save the day.

But the notion that massive tax cuts for millionaires and billionaires, it didn't result in strong economic growth. It led to a massive deficit.

When Ronald Reagan cut taxes on millionaires and billionaires, it didn't lead to a massive deficit. When George W. Bush cut taxes on millionaires and billionaires, it didn't result in strong economic growth. It led to the Great Recession.

When the Republican Governor of Kansas cut taxes on millionaires and billionaires, it didn't result in strong economic growth. It led to prison riots, overcrowded schools, and crumbling infrastructure.

We cannot allow this scheme to happen to the United States of America. The American people deserve a better deal.

VETERAN-OWNED SMALL BUSINESSES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FITZPATRICK) for 5 minutes.

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Madam Speaker, our veterans represent one of the most highly skilled workforces in American history—the product of rigorous training, an ironclad commitment to teamwork, and the remarkable ability to succeed where others might fail. It is hard to imagine there were 45 percent more likely to be self-employed than nonveterans. In total, veteran-owned businesses make up nearly 10 percent of all businesses in the United States and account for more than $1 trillion in business receipts every year.

One of those businesses is Navmar Applied Sciences Corporation, based in Warrington. Owned by Air Force veteran Tom Fenerty, Navmar engineers technology to make sure that our military has the best tools possible to complete any mission. Tom has also committed to employing veterans in the community. I am privileged to represent Tom and others like him in Congress.

In honor of their service—both in uniform and as part of our economy—I am proud to recognize the importance of veteran-owned small businesses in our community by introducing and supporting H. Res. 586, which recognizes National Veterans Small Business Week this week, from October 3 to November 3.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues—and all Americans—to join me in supporting the veteran-owned small businesses in our community.

NATIONAL OBESITY CARE WEEK

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize National Obesity Care Week and the over 90 million adult Americans living with obesity. National Obesity Care Week is recognized during the first week of November, when individuals and organizations from across the country raise awareness about the serious chronic disease of obesity.

Leading medical organizations, including the American Medical Association, the Obesity Society, the American Academy of Family Physicians, the American Association of Clinical Endocrinologists, and the World Obesity Federation, all recognize obesity as a disease and the belief that it should be treated as such.

National Obesity Care Week aims to advance an evidence-based understanding of obesity and widespread acceptance of responsive, and appropriate care. Obesity is a complex disease, linked to over 50 disorders, including type 2 diabetes, hypertension, and cardiovascular disease. Over $1.4 trillion is spent in the U.S. on direct and indirect costs for health-related conditions related to obesity each year.

This must change, Madam Speaker.

National Obesity Care Week aims to advocate for policies and actions that support the well-being of people living with obesity. This is the issue of our generation. It is an issue of public health, economic security, and social justice.

So Mario kept his head down. He studied, worked through high school to help pay the bills, and saved up money for the future. Mario expects to graduate from college next year. He wants to work in the renewable energy industry. He says he intends to help America with the advancement of fusion energy.

He wants to work in the renewable energy industry. He says he intends to help America with the advancement of fusion energy.

And then there is Maria, who started attending school in Framingham, Massachusetts, when she was in the first grade. She describes learning American history, listening to popular music, and watching the Disney channel like the rest of her friends, but something was different.

Unlike her friends, she realized she couldn't get a driver's license. As a teenager, she suffered the crushing fear that every knock on the door could mean that she would never see her loved ones again. She feared that applying for college would mean exposing her family, a cruel reality for someone who was the valedictorian of her graduating class.
When DACA was enacted, a life of fear became a life of possibility. Marla could now drive. She could earn and save money. She could go to college and contribute to her community.

Marla not only went to college, she graduated at the top of her class. She bought a home and is now contributing her talents to the Commonwealth’s innovation economy.

Last week, Marla bravely came to me as a DREAMer, in front of her coworkers, because she wanted to make a difference.

Madam Speaker, DREAMers are bright, young people who are American in their hearts and in their minds. They are American in every way but on paper, and their dream for a better future is unmistakably American.

What these young people deserve is the chance to sit in a classroom and graduate at the top of their class. She could go to college and contribute to her community. She could go to work, get paid, and save money. She could go to college.

I am proud of the work the House of Representatives has done and I hope it can give us momentum for tackling more pressing issues like tax reform and infrastructure.

CONGRESSIONAL REVIEW ACT PROGRESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. COHEN) for 5 minutes.

Mr. COHEN. Madam Speaker, on Tuesday, we had the holiday of Halloween, and a character came to my house with paint all over their face, and I thought they were the musical group KISS. Well, they weren’t.

They were the Trump administration, disguised as the Trump administration, and we know the logo of KISS: Keep it simple, stupid. That is what the Trump administration’s attempts are to the American people.

The previous speaker made some comments about regulations and said this was the Obama administration’s attempt to stop Second Amendment advocates from getting guns, arbitrarily, for Social Security recipients. Well, that sounds good. It is simple. Keep it simple.

Well, they weren’t Social Security recipients. They were Social Security recipients who had been declared incompetent to manage their own affairs. That is who they said shouldn’t get guns, not Social Security recipients.

The previous speaker said something about abortion provider Planned Parenthood getting their funds cut off. Planned Parenthood does most of their work the House of Representatives has been passed and signed into law. These rules no longer exist because the Trump administration is doing its best to return some of Washington’s bureaucratic power to the American people.

In his 8 years, President Obama added 18,000 pages to the Federal Register, and we saw that administration every day that he held office. This habit costs American households roughly $15,000 per year, each.

While President Obama is no longer in office, his regulatory state is alive and well, but especially long. Madam Speaker, the people of Alabama elected me to help put an end to that, and I am proud to report that is exactly what we are doing. The House is changing the game because the American people deserve better for unnecessary Big Government mandates. We have utilized the Congressional Review Act to strike 15 Federal regulations that were imposed by executive action.

What kind of regulations?

One extended intrusive, over-reaching, and punitive environmental penalties on energy companies, costing tens of thousands of jobs, but not anymore.

One attempted to force State and local schools to use Washington’s preferred teacher preparation programs, undermining local control—not anymore.

One restricted States’ ability to enforce existing laws stopping otherwise able-bodied drug abusers from receiving unemployment benefits—not anymore.

One attempted to take away the Second Amendment rights of millions of Americans without due process by arbitrarily restricting Social Security disability beneficiaries from purchasing firearms—not anymore.

Finally, one attempted to force States to steer millions in Title X funding to abortion provider Planned Parenthood, even over the State’s objections—not anymore, thank God.

These rules no longer exist because they are no longer working together with the Trump administration to tear America apart at any given moment. Though they know no other country, they have charted their own path to success. Despite it all, they have excelled and succeeded in their hearts and in their minds.

Madam Speaker, DREAMers like Richard, Mario, and Marla in our communities, where they saved lives, and contributed to her community.

They brought a sonogram in and showed a sonogram on the monitor. What they didn’t do when they talked about their “culture of death” was bring in any lifesaving equipment that will not be available when they cut $1 billion from Medicaid and $500 million from Medicare in their tax proposal, when they put 23 million people off of healthcare, the Affordable Care Act, which is what they tried to do but couldn't accomplish.

It is not enough to sit here and watch what is happening to our country. Having the Trump administration tell the middle class they are going to get a tax cut on the one hand, but on the other hand, they are creating over a trillion dollars in debt, where is that debt going to come from? It is going to come from programs that the middle class will have to give up, so they will be net losers.

One of the main thrusts of their tax proposal is to eliminate the State tax, originally to do it immediately. Now they are talking about maybe phasing it out over 5 or 6 years. That will cost the Federal budget $290 billion. That will come from Pell grants that give people the opportunity to go to college and not have a terrible debt over their heads when they leave; and SNAP payments that give nutritional benefits to people that otherwise would go without, the families that would go without food and proper nutritional benefits; and even LIHEAP, which gives help with heating bills to people who can't afford it in difficult winter conditions.

What they are proposing is not a middle class tax cut. It is a cut for the wealthiest in our country, and that is who will get the benefits. That is who they are about.

Their whole program is KISS: Keep it simple, stupid. That is the only way they can try to sell their wealthy tax break, their aims to prevent women from getting proper healthcare, and their attacks on women in general.

It is unfortunate what we see, what we saw earlier this week in the indictment's handed out to Mr. Manafort, Mr. Gates, and the guilty plea of Mr. Papadopoulos. Individuals involved with the campaign and the administration have not been the best, as they were supposed to be. In fact, they are suspected of criminal behavior, and one has admitted to it.

Our democracy is at risk, and I fear what could happen to it. That is why I introduced an amendment to the Constitution to limit the President's pardon power so he couldn't pardon himself, members of his family, members of his administration, or paid members of his campaign staff.

He has already pardoned Joe Arpaio, and he has threatened to use that power in furtherance as he discussed the possibility of pardoning himself. If he does so, any of these pardons, it will be a test of my colleagues on the other side.

We must protect democracy and protect America from unlawful activity.

God bless America.

NEW YORK CITY TERRORIST ATTACK

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR) for 5 minutes.

Ms. KAPTUR. Madam Speaker, earlier this week a driver whom law enforcement has identified as Sayfullo Saipov drove his pickup truck into a crowd in Manhattan, killing 8 people and injuring 11. Local officials called it the deadliest attack since September 11, 2001, in that city.

My heart breaks for those who have lost loved ones for their families, for their friends, and for their colleagues—due to this violent act. Two Americans and six of whom were tourists visiting our Nation and New York City to experience the wonders of America's largest metropolis met the crass act, the murderous act of a terrorist.

Our Nation's deep gratitude goes out to the first responders. Imagine these heroic Americans who intervened under very chaotic circumstances to bring down this criminal. Imagine yourself in that position.

This attack raises many questions about how this individual came to America and how he was allowed to stay. The President's tweets obliquely blame this person, someone in Congress, someone not in Congress, but he misses the larger point: our Federal Government, the legislative branch—the first defined in our Constitution—the executive branch, and the judicial branch, need to work together to tackle our flawed immigration system.

How can we make it more secure while upholding our values as a nation of immigrants? The Bible reminds us: At one point, you and your predecessors and your family were aliens, too.

These are the questions to which we should be dedicating ourselves. We have security systems we must perfect, but it requires working together. We are supposed to be the adults in the Republic. A true leader would convene a working group of both parties, along with other experts, to tackle these security challenges brought to light again by this tragedy. Wouldn't that be constructive? Instead, there is more division. That is not a recipe for success.

Let's not forget a comprehensive bill passed in the Senate by a vote of 68-32 and a bipartisan House companion bill that had 201 cosponsors, but the Republican-controlled House here refused to bring that bill to the floor for a vote. That bipartisan reform bill on immigration eliminated the diversity visa lottery by which the murderer got into this country. Imagine if that bill had been passed. We would be in a different position.

We can work together, but we must move past the fear-mongering, the talking points, the cheap political stunts to appeal to a media that runs 24/7 and just looks for more fodder. Our job in Congress is to defend our Constitution and, in so doing, defend liberty. This includes our primary responsibility to work together to assure that our people feel safe and secure. We defend the Constitution by defending and protecting them.

The goal must not be division. The goal cannot be a shallow attention and tweets on social media and cable news. Our people have a higher calling that our Constitution defines. The recent terrible tragedy in New York City reminds us that unity is always powerful, and it surmounts division.

It is time for that unity in this Capitol, and I look for the leadership in the Presidency, in this Chamber, and in the judicial branch to achieve it.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12(a) of rule I, the Chair declares the House in recess until noon today.

Accordingly (at 10 o'clock and 32 minutes a.m.), the House stood in recess.

PRAYER

 Pastor Kenneth Codner, Grace Baptist Church, Bellefonte, Pennsylvania, offered the following prayer:

Heavenly Father, I am humbled to be able to stand before You on behalf of this assembly here today.

Lord, we are sinners, deserving none of Your favor. But, Father, I come to You on the merit of the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, who cleansed me from my sins in His shed blood.

Father, we are aware, more than any, of the bitter divisiveness throughout this room and across this Nation of ours. I know that this grieves Your heart, Father. I pray that we would repent of our sins, that You might forgive them and heal this land of ours.

Father, I pray that You will work in the hearts of the Members of Congress, that they be willing to put aside their political expediency and partisan politics and personal agendas, that they would strive to do what is best for our Nation as a whole and uphold the Constitution which they avowed to uphold, that they would seek to do what is pleasing in Your sight, that they would seek Your will and wisdom for the decisions of this day and each and every day.

I ask these things in the precious name of Jesus Christ, my Savior.

Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day’s proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GENE GREEN) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

WELCOMING PASTOR KENNETH CODNER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. THOMPSON) is recognized for 1 minute.

There was no objection.

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to welcome Pastor Kenneth Codner to the House of Representatives as today’s guest chaplain.

Pastor Codner is a native of Owego, New York, and he graduated from Alfred Agricultural and Technical College in 1975.

A couple of years later, through the help of a coworker, he trusted the Lord Jesus Christ as his personal savior. And he had a desire to make his life count for God.

In 1976, he enrolled in the Bible program at Tennessee Temple University. Two years later, he transferred to North Star Bible Institute in Rochester, New York, graduating in 1983, with a degree in theology.

In June 1983, he moved to Kansas to be the pastor of the Dove Bible Baptist Church, serving there for 17 years.

He is married to Eileen Garrison, and God blessed their union with five wonderful children.

In September of 2000, they moved to Bellefonte, Pennsylvania. In 2002, he founded the Grace Baptist Church, where he has served as pastor ever since.

Mr. Speaker, it is an honor to have Pastor Codner and his family here today.

PROVIDING FOR A CORRECTION IN THE ENROLLMENT OF S. 782

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker’s table the concurrent resolution (S. Con. Res. 28) providing for a correction in the enrollment of S. 782, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the concurrent resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

The text of the concurrent resolution is as follows:

S. CON. RES. 28
Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That in the enrollment of the bill S. 782, the Secretary of the Senate shall make the following corrections:

(1) In section 2, strike "42 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.", and insert "34 U.S.C. 21101 et seq.".

(2) In section 2, strike "42 U.S.C. 1701a(a)(10)", and insert "34 U.S.C. 2117a(a)(10)".

The concurrent resolution was concurred in.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will entertain up to 15 further requests for 1-minute speeches on each side of the aisle.

AND THE FANS GO WILD

(Mr. POE of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, it is game seven of the World Series. Best hitting team in baseball, the Houston Astros Orange, versus the best pitching team in baseball, the LA Dodgers Blue. The series is tied up three games apiece.

Top of the second inning, Springer is at the plate. It is the third pitch. Springer loads up and belts it. Home run. Springer smacks his fifth round trip. The World Series. The Astros are up 5-0.

Next inning—next several innings—all the bats are silent, except LA, the best record team in baseball, gets a run.

It is the bottom of the ninth. The Astros take the field. Score: 5-1. One out. Two outs. Houston pitcher Morton sends a sinker straight across the plate. It is a ground ball. Three outs.

It is all over but the shouting. Astros win! Astros win! World Series Champions of 2017.

The championship predicted in 2014 by "Sports Illustrated" with Springer on the cover finally happens after 55 years.

And the city of Houston goes ASTRO-nomical.

TAX PLAN

(Mr. HIGGINS of New York asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. HIGGINS of New York. Mr. Speaker, the tax policy center, the Wharton School, and virtually every rational economist have reviewed the House Republican tax cut plan and the results are clear: no new good economic growth, big debt and deficit, and big tax cuts for corporations and very rich Americans.

Three million wealthy Americans will get a tax cut next year of $220,000; 250 million not-so-rich Americans will get a tax cut of $221. If you make $730,000, your income next year will increase by 8.5 percent. If you make $150,000, it will increase by 1 percent.

Where are all of the deficit hawks? Where are any of the deficit hawks?

This tax plan is nothing more than fraud being perpetrated against middle America.

I ask my colleagues to reject this plan.

CHAMPIONING HEALTHY KIDS

(Ms. STEFANIK asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. STEFANIK. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to urge my colleagues to support the CHAMPIONING HEALTHY KIDS Act. This critical healthcare legislation provides a 5-year extension to the CHIP program that so many children and low-income families rely on.

In my district alone, over 21,000 children use CHIP for access to low-cost healthcare services.

I am also proud that this legislation includes a needed 2-year extension of funding for community health centers. This is an issue I have worked on, as almost 95,000 people in my district receive critical healthcare and preventative services from these centers.

There is still much more work to do to improve our healthcare system for families in the north country.

In Congress, I will keep fighting to protect the programs our district depends on, and I will continue working toward the affordable, high-quality healthcare system that my district deserves.

CHILDREN’S HEALTH INSURANCE PROGRAM

(Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Speaker, first of all, I want to thank the Houston Astros for winning the World Series and giving some folks in Houston and southeast Texas something to cheer about. We have had a tough few months, but you could see from last night that there is a lot of cheering in Houston.

But I am here to talk about a major issue that is really important: the Children’s Health Insurance Program—the CHIP program—and the federally qualified health centers. Both programs are bedrocks of our health system, providing health insurance for over 9 million lower income children, and serving on the front lines of primary care, providing high-quality primary and preventative care for 25 million Americans.

Congress let funding for these programs expire more than a month ago, and we must act in a bipartisan manner to strengthen and sustain them. Both CHIP and community health centers have always had strong bipartisan support since their creation 20 and 50 years ago, respectively, but not this time. We should not cut Medicaid to fund these two programs. You are taking money away from the poorest children to give to the less poor children. We need to support vaccination programs, infectious disease detection and prevention, and chronic disease prevention. We need to make sure this bill is bipartisan, and it is not right now.

DREAMERS

(Mrs. ROS-LEHTINEN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, there are less than 21 legislative days left this calendar year, and the House has yet to vote for a permanent solution to protect DREAMers from deportation.

H.R. 3440, known as the Dream Act, introduced by Congresswoman LUCILLE ROYBAL-ALLARD and me, is an effort to put an end to the fear and the uncertainty that surrounds over 800,000 young immigrants living in our country. This bill will allow qualified DREAMers an opportunity to better plan for their future in the only country they truly know as home—the United States.

After several years, they will be able to apply for conditional permanent residency, and eventually for citizenship. And during that time, they will continue to participate in their daily activities, such as contributing to our communities, helping our economy, and showcasing their talent and ingenuity.

Mr. Speaker, let’s do what is right for these young immigrants because they are already Americans in their hearts and minds. Let’s bring the Dream Act for a vote so that these young professionals can make their American dream a reality. The clock is ticking, Mr. Speaker.

REAL TAX REFORM FOR REAL PEOPLE

(Mrs. DAVIS of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. DAVIS of California. Mr. Speaker, I have received hundreds of letters from constituents who are deeply worried about the proposed tax plan.

One San Diegan told me that, without the State and local tax deduction, his family of seven faces a loss of over $40,000 in deductions.

Another constituent told me that his family would lose $20,000 in take-home pay under this tax plan.

Why on Earth would we do this to middle class families? Why would we cap the mortgage deductions middle class home buyers depend on to lower taxes for huge corporations?

This plan is simply reckless and hurtful to the American people and our economic growth. Let’s take a look at real tax reform for real people, not a plan that helps those who need it the least.

25TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT OF TEXAS FIRE DEPARTMENTS

(Mr. WILLIAMS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, today, I would like to recognize the local fire departments from the 25th Congressional District—specifically, the ones located in Johnson County.

Altogether, first responders from this county were deployed for over 8 weeks to help with Hurricane Harvey relief efforts. Twenty firefighters and personnel were sent from Cleburne, Bono, Godley, Grandview, and Joshua fire departments to help out with the storm’s impact.

Just 2 weeks ago, these first responders were honored during the Johnson County Emergency Services District Number 1 monthly meeting. Over the course of 2 months, they contributed a great deal to the total number of 17,000 rescue missions in Texas.

More than 33,000 individuals were displaced as a result of this tragedy, and these heroes put their own lives on hold to help out their fellow Texans.

Mr. Speaker, these crews, who serve their local community, are a rare find—they are heroes—and I am honored to represent them in the 25th Congressional District of Texas.

They voluntarily left their families and put their lives on the line in order to save others. The folks in Houston and south Texas will be forever grateful.

Texas is still recovering and, together, we will be stronger than ever before.

God bless Texas, God bless the first responders, and God bless the United States of America.

In God we trust.

TRIBUTE TO CONGRESSMAN SAM JOHNSON

(Mr. ARRINGTON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. ARRINGTON. Mr. Speaker, today, I rise to pay tribute to a living legend: my friend and colleague, Congressman SAM JOHNSON.

Recently, we had the opportunity to honor him by renaming the Texas Tech University Vietnam Archive as the Sam Johnson Vietnam Archive.

Nobody in the United States Congress enjoys more esteem from his colleagues, on both sides of the aisle, than Sam Johnson.

His legacy of service is awe-inspiring. Twenty-five years in the United States Air Force, combat missions in Korea and Vietnam. Nearly 7 years as a POW, roughly 3 of those years in solitary confinement.

There are many forces in politics that pull us from pillar to post, and many interests that compete for our time and attention. There is one force that drives this man—it is his desire to fight for the future of this country. And there is only one interest, and that is country. That is in the best interest of all Americans.

I am grateful to Texas Tech for honoring Congressman Johnson’s service and sacrifice, and I am proud of the example Sam has set for all of us who serve in the people’s House.

CONGRATULATING THE HOUSTON ASTROS WINNING THE WORLD SERIES

(Ms. JACKSON LEE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Speaker, good morning, America. What about those Houston Astros?

As Representative of the 18th Congressional District in the great city of Houston, let me thank the Houston Astros for taking a Harvey-worn community to the highest lengths. We had never won the World Series.

Minute Maid is a fine stadium and the L.A. Dodgers were a very fine competitor. Let me thank all of them for the great sportsmanship, the character that was shown.

It shows what America is about. You can be two great adversaries on the battlefield of baseball, but you can still be great friends and colleagues and part of the great American pastime.

Thank you to the mayor, the county government, the State government, all of those fans out there. Thank you to George Springer and Altuve, who caught the final out. Oh, I was so excited.

Congratulations to those southern boys, the boys of the south, the boys of the southwest. They did a great job. Yes, we are the World Series champion, the American League champion. Go, Houston Astros.

Mr. Speaker, I thank you for your kindness. I am so excited. They are great young men.

CONGRATULATIONS TO DAN GLOTZ ON WARREN COUNTY COMMUNITY SERVICE

(Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Dan Glotz on receiving the 2017 Warren County Chamber of Business and Industry’s Community Service Award.

The chamber presents the award annually to an individual who has made significant contributions to the community.
Mrs. WALORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to highlight the recent passage of H.R. 1488, the Indiana Dunes National Park Act, which passed the House unanimously yesterday.

This bill renames the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore as the Indiana Dunes National Park, creating the first national park in Indiana and the 60th in the country.

The Indiana Dunes are a treasured source of natural beauty where Hoosiers and visitors can enjoy countless recreational activities. It is a diverse landscape consisting of dunes, oak savannas, swamps, bogs, marshes, prairies, rivers, and forests, creating one of the most biologically diverse areas in the country. The park contains over 2,000 unique animal and plant species.

Making the Dunes National Lakeshore Indiana’s first national park will draw the attention of more Americans from around the country and give them an opportunity to enjoy one of the most beautiful places in our land.

Mr. Speaker, I look forward to this bipartisan bill being quickly passed by the Senate and signed into law by the President.

Mr. Speaker, we need to make this happen now.

INDIANA DUNES

(Mrs. WALORSKI asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mr. Burgess. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks.

General Leave

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, House Resolution 600 provides for the consideration of a bipartisan bill reported by the House Ways and Means Committee and the Energy and Commerce Committee.

The rule provides for 1 hour of debate equally divided and controlled by the chairs and ranking minority members of the Committee on Energy and Commerce and the Committee on Ways and Means.

The rule adopts the amendment in the nature of a substitute recommended by the Committee on Ways and Means.

Further, the rule waives all points of order and makes in order no further amendments to the legislation. However, the minority is afforded the customary motion to recommit.

Mr. Speaker, on behalf of millions of seniors in my home State of Texas and all across the United States, I am grateful that the House is considering H.R. 849, the Protecting Seniors’ Access to Medicare Act of 2017.

This bill has been championed by my good friend from Tennessee, Dr. Phil Roe, in this Congress and in previous
Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consider.

This process is extremely complicated, and maybe that was the intent of the people who wrote the provision creating this board under the Affordable Care Act. I also fundamentally believe that the Independent Payment Advisory Board infringes on the separation of powers by shifting authority from the legislative to the executive branch. Not only does the creation of this board significantly limit Congress’ authority, it eliminates needed transparency from hearings and debate. It eliminates any meaningful opportunity for stakeholder input. I believe leaving Medicare payment decisions in the hands of those who are unelected and unaccountable, with little congressional oversight, will actually harm seniors’ access to quality healthcare.

Congress has played an integral role in shaping policies that best reflect the needs of our districts and our States, and our constituents demand that. That is the reason they sent us here.

In the interest of public service, let me say that the enrollment period started yesterday and continues to December 15. Please go and take care of your health insurance.

What the White House has done is make a direct attempt to cause chaos to weaken signups under the open enrollment period that began this week. The Kaiser Family Foundation estimated that, as a result of the Affordable Care Act, Medicare growth has historically been low. The growth in healthcare prices is at its lowest level in 50 years. The nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office projected that Medicare growth rates will remain beneath this panel’s targets until 2021, hence the reason for not doing a panel for 4 more years.

It is really too bad that this Congress and the majority insist on sabotaging... the Affordable Care Act, chopping away at its benefits. We should be strengthening it. Remember that every President since Theodore Roosevelt just about has tried to do a healthcare bill like the one that we have today. Perhaps just because Barack Obama did it that there is so much problem with it in the majority.

There is a bipartisan Senate bill crafted by Senator Alexander and Senator Patty Murray that the nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office found would save money, stabilize the insurance marketplace, and reduce the debt by $3.8 billion. That is all without anyone losing their insurance.

Why won’t we take up that bill? We never get an answer for that question.

What is it about trying to take healthcare away from poor people or that we won’t put a bill on the floor that has all the advantages and savings that we know and that is bipartisan? Is it because the majority knows it will pass?

Our Nation has urgent problems. Our infrastructure is crumbling, education costs skyrocket so high so fast that it is unsustainable to many students. We desperately need to stabilize our health insurance markets by passing the compromise by Senators Alexander and Murray. That is what we should be doing here today.

There are Members on both sides of the aisle who want to see improvements to the board, but that is not what the bill does. It terminates it altogether. It is the wrong approach at definitely the wrong time.

Regardless of what you think about this board, we should be able to agree that this Congress has more important things to do than address a problem that might not exist for 4 years, if at all.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. ROE of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the rule for my bill, H.R. 849, the Protecting Seniors’ Access to Medicare Act of 2017.

Mr. Speaker, this bill would repeal the Independent Payment Advisory Board, which was, was solely as a cost containment mechanism as part of the Affordable Care Act. It has nothing to do about quality of care or access to care. I can’t think of anything more important. Mr. Speaker, that this Congress should be doing than providing quality care and access to care for our senior citizens of this country, some 58 million of them.

Whatever your feelings may be about the ACA, this provision has had strong bipartisan opposition from its beginning, it was not contained in the House Democrat’s version of the bill, but it was jammed in by the Senate at the end.

If you still need convincing on just how unpopular this provision of the law is, ask yourself: How often do we see a bill come to the floor under a rule that has 270 bipartisan cosponsors?

Passing this bill will send a strong message to our Senate colleagues that the time to act is now. Mr. Speaker, the overwhelming bipartisan support for Members is only outdone by the overwhelming nationwide coalition of support.

Mr. Speaker, in the Record a letter from the Protect My Doctor and Me coalition, a letter that has been signed by nearly 800 groups representing patients, providers, and all sectors of the healthcare industry with support in all 50 States.

SEPTEMBER 6, 2017.

DEAR MEMBER OF CONGRESS: The undersigned organizations—representing Medicare beneficiaries and patients, all sectors of the healthcare industry as well as employers and other purchasers of health care—believe strongly that the Medicare program must protect patient access to quality healthcare. The Independent Payment Advisory Board (IPAB), a provision of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA), not only poses a threat to that access but also, once activated, will cost taxpayers billions of dollars in the private sector and infringe upon the decisionmaking responsibilities and prerogatives of the Congress. We request your support to repeal IPAB.

IPAB, as constructed under PPACA, is a board comprised of Presidential appointees who will be charged with making recommendations that will result in cuts to Medicare payments to providers. There is no guarantee that this board will achieve immediate savings, IPAB is granted unprecedented powers—even the ability to change laws previously enacted by Congress—with virtually no oversight.

The potential impact of this board causes deep concern among our organizations and the millions of Americans we represent. IPAB proponents suggest that the board will be an asset in developing needed healthcare reform and will save money; reallistically achievable. The law requires IPAB to achieve scoreable savings within a one-year time period. Thus, instead of pursuing a long-term that may not achieve immediate savings, IPAB is more likely to consider short-term savings in the form of payment cuts for healthcare providers. This was, in fact, the conclusion of the Congressional Budget Office, which stated that IPAB is most likely to focus on payment rates or methodologies for services provided by non-exempt providers.

This would be devastating for patients, affecting access to care and innovative therapies. Already, the number of physicians un- able to accept new Medicare patients due to low reimbursement rates has been increasing over the past several years. IPAB-generated payment reductions would only increase the number of Medicare enrollees who turn away Medicare beneficiaries. Furthermore, payment reductions to Medicare providers will almost certainly result in a shifting of health costs from Medicare to employers and consumers in the private sector.

Under IPAB’s provisions, the responsibility for enacting healthcare system changes of this magnitude is shifted from the legislative branch to the executive. More specifically, an unelected board without adequate oversight or accountability would be taking actions historically reserved for the public’s elected representatives in the U.S. House and Senate. This is an unacceptable delegation of power that gives millions of our nation’s seniors and individuals with disabilities rely upon.

Moreover, if IPAB acts within the law’s required timeframe or if IPAB members are not appointed by the President or confirmed by the Senate, the law transfers IPAB’s responsibilities to the HHS Secretary. This places an enormous degree of power in the hands of one unelected individual.

We strongly support bringing greater cost-efficiency to the Medicare program. We also advocate continuing efforts to improve the quality of care delivered to Medicare beneficiaries.

The Independent Payment Advisory Board will achieve neither of these objectives and only serves as a program critical to the health and well-being of current and future beneficiaries. We urge Congress to eliminate the IPAB provision.

Mr. ROE of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, let me just read one paragraph:

“IPAB, as constructed under PPACA, is a board comprised of Presidential appointees who will be charged with making recommendations to cut Medicare expenditures. Dr. Orszag testified that when the IPAB approaches an arbitrary level once the Secretary of Health and Human Services implements an IPAB recommendation, that action is not subject to administrative or judicial review. As constructed, IPAB is granted unprecedented authority to change laws previously enacted by Congress—with virtually no oversight.” Peter Orszag, President Obama’s Office of Management and Budget Director, said it was the largest transfer of power from the legislative branch to a bureaucratic branch since the Federal Reserve, and that is a mouthful.

Democrats and Republicans may not always agree on how to get things done and agree on the urgency of bringing down 270 House Members together on one bill, it is pretty clear that something needs to be done immediately.

We were lucky this summer that the Medicare trustees report indicated that IPAB might expire in 2023 or 2022, but our back is against the wall and we must act. We cannot afford to let 15 unelected, unaccountable bureaucrats make decisions for our Nation’s 58 million Medicare enrollees with no checks from Congress.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this.

I refer also to a bipartisan letter I signed on December 17, 2009, that was written to the Speaker of the House at that time, Nancy Pelosi, which said the following:

“Finally, as the people’s elected representatives, we must oppose any proposal to create a board that would surrender our legislative authority and re- sponsible for a Medicare program to unelected, unaccountable officials within the very same branch of government that is charged with implementing the Medicare policies that affect so many Americans.”

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this rule and support the final passage because that will show the American people you stand with America’s seniors.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. DUNN), who is also a physician.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of Protecting Seniors’ Access to Medicare Act, sponsored by my colleague and fellow physician, Representative Roe.

ObamaCare’s establishment of the Independent Payment Advisory Board, or IPAB, is perhaps the most insidious part of the Affordable Care Act.

With IPAB, 15 unelected bureaucrats would be in power to make health coverage decisions for 55 million Americans who are Medicare beneficiaries. Care would be rationed, physicians like myself would be unable to pursue the course of treatment we think is appropriate for our patients, seniors would lose access to the best care, all without any input from Congress or any accountability to voters.

With all of the divisiveness that we see in Washington, the IPAB repeal bill we consider today is genuinely bipartisan. Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to give an overwhelming bipartisan vote and show the country we are serious about keeping our promises to our seniors.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 1¼ minutes.

Mr. Speaker, I did want to delineate the membership of this board, as is outlined in the Affordable Care Act. The board will be appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, with the advice and consent of the Secretary or the Administrator of the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, and the Administrator of the Health Resources and Services Administration. All of those individuals will serve as ex officio non-voting members. But here are the qualifications for the actual board:

“The appointed membership of the board shall include individuals with national recognition for their expertise in health finance and economics, in actuarial science, health facility management, health plans, and integrated delivery systems, and reimbursement of healthcare facilities.”

Making from that picture, of course, are the people who actually provide the care to people who are involved in that doctor-patient relationship. Almost as an afterthought, here at the end of that paragraph, “allopathic and osteopathic physicians.”

The other aspect is that no member of the board can receive outside income. That may be a good idea, but that guarantees there will not be a practicing physician on that board.

I think that is a significant oversight.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 1 minute.

Mr. Speaker, I am very troubled by this. I don’t want to insult my learned colleagues, but it plainly says in the legislation that IPAB cannot ration healthcare, cannot raise taxes or increase deductibles and copayments. Under the current law, section 1899A, 42 U.S.C. clearly states: “The proposal shall not include any recommendation to ration healthcare; raise revenues or Medicare beneficiary premiums; increase the cost sharing, including deductibles, coinsurance, and copayments; or otherwise restrict benefits or modify eligibility criteria.”

I regret I have to do that, because it is a direct contradiction of what my good friends on the other side have told the country and what I assume that they believe.

Mr. Speaker, Russia interfered with our 2016 election. That much is clear from special counsel Mueller’s investigation, which led to indictments against two Trump campaign aides. The legitimacy of our electoral system is at stake, and it is time the Republican-controlled Congress sets aside the partisan politics and treats this threat with the gravity it deserves.

If we defeat the previous question, I will offer an amendment to the rule to bring up Representative Swalwell and Rep. Ratcliffe’s amendment, which would create a bipartisan commission to investigate the Russian interference in the 2016 election.
Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert the text of the amendment in the RECORD, along with extraneous material, immediately prior to the vote on the previous question.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the insertion of the gentlewoman from New York?

There was no objection.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, one of the worst political stories I have heard in my lifetime is what we just talked about, the death panel," what it is going to do, even though it is prohibited by the written law to do the things that it has been accused of being able to do. Most of that, PolitiFact talked about the death panel part of it and said that that was the 2009 lie of the year. But here we are, 8 years later, and we keep hearing mistruths about the panel and its intent. The board is about keeping Medicare growth in line, nothing more, nothing less.

So let's be honest about what the bill really does by following the Affordable Care Act. Regardless of what you think about the Independent Payment Advisory Board, the Nation has immediate problems today that deserve our attention, from healthcare to education to infrastructure.

We should not be taking this valuable House time talking about a board that may or may not come into existence 4 years from now. That is not what we need to deal with today. So I urge a "no" vote on the previous question and the rule.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. CARTER).

Mr. CARTER of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, ObamaCare was packed full of provisions that took power and healthcare choices away from the American people. One of the most egregious examples of ObamaCare’s overreach is the Independent Payment Advisory Board, the IPAB.

The architects of ObamaCare designed the IPAB as a panel of 15 unelected and unaccountable people who were tasked with making arbitrary cuts to Medicare after a certain level of spending is reached. Mr. Speaker, the American people elected Congress to make decisions on healthcare policy, and I know my constituents agree that Medicare is too important to be left in the hands of unaccountable people.

The IPAB would take an ax to Medicare spending, adversely affecting untold numbers of vulnerable seniors, instead of allowing Congress to implement patient-centered reforms that increase value to seniors and lowers costs, period.

The IPAB approach would lead to rationing healthcare, which would put bureaucrats—bureaucrats, not doctors—in charge of deciding what procedures folks would receive through Medicare.

Mr. Speaker, the American people deserve thoughtful and deliberative decisions by their elected officials, and that is why I support repealing the IPAB, and I ask my colleagues to join me in doing so.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. I recall the lie of the year being, if you like your doctor, you can keep your doctor, but I guess that is a debate for another time.

Mr. Speaker, today’s rule provides for consideration of an important piece of legislation to protect seniors’ access to healthcare from the ill- advised Medicare Independent Payment Advisory Board created by the Obama administration within the Affordable Care Act.

I thank the authors, Chairman BRADY and Dr. ROE, and the 270 House cosponsors of H.R. 849 for their thoughtful and bipartisan legislation, and I urge my colleagues to support the rule providing for consideration of this underlying bill, and then support the bill.

Mr. ROE of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I would like to include in the RECORD the following letter:

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES
Washington, DC, December 17, 2009.
Hon. Nancy Pelosi,
Speaker, House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MADAM SPEAKER: In July, 75 members of the House of Representatives wrote to express strong opposition to proposals, such as the “Independent Medicare Advisory Council (IMAC) Act of 2009” and “Medicare Advisory Council (IMAC) Reconciliation Act of 2009” (H.R. 2718, S. 1110, S. 1380), that would divest Congress of its authority for Medicare payment policy and place this responsibility in an executive branch commission or board. This letter clearly stated opposition to the inclusion of these or any other similar proposals canals dealing healthcare reform or any other legislation, but with recent developments, we, the undersigned members, believe it is imperative to extend the options to reject this proposal or legislation that would place authority for Medicare payment policy in an unelected, executive branch commission or board.

Consistent with the letter, on November 7, 2009, the House passed the “Affordable Health Care for America Act” (H.R. 3962) did not include provisions to create an unelected Medicare board. Yet, at present, the Senate is considering the “Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act of 2009,” which includes provisions for an Independent Medicare Advisory Board (IMAB) that would effectively end Congress’s authority over Medicare payment policy.

To create a powerful, unelected, unaccountable Medicare commission as envisioned in the Senate’s IMAB proposal would end Congress’s ability to shape Medicare to provide the best services for all beneficiaries in our states and the nation.

Today, we urge the Senate to reject the Senate’s IMAB proposal, and I ask my colleagues to join me in doing so.

Sincerely,

At the end of the resolution, add the following new sections:

Sect. 2. Immediately upon adoption of this resolution the Speaker shall, pursuant to clause 2(b) of rule XVIII, declare the House resolved into the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for further consideration of the bill (H.R. 356) to establish the National Commission on Foreign Interference in the 2016 Election. The first reading of the bill shall be dispensed with. All points of order against consideration of the bill are waived. General debate shall be confined to the bill and shall not exceed one hour equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs. After general debate the bill shall be considered for amendment under the following provisions:

(a) All amendments or motions against provisions in the bill are waived. At the conclusion of consideration of the bill for amendment the Committee shall rise and report the bill to the House. Amendments on the bill, as amended, shall be considered as read. All points of order against consideration of the bill are waived. General debate shall be in accordance with rules adopted by the committee on the previous question on the bill. The previous question shall be considered as ordered on the rule. When the motion for the previous question is defeated, the control of the time passes to the Member who first controls the previous question on the rule. That Member, because he then controls the time, may offer an amendment to the bill, or order for the purpose of amendment.

(b) In Deschler’s Procedure in the U.S. House of Representatives, the subchapter titled “Amending Special Rules” states: “a refusal to order the previous question on such a rule [a special rule reported from the Committee on Rules] opens the resolution to amendment and further debate.” (Chapter 21, section 21.2 Section 21.3 The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Texas is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Ms. SLAUGHTER), pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, House Resolution 601 provides for the consideration of a critical bill to provide health insurance to millions of underprivileged children. This package, which includes two separate bills: H.R. 3922, the Community Health And Medical Professional Improves Our Nation, CHAMPION, Act of 2017; and H.R. 3921, the Healthy Kids Act of 2017, was reported from the Committee on Energy and Commerce after lengthy deliberation and negotiation and a lengthy markup. The rule provides for 1 hour of debate, equally divided and controlled by the chair and the ranking member of the Committee on Energy and Commerce.

The rule adopts an amendment from the chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee, modified by a second amendment by the same author, combining the two bills into the package on the floor today.

Further, the rule waives all points of order and makes in order no further amendments to the legislation. However, the minority is afforded the customary motion to recommit.

The congressionally appropriated stream of funding for the Children’s Health Insurance Program expired at the end of September. Funding for other important public health programs, such as community health centers, the National Health Service Corps, and Teaching Health Center Graduate Medical Education, also expired at the end of September.

While every State that receives Federal funding through these programs continues to have adequate dollars to maintain health insurance for every enrolled child, several States are beginning to exhaust their unspent 2017 funding, and the Committee of Appropriations is uncertain how much time is left for Members to address the crisis. In addition, the Congress shall be considered as ordered on the bill, as amended, and on any further amendment thereto, to final passage without intervening motion except: (1) one hour of debate equally divided and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Energy and Commerce; and (2) one motion to recommit with or without instructions.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Texas is recognized for 1 hour.

pressure on those States to begin sending notifications to children and families that they are losing their coverage for those programs; so it is important that we reauthorize funding for the Children's Health Insurance Program and do so today.

H.R. 3922, the CHAMPIONING HEALTHY KIDS Act, will achieve that important task. It is essential to our efforts to ensuring that these programs continue to meet the healthcare needs of children and families who have come to rely on them.

Today, more than 8 million low-income children across our country depend on the Children’s Health Insurance Program for many of their healthcare services. These include routine doctor visits, immunizations, prescription medicines, and dental care. Through flexible, capped allotments to the States, the program has been able to successfully support these children, while States work with opportunities to tailor their respective programs as best meet the needs of their respective populations.

The CHAMPIONING HEALTHY KIDS Act will extend CHIP for another 5 years, which is the longest extension since its inception in 1996. An extension through fiscal year 2022 will provide financial stability for every State’s CHIP program and certainty for those children and their families who are covered. Additionally, ensuring coverage for CHIP-eligible children will make them less likely to have to enroll in Medicaid or ObamaCare.

The legislation includes a 2-year extension of funding for Federally Qualified Health Centers, including funding for the National Health Service Corps, Family-to-Family Health Information Centers, the Youth Empowerment Program, the Personal Responsibility Education Program, the Special Diabetes Program for Type I Diabetes, and the Special Diabetes Program for Tribal Indians.

In addition to the important funding streams addressed in this bill, the Committee on Energy and Commerce incorporated a way to help our Nation’s territories in a time of need following recent natural disasters.

Today is unique to Puerto Rico and the United States citizens living in the territories. This was a problem that predated the hurricanes, but it was exacerbated by the devastation that the storm brought to the islands. Without a legislative fix from Congress, this will be an ongoing and festering problem until it is properly addressed, and the bill before us today begins to do just that.

Additionally, the bill delays the $5 billion in cuts to many of the hospitals across the country from the Affordable Care Act-mandated Medicaid disproportionate share hospital reductions for fiscal years 2018 and 2019. I am sure that many of my colleagues have heard from hospitals in their districts who have faced substantial devastation from Hurricanes Irma and Maria.

The Medicare funding issue is unique to Puerto Rico and the United States citizens living in the territories. This was a problem that predated the hurricanes, but it was exacerbated by the devastation that the storm brought to the islands. Without a legislative fix from Congress, this will be an ongoing and festering problem until it is properly addressed, and the bill before us today begins to do just that.

Not only does the CHAMPIONING HEALTHY KIDS Act reauthorize funding for essential health programs, the bill is fully offset. It will not add to the national debt. The Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget estimated the policy change is “responsible health package,” noting that the $18 billion cost of the bill is fully offset with savings beyond the 10-year budget window.

One of the ways that costs are offset is to allow the health plan grace period so that it would align with State law grace period requirements. This involved changing, in the Affordable Care Act, the grace period for subsidized individuals from 90 days to 30 days unless a State specifically allows otherwise.

It also redirected $6.4 million from the Prevention and Public Health Fund to help pay for the legislation. This fund is required by law to receive $2.5 billion in annual appropriations which must be used for prevention, wellness, and public health initiatives administered by the Department of Health and Human Services. If Congress—let me say it again—if Congress does not direct the funding to public health efforts, the Secretary of Health and Human Services has the authority to spend the funds however he or she deems fit.

While we are redirecting these taxpay dollars, the overarching purpose of reauthorizing CHIP is to promote the health and wellness of Americans through existing mechanisms, and community health centers will do that.

We allow for certain wealthy Medicare beneficiaries with individual incomes of over $500,000 to pay increased premiums in order to offset some of the cost of authorizing these programs. These beneficiaries will be subject to higher premiums, thereby increasing the overall cost, but still their cost will be lower than if they purchased insurance on the exchange.

The CHAMPIONING HEALTHY KIDS Act is a fiscally responsible way to fund some of our Nation’s most important public health programs. The bill would ensure continued access to care for children and individuals who rely on the programs for vital healthcare services.

Mr. Speaker, this is a good bill. Mr. Speaker, these offsets are reasonable. For these reasons, I encourage my colleagues to support today’s rule and support the underlying bill, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume, and I thank the gentleman for yielding me the customary 30 minutes.

Mr. Speaker, 33 days ago, funding for the Children’s Health Insurance Program, which 9 million children rely on for their healthcare and well-being, expired after the program was allowed to lapse. States crafted budgets, assuming Federal CHIP funding would arrive on time as it has always done, and they are now scrambling to develop a patchwork solution to keep the program alive.

Six States and the District of Columbia have warned they will run out of funding by December, next month. Thirteen States say they will soon have to tell enrollees they could lose coverage without immediate congressional action. Utah officials have even considered sending letters to enrollees as early as this week letting them know the program is being forced to wind down.

The Kaiser Family Foundation has found that 32 States are expected to run out of funding by March if Congress fails to act. I am glad we are here today with a bill to reauthorize CHIP and other public health programs, but they are woefully inadequate.

This bill is paid for by eviscerating funding from one of the most important parts, again, of the Affordable

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SESSIONS).

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I really appreciate the distinguished gentleman from Lewisville, Texas, Dr. MICHAEL BURGESS, who serves several roles in this House of Representatives. First of all, he is chairman of the Subcommittee on Health for the Energy and Commerce Committee. As I have already said, so many States are right at the edge of not being able to fund the program at all. Other States are ready to tell both community health services and CHIP that they are no longer providing for them.

This partisan approach will only delay the extension of the programs even further. I consider that a major dereliction of our duties. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds in response before yielding to the chairman of the Rules Committee.

It is important to hear people talk about the 33-day delay in getting SCHIP funding resubmitted. I just want to assure the House of Representatives that Republicans on the Subcommittee of Health in the Energy and Commerce Committee have been ready to go with this legislation. We did our legislative hearings early in the summer, as the gentleman will recall because he was there, and we were ready for our mark-up in the Subcommittee.

Why was it delayed? Let me reference an article from CQ News, October 23, 2017: “Democrats do not want a children’s health insurance bill to come to the floor this week for a vote, said Frank Pallone Jr., ranking member of the House Energy and Commerce Committee at a district event.” “The idea is to not have the bill come to the floor this week,” said Pallone, stating that it would “be a totally partisan vote.”

Federal funding for CHIP expired Sept. 30. The Children’s Health Insurance Program services has redistributed unused CHIP funds to nine states and territories including Arizona, California, Minnesota, Washington, American Samoa, Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, U.S. Virgin Islands and Oregon. The funds come from unused CHIP allotments from previous years and are used to help fund programs that are running low on their current year funds.

the gentlewoman from New York, really have the best heart in this. I believe this is an issue where we agree. We agree that children’s health is not only an important part of what Congress should be involved in but, actually, resolving this issue.

She is very correct. Several weeks ago it was brought up in the Rules Committee the timeliness of this issue, the appropriateness of the Rules Committee handling this bill to get it to the floor so that we would allow not only the American people to understand what we were doing, but, really, to put it in play so that this could be handled by the United States Senate and the President.

I want to congratulate my colleagues. I think that my colleagues, to a person, understand the importance of this—and certainly Mike Burgess’ leadership at Energy and Commerce Committee—but also the Rules Committee. So reauthorizing the Children’s Health Insurance Program, or CHIP, as it is known, is vitally important. It is important because there are some 400,000 children in Texas, alone, where Chairman Burgess and I live.

We see not only families, but we see the community. We see other elected officials and just normal people at home who expect us to get our work done. We are today. In fact, we are not only getting it done, but, as Chairman Burgess has talked about and even as the gentlewoman, Ms. Matsui, has talked about, there will be States at the end of November that will be running on fumes, be running on empty, and a good number of States are funded until probably February or March. But that is not a reason for us to delay.

So we are here, respectfully, to ask the entire body, Republicans and Democrats, and also to let the American people know that the Children’s Health Program, through the efforts of Mike Burgess and through the efforts of Greg Walden as chairman of the committee, who have worked very diligently to make sure that it not only comes to the floor, but that the new nuances of the bill that will include many, many good bipartisan ideas will be offset, and it will be offset. We are going to have to make sure as we move forward that there are careful instructions that we all understand.

But the bottom line to this is, Mr. Speaker, this Congress, because of the bipartisanship, because of the ability, because of the importance of CHIP, is handling this today.

We are going to ask all Members if they did not have a chance to see what I thought was a robust, distinguished panel that came to us yesterday to talk about this, but also the thoughtful ideas from our Members about the importance of this. I think we can convince this body, Republicans and Democrats—that the underlying legislation helps secure for 5 more years—which is what the goal was, 5 more years—to make sure that we can move forward, and it gives States the authority and the responsibility, gives the American people confidence that what we are doing to take care of this issue has not only been done, but is presented in such a way that it will be successful.

That is our job, Mr. Speaker. Our job is to take the work that comes from the committee of jurisdiction—in this case, the Energy and Commerce Committee, that through, look at it, vet, and make sure the best ideas happen. I am pleased and proud to be here today.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. Matsui), a distinguished member of the Energy and Commerce Committee.

Ms. MATSUI. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this rule. For months, House Republicans have delayed action to fund CHIP and community health centers.

These programs are critical in our communities and cannot survive without this funding.

They have always been bipartisan, but, unfortunately, the bill before us today is not. Instead of working with us, Republicans have focused on TrumpCare and sabotaged the ACA.

Now they have put forward this bill full of poison pills that will only further delay funding these critical public health programs, and to turn what has been traditionally a bipartisan process into a political game does a disservice to families.

H.R. 3922 eliminates the ACA’s Prevention and Public Health Fund which helps people in my district and other districts get vaccines, prevent diabetes, and combat heart disease. The reason we put the preservation fund in the ACA in the first place was to reorient our health care system towards prevention, which ultimately saves money and keeps people healthier.

We all want to ensure kids have the insurance that they need to access affordable care, but slashing benefits that will in the long term hurt the very children and families that CHIP and the community health centers help, as this bill does, is the wrong way to go.

Through its cuts to the Prevention Fund, this legislation is another attempt by Republicans to undermine the ACA.

Unfortunately, this is just one of many acts of sabotage that we have seen over the last year from the Trump administration and congressional Republicans.

On top of these attacks on the Affordable Care Act, H.R. 3922 creates a false choice between helping seniors and helping kids. This legislation makes changes to Medicare that will hurt all seniors’ benefits in the long term.

Democrats have offered solutions that would pay for funding CHIP and community health centers in a way that doesn’t rob Peter to pay Paul. I support the substitute amendment offered by Ranking Member Pallone which would do just that.

Mr. Speaker, I am extremely disappointed that the Republicans have chosen this partisan path for programs that are so dear to our communities, and I urge my colleagues to vote “no” on H.R. 3922 and to support the Democratic substitute.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds for the purpose of a response before I yield to the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. Speaker, if we are going to tell stories, then “once upon a time” should be part of our opening.

This bill merely takes some of the discretion for the Prevention and Public Health Fund away from the administration and returns it to Congress where it is supposed to be in the first place, so we take discretion over some of the Prevention and Public Health Fund dollars away from the executive branch and redirect these dollars to proven public health programs that everyone wants, bipartisan support in Congress like the community health centers. Every Democrat voted for the Cures for the 21st Century, and it did exactly the same thing.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. CARTER).

Mr. CARTER of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, we are here over a month late to reauthorize CHIP while the families of 9 million children are holding their breaths to see whether their kids are going to have health insurance. We are bringing this up now because my colleagues on the other side of the aisle asked us to delay, and, in good faith, we did.

Over 220,000 children in Georgia rely on CHIP for their health insurance. My constituents are asking why we delayed it. I am sad to have to tell them that my colleagues on the other side of the aisle decided to delay bringing the bill to the floor for a vote.

I would hope that they would have a good reason for these delay tactics, but the truth is that they opposed a provision that was requested by President Obama in his fiscal year 2013 through fiscal year 2017 budgets that has a minor impact on the highest earners under Medicare.

This is politics at its worst, and I stand here today to say that enough is enough.

The Energy and Commerce Committee’s markup of this bill was stalled this week. Republicans decided to oppose a policy that the previous administration supported. When the American people tell us that they are fed up with the partisan politics, this is exactly what they are talking about.

I ask my colleagues to join me today in putting the needs of 9 million children above short-term political interests.
Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentlewoman from Connecticut (Ms. DELAURO).

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, I rise to voice my opposition to this rule and to the underlying bill.

First, by the way, my colleague from California (Ms. MATSUI) talked about the Democratic substitute. But let’s be clear, it is our Republican colleagues, the majority, who would not make a Democratic substitute in order that would allow us here to have a debate on their proposal and what we proposed. How about that for democracy in the United States House of Representatives? No Democratic substitute.

So let’s leave that aside and focus on what we have here today. Again, opposed to the rule, opposed to the bill.

The Children’s Health Insurance Program is vital for millions of our Nation’s most vulnerable citizens—our children. My colleague before spoke about 9 million children. Yes. But do you know how long we have waited for the majority to reauthorize the Children’s Health Insurance Program? The length of time is shameful. But even more shameful is how the majority intends to fund the Children’s Health Insurance Program.

This is what the bill does. The bill includes massive cuts to something called the Prevention and Public Health Fund. Why is the Prevention and Public Health Fund? It is inclusive of many of the programs that we rely on in order to save lives.

Yes. They are the programs that go to help our community health centers able to treat people who come to their door. Twenty-three million people in the United States use community health centers. It is often their primary care.

But let me lay out for you what some of these programs are; the Centers for Disease Control childhood vaccines—vaccinations and immunizations for our kids being cut—lead poisoning prevention. You go to any community in this country, and they will tell you whether it is water or whether it is paint. Some of our children have the highest levels of lead, and what we need to be doing is screening them at a very early age so that we can address the issue. They cut this out, also the Centers for Disease Control heart disease and diabetes programs, breastfeeding grants for hospitals, childhood obesity prevention, and suicide prevention. We are looking today at an opioid crisis in this Nation that so often results in suicides, and they are willing to cut the heart out of the Prevention Fund programs to fund the Children’s Health Insurance Program.

So we are harming children at one end of the spectrum and robbing the money from the end of the spectrum to pay for the Children’s Health Insurance Program, which I am a big supporter of. So we are stealing from this prevention program.

Now today, my Republican colleagues have offered a tax cut proposal. Take a hard look at it because the richest, the wealthiest, and those with the most lobbyists are the biggest beneficiaries of these tax cuts, and middle class working families will get the shortend. They are the people who make over $1 million—several million dollars—are going to get the benefit of the tax cut. Why aren’t we talking that money and paying to reauthorize the Children’s Health Insurance Program with the money from the Prevention and Public Health Fund?

So instead of providing tax cuts today for the richest 1 percent of Americans, we could have a strong Children’s Health Insurance Program, and we could have a strong Prevention and Public Health Fund that does not have to make these egregious cuts.

I think there is one more point that people need to know about this bill. The bill eliminates something that was in the Affordable Care Act—the grace period. They cut that back to 30 days. That means if someone misses one health insurance payment, they can lose their insurance for the remainder of the year.

Today, our biggest economic challenge as a nation is that people are in jobs that just don’t pay them enough to live on. They can’t afford their healthcare. It is cruel, and it is a brazen attempt to undermine the Affordable Care Act, which, quite frankly, has been the majority’s agenda for a very long time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. GUTHRIE). The time of the gentlewoman has expired.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield the gentlewoman from Connecticut an additional 30 seconds.

Ms. DELAURO. There is no need to play off children’s health insurance against the Affordable Care Act, the Public Health Fund. There is no need to cut back on the grace period for the folks who may miss one health insurance payment.

So I urge my colleagues: don’t be cruel; don’t be inhumane. To those of my colleagues who will say no to cuts, I urge you to come here and listen to the children of America.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to thank my colleague for yielding, and I rise to extend my support for this rule and the underlying legislation.

This legislation funds critical, bipartisan health programs that help keep our communities healthy.

Mr. Speaker, I have long been a strong supporter of CHIP because I have seen it in action back in my home State of Alabama. I served on the Alabama State School Board back when Alabama implemented our CHIP program, known as ALL Kids. ALL Kids was the first CHIP program in the country, and it has made a real difference. In fact, the uninsurance rate for children in Alabama has gone from 20 percent pre-CHIP to 2.4 percent today.

For 83,000 Alabama children under 19, the program offers low-cost, comprehensive healthcare coverage that includes regular checkups, immunizations, sick child doctor visits, prescriptions, vision care, dental care, and much more.

CHIP has always been a bipartisan program, and I hope this reauthorization will earn bipartisan support for the children of America.

This legislation also reauthorizes the community health centers fund. I am a huge champion of community health centers because, again, I have seen them work in Alabama from the Mostellar Medical Center in Bayou La Batre to Franklin Primary Health in Mobile to Southwest Alabama Health Services in McIntosh. These centers are vital to so many Americans, but especially to low-income families and those in rural areas.

One in 13 people rely on a health center for their healthcare needs, and this reauthorization is necessary to ensure those individuals continue to receive access to medical care. This legislation also includes many of the other community health priorities. Among these provisions, I am pleased the legislation continues Medicaid disproportionate share hospital payments, or DSH payments, as they are commonly known.

DSH provides funding to hospitals that treat a large number of indigent patients. DSH is absolutely critical to the life of Alabama’s hospitals, and failure to renew these important payments could result in numerous hospital closures in our State.

So, Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to get behind this legislation and ensure it gets across the finish line. We should not let petty political arguments keep us from ensuring that children have access to affordable health insurance, keeping the doors open at community health centers, or allowing Alabama’s hospitals to continue serving communities in need.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Madam Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE), who is the distinguished ranking member of the Committee on Energy and Commerce.

Mr. PALLONE. Madam Speaker, I want to thank the ranking member of the Rules Committee.

I just want to express the tremendous frustration that I have and that Democrats have in general with the way the Republican leadership has handled the CHIP bill, IPAB, and community health centers, the legislation we are considering today and tomorrow.

First of all, I need to point out that it was over a year ago when I asked leadership of our committee to try to come up with bipartisan legislation with regard to community health centers and SCHIP, the children's initiative, and all they wanted to do from January until September—9 months—was repeal the Affordable Care Act.

That is all they were interested in. They didn't want to hear anything about CHIP or community health centers, just repeal the Affordable Care Act.

My colleagues on the other side suggested that somehow, because of CHIP, they were concerned about kids. Well, the fact of the matter is, if you repeal the Affordable Care Act, children—everyone—and community health centers would suffer such damage because they would lose their health centers and all the children's services. This is the reality of what is actually happening here in the budget cuts to the community health centers, which have been financed with the Affordable Care Act, that any suggestion that somehow because you are concerned now about CHIP or community health centers is belied by the fact that you spent the last 9 months, through September, trying to repeal the Affordable Care Act. If you really cared about these things, then you would not have sought that repeal.

Once that repeal seemed to be over in September, then the Republicans on the committee and the leadership were willing to talk about CHIP and community health centers. But mind you, the authorization for those two programs ended September 30. So it was literally too late.

Now my colleagues on the other side say: Oh, well, we are bringing this bill up today because we really care about kids. Absolutely.

Exactly the opposite. If you did care, in the sense that you wanted to get legislation passed, then you wouldn't bring this bill up today. We all know that if the bill is not bipartisan, which it is not, it will be passed by the Senate. What is going to happen is these bills will pass on a partisan vote on Friday and, as a consequence, they will go to the Senate and there will be no action and we will have to deal with this at the end of the year as part of some larger omnibus spending bill or whatever we do at the end of the year.

So anyone who tells you that the Republicans, in trying to pass a partisan bill, are actually moving forward on CHIP and community health centers, that is simply not true.

Now, what are we facing here with these three bills? And I include IPAB, CHIP, and community health centers. What we are really facing is another effort on the part of the Republican leadership to repeal or sabotage the Affordable Care Act.

All these things are part, in some fashion, of either pay-fors or authorization of the Affordable Care Act. The fact is, we are now seeing what I would call piecemeal repeal.

You couldn't repeal it outright, so you do a piecemeal repeal. You repeal IPAB. You basically use funding from the Prevention Fund and you gut that so you can pay for the CHIP funding. You change the grace period so something like half a million people lose their health insurance. Meanwhile, the President of the United States is out there every executive order to get rid of cost-sharing subsidies to cut back on the outreach program.

If you look at all this, it is nothing more than a piecemeal repeal of the Affordable Care Act. It is sabotaging the Affordable Care Act.

This has not changed. The first 9 months to September, outright repeal. Now, between now and the end of the year, piecemeal repeal. Every day, a different bill.

The real inconsistency, which is the best I can say about what is going on, is to say that we have to come up with offsets to pay for the Children's Health Initiative Program and the community health centers, but we don't have to do it for IPAB, which is what it is going to cost, according to the CBO, to repeal IPAB. If you use that money, it would almost pay for the CHIP and the community health centers bill that will be considered the next day.

So, again, total inconsistency suggesting that somehow we care about one thing. That is really going on is robbing Peter to pay Paul. The way that you pay for the community health centers and the CHIP bill, basically, sabotaging the Affordable Care Act, is you shorten the grace period from 90 days to 30 days, when people, if they don't pay their premium, will lose their health insurance. We know that maybe almost 688,000 people, according to the CBO, will lose their health insurance.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Ms. Foxx). The time of the gentleman has expired.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Madam Speaker, I yield an additional 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Members are reminded to address their remarks to the Chair.

Mr. PALLONE. Then you have the Prevention Fund, which is used for children's lead poisoning programs, children's vaccines, and for the opioid program that the Republicans say they care so much about. These are going to go away in order to pay for CHIP and community health centers and to see how best to do this so that needs are being met right there where those children have them and that the States have the resources they need.

When it comes to IPAB, it is so important that we mention our colleague and my fellow Tennessean, Dr. PHIL ROE, who is a Member of this Chamber. I applaud him for his consistent work on keeping that in front of us.

I think it is fair to say, as Chairman Burgess has said, that we have worked diligently on the CHIP issue. I know that our colleague in Tennessee is not pleased with how that is going to be paid and how we address the payments.

But I have to say, our goal, Madam Speaker, is to make certain that the States have the funding that is necessary for them to meet the needs of children who are needing these health services. This is something that we have been diligent in our work to meet those needs and to work with our colleagues and to see how best to do this so that needs are being met right there where those children have them and that the States have the resources they need.

When it comes to the Independent Payment Advisory Board, we ought not to have to be discussing this today because this is something that should never have been passed in the first place. It is something that was completely unnecessary. We are looking at eliminating this and changing this, and for good reason.

There is a bipartisan agreement that you have to get down the costs that are in Medicare, and I know that is not going to be an easy task.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentlewoman has expired.

Mr. BURGESS. Madam Speaker, I yield an additional 30 seconds to the gentlewoman from Texas.

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Madam Speaker, I think one of the things that we know, when you are looking at IPAB, you don’t want to give those decisions of how you are going to adjust healthcare for Medicare enrollees to 15 unelected, appointed bureaucrats that really have no responsibility to anyone in this process.

This is our responsibility. It is appropriate that Congress recoup that responsibility, that we make these decisions. I support the legislation that is in front of us.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON LEE).

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Madam Speaker, let me make a proclamation here on the floor of the House, and that is that all the sweat and tears of the Democratic Members, although we offered the opportunity to our Republican friends to tell us something about healthcare, all of our sweat and tears proved to be a successful response to the 25 million uninsured Americans.

No matter how much our friends on the other side of the aisle try to nitpick and pick away at a successful affordable care program, they simply cannot do it.

To the American people: It worked.

It worked because we included and supported healthcare for children with CHIP. It worked because we supported and expanded community health centers. It worked because we had IPAB, which is not going to be in effect until 2021 and not to do anything but preserve Medicare.

On the other hand, today we have a pronouncement by the minister that will jeopardize the Medicare trust fund, will take millions and billions away from Medicaid.

The last hammer in the coffin will be the destruction of the Children’s Health Insurance Program and community health clinics.

Let me be very clear: I happen to be in an area in the southern part of Texas, from Corpus to Port Aransas, to Rockport, to Beaumont, to Houston and Harris County, where Hurricane Harvey devastated our community.

Healthcare is crucial. Many of our hospitals were under water. People were not able to access healthcare. The community health clinics are the best neighborhood source of healthcare.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentlewoman has expired.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Madam Speaker, I yield an additional 1 minute to the gentlewoman from Texas.

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Madam Speaker, the legislation by my friends is to destroy the Affordable Care Act, rather than to take the Pallone amendment—which I want to thank Ms. SLAUGHTER for offering in the Rules Committee—to provide real funding and that would find a way to effectively support the Children’s Health Insurance Program and, of course, the community health clinics, which, in the State of Texas, has been a lifesaver for all of our communities.

We were the poster child for having the largest number—a quarter of our people in Texas—who did not have health insurance. With the Affordable Care Act and, of course, the community health clinics, we were able to do it.

Let me finish by saying it was a bipartisan effort in 1997, with a balanced budget, that we created the Children’s Health Insurance Program. It has been an effective, strong armor, if you will, around children’s health.

Everywhere I go, such as the Texas Children’s Hospital, they are raving about the Children’s Health Insurance Program and Medicaid. Today or tomorrow, we are going to break that system by taking money from somewhere else to destroy another healthcare program and putting in this program.

Mr. BURGESS. Madam Speaker, may I inquire as to how much time is remaining?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Texas has 6½ minutes remaining. The gentlewoman from New York has 9 minutes remaining.

Mr. BURGESS. Madam Speaker, I yield myself 2 minutes.

Madam Speaker, I want to address the issue of the Prevention and Public Health Fund.

The bill before us does redirect $3.9 billion for the Prevention and Public Health Fund to support critically important public health programs that expand access to care and improve health outcomes.

The Prevention Fund was established in the Affordable Care Act as mandatory funding for public health programs to improve health and help restrain the rate of growth in private and public sector healthcare costs.

According to statute, billions of dollars in deviations are to be used for the broad purpose of supporting programs authorized by the Public Health Service Act for prevention, wellness, and public health activities.

However, prevention, wellness, and public health activities are allowable, but no Prevention Fund-specific or generally applicable definitions of these terms are to be found in the Public Health Service Act, the Affordable Care Act, or anywhere else in Federal law.

The Affordable Care Act was not accompanied by committee reports in either Chamber. The Department of Health and Human Services has not published regulations, guidance, or other information to clarify the Department’s views about the types of activities that are within the scope of the Prevention Fund.

Annual mandatory appropriations, the Prevention Fund, continue in perpetuity. If Congress does not explicitly allocate the funding, then the Secretary of HHS has the authority to spend these dollars without congressional oversight.

This bill takes discretion over some of our own הבלש, not a new attack on the Prevention Fund dollars. It takes it away from the executive branch and redirects these dollars to proven public health programs that enjoy broad bipartisan support in Congress like community health centers, a program that employs 190,000 people and serves over 24 million patients in 2015.

This has been supported in the past in other legislation, most recently in the Cures initiative, where Democrats and Republicans supported the redirecting of funding for the Prevention Fund for the specific purpose of preserving public health.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, in May, the Republican majority recklessly passed their healthcare repeal bill without any analysis at all from the nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office, finding out a month later that it would have taken insurance away from 23 million people.

I fear the majority is going to make the same dangerous mistake with their tax bill. The New York Times reported that some sections of the bill released today are placeholders that will “allow Republican leaders to work out the details of a new set of revenue-raisers that would be inserted in the bill before the full House votes on it.”—in other words, they will be a surprise.

After the Ways and Means Committee marks up the bill, they will rewrite the bill in a back room and jam it through the House. It is beyond irresponsible to vote on a bill of this magnitude without knowing how it will impact hardworking Americans.

We employ dozens of well-qualified, nonpartisan expert economists and public policy analysts with advanced degrees in the Congressional Budget Office precisely for moments like this, and it appears the majority is again, this year, prepared to move so fast that no Member will have the benefit of their nonpartisan advice.

If we can defeat the previous question, I will offer an amendment to the rule that will prevent this massive tax cut bill from coming to the House floor unless nonpartisan analysis from the experts at the Congressional Budget Office has been available for at least 2 days.

Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert the text of my amendment in the RECORD, along with extraneous material, immediately prior to the vote on the previous question.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from New York?

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

CORRECTION

There was no objection.
Ms. SLAUGHTER. Madam Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Madam Speaker, we don’t have time to spare playing games here with the CHIP program. It is on life support in many of our communities, and we have to reauthorize the community health centers. That would leave millions of people without healthcare, cost more than 500,000 jobs, and already the centers nationwide have been forced to consider cutting services following the majority’s failure to reauthorize the program before it expired on September 30.

Everybody knows that these centers do remarkable work. They deliver quality care at lower cost. More than 330,000 veterans relied on them for healthcare alone. They would be reauthorized under a clean bill in seconds. Instead, the majority is putting them at risk through this partisan bill, which seems unlikely to pass the Senate, and we will then be nowhere.

If you know why only 13 percent of the public approves of Congress under the leadership, just look at the bill before us today. Republican leaders have turned even the most bipartisan programs into endeavors that seem unlikely to become law.

They have disallowed the Democratic Party to have any substitute with any other ideas that they did not have before so that we can, as Ms. DELAURA mentioned, have an honest debate. We see that time after time in the Rules Committee, the inability for our side to even get amendments passed. But not to allow a substitute bill of this magnitude is, I think, really a dereliction of duty. It speaks volumes about the kind of things done.

And lastly, Madam Speaker, I want to recognize George Agurkis. He is sitting here with me. George has been on the Rules Committee staff for 9½ years. He is leaving us at the end of the week to take a wonderful new job and new project. He is a Pennsylvania neighbor we always could count on. He is a lot of fun. We are going to miss that and his aunt, Rose, who works in the cloakroom. And we know that she gives the best birthday parties in the world. And we know what is going to happen. We hope that George will come back and celebrate those with us and Rose will once again delight us with every kind of sweet thing in the world.

So back to the bill at hand. I urge a “no” vote on the previous question, on the rule, and on the bill, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Madam Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

I do want to address one of the things that has come up in the discussion, and that is the issue of the language in the underlying bill that supports the citizen, the American citizens in Puerto Rico.

There was a problem in Puerto Rico with their Medicare system, the way people were not automatically enrolled as they were in every other State and territory under the Affordable Care Act where they faced a Medicaid funding cliff.

These problems existed prior to the two hurricanes that hit the island, and a request was made to Chairman Marchais, Ranking Member of the Puerto Rico, to fix these problems prior to the storms coming ashore, and that is what we fixed in the language of this bill.

I might remind this body that, when Hurricane Katrina came ashore around Labor Day of 2005, a similar problem was encountered. Ultimately, the State’s share of that FMAP payment was made. It was made with funds from the Deficit Reduction Act, which were allocated on September 30, 2006, over a year later.

The fact is that there are going to be funds available to Puerto Rico to help offset their part, their match of their State’s share of the Federal match, but it will take a five-year extension of the money that is appropriated for disaster relief. But we are fixing their underlying problem that existed before the hurricanes. If we don’t fix it, it continues to be a problem year in and year out, and the American citizens of Puerto Rico are poorly served by that.

So this body is taking that up today, and I am proud of the fact that our subcommittee and our full committee recognize that and provided that relief.

Madam Speaker, I want to enter into the RECORD a letter from Texas Health Resources, Mr. Barclay Berdan. I want to quote from this letter: “We . . . appreciate your leadership on delaying cuts to Medicaid DSH, which took effect on October 1, 2017.

Thankfully, H.R. 3922 would eliminate the scheduled Medicaid DSH reductions in fiscal years 2018 and 2019, thus allowing a source of funding to continue for safety net hospitals.

Thank you for your steadfast leadership on addressing these important programs by supporting H.R. 3922. As Congress moves forward on these important issues, we appreciate your continued willingness to work with us to extend funding for CHIP, eliminate reductions to Medicaid DSH payments, and safeguard programs critical to hospitals. If we can provide you or your staff with additional information, please do not hesitate to contact.

Sincerely, BARCLAY BERDAN, FACHE, Chief Executive Officer, Texas Health Resources.”

Mr. BURGESS. Madam Speaker, I also have a letter from the Children’s Hospital Association, which renews the call for bipartisan CHIP extension: “Children’s hospitals thank Congress for its long-term bipartisan commitment to CHIP, and for the children it serves. We look forward to working with lawmakers to maintain a strong CHIP program and strengthen healthcare for children in the future.”

CHILDREN’S HOSPITALS RENEW CALL FOR BIPARTISAN CHIP EXTENSION

Children’s hospitals urge Congress to protect children and families by passing a five-year extension of the Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP) as soon as possible.

We are pleased that members of the House Energy and Commerce Committee have developed bipartisan CHIP policies that reflect the needs of children, including a five-year extension of the program that provides for reauthorization of the Community Health Act Program (CHIP). We strongly support a five-year extension of CHIP funding, along with the elimination of reductions in fiscal years (FY) 2018 and 2019 to the Medicaid disproportionately share hospital (DSH) payments.

Texas Health has supported CHIP since its inception, and the program serves 8.9 million children with family incomes above Medicaid eligibility limits who lack access to affordable private coverage. The non-insured rate is a record low of 5 percent due in part to Medicaid and CHIP coverage. While CHIP is authorized by Congress to operate until October 1, 2017, legislative action is needed to continue funding beyond FY 2017. Failure to extend CHIP funding could result in coverage losses for millions of children and increased financial pressure for states to reduce eligibility and benefits. This legislation safeguards the program by providing for a five-year extension of funding.

We also certainly appreciate your leadership on delaying cuts to Medicaid DSH, which took effect on October 1, 2017. As you know, Medicaid DSH payments support Texas Health’s hospitals in serving north Texas’ most vulnerable individuals—the poor, the elderly, and the disabled. Congress reduced Medicaid DSH payments in the Affordable Care Act, reasoning that hospitals would need care for fewer uninsured patients as health care expanded. However, the projected increase in coverage has not been fully realized, and Congress subsequently decreased the state’s share of the Federal match, scheduled to begin in FY 2014. As a result, Texas hospitals will sustain a $148 million cut in vital payments in federal fiscal year 2017. The cumulative losses for Texas hospitals for 2018 through 2024 is $3.2 billion. Thankfully, H.R. 3922 would eliminate the scheduled Medicaid DSH reductions in Fiscal Years 2018 and 2019, thus allowing a source of funding to continue for safety net hospitals.

Thank you for your steadfast leadership on addressing these important programs by supporting H.R. 3922. As Congress moves forward on these important issues, we appreciate your continued willingness to work with us to extend funding for CHIP, eliminate reductions to Medicaid DSH payments, and safeguard programs critical to hospitals. If we can provide you or your staff with additional information, please do not hesitate to contact.

Sincerely, BARCLAY BERDAN, FACHE, Chief Executive Officer, Texas Health Resources.”

Texas Health Resources, November 1, 2017.
Hon. MICHAEL BURGESS, House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE BURGESS: As one of the nation’s largest faith-based, nonprofit Health systems, Texas Health Resources (Texas Health) provides more than 350 points of access throughout North Texas, including 29 hospitals (acute-care, short-stay, behavioral health, rehabilitation, and transitional care) and more than 100 outpatient facilities, satellite emergency rooms, surgery centers, behavioral health facilities, fitness centers and imaging centers. The system also includes a large physician group, home health, preventive and well-being services as well as more than 250 clinics and physician offices to provide care. Our focus is on survival for all stages of life. I am writing to thank you for your leadership on the Championing Healthy Kids Act of 2017 (H.R. 3922) to extend funding for the Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP). We strongly support a five-year extension of CHIP funding, along with the elimination of reductions in fiscal years (FY) 2018 and 2019 to the Medicaid disproportionately share hospital (DSH) payments.

Texas Health has supported CHIP since its inception, and the program serves 8.9 million children with family incomes above Medicaid eligibility limits who lack access to affordable private coverage. The non-insured rate is a record low of 5 percent due in part to Medicaid and CHIP coverage. While CHIP is authorized by Congress to operate until October 1, 2017, legislative action is needed to continue funding beyond FY 2017. Failure to extend CHIP funding could result in coverage losses for millions of children and increased financial pressure for states to reduce eligibility and benefits. This legislation safeguards the program by providing for a five-year extension of funding.

We also certainly appreciate your leadership on delaying cuts to Medicaid DSH, which took effect on October 1, 2017. As you know, Medicaid DSH payments support Texas Health’s hospitals in serving north Texas’ most vulnerable individuals—the poor, the elderly, and the disabled. Congress reduced Medicaid DSH payments in the Affordable Care Act, reasoning that hospitals would need care for fewer uninsured patients as health care expanded. However, the projected increase in coverage has not been fully realized, and Congress subsequently decreased the state’s share of the Federal match, scheduled to begin in FY 2014. the Pediatric Quality Measures Program, express lane eligibility, and outreach and enrollment grants. These policies are also included in the bipartisan Senate proposal on CHIP. Because committed to jurisdiction in both chambers for including these crucial policies.

If CHIP funding is not extended soon, CHIP-enrolled children may become underinsured or uninsured altogether. CHIP is an important bipartisan health coverage program for low-income children. CHIP builds off of a strong Medicaid program by providing age-appropriate and affordable coverage for children who fall above Medicaid eligibility levels, but lack access to other health coverage options.

Concerning reports indicate that states are taking steps to limit programs in order to address the looming funding shortfall, despite receiving federal redistribution funds. We urge Congress to act now and avoid potentially disastrous consequences caused by further delay by enacting a strong, bipartisan five-year extension of CHIP.

Children's hospitals thank Congress for its long-term, bipartisan commitment to CHIP and the children it serves. We look forward to working with lawmakers to maintain a strong CHIP program and strengthen health care for children in the future.

Mr. BURGESS. Finally, Madam Speaker, I will tell you I am perplexed. I, frankly, do not understand why there is reticence to providing an offset for funding of children's health insurance by including in part B premiums for people who earn over $500,000 a year, seniors who earn over $500,000 a year, or a couple who earns over $875,000 a year. This was language that was included in President Obama's budget, so don't say it is not bipartisan, because it was bipartisan.

Now, Madam Speaker, today's rule provides for the consideration of an important piece of legislation to maintain the important funding streams for millions of underprivileged children depending on the program.

I want to thank Chairman WALDEN for his efforts to continually work with the minority on the Energy and Commerce Committee, repeatedly providing the requested extensions by the ranking member in order to continue discussions on the legislation.

The package reflects hours of work to create legislation that will benefit millions of America's children so that they can lead healthier lives. I urge my colleagues to support today's rule and the underlying legislation, the CHAMPIONING HEALTHY KIDS Act.

The material previously referred to by Mr. PALMER is as follows:

AN AMENDMENT TO H. RES. 601 OFFERED BY MS. SLAUGHTER

At the end of the resolution, add the following new paragraph:

Sec. 2. It shall not be in order to consider a comprehensive tax reform measure or matter reported pursuant to Sections 2001 or 2002 of House Concurrent Resolution 71 in the House or in the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union unless easily searchable electronic estimates and comparisons prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office and Joint Committee on Taxation have been made available on a publicly accessible website of the House 48 hours in advance.

In Deschler's Procedure in the U.S. House of Representatives, the subchapter titled "Amending Special Rules" states: "a refusal to order the previous question on such a rule (a special rule reported from Rules) opens the resolution to amendment and further debate." (Chapter 21, section 21.2) Section 21.3 continues: "Upon rejection of a rule, the Speaker may entertain an amendment on a resolution reported from the Committee on Rules, control shifts to the Member leading the opposition to the previous question, who may offer an amendment or motion and who controls the time for debate thereon.

Clearly, the vote on the previous question on a rule does have some policy implications. It is one of the only available tools for those who oppose the Republican majority's agenda and allows those with alternative views the opportunity to offer an alternative plan.

Mr. BURGESS. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

Provisional Access to Medicare Act of 2017

Mr. PAULSEN. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to House Resolution 600, I call up the bill (H.R. 849) to repeal the provisions of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, providing for the Independent Payment Advisory Board, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The Speaker pro tempore (Mr. BYRNE). Pursuant to House Resolution 600, the amendment in the nature of a substitute recommended by the Committee on Ways and Means, printed in the bill, shall be considered as adopted, and the bill, as amended, shall be considered read.

The text of the bill, as amended, is as follows:

PROTECTING SENIORS’ ACCESS TO MEDICARE ACT OF 2017

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Protecting Seniors Access to Medicare Act”.

SEC. 2. REPEAL OF THE INDEPENDENT PAYMENT ADVISORY BOARD.

Effective as of the enactment of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (Public Law 111–148), sections 3403 and 10320 of such Act (including the amendments made by such sections) are repealed, and any provision of law amended or affected by such sections is hereby restored as if such sections had not been enacted into law.
The SPEAKER pro tempore. The bill shall be debatable for 1 hour, equally divided among and controlled by the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Energy and Commerce and the chair and ranking minority member of the Committee on Ways and Means.

The gentleman from Kentucky (Mr. GUTTENBERG), the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE), the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. PAULSEN), and the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. LEVIN) each will control 15 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Minnesota.

Mr. PAULSEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and insert extraneous material on the bill into the RECORD.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

There was no objection.

Mr. PAULSEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise today in support of H.R. 849, the Protecting Seniors’ Access to Medicare Act. This legislation is not new. Republicans and Democrats came together to pass this same bill back in 2015. This year there is, once again, strong bipartisan support with 45 Democratic Members and 225 Republican cosponsors. It passed out of the Ways and Means Committee last month with bipartisan support, too.

This bill will repeal the Independent Payment Advisory Board, or IPAB, created in ObamaCare, the Affordable Care Act. The IPAB puts 15 unelected bureaucrats in charge of Medicare spending with significant unilateral powers to slash payments to providers, forcing them to stop seeing Medicare patients without any accountability, judicial review or transparency.

The board’s unprecedented authority to alter Medicare policy could ultimately reduce seniors’ access to healthcare and put the government, rather than the patient, at the center of the healthcare system.

Putting Medicare on a sustainable financial footing is a top priority for all of us here in Congress, but passing the buck to a handful of unaccountable bureaucrats is not the right approach.

Last year, the Medicare Trustees Report stated that this was to be the year that the IPAB’s authority to make cuts would be triggered. Fortunately, this year’s Medicare Trustees Report has given us slightly more time, but next year, they can come back and move the date up once again. This is a cloud that will hang over seniors and beneficiaries, unless we act and pass this bill today.

Now some have stated that this bill does not solve any immediate problem, and they have questioned the need to act on the bill today. I believe that our seniors and our healthcare providers are a priority. Why should we kick the can down the road when we can stop this today?

There are letters of support from over 700 bipartisan groups representing patients, employers, hospitals, doctors, nurses, and other healthcare professionals all voicing strong support for IPAB repeal.

They believe that the threat of this board is enough to warrant repeal and to place the decisionmaking back in the hands of elected Members of Congress, and I agree.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this is really the question: Why in the world are we passing up a bill to terminate a board that does not exist? Why in the world are we doing so when premiums are rising and action should be taken to strengthen them? Why in the world are we passing this bill to increase the deficit by well over $17.6 billion? Pay for CHIP, the Republicans say, but not this bill.

So however you feel about IPAB, this is the wrong time and the wrong bill for addressing it. The ACA enrollment period began yesterday, and because of actions to repeal the Affordable Care Act, navigators and, thereby, improve the insurance market. But after repeated requests, we never received a response from the chairman, and, to date, the House has taken no action on behalf of consumers.

In the meanwhile, the Trump administration has continued to work to undermine the law and access to healthcare by: one, cutting off funding for cost-sharing assistance for moderate-income enrollees; two, slashing funds to navigators that help consumers enroll in coverage—the biggest navigator in Michigan had its funding cut by 90 percent; three, shortening the enrollment period; four, shutting down these marketplace websites; and, finally, proposing to chip away at consumer protections through executive fiat.

These actions have significantly contributed to insurers exiting the market and raising premiums. It is nothing less than direct and deliberate sabotage, and, thereby, improve the insurance markets. Senators LAMAR ALEXANDER and PATTY MURRAY recently came to a bipartisan agreement that would provide funding for the cost-sharing reductions and outreach and enrollment activities that strengthen the risk pool in the marketplace.

Unfortunately, as we see today, my Republican colleagues continue to ignore this and other important issues, while allowing an administration, obsessed with repeal of ACA, to do so through executive action what could not be done legislatively.

That is more, that are bringing to the floor today a bill that the Congressional Budget Office estimates will raise the deficit by $17.5 billion over the next decade. I repeat, raise the deficit by $17.5 billion over the next decade. And this is just a small preview of the upcoming GOP tax bill, which would increase our Nation’s debt by $1.5 trillion according to the Republican’s own budget resolution.

And whatever happened to the crocodile tears we used to hear from Republicans about the deficit? In terms of today’s bill lacking any offset, how about at least starting to address the staggering cost of prescription drugs, a step that would save both senior citizens and the Medicare program money.

Mr. Speaker, there is no question that people need Congress to take action to lower their healthcare costs and to stabilize the markets. They do not need today an irrelevant political bill such as H.R. 849. If you support real steps to lower health insurance premiums now, vote “no” on this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PAULSEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume, and let me just start by saying that some of my colleagues on the other side of the aisle have called on us to work with them over and over again to find common ground, to make fixes in the flaws in ObamaCare.

Today we have an opportunity to do exactly that. We should all be joining together. There is bipartisan support on this bill to eliminate this unnecessary and potentially very destructive body, one that I would define as a major flaw in the law. This is the exact process that we have been asking for—you have been asking for.

The bill has been through regular order. We have had countless hearings on this topic. We have actually voted not once, but twice, in past Congresses to repeal the IPAB. And whatever happened to the crocodile tears we used to hear from Republicans about the deficit?

So today we are bringing this bill forward—this legislation forward—as a way to take action to lower health insurance premiums right now, to help seniors access to seniors’ care.

Today we have an opportunity to address these issues, we are engaged today in a political exercise to repeal IPAB, a board that has never taken effect and is not projected to be triggered before 2021, according to CMS actuaries.

In September, every Democratic member of the Ways and Means Committee wrote to Chairman BRADY urging bipartisan action to stabilize the insurance market. But after repeated requests, we never received a response from the chairman, and, to date, the House has taken no action on behalf of consumers.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. ROE), who has been a tireless champion for seniors in Tennessee and, since day one, has been working on this legislation to repeal the IPAB.

Mr. ROE of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of my bill, H.R. 849, the Protecting Seniors’ Access to Medicare Act of 2017, a bipartisan bill with 270 cosponsors, that repeals two sections of the Affordable Care Act and terminates the Independent Payment Advisory Board—or the IPAB—one and for all. I thank Chairman BRADY and Chairman WALLEY for filing this important bill to the floor.

I also want to start by thanking my lead Democrat cosponsor from California, Dr. RAUL RUIZ. Dr. RUIZ and his staff have worked tirelessly with my staff and the cosponsors this Congress than we have ever had before, including 45 Democrats. Seeing such strong bipartisan support for my bill only makes sense, however, since doing away with the IPAB has been a bipartisan idea since it was first proposed.

In December of 2009, I joined Congressman RICHARD NEAL and 72 other bipartisan Members in writing then-Speaker PELOSI expressing our opposition to the IPAB’s creation. On the day the Affordable Care Act passed the House, I filed legislation to repeal the IPAB, and have received bipartisan support in every Congress since. This is about access for seniors’ care and quality of their care. By the way, the IPAB was not in the House-passed Affordable Care Act. Only the Senate sent that back over here. So it was not part of the House to begin with.

We got lucky this summer that the Medicare trustees’ report did not trigger the IPAB. Otherwise, there would have been significant statutory requirements to cut Medicare within a year. These cuts would have been made to provide reimbursements, which would do nothing but drive providers out of Medicare and would eliminate options for our seniors to receive healthcare.

Peter Orszag, President Obama’s Office of Management and Budget Director, said this was the greatest ceding of power to Congress to a bureaucratic body since the formation of the Federal Reserve. Remember, it has been stated here, Mr. Speaker, that the board hasn’t been formed. That means one person makes these decisions, not the Congress. Medicare recipients can’t come to their elected official and effect changes in this IPAB if it is enacted, and it will be.

One of the major concerns we hear today is that the CBO has estimated that this bill will cost over $17 billion that is not paid for. First of all, the CBO describes its estimates as “extremely uncertain” because it is quite possible that under current law, the IPAB will not be triggered.

Secondly, this is the same dilemma we were making the unsustainable growth rate—SGR. Medicare says to doctors: You go out and provide the care, but if you provide too much, we will cut your payments.

As a physician myself, having seen how much havoc the SGR wreaked every year, we can’t afford to put providers through this again. We spent months and years getting that corrected. Knowing that many Members were concerned about the offsets in previous years, we have a bill on the floor today that all of our cosponsors can support.

I look forward to seeing all 270 of my cosponsors vote in favor of passage in order to preserve Medicare for our Nation’s seniors. We have a chance to send a strong statement of support to Americans of Medicare age that do not want to see their healthcare arbitrarily cut by a body of 15 unelected, unaccountable bureaucrats. The Secretary of HHS, if the board is not empaneled. If there are hard decisions to be made on Medicare, Congress should not abdicate that duty to a group of people with no oversight or legal recourse. Those decisions should be made by the people elected as representatives of the people.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support final passage of this bill and maintain Medicare services for our Nation’s seniors. It is truly a bipartisan issue that will affect all seniors equally.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND).

Mr. KIND. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in opposition to the repeal of the Independent Payment Advisory Board. This is an example of a solution in search of a problem. Of all the things that we should be working on in Congress in a bipartisan fashion to improve and to fix the problems that exist within our healthcare system, we have legislation that cuts Medicare payments before we today that calls for the repeal of a nonexisting commission, based on nonconsistent spending cuts being proposed for Medicare, based on a nonconsistent cost of rate of increase in spending under the Medicare program, all of which is going to add $17.5 billion to the deficit over the next 10 years because this bill isn’t paid for. And the irony is they are coming forward with this legislation, which will add another $18 billion to the debt, on the same day they release a tax bill that calls for an additional $1.5 trillion worth of deficit spending because the tax bill hasn’t been offset. At some point and at some time, we have got to take a bipartisan stand on fiscal responsibility in this place again because it is not happening today.

Instead, we should be working on short-term, practical solutions to stabilize and bring more certainty to the health insurance marketplace, in light of what the administration is doing to completely undermine the marketplaces today. We ought to be working on delivery system reform proposals that will emphasize the establishment of accountable care organizations and medical homes, in value-based purchasing and bundling arrangements and different alternative payment models to get us to a system of value, quality, and outcomes, and away from the fee-for-service payment for the volume of services, regardless of results.

Let’s be honest, the real cost driver in our Federal budget—and it is true at the State and local level—has been healthcare costs because we have an aging population. That is the work that we should be working on together, is the delivery system reform and the payment reform, so we are aligning the incentives in the right direction where we are telling our healthcare providers: You will be compensated based on good results, not on how much you do.

There is a lot within the Affordable Care Act giving our providers the very tools in order to accomplish that, and we ought to be enhancing that here today. Instead, we are wasting time on a commission that, according to the CBO’s own actuary, says, at the very earliest, it might be comprised in 2021. But, even then, it warrants us, with the mission that we have given it, that: Hey, you have got healthcare spending growth. By the way, the IPAB was not in the Affordable Care Act. Only the Senate sent that back to Congress, you need to deal with. And then come back with recommendations. And then it is up to us to make corrective action at that time.

So all this talk about unrelated budget reconciliation making decisions belies what the legislation actually calls for in the establishment of the IPAB. This was, however, another important cost containment tool that was put into the Affordable Care Act to try to restrain the growth of healthcare spending. We need more of those type of ideas, rather than efforts today to remove those tools and then possibly see just unbridled healthcare spending in the future.

What is really disturbing is I know there is a lot of common ground in this area, yet the American people wouldn’t know it, with this political ping-pong ball on healthcare reform going back and forth and the chaos and the confusion that it is causing, and that is unfortunate.

So, instead, today, we ought to first take steps to stabilize the insurance exchanges, rather than an administration that is doing everything they can to limit the enrollment during the signup period, which actually started yesterday and lasts until December 15. They have cut by 90 percent funding for marketing of the exchanges. They have cut by almost 50 percent the funding for navigators who are trying to help people get affordable healthcare coverage in their lives. They ended the cost-share payments, which only increases the cost for healthcare for everyone else because of the risk that the insurance plans now face.

The other segment of the population that we should be focused on in helping is that 5 or 6 percent of the population that are in the individual market who don’t qualify for premium tax credits because they are getting hammered today. You would think that would be another area of bipartisan commonality that we can come together on.
My constituents in western Pennsylvania rely on these funds for their healthcare needs. I am proud to see Congress working together in a bipartisan manner on this commonsense legislation that will keep patients and doctors in control of healthcare decisions and put the power of Medicare for current and future seniors.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PAULSEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. MESSER), a member of our leadership team.

Mr. MESSER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Minnesota for his hard work on this topic.

Mr. Speaker, Hoosiers continue to suffer under the negative impacts of ObamaCare each and every day. Despite the House keeping its promise to repeal this disastrous law, the Senate has failed to act.

But, fortunately, we have an opportunity today to make a difference, to protect our seniors, and to get rid of one of ObamaCare’s worst provisions: the Independent Payment Advisory Board, better known as the IPAB. This board consists of 15 unelected and unaccountable bureaucrats who have the power to ration healthcare for our seniors without any congressional oversight. For an individual patient, this board has the power to make your healthcare decisions for you, and that is not fair. This bill will change that. It disbands the board and ensures our seniors continue to have access to their healthcare that they need.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to roll back this dangerous ObamaCare provision and to support this commonsense legislation.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PAULSEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. ALLEN), an original cosponsor of this legislation.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to urge my colleagues to support the Protecting Seniors’ Access to Medicare Act.

How many of you know what the Independent Payment Advisory Board is—also known as the IPAB? How many of you know who serves on the board?

I would venture to say that not many people know the 15 unelected, unaccountable bureaucrats who have unilateral authority to cut Medicare spending.

When the Democrats passed ObamaCare, they created the Independent Payment Advisory Board, providing them with unprecedented power to alter Medicare policy, ultimately, having the chance to reduce seniors’ choice and put the government at the center of our healthcare system with zero accountability or transparency.

and potentially destructive provision—certainly, it is a major flaw in the law—and pass this bipartisan legislation.

Repealing IPAB is crucial to maintaining and expanding access to high-quality care for our Nation’s seniors and ensuring that Medicare payment policy is not dictated to us and our constituents by a board of unelected and accountable bureaucrats.

I want to thank Dr. Roe and I want to thank Dr. Ruiz on the other side of the aisle for their leadership on this bill, along with the Energy and Commerce and Ways and Means Committee members.

Mr. Speaker, I strongly urge my colleagues to support the passage of H.R. 849, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GUTHRIE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself as much time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 849, the Protecting Seniors’ Access to Medicare Act of 2017.

The Independent Payment Advisory Board, or IPAB, was created in the Affordable Care Act to reduce per capita rate of growth in Medicare spending. If a spending target is exceeded, cuts must be made, and the HHS Secretary is directed to implement the proposals made by this 15-person board automatically unless Congress affirmatively acts to alter the proposals or to discontinue automatic implementation of the proposals. This board has not yet been formed, but the statute requires the HHS Secretary to come up with the required reductions instead.

Medicare is crucial for our Nation’s seniors to see their doctors, and the program’s viability must be protected. There is no question that Medicare must be modernized in order to continue for future generations, but IPAB is not the right approach, and a bipartisan group of my colleagues agree that IPAB is not the answer to fixing Medicare’s shortfalls.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. Ruiz).

Mr. RUIZ. Mr. Speaker, today I rise in strong support of my bill, the bipartisan Protecting Seniors’ Access to Medicare Act of 2017.

I was proud to introduce this commonsense, bipartisan bill with my friend on the other side of the aisle, Congressman Dr. Phil Roe.

Mr. Speaker, I thank Dr. Roe and his staff for their many years of hard work and advocacy on this issue. I am pleased that our offices were able to work closely on this bill, building a strong, bipartisan working relationship.

H.R. 849 eliminates the well-intentioned but misguided Independent Payment Advisory Board, or IPAB, that was created under the Affordable Care Act.

Everyone can agree that we need to address the high cost of healthcare and strengthen the solvency of Medicare. However, the IPAB approach is misguided, because it establishes an appointed and unelected panel that would have the authority to make cuts to Medicare, with no accountability to seniors.

Our constituents must be able to hold elected officials accountable for decisions made regarding changes to Medicare regardless of who is in power.

What is more, if the board failed to act, the Health and Human Services Secretary, whether Democrat or Republican, would be able to singlehandedly make cuts to Medicare.

Fortunately, the targeted Medicare growth rate to trigger IPAB has never been reached and the board has not yet been appointed. However, we must act now to ensure that it never happens.

Again, we can all agree that we must address the high cost of care and strengthen the solvency of Medicare, but we should do this by addressing the overall long-term cost of care.

I am pleased we are taking action in the House now, and I hope the Senate can consider this bill quickly. I encourage my colleagues to join me in passing this commonsense, bipartisan improvements to the Affordable Care Act and work together to protect and strengthen Medicare for our Nation’s seniors.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote “yes.”

Mr. GUTHRIE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. WALDEN), the chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee and my good friend.

Mr. WALDEN. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank Mr. Guthrie from Kentucky. He has done a terrific job on the Energy and Commerce Committee on many fronts related to improving healthcare, especially for seniors and low-income Americans, among others.

Mr. Speaker, today I rise in strong support of H.R. 849, the Protecting Seniors’ Access to Medicare Act of 2017. This will repeal the Independent Payment Advisory Board, IPAB.

The purpose of IPAB is to reduce Medicare’s per capita growth rate. While, certainly, that is important work, this is not the solution.

The IPAB, created by the Affordable Care Act, would be composed of 15 unelected bureaucrats authorized to unilaterally determine Medicare’s, finances, whether be through draconian cuts to provider payments or by imposing policy changes that would reduce Medicare spending if the program exceeds an arbitrary growth rate target.

In other words, they can do just about anything they want to cut Medicare, and we don’t have much of a say in it. These changes would automatically go into effect, and the Secretary of Health and Human Services would be forced to implement these reductions if IPAB is triggered, unless Congress passed legislation that would achieve the same amount of savings.

It is also worth noting that current law does not require a public comment period before IPAB issues their recommendations, so there would be no chance for the public to weigh in. And individuals and providers would have no recourse against the board if they can you imagine?—individual decisions are not subject to appeal or judicial review. This is hardly a model of transparency and accountability.

While IPAB hasn’t been constituted yet, the threat of this provision of law remains. So I call on my colleagues to join me and vote to repeal IPAB.

For example, should we pass IPAB, IPAB would never have, because its potential cuts to providers, our doctors and hospitals and others and healthcare facilities would increase out-of-pocket costs for seniors and potentially limit the availability of medical services, restricting seniors’ access to care, particularly in our rural areas.

Congress can and should act now to prevent IPAB and prevent the unelected bureaucrats from ever being at the helm of our country’s Medicare Program.

I know the importance of this program. It took very good care of my parents, my wife’s parents, and others I know. We should reject the premise of using our healthcare system to preserve our responsibility to preserve and protect the Medicare Program to a board with the power to make binding decisions about Medicare policy, with little accountability.

We need to know how to make sure seniors have an affordable, sound, reliable healthcare system. We have to create competition at every turn in the healthcare system and look for models that work, like Medicare part D.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to H.R. 849, the IPAB repeal.

Mr. Speaker, Republicans have spent the last 9 months trying to repeal the Affordable Care Act, and they have failed, but instead of working with Democrats to improve the ACA, they will stop at nothing to repeal the law piece by piece.

The Republicans’ partisan bill to re-authorize CHIP, community health centers, and other public health extenders is paid for on the back of Medicaid recipients, Medicare, low- and middle-income families with the Affordable Care Act health coverage, and the Prevention and Public Health Fund. Yet they will not bother to pay for the $17.5 billion it will cost to repeal IPAB.

IPAB was enacted as a backstop to the other cost-saving and quality-improvement efforts in the ACA, such as accountable care organizations, patient-centered care models like Medical Homes, programs that pay for quality, not quantity and value-based purchasing.

Because of the Affordable Care Act and these programs, Medicare spending growth has slowed and Medicare solvency has been extended.

According to the CMS actuary, IPAB will not be triggered until 2021, so the tim ing of today’s repeal is premature and politically motivated.

IPAB repeal would increase the deficit by $17.5 billion. This is fiscally irresponsible of Republicans, especially as they prepare to announce a tax package that will saddle our country with an additional trillion of debt in order to give tax cuts to the wealthy and corporations.

IPAB repeal is not about helping seniors. Don’t let the Republicans kid you. Contrary to what the Republicans say, IPAB is prohibited from sending recommendations to Congress that would harm seniors by increasing their out-of-pocket costs or cutting their benefits. In fact, it is the Republican ACA repeal efforts that would cut nearly a trillion dollars from Medicaid and Medicare, harming seniors and other vulnerable Americans, which would have truly led to the rationing of healthcare.

So for all these reasons, I urge my colleagues to vote “no” on H.R. 849, the IPAB repeal.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GUTHRIE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. BLIRAKIS), a member of the Energy and Commerce Committee.

Mr. BLIRAKIS. Mr. Speaker, I thank and appreciate my friend from Kentucky. He does a great job on the Energy and Commerce Committee and as vice chairman on the Health Subcommittee.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the Protecting Seniors’ Access to Medicare Act. I am a proud cosponsor of this bill, and I am glad we are passing this much-needed bill.

The Affordable Care Act created the Independent Payment Advisory Board. This board of unelected and unaccountable bureaucrats was charged with the single goal of cutting Medicare payments to physicians and hospitals. We can’t let that happen.

This poorly conceived scheme could force physicians to exit the Medicare Program or limit their Medicare patients. We can’t let that happen.

This would create an access-to-care problem for the 170,000 Medicare beneficiaries in my district. When I am back in the district talking to seniors, senior advocates, local physicians, hospitals, practically everyone has raised concerns with this board.

This is a commonsense repeal bill. They say that it hasn’t been implemented yet, it hasn’t been set up yet. Okay. Well, let’s get rid of it. Most people don’t want it.

Mr. Speaker, again, we need to pass this particular bill. We need to abolish this bad idea.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Vermont (Mr. WELCH), a member of our committee.

Mr. WELCH. Mr. Speaker, the issue here about Medicare is one where there is universal support in this body for that program that was passed in 1965 by a bipartisan vote. It is a lifeline for many of our seniors—for all of our seniors. It is a program where, since everybody pays, everybody benefits. It gives all of us confidence that our parents or ours will have access to good healthcare.

We have a challenge. The cost of healthcare in this country is far too expensive, and it is for a variety of reasons that our country spends twice as much on healthcare as the other industrialized countries in the rest of the world and we don’t get better results for that.

The challenge for us, if we want to save healthcare, particularly Medicare, is to start focusing on reforms that bring the cost of healthcare down and don’t compromise quality.

The Affordable Care Act extended access to healthcare for millions of Americans, but it also included some steps that began bending the cost curve. As Medicare spending has started to come down under the Affordable Care Act. It was patient-centered programs, it was accountable care organizations, it was value-based payment systems. These things worked, where, for the first time, Congress talked not just about extending access, but trying to reform payment systems so that we could get the benefit of a more efficient system.

The IPAB is simply one of the potential tools that would be used in order to present to Congress recommendations. Unlike what Mr. WALKER said, it would be the final say of Congress whether we wanted to approve or not any recommendation by the IPAB.

Here is the difference in how we are approaching healthcare. Many in this body on the Republican side have focused on the cost of healthcare, its contribution to the debt. The policy proposal in the form of repealing the Affordable Care Act of reducing the cost of healthcare was to take healthcare away from 24 million Americans. That is what that bill did.

That is one way to control the cost of healthcare, have people go without. It is the wrong way. We all know that. We have got to bite the bullet here and start addressing the fact that we spend too much. Some of it is wasteful procedures, some of it is gaming the system, some of it is these incredible maneuvers by drug companies.

I am not going to give one example because I want to give this example as an indication of how right before our eyes bad things are happening that we are allowing to occur.

HUMIRA, a very good drug by AbbVie. Their patent was expiring. That patent is legislatively provided to give them exclusive marketing and selling rights. They have a monopoly price. It is incredibly expensive, like $70,000 a year for a supplier. Mr. Amgen, he had a biosimilar that was going to be marketed, and then you would have the benefit of competition. The price would go down.

AbbVie and Amgen made a deal. We don’t know how much AbbVie paid to Amgen, but suddenly Amgen is not going to bring its generic, in effect, to market until 2023, but—and this is part of their agreement—they are going to sell their biosimilar product in Europe meantime.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield an additional 2 minutes to the gentleman from Vermont.

Mr. WELCH. Mr. Speaker, Europe is getting the benefit of that lower price the United States is not.

My question to my colleagues is it not just about the IPAB. It is about, let’s get real. Let’s get real on drug prices. Let’s get real on the fee-for-service as opposed to value-based system. Let’s get real on cracking down on Medicare fraud. Let’s get real on focusing on the cost side, where all of us acknowledge bad things are happening. This fear of these “unelected bureaucrats,” where it is 15 people who, at the end of the day, whatever recommendations they want to make and force us to make a hard decision as to whether it is a good recommendation or a bad recommendation.

We are in charge. This is going to be rammed down our throat, but what it does force us to do is making where the money is; rip-off drug prices, excessive procedures that actually create medical risk.

Mr. Speaker, we do have a challenge of healthcare cost in this country, but the focus has to be on approving the delivery system and taking the rip-off pricing out of the system.

Mr. GUTHRIE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. COSTELLO), a member of the Energy and Commerce Committee.

Mr. COSTELLO of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 849, the Protecting Seniors’ Access to Medicare Act.

Mr. SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. WELCH. Mr. Speaker, Europe is getting the benefit of that lower price the United States is not.
Mr. FALLONE. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire as to how much time remains?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from New Jersey has 5½ minutes remaining, and the gentleman from Kentucky has 8½ minutes remaining.

Mr. FALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I can’t help but put what is happening today in terms of the Republicans putting up this bill on the table and what is happening tomorrow with the Republicans putting up a CHIP and community health centers bill but point out that collectively what they are trying to do is what they were not able to do in the first 9 months of this session when they sought very hard and pushed very hard to repeal the Affordable Care Act.

What is going on here today and tomorrow with the IPAB and community health centers and CHIP is essentially an effort to repeal the Affordable Care Act piece by piece, in my opinion. What do we do?

We see the IPAB, which is part of the Affordable Care Act. We see the pay-fors for community health centers and the CHIP, which is community health centers bill but point out that collectively what they are trying to do is what they were not able to do in the first 9 months of this session when they sought very hard and pushed very hard to repeal the Affordable Care Act.

What is going on here today and tomorrow with the IPAB and community health centers and CHIP is essentially an effort to repeal the Affordable Care Act piece by piece, in my opinion.

Mr. Speaker, for all these reasons, the bottom line is, what the Republicans are doing is not fair. It is not fair to the kids. It is not fair to the people who are going to lose their health insurance.

I will say as the last thing that this is going nowhere. One of the reasons why Democrats have been urging the Republicans with regard to the CHIP and community health centers to work with us on a bipartisan basis is because we know if this bill passes today on a partisan vote, we can't support it for the reasons I explained, then that means that it is going to go to the Senate and it is going to die because there is no reason to believe that the Senate is going to take up this bipartisan bill. I think it is just a huge mistake on the part of Republicans. Basically, what they are signaling today is that they don't really care about this. They wanted to stick around until the end of year, which means the community health centers will just basically wither on the vine for lack of funds. That is not fair. It is not fair to the kids. It is not fair to those who use community health centers.

Mr. Speaker, for all these reasons, I would urge a “no” vote tomorrow on the CHIP and the community health centers legislation.

Mr. Speaker, for all these reasons, I would urge a “no” vote on the bill today, the IPAB repeal; and I will also ask for a “no” vote tomorrow on the CHIP and the community health centers legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GUTHRIE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, one, this IPAB effort is bipartisan. We have even heard on the floor both sides of the aisle support passage of the bill. It has been bipartisan.

First, a couple of things. On the value-based payments—which I think is the direction we need to go to rein in the costs and make sure we have sustainable payment systems, that the IPAB’s annual short-term focus savings provision would affect Medicare and the wider health system in unpredictable ways with potentially many negative unintended consequences by doubling down on the traditional practice of squeezing payment rates in order to slow spending with no meaningful eye to how these changes impact long-term incentives—the IPAB could work at cross purposes to broader reform that would base Medicare payments on quality and value.

On the offset, we did offset CHIP and the community health centers. We know that money is going to be spent. We know that when we authorize it, it is going to be spent wisely. That is why we are moving forward with these bills.

The IPAB has not been constituted, and repealing it should not have to be a condition. It has not been charged yet with finding any savings. The IPAB trigger has never been hit. The CBO estimates that the IPAB would be triggered in 2023, 2025, and 2027. But by their own admission, the CBO notes from the uncertainty that surrounds these projections, it is possible such authority would be invoked in other years, or we could also assume possibly never at all.

The CBO estimate also has to assume the level of cuts required by the amount Medicare is spending that exceeds the trigger. The CBO also has to speculate on how reductions made in any one year would impact the trajectory in future years. Further, the IPAB was triggered by taking money from the traditional practice of squeezing payment rates in order to slow spending with no meaningful eye to how these changes impact long-term incentives. It does not fit the Affordable Care Act piece by piece, in my opinion.

The IPAB decisions don’t come to Congress to be approved or disapproved. We can undo the IPAB decisions, but that could even be blocked by a minority vote in the Senate.

So I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 849, to repeal the Independent Payment Advisory Board, and I hope there will continue to be bipartisan support for this important legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.
Mr. Speaker, H.R. 849 is nothing but another attempt, in a long line of House Republican efforts to undermine both the Medicare guarantee and the Affordable Care Act.

Repealing IPAB would cost over $17.5 billion during the course of a ten year period according to the Congressional Budget Office (CBO).

Mr. Speaker, Republicans do not even make an attempt to find an offset for this $17.5 billion increase to the deficit resulting from repealing IPAB, while at the same time they plan to bring to the floor a partisan bill to reauthorize CHIP, Community Health Centers, and other public health extenders by cutting Medicare and slashing funding for programs relied upon by Medicaid recipients, low and middle income families with Affordable Care Act health coverage.

After more than seven years under the Affordable Care Act, more than 20 million Americans have gained health coverage; up to 129 million people who could have otherwise been denied or who faced discrimination now have access to coverage.

Mr. Speaker, given the real challenges facing our nation, it is irresponsible for the Republican majority to continue bringing to the floor bills that would do serious harm to millions of Americans if they were to be enacted.

House Republicans have tried more than 65 times to undermine the Affordable Care Act, which has enabled more than 20 million previously uninsured Americans to know the peace of mind that comes from having access to affordable, high quality health care.

Their batting average to date is .000; they have struck out every time because the American public has spoken and strongly support the Affordable Care Act.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to look at the facts and abandon this misguided effort to undermine the ACA and impose significant negative impacts on Americans currently insured.

The Independent Payment Advisory Board is to recommend to Congress policies that reduce the rate of Medicare growth and help Medicare provide better care at lower costs. IPAB recommendations are to be made up of 15 members appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate and been comprised of the non-partisan CBO, economists, and health policy experts as contributing to Medicare's long-term sustainability.

Mr. Speaker, the IPAB is already prohibited from recommending changes to Medicare that ration health care, restrict benefits, modify eligibility, increase cost sharing, or raise premiums or revenues.

Under current law, the Congress retains the authority to modify, reject, or enhance IPAB recommendations to strengthen Medicare, and IPAB recommendations would take effect only if the Congress does not act to slow Medicare cost growth.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, let me point out to our friends across the aisle that according to the CMS actuary, IPAB will not be triggered until 2024, so the timing of today's repeal is premature and politically motivated.

IPAB was enacted as a backstop to the other cost-saving and quality improvement efforts in ACA, such as accountable care organizations, patient-centered care models like medical homes, programs that pay for quality not quantity, and value based purchasing.

Because of the ACA and these programs, Medicare spending growth has slowed and Medicare's solvency has been extended.

Increasing the deficit by $17.5 billion as a result of repealing the IPAB would be fiscally irresponsible, especially now that Republicans have introduced a tax package that will saddle our country with $1.5 trillion of debt in order to give tax cuts to the wealthy and corporations.

Mr. Speaker, despite the Supreme Court's upholding of the law's constitutionality, the repeal of President Obama, and Speaker Ryan's admission that "Obamacare is the law of the land," Republicans refuse to stop wasting time and taxpayer money in their effort to take away the patient protections and benefits of the Affordable Care Act.

Mr. Speaker, I call upon House Republican leaders to stop wasting our time trying to take away healthcare protections that Americans depend on and to start addressing pressing national priorities.

And they should start with working with Democrats on a bipartisan and responsible plan to reauthorize the Children's Health Insurance Program ("SCHIP") which insures more than 9 million kids and fully funding the relief efforts needed to help American communities recover from the devastating effects of Hurricanes Harvey, Irma, and Maria.

I urge my colleagues to join me in voting against H.R. 849.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. All time for debate has expired. Pursuant to House Resolution 600, the previous question is ordered on the bill, as amended.

The question was taken; and the ayes appeared to have it.

“(8) RESTRICTING USE OF EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES VEHICLES AT A HOSPITAL.—Notwithstanding paragraph (13)(f), a registered emergency medical services agency may receive controlled substances under circumstances that provide for the purposes of restocking an emergency medical services vehicle following an emergency response, and without being subject to the requirements of section 308, provided all of the following conditions are satisfied:

“(A) The registered or designated location of the agency where the vehicle is primarily situated maintains a record of such receipt in accordance with paragraph (9).

“(B) The hospital maintains a record of such delivery to the agency in accordance with section 307.

“(C) If the vehicle is primarily situated at a designated location, such location notifies the registered location of the agency within 72 hours of receipt of the vehicle receiving the controlled substances.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair announces the Speaker’s appointment, pursuant to 10 U.S.C. 6968(a), clause 10 of rule I, and the order of the House of January 3, 2017, of the following Members on the part of the House to the Board of Visitors to the United States Naval Academy:

Mr. Gallagher, Wisconsin, to fill the existing vacancy thereon;
Mr. Cummings, Maryland
Mr. Ruppersberger, Maryland

SUPPORTING THE HEARTBEAT BILL

(Mr. ROKITA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ROKITA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the hard work and significant impact of numerous nonprofit organizations in Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

We want better jobs, better pay, and a better future, not more giveaways to hedge funds and conglomerates.

RECOGNIZING NONPROFIT LEADERS IN BUCKS COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA

(Mr. FITZPATRICK asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the hard work and significant impact of numerous nonprofit organizations in Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

Recently, I had the opportunity to meet with a group of CEOs from nonprofits across Bucks County. These organizations span a range of areas, including health and human services, education, arts and humanities, and services for our community’s seniors.

To thank Potential, Inc., NOVA Bucks County, the James A. Michener Art Museum, Pearl S. Buck International, the David Library of the United States Naval Academy:
American Revolution, the Mercer Museum and Fonthill Castle, Liberta, The Open Link, YWCA Bucks County, and the Central Bucks County Family YMCA—Doylestown Branch. The productive and frank conversations facilitated by these organizations is a tribute to both these nonprofit leaders and their members.

Bucks County is made a better place because of the amazing people we have committed to our nonprofit community. We thank them for giving their time, their energy, and their passion in serving a cause bigger than themselves.

HONORING THE LIFE OF JEREMIAH GRANT

(Mr. PAYNE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to congratulate a group that I have worked with for some time, the Jersey City H.O.N.E.Y. Bees Double Dutch team for their big wins at the American Double Dutch League’s 44th international competition.

But tragedy intervened. Sadly, on October 1, one of the H.O.N.E.Y. Bees passed away. I ask my colleagues to join me in honor and remembrance of the life of Jeremiah Grant.

Jerry was a student at the Ollie Culbreth Jr. School in Jersey City, New Jersey. He excelled in academics and in the world of competitive jump rope. At only 8 years old, Jerry was the youngest member of the H.O.N.E.Y. Bees. He was also the only boy on the team and was called Prince Bee. Jerry was a winner, and his legacy of love will live on in north Jersey.

May Jerry “Prince Bee” continue flying high in eternal peace.

CHIP AND COMMUNITY HEALTH CENTERS

(Mr. JOHNSON of Louisiana asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. JOHNSON of Louisiana. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to speak in favor of H.R. 3922, the Community Health and Medical Professionals Improve Our Nation Act. This legislation reauthorizes the Children’s Health Insurance Program or CHIP, as we know it—a valuable asset for many of the people we serve.

These programs have proven to be a valuable asset for many of the people in this country and many of the constituents that I have back home in Louisiana who don’t qualify for Medicaid but still need assistance in accessing affordable health insurance.

In Louisiana alone, insurance providers have projected that rates will increase by nearly 50 percent as healthcare options continue to dwindle. For that reason, many Americans are choosing to forgo healthcare coverage altogether rather than suffer under the weight of the new, increased costs.

In times of high uncertainty in our healthcare system due to ObamaCare, this legislation makes meaningful reforms to ensure the most vulnerable among us, our children, remain protected.

The Community Health Center Fund has proven to be a critical resource for Louisiana’s Fourth Congressional District by delivering much-needed resources to my local community health centers.

I just want to say this program, in particular, is vitally important for the safety and security of our children. Republicans in Congress have worked tirelessly to draft this legislation to ensure that this bill maintains important safeguards for our children and families and protects their access to critical care.

SAFE PEDESTRIAN AND BICYCLE PATHS

(Mr. ESPAILLAT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ESPAILLAT. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to express my greatest sorrow for the New Yorkers, their families, and visitors who were affected by the tragedy in Lower Manhattan just 2 days ago. I offer my sincere condolences and prayers to their family members.

After this senseless and indiscriminate attack, Mr. Speaker, we cannot wait for another tragedy to pass before we decide to better protect pedestrians and bicyclists, especially in areas of high foot traffic.

The sidewalks and bike lanes of Times Square, the Financial District, and other city centers nationwide remain vulnerable. The STOP Act is a bipartisan bill that I have introduced, along with my colleague Congresswoman Carolyn Maloney of New York, just this last month and was recently introduced by Senator GILLIBRAND in the Senate.

As we saw in Charlottesville, Barcelona, and in Times Square months ago, vehicles are increasingly utilized in terror attacks worldwide. We must prioritize the safety of our constituents first, including the safety of pedestrians and of our communities. The STOP Act will provide for the installation of bollards in areas of high foot traffic.

This attack does not define New York, just as no other attack can crush the spirit of our city. We rise above those threats when we continue being a city that embraces people of all cultures and teaches love and respect.

RECOGNIZING RACHEL CHAMPNEY

(Ms. TENNEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. TENNEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Rachel Champney, a markswoman who was recently awarded the 2017 Rimfire World Championship title in the ladies limited division.

A 15-year-old sophomore at Vernon-Verona-Sherrill High School, Rachel began shooting only 2 years ago but has developed a deep love and respect for the sport. She learned how to shoot through local marksmanship programs before being encouraged to compete nationally by members of the Trenton Fish and Game Club. Now, Rachel can fire through six targets with deadly accuracy in under 3 seconds.

With Rachel’s success has also come a passion to share her advocacy for gun safety. Rachel spends her free time teaching new shooters, including her family and friends, proper firearm safety measures. As Rachel grows as a markswoman, she continues to grow as a community leader.

Congratulations on this amazing accomplishment, Rachel, and I hope to have the honor of shooting with you in the near future.

CALLING FOR CHIP REAUTHORIZATION

(Mr. McCaEACHIN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. McCaEACHIN. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to speak on the importance of reauthorizing the Children’s Health Insurance Program, commonly referred to as CHIP.

In my home State of Virginia, there are 66,000 children and 1,100 pregnant women who rely on CHIP. Almost 6,000 of those children and pregnant women live in my district. They need a clean and fully funded reauthorization of CHIP. Instead, this week, we are expected to vote on a bill that will put our constituents at risk.

As reported from committee, this new version of CHIP, the so-called HEALTHY KIDS Act, is loaded with poison pills that undermine the Affordable Care Act, Medicare, and Medicaid. According to the Georgetown University Center for Children and Families, CHIP with Medicaid boosted the rate of children’s health coverage to more than 95 percent.

Mr. Speaker, why tamper with such success? I urge my colleagues on the other side of the aisle to bring a bill to the floor that reauthorizes CHIP and supports our constituents.

TAX REFORM

(Mr. ROTHFUS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ROTHFUS. Mr. Speaker, today House Republicans introduced H.R. 1, the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act.

This day has been a long time coming. Since Republicans gained the majority in 2011, there have been numerous congressional hearings and briefings, feedback from constituents on what tax reform might look like, and even the introduction of a comprehensive reform bill introduced in the last Congress. Republicans campaigned on a better way to tax reform in specified areas for reform, and we followed that up earlier this year with a framework document that sets forth our principles.

Today is the culmination of more than 6 years of work, but our work is not done. Now Members of Congress and the public will have the opportunity to study the legislation in detail. When all the dust settles, two questions will remain:

Will this put more money in the average American’s pocket? Will this put America in a much better position in the global economy and allow us to finally break through years of stagnation with much healthier growth, more jobs, and higher incomes?

That should be our focus. I encourage everyone to visit fairandsimple.gov, and I look forward to a real debate on how tax reform and tax cuts will realign opportunities for all Americans.

SUPPORTING THE STATE AND LOCAL TAX DEDUCTION

(Ms. ESTY of Connecticut asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. ESTY of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, for weeks we have heard that the partisan tax plan crafted behind closed doors might include the elimination of the deduction for families’ State and local income taxes. Today the rumors became reality. The tax plan announced today would drastically reduce the State and local tax deduction.

Let me be as clear as I can be. This proposal is a tax increase on middle class families, and I oppose it. Working people in my State already send more dollars to the Federal Government in taxes than they receive back in support. For every dollar we send to Washington from Connecticut, we receive back just 83 cents. By attacking the State and local deduction, this tax plan would make life even harder for real people in my district.

A senior citizen in Simsbury, Connecticut, called me to say that she might lose her home if this tax deduction is taken away from her. Seniors who live on a fixed income shouldn’t have to risk losing a roof over their head just so that Congress can cut the corporate tax rate.

Families who are already struggling to pay their bills, put their kids through college, and buy their first home shouldn’t have to suffer in order to cut taxes for the wealthiest Americans.

The President promised that tax reform would help our middle class and would bring jobs back. It is doing neither.

I urge my colleagues to support keeping the State and local deduction.

SUPPORT REPUBLICAN TAX PLAN

(Mr. McHENRY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. McHENRY. Mr. Speaker, here in Washington, we are in the midst of a major debate on tax reform, tax simplification, and tax cuts.

The plan unveiled by House Republicans today is a tax cut plan for middle-income, middle class families in America. If you are a family of four making $60,000 which is the median family income in America, you will receive a $1,200 tax cut as a result of the plan that we unveiled today.

That is real money for middle class families in North Carolina. Maybe it is not real money in Washington, D.C., but it is real money in western North Carolina.

We need tax cuts. We need tax simplification. We need economic growth, more American jobs, and a more competitive environment in America so that we can keep jobs here in the United States and not offshore those jobs. We need middle class families to win. Our plan does that.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support our efforts.

FISCALLY IRRESPONSIBLE TAX BILL

(Mr. SCHRADER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SCHRADER. Mr. Speaker, today, my colleagues on the Republican side of the aisle released their fiscally irresponsible tax bill.

I am reading my way through the 492-page proposal, but it doesn’t take long to notice a huge flaw in the process: the majority is using the partisan budget reconciliation process, a process traditionally reserved for deficit reduction, to add over $1.5 trillion to the deficit and jam a reckless bill through the House without hearings, study, or debate. We don’t have to operate that way.

Let’s compare where we were last time Congress reformed the Tax Code in 1986 to where we are today.

When Congress last took up this monumental task, it took over 2 years. There were 4 months of public hearings, more than 450 witnesses, 26 days of markup, and months of debate. This wasn’t easy, but it’s what we got.

We got a simplified Tax Code that did not add to the deficit and a bill that had broad bipartisan support in the House and the Senate, and the support of the American people.

Mr. Speaker, let’s work together on a bipartisan bill that reform the Tax Code in a way that helps the middle class and does not add to our children’s deficit in the future.
people know exactly how much he is going to benefit from this tax plan.

Mr. Speaker, as the vice chair of the House Budget Committee, I saw firsthand how the Republicans rammed through a budget plan that paved the way for Ryan-MacArthur's trillion-dollar tax giveaway to the wealthy. Frankly, as a new Member, I find it an affront to the legislative process and an affront to families across the United States in red and blue States alike that we did not have hearings on that budget, that we did not have hearings on this tax plan, which is a complete rewrite of the U.S. economy that is going to be pushed through, apparently, in 2 weeks or less. We still have no score on this because we just saw the details of a tax plan today.

The Republicans have made this habit of relying on fake logic and faulty assumptions. They did it with healthcare and the budget, and it is safe to assume that is what we are looking at here.

These cuts do not pay for themselves. Despite the claims that this tax plan is really going to help middle class Americans, the reality is that it is going to hurt millions of American families just to fund cuts for millionaires, billionaires, and large corporations.

If the Republicans are so opposed to so-called government handouts, as we are always told they are called, then why is it that they seem to be more willing to hand everything over to the wealthiest people in this Nation?

Now, we are still exploring all of the details of this tax plan that was just released today, but there is no question that this bill is going to make sure that the wealthiest individuals and the largest corporations in this country get a tax cut of a million dollars. If you happen to be in the top one-tenth of 1 percent, then bingo, Mr. Moneybags is going to get a million dollars in a tax cut every year.

Consider this: if this tax bill lines up with the budget resolution, then 80 percent of the Republican tax cut goes to the top 1 percent by 2027; the average tax cut for the top 1 percent in 2027 would be $207,000; for millionaires, the cut would be $230,000; and, as I said, for the top one-tenth of 1 percent, you get to have a million dollars a year. For the middle class, on the other hand, 42 million middle class households would face a tax increase.

Let's not be fooled by this idea that the standard deduction is going up, and let me tell you what that means. It means that, along with the standard deduction going up, you are also getting your credits for individual children taken away, the itemization issue.

So if you have a family with several children, as many Americans do, you will actually end up probably being able to deduct less.

Let's be clear: that means you are going to be required to be cut if you are going to pay for this tax cut, then you will end up paying more in your States, both in terms of the SALT deduction, but also in terms of all of the increased taxes you are going to have to pay at the local level to fund things like infrastructure and education.

Let's be clear: that means you are going to have to cut services that are able to deduct less. If you cut all of the services that are available to deduct less. And, as many Americans do, you children taken away, the itemization of it. You are going to have a million dollars in a tax cut and you make sure that they are actually paying less, not more, even if you say that you are giving them a deduction, in the end, they are paying more in this tax plan. But if you invest the money there, instead of taking $270 billion that is proposed by repealing the estate tax—which only a tiny portion of people pay, by the way; that estate tax—and 5,400 families are going to get $270 billion in this Republican tax plan. I say, let's take that money and give it to working families instead of those.

I think that we have a lot of different options. The Congressional Progressive Caucus has put forward our own budget, a people's budget, with our own tax plan. There is no question that gets the biggest vote. The bottom line is that our tax plan is being proposed by repealing the estate tax—which only a tiny portion of people pay, by the way; that estate tax—and 5,400 families are going to get $270 billion in this Republican tax plan. I say, let's take that money and give it to working families instead of those.

So I am really honored to be doing this Special Order hour with my good friends and colleagues. We are going to do a little bit of a back-and-forth here.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. Gallego) to have him talk a little bit about what we are hearing. Is it true? Is it hypocrisy? What do you think about those debts and deficits?

Mr. GALLEG. Mr. Speaker, we know that the Republican tax plan is a massive, unconscionable giveaway to millionaires and billionaires. We know that it will blow up the deficit and do nothing to raise wages or create solid middle class jobs.

What we don't know, Mr. Speaker, is how much the GOP tax proposal will personally benefit Donald Trump. That is because, unlike every other American President, Donald Trump has refused to disclose his tax returns.

Trump claimed that he couldn't release his returns throughout the campaign because he was “under audit.” But, Mr. Speaker, he never provided any concrete proof. More importantly, this week, confirmed that being under audit in no way prohibits someone from making their returns public. In fact, President Nixon did just that while he was in office.

More recently, when The Economist magazine asked Trump about releasing his returns, he said: “I don't know. That's a very interesting question. I doubt it. I doubt it... Nobody cares if I pay any tax return except for the reporters. Oh, at some point I'll release them. Maybe I'll release them after I'm finished...”
That is right, Mr. Speaker, we will have to wait until Trump leaves office just to find out just how much money he made thanks to his own tax reform bill. And my Republican friends are apparently just fine with that. There is a shocker. They don’t care that Donald Trump has no tax policy except for himself. They don’t care that we can’t even say with any certainty exactly how much richer he is going to get. They don’t care about the debt. They don’t care about the deficit. They don’t care about our tax system either.

Literally, the only thing they care about and that truly matters to House Republicans is that they get to cut taxes for the richest Americans, the people who need a tax cut least of all. Mr. Speaker, Donald Trump does not need a tax cut, neither does Secretary Mnuchin or Secretary DeVos or Secretary Tillerson or Paris Hilton, but they are going to get one if Republicans have their way.

In 2013, PAUL RYAN said: “We have a debt crisis right in front of us, and what brings down great empires, past and future, is debt.”

In 2015, Donald Trump said: “I am the king of debt. I love debt.”

It certainly seems like Speaker Ryan has come around to President Trump’s way of thinking. Republicans are planning to add $1.5 trillion to our national debt, and they couldn’t be happier about it.

Here is the simple reality, Mr. Speaker. Republicans only care about deficits when they want to slash Social Security and Medicare. Mr. Speaker, Republicans only care about taxes when they are only fiscally responsible when their Dem is a Democrat in the White House.

The American people are now seeing right through this hypocrisy, just like they see right through Donald Trump’s excuses about his tax returns. They want us to reject this Republican tax plan, and it is about time we started listening to them.

Ms. JAYAPAL. Mr. Speaker, I thank Mr. GALLEGUO for his incredible leadership. One of the things, when we think about this plan, there is really—it is a three-step plan.

Number one, transfer trillions of dollars of wealth to the wealthiest 1 percent of wealth and tax cuts from middle class working families to the top 1 percent.

Number two, explode the deficit, which we know is part of this deal. We are going to explode the deficit.

Number three, use that exploding deficit as a way to cut spending.

But most of all, I am not sure that the numbers add up. So I wanted to ask my good friend from the Progressive Caucus, Representative TED LIEU from California, to just weigh in with his wisdom around what exactly is going on with these numbers and what are we seeing in this budget. Does it add up?

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from California (Mr. TED LIEU). Mr. TED LIEU of California. Mr. Speaker, I thank Representative JAYAPAL for yielding.

You know, today is Thursday, so we first have to ask: Why does Jared Kushner still have a security clearance? But I digress. We are going to talk about the GOP’s disastrous tax plan. The reason we know that it is a disaster is one simple fact: the math doesn’t add up. So if you believe that 2 plus 5 equals 3, then this tax plan is for you. For the rest of us, it is going to explode the deficit and add to the Federal debt.

What does that mean?

That means massive cuts to Medicare, to Medicaid, to other vital programs that are protecting seniors and all Americans who depend on some of these programs in order to survive.

Now, we can look at this tax plan and we can say, “Hey, it might give tax breaks to the wealthy who are then going to trickle-down,” except in the case of the United States, that kind of trickle-down economics has never worked. If you look at how the tax plan is constructed, it really chafes States such as California, New York, New Jersey, Washington, and other States by eliminating the State and local tax deduction.

When you do that, it causes filers to not be able to deduct their State and local taxes; and in California, New York, New Jersey, Washington, and other States, there’s going to be tax increases to middle class families.

In addition, because the way the tax plan is constructed, it has the potential to lower housing prices because it also caps your mortgage interest rate deduction. That is why the National Association of Home Builders came out opposing this plan, and they have put out something which is deeply concerning. They are saying this could potentially cause a housing recession.

You also have the National Federation of Independent Business, which represents small businesses across America, opposing this plan.

Why?

This is a big tax giveaway to the ultrawealthy. If you look at an early analysis by The Washington Post, they say that 80 percent of this tax plan’s benefits will go to the top 1 percent.

If you look at this tax plan, it is going to hurt middle class Americans in order to fund those at the very top. This is not something we should be doing in our country.

I also request this Speaker work with Democrats on a bipartisan basis. We are not opposed to tax reform. We are opposed to stupid tax reform. And this is just one of a series of bills that, again, explodes the deficit, adds to our Federal debt, and whacks States like California, New York, and New Jersey, as well as Washington State. So I urge that Republicans work with Democrats and come up with a plan that actually helps middle class Americans instead of going after them.

Ms. JAYAPAL. Mr. Speaker, I thank Representative LIEU.

I wanted to just point out that there was a study that was done out of Wharton on the tax plan. It wasn’t on this most recent version, but I think the majority of the things that are in this version still hold true in this analysis. What they came out with and said is that the assumption of 3 percent growth does not make sense; that, really, what they are looking at is 1.3 to 1.4 percent, ultimately, growth, and that it would create a $10 trillion deficit over time. I believe it was $3 trillion in the first 10 years. I have to go back and check that number.

Essentially, what they are staying is it doesn’t work. The person who actually wrote the 1981 tax cut under Ronald Reagan, who worked for Jack Kemp at the time, wrote an op-ed in The Washington Post, I believe it was, and said: “This theory of trickle-down economics doesn’t work. We were wrong when we did that, when we said there would be no ‘trickle-down’ and it is wrong to look at that same idea today.”

Now, Representative LIEU said Democrats are not opposed to tax reform. That is right if it was real reform. We do think that the Tax Code could be improved, and that it could be fair so that small businesses and working families and folks who are really investing in the economy are the ones to get the benefits of any tax reform, that we would close some of the tax loopholes. Unfortunately, this is not tax reform. What has been proposed is not tax reform. It is tax giveaways to the wealthiest.

I want us to be very clear about what the majority is trying to do here. They say: “You want to reverse the U.S. economy with absolutely no hearings. It is, frankly, outrageous that we would not even have a hearing on a major tax bill that is going to affect every single person in this country.

We should have hearings. I don’t know what happened to regular order. People talk about regular order, but as a new Member who was just elected last year for my first year in Congress, I can tell you I have not seen regular order. I sit on the Judiciary Committee. We don’t have hearings. On the Judiciary Committee. The majority of the bills that come to the floor are bills that we have never had an opportunity to have a hearing on. When you look at this tax plan, I believe we should be able to have more than 2 weeks to vote on it.

I think every single American should understand what is in the plan and at least have the opportunity to decide whether or not it is beneficial for them. Unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, I don’t think that is happening.

Let me just summarize what we think is happening in this current
That was what was promised by Donald Trump, but now we see that it is not what we thought. The question is: So what happens for middle class families, what are they going to get all the money, then? And the biggest corporations, what are they going to get? The answer is, they are going to get all the benefits, they are going to get all the tax cuts, the wealthiest ones. And the biggest corporations, what does that mean for working families?

It means working families are going to foot the bill over and over again. I believe this is a bad deal for middle class families, for America, and for our economy.

One last thing I forgot to mention is that the Republican President wants to make it easy for people to avoid taxes by putting a loophole there. After all of the talk of bringing jobs back to America, there is actually an incentive in this bill to take work and jobs to a tax-haven country because the amount of taxes that you would pay on that is actually lower than the amount of taxes that you would pay here if you were to actually create jobs here, you would have to pay a higher tax rate than if you were to create that same factory in some tax-haven country in other parts of the world where you don’t have to pay—

So you see why Mr. Moneybags Trump, we do know that, without the President’s taxes, we do know that, with- out them, the President would have paid $31 million less in taxes in 2005 alone. So you see why Mr. Moneybags is not going to pay more of his fair share, is eliminated in the Ryan-McConnell plan.

While little is known about President Trump’s taxes, we do know that, without them, the President would have paid $31 million less in taxes in 2005 alone. So you see why Mr. Moneybags is not going to pay more of his fair share, is eliminated in the Ryan-McConnell plan.

Now, Speaker Ryan also believes, as I mentioned, that we should give a windfall to the ultrawealthy by eliminating the estate tax. Again, that estate tax is paid by less than 5,400 families across the Nation, and in 2016, not one person paid the estate tax in seven States.

So what happens to middle class families? Because if all these wealthy folks are going to get all the money, then the question is: So what happens for middle class families? Because that is really where the attention should be. That was what was promised by Donald Trump.

Speaker Ryan and the Republican establishment have attacked common-sense limitations used by millions of middle class families in order to pay for this tax giveaway to the wealthy. So Republicans have taken away the ability to write off your State and local tax bills, forcing millions of families to pay taxes twice on the same dollar earned, except for property taxes, up to a mere $10,000. That is the cap that they are proposing on property taxes.

Americans that are hit with significant medical costs, for example, those who have cancer, or AIDS or Alzheimer’s, would lose their ability to write off these costs under the Republican plan.

The Ryan-McConnell tax bill also eliminates deduction for personal casualty losses. A big blow if you are a victim of crime, theft, or disaster. It also excludes—it eliminates the exclusion for dependent care assistance program, which is an incredibly important benefit for working families.

So in the end, you just have to ask yourself: In order to give trillions of dollars of tax cuts to the wealthiest and the biggest corporations, what does that mean for working families?

Now, I represent the Eighth Congressional District in Brooklyn and Queens. I am proud to be a Member of the House of Representatives, proud to be from the city of New York. And we are generous people in New York City; we are generous people in New York City; we are generous people in New York City; we are generous people in New York City; we are generous people in New York City.

In fact, New York State regularly sends tens of billions of dollars more to the Federal Government than we get back in return.

The State of Connecticut sends billions of dollars more to the Federal Government than they get back in return. So does New Jersey. So does California. So does Illinois. So does Pennsylvania. And, for decades, we have allowed that generosity to continue to show itself in terms of the fact that we get shortschanged in homeland security dollars, transportation and infrastructure dollars, and a whole host of other Federal funds that disproportionately make its way to other parts of the country, often to States in the deep South.

We are generous people. But at what point is enough enough? And today, you have a President putting the target on the backs of people in New York, and New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, and Illinois, and California, and several other States, including people who live in places like Charleston, South Carolina, or other cities that have relatively modest State taxes, if any at all, but who are taxed at the local level, or who pay property taxes.

And so everyone throughout the United States of America, tens of millions of people, are going to be hurt by this Republican tax plan, because of the limitations on deductibility related to State and local taxes, because of the draconian limitations on deducting property taxes, and because of the limitations on deducting charitable contributions. It will undermine Medicare and Medicaid. It will impose billions and billions of dollars in additional deficit. It will force your children and grandchildren to shoulder approximately $1.5 trillion in additional debt. And this is all being done in order to provide massive tax cuts to millionaires and billionaires, the over-whelming majority of whom will be the ones who disproportionately benefit from the so-called tax reform plan. You can call it a Ponzi scheme.

And why do I say that? Well, because what you are going to hear is that trickle-down economic theory; supply-side economic theory; or the latest word craft that they have come up with, dynamic scoring, will result in a situation where these massive tax cuts for millionaires and billionaires, and for special interest corporations, and to the wealthy and the well-off, to special interest corporations, and to the wealthy and the well-off, will result in a situation where these massive tax cuts for millionaires and billionaires, and for special interest corporations, will somehow magically result in unprecedented economic growth. Sounds good. Sounds great. But, the only problem is that it is a failed, fraudulent, and fake argument.

It is a fantasy that has no basis in reality.
called the Kansas experiment, massively cut taxes for the wealthy and for the well-off in Kansas, so much so that the wealthiest 300,000 folks from Kansas didn’t pay a single dollar in taxes at all—the people of Kansas were promised unprecedented economic growth, unprecedented returns to the Republican Governor of Kansas—when he cut taxes, you didn’t get unprecedented economic growth. What you got were prison riots, overcrowded classrooms, and crumbling infrastructure.

The Republican tax plan is nothing more than a Ponzi scheme. Supply-side economics has failed; trickle-down economics has failed; dynamic scoring is a fantasy. We would say in Brooklyn: Don’t believe the hype. We will surgically communicate to the American people why the Republican tax plan will hurt the middle class, hurt working families, hurt children, hurt senior citizens, and hurt those who aspire to be part of the middle class.

The point that I would make: I am shocked that you would put a target on the back of people who are paying State and local taxes—presumably because you think this is a deduction that the American people no longer need, then in your same tax plan you allow corporations and businesses, wealthy titans of corporate America who run these companies, to continue to deduct State and local taxes on their corporate tax returns. Seriously! You don’t even pretend to have a level playing field? Oh, I forgot: corporations are people, too.

This is an extraordinary scheme that they are going to try to jam down the throats of the American people. But we are here, as Democrats, to make sure that the American people understand that you are being offered a raw deal. We are going to present to you and fight for a better deal for middle class tax cuts, for tax cuts for small businesses, tax cuts for working families, and that people that people in America continue to pay their fair share.

Mr. Speaker, I thank the distinguished gentlewoman from Washington for yielding to me.

Ms. JAYAPAL. Mr. Speaker, I thank Representative JEFFRIES for laying that out so clearly.

I don’t know how he feels about the idea that we haven’t had a single hearing on this bill. We are hearing that we are going to put it on in 2 weeks.

What is his experience? Since I am a new Member—I just joined this year—I thought we had regular order, I thought we got to debate things, I thought the minority got to speak up, and maybe we got to take ideas from both sides. What does he think about the idea that they are going to try to ram this thing in in 2 weeks?

Mr. JEFFRIES. Mr. Speaker, I think that is a great question, and it is deeply troubling. You hear the words “regular order.” That is a Washington, D.C., phrase, but we can translate it for the American people. Regular order equals democracy, and democracy is being undermined as it relates to the Republican tax plan, Ponzi scheme, because they are going to try to jam it down the throats of the American people.

Not a single meaningful hearing, as was done during the bipartisan tax reform undertaken by Ronald Reagan and Tip O’Neill got together to reform the Tax Code in a meaningful way, in a bipartisan way, in a thoughtful way. But, unfortunately, regular order, democracy, is being undermined by this Republican-led Congress, as it relates to this tax bill.

Ms. JAYAPAL. Mr. Speaker, what strikes me is, when you don’t have a process, you don’t have discussion and debate, and you try to jam something through, it means you are trying to hide a whole lot. So I just wanted to say that there is an article in The Washington Post today about winners and losers in the Republican tax plan, and here is what they say are winners. This is the article I am referring to. This is The Washington Post saying, big corporations—number one winner, big corporations. American megabusinesses would get a substantial tax reduction.

And, by the way, that is not just on one level, that is a number of levels. And my colleagues over here know that this is the number one plan here, because there is a clear difference of opinion. You all think that, if you invest your money in those的地方 corporations and in the wealthiest individuals, you would rather put your faith into those folks rather than middle class families across the country who could actually build our economy.

So this bill cuts the top rate that large corporations would have to pay the biggest one-time drop in the big business tax rate ever; I repeat, the biggest one-time drop in the big business tax rate ever.

On top of that you would get some new tax breaks if you are a corporation, so you would get to lower your bills.

What I have seen in the polling is that Americans across the country think that corporations are already getting too good of a deal and they should pay their fair share. And what millions of struggling families across the country want is for somebody to actually fight for them, somebody to actually fight for them every single day, who are doing everything they can to have an American life that pays them enough money to get a job to put food on the table, to send their kids to college, to retire with dignity, a better deal than the raw deal that they are getting right now. But that is the number one winner.

The second biggest winner, according to The Washington Post: the superrich. And that was the estate tax that I mentioned, which only benefits 5,400 families across the United States who pay that estate tax. But we are going to put hundreds of billions of dollars into repealing the estate tax so that those 5,400 families can continue to earn more and more money on the backs of the middle class.

And, of course, the third one is anyone paying the alternative minimum tax. That is Donald Trump. The biggest part of his tax bill that he paid on, the alternative minimum tax, was returned from the alternative minimum tax. But that alternative minimum tax is now getting eliminated in this bill to benefit Donald Trump. And it forces people who earn more than $130,000 to calculate their taxes twice, once under the AMT and once under this bill because, interestingly and ironically, the Republicans still enable “the wealthy to continue deducting

There is one more. They said, “Hedge funds, doctors, and lawyers”—that is the fourth one that they mention—as the wealthiest hedge fund managers, who are going to, ultimately, get a sizable discount, while “under the GOP bill, high-growth small-business owners will only pay a tax rate of 25 percent on 30 percent of their business income,” the passthrough business rate.

The reality is that even though there are some small businesses that are passthrough entities, most of those small businesses do not get the majority of their income as passthrough income, they get it from other things. The only people who really benefit from that passthrough are those hedge fund managers and folks like that.

Who are the losers? Small-business owners. The National Federation of Independent Businesses, which represents 325,000 small businesses said: Uh-uh, we are not supporting the GOP bill. Why? “It leaves too many small businesses behind.”

So Main Street is hurting under this proposal.

Who else? Like you said, people in high-tax blue States. So say goodbye to most of the State and local tax deductions from States like California, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, and my State. My home State of Washington is really going to be hurt by this because we don’t have an income tax, some we have very high property taxes, and we have very high other sales taxes. None of that would be well, property tax, according to this plan, you would get a tiny, little cap on it of $10,000.

And then who else is a big loser? The working poor. Here is what The Washington Post says: “While the bill includes lots of tax breaks for big businesses and the rich, the bottom 35 percent of Americans do not get any extra benefits.”

So there is one more loser here, which is interesting. It says, “Charities and others.”

The National Council of Nonprofits says that charitable deductions, when Americans chip in to take care of folks who have been hurt by disasters across the country or they contribute to nonprofits or others, that those charitable deductions are important to those families. Under this bill because, interestingly and ironically, the Republicans still enable “the wealthy to continue deducting their charitable giving.’ But most people would not be able to get the tax break because they probably stop itemizing their deductions, so you would actually lose all of that.

So I don’t know, Mr. JEFFRIES. I think we are going to have a lot of work to do here to make sure that the American people understand exactly what this proposal is and to really get the word out.

Mr. JEFFRIES. Well, I appreciate you going through that important list. I think it can be distilled, you know, quite simply.

The winners of the Republican tax plan are the billionaire boys club; the losers are the American people, everyday Americans, all premedised, again, on, and you are going to hear this over and over again, dynamic scoring—sounds great—trickle-down economics.

You know, I figured out that trickle-down economics, essentially means, for the middle class, you may get a trickle, but you are guaranteed to stay down, because there is no evidence—no evidence from the Reagan experiment, no evidence from the Bush experiment, no evidence from the Brownback experiment in Kansas, no evidence—that if you cut taxes for the wealthy or the well off, for special interest corporations, whether you do it directly or through pass-through entities, that when you cut those taxes, it results in strong, unprecedented economic growth. In fact, our history tells us precisely the opposite.

Bill Clinton raised the top tax rate on high-income earners from 35 percent to 39.6 percent. Did we suffer from a recession? No, quite the opposite—unprecedented economic growth. In fact, our history tells us precisely the opposite.

So I don’t know, Mr. JEFFRIES. I think we are going to have a lot of work to do here to make sure that the American people understand exactly what this proposal is and to really get the word out.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there a request for recognition?

Mr. BUCK. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may engage in personalities toward the President.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Members are reminded to refrain from engaging in personalities toward the President.

The Chair would remind Members to direct all remarks to the Chair, and to engage in thoughtful, on-topic debate.

The Chair would remind Members to refrain from engaging in personalities toward the President.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Mr. BUCK. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may engage in personalities toward the President.

The Chair would remind Members to direct all remarks to the Chair, and to engage in thoughtful, on-topic debate.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. BUCK)?

There was no objection.

Mr. BUCK. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the opportunity to recognize several distinguished Members of the House for the next hour.

When our constituents show up on the first Tuesday in November to exercise their right of self-governance, they carry with them the dreams of a better Republic.
In 2016, the American people commissioned us with a task. They asked us to fight for jobs. They asked us to fight for free health care. They asked us to roll back regulations. They asked us to secure the free world. They asked us to secure our borders.

The House of Representatives heard them. We have been busy developing and passing legislation that meaningfully improves the lives of Americans. I commend the Speaker and his leadership in moving these bills through the House.

Unfortunately, much of the House’s important work is stalled in the U.S. Senate. It is time the Senate pass important legislation and restore trust in our Republic, because before this week, the House had sent 394 bills to the Senate that are still stalled in that Chamber. This is more than any of the previous four Presidential administrations had stalled at this same time in their first year.

For the record, the House of Representatives in the 115th Congress has also passed more total bills than Houses in any of the last four Presidential administrations at this point. We are at 394 total bills passed.

This great Republic cannot be realized by the House alone. The Senate must hear the people and come together around the often bipartisan measures we have been sending to them.

As a way of reminding the Senate, I would like to spend the next hour recognizing Members to discuss some of the important bills passed by the House of Representatives that now sit motionless in the U.S. Senate.

I am thankful for my colleagues who are joining me this evening to talk about the House’s successful legislative efforts.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. KING) to talk about the No Sanctuary for Criminals Act, H.R. 3003.

Mr. KING of Iowa. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Colorado for organizing this Special Order and recognizing me to address it.

I would like to say at the start of this that the folks that had the Special Order ahead of us had not read the bill that they were expounding upon, and it would be impossible for them to have done so. So I want to remind the body of that.

Mr. Speaker, and then address the No Sanctuary Cities Act.

It is this: that we saw what happened in San Francisco when the murderer of Kate Steinle had been deported five times. He was a seven-time felon, five-time deportee. He still came back, and he came to San Francisco because he knew that it is a sanctuary city, and if he got crossways with the law for whatever it might be, sleeping on the street or shoplifting or any of the additional felonies that were brought against him, they were not going to notify immigration officials. They were going to turn him back loose on the streets of San Francisco. If he was taken care of as an indigent, they would turn him loose on the streets of San Francisco.

So Kate Steinle now lies in her grave, her family grieves for her loss, and America felt that pain.

San Francisco is a sanctuary city, and now the entire State of California has declared themselves a sanctuary State.

I think, Mr. Speaker, about the hole in the wall. Butch Cassidy and Sundance Kid, they had a spot in the canyon there where you had to ride through a notch to get in there, and they posted a guard there. All the bad guys that wanted to get along with the other bad guys in the West went in that place, and if law enforcement came, then they would line up against them and block them from coming in to enforce the law.

That is essentially what we have got going on in city after city all over America: sanctuary cities operating under the erroneous idea that because their cities are so full of illegals, that if they would ever allow Federal immigration enforcement officials to work and cooperate with local law enforcement, those folks might not be in America.

Well, I met with some people today at the Remembrance Project. These are the families who had their family members killed by illegal aliens who are in America. Many of these illegal aliens who killed Americans and killed other illegal aliens and killed people who are here and lawfully present in America, more than 100 being convicted of murder in State and Federal criminal records. Many of them had been indicted by law enforcement, but the local jurisdictions decided it wasn’t politically correct to cooperate with Federal law.

Well, the Constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the land, and it is an enumerated power that Congress establish an immigration policy. We do that, and we direct that those laws be enforced. The executive branch’s job is to do that.

All throughout law enforcement, it has been seamless throughout all of my growing up years. I grew up in a law enforcement family. There was no separation between city police and county law enforcement officers, the sheriff’s department, and highway patrol and DCI and FBI. When there was a crime that was committed, everybody worked together seamlessly.

How is it that these cities and now the State of California have carved themselves out an exception to what has been a timeless, time-honored, established cooperation between all levels of law enforcement?

So the No Sanctuary for Criminals Act, which was my bill, is now sitting on Mitch McConnell’s desk with the scores of other bills that the gentleman from Colorado has addressed, and it is one that we will be no sanctuary cities any longer and that we will be cutting off funds going to these cities until they get the message.

I think it is about time that the Justice Department moved on all of the jurisdiction that they actually have, but we need to help them here in Congress. And it is about time that this bill, along with Sarah’s Law and Kate’s Law, be moved off of Mitch McConnell’s desk to the floor of the United States Senate.

That is just a small piece of the broad picture we are addressing here tonight, Mr. Speaker. We need some action over in the Senate. If they would get rid of that filibuster rule, we would see more action than we are seeing today.

Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding to me, and I encourage him to continue this effort. I am going to stand with him on this. I thank him for all he is doing.

Mr. BUCK. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Iowa for his thoughts. As a way of reminding the Senate, I would like to say that Planned Parenthood was selling the tissue of unborn children, America was outraged. Since then, the House has redoubled its effort to pass legislation to protect the unborn.

H.R. 7 and H.R. 36 are two important pro-life measures that have passed the House. H.R. 36, which would prevent the killing of unborn children who are developing enough to feel pain, passed the House by 237 votes. This legislation has been sitting in the Senate for 31 days. H.R. 7, which prohibits taxpayer funding for abortion, passed the House by 236 votes. This legislation has been sitting in the Senate for 283 days.

I would like to welcome my friend and colleague from Georgia, Representative JODY HICE, to talk about these two important bills and protecting unborn children. I yield to the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. JODY B. HICE of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I sincerely appreciate the gentleman’s great leadership in this, and I am grateful to be able to speak on the issue of life.

There have been, as mentioned a few moments ago, some 300, plus or minus, bills sent to the Senate that we have labored here in the House and worked through, negotiated, duked it out, so to speak, gotten ideas on the table, worked it out, sent it over to the Senate, only to see them sit there and do nothing.

Right in the midst of all of that, at the heart of it all, are a couple of very important bills dealing with the issue of life, which is important to all of us. I firmly believe, and I know my colleagues do as well, that all human life at every stage of development is worthy of protection, and deeply honored and proud of the fact that this House has passed a couple of extremely important bills in that regard.

As the gentleman from Colorado just mentioned, H.R. 7, No Taxpayer Funding for Abortion, by our friend from New Jersey, CHRIS SMITH, and H.R. 36, the Pain- Capable Unborn Child Protection Act, by TRENT FRANKS of Arizona,
Mr. Speaker, Americans should be able to go about their daily lives without the fear of nuclear or radiological attack. Representative Dan Donovan’s Securing the Cities Act helps equip our cities to deal with these dangerous weapons, providing training and detection resources.

On January 31, the House agreed by voice vote to this commonsense legislation. For some reason, the Senate has failed in the last 276 days to move this bill.

I am proud to have the bill’s sponsor, as well as my friend and colleague, Dan Donovan, here tonight about this important legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York, Mr. Donovan.

Mr. DONOVAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend and colleague from Colorado for yielding to me on such an important issue not only to my district, not only to my city, not only to my State, but to our Nation.

Mr. Speaker, I rise this evening to discuss a vital program within the Department of Homeland Security, the Securing the Cities program.

The Domestic Nuclear Detection Office’s Securing the Cities program enhances the ability of States and localities to detect and prevent terrorist attacks and other high-consequence events involving nuclear and radiological materials in high-risk urban areas through the provisions of training, equipment, and other resources.

Securing the Cities began as a pilot program in 2006 in the New York City region, including surrounding jurisdictions of New Jersey and Connecticut. Since that time, it has expanded to Los Angeles; Chicago; Washington, D.C.; and Houston. Once the program is fully implemented, it is estimated that it will protect nearly 100 million people nationwide, Americans.

Hailing from New York City and representing Staten Island and Brooklyn, I have seen firsthand the positive impact of the Securing the Cities program. Since 2007, our region has purchased more than 13,000 radiation detectors and trained nearly 20,000 personnel.

I had the opportunity to observe an exercise in Brooklyn last year and witness New York City Police Department personnel using Securing the Cities-procured equipment to locate and identify hidden radiological sources in a baseball stadium. During the exercise, I spoke with the participating officers of the New York Police Department and asked questions about the different types of equipment they deployed.

This program is making a difference in New York City, and I support its continued expansion. That is why I introduced H.R. 655, the Securing the Cities Act in 2017. This bill authorizes the Securing the Cities program, underscoring our commitment to protecting our major cities from catastrophic terrorist attacks.

As we have already mentioned, this bill has failed in the Senate to move swiftly to approve H.R. 655 to authorize the Securing the Cities program and ensure its continued expansion.

In April 2010, President Obama stated: “The single biggest threat to U.S. security, both short term, medium term, and long term, would be the possibility of a terrorist organization obtaining a nuclear weapon.”

Since that time, the FBI has disrupted attempts by smugglers in Eastern Europe to sell nuclear materials to extremist groups and criminal organizations. The threat has not abated.

I urge my friends across the way in the Senate to consider the work of the Domestic Nuclear Detection Office to provide support and guidance to New York City and other urban areas to meet the threats we face.

Mr. Speaker, I urge the Senate to quickly take action to pass the Securing the Cities Act of 2017. Again, I thank my colleague for organizing this Special Order.

Mr. BUCK. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman, a fellow prosecutor and a passionate advocate for these issues, for his remarks.

Mr. Speaker, in the summer of 2015, 32-year-old Kate Steinle was gunned down by an illegal immigrant who had been deported five times already.

Kate’s Law, introduced by Chairman Bob Goodlatte, would enhance the penalties on illegal immigrant felons who are deported and then returned unlawfully to the United States.

This legislation passed the House with 257 votes, a bipartisan coalition of Members who simply want to keep violent felons out of the United States. This bill has been stuck in the Senate for 127 days.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to my friend and colleague, Representative Andy Biggs, to talk about H.R. 3004, Kate’s Law, and the importance of securing our Nation from violent illegal felons.

Mr. BIGGS. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend from Colorado, Mr. Buck, for yielding to me. I am grateful for his leadership as a conservative. It has been my honor to serve with him this past year. I appreciate him sharing some time with me tonight as I share several important stories.

Mr. Speaker, these are stories of real people, not just some people who are distant to us. These are people that we know, people just like this.

Mr. Speaker, one early January morning in 2015, a young man named Gonzalez began the graveyard shift at a QuickTrip convenience store in my district. After his parents divorced, Grant took the initiative to find a job working at this convenience store... in Mesa, Arizona, to help his family pay the bills. He was only 21 years old. He had his entire life ahead of him.

Just before 4 a.m., an angry customer walked in, demanded a pack of cigarettes, and dumped a handful of change on the counter. Grant started to count the money, but he saw the customer pull a gun out and point it directly at his head.

Grant tried to immediately hand over the cigarettes in a desperate attempt to save his life, but it was too late. The customer shot Grant in the face in cold blood, took the cigarettes, and casually walked out of the store.

Grant’s father describes him as being his best friend. He was born and a person that brightened everybody. He did not leave the store alive that night.

The customer’s name was Apolinar Altamirano. He was an illegal alien with a long criminal record, including violent crimes. He was held in Federal custody, but then released while he awaited deportation proceedings. Our government let Grant down when they allowed Grant’s killer to walk out of custody.

Altamirano should have remained in custody until he was deported, but he was set free, and Grant was killed due to the government’s failure to hold this violent criminal in custody until deported.

Sadly, Grant’s story is not unique. Many Americans are aware of another tragic incident, the case of Kate Steinle.

When the bills passed out of the House, I hoped these bills would receive swift consideration. These two bills, if enacted and enforced, would protect innocent Americans from prevent future tragedies like those of Grant, Kate, Brandon, and Sarah.

These types of tragedies are preventable when the Federal Government enacts and enforces the No Sanctuary for Criminals Act and Kate’s Law. Congress has begun to take meaningful action to bring these tragedies to an end, starting with the two bills we passed in June.

Chairman Bob Goodlatte showed leadership and commitment to ensure these important bills received swift consideration. These two bills, if enacted and enforced, would protect innocent Americans from prevent future tragedies like those of Grant, Kate, Brandon, and Sarah.

When the bills passed out of the House, I hoped these bills would receive a swift vote in the Senate. That has not happened. I am still hoping for this vote to take place. I call upon the leadership of the Senate to put these bills up for a floor vote.

We owe it to our constituents to put arcane tradition aside and to pass policies that work. Yet, even in a Republican-controlled Senate, we cannot receive an up-or-down vote on these important immigration enforcement bills.

Why is this? Mr. Speaker, I firmly believe the answer lies in the fatally flawed 60-vote rule. It is more commonly known as the filibuster, but the Senate’s tradition is preventing consideration of nearly all legislation passed from the House.

For example, look at our current situation. Since January, the House has passed over 300 bills, including the two immigration and enforcement bills I have just discussed. These bills will most likely languish until the end of the term, in large part, due to the filibuster rule.

So what can be done about this irresponsible inaction? Well, the Senate can change the rule. Indeed, the Senate must change the rule.

Many people do not realize that the 60-vote requirement is not even in the United States Constitution. It dates back to 1917, when the Senate agreed that debate could be cut off with a two-thirds majority vote. Decades later, when deciding a two-thirds vote was found to be too difficult to achieve, the Senate reduced the number of required votes to three-fifths, or 60 of the current 100 Senators.

The filibuster is a tradition, barely a century old, less than half the age of the U.S. Constitution.

There is a place for rules and traditions, but not when they obstruct the will of American people. Is it honorable for the United States Senate to have a gentleman’s agreement to keep bills from being voted on, or to dilute our representation in the United States Senate?

Americans would rather that Congress pass just and reasonable laws than to preserve extrastitutional, institutional traditions. Americans want our borders secure and our immigration laws to be enforced.

Congress is running out of time to keep its promises to the American people. We promised to ensure that what happened to Kate, Grant, Brandon, and Sarah would not happen again. The House has done its duty. It is time for the Senate to do its duty.

There are no excuses to allow these bills to die in the Senate. I encourage my friends in the Senate to eliminate the 60-vote rule and to consider the two immigration enforcement bills that the House passed in June. We must not allow inaction to be the enemy of our sworn responsibilities as representatives of the American people.

Again, I thank my friend from Colorado, Mr. BUCK, for leading this Special Order effort and for recognizing what has been on my mind for some time.

Mr. Speaker, in 2010, President Obama and Congress passed the Dodd-Frank legislation that attempted to reform Wall Street and end the too-big-to-fail problem. It failed at both attempts of fixing the financial industry. Dodd-Frank was mainly served to excessively regulate local community banks, making it harder for individuals on Main Street to gain access to credit.

The Financial CHOICE Act, sponsored by Chairman JEB HENSAHLING from the Financial Services Committee, replaced Dodd-Frank with a system that holds Wall Street accountable while also making credit more accessible for Main Street America. The bill passed the House with 233 votes. It has been stuck in the Senate for 148 days.

I yield to the gentleman from West Virginia (Mr. MOONEY), my friend and colleague, who sits on the Financial Services Committee, to talk about H.R. 10, the Financial CHOICE Act.

Mr. MOONEY of West Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague from Colorado, Mr. BUCK, for initiating this Special Order effort and for recognizing me to talk about this issue and the general problem in the Senate today of having legislation considered, debated, and passed in a way that we can go to Congress and tell our constituents why we voted that way.

As the gentleman mentioned, the Senate has already failed to act, and it is currently failing to act, as we stand here, on over 270 House-passed bills. One of those bills is a really important one, very important to the committee on which I serve.

I am proud to be on the Financial Services Committee. The tradition of
So we passed that bill. We sent it to the Senate. We didn’t think the Senate would pass the exact same bill, word for word, that the House passed. We thought they would consider our bill, take the parts they like, maybe change some parts, or move some parts, pass a bill in the Senate, and then we would go to a conference committee to reconcile the differences.

One of the biggest travesties I have seen around here of the political process, Mr. Speaker, is the failure to have conference committees in the Congress any longer. The House passes all these bills, over 200 over there; 270 are waiting for the Senate to do anything on. Anything. And we wait for the Senate to act so we can have a conference committee and reconcile the differences.

It is important to understand that no one in the House is demanding they get their way on every bill, every provision, all the time. We simply want to have a product sent to the Senate, have the Senate do their job, do their due diligence, pass legislation in whatever form the Senate sees fit, and have a chance to go to conference committee, reconcile the differences.

There is some give-and-take there. They won’t get everything they want. We may not get everything we want. You can reconcile those differences, and it has to go back and pass again.

Over the past 3 years, my third year in Congress now, I have taken to reminding folks things they learned in fifth grade in grammar school, about how I am just a bill sitting on Capitol Hill, and how it is supposed to go to one Chamber; then it is supposed to go to the other, and they appoint a conference committee to reconcile the differences.

Instead, as the previous speaker, Congressman Booz from Arizona, mentioned, the filibuster is abused. You have 48 Democrats in the Senate who filibuster everything. Everything. And for some reason, it seems that on the majority side of the aisle, the Republic-ans, don’t put the bills on the floor to make the American people see them filibuster, and obstruct, and shut down, we may not get everything we want, passing anything in the Senate that would require action, and, therefore, just stop anything from happening. It is a travesty of the political process.

Neither Republican nor Democrats should force a filibuster in their respective chambers. We have 48 Democrats in the Senate who filibuster everything. Everything. something, pass the best product they can on this issue, and let’s go to conference committee and reconcile the differences.

Mr. Speaker, I urge the Senate to act as quickly as possible on the CHOICE Act, on whatever provisions they want to. We are trying to repeal the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. Another part of that, the fiduciary rule, has really hurt consumers. These are other parts of the CHOICE Act that need action. The American people need and expect relief.

Mr. Speaker, with rising premiums and deductibles, Americans are hurting under ObamaCare. Republicans talk a lot about increasing competition in the healthcare market, and this next bill actually makes that talk a reality.

H.R. 372, the Competitive Health Insurance Reform Act restores Federal antitrust laws to the health insurance industry, ensuring that the market for health insurance remains competitive and affordable for Americans.

On March 22, the House passed this legislation in an overwhelmingly bipartisan fashion, and 416 Members voted for it. It is 226 days later, and the Senate can still not move that legislation through its Chamber.

I yield to my friend and colleague, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. Gosar), to say a few words about this bill that he sponsored.

Mr. GOSAR. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend from Arizona, especially with his healthcare background. I know he has said on many occasions that he is a dentist impersonating a Congressman.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues in the Senate to build upon the good work of this Chamber and do their part to restore competition in the health insurance industry.

Mr. Speaker, I urge the Senate to act for their strong support of the CHOICE Act, and I appreciate his friendship and great insight.

As Congress continues to face the preeminent task of repairing our Nation’s healthcare system, first and foremost, we must establish the proper foundation for a competitive and consumer-driven health insurance marketplace so that the American people can keep their promises to the American people.

As a dentist, I know how important robust competition is to dynamic and effective health insurance. It should protect the patient as well as the healthcare provider. It should uniformly apply associated checks and balances that incentivize competition and prevent monopolies. Today, in the health insurance market, those equally applied antitrust protections just simply don’t exist.

I don’t have a crystal ball that will tell you what the future holds for healthcare or what it will look like. I don’t think anybody knows. But I can tell you that history is an important guide. The 70-year antitrust exemption for health insurance has strangled competition and resulted in a consolidated, anticompetitive, and nontransparent scheme controlled by seven major corporations. That is not what we want for our future.

Instead, let’s liberate the market by removing this antitrust exemption. Imagine what could exist when we put the patient first and demand that health insurance companies compete for their business. This market should be patient-centric, patient-focused, and provide a variety of affordable, quality options that empower patient involvement and accountability.

The passage of the Competitive Health Insurance Reform Act into law is an important first step toward increasing competition in the health insurance market, and will assist in setting the foundation for real competitive and patient-centered healthcare reform.

I thank my friends in the House for their strong support. And at the same time, promises were made in the Senate to get a vote on the Senate floor. I urge my colleagues in the Senate to act for their strong support of the CHOICE Act, and I appreciate his friendship and great insight.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to now invite my friend and colleague, Representative Ted Poe, to speak about their strong support of this legislation.

Mr. BUCK. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend from Arizona, especially with his healthcare background. I know he has said on many occasions that he is a prosecutor impersonating a Congressman.

Right now I feel the same way as a prosecutor for impersonating a Congressman, and I appreciate his friendship and great insight.

There is an old saying: Trust is a series of promises kept. Keep the promise. We are watching.

Mr. Speaker, I urge the Senate to act for their strong support of the CHOICE Act, and I appreciate his friendship and great insight.
Let me give you a little history.

As Congressman BUCK pointed out, back in 1986, which was an eternity ago when you start talking about the digital age, Congress passed legislation to protect the emails that people had on their computers. The idea was that people wouldn’t keep their emails. They would delete them, and 6 months was a good enough time to protect those emails from the spies in our government—I will use that phrase, that is my phrase—and that is the current law. Brand that is what has happened over that 30 years.

Many Americans stored their emails after that 6-month period. They store them in the cloud, for example. Americans store their schedules in the cloud. They store photographs in the cloud.

When Americans store those items that are over 6 months old in the cloud, they are not protected against the search by our government of that email, of those photographs, of that schedule, of those emails. Americans store photographs in the cloud. They can store their schedules in the cloud. They can store their emails in the cloud. It is an eternal problem for the American citizen.

When Americans store those items that are over 6 months old in the cloud, they are not protected against the search by our government of that email, of those photographs, of that schedule, of those emails.

So after about 4 years of working on this legislation with my friend Zoe LOFGREN from California, bipartisan, we presented it to Congress. Mr. BUCK said, on February 7, to be exact, of this year, that passed by voice vote on this floor, and we sent it down the hallway to the Senate to vote on there, and they have yet to vote on it.

So what does that legislation do? It protects the right of privacy of Americans. It requires government to follow the Constitution. It was a former criminal court judge in Texas for 22 years. Like Mr. BUCK, I was also a prosecutor in the DA’s office in Houston.

The Fourth Amendment of the Constitution—remembering that this is unique to America—protects Americans, their persons, their houses, their papers, and their personal effects from the intrusion of government unless government has probable cause and government has obtained a warrant. That is the law. That is the Fourth Amendment.

If government has a probable cause, go get a warrant from a judge. I signed hundreds of warrants from law enforcement as a judge.

A simple example: the government can’t search our mail, snail mail as it is now called. When you put a letter in the mailbox and the postmaster picks it up and sends it across the friction plain as it lands. In southern Texas, my mailbox, government cannot generally go into that letter and seize it for any purpose unless they have a warrant to do so.

There are some exceptions, but government can seize your emails after 6 months if they are stored in the cloud, as I already mentioned, without a warrant. So this legislation basically requires government to follow the Constitution. We have heard about the widespread abuse—that is my opinion—of the NSA over the last several years, the government agencies that felt like they had a blank check to search and seize Americans’ information without their knowledge and without a warrant. This legislation goes to prevent that and simply requires that information stored in the cloud—emails, photographs, schedules, or whatever—the government can go get it, but the government has to get a search warrant to seize that information.

That is what this legislation does. It protects the Fourth Amendment. It protects Americans. It is simple legislation. The House on voice vote, yet the Senate refuses to protect Americans from unlawful searches without the knowledge of Americans. We need to pass the legislation that ZOE LOFGREN and I have sponsored that has passed the House to protect that basic right.

Mr. Speaker, I think our Senators would all vote “yes” for the legislation. They believe in the Constitution like the rest of us. They believe in the Fourth Amendment like the rest of us. So let’s get it out of the House.

Mr. BUCK. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for his hard work and persistence on this very important issue. Mr. Speaker, this year, the House completed all 12 appropriations bills. It is the first time in decades that that has happened. I am proud that our Chamber worked hard to return to a regular appropriations process, and I can tell you that there were many late nights spent looking through amendment after amendment both in the Rules Committee hearing room and on the House floor. We thoughtfully considered these bills and offered them for votes on the House floor.

But the Senate hasn’t approved any of these 12 bills. Not one. Republicans, month by month, crisis to crisis, were appropriating. It was the Obama administration era. But now Republicans are in charge, and without Senate action, we are staring down the barrel of another omnibus or continuing resolution. This isn’t fair to the American public.

The Founders gave to Congress the power of the purse so that 435 men and women in this Chamber and 100 men and women in the Senate Chamber can spend weeks at a time thoughtfully discerning how to spend taxpayer dollars. That is our job. The House has finished its work for this year, and now we beg the Senate to finish theirs.

The House has done good work. We have listened to our stakeholders, and met each other in the middle on many bills. Now we are left just talking about these great bills because they are all stuck in the Senate.

I want to take a minute in closing to remind the Senate why we are here and why the voters offered the Republican Party control of both Chambers and the House.

We are here because Americans want fewer regulations. We are here because Americans want lower healthcare premiums and costs. We are here because Americans want a stronger stance against the world’s bullies. We are here because Americans want a respect for the rule of law. We are here because Americans want our veterans to have the best care. We are here because Americans want better access to credit. They want to protect unborn life. We are here because Americans expect us to improve their lives, to work on the meaningful legislation that limits government, that stewards taxpayer dollars effectively, and that guards family values.

Americans should know that the House of Representatives has heard them. We have passed bills to address those concerns. Now we turn to the Senate and ask them to do the same.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 3, 2017, the Chair recognizes the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. RYAN) for 30 minutes.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the opportunity to be here this evening on the floor of the United States House of Representatives and talk about a timely issue that is an issue that is most important to most of the American people, and that is the issue of the economy, globalization, automation, and all of the issues that are coming down on many communities across the United States.

I want to take this opportunity to spend the next 30 minutes walking through for the American people a little bit about what has happened and talk very clearly about the differences in approach on how we deal with these issues, how the Republican Party is trying to deal with these issues, and how the vote of us on the Democratic side want to deal with these issues.

I don’t want to get into a discussion at all, Mr. Speaker, about who hates whom, and who is bad and who is good,
Presidential election and, again, for about the economy. I would argue—and I have been here about the economy, too, but going back to, I think, 2006—I thought it would be better than Mitt Romney, who would have let the auto industry collapse and who was perceived as being more in line with Donald Trump’s ideas in the United States. So they voted for President Obama.

Then in 2014, President Obama wasn’t doing things fast enough, still the squeeze, and then obviously in 2016, America voted for President Trump, thinking that he was promising expansion of healthcare, opening up the coal mines and opening up the steel mills. He was going to get the economy back, he was going to do it. It was going to be beautiful, and he was going to do it with the waving of a magic wand. It was going to be easy. So all of those elections were about the economy.

So we still have this squeeze happening in the United States. We still have families who could not withstand a $500 catastrophe in their family with their car, with their health insurance, with someone’s health in their family, or with an accident. $500 in an emergency would send 63 percent of the families in the United States spinning out of control.

We see with pensions, for example, that the average person 65 years-plus only has $60,000 in a 401(k), which means they can drop out $3,000 a year—not a month, a year—out of their 401(k) for 20 years. Their average Social Security is a little over $1,000. Their pension isn’t much. And all of this averages to about $25,000 a year. So you are squeezed with your pension. You have to stretch—do you have much of a savings? And most families can’t withstand even a $500 emergency. This constant squeeze over the last 30 years from globalization and automation has put many of the communities on the last chart behind the eight ball, unable to get and keep their nose above water for them and their families.

So our job is to figure out what the heck are we going to do about that. So the Republicans today proposed a new program of tax cuts. Here is what their tax cuts look like. Remember, I said 96 percent of income growth in the country—almost all of it—has gone to the top 10 percent. So the average family is getting squeezed.

When you look back at the elections going back to, I think, 2006— I thought 2006–2002 and 2004 were going to be elections about the economy, too, but after 9/11, that had an impact on what the national conversation was about with regard to our elections. But I would argue—and I have been here since 2003. I would argue that, in 2006, that election putting Democrats in was about the economy. I would say that 2008, during the Presidential election and, again, for Congress, was about the economy. We had a complete collapse. The American people didn’t think the Democrats fixed things fast enough, so in 2010 they put the Republicans in Congress. In 2012 things were getting better, and the election went for President Barack Obama, thinking that he was moving things slightly in the right direction. But they thought he would probably be better than Mitt Romney, who would have let the auto industry collapse and who was perceived as being more in line with Donald Trump’s ideas in the United States. So they voted for President Obama.

In 2014, President Obama wasn’t doing things fast enough, still the squeeze, and then obviously in 2016, America voted for President Trump, thinking that he was promising expansion of healthcare, opening up the coal mines and opening up the steel mills. He was going to get the economy back, he was going to do it. It was going to be beautiful, and he was going to do it with the waving of a magic wand. It was going to be easy. GDP only grew by 2.6 percent; wages were stagnant.

As we all remember, in 2007 and 2008, things started to unravel in the economy, and we had a huge collapse in the housing market that was deregulated. We didn’t have any cops on the beat watching what was going on.

Stagnant growth ends in the collapse, and then Democrats came in and, quite frankly, fixed the problem, stemmed it, and did what we did. That is a whole other story.

The whole idea that cutting taxes for the wealthy is really going to bump employment and really bump GDP growth is shown in recent economic history to not be true.

Now, what do we have to compare this with?

If we go back another decade to 1993, when President Bill Clinton got into office in 1993 and the Democrats had a different strategy. We started to run up the deficits coming out of the eighties. We had to get our financial house in order.

President Clinton came in and raised some taxes on the wealthiest people in the country, not because we don’t like them, but the country needed revenue. We reinvested that money, balanced the budget, and what happened? A totally different strategy than our friends on the other side—right?—totally different. What we saw in the 1990s was employment at 2.4 percent, and we saw real GDP growth at 3.7 percent.

The red is the Bush tax cut that we have already tried in the historical analysis of that, ending in a financial collapse and stagnant wages. What we saw with President Clinton’s economic plan was real growth, and we saw an improvement in employment and really bump GDP growth is shown in recent economic history to not be true.

That is a whole other story.

I am not here to say that the government should not have its day of reckoning, but the current proposals are irresponsible. I think it is irresponsible. I don’t think it makes economic sense. As we start to peel through it, other than the big picture of $1.5 trillion that we are going to borrow from the Chinese to pay for it, we are going to give the people’s program, because it is not. But what we do have to do is make some investments on the public side that are going to allow for growth.

When you talk about things like broadband penetration to make sure that rural America or small towns or certain parts of our cities have access to high-speed broadband, high-speed internet access, you will see that, for every 10 percent penetration, you see, I think it is, 1, 1.3, 1.4 percent growth in the GDP. It sounds like a pretty good investment.

So let’s figure out how we can do a public-private partnership with the telecommunications companies and the public to make sure that we have high-speed internet access all over the United States. Let’s sit down with the power companies, the energy companies, and figure out how we redo our energy grid so that we can have a 21st century, efficient, secure energy grid.

And, oh, by the way, ask all of these people who are underemployed today to help us build out this new America. Whether it is broadband or the energy grid, it is in the ground. These jobs can’t be outsourced. The same with renewable energy. Many of the jobs related to renewable energy cannot be outsourced. These are the investments we need to make.

Again, we are competing with China. This, my friends, is a very important point. When you look at what China is doing militarily with North Korea, not having as much to do to, moving out, actually building islands in the South China Sea, further projecting their force, moving into Africa, already in Africa, establishing bases in Africa, building relationships, getting minerals and other resources out of Africa, moving ahead with battery-powdered cars in China and here, moving and spending $360 billion on renewable energy initiatives by 2020, creating 13 million new jobs, China is out.

What are we doing? What does the Republican Party want to do? What does the Trump administration want to do, Mr. Speaker, while China is investing billions of dollars in renewable energy initiatives? I think it is irresponsible. I don’t think it makes economic sense. As we start to peel through it, other than the big picture of $1.5 trillion that we are going to borrow from the Chinese to pay for it, I think we are going to see the ability to deduct student loans. Medical emergencies will no longer be deductible.

They are providing instability in the world with the Chinese, with the Chinese credit, which has about $50 billion in investments. About 50,000 jobs are at stake and 500 factories participating in this new economy.
There is a way to do this. There is a way to be smart. We can’t let our ideology determine our public policy if it doesn’t make any sense. If we can have a balanced approach, we pay for the spending; and because of the situation we are in, we ask the wealthiest in the United States to help pay for this because they have seen 96 percent of the income growth over the last 30 years.

If we do it right and we do it smart, we will position the next generation of Americans to be in an economy that they can thrive in, that provides stability for them, security for them and their families, and it will also help us deal with the great challenge of our time: global climate change.

Mr. Speaker, I hope that, as this process moves forward, we recognize that this tax cut bill is not the solution to the economic problems. It has gone against what the President of the United States campaigned on, and I believe it is the very betrayal of his campaign, a betrayal of what that campaign meant to so many people, and a betrayal of those very people whom he said he was going to help.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

ISSUES OF CONCERN

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 3, 2017, the Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. ROHRABACHER) for 30 minutes.

Mr. ROHRABACHER. Mr. Speaker, our American way of life and our Judeo-Christian values are under attack as never before. People understand that there is the threat out there, but perhaps the magnitude keeps coming home of how bad and what a great threat it really is.

Radical Islamic terrorists with a backward, evil, 7th century view of the world are out to destroy and kill us. They seek to terrorize Western countries and Americans, in particular, into retreat.

Well, instead, we must stand tall. We must have the courage to do what is necessary because it does depend on us, as it always has been. As when Nazism and Japanese militarism threatened the world, it was the United States that carried the day for the decent people of the world.

When communism threatened to establish atheistic dictatorships throughout the world and was on the march, yes, it was the American people who stood strong and had those policies necessary to hold off the communist menace until it collapsed, basically, of its own inconsistencies and its own evil nature.

We have had great leadership at those other battles, and I say, thank goodness that today we now have a President who actually can speak the words against and condemn this horrific force that threatens our country and the people of the world.

Yes, we have a President who can actually say those words, “radical Islamic terrorism.” For 8 years, we had a President who couldn’t use those words, much less any words that were necessary to defeat this threat and to make sure our people were secure.

Some, if not many, of our leaders have been afraid to confront the basic nature of those who have made repeated terrorist attacks and assaults. Anyone who is not signing on to their fanatical religious agenda becomes a terrorist target, not only Christians, but Jews and other Muslims.

President Trump is, at last long, providing the courageous leadership in this historic battle. Congress needs to support our President. We need to stand with him and to stand united against this evil, and yes, defend ourselves. We must not be afraid, and we must not be cowards but also do what is necessary to defeat and extinguish this ghoulish adversary and end his bloody assault on Western civilization, and yes, on moderate Islam.

Words are not enough. Our homeland is under attack; witnesses in danger; our families, our country, and our way of life are under attack. These attackers come from many countries, both men and women. But in common—these people who have been murdering people and the mayhem they have been creating throughout the Western world, whether it is in France or in the United States or elsewhere, these men and women who participate in these evil acts of terrorism have something that they have in common. They all pledge allegiance to radical Islam.

That is our enemy, not Islam, not Islam itself, but the radical fanaticism that terrorists and the Islamic psycho-pathogens that are murdering in the worst possible and ghoulish ways, people, in order to—yes, in order to have—to shock us and in order to intimidate the West into retreat.

This week, a 29-year-old Uzbek immigrant planted a truck into people walking and cycling in a New York City pathway. He killed 8 people, and he proclaimed that he was inspired by Islam. In fact, he said he was proud of what he had done and even requested the display of his Islamic state flag in his hospital.

We need to ask ourselves: Why are we allowing Islamic terrorists like this into our country in the first place? How much longer will we close our eyes and bury our heads in the sand?

We have had horrendous terrorist attacks even in my home State. We know that. We have seen it. On December 2, 2015, in San Bernardino, 14 innocent and wonderful people were brutally slaughtered and 22 seriously injured by an immigrant from Pakistan—a hotbed of radicalism.

And yes, his motive was his fanatic belief in what he considers to be Islam. It was truly one of the most evil attacks in our State’s history.

In Orlando, on June 12, 2016, 49 nightclubbers out having a good time, enjoying themselves as Americans—life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness—were brutally murdered and mowed down.

All of these innocent lives were slaughtered. Americans who were blown apart at the Boston marathon is not different.

We have American victims staring us in the face saying: What are you going to do to bring justice and to protect the Americans that we left behind, our families? These horrific crimes of cowards mirrors what has happened to innocent people throughout the world.

Yes, we Americans are suffering. And as I say, we have seen it in France, we have seen it in Europe, we have seen it in Muslim countries where these fanaticism take Christians out and behead them. But they also, of course, attack moderate Muslims. They are out to try to topple the government of el-Sisi and Egypt and all the other governments there that are not committed to the fanatic view of Islam that they hold.

The most recent attacks in New York should, at least, open our eyes to things that we can do here. Maybe we can’t stop it all over the world, but the least we can do is to take steps to protect our citizens from this type of fanatic threat that hangs over us.

Well, we need to take specific steps that can and should be done to help deal with this danger. I have, in fact, discussed a plan with the President—and this is a few months ago—and we have had a lot of work and a lot of things under the bridge since then, but his commitment to border security includes placing a wall on the Southern border.

Yes, making sure that we have border security, and yes, if it takes a wall on our Southern border, the President is right on target. A wall and beefing up our border will, of course, be expensive. That is why I laid out a plan to the President and have since offered legislation that would pay for President Trump’s proposed border wall.

The car attack in New York has altered many Americans and alerted many Americans to something they didn’t know about before, and that is that we have an immigration system, an immigration law that permits 50,000 people to immigrate into our country every year—50,000 people who are chosen by lottery, not by some really looking at them, some examination of their credentials, seeing what they could contribute, not a lot more.

And, of course, Senator SCHUMER in the Senate, I guess, was the man who actually insisted on this. Well, I am sure he was well-intended, but what we have now are people instead of bringing the people who can most contribute to our country, he has insisted we leave 50,000 of them up to a lottery system.
Mr. ROHRABACHER. Mr. Speaker, I will try to bring up something that we have heard, and we need to discuss this as Americans, because it also is about a very major flaw in our system that is apparent things have been not right for the last 2 years.

In the past 2 weeks, however, information has been provided to the American people that has exposed the hypocrisy and misinformation, forced down our throats, for months concerning the allegation that President Trump colluded with the Russians in order to steal the last election. Over and over again, fake news filled the airwaves. Of course, the newspapers, suggesting that there was a sinister plot that kept Hillary from becoming President of the United States.

The core accusation was the Russians have hatched into the Democratic Party, with these emails, yes, did have an impact on the election, as many Democrats who supported BERNIE SANDERS felt that they had been cheated by their own party because the proof was being offered to these Wikileaks emails that had been taken from the Democratic National Committee.

Now, we heard over and over again that Trump stole the election because he was in collusion with the Russians. The left media, which is most of them, found every which way, any little thing that any member of the Trump team did, as sinister proof that there was collusion with the Russians, thus, they stole the election. Well, it was pounded into our heads month after month, even after the election was over.

But Hillary didn’t lose that. That is what we are being told. Hillary lost the election. She didn’t want us to believe that she was going to be the next President running on a miserable track record and a platform that undermined her own candidacy, but, instead, she lost because the GOP had subterfuge and treachery in which they were working with Russians, who helped them out to accomplish this horrible crime of stealing the election.

Well, this negative media barrage and this continued attack on President Trump did not stop when the election was over. It went on for months and months. Everybody should remember that. Month after month after the election, in what appeared to be, in my point of view, an effort to disrupt our new President’s authority and to exercise powers granted to him by the Constitution, that which is not to be disrupted, so he could not become a regular President of the United States, as our election process had determined. Talk about not being loyal to the American way of life.

After months of these obstructionist tactics, the American people are now learning the whole truth. They are hearing that the attack on Trump was a total fraud, a power grab by those who lost the election, and an attempt to distract the American people from this wrongdoing.

First and foremost, let’s make it clear: the Russians did not hatch into and DIRECT their Democratic National Committee’s emails. In terms of the collusion with the Russians, it is now coming to light that there are far worse things. But the stealing of those emails and then making them public—and, by the way, they were just making public homeland security communications we are not talking about giving the public false information. We are talking about giving them information the Democrats didn’t want them to have.

But in terms of collusion with the Russians, what is coming to light is that the Clinton Foundation—so these other charges that we have heard about President Trump may be something to distract us about something that was being done that was wrong and, of a similar nature, it was wrong and being done by Hillary Clinton and her family. In terms of collusion with the Russians, it has come to light that the Clinton Foundation collected more than or around $150 million from Russian oligarchs that Clinton felt was deposited right into the Clinton Foundation coffers. These oligarchs then deposited $500,000 right into the Clinton family’s pockets for a speech. Yeah, they are going to give them a speaker’s fee one speech. All of this was happening when Hillary was Secretary of State. It was also happening when our government was making a decision as to whether they should sell 20 percent of America’s uranium reserves to Russia. Why we would never seriously consider that, I don’t know.

But in my research, I have found evidence that, because that did not seem right, the FBI had an informant watching all of this go down, close up, right there in Russia—an informant. Instead of charging Hillary with a crime, which was not done by the FBI, a gag order was placed on this witness who was working as an informer for the FBI. That gag order at the time, who put it on this witness?

Well, it was the head of the FBI.

Was the head of the FBI?

Robert Mueller. That gag order was kept on by Mueller, the gag order on the informant that had this information. He was an informant. Instead of charging Hillary with a crime, which was not done by the FBI, a gag order was placed on this witness who was working as an informer for the FBI. This is the same Mueller who is now the special prosecutor trying to find anything to charge Trump with collusion with the Russians.

That gag order over the witness implicating Hillary was not lifted until last week, when some of us stepped up and said: We have to have a public hearing. This is what we need to make sure—not a public hearing on any type of negative or, let’s say, illegal collusion with the Russian Government by any American politician, which would have included Hillary, of course, and will include Hillary and anybody else who colluded with them.

Yes, I know, that I have advanced the idea of cooperating with the Russians, so this may seem out of place. But I have always felt whatever we do with the Russians needs to be what is in the interest of the people of the United States. Certainly giving away 20 percent of America’s uranium reserves, and then gagging one of the witnesses to the discussions that were taking place at the time, when at the same time, the FBI had an informant watching all of this go down, close up, right there in Russia—an informant. Instead of charging Hillary in the beginning, now the ecology by oligarchs in Russia were providing the Clintons with $150 million donation to their foundation, and a $500,000 donation right into the personal pockets of Bill Clinton.

Now, we need to move forward on this. As we know, the special prosecutor, Mr. Mueller, who kept the gag order on this witness, who didn’t charge Hillary in the beginning, now has found someone to indictment. Paul Manafort has been indicted.

Isn’t this interesting? Our special prosecutor was tasked with trying to prove if there was Russian collusion in the last election between the Trump people and the Russians in order to steal the election. And what did he come up with?

Basically, tax evasion by Paul Manafort, who is a longtime politician in this city.

And guess what. The tax evasion he is being charged with happened long before Paul Manafort had anything to do with Donald Trump. That is wrong. There is something really wrong there. We need to get a new special prosecutor or whatever. We need to have these hearings. Our Republicans need to get tough and we need to get this information out and something more serious done about this.

PRAYER
The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:
Let us pray.
Eternal King, You are great and marvelous. Without Your wondrous deeds, our lawmakers, our Nation, and our planet could not survive. Lord, let the nations You have made acknowledge Your sovereignty.
Continue to meet the needs of our Senators, providing solutions to their most challenging problems. Lord, teach them Your precepts so that they may walk in Your truth, experiencing the reverential awe that comes from Your presence. Make them wise and knowledgeable leaders. At their work, may they be diligent, ever striving through their faithfulness to please You. In their dealings with each other, may they be honest, courteous, and kind, never forgetting that You are the unseen guest in all of their deliberations.
We pray in Your strong Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE
The President pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:
I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

NOMINATIONS OF ALLISON EID AND STEPHANOS BIBAS
Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, the Senate continues to press forward confirming President Trump's outstanding nominations to the Federal courts. Already this week, we have confirmed two strong, smart, and talented women to serve on our Nation’s circuit courts. Today, we will consider two more well-qualified nominees: Allison Eid and Stephanos Bibas.

First, we will confirm Allison Eid, whom the President has nominated to serve on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit. Justice Eid has big shoes to fill in taking that seat—it became vacant when Neil Gorsuch ascended to the Supreme Court. It is a hard act to follow. Yet I have every confidence she will excel in the role. You see, nominees such as Justice Eid and Professor Bibas are more than just the sum of their credentials—although theirs are indeed impressive, and I will expand on those credentials in just a moment—nominees such as these also believe, like Justice Gorsuch, that the role of a judge is to apply the law equally to everyone and to do so as the law is actually written, not as they wish it might be.

As Judge Gorsuch said, “A judge who likes every outcome he reaches is very likely a bad judge—stretching for results he prefers rather than those the law demands.” or, put a different way, “I don’t think there are red judges, and I don’t think there are blue judges. All judges wear black.” That is the view of Neil Gorsuch. That is the view of Allison Eid and Stephanos Bibas. That is just the kind of fair-minded judge we want serving on the bench and just the kind of fair-minded judge we are confirming this week, including the exceptional nominees before us.

Justice Eid graduated from the University of Chicago Law School with high honors. She wrote a column in the Denver Post in 2007 called “The Power of Persuasion.”

Justice Eid,毕业于 Chicago Law School with high honors. She wrote a column in the Denver Post in 2007 called “The Power of Persuasion.”

I would ask them to join me in confirming her nomination today, and I ask each of my colleagues to join me in confirming the nomination of this extremely well qualified jurist.

For women striving to achieve that elusive balance between family life and a successful career, it can be hard to find strong role models. But Colorado’s Allison Eid is a shining example.

Justice Eid is clearly well qualified for the position to which she has been nominated. She is just the kind of fair-minded judge people would want hearing their case. I look forward to supporting her nomination today, and I ask each of my colleagues to join me in confirming the nomination of this extremely well qualified jurist.
The goals of tax reform used to be shared by our Democratic colleagues as well. Over many years, multiple Senate Democrats, including the Democratic leader himself, have called on Congress to pass reform. But then something changed. It’s not that the President who changed, it seems.

Now we are reading reports that our friends across the aisle plan to oppose any tax reform bill at all, regardless of what is in it. It seems that Democratic leadership is praying that this chance to put more money in the pockets of the middle class will not succeed. But why? To protect incentives and encourage companies to ship jobs overseas? I thought they were against those. To prevent working families from keeping more of what they earn? I assumed we were all for that. According to recent news reporting, Democrats apparently want to tank tax cuts for the middle class because it might give them a political leg up. It seems that this is some kind of game to them. I certainly hope what we read is not true. I certainly hope Democrats will take note of the fact that their latest false claim about tax reform just got debunked today as well. This effort is too important for any of that. I hope our friends will decide to work with our colleagues in a serious way instead. That is what their constituents deserve after the last decade of economic disappointment. There is no reason for our Democratic friends not to work across the aisle in a serious way to help shape this critically important effort.

I thank Chairman Hatch and Chairman Brady for their commitment to tax reform and regular order. Through the committee process, Members on both sides of the aisle have the opportunity to offer input as the tax reform effort advances. Today’s announcement is an important step forward for that process, as well as for our once-in-a-generation opportunity to fundamentally rethink our Tax Code and deliver the kind of relief. It has been 30 years since we did that. It is time to do it again.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mrs. CAPITO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Morning business is closed.
Despite years of bipartisan talks, we are now on the verge of major tax reform for the first time in 30 years. Making our Tax Code simpler will benefit every single working family in this country. By roughly doubling the standard deduction, filing your taxes will be easier and more understandable. The higher standard deduction will let more middle-class Americans benefit from not just lower taxes but also without the hassle of itemizing your tax returns. Lower rates and fewer deductions will help all Americans spend less time and energy and worry on tax compliance.

Our goal is for the overwhelming number of Americans to be able to submit their tax forms on a single sheet of paper without all those extra forms, and for many families in West Virginia and around the country who already use the standard deduction, increasing it will reduce their taxes. Now, 83 percent of West Virginians last year—maybe it was the year before 2015, 2016—83 percent filed a simple form.

Simplicity in our Tax Code and relief for middle-class families, those are the reasons I offered a straightforward amendment to the Senate’s budget resolution. My position said Congress should focus on eliminating deductions that primarily benefit wealthier individuals in favor of tax policy that benefits the middle class. Let me say that again. Congress should focus on eliminating deductions that primarily benefit wealthier individuals in favor of tax policy that benefits the middle class. That means a tax code that is simpler with fewer deductions and lower rates.

It will not just be individuals and families who benefit from a less complicated tax code. Tax simplification will help our small businesses start, grow, and succeed. Ninety-five percent of the businesses in my State of West Virginia are small businesses, and they employ over half of West Virginia’s private sector workforce. So in addition to their high marginal tax rate, the complexity and compliance cost of their taxes impedes their economic growth. impedes their ability to grow their job, raise their wages, spur growth. A CNBC survey found that 22 percent of small business owners aren’t sure what their effective tax rate really is. If Congress can simplify the code just once, they say, the average cost savings would be $10,700, which free up significant resources that could be used to grow the economy. Given that 50 percent of U.S. job growth has occurred in just 2 percent of our country’s counties, we need that growth. Think about that. Over the last several years, 50 percent of the U.S. job growth has only occurred in 2 percent of our country’s counties. We need the rest of the country to be able to enjoy that growth. To do that, we need to help the small businesses that are the major economic drivers in our economy.

Simplifying the Tax Code will benefit so many across this country through GDP growth and higher wages. I look forward to working with my colleagues to make tax reform and tax simplification a reality. Thank you. I yield the floor.

I suggest the presence of a quorum. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SCHUMER, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. STRANGE). Without objection, it is so ordered.

REPUBLICAN TAX PLAN

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, later this morning, after months of hemming, hawing, and delaying, House Republicans will finally release some legislative details of their tax plan. It may not even include all the details. The on again, off again nature of these deliberations should concern every Member of both Chambers. That is not how you construct sound policy, especially with something as complicated as the Tax Code. Each decision has enormous ramifications. Last-minute changes and sloppy drafting could change the fate of entire industries. Rushing it through in a hasty manner could have disastrous consequences.

We know why my colleagues are doing this. They don’t want the public to know what is in this bill—increases on the middle class, breaks for the wealthy, big corporations getting a huge tax break, with no guarantee and very little likelihood that they will use the money to create jobs. That is why they don’t want it to be public. It is not popular. On polls, it says: Do you support tax reform? They say yes. Do you support cutting the taxes on big corporations? They say, overwhelming, no. Do you support increasing taxes on the middle class? Overwhelming, they say no. Do you support decreasing taxes on the wealthy? They say, overwhelming, no. Those are the three tenets of this bill.

I hope my Republican colleagues here in the Senate are watching what is going on in the House—the problems they are having, the secrecy they are needing. It is not as difficult or dangerous it is to rewrite the Tax Code by the seat of your pants. Looking at the Tax Code and real tax receipts after all the loopholes, the wealthy in our country pay far less in Federal taxes than they did historically while the middle class pays more. Corporate profits are at a record high, while average wages have been stagnant. Those statistics articulate a real problem with the basic fairness of our Tax Code that tax reform could underlie and could fix. This plan doesn’t.

Instead, what we are seeing today is a plan that exacerbates the unfairness and inequality in our Tax Code. If the details of the Republican tax plan are anything like we have seen in the press—to repeal the estate tax, to create a huge new loophole for wealthy individuals in the form of a reduction in the pass-through rate, and lowering the burden on corporations of the wealthy—this sure doesn’t fit the bill of helping the middle class.

Meanwhile, to pay for all the tax giveaways in their bill, the Republicans are likely to make it worse for the middle class—not just not help them but hurt them. It will slash State and local deductibility, which is a bedrock middle-class and upper middle-class deduction, that would hurt so many middle-class taxpayers. Nearly one-third of all taxpayers claim it from all over the country, the vast majority of whom make under $200,000 a year.

Today, Republicans will crow about reaching a compromise on State and local deductibility. On the Senate floor, to eliminate the deduction; they just reduce its value by about 70 percent. That means the bulk of the deduction will go away for so many middle-class Americans. I would remind my Republican colleagues over in the House, particularly those in States like New York, New Jersey, California, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Virginia, and Colorado, that this compromise will not solve your problem. You will still pay the price with the voters.

I have been in politics a long time. I know how this will affect people—this compromise. They will not look and say: Oh, it could have been worse. Maybe we would have had a decent deduction. They will say: This year, I have the whole deduction, and next year, I have less than half of it. They will take it out on our Republican colleagues who vote for it, particularly from those States that are throughout the country—in well-to-do and upper middle-class and middle-class suburban districts.

So anyone who thinks this compromise is going to help them doesn’t understand how politics works. It is not what it could have been. It is what it is and what it will be. Now it is a complete deduction. What it will be is that you will lose 70 percent of that deduction. No one is going to breathe a sigh of relief and say: I could have lost 100 percent.

Taxpayers will see that the Republicans have capped the amount of mortgage interest they can deduct from their income—a new limit that is the latest. Again, that hits right at the middle class. The mortgage deduction doesn’t really affect the wealthiest. They have all their money in unearned income and capital gains, and all of that doesn’t affect what those most. But the mortgage deduction is one of the hearts of the middle class. To play it—to reduce it, to cap it, so they can do tax giveaways for the very rich—is not going to fly, I don’t think—not in America, not in the America most of us know.

Taxpayers in the big cities and small ones, in the exurbs and suburbs, who contribute to work, will also notice if they never receive the critical transit benefits they receive now. Thousands of dollars a year that help pay when you transit to work will be gone. Why? To help the wealthy.

While Americans and middle-class taxpayers watch their taxes go up, they will read about how Republicans repealed the estate tax, which benefits only 5,500 families whose estates are worth over $5 million. They will learn how, instead of keeping the estate tax or closing the egregious carried-interest loopholes, the Republicans reached into their pockets—the middle-class pockets—to pay for a big corporate tax break that has no guarantee and very little likelihood of producing jobs. They will learn that, while the reduction to the corporate tax rate is permanent, the increase in the child tax credit is temporary.

Big, wealthy corporations count far more than kids in this bill. Corporations get permanent benefits, and families with kids get temporary and meager ones.

The Tax Code is a reflection of fairness in our society. Do we want to be in a country where everyone pays their fair share, including big corporations and the very wealthy? I think so. I think most Americans agree with that. Yet right now, our Tax Code is slanted in favor of the rich and the powerful, and the Republican plan makes it only worse.

The Republican tax plan would put two thumbs down on a scale already tipped toward the wealthy and powerful. It wouldn’t create jobs. It wouldn’t raise wages. The Tax Policy Center, as we know, estimated that 80 percent of the benefits of the Republican plan go to the top 1 percent—this new bill doesn’t change that a bit—while nearly one-third of middle-class Americans would lose 80 percent of the benefits to the top of our country, 20 percent of the benefits to the other 99 percent. That is not a middle-class tax bill, as President Trump said it would be.

Surely, we can do better. If our colleagues—whether it be in the House or Senate, our Republican colleagues who are trying to go it alone—can’t pass this bill, we would welcome them. We would welcome an opportunity to sit down together and come up with a bill that really helps the middle class.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. COTTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TAX REFORM

Mr. COTTON. Mr. President, today is an important day on our promise to deliver tax relief for America’s working families and our businesses, to create more jobs and grow our economy faster. The House Ways and Means Committee is about to unveil their first draft of a tax cut bill. That is a good step forward after we both passed our budgets a couple of weeks ago.

As we move through this process, it is important that we all recognize that tax cuts are a way to let the American people and our businesses keep more of their money, not the government’s money but their money. We also have to be mindful of the impact it has on our staggering national debt of over $23 trillion and rising deficits. We can expect the economy to grow at a much healthier rate than it has in recent years if we pass a good tax bill. But we also need to look for other ways to offset the costs of those tax cuts to a degree.

There have been a lot of discussions during the year about what I would consider wise and painful changes to popular and widespread deductions, credits, exclusions, exemptions—they are popular and widespread. Some people call that the spinach, in addition to the ice cream of tax cuts.

However, I have what I would call maybe a more novel idea—one that I think is gaining momentum in the Senate and in the House. We can repeal the individual mandate of ObamaCare and save $300 to $400 billion for the Federal Government and therefore deliver to our families and our workers and our businesses. That is not my math. That is the math of the Congressional Budget Office. They have said repeatedly that eliminating the individual mandate of ObamaCare would save $300 to $400 billion. That is a lot of tax cuts.

The individual mandate has also been the most unpopular part of ObamaCare. More than two-thirds of Americans want to see it repealed. The House has voted to repeal it. The Senate, however, has not yet voted to repeal it. Even some Democrats have said that they want to repeal the individual mandate as well. It is the first time in our country’s history, after all, that the Federal Government has said: You must buy the insurance that ObamaCare made unaffordable. The $300 to $400 billion saved by repealing the individual mandate of ObamaCare would allow us to make more of those tax cuts permanent so that our families and our businesses can have greater predictability to save and invest and grow our economy.

It is also a kind of tax cut for working-class Americans in its own right. According to IRS data, more than five out of six households that paid the mandate fine last year made less than the median income, and they were in the bottom half of income earners.

So what are we doing? We are imposing a fine on the working class and working poor because they can’t afford the insurance that ObamaCare made unaffordable in the first place. That is crazy.

We can do this in a way that makes it easier to pass a tax bill. I know some of my colleagues around here, especially my Republican colleagues, say: Oh, no. We can’t go back to healthcare. It is going to make the tax bill a little harder to pass. That is nonsense. It makes the tax bill easier to pass—easier to pass because it helps improve the fiscal picture balance, and it helps deliver more tax cuts to our families and our businesses back home.

Some of my Democratic colleagues, drawing on that same estimate from the Congressional Budget Office, will say: You are going to take healthcare away from 15 million people. That is nonsense. This bill doesn’t cut a single dime out of ObamaCare, not even one penny, not one penny taken out of Medicaid, not one penny. It is going to make the subsidies from the exchanges, not a single regulation change. It simply says that the IRS will not fine you if you cannot afford the insurance that ObamaCare made unaffordable.

The $300 to $400 billion saved by repealing the individual mandate of ObamaCare would allow us to make more of those tax cuts permanent so that our families and our businesses can have greater predictability to save and invest and grow our economy.

In 2012, the Supreme Court upheld its constitutionality saying that it was a tax. The IRS collects it. You pay it on your 1040. That is about the “taxiest” provision I can think of.

Let’s make a commonsense decision, even if it is a little late in the game. Repeal the individual mandate. Pay for more tax cuts for families and businesses. Make a tax bill easier to pass. Do what the people of America want, and give the American people to repeal the most unpopular part of ObamaCare and have a very big victory for the American people.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.
The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. FLAKE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. FLAKE. Mr. President, we currently have the highest Federal corporate tax rate in the developed world. Businesses are moving from here overseas to seek a friendlier tax environment.

If we are going to compete globally—and we are in a global economy—we have to have a conducive tax and regulatory environment to do so. We don't have a conducive tax environment now. We cannot compete globally with the highest corporate tax rate in the developed world.

We also have a tax code that is far too complicated. Taxpayers and millions of individuals to get away with paying no income tax or no corporate tax. After over 30 years, I am pleased to see Congress finally getting down to the work of doing a tax overhaul. A few weeks ago, we passed a budget that allows some cuts—about $1.5 trillion. I believe if we do cut certain taxes, it does generate a greater economic activity, which does in turn mean additional revenue to government. However, there are limits to that model. We cannot simply assume we can cut all taxes and realize additional corporate tax. It is important that tax reform come as well.

We have been hearing a lot about cuts, cuts, cuts. If we are going to do cuts, cuts, cuts, we have to do a wholesale reform. With the national debt exceeding $20 trillion, we have to take this seriously. Rate reductions have to be accompanied by repeal or reform. We cannot simply rely on rosy economic assumptions, rosy growth rates to fill in the gap. We have to make tough decisions. We cannot have cuts today that assume we will grow a backbone in the out-years in terms of the real reforms we are going to need. We have seen this before. We make the cuts now; we rely on rosy economic assumptions; and then, in the out-years, if those don't come about, we forget what we were supposed to do in terms of reform. We can't do that today, not with a debt of $20 trillion, not with a deficit of over $800 billion a year adding to that total debt.

I welcome this opportunity to do tax reform. It is needed. As I mentioned, we have to have a conducive tax and regulatory environment in order to compete but we have to be realistic as well about what we can achieve, and we can't push off the reforms for cuts today.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll. Mr. COLLINS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SULLIVAN). Without objection, it is so ordered.

SAVE ACT

Mr. COLLINS. Mr. President, today I rise with my colleague from New Mexico, Senator HERNICH, to discuss the Securing America’s Voting Equipment Act of 2017, or the SAVE Act, which we introduced earlier this week.

I know that you are well aware that the Senate Intelligence Committee has been conducting an in-depth investigation into attempts by the Russians to interfere with our elections last fall. What we have found is that the Russians' activities preceded last fall, and they continue to this very day.

We have an election coming up in November of this year and a major election next year, and both Senator HERNICH and I believe it is so important that we act to assist States in protecting the integrity of their voting systems.

Our bill seeks to facilitate information sharing of the threats posed to State election systems by foreign adversaries, to provide guidance to States on how to protect their systems against nefarious activity, and, for States that choose to do so, to allow them to access some Federal grant money to implement best practices to protect their systems.

Let me be clear that I know of no evidence to date that actual vote tabulations were manipulated in any State in the elections last fall. Nevertheless, as early as the summer of 2016, the FBI discovered that foreign-based hackers had gained access to voter registration databases in two States. The Department of Homeland Security confirmed that Russia-linked actors attempted to access voter rolls and registration data in those two States.

More alarming is that further investigation revealed that many more States than just two were ultimately found to have had their voting systems probed by the Russians. The Department of Homeland Security notified election officials in a total of 21 States that their election systems had been targeted by Russian Government-linked hackers.

If voter rolls were altered or voting equipment tampered with, a compromise of these systems could open the door to voter disenfranchisement and would undermine public confidence and the integrity of our free and fair elections—a bedrock principle of our democratic system.

In response to these alarming threats, the SAVE Act would assist States in hardening their systems. It does not aim to tell States how to conduct their elections. The responsibility for conducting elections would remain with each State, as has been our country's tradition since its founding. State and local election officials alone, however, cannot be expected to defend against cyber attacks from foreign adversaries. That is why our bill seeks to bring to bear the unique authorities, capabilities, and resources that the Federal Government can offer to State and local election officials.

Let me briefly describe the Heinrich-Collins bill.

First, our bill would codify a decision made by both Secretaries of Homeland Security, Jeh Johnson and John Kelly, to designate election systems as "critical infrastructure." This designation allows DHS to prioritize providing assistance to election jurisdictions and to establish formal mechanisms to enhance information sharing and collaboration within the sector.

More than 30 States took advantage of DHS's offer of assistance last year.

Our bill also addresses a shortcoming that I raised during a hearing before the Senate Intelligence Committee in June regarding foreign efforts to compromise American voting systems. During this hearing, we learned that not a single secretary of state had been cleared to receive classified information before the 2016 election or in the 6 months since voting systems had been declared as critical infrastructure. This delay is truly inexplicable. We have to be able to share this critical information in order for State election officials to take the necessary steps to safeguard their systems.

Our bill addresses this limitation on information sharing by authorizing the Director of National Intelligence to designate chief election officials in each State. That way, the intelligence community can share appropriate classified information with States regarding foreign threats targeting election systems.

Our bill also mandates that DHS conduct a threat assessment on physical and electronic risks to voting systems. Then, in collaboration with stakeholders, the Department will develop best practices to address those risks.

A few simple measures can make a big difference. Best practices like relying upon paper ballots, as the State of Maine currently does, and conducting random audits to ensure the tabulation by vote-counting machines matches the results of the paper ballots can bolster both resilience and public confidence in the integrity of the voting process.

Our bill also creates a Federal grant program available for States to upgrade and safeguard the integrity of their systems by implementing the best practices that have been identified.

Last year, the Russian Government sought to disrupt our democracy by threatening the integrity of our elections. It is incumbent upon Congress to assisting the States and those charged with conducting elections at the local, State, and Federal level to protect them from foreign interference. Our bill would do just that.

I am very pleased to work with the leading senators, Senator HEINRICH, and I would urge all of our colleagues to join Senator HEINRICH and me in sponsoring this bill.

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. HEINRICH. Mr. President, I want to start by thanking my Republican colleague from Maine, Senator SUSAN COLLINS, for her work on this legislation. In addition to her excellent work on the Intelligence Committee, her experience in homeland security and critical infrastructure was absolutely critical to the drafting of this legislation.

As current members of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, we are working on the investigation into Russian interference in the 2016 Presidential election. Yesterday, our committee held an important open hearing where we had representatives from companies such as Facebook, Google, and Twitter. We know that Russian-backed bad actors purchased online advertisements last year in order to influence voters and, frankly, in order to divide Americans. Additionally, Russia used bots and trolls to spread misinformation and division organically through social media networks.

While the President has labeled reports of these ads as a “hoax,” now that Facebook has actually released many of those ads and acknowledged their extensive reach last year, I hope we can all agree that this is a problem which we must solve before future election cycles.

I have called on the Federal Election Commission to consider new guidance on how online advertisement platforms can better prevent foreign nationals from illicitly spending in future U.S. elections. I certainly support legislation to require the same transparency for online political ads that we currently enjoy for television or print or radio ads. These are simple, straightforward steps we can and must take to protect the sanctity of our democracy.

I also know, based on intelligence assessments, that as part of Russia’s larger effort to interfere in last year’s election, Russian actors targeted State election voting centers and State-level voting registration data bases—the very heart of the infrastructure we all rely on for fair and free elections. In my view, these intrusions demonstrate a troubling vulnerability to potential future cyber attacks and manipulations by foreign hackers of our elections and our democratic processes.

Our democracy fundamentally hinges on protecting the rights of Americans to be able to fairly choose their own leaders. That is why I am proud to be partnering with Senator COLLINS in introducing the bipartisan Securing America’s Voting Equipment Act, or the SAVE Act, to provide increased security for American election systems. I am proud to join Senator COLLINS on the floor today to demonstrate our commitment to being able to move forward in a pragmatic way to find solutions to protect the integrity of that voting process.

Our bipartisan legislation would permanently designate State-run election systems as “critical infrastructure,” and it would require the Department of Homeland Security to create a Federal grant program to help States upgrade the physical, electronic, and even the administrative components of their voting systems and develop those best practices that Senator COLLINS mentioned in her speech earlier. The SAVE Act would also require the Director of National Intelligence to sponsor security clearances to the officials responsible for the administration and certification of elections in each State—usually our secretaries of state. The Director of National Intelligence would then share all appropriate classified information with those State officials to help them protect their election systems from these kinds of security threats.

Finally, the SAVE Act would create a Federal competition that would award computer programmers who discover vulnerabilities in nonactive voting systems so that the equipment and the software vendors can work to fix those vulnerabilities.

The SAVE Act does not aim to tell States how to conduct their elections or what policies or procedures or equipment is best where they are; rather, this bill is designed to facilitate information sharing with States, to provide guidelines on how best to secure those systems, and to allow States to access funds to develop solutions and implement best practices in response to these threats.

I consulted closely with my own Secretary of State from New Mexico, Secretary of State Maggie Toulouse Oliver, in drafting this legislation to ensure that it provides the security measures State election officials need to keep our voting systems secure. I commend Secretary Toulouse Oliver for her tremendous leadership in the effort to safeguard election infrastructure at the State level.

We are at a critical juncture in the Russia investigation in which the public is beginning to see the practical evidence of how the Kremlin sought to influence our elections and divide our populace. Until we set up stronger protections of our election systems and take the necessary steps to prevent future foreign influence campaigns, our Nation’s democratic institutions will remain vulnerable. But we have the tools to fix those vulnerabilities. I look forward to working with Senator COLLINS and all of our colleagues on both sides of the aisle to ensure that we do that.

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. GARDNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I be allowed to complete my remarks prior to the vote.

Mr. GARDNER. Mr. President, I will be brief in my remarks. We are about to vote on the confirmation of Allison Eid to become a judge on the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit, which is housed in Denver, CO. I have had the privilege and honor of knowing Justice Eid for over a decade. Justice Eid now serves on the Colorado Supreme Court. I have known Justice Eid since the time I was a young law student, 6 foot 4 with black hair. That is how long I have known Justice Eid. I am very honored to have worked with her.

I know that a lot of my classmates who had her as a professor are people who shared political perspectives that were far different from Justice Eid’s, but she never criticized her teaching. They always found her to be open-minded and open to debate of other’s views.

Most importantly, what Justice Eid will do, once confirmed to the Tenth Circuit Court, is to make sure that she rules based on the law, not on personal opinion or preferences but how the law dictates. That is the kind of judge she will be and continues to be, from the supreme court to the circuit court. She will be somebody who is a guardian of the Constitution, as our Founders were hoping we would see on our Federal courts when they wrote the Constitution.

I have a letter that I ask unanimous consent be printed in the Record. It is from the National Native American Bar Association in support of Ms. Eid’s nomination.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Such experiences are rare among nominees to the federal bench and consequently, many in Indian Country strongly support Justice Eid’s confirmation.

The American Bar Association’s mission is to advance justice for Native Americans. As our name implies, NNABA’s interests or positions relate to Indian law and policy matters, as well as significant respect for tribes as governments.

EXECUTIVE CALENDAR

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

TAX REFORM

Mr. TOOMEY. Madam President, I rise to speak about the nomination of Professor Stephanos Bibas, on whom we have just invoked cloture, but before I do that, I want to take a quick moment to observe that we had a big development today—a big development in that the House of Representatives, the majority Ways and Means Committee members, led by Kevin Brady and Speaker of the House Paul Ryan, have unveiled a tax reform plan that is a very exciting step forward in our ambition to bring tax relief and is a direct pay raise to hard-working Americans whom we represent, creating an environment that has much stronger economic growth and much more opportunity and rising wages for the American people.

So I congratulate Chairman Brady and all the members of the Ways and Means Committee. I know this process has a long way to go, but they are off to a great start with a very solid bill. I look forward to continuing to work with my colleagues on the Finance Committee as we finalize our version of the pro-middle-class, pro-growth tax reform, and I am excited to see that step forward.

Madam President, let me get back to the issue of the candidacy of Professor Stephanos Bibas and say how enthusiastically I support his candidacy to serve as a judge on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit.

I thank the President for nominating Professor Bibas. I thank Chairman Grassley for moving Professor Bibas through the nomination process of his committee, and I thank Leader McConnell for bringing Professor Bibas’s nomination to the floor. I also thank my colleagues who just voted to invoke cloture so that later today we can vote to confirm this terrifically well-qualified man to a really important court.

Let me touch on some of his qualifications. Professor Bibas has a tremendous wealth of experience in the law as a legal scholar and a practicing attorney, so much so that the American Bar Association voted to give him a unanimous rating of “well-qualified,” and let me tell you why. No. 1, he starts with outstanding academic credentials. Professor Bibas graduated summa cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa from Columbia University, and he did so at the age of 19. After Columbia, he studied at Oxford University in England and earned his law degree from Yale University.

He has clerked at the highest levels of our Federal court system. He clerked for U.S. Supreme Court Justice Anthony Kennedy and Judge Patrick Higginbotham on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit.

The fact is, Professor Bibas is an accomplished legal scholar. For 16 years, he has served as law professor at two outstanding universities—the University of Iowa College of Law and the University of Pennsylvania School of Law. Professor Bibas has been a prolific author whose academic writings are frequently cited by the U.S. Supreme Court, courts of appeals, and other law professors. He has written two books and more than 60 articles, most of which have appeared on criminal law and procedures. In fact, in his writings, he has expressed views regarding criminal justice reform that I suspect many of my Democratic colleagues would share. For instance, Professor Bibas has criticized what he sees as the overuse of plea bargains in our courts as being unfair to criminal defendants who then never get their day in court.

So there is no question that Professor Bibas has wonderful academic credentials, but he is also an experienced attorney. He has served on both sides of our criminal justice system. He has been a prosecutor, and he...
Unfortunately, many liberals and progressives have a very different view of a judge. Many of my colleagues and others believe the Constitution is a living document, by which they mean that it really means whatever a judge decides it means. Under this view, changes to the Constitution can be made by unelected, unaccountable judges who then substitute their policy preference for the preference of the American people as reflected in their elected representatives. Some who do this believe judges should take into account such factors as a person’s race, sex, wealth, or political affiliation in deciding cases. In my view, that is a directly flawed view of the law and is fundamentally inconsistent with the principles of the separation of powers that is essential to our democracy, the sovereignty of the American people, and the fair and equal application of the law to all people. Contrary to this view, Professor Bibas understands the proper role of a judge is to apply the law as written and to treat everyone who comes before him equally, not to impose his policy preferences or impose the law differently for different people.

Finally, let me say a word about Professor Bibas’s temperament and suitability for the bench. I think it is very clear that not only does he understand the role a judge is supposed to play, but he is a man of character and of a temperament that makes him very fit to be a judge of that example. In one letter of support for his nomination, a bipartisan group of 121 law professors from across the ideological spectrum stated that “his fairness, objectivity, and personal integrity are beyond question.”

In another quote, “We have no doubt that his judicial temperament will reflect these qualities and that he will faithfully discharge his duty to apply the law fairly and unhandedly in all matters before him.”

I am very pleased and proud to support Professor Bibas’s nomination to the Third Circuit. I am completely confident he has the intellect, experience, temperament, and respect for the limited role of a judge in our system, those attributes that are necessary for him to excel as a Federal appellate judge, and I am pleased to speak on behalf of this highly qualified nominee. I urge all of my colleagues to support his confirmation.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that notwithstanding rule XXII, all post cloture time on the Bibas nomination expire at 1:45 p.m. today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SASSE). Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Maryland.

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. Mr. President, I see my friend and colleague from Pennsylvania on the floor. We have worked together on a number of things over the years, including now, working together to impose and really enforce sanctions against North Korea, putting together a bill modeled after the Iran sanctions bill so we are serious about working to get China and others to come to the table. I thank my colleague for his work on that.

We also do not disagree on the bill that has emerged from the House of Representatives, the so-called tax reform bill. The Senator from Pennsylvania said people should be excited to see it through. The President says if you are a millionaire or billionaire, you are going to be really excited about the bill that is coming out of the House and supported by President Trump.

I want to talk a little bit about tax reform because we need tax reform in America. We need to simplify our Tax Code. It has been gummed up over many years with special tax breaks that are there not because they make good sense for the American people but because somebody was able to hire a high-priced lobbyist from Washington to break the rest of the country does not enjoy. We need to simplify our Tax Code, and we need to reform our Tax Code.

Unfortunately, what we are seeing come from Republicans today, supported by the Trump administration, doesn’t do that. In fact, what it will do is provide full-time employment for tax accountants around the country because it creates all sorts of special provisions for powerful interests. It will dramatically cut taxes for big multinational corporations and for millionaires and billionaires, and everybody else is going to be left to pick up the bill in one way or another.

Now we know why this has been cooked up behind closed doors for so long. People knew it would have a lot of turbulence when it emerged. Second, we know why there is such a desperate effort to ram this huge tax package through the House and the Senate—because people don’t want the American people to figure out exactly what is in it because when they do, they are going to see it is bad for everybody but the folks who are at the very top or who are very powerful.

The good news is that people have scrambled to begin to look at this. In fact, certain groups like Realtors—we all have Realtors in all our neighborhoods. They are often very connected to the community. They are exactly what is going on. So they have been monitoring this Republican tax plan and raising concerns about it. In fact, they said just a few days ago that because there was this effort “to speed tax legislation through the House by Thanksgiving and get it to the Senate by the end of the year, ‘we didn’t feel like we could wait,’” said the representatives from the National Association of Realtors.

They began to do an analysis of the impact, and here is what they had to say today when they caught a glimpse of what was actually in the Republican Trump bill. They said that they are reviewing the details, but at first glance it appears to “confirm many of our biggest concerns” about the plan. “Eliminating or nullifying the tax incentives for homeownership puts home values and middle class homeowners at risk.”

We will be hearing more from them, but they commissioned a study that was done by PricewaterhouseCoopers, which concluded that if you have adjusted gross income between $50,000 and $200,000 and you are a homeowner, on average going to see your taxes go up. They also concluded that home values around the country would fall by 10 percent—not sure when they would begin to recover, but they would fall by 10 percent. Home values would go down, and taxes for middle-class homeowners would go up.

Homebuilders, who are a really important part of our economy, are already against this strongly. They have made it clear that this would hurt new home buyers all across the country, which, as we know, is an important driver in our economy.

Even NFIB, the National Federation of Independent Business, took a look at the bill and said: “[It] leaves too many small businesses behind.” I will tell you exactly who this helps. This helps big, multinational corporations. When you drop the tax rate to 20 percent, they get a $2 trillion tax windfall. I would be happy to talk to my colleagues about corporate tax reform that doesn’t blow up the deficit, but this proposal is a $2 trillion giveaway to big, multinational corporations under the theory that somehow, when you give a big tax break to a multinational corporation, it is actually going to increase the wages of their workers. Well, we know that just isn’t so. We know it from independent analysts.

The nonpartisan, professional Congressional Research Service has looked at the claims of the proponents of this bill and said: No, this isn’t going to be a big boost to workers; it is going to be a big boost to the owners of the corporations.

If you don’t like nonpartisan analysis—and you know we have a new whole machinery of fake news around here and around this country—why don’t we listen to the CEOs themselves? Here is what Reuters reported in a huge story about corporate tax reform that doesn’t blow up the deficit, but this proposal is a $2 trillion giveaway to big, multinational corporations under the theory that somehow, when you give a big tax break to a multinational corporation, it is actually going to increase the wages of their workers. Well, we know that just isn’t so. We know it from independent analysts.

That nonpartisan, professional Congressional Research Service has looked at the claims of the proponents of this bill and said: No, this isn’t going to be a big boost to workers; it is going to be a big boost to the owners of the corporations.

Do you know how we know that? We have already told you. In the budget that passed this Senate and the House, they called for cutting Medicare by almost $500 billion—$473 billion to be exact—cutting Medicaid by a trillion dollars, cutting education investments very deeply, cutting our investments in national infrastructure. So we know that once they blow up the debt by another $1.5 trillion, they are going to come right back and say to seniors on Medicare or Americans who rely on Medicaid or our kids whose education we want to invest in. So, now, we have that national debt we just created. Let’s come back and cut everything else.

I really hope that everyone will take a step back. We should not rush through something that will do great damage to the country and great damage to the middle class just because of someone’s political imperative to get something—anything—done. The reality is that while we do need tax reform, we don’t want to make things up even worse than they are today.

I would welcome the opportunity to work on a bipartisan basis for genuine
Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have列入 the Record following my remarks.

In the first 5 years of the Obama administration, Republicans forced Obama’s district court nominees to wait nearly three times as long and circuit court nominees nearly twice as long as Bush nominees for confirmation votes. During the final 2 years of his Presidency, Senate Republicans engaged in a historic blockade of judicial nominees.

It wasn’t just the unprecedented decision to block Chief Judge Merrick Garland for the Supreme Court.

During the final 2 years of President Obama’s administration, only 22 judicial nominees were confirmed—and just nine in the final year.

That is the lowest number of judges confirmed in a 2-year Congress since President Truman was in office. Contrast this with the last 2 years of the Bush administration—just 19 Democrats were in the Senate majority and still confirmed 88 of his nominees.

In the last 2 years under President Obama, there were 53 article III judicial nominees pending at the end of 2016. That is 53 nominees who Republicans either refused to hold hearings on or refused to confirm once they were on the floor.

In fact, of those 53 nominees, 25 had been voted out of committee and were waiting for confirmation on the Senate floor. All they needed was for the Republican leadership to bring them up for a floor vote.

Twenty-three of those 25 nominees had been unanimously voice-voted out of committee with overwhelming bipartisan support. Still, Republicans refused to confirm them.

Many colleagues and I have spent some time noting that three of the circuit court nominees we are considering this week are women. I would like to note that half of the nominees Republicans blocked from becoming circuit and district court judges last year were women.

Here is the point: Republican leadership wanted those seats, including the Supreme Court, left open in the hopes that a Republican would be elected President and pick new judges. They ignored the needs of country and the judiciary for their own political wants.

Two of the nominees we are considering this week—Amy Coney Barrett and John Bush—would have been seats that President Obama had nominated African-American women to. Neither were confirmed because Republican home-state senators didn’t return blue slips. That is a fact.

Judge John Bush, who now sits on the Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit, was likewise confirmed only because Leader McConnell refused to return a blue slip on a well-qualified woman, Kentucky Supreme Court Justice Lisabeth Tabor Hughes, whom President Obama had nominated last year.

Republicans exploited the blue slip process during the Obama Presidency, but today we hear constant rumors that Republicans want to do away with the process—another tool allowing Democrats to hold hearings to ram through more judges.

It is worth noting that, even though Democrats had sincere, legitimate concerns about the writings of John Bush—which included him equating slavery and abortion—his nomination was rushed through by Leader McConnell.

John Bush was confirmed just 73 days after he was nominated. In fact, President Trump’s first four circuit court nominees waited just 84 days, on average, from nomination until confirmation. By contrast President Obama's first four circuit court nominees waited an average of 213 days. That is nearly three times longer.

The hypocrisy we are seeing on display is stunning. With that in mind, I want to say a few words about the nominees themselves.

Our Nation's appellate courts are the final deciders of the vast majority of cases, so a nominee's experience matters a great deal to me. However, the first nominee we voted on, Professor Amy Barrett, who has now been confirmed to the Seventh Circuit, had very limited experience.

She did not have any experience as a judge, and she only worked on one trial before becoming a professor.

Practically speaking, this meant the only record on which we could judge her was her academic writings. In those writings, I was especially troubled by her position that Supreme Court precedents can simply be set aside when a Justice disagrees with them.

The National Women's Law Center wrote that these writings "raise serious concerns" about how Professor Barrett, if confirmed, "would interpret, apply, and follow precedent, including Supreme Court precedent." In fact, they point out that Professor Barrett's "prior writings consistently suggest that she believes precedents like Roe and Casey should be considered weaker and are susceptible to challenge. . . ."

That is why I was unable to support Professor Barrett's nomination.

The second nominee we voted on was Justice Joan Larsen for the Sixth Circuit. Justice Larsen, who currently serves on the Michigan Supreme Court, has deeply troubling views on Presidential powers.

In fact, she advocated for the Bush administration's view that the President had the authority to disregard a law that Congress had just passed, which prohibited the U.S. Government from using torture.

It is no surprise that President Trump, who has shown contempt for the other coequal branches of government, nominated Justice Larsen. Her views are undoubtedly part of why the President included Justice Larsen on his short list of Supreme Court nominees last year.

President Trump repeatedly made clear that he was only considering nominees for the Supreme Court who passed his litmus tests, including to overturn Roe v. Wade. Recall President Trump's interview with "60 Minutes" immediately after he won the election.

He said, "I'm pro-life. And the judges are going to be pro-life." He added that his judges were going to be "very pro-Second Amendment."

We heard from 30 groups who were concerned about Justice Larsen's nomination, and several highlighted the danger of this litmus test.

As Lambda Legal wrote, "A decision by this Committee to advance her nomination will be rightfully understood as not only a threat to Roe but also to the LGBT cases that were built upon Roe's foundation."

I opposed Justice Larsen's nomination.

The third nominee we are considering is Justice Allison Eid for the Tenth Circuit. She was also included on President Trump's short list of Supreme Court nominees last year.

Since 2006, Justice Eid has served on the Colorado Supreme Court. A review of her opinions shows why the Denver Post wrote in September before her hearing: "On the state's high court, Eid has earned a reputation as one of its most conservative members." Here are just a couple of examples.

In 2014, the Colorado Supreme Court held that a worker who fell down a flight of stairs at her workplace and suffered multiple aneurysms as a result deserved to be compensated under the State's workplace compensation law. Justice Eid dissented, arguing that the employee did not deserve any compensation for her injuries, in City of Brighton v. Rodriguez.

In 2012, Justice Eid was the lone dissenting judge when the Colorado Supreme Court upheld a new redistricting map that was drawn to protect residents' constitutional right under the "one person, one vote" standard. The old map had unequal populations and was redone with the extensive work of a trial court.

On appeal, Justice Eid was the only dissenting judge, and she argued to throw out the trial court's work because she believed it had not given "adequate weight" to one entirely optional factor.

Justice Eid's record has also led a number of organizations to oppose her nomination, including the AFL-CIO, the Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights—LCCR—and Planned Parenthood.

I opposed Justice Eid's nomination.

The final nominee we will vote on is Professor Stephanos Bibas for the Third Circuit. Like Professor Barrett, much of his legal career has been spent in academia, so our job in reviewing his record is to carefully consider his writings.

Professor Bibas's writings have focused on criminal law, and he has pushed forward controversial ideas about punishment. His most troubling proposals were set out in a paper he wrote in 2009.

In it, he argued that, for a wide variety of crimes, "the default punishment should be non-disfiguring corporal punishment, such as electric shocks."

Bibas also suggested "putting offenders in the stocks or pillory, where they would sit or stand for hours bent in uncomfortable positions. Bystanders and victims could jeer and pelt them with rotten eggs and tomatoes (but not rotten eggs)."

For more severe crimes, he advocated "multiple calibrated electroshocks or taser shots," with medical personnel on hand to ensure that "the offender's health could bear it."

These views are shocking and outside the mainstream. A few years before Professor Bibas wrote his article, this body had already debated and passed the Detainee Treatment Act in 2005, which prohibited "cruel and degrading" punishment of prisoners.

I appreciate that Professor Bibas testified to the Judiciary Committee that he now understands that his views on use of corporal punishment for prisoners are, in his words, "wrong and deeply offensive."

He came to this conclusion only after he repeatedly made public presentations on his paper, including one to a Federalist Society Chapter entitled, "Corporal Punishment: Not Imprisonment: The Shocking Case for Hurting Criminals."

I cannot support Professor Bibas's nomination and will vote no.

In closing, as my colleagues consider how they will vote on these and other nominees, I would urge them to consider the broader context in which we are considering this President's judicial nominees.

We have a President who has demonstrated contempt for the rule of law and for the independence of the federal judiciary. I am deeply concerned that this President expects the courts to just rubberstamp his policy preferences.

For every judicial nomination, we have to consider carefully the nominee's record and reflect on whether they can truly be fair, independent, and impartial—whether they will represent the law and the Constitution and for the independence of the federal judiciary. I am deeply concerned that this President expects the courts to just rubberstamp his policy preferences.

For every judicial nomination, we have to consider carefully the nominee's record and reflect on whether they can truly be fair, independent, and impartial—whether they will respect the rule of law. For these reasons and the records of the four nominees I have just discussed, I cannot support them.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the Record as follows:

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, we are about to vote on our fourth circuit court nominee this week, and I am glad to speak in support of the nomination of Professor Bibas to serve on the Third Circuit Court of Appeals. That court sits in Philadelphia. Professor Bibas is a highly qualified nominee. His background as a well-regarded legal scholar and Supreme Court advocate will serve him well as a judge on that circuit.

Additionally, Professor Bibas received a rare, unanimously "well qualified" rating from the American Bar Association. My Democratic colleagues on the Judiciary Committee have expressed to me that the ABA’s ratings are very important to their evaluation of nominees. Yet all of the Democratic members of the committee voted against Professor Bibas in the committee, despite his having received the highest rating possible. This is consistent with their votes against Professor Amy Barrett, Justice Joan Larsen and Justice Allison Eid, all of whom received “well qualified” ratings. It appears that my Democratic colleagues don’t actually treat the ABA’s ratings as particularly important when it comes right down to practice.

Professor Bibas is the son of a Greek immigrant who came to this country after surviving the Nazi occupation of Greece. He boasts impressive academic credentials. He graduated from Columbia University at the age of 18. He then received degrees from the University of Oxford and Yale Law School. After law school, Professor Bibas clerked for Judge Patrick Higginbotham of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit and then for Justice Anthony Kennedy of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Following these prestigious clerkships, Professor Bibas became an assistant U.S. attorney in the Southern District of New York. His experience as a prosecutor gave him a firsthand view of the problems and injustices in the American criminal justice system. He decided to pursue a career as an academic, focusing then on improving the criminal justice system for all involved.

Professor Bibas’s first stint as a professor was in my home State of Iowa at the University of Iowa College of Law. He taught criminal law and procedure there for 5 years. We were certainly lucky to have a professor of his caliber. Professor Bibas then took a position on the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania Law School, where he has been teaching since.
Professor Bibas has been prolific in his academic writings, publishing numerous articles on all aspects of criminal law. His academic work culminated in the publication of his book entitled "The Machinery of Criminal Justice." That book was published in 2012. In this book, Bibas makes a novel argument that the current model of bureaucratic "assembly line" justice and America's high incarceration rate. Much of his work is devoted to finding solutions to these problems. His articles and speeches often could have an impact on the law. In fact, Professor Bibas is one of the most cited law professors in judicial opinions. One study shows that he is the 15th most cited legal scholar by total judicial opinions, and he is the fifth most cited in the area of criminal law—not bad for a relatively young professor.

Professor Bibas has also had a positive impact on colleagues and students. The Judiciary Committee received a letter from professors throughout our country representing a diverse range of viewpoints. These professors support Professor Bibas's nomination, pointing to his—and this quote comes from the letter—"influential contributions to criminal law and procedure scholarship," as well as his "fair-mindedness, conscientiousness, and personal integrity."

Professor Bibas also received a letter in support of his nomination from many colleagues at the University of Pennsylvania. They stated that he has been "an outstanding scholar, teacher, and colleague" at Penn.

Professor Bibas also has extensive litigation experience. He is currently the director of the University of Pennsylvania Law School's Supreme Court Clinic. In this role, he and his students have represented numerous litigants who could not otherwise afford top-flight counsel. He has argued numerous cases before the Supreme Court and obtained a significant victory in the landmark case of Padilla v. Kentucky, which established a defendant's Sixth Amendment right to accurate information about deportation before pleading guilty.

One of our Supreme Court Justices, Ruth Bader Ginsburg, in a personal letter to Professor Bibas that the Judiciary Committee received, called him one of the "very best lawyers presenting cases to the Court." It is kind of nice to consider kind of a strict constructionist, that you get a letter like that from one of the more activist members of the Supreme Court.

Some of my Democratic colleagues criticized Professor Bibas during his confirmation hearing for two really isolated events in the long and illustrious career he has had.

First, Democrats criticized Professor Bibas for prosecuting a minor theft of only $7 when he was an assistant U.S. attorney. This case took place nearly 20 years ago. But it was Professor Bibas's supervisor who made the decision to charge the defendant and, of course, required an underlying by the name of Bibas to pursue the case even after it started to fall apart.

In his hearing, Professor Bibas readily acknowledged that the defendant should not have been prosecuted, and the professor stated this to our committee: I learned from that mistake, and as a scholar, I have dedicated my career to trying to diagnose and prevent the causes of such errors in the future—adequate Brady disclosure, new prosecutor syndrome, tunnel vision, jumping to conclusions, partisan mindsets. And I have testified before this committee on those very issues. And so I made a mistake. I apologized. I learned from it, and I have tried to improve the justice system going forward.

Some of my colleagues have also criticized Professor Bibas for a single article that he wrote but never published. This article endorsed limited forms of corporal punishment as an alternative to lengthy prison sentences. But Professor Bibas reconsidered this idea soon after completing the article. He concluded that it was a bad idea and did not publish it. He completely disavowed the position in his book published shortly thereafter.

When asked about corporal punishment at his hearing, Professor Bibas stated: It is wrong. It is not American. It is not something I advocate. I categorically reject it.

Additionally, Professor Bibas's position on corporal punishment was well-intended. He was motivated to address overly harsh and unproductively long prison sentences. As he said at his hearing, he wanted to offer an answer to the question, "Is there some way, any way, we can avoid the hugely destructive effect [of imprisonment] both on the prison population and on the families, the friends, the communities?"

In the time since Professor Bibas wrote the article, he has offered more creative solutions to the disruptions caused by lengthy prison sentences. As an example, instead of suffering through forced indolence, prisoners could work and develop work-related skills in anticipation of their release from prison.

Professor Bibas's scholarship, as I have stated and quoted from, is a testimony to his devotion to the rule of law and the notion of equal justice before the law. It is very clear that he cares very deeply about how the criminal justice system impacts defendants, victims, families, and entire communities. As you can very confidently that Professor Bibas will make an excellent judge on the Third Circuit Court of Appeals.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maryland.

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. President, President Trump will be leaving on a lengthy trip to Asia. He will be visiting Japan, the Republic of Korea, China, the Philippines, and Vietnam. In each of those countries, we expect that the No. 1 national security issue that will be talked about is North Korea.

North Korea's dangerous activities are certainly putting not only the region but the global community at risk. They have a nuclear capability. They currently have the ability to explode a nuclear device. They are working on delivery systems that could very well reach not just the region but the United States. They are violating international norms that have done dozens of tests this year alone, all in violation of those international commitments.

We have had a strong policy to try to isolate North Korea. The United States has led in the imposition of sanctions. We introduced this year and passed the Countering America's Adversaries Through Sanctions Act. It passed this body by a 98-to-2 vote. I notice the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is here, and he has not been one of the more vigorous enforcers of sanctions. We could do more. One of the points I hope the President will be talking about during his trip is robust and rigorous enforcement of the sanctions that are out there and that we want him to get more robust enforcement of sanctions. We could do more. One of the points I hope the President will be talking about during his trip is robust and rigorous enforcement of the sanctions that are out there and that we want him to get more robust enforcement of sanctions. We could do more.

We cannot lead with military intervention. The casualties could be astronomical. The technology to develop nuclear weapons would still remain. Our allies are certainly not in agreement with that policy. There is no congressional authority for the use of force.

A second alternative that is not acceptable is to just continue the current course. North Korea is developing a delivery system that will threaten not just the region but the global community at risk. They have a nuclear weapons capability, but also Guam and the United States. They will see an arms race if we do not effectively stop North Korea's nuclear program.

President Trump's statement, in my view, made the challenges even more dramatic. His "America first" statement to isolate America and make it more difficult for us to get the type of support we need. I think his reckless statements make it more likely rather than less likely that we will use a military option.

But what additional things can we do, and what should the President be promoting as he visits Asia? First, let me give you a few unacceptable alternatives.

We cannot lead with military intervention. The casualties could be astronomical. The technology to develop nuclear weapons would still remain. Our allies are certainly not in agreement with that policy. There is no congressional authority for the use of force.

A second alternative that is not acceptable is to just continue the current course. The nomination was confirmed. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. HELLER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that with respect to the Bibas nomination, the motion to reconsider be considered made and laid upon the table and the President be immediately notified of the Senate’s action.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. HELLER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to legislative session for a period of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The Senator from Nevada.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS AND TAX REFORM

Mr. HELLER. Mr. President, this week, we have the unique opportunity to move forward on promises we made to the American people last year, confirming judges and providing tax relief to hard-working Americans. The American people sent us to Congress to complete this critical work, and we must stop at nothing to do it. We have already taken significant steps to advance both of these goals. We are confirming 13 judges with 5 more this week, and passing a budget with instructions for tax reform.

There is still much more that we need to do, and I stand ready to stay here until that job is done. Most people can go home until their work is finished; I don’t think we should either. Imagine dropping your car off at the auto mechanic and, instead of staying to finish the job, they leave at 3 p.m. to go home because that is convenient for their schedule; yet you still have to pay them for a full day’s work. That is effectively what we have been doing here in Congress, and that needs to stop. We need to work as much as possible to ensure that the Federal judiciary is filled with judges that will uphold the Constitution and bring us closer to providing tax relief for the American people.

We need to have a fully occupied, fully functioning Federal judiciary to ensure that America’s constitutional rights are upheld. In almost 10 months, we have started to address the issue of judicial vacancies by confirming 13 judges, most notably Justice Gorsuch, who has already served as a strong, conservative voice on the Supreme Court. As a fellow westerner, I was proud to vote for such a qualified judge to serve in our Nation’s highest Court.

Beyond the vacancy we filled on the Supreme Court, there are vacancies on all levels of our Federal judiciary. We cannot forget the importance of every single court that makes up the Federal system. We must prioritize confirming judges to fill these openings, especially those deemed judicial emergencies. The fact that we have judicial emergencies is incredibly concerning and should be a wake-up call to all Senators, especially those who are slowing down this important process.

The President is continuing to send us well-qualified nominees, and Chairman GRASSLEY has done an excellent job of moving nominees through the committee process. I am especially encouraged that this week we are confirming five more judges, including four circuit court judges. This is the pace we need to keep. If that means working 24/7 to continue confirming these constitutionalists, you can count me in. Confirming Federal judges is a unique duty of the U.S. Senate, and we cannot allow obstructionism from the other side of the aisle to prevent us from filling vacancies throughout the country.

It is clear that when judges are brought to the floor for a vote by a healthy majority, the gridlock being caused is purely political. Because of this, leadership is having to file cloture on all of these judicial nominees, and some of my colleagues across the aisle... are just running the debate clock on these nominees instead of actually debating. We have what is known as a 1-hour rule in the Senate, and I think it is time to start enforcing it.

Members are entitled to their opinions, but in the deliberative body, we should debate nominees. But if you are going to debate a nominee, I think you actually need to come here and speak about them. You can’t just hide behind your desk and run the debate clock. If you have a problem with a nominee, then you should come to the floor and voice your concerns. If you are not willing to do this, then you shouldn’t hold this nominee hostage to an artificial clock. This is what is wrong in Washington. We should use debate time on a nominee to debate the nominee, and if there is no more debate, then we should vote on that nominee and move on to the next one.

The Constitution guarantees the right to a speedy trial. As the body that has the power to make that constitutional right possible, we have a critical responsibility, and we need to do whatever it takes to fulfill this duty. In order to deliver swift justice throughout the country, these seats need to be filled.

I am ready and willing to work day and night, weekends and holidays, to do what Nevadans sent me to Washington to do and to accomplish. As the leader mentioned last week, we should work through the week of Thanksgiving. Hard-working Americans don’t go home until their work is complete, and neither should we. That work also includes reforming our Tax Code, providing desperately needed relief to the middle class.

Today Chairman BRADY and the Ways and Means Committee released a draft of their tax bill, which is another enormous step forward in providing meaningful tax relief to Nevadans and other hard-working Americans across this country. Middle-class tax relief is particularly critical to the residents of my home State of Nevada. Whether it is the single mother from Gardnerville who doesn’t receive child support, works full time, and is simply trying to make ends meet or the entrepreneur in Elko who is fighting hard to get his small business off the ground and wondering whether he will ever catch a break and be able to afford his first employee, I continue to hear from diligent Nevadans and small business owners who are struggling to cover their expenses and get ahead in life.

For too many people, the American dream—previously achievable through hard work, sheer determination, and playing by the rules—feels as though it is slipping away. That is in part because, for too long, Nevadans and Americans across this country have faced stagnant wages and slow economic growth.

Under the failed economic policies of the previous administration, we have suffered through 8 years of historically low economic growth. In fact, in those 8 years, we didn’t have a single year in which the economy grew by 3 percent. As a result, wages and workers suffered. As a result, job creation suffered. And as a result, middle-class Americans like you and your neighbors suffered.

We still bear the scars of the Obama-era economic policies today. Median household incomes in Nevada are $7,000 to $10,000 lower today than they were 8 years ago. Nevada families are more likely to be living paycheck to paycheck than families living in nearly every other State. It is fair to say—in Nevada at least—the recession has never really ended. This situation is unacceptable. I am doing everything in my power to right the economic wrongs that have been committed by the previous administration.

Under the leadership of the new administration, and third, boost Americans' competitiveness worldwide.

What does tax relief mean to you, the average American who works hard and is trying to provide a better life for his or her children and save for a secure retirement? It means that for the second quarter in a row, the economy had grown by at least 3 percent. This growth occurred despite hurricanes that destroyed the homes and businesses of our good friends and colleagues in Texas and in Florida. Despite these natural disasters, if 3 percent economic growth is possible under the leadership of President Trump and a unified Republican government, just think about how much more we can add to this growth by passing comprehensive tax reform.

As a member of that tax writing committee, I have been working with my colleagues to craft a tax package that accomplishes three major goals: First, create more jobs; second, increase wages; and third, boost Americans' competitiveness worldwide.

Let’s back up. We in this body have taken an oath to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States. Considering judicial nominees who have lifetime appointments is the most important thing this Senate will do over the weeks ahead. It demands the full attention of every single Member—Republican, Democrat, and Independent. This ought to be an opportunity for this body to pause and stand back from the frenzy of day-to-day media cycles and cable news shouting and recommit ourselves to basic American civics and some very basic American ideas: the idea that our three branches of government have three separate roles; the idea that we in the article 1 branch, the lawmakers, make the laws because we stand before the people and can be hired and fired—if the people are going to be in charge of our system, they need to be able to fire the people who make the laws—the idea that judges are explicitly not to make law; the idea that judges do not have R and D, Republican and Democrat, behind their names but rather that judges should be dispassionately ruling on the law and the facts; and the idea that all of us, together, are attempting to outsource our constitutional duties to an outside organization. That organization, the American Bar Association, purports to be a neutral arbiter but is frankly twisting its ratings process to drive a political agenda in an important nomination pending before this body. I am referring specifically to the smear campaign of the ABA against Steve Grasz, a qualified public servant, who has been nominated by the President to the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Steve Grasz has decades of honorable service in Nebraska, including more than a decade as the chief deputy attorney general of my State. Mr. Grasz, in my judgment, qualifies for the circuit court bench as has been testified to by Republicans and Democrats across our State.

Let’s set the scene first for the ABA’s silly decision earlier this week to announce that they regard Steve Grasz as “not qualified.” I will highlight three specific items.

First, we should discuss the two people who interviewed Mr. Grasz and recognized that unfortunately they are blatan tart partisans with a sad track record of hackery.

Second, the ABA is trying to paint Mr. Grasz as an extremist simply because he did his job as the chief deputy attorney general of Nebraska and defended the law of our State of Nebraska, defended the law of our State, Mr. Grasz did the job of the chief deputy attorney general of the State of Nebraska. That is not news. It is no secret that the vast majority of Nebraskans are pro-life, and thus it is no surprise that our State’s laws reflect the people’s will. In the 1996s, when Nebraska outlawed the most horrifying of all abortion procedures—the partial birth abortion. Unless anyone seeks comfort behind empty euphemisms like “choice,” let’s be very clear what the people of Nebraska were outlawing. The people of my State did not want a gruesome and grotesque practice where a doctor partially delivers an unborn baby and, while that baby girl’s head is the only thing still in the mother’s womb, the doctor would then collapse the baby’s skull. If they’d chosen in this body who believes that is a good and a moral act, that it is a good and a moral thing to deliver that baby girl, and then moments before her complete and full entry into the world, to vacuum out her brains, please come to the floor because few people believe that is a good or a moral or a just act—or at least few would admit it openly.

In fact, that is why, just a few years later, Federal law followed Nebraska’s law on partial birth abortion, but in the 1990s, when Nebraska first outlawed that partial birth abortion procedure, many pro-abortion advocates broughtSuit and Steve, as chief deputy attorney general of Ne braska, defended the law of our State, which again is now the Federal law. He defended that law because it was his job. He defended the law because that is what the people of Nebraska wanted when they said this unspeakably barbaric procedure violated their State and now, thankfully, has no place in our Nation. Anyone who would paint Steve as an extremist needs to take a long, hard, and honest look at what he did as chief deputy attorney general of Nebraska defending the laws of the State of Nebraska.

Third, I know the ABA has an august-sounding name, but here is the reality of the kinds of stuff they did in their interview with Mr. Grasz. They asked him: What kind of schools do you send your kids to? I don’t really understand the connection to their legal interview. When they found out his kids attended a religious institution, they asked him why his kids would go to a religious institution. Well, it turns out, in my State, lots and lots of Lutherans and Catholics and lots of non-Lutherans and Catholics send their kids to Lutheran and Catholic schools. I don’t know what that has to do with his qualifications to sit as an objective judge on a court of appeals, and yet the interviewers decided they should go there.

Then they began to refer to Mr. Grasz repeatedly in the interview as “you people.” They would frame questions to him and ask about “you people.” At one point, he finally paused and asked: Can you tell me who “you people” are? Because at this point, he didn’t know if it was pro-life people, people who send their kids to religious schools, maybe just Nebraskans. They informed him they were using the term “you people” to mean conservatives or Republicans.

Third, in the course of their time with Mr. Grasz, their interview went from actual legal questions to just asking more and more about his pro-life views, again that has nothing to do with the distinction between sitting on the bench as someone who applies facts and law and someone who, in a private capacity or in his public capacity, as the chief deputy attorney general of Nebraska had been defending the laws of the State of Nebraska.

Ed Whelan is the president of the Ethics and Public Policy Center and is a legal and jurisprudential expert. He has been covering this and their judgment on Mr. Grasz this week closely, and so I would like to read a few of his comments into the RECORD.

The ABA contends that Grass is not suffi ciently able “to differentiate between the roles” of advocate and adjudicator.

As its first example, the ABA contends that there is an inconsistency between Grass’s stated respect for stare decisis (that is, the importance of binding precedents) as he expressed in a 1999 law-review article (and that it says he continues to adhere to). Selectively quoting that article, the ABA failed to mention for his supposed “suggestion” to question the jurisprudence of a superior court.” But in the law-review article that the ABA criticizes—

In that same article—

Grasz states [on pages] 27–28—\textbf{Read together, these sentences set forth an uncontroversial position. In order to create controversy, the ABA entirely omits the first sentence, and it then pretends that the second sentence, rather than setting forth a general proposition, is “referring to the Supreme Court’s rulings in Roe and Casey.” Yes, Grass applies that general proposition to the question whether Roe v. Wade and Planned Parenthood v. Casey speak to the legal status of “partially-born human beings.”} the reader think otherwise, he isn't contacting a special rule for abortion precedents.

Skipping ahead:

The ABA states that “members of the bar shared instances in which Mr. Grasz’s conduct was quite rude.” Amazingly, it doesn’t bother to give a simple example of rude conduct by Grasz, so its claim is [entirely] impossible to address.

Aside—

This is again quoting Whelan—

Aside: According to Larry Tribe, as Josh Blackman reminds us, Sonia Sotomayor had a “reputation for being something of a bully” when she was nominated to the Supreme Court. (Whelan, by the way, who uncovered and published Tribe’s letter to President Obama.)

The ABA alleges that “there was a certain amount of caginess, and, at times, a lack of disclosure [on Grasz’s part] with respect to some of the issues which the evaluators unearthed.” But once again it provides no specifics or illustrations, so it’s impossible to assess whether Grasz can be fairly faulted

And here pulling up from Whelan, I would mention that my senior Senator Deb Fischer and I from Nebraska, both of whom were advising President Trump on the selection of Steve Grasz for this Eighth Circuit vacancy, recieved literally boxes of letters from Nebraskan—both Republican and Democratic—for months in the moment after the Eighth Circuit vacancy appeared, and at no point did we hear either verbally from people we know in the State or in our interview process or in those boxes of letters—sat no point did we hear of any rudeness on the part of Mr. Grasz. Yet the ABA is judging him “not qualified” for the bench based on anonymous sources that say he is rude, without a single example.

There is not one example.

It is an embarrassing letter from the ABA. Folks in this body who would be tempted to take the ABA’s judgment seriously should read the letter. It is filled with anonymous claims that once he was rude to someone, and they have no examples.

Back to Ed Whelan:

[Reviewer] Nance’s strong ideological bias is not difficult to uncover. Among other things, she signed a letter opposing the confirmation of Justice Alito. Given the ABA’s persistent complaints about Grasz’s supposed inability to separate his judging from his political agenda.

of these important nominations. The Committee for Civil Rights of the San Francisco Bay Area.

We have a crisis of institutional trust in this country that should concern all of us. Our job here, in seeking to preserve and protect and uphold the Constitution, and a Constitution that is focused on limited government, is because the Founders believed that the most interesting things in life are not in government. Government provides a framework for order of liberty, but once you have that framework, once you are free from violence, you are free to live your life in all of these fully human-fit community ways in your local community.

Our job in this body is to not only pass good legislation and repeal bad legislation but, rather, seek to attend themselves to the facts and the law, as is indeed the calling of article III branch judges.

Thank you, Mr. President.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Cas-indy). The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. COONS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Mr. COONS. Mr. President, I come to the floor today to join several of my colleagues in raising concerns about nominations to the Federal judiciary and the Senate’s role in carrying out its constitutional advice and consent responsibilities.
From my vantage point as a member of the Judiciary Committee, I can see all too clearly that an alarming trend of more and more extreme judicial candidates apppearing before us is growing, that more extreme judicial candidates are being nominated, and that the safeguards here in the Senate that are important to our vetting process are being threatened.

I’d like to start by giving a simple overview of what has happened, first in terms of the speed at which we are considering critical lifetime appointments to some of the most central courts in our whole Federal judicial system.

Just this week, my Republican colleagues have brought forward four circuit court nominees—four nominees in one week—beginning to end. That is more than the number of circuit court nominees who were confirmed in the entire first year of President Obama’s Presidency.

More important to me than the speed is the quality of our process of reviewing these important nominations. The Dred Scott, and she evidently found amusing or insightful the observation that “Constitu-tutional strict constructionists . . . want women to have all the rights they had in 1867.” Yes, that is one of the best-balanced and legal mind, with a great grasp of conservative judicial principles, that the ABA puts in charge of evaluating judicial nominees is a model for all of us.

Finally:

The ABA’s supposed check against a hostile lead investigator is to have a second investigator conduct a supplemental evaluation of the nominee in those instances in which the lead investigator recommends a “Not Qualified” rating.

So if you’re the head of the committee, whom to believe? Is there any assurance that ideological bias isn’t warping the process? Probably not a very liberal [activist] lawyer from San Francisco. But that’s exactly what the ABA did [in this case].

Lawrence Pulgram, the second investigator, is a member of the left-wing Lawyers’
Committee for Civil Rights of the San Francisco Bay Area.

areSerial Constructionists want women to have all the rights they had in 1867.” Yes, that is one of the best-balanced and legal mind, with a great grasp of conservative judicial principles, that the ABA puts in charge of evaluating judicial nominees is a model for all of us. Finally: The ABA’s supposed check against a hostile lead investigator is to have a second investigator conduct a supplemental evaluation of the nominee in those instances in which the lead investigator recommends a “Not Qualified” rating. So if you’re the head of the committee, whom to believe? Is there any assurance that ideological bias isn’t warping the process? Probably not a very liberal [activist] lawyer from San Francisco. But that’s exactly what the ABA did [in this case]. Lawrence Pulgram, the second investigator, is a member of the left-wing Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights of the San Francisco Bay Area. We have a crisis of institutional trust in this country that should concern all of us. Our job here, in seeking to preserve and protect and uphold the Constitution, and a Constitution that is focused on limited government, is because the Founders believed that the vast majority of the most interesting questions in life happen in the private sector, not just for-profit entities but primarily civil society, families, neighbors, and not-for-profit organizations, religious institutions, and the Rotary Club, and philanthropies, and voluntary enterprises. The most interesting things in life are not in government. Government provides a framework for order of liberty, but once you have that framework, once you are free from violence, you are free to live your life in all of these fully human-fit community ways in your local community.

Our job in this body is to not only pass good legislation and repeal bad legislation but, rather, seek to attend ourselves to the facts and the law, as is indeed the calling of article III branch judges.

Thank you, Mr. President.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Mr. COONS. Mr. President, I come to the floor today to join several of my colleagues in raising concerns about nominations to the Federal judiciary and the Senate’s role in carrying out its constitutional advice and consent responsibilities. From my vantage point as a member of the Judiciary Committee, I can see all too clearly that an alarming trend of more and more extreme judicial candidates appearing before us is growing, that more extreme judicial candidates are being nominated, and that the safeguards here in the Senate that are important to our vetting process are being threatened.

Let me start by giving a simple overview of what has happened, first in terms of the speed at which we are considering critical lifetime appointments to some of the most central courts in our whole Federal judicial system. Just this week, my Republican colleagues have brought forward four circuit court nominees—four nominees in one week—beginning to end. That is more than the number of circuit court nominees who were confirmed in the entire first year of President Obama’s Presidency.

More important to me than the speed is the quality of our process of reviewing these important nominations. The American Bar Association has issued unanimous “not qualified” ratings for two current judicial nominees. That hasn’t happened in over a decade—since 2006. The American Bar Association is not a partisan or a political group. Founded in 1878, the ABA is a national professional organization with over 400,000 attorney members. The ABA’s uncontroversial objectives are to serve its members, improve the legal profession, enhance diversity, and advance and secure the rule of law in our Nation. Its contributions to the legal profession are significant. It is the ABA that accredits law schools and establishes model ethical codes.

Additionally, since 1953, when President Eisenhower invited the ABA to provide specific, timely input on candidates for Federal judgeships, the ABA has evaluated nominees for professional competence, integrity, and judicial temperament. This is a rigorous process that involves collecting impartial, peer-review evaluations of candidates.

It is startling that less than a year into this administration, two nominees have already received “not qualified” ratings from the ABA, and two more nominees are under consideration of what is called a second evaluator. This is concerning. You see, the ABA does not take giving a “not qualified” rating lightly. Any time an evaluator is considering recommending “not qualified,” the ABA is requiring him to conduct an independent review. I believe all nominees to lifetime article III appointments on the Federal bench should have the competence, integrity, and temperament to do the important work that Federal judges are called on to perform.

The nominees we are seeing not only raise concerns about professional qualifications and the speed with which they have been processed. Many of the President’s candidates are under consideration of what is called a second evaluator. This is concerning. You see, the ABA does not take giving a “not qualified” rating lightly. Any time an evaluator is considering recommending “not qualified,” the ABA is requiring him to conduct an independent review. I believe all nominees to lifetime article III appointments on the Federal bench should have the competence, integrity, and temperament to do the important work that Federal judges are called on to perform.

We have recently considered candidates on the Judiciary Committee who had blogged at length in support of birtherism, the discredited and untrue conspiracy theory that suggested that the past President wasn’t born in the United States. Another suggested that “Mama Pelosi” should be “gagged.” Another called Supreme Court Justice Kennedy a “judicial prostitute,” compared abortion to premeditated murder, and suggested that “Mama Pelosi” wasn’t born in the United States. It is an important tool for ensuring that the White House will have the best candidates for its judicial nominations process. By requiring that blue slips be returned before a nominee is considered, each Senator is afforded the courtesy to evaluate whether a judicial nominee will meet the needs of his or her constituents and the priorities and values of their home State. By requiring that blue slips be returned before a nominee is considered, each Senator is afforded the courtesy to evaluate whether a judicial nominee will meet the needs of his or her constituents and the priorities and values of their home State.

Another tool that is under attack that is a century-old tradition of the Judiciary Committee is the so-called blue slip. This is a practice that allows the two home-State Senators to give a positive or negative recommendation on a nominee before they receive a hearing and are considered for lifetime tenure. It allows each Senator to approve the judicial nominations for vacancies in their home States or in the circuit courts where a seat is traditionally associated with that home State. As a Senator from Delaware—a State that has been home to many distinguished Federal judges, including Chief Justice John Marshall—the importance of bipartisanship, and I will continue to do that today.

As we have seen in important public policy debates, from the healthcare debate to the current debate on tax reform, Republicans and Democrats need to work together to get things done. Purely partisan processes will not succeed in this or future Congresses. We have to work together to protect our democracy and our republic.

I would also like to note that today Sam Clovis withdrew as a nominee for Chief Scientist at the USDA. I am not here to comment on any connection to any ongoing investigations or other social issues but, rather, would like to comment on a simple concern I have had since his nomination; namely, that Mr. Clovis is unqualified to serve as Chief Scientist, lacking any professional training in the field. The ABA’s evaluation must be available to the Senate before the Senate will meet the needs of his or her constituents and the priorities and values of their home State. Science is critically important to agriculture, and this is another Federal agency that depends on good science.

Given the serious challenges facing America’s farmers and our food system—from pollinator declines, to deteriorating soil health, to a changing climate—USDA’s science mission is extremely important. As someone whose home State university has a vibrant department of agriculture, as someone who knows the very broad range of Federal funding for USDA that supports agriculture-related scientific research—the USDA is critical in helping provide our farmers with the information they need to improve plant and animal resilience, to be more effective stewards of the land, and to adopt new technologies and practices on their farms. This could all be at risk if the agency’s head of science has no relevant scientific training and even rejects current scientific thinking.

I believe that science, not mere opinion or ideology, should underpin our decisions when it comes to our Nation’s agricultural policy.

It is my hope that the administration will now go back and recommend a nominee who is scientifically trained and who cares deeply about the role of science in our Nation’s agriculture.

I rise to congratulate these three successful women because their additions to the Federal court system are historic. They serve as more evidence that well-qualified women are becoming more confident in stepping forward and serving our great Nation. Amy Coney Barrett, Joan Louise Larsen, and Allison Eid are three more cracks in that glass ceiling. Their confirmations are proof that successful women can balance responsibility and seize opportunity when it knocks on their doors. These accomplished nominees are not joining the Federal bench because of a frivolous attempt at trying to balance out the gender disparity in our courts. They will be donning the black robes because they will have earned it.

Amy Coney Barrett, our new judge for the Seventh Circuit, climbed to the ranks by clerking for Judge Laurence Silberman, Associate Justice Antonin Scalia and Chief Justice John Roberts on the U.S. Supreme Court. In working with her husband, who is a successful lawyer in his own right, she has balanced family responsibilities while having achieved personal success. At the law school where she was hired as a professor at one of the Nation’s best law programs, Notre Dame. Over the past 6 years, she has sat on the Advisory Committee on Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure on the recommendation of Chief Justice Roberts. Joan Louise Larsen, the next U.S. circuit judge for the Sixth Circuit, is proof that hard work pays off. After graduating at the top of her class from Northwestern, Judge Larsen clerked for Justice Scalia on the U.S. Supreme Court before serving as a Deputy Assistant Attorney General in the U.S. Department of Justice, Office of Legal Counsel. She most recently sat on the Appellate Panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. She has done this while raising two children with her law professor husband. Allison Eid, the newest judge for the Tenth Circuit, has demonstrated brilliance throughout her career. After graduating from Stanford Law School, she clerked for Justice Clarence Thomas of the U.S. Supreme Court. She has served with distinction on the Colorado Supreme Court since 2006. With her husband, Troy, the first Egyptian American to serve as a U.S. district attorney, she has helped to raise two children.

These three successful women should serve as role models to girls and boys across this Nation. They are proof that women will not falter back while others find success, and their confirmations are evidence that, when women support each other, they will achieve at the highest level. They also demonstrate the power of families when they work together to accomplish goals.

We should be proud to have confirmed these three great women to the Federal bench. All of us receive letters from children who ask questions about: What do you do in the U.S. Senate? Weeks like this one should be part of our response. We empower those who have empowered themselves regardless of their gender. We shape our legal system by calling it to our qualified women who are dedicated to preserving and protecting our Constitution—the framework of our free Nation. We proclaim that hard work is to be rewarded. These three important confirmations prove that our women do not have to choose between raising families and rising to the top of their chosen professions.

I stand here today and send a message to every little girl who wonders about politics and every young woman who faces the challenges of starting out in her career: You can do this too. We love you, and we support you. Be confident when you want to step forward and serve your community and serve your country.

The judicial nominees who were voted on this week exemplify the best of our Nation’s legal community. Their confirmations to the Federal bench have added significant talent to our Nation’s system of justice. The work being done by the President and by this Senate in shaping the Federal courts with those who will follow the rule of law is historic. President Trump should be applauded for nominating such well-qualified people to be on the Federal bench.

All of the nominees voted on this week will make exceptional additions to the Federal bench, and I hope that the President will send many more like them for us to consider. All four are deserving of their new positions, and I am sure that they will honor and protect the Constitution and serve the American people well as good judges.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mrs. FISCHER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

POLICY JUSTIFICATION
Qatar—F-15QA Construction, Cybersecurity, and Force Protection Infrastructure

The Government of Qatar has requested support of its F-15QA multi-role fighter aircraft program to include design and construction of new parking/loading ramps, hot cargo pads, taxiways, hangars, back shops, alert facilities, weapons storage areas, hardened shelters, squadron operations facilities, maintenance facilities, training facilities, information technology support and cyber facilities, force protection support facilities, squadron operations facilities, other F-15QA related support structures, construction/facilities/design services, cybersecurity services, mission critical computer resources, support services, force protection services, and other related elements of logistics and program support. The estimated cost is $1.1 billion.

This proposed sale supports the foreign policy and national security objectives of the United States. Qatar is an important force for political stability and economic progress in the Persian Gulf region. Our mutual defense interests and our relationship with the Qatar Emiri Air Force (QEAF) plays a predominant role in Qatar’s defense.

The proposed sale improves Qatar’s capability to operate and sustain its F-15QA aircraft. A robust construction, cybersecurity, and force protection infrastructure is vital to ensuring the QEAF partners can utilize the F-15QA’s full potential. Qatar will have no difficulty absorbing this support into its armed forces.

The proposed sale of this construction, cybersecurity, and force protection infrastructure will not alter the basic military balance in the region.

The prime contractor for construction, cybersecurity, and force protection infrastructure will be determined through competition. The purchaser typically requests off-set negotiations between the purchaser and the contractor.

Implementation of the construction, cybersecurity, and force protection aspects of this notification include the establishment of a construction office in Doha with as many as ten (10) U.S. Government civilians which will adjust in size as case workload varies. Anticipated contractor footprint for this effort is approximately fifteen (15) to fifty (50) personnel, which may vary based on phases of construction and establishment of required services.

There will be no adverse impact to U.S. defense readiness as a result of this proposed sale.

HEALTHCARE

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD the following:

"More ACA Plans To Come With No Premiums in 2018," by Anna Wilde Mathews and Christopher Weaver that was published in the Wall Street Journal on October 27, 2017.

Where being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

MORE ACA PLANS TO COME WITH NO PREMIUMS IN 2018

Insurers selling Affordable Care Act plans have a compelling new pitch: free health insurance.

When sales of plans on the law’s exchanges begin Nov. 1, a growing number of consumers around the country will be able to get coverage for 2018 without paying any monthly premium, according to health insurers and an analysis of newly available federal data.

In nearly all of the 2,722 counties included in the data, some consumers will be able to obtain free health insurance because they qualify for larger federal premium subsidies that will pay the full cost of a plan, according to the new analysis.

The growing availability of no-premium plans is a side effect of a decision by President Donald Trump to end federal payments that are used to reduce out-of-pocket costs, such as deductibles, for low-income enrollees. The administration didn’t halt—indirectly bolstered—the federal subsidies that help consumers with their insurance premiums.

The new analysis doesn’t project exactly how many consumers could be eligible for the no-premium plans, a figure that depends on variables including people’s income, household size, age, location and access to other types of health coverage.

In the coming weeks, insurers are gearing up to promote the no-premium option. Amid uncertainty about the future of the 2010 health law, known as Obamacare, many insurers have pulled back from the law’s marketplaces. Many of the remaining ones are worried about losing enrollment next year—largely among consumers who aren’t eligible for subsidies and won’t be able to get premium-free plans.

Insurers hope the no-premium insurance will draw in more enrollees, especially those they need most: people with few health needs. Healthy consumers help bolster the stability of the market by balancing out the higher health costs of sicker enrollees.

said Wendy Curran, a spokeswoman for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Wyoming, which is mentioning the no-premium plans in print, radio, and social-media advertising. “We hope those younger people will say, ‘Well, if it’s not going to cost me anything, sure.’”

Ms. Curran said it was “astounding even to us” how many people will be able to get no-premium insurance in Wyoming.

The no-premium plans will also receive a hefty promotional push from insurance agents. Peter V. Lee, executive director of Covered California, the state’s ACA exchange, said that the plans “are making waves at a national level.”

Mr. Lee advised people to focus on price when considering health plans. “If you’re trying to find a plan that will leave you with the lowest out-of-pocket costs, now coming out of their pockets—and so, the premium payment—is the way to go,” he said. “For those who can get free plans, the lure may be irresistible.”

Medica, an insurer that is offering exchange plans in states including Iowa, Nebraska, and Wisconsin, is running ads in some places that say “$0 premium plans for individuals who qualify.” It is also sending letters to current exchange enrollees with bronze plans, who are likely to be enrolled with Medica in 2018, informing them that they can stop paying premiums next year. “That’s a nice letter to get,” said Geoff Bartosh, a vice president at Medica.

Jerry Dworak, chief executive of Montana Health Co-op, said, “of course we’re hoping that” young and healthy enrollees flock to the no-premium plans.

“If they see that it’s free, why not take it?” he said.

Mr. Dworak said that a person making as much as $33,000 a year could get one of his company’s Idaho plans and pay no premium.

The plans may attract more older consumers than younger because premium subsidies rise with age, making free plans cheaper overall for people who use much health care, despite their higher premium costs, if these people are eligible for the health law’s cost-sharing reductions.

According to HealthCare.gov, for instance, a 40-year-old man in Cheyenne, Wyo., who makes about $24,000 a year could get a zero-premium plan by paying as much as $6,650 over the course of 2018 in deductibles and other out-of-pocket charges. Or he could get a silver plan that would cost him around $1,500 in all, but cap his out-of-pocket costs at $2,450.

“This is a trade-off,” said Michael Z. Stahl, a senior vice president at HealthMarkets, who said the company’s agents will walk through the pros and cons with clients.

Mr. BARRASSO Mr. President, today I wish to honor Susie McMurry. On November 10, 2017, the Greater Wyoming Council of the Boy Scouts of America will hold their annual “Strength of America Banquet” and celebrate Susie McMurry, a remarkable Wyoming philanthropist. Every year at this event, the council honors an individual who made invaluable contributions to the community and demonstrates the values of the Scout oath and law.

Susie McMurry is a perfect choice to receive this special recognition. She is a role model in our community and truly represents a spirit of citizenship, leadership, and service. Throughout her life, Susie has demonstrated an enduring devotion to God, her family, and Wyoming. She loves her family. She loves her home State of Wyoming. She loves her country.

She truly exemplifies the Scout promise “to help other people at all times.” Susie McMurry’s life has rise to improve the life of a child, Susie is the first to offer her assistance, time, and resources. Susie strongly supports programs for children that focus on mentoring, developing leadership skills, encouraging community service, and building self-esteem. She believes “Children are the sunshine in our lives.” If we don’t take care of our children, our world will be without sunshine.”

Susie McMurry was an excellent role model and teacher. She had a deep understanding of the importance of giving back. While growing up, her parents always lent a helping hand and opened their homes to individuals in need. Throughout her life, she has tried to follow their example. For nearly 30 years, she and her husband, Mick McMurry, were foster parents. They provided a safe and caring home for hundreds of children in Wyoming.

Susie is a strong, compassionate, and caring woman. In 1948, she was born in Casper at Memorial Hospital of Natrona County. She called both Elk Mountain and Hanna home before eventually moving to Casper. Susie discovered her calling to help children early in life.

She studied elementary education at Casper College and the University of Wyoming. After graduation, she returned to Casper and taught first grade at Crest Hill Elementary School.

She met her husband, a 41 years, Mick McMurry, In Casper. On December 21, 1973, Susie and Mick McMurry were married in Glenrock, WY. A few years later, they adopted their daughter, Trudi, and Simpson retired from teaching. In 1979, Susie and Mick became foster parents. Their second daughter, Jillian, was adopted from the foster program. Susie has eight grandchildren: Lou Davis, Tayla Davis, Tivie Hullhouse, Enda Hullhouse, Evie Kaschmitter, Lily Kaschmitter, Max Kaschmitter, and Andrew Kaschmitter.

She also has one great-grandchild, Neil Campbell. In 2015, Susie, the McMurry family, Casper, and the State of Wyoming mourned the loss of her husband, Mick. Susie’s compassion and strength continue to guide her family and our community.

The McMurry family has a remarkable history of helping people across the State of Wyoming. Susie explained, “One of our goals is to teach the younger generation how to live with kindness, how to participate, and love making a difference.” Mick and Susie established the McMurry Foundation in 1998 with a mission to make a significant and beneficial impact on the lives of others. Guided by the values of generosity, service, and compassion, the foundation has awarded more than $50 million since it was established. It focuses on education, religion, children and advocacy for children, health and human resources, the arts and humanities, and favorable human services environments.

Buildings across the State bear the McMurry name as a mark of gratitude for their wonderful support. The number of places in Wyoming that have benefited from the contributions of the McMurry Foundation is incredible. One organization especially dear to Susie is the Wyoming Medical Center. Susie has spent a tremendous number of hours volunteering her time and talents to the benefit of everyone who comes through the doors. She feels that the health of a community is directly tied to the health of its people. The values that Susie and the McMurry Foundation promote to hand in hand with the mission of the Boy Scouts of America. They both work to ensure youth have the knowledge and skills needed to become future leaders of Wyoming. Their continued focus on education, leadership, and community service will serve these young people and our State for generations.

Susie’s kindness, generosity, and grace are true reflections of her character. She believes that fulfillment in life comes from making a difference in the lives of others. Whether it is volunteering at the Wyoming Medical Center to support patients and families or raising funds for the Boys and Girls Club of Central Wyoming, she has made a huge difference in the lives of so many people. Susie continues to have a positive and lasting mark on our community.

It is with great honor that I recognize this exceptional member of our Wyoming community. My wife, Bobbi, joins me in extending our congratulations to Susie McMurry for receiving this honorable distinction.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

50TH ANNIVERSARY OF MISSOURI ASSOCIATION OF STUDENT FINANCIAL AID PERSONNEL

- Mr. BLUNT. Mr. President, I rise today to congratulate the Missouri Association of Student Financial Aid Personnel, MASFAP, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary. MASFAP organized in 1967 with a steering committee of five members. Today the association has grown to over 800 members. The observation of its 50th anniversary provides an opportunity to recognize the work of Missouri’s student financial aid personnel and the association’s partnerships and to raise awareness about the affordability of a postsecondary education.

MASFAP is a dynamic association dedicated to serving and advocating for practitioners, users, and providers of student financial aid programs. Most families and students are aware of student aid programs; however, they provide valuable funds to assist in the costs of a postsecondary education, without which many would be unable to achieve their education goals.

As a former high school teacher and university president, I know how fortunate it is for Missouri to have so many great post-secondary education options. With the assistance of student financial aid administrators throughout Missouri, students are learning about the many resources available to help them attend one of the great schools of their choice. As a result, students are getting the education and training they need to succeed.

When I served as Missouri Secretary of State, I had the opportunity to sign the first articles of incorporation for MASFAP. Today I thank the association and all its members for their work and congratulate them on their 50th anniversary.

TRIBUTE TO MAJOR GENERAL RICHARD C. NASH

- Mr. FRANKEN. Mr. President, today I wish to recognize and celebrate the career of Minnesota Adjutant General Richard C. Nash. Major General Nash retired on October 31st, after leading the Minnesota National Guard for the past 7 years. His leadership has ensured the excellence of the Minnesota National Guard.

Major General Nash enlisted in the infantry in 1972 and quickly rose through the ranks, earning a commission as a second lieutenant following completion of officer candidate school. Since then, he has commanded at all levels, starting as a company level commander and rising to lead the U.S. Divisions-South supporting Operation Iraqi Freedom in 2010.

In November of 2009, Major General Nash was appointed by Governor Tim Pawlenty to be the adjutant general of the Minnesota National Guard. In this role, he has skillfully commanded Minnesota’s Army and Air National Guard units not only in Minnesota, but also as they have served across the globe, in places such as Iraq, the Sinai Peninsula, and the Baltics. Under Major General Nash’s stewardship, the Minnesota National Guard has performed every mission reliably and with distinction.

I have had the honor of working closely with Major General Nash during my time in office. He has been a tireless advocate for the Guard on issues ranging from installations, to the Guard’s emergency use, to the important task of ensuring the Guard’s annual priorities are met. One area I worked particularly closely with Major General Nash on has been our efforts to expand medical, education, and retirement benefits that had been previously denied to National Guard soldiers deployed under the 12304b authority. Major General Nash has been a strong voice on this issue, and his work was critical to my efforts to enact bipartisan legislation to ensure Minnesota Guardsmen and Reservists have access to these services. Our veterans have earned these benefits through their service and sacrifice to our country, and they should not be denied those benefits.

In addition to his exemplary leadership of the Minnesota Guard’s service in missions foreign and domestic, Major General Nash deserves special recognition for his work preparing the force for future energy and sustainability challenges. In particular, his work developing the Minnesota Guard’s sustainable infrastructure has made the Minnesota Guard a pioneer in the use of solar and geothermal energy initiatives. In 2011, Minnesota National Guard facilities set a goal to reduce energy consumption by 3 percent. Forty-one Minnesota National Guard armories participated in this program and energy consumption was reduced by an average of 5.4 percent year over year through the use of geothermal and solar thermal heating, water reuse, solid waste recycling, as well as natural and LED lighting. Furthermore, a new construction project, under Major General Nash’s leadership, has been designed to LEED standards. These developments are so important because they reduce the Guard’s reliance on fossil fuels and foreign oil, support jobs in the local economy, and reduce energy costs for the Guard, allowing them to invest more in our civilian soldier’s readiness, training, and education. The work Major General Nash has done to prepare for future energy and sustainability challenges has ensured that the Minnesota National Guard will continue to lead the country on the battlefield and at home.

Finally, I want to note with my gratitude Major General Nash’s many years of service as a judge in my annual poetry contest that allows Minnesota students to write about a military veteran who has made a difference in their lives. Each year, he spends hours reading these heartfelt poems and helping me decide which ones will hang in my Senate office.

I would like to extend my best wishes to Major General Nash upon his retirement and wish him the best of luck in his future endeavors. Thank you, General Nash. Your service to our Nation and our State has been indispensable and invaluable. Above all, it has made a difference to the men and women who served under you.

Thank you.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. GRASSLEY (for himself, Ms. KLOBUCHEAR, Mr. TILLIS, Mr. SCHUMER, and Mr. DURBIN):

S. 2070. A bill to amend the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994, to reauthorize the Missing Alzheimer’s Disease Patient Alert Program, and to promote initiatives that will reduce the risk of injury and death relating to the wandering characteristics of some children with autism; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, today Senators KLOBUCHEAR, TILLIS, SCHUMER, DURBIN and I will introduce legislation to help America’s families locate missing loved ones who have Alzheimer’s disease, autism or related conditions that may cause them to wander. Congressman CHRIS SMITH will introduce a virtually identical companion bill in the House of Representatives today as well.

Our bill, which was introduced for the first time in the 114th Congress, extends an existing program that helps locate individuals with Alzheimer’s disease or dementia. It also adds new support for people with autism.

We have named the legislation in honor of two boys with autism who perished because their condition caused them to wander. One of these children, nine-year-old Kevin Curtis Wills, slipped into Iowa’s Raccoon River near a park and tragically drowned in 2008. The other, 14-year-old Avonte Oquendo, wandered away from his school and drowned in New York City’s East River a few years ago.

Their’s are not isolated cases. Just a few months ago, a four year-old with autism drowned in a pool after wandering away from her caretakers. We’ve all read or heard the heart-breaking stories of families frantically trying to locate a missing loved one whose condition caused him or her to wander off.

Our bill will give communities the tools they need to help locate people with Alzheimer’s disease or other forms of dementia as well as children with autism spectrum disorders who wander away from their families or caregivers and into dangerous situations.

My home State of Iowa has the fifth highest Alzheimer’s death rate in America and we have about 63,000 Iowans living with the disease, according to the Alzheimer’s Association. Additionally, the CDC identified 1 in 68 children across the country as having autism spectrum disorders. In Iowa alone, about 8,000 individuals have been diagnosed with autism spectrum disorders.

This bill will make resources available to equip first responders, law enforcement officials, and other community leaders with the training and tools necessary to better prevent and respond to these cases as soon as possible. With better information sharing, communities can play a central role in reuniting autistic children and other individuals who wander with their families.

Finally, the bill will ensure that local law enforcement agencies and nonprofits that educate and train people on how to proactively prevent and locate missing individuals who wander are eligible for grants from the U.S. Department of Justice. These grants will facilitate the development of training and emergency protocols for school personnel, supply first responders with additional information and resources, and make local tracking technology programs available for individuals who may wander from safety because of their condition. Grant funding may also be used to establish notification and communication systems for the recovery of missing children with autism.

I urge my colleagues to support this important legislation, which in the 114th Congress passed the Senate unanimously. The House companion bill garnered over 90 cosponsors and passed the other chamber by vote of 346 to 66 in the 114th Congress. Our bill has been endorsed by, among others, the Autism Society of Iowa, Autism Speaks, the National Autism Association, SafeMinds, the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, ANCOR (American Network of Community Options), National Autism Society of America, the Alzheimer’s Impact Movement, the National Down Syndrome Society, and the Color of Autism Foundation.

Mr. GARAMENDI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Ms. Kate Mellon-Anibaba of Davis, California, who has made it her mission to bring people together in the name of tolerance and spread support for marginalized groups within her community. Following this year’s attacks on Muslims throughout California, Ms. Mellon-Anibaba organized an event she called a “Statement of Love.” Her idea was to bring people together to show their support for Muslims in her community. In response to the hateful words and actions she saw directed at certain minorities, Ms. Mellon-Anibaba created her own demonstration of support, solidarity, and acceptance. She was determined to make a positive impact in her community, and she succeeded.

Following a particularly disturbing attack on the Islamic Center right in her own community, she brought together over 1,000 people to show their support for their neighbors. She helped raise tens of thousands of dollars to help pay for repairs to businesses and places of worship targeted by hate-driven vandalism. Ms. Mellon-Anibaba brought people together to show their support, tolerance, and acceptance of a marginalized community within their community. Her message of peace, tolerance, and support has spread to surrounding communities and inspired similar demonstrations of solidarity. Her determination to bring her community together in the face of hatred is inspirational.

CLIMATE SOLUTIONS CAUCUS

HON. DON BACON OF NEBRASKA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, November 1, 2017

Mr. BACON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today with my colleagues in the Climate Solutions Caucus in recognition of a problem that concerns many of us—climate change.

It is hard to deny that our climate is changing. Whether caused by cyclical weather changes or impacted by human’s role, it is clear we are seeing changes in the polar ice and a rise in temperatures. It is one of my goals in Congress to keep the momentum we have seen in previous decades of continuing improvement in our environment. We all want to leave our planet cleaner for our children and grandchildren.

It is my hope to advance the dialogue and advocate for more renewable and diverse energy sources. Top defense authorities, such as Secretary Mattis, have been vocal on how climate change has affected the DoD’s threat assessments, resources, and operation readiness, but Congress must do more to combat this threat.

As an incoming freshman in the 115th Congress, I have made it my mission to get things accomplished. I have joined the Bipartisan Climate Solutions Caucus, and have advocated for an incremental improvements approach to address climate change, while recognizing that the issue is a matter of national security. During the FY18 National Defense Authorization Act debate, I, as well as some of my other House colleagues, led the charge to ensure adoption of Section 336, which recognizes climate change as a national security issue, and allows the DoD to assess its risks and determine next steps to mitigate such threats. This section ensures that the Armed Forces are prepared to handle the effects of a changing climate as it relates to military operations. By conducting studies within the Services and Combat Commands, DoD will be able to better understand the problem. Congress has a duty to ensure that the DoD is resilient and prepared for anything that may threaten its mission and operations and I hope to see the text of Section 336 in the final NDAA bill.

It is in America’s best interest to improve clean energy technology and expand production of renewable energies. Environmental practices do not need to come at the expense of economic growth though. We must encourage greater environmental stewardship amongst the private sector and foster economic success. Omaha now has 30 percent of energy from wind and it’s growing. I support continued use of solar, ethanol, and sources of hydrothermal.

As members of the Bipartisan Climate Solutions Caucus, we proactively seek pragmatic solutions to address environmental concerns. It is a priority of mine to have all members recognize the impacts of climate change and our role to leave a cleaner planet for our children and grandchildren. I am committed to ensuring energy independence for our country and North America and ensuring that the use of renewable energy gains a larger share of our overall energy production.

2017 WOMAN OF THE YEAR AWARD WINNER—JEANNIE KLEVER

HON. JOHN GARAMENDI OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 2, 2017

Mr. GARAMENDI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Jeannie Klever, who has an extensive record of service in Sutter County, California, which she has called home for the past 27 years. Jeannie embodies the qualities of a community activist and public servant, and we are proud to honor her today. Growing up in the 60’s, Jeannie experienced a mixture of gender and racial inequalities which influenced and shaped her career choices. Her activism began at an early age when during school she protested an end to the Vietnam War. She also advocated for more on-site tutors for students of color and when met with opposition, Jeannie volunteered as a tutor through the rest of her school years. She strongly believes education was and remains the path out of poverty.

Jeannie’s desire to help families with special needs children was due to the challenges her family endured after her brother was diagnosed with severe autism. She operated a Family Resource Center that delivered support services and resources to families of low income and special needs adults and children. She taught self-advocacy for the local school’s individualized education programs and medical service needs students.

Jeannie’s community and public service involvement is extensive. Jeannie has been a member of and continues to support several nonprofit organizations. For the past 15 years, she has sponsored an annual Art Contest for Sutter Union High School students. In 2008, Jeannie joined the local Democratic Party’s central committee as a way to increase community engagement where she served three terms. In 2013, Jeannie joined the U.S. House of Representatives as my district representative serving Yuba and Sutter counties until her recent retirement.

Jeannie continues to volunteer in the community and helps families in need when she can. Jeannie has learned to appreciate the art culture and enjoys mixed media arts as a way to relax. She and her husband Dale are enjoying family time with their children and two grandchildren.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 2, 2017

Mr. THOMPSON of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the retirement of Moises Loza.

Moises Loza grew up in South Texas in a migrant farmworker family. During his childhood, he traveled with his family throughout the South, Midwest and West coast in search of farm-work. His first-hand experience of how hard families work to survive in this country is the perfect example of the families residing in Mississippi’s Second Congressional District.

In fact, while Loza served as Executive Director of the Housing Assistance Council—a national nonprofit corporation that works to increase the availability of decent housing for rural low-income people—he ensured the organization provided technical assistance, training and research to assist with housing development for low-income and hard-working families residing in the lower Mississippi Delta. Loza also serves in leadership roles on many housing related issues.

Currently, he serves as chairman of the Rural Development Leadership Network and treasurer of the National Low Income Housing Coalition. He also serves on the board of directors for the National Community Reinvestment Coalition, the National Housing Conference, the National Rural Housing Coalition, and the Morgan Stanley Advisory Committee.

His selfless work to provide housing opportunities for families in need is something that we all should celebrate.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing a great public servant, Moises Loza, for his work to provide equal and fair housing.

TRIBUTE TO EAGLE SCOUT COLE NICHOLSON

HON. DAVID YOUNG OF IOWA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 2, 2017

Mr. YOUNG of Iowa. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize and congratulate Cole Nicholson of Bondurant, Iowa for earning the rank of Eagle Scout.

The Eagle Scout designation is the highest advancement rank in scouting. Approximately two percent of Boy Scouts earn the Eagle Scout Award. The award is a performance-based achievement with high standards that have been well-maintained over the past century.

To earn the Eagle Scout rank, a Boy Scout is obligated to pass specific tests that are organized by requirements and merit badges, as well as completing an Eagle Scout Project to benefit the community. For his project, Cole saw a need for exercise stations, consisting of items like bars, boxes, and balance beams, around Lake Petocka in Bondurant. After going through the approval process with the city and raising the $1,600 from friends and local organizations, Cole led a team that installed the equipment last October, and has already seen people using them. He completed his journey at the young age of 14 years younger than most Eagle Scouts earn their ranking. The work ethic Cole has shown in his Eagle Scout Project and throughout his scouting career speaks volumes about his commitment to serving a cause greater than himself and assisting his community.

Mr. Speaker, the example set by this young man and his supportive family and community demonstrates the rewards of hard work, dedication, and perseverance. I am honored to represent Cole and his family in the United States Congress. I ask that my colleagues in the United States House of Representatives join me in congratulating him on obtaining the Eagle Scout ranking and in wishing him nothing but continued success in his future education and career.

HONORING SCOTT RASMUSSEN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 2, 2017

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to Scott Rasmussen, an important member of my team for many years who will be leaving my office after this week to travel and pursue his varied interests.

Scott is a native Californian who graduated from Brown University in 2010, then returned to the Bay Area where he worked in the areas of law and technology. I was soon fortunate to have him join my campaign team, where he demonstrated the confidence, intellectual curiosity, diligence, and political instincts that have served him so well over the years I have known him—and which I am sure will continue to bring him success in the future.

Scott helped to form the initial core of my congressional staff in 2013, showing a willingness to pitch in and cover any topic that was thrown to him, from answering phones to tackling policy questions. Over the ensuing years, Scott has taken on new roles and regularly delivered results for my constituents and the planet. Notable successes include the passage of the Point Reyes Coast Guard Housing Conveyance Act, which will allow a former property in West Marin to be repurposed as affordable housing and community space, and his work on our successful bipartisan effort to strike a nearly half-century old congressional earmark that cost taxpayers millions of dollars each year to ship Pennsylvania coal 3,000 miles to American bases in Germany.

With diligence and finesse, Scott is helped to develop a number of key legislative initiatives, and his intellect and maturity have allowed me to entrust him with sensitive foreign policy matters as well. Major projects have included my work to expand broadband access to rural communities, and our ongoing efforts to make coal miners are protected from an unexpected tax bill when they work to reduce water use. Finally, he has worked on the tribal policy portfolio that is a priority in my office, helping to devise several complex and meaningful bills for the tribal members I represent.

For six years I have had the benefit of Scott’s good work, and I am deeply appreciative. Along with my family and my staff, I wish Scott the best of luck as he moves on the next phase of his career.

Mr. KELLY of Mississippi. Despite his loss, Elaine Oneto, 1LT Oneto-Sikorski’s mother, said her son looked to the future and talked about his homecoming which would have been in December 2005. “He was devoted to his children. He is so much more than any of us could say,” Mrs. Oneto said. “He was a wonderful man who loved everyone and his loss is going to devastate this whole community.”

Because of his sacrifice, he will not be forgotten.”

1LT Oneto-Sikorski was remembered by a fellow soldier on a memorial website. “I was serving with Ski in Iraq. He was my XO and my close friend,” SFC Gene Dufrene said. “Ski was by far the best officer that anyone could serve with. He was what we NCOs called a real soldiers’ officer. He would break his neck to take care of us. He took care of each and every soldier under his command. We all miss our brother and we will always remember Ski for the man he was to each of us soldiers.”

1LT Oneto-Sikorski was employed at Northrop Grumman’s Ingalls Shipyard in Pascagoula, Mississippi, where he worked in the engineering department.

HON. JOHN GARAMENDI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, November 2, 2017

Mr. GARAMENDI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Jaswinder Sandhu of Sutter County, California, who has spent her career focused on improving the lives of people in her community. At a young age, she joined her farmworker parents in the fields to earn extra money during the summer. He also served on the Navy’s most decorated warship, the USS Parche, where his crew received the Presidential Unit Citation, as well as the USS Cheyenne, which participated in the Iraq war’s first shots and strategic strike. Recognizing the Life and Legacy of the Honorable James (Jim) Martin

HON. ROBERT B. ADERHOLT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 2, 2017

Mr. ADERHOLT. Mr. Speaker, I received the sad news earlier this week that the Honorable James (Jim) Martin passed away from that great call to life at the age of 99 from Alabama. Jim Martin was not only a former member of this body, but he was the Congressman for the district of Alabama, which I now represent.

James Martin was born in Tarrant, Alabama on September 1, 1918, the son of a railroad engineer and school teacher. Martin attended school in a log cabin. After graduating high school in 1936, he attended a business college, and then started a job as a clerk at Pan-American Petroleum in Birmingham.

In 1941, shortly before America was drawn into World War II, Martin decided to join the U.S. Army. Martin served as a captain and was part of the American effort to liberate Europe from the Nazis.

Martin and his men liberated concentration camps and saw the horrors of war firsthand. In an interview with the minority of Congress, Martin said, “I’m not the same person I was before World War II.”

After fighting in that war, he came back to Alabama and settled in the city of Gadsden. It was in Gadsden where he met his future wife Pat Huddleston.

It was in 1962, that Martin decided to enter politics. He challenged then U.S. Senator Liston Hill, the incumbent Democrat. Martin came within 6,000 votes of upsetting Hill.

Alabama voters elected Martin to the U.S. House of Representatives in November of 1964. Martin took office as the Member of Congress from Alabama’s 7th Congressional District in 1965 which was the year I was born. He served one term, from January 1965 to January 1967.

To say that Congressman Martin was a trailblazer in Alabama politics is an understatement. His election in 1964 marked a change of course in a state that had been dominated by a single party for decades.

During his time in Congress, Martin worked diligently to represent the wishes and interests of his constituents back in Alabama. He was a great leader and one of those rare individuals who could convey his conservative message in words like few others.

In 1966, Martin chose not to seek reelection to the House, but instead decided to seek the Governorship of Alabama. While Martin did not win the election against the wife of George Wallace, Lurleen Wallace, his showing was remarkable. Martin received more support than any Republican candidate for governor since Reconstruction.

Then in the 1990s, Martin served as Alabama’s Conservation and Natural Resources director under Governor Fob James. Just as Martin had been a trailblazer in politics, he did the same during his time serving in this capacity.

Martin convinced the state to purchase Cathedral Caverns in Marshall County. It has since become a state park. He also started Alabama’s Forever Wild Program. Its mission is to secure Alabama’s wild and natural wonders and to save them from development.

After leaving public life, Martin remained active, engaged and involved in his community. I would regularly see Congressman Martin around the Gadsden area as he always had a lot of advice for his congressmen.

Martin is survived by his wife, Pat, two sons Douglas Martin, Jr. and Richard H. Martin, and one daughter, Annette Graham Martin, along with many grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

James Martin’s remarkable life and legacy will live on for many generations. It is my honor and privilege to recognize him and his accomplishments and have this statement included in the Record of the Congress in which he served, a tribute to his service, his love for his state and country and his legacy in his creator.

CELEBRATING THE ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF STAFF SERGEANT JAMES HARRELL, U.S. MARINE CORPS

HON. JOHN R. CARTER
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 2, 2017

Mr. CARTER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to celebrate the accomplishments of Staff Sergeant James Harrell, U.S. Marine Corps, who served his country and continues to selflessly serve his fellow veterans and his community following his retirement. He is a fitting recipient of a Congressional Veteran Commendation.

SSG Harrell served six years in the United States Marine Corps, including two tours in Vietnam. During his service, SSG Harrell was a recipient of numerous awards and recognitions, including the Marine Combat Action Ribbon. After being honorably discharged, SSG Harrell returned to Texas where he rose to become the Assistant Chief Deputy for Williamson County’s Sheriff’s Department.

SSG Harrell’s love for his country is matched only by his commitment to his fellow service members. After recognizing the needs of our county’s less fortunate veterans, SSG Harrell joined his good friend Major Barry Richard, United States Air Force, Retired to help other Williamson County veterans by rebuilding homes, bringing them up to code, doing repairs, and more for over five years. Together, they’ve made real and lasting impacts on the lives of their fellow veterans.

SSG Harrell serves his fellow men with the same dedication, honor, and humility with which he defended his country. He exemplifies what it means to be an American, consistently placing his country and fellow men before himself. I thank and commend SSG Harrell, a passionate leader with a servant’s heart, for his dedication and service.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE NAVY PIER

HON. DANNY K. DAVIS OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 2, 2017

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the Chicago Navy Pier, a true Chicago landmark. It opened its doors in Chicago in 1916 with the first annual centennial of the Piers’ second century. The Navy Pier is an early inspiration of the city and a public community resource and local landmark. After 100 years of significant impact, Navy Pier has been reimagined and adopted the new mission: Navy Pier is the People’s Pier, Chicago’s lakefront treasure, welcoming all and offering dynamic and eclectic experiences through partnerships and programs that inspire discovery and wonder; Navy Pier opened to the public in 1916 and originally named “Municipal Pier No. 2; Navy Pier was built under nationally-known architect Charles~Drew Daniels’ “Master Plan of Chicago.” Municipal Pier was the first of its kind to accommodate both the commercial shipping industry and recreation and entertainment for the public drawing over 3 million visitors annually. In 1975 it expanded to house several regiments of soldiers, Red Cross, and “Home Defense” units and served as a barracks during World War I. It was officially renamed Navy Pier in 1927 as a tribute to the Navy personnel who were housed at the Pier during the conflict. From 1941 to 1947, the Pier was leased to the U.S. Navy as a naval training center for 60,000 recruits. One of those pilots who qualified for military service was President George H. W. Bush.

Navy Pier was the original home to the University of Illinois at Chicago from 1946 to 1965, and more than 100,000 students attended classes during that time. Dubbed ‘Harvard on the Rocks,’ the University shared the space with the Chicago Police Department’s Traffic Division, the North Pier Terminal Company, and several military detachments. The Pier was designated a Chicago historic landmark in 1977; between the years of 1978 through 1982, Navy Pier was host to ChicagoFest, a summer music festival full of food, fun, and festivities. ChicagoFest eventually grew to become the Taste of Chicago, drawing millions of guests to the Pier and spurring millions of dollars in economic impact.

The Pier re-opened in 1995 following a $150 million redevelopment having improvements made to nearly every aspect of the three-quarter mile long public Pier. Since that renovation, year-round entertainment, shopping, dining, attractions and exhibitions have positioned the Pier as one of the most unique settings in the world; in July of 2011, Navy Pier, Inc., the newly formed nonprofit entity entrusted with the operation and redevelopment of Navy Pier put forth The Centennial Vision, a framework for reimagining Navy Pier as a unique public space and cultural mecca. The Centennial Vision’s purpose is not only to expand the Pier’s audience, but to enrich the experience of its guests. The Vision, divided into two phases, establishes a framework be-fitting Chicago, a world-class city, with a vibrant architectural, cultural, and recreational landscape and includes a 30-year Sustainable Master Plan to address the Pier’s long-term environmental impact.

With the completion of the Centennial Vision’s “Phase 1” in 2016, a record 9.26 million guests enjoyed new amenities such as the state of the art Centennial Ferris Wheel, Chicago-centric food experience, redesigned south dock promenade with increased access to the water, several recreational boat experiences, and over 245 free public arts and cultural programs.

As the Pier now enters “Phase 2” of the redevelopment with extensive plans to upgrade the bus environment and Pier structures such as the First Pavilion and Crystal Gardens in 2017, with the completion of 13-acre Polk Bros Park, the new Chicago Shakespeare Theater and expanded Chicago, Children’s Museum, the Pier projects to see attendance increase by as much as 26 percent as guests enjoy innovative, free public programming, participatory arts, cultural showcases, and the Pier’s sustainable, recreational footprint; and the Pier currently employees over 3,000 individuals, is home to 77 businesses and 5 non-profit organizations. The redevelopment is expected to generate 1,565 permanent and 1,659 temporary jobs across the city.

I am honored to represent Navy Pier and congratulate Marilyn Gardner, President & CEO; Patrick Sheehan, Chief Development and Strategy Officer, the Board of Directors and the multitude of individuals working that make the Pier an enjoyable and desirable destination. Enjoy this landmark celebration and always remember, “To accomplish great things we must not only act, but also dream; not only plan, but also believe.”

RECOGNIZING NATIONAL OBESITY CARE WEEK

HON. JOHN SHIMkus OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, November 2, 2017

Mr. SHIMkus. Mr. Speaker, I rise in recognition of National Obesity Care Week on behalf of the over 90 million adult Americans living with obesity today.

Treating obesity is more than just eating right and exercising and is caused by a number of factors that are often out of that person’s control. These include genetics, socioeconomic status, and physiological, psychological and environmental factors.

As important, obesity is also linked to over 50 disorders including Type 2 diabetes, hyper tension, and cardiovascular disease. In fact, over $1.42 trillion is spent in the U.S. on direct and indirect costs for health related conditions related to obesity a year.

National Obesity Care Week aims to advance an evidence-based understanding of obesity and widespread access to comprehensive and appropriate care. Unfortunately, at 31.6 percent, Illinois has the 18th highest adult obesity rate in the nation—4 million people—almost a third of our population. This must change. I urge my fellow Members, the scientific community, and researchers, to treat obesity seriously—as the chronic disease that it is—and I urge the medical community to have conversations with their patients, their students, and their colleagues about obesity and how we can effectively treat this disease.

CELEBRATING THE 100TH BIRTHDAY OF MRS. THELMA KOUZES

HON. GERALD E. CONNOLLY OF VIRGINIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, November 2, 2017

Mr. CONNOLLY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to join my constituents in celebrating the 100th birthday of Mrs. Thelma Kouzes, a truly remarkable woman and a beloved member of the Northern Virginia community. Mrs. Kouzes was born Thelma Virginia Loss on July 26, 1917 in Audubon, Iowa. She proudly says she is a first-generation American, the daughter of immigrants whose parents came to the United States from Denmark. She grew up in Iowa, was raised by hardworking parents, and experienced the hardships of the Great Depression. She moved to Washington, D.C. in 1938 to work for President Roosevelt’s Administration. There she met her late husband Thomas Kouzes—also a first-generation American whose parents came to the U.S. from Greece.

Mrs. Kouzes has led an amazing life. Shortly after she moved to D.C., she experienced culture shock when she attended a segregated religious service. Because of experiences like this she became a proud and passionate civil rights activist. She remained steadfast in her commitment to justice and equality—including marching alongside Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. in the March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom in 1963—even when others in her community criticized her efforts. She was an active member of the American Field Service, UNICEF, the UN, the American Cancer Society, and American Mothers. She is proud to say that she helped to save the public schools in Virginia during the period of desegregation, along with hundreds of Northern Virginian mothers.

She and her late husband hosted 174 international students from 34 different countries between 1960 and 2004. She also placed more than 400 international students with American families. After her husband died, she continued her devotion to hosting international students.

Mrs. Kouzes was elected the 53rd National Mother by the American Mothers organization, chosen by a jury composed of representatives from local government as well as religious and educational leaders.

These are just a few examples of the many accomplishments of her life.

Mrs. Kouzes has been part of our great American story, lending her voice to the vibrancy of our community and offering her experience and wisdom to those around her. Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in thanking Mrs. Kouzes for her decades of contribution to the Northern Virginia area, and in wishing her a happy and healthy 100th birthday.

CELEBRATING THE 175TH ANNIVERSARY OF ST. PETER’S EVANGELICAL CHURCH

HON. CHARLES W. DENT OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 2, 2017

Mr. DENT. Mr. Speaker, I consider it a great privilege to recognize St. Peter’s Evangelical Lutheran Church—located in Allentown, Pennsylvania—on the occasion of its 175th anniversary.

In 1842, St. Peter’s Union Congregation organized and purchased a tract of land for a physical building and cemetery in what was formerly known as Rittersville. On November 5th, the Lutheran sect of the congregation began conducting services in the new building; however, both the Lutheran and Reformed congregations shared the meeting space, holding alternating services. The surrounding area was mostly comprised of German and Dutch immigrants, many of whom worked at nearby Bethlehem Steel Mill. The United States offered them a chance of a new life, with the more than 730,000 residents of the area. Many years, Anna, and a large loving family touched.

Mr. Speaker, I’m proud to represent community leaders like Collin in the United States Congress and it is with great pride that I recognize him today. I ask that my colleagues in the United States House of Representatives join me in congratulating Collin for this outstanding achievement and in wishing him nothing but continued success.

IN HONOR OF MR. BRADY KEYS, JR.

HON. SANFORD D. BISHOP, JR.
OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, November 2, 2017

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, it is with a heavy heart and solemn remembrance that I pay tribute to a respected athlete, an ambitious franchiser, and a friend of long-standing, Mr. Brady Keys, Jr. Mr. Keys passed away on Tuesday, October 24, 2017. A memorial service will be held on Saturday, November 4, 2017 at 1:30 p.m. at Rejoice in the Lord Ministries in Apopka, FL and will be followed by a funeral service and burial on Thursday, November 9, 2017 at 2:00 p.m. at Inglewood Park Cemetery Chapel in Inglewood, CA.

Brady Keys, Jr. was born on May 19, 1937 in Austin, Texas. He attended Kealing High School in Austin, before moving to California, to attend Polytechnic High School. After graduating high school, he enrolled at East Los Angeles Junior College, where he played semi-pro football and gained the attention of Fido Murphy, a scout for the Pittsburgh Steelers. Murphy offered Keys a position on the Steelers taxi squad, which he declined. Murphy then offered Keys an education at Colorado State University with the hope that he could be legally drafted as a free agent. During his junior year, he was ultimately drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers and played with them for six years. He played as a defensive back for a total of eight seasons with the National Football League, also playing for the Minnesota Vikings and St. Louis Cardinals.

Brady Keys, Jr. was not only a natural athlete but he was also a very successful entrepreneur, owning numerous enterprises and franchises. After leaving the NFL, Brady was determined to start his own restaurant franchise but was denied business loans as bankers were reluctant to lend to businesses with African-American management. However, he did not let that stop him. In 1967, with the financial help of Art Rooney, then Coach of the Steelers, he opened his first All-Pro Chicken restaurant in Detroit, Michigan. As All-Pro Chicken expanded, Mr. Keys became the first African-American to establish a national franchise.

After the opening of his first All-Pro Chicken restaurant, Mr. Keys’ business empire expanded beyond his All-Pro restaurants. His businesses included several Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurants in Albany, Georgia; the Urban Talent Development Corporation; The Keys Group; Pennky Mining and Oil Company; Brady Keys, Jr. Athletic Foundation, Inc.; Keys Communications Group, Inc., (formed upon purchase of WJIZ 96.3 FM and WJYZ 960 AM radio stations in Albany, Georgia); Alpha-Keys Orlando Retail Associates; Keys Technology Group, Inc.; Keys News and Gift Shop; Keys-Watt Productions, Inc.; and Keys and Sons Jewelers. Brady was truly an asset to the Albany, Georgia, Orlando, Georgia, and Detroit, Michigan communities, and his companies contributed over $40 million to the economies of those states.

A prominent sports figure and successful business owner, Brady Keys, Jr. received several awards and appointments including an appointment to the Advisory Council on Minority Business Enterprise by President Nixon; an award for Outstanding African-American Alabamian of the Year; and several rankings on Black Entertainment Magazine’s list of 100 largest minority owned businesses between the years of 1972 to 1979.

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. once said, “Life’s most urgent question is: What are you doing for others?” Brady Keys, Jr. committed a prodigious amount of time and love to the service of others, and he shared his own enthusiasm and wisdom in order to better those around him. In life and in death, Brady has left a lasting impact on all those whose lives he has touched.

Brady Keys, Jr. leaves behind his wife of many years, Anna, and a large loving family and a host friends who will miss him dearly.

Mr. Speaker, my wife Vivian and I, along with the more than 730,000 residents of the Second Congressional District of Georgia, salute Brady Keys, Jr. for his outstanding entrepreneurship, untrmitting community development in the urban communities where he lived. I ask my colleagues to join all of us in extending our deepest condolences to the Keys family during this difficult time. We pray that they will be consoled and comforted by an abiding faith and the Holy Spirit in the days, weeks, and months ahead.
