

BROWNFIELDS LIABILITY CONCERNS ARE A DISINCENTIVE FOR LOCAL GOVERNMENTS

Local governments face enormous challenges in brownfields redevelopment. One of the most significant challenges is the potential liability for local governments, which creates a disincentive to acquire contaminated property. We encourage Congress to revise the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (CERCLA) to encourage and protect local communities who choose to take ownership of blighted properties for the purpose of brownfields redevelopment where the local government had no role in creating the contamination. These changes should include:

Clarify Eligibility of Publicly-Owned Sites Acquired Before 2002—Congress should allow local governments to be eligible for grant funding for properties that were acquired prior to the January 11, 2002 enactment of the Brownfields Revitalization Act—when there was no required standard for “all appropriate inquiries”—provided that the applicant did not cause or contribute to the contamination and performed “appropriate care.” For these sites, applicants would not have to demonstrate that they performed all appropriate inquiry.

Remove Barriers to Local and State Governments in Addressing Mothballed Sites—Congress should exempt local and state governments from CERCLA liability if the government unit (a) owns a brownfields property as defined by section 101(39); (b) did not cause or contribute to contamination on the property; and (c) exercises due care with regard to any known contamination at the site. We suggest language to amend section 101(20)(D) that clarifies that properties acquired through eminent domain qualify for the CERCLA exemption for local governments involved in “Involuntary Acquisitions.” Alternatively, we would suggest language that establishes a simplified and clear exemption from CERCLA liability for local governments that acquire brownfields sites.

Eliminate Eligibility Barriers for Petroleum Brownfields Sites—Grantees that seek to use assessment, cleanup or multi-purpose grants on sites with petroleum contamination should not be required to make the difficult demonstrations that the site is “low risk” and that there is “no viable responsible party” connected with the site. We recommend replacing the “No Viable Responsible Party” language in section 101(39)(D) with a prohibition on using funds to pay for cleanup costs at a brownfields site for which the recipient of the grant is potentially liable under the petroleum statutes. This would parallel the language for non-petroleum brownfields sites.

RECOGNIZING COMMANDER BRIAN “BEEF” DRECHSLER

HON. DUNCAN HUNTER

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, December 1, 2017

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise, along with my colleague Representative SCOTT PETERS, to recognize Commander Brian “Beef” M. Drechsler as a recipient of the 2017 Vice Admiral James Bond Stockdale Leadership Award.

Established in honor of Vice Admiral Stockdale, this award symbolizes the highest standard of excellence in both personal conduct and leadership. According to VADM Stockdale, there are five roles of a leader—moralist, jurist, teacher, steward, and philosopher. CMDR Drechsler embodies these standards.

Hailing from Pittsburgh, PA, CMDR Drechsler is a 1998 United States Naval Academy graduate and was selected to become a SEAL. At the Academy, he played football and was eventually elected to both the Naval Academy Hall of Fame and the Navy Marine Corps Stadium 50th Anniversary team. He went on to further his education and earned a Master’s degree in Organizational Management from The George Washington University.

After graduation from Basic Underwater Demolition/SEAL (BUD/S) training, and an assignment to SEAL Team FIVE, Beef completed three tours of duty—combat tours in Iraq and Afghanistan, deployments to PACOM, and was an integral member in the creation of the U.S. Central Command Crisis Response Element. He went on to serve as the Aide to the Commander, Naval Special Warfare Command, and as Troop Commander and Squadron Operations Officer at Naval Special Warfare Development Group.

Subsequently, he served in the U.S. Special Operations Command Officer of Legislative Affairs, then as Operations and Executive Officer of SEAL Team ONE. Next, he became the Director of Operations and Plans (N3/5) for Naval Special Warfare Group ONE and then took command of SEAL Team FIVE until 2017. Currently, he serves as a special assistant to the Commander, Naval Special Warfare Command.

Nominated in recognition of “his high standards, strong example, selfless service and personal commitment to his command members and their families,” CMDR Drechsler truly exemplifies all that is encompassed in a leader.

Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the United States Congress, we are proud to celebrate the accomplishments of CMDR Drechsler and wish him continued success in his future endeavors.

RECOGNIZING THE LIFE AND SERVICE OF MAJOR CAESAR
CIVITELLA

HON. CHARLIE CRIST

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, December 1, 2017

Mr. CRIST. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the life and service of Major Caesar Civitella of St. Petersburg, Florida.

With his passing on October 25, 2017, America lost a man who was emblematic of what it means to be a true patriot. Both in defense of his homeland, and when called to protect the homes of our allies, Major Civitella was always ready to answer the call to service. His heroic combat achievements on battlefields across the globe, coupled with his many contributions to our intelligence services, leave a legacy that Florida’s 13th Congressional District is proud to uphold.

After joining the United States Army in February of 1943, Major Civitella was quickly selected to serve the Office of Strategic Services. He and his group members were then inserted into Northern Africa to support the Allied invasion of France. After capturing nearly 4,000 enemies in France, Major Civitella's team was deployed to Italy and participated in 21 air operations as "Bundle Kickers," dropping leaflets over civilian populations. By 1945, the Army deployed Major Civitella to the Swiss Alps, and tasked him with reporting German activity, in an effort to capture Benito Mussolini.

In 1946, Major Civitella was discharged from the Army, but quickly reenlisted as a Counter-intelligence non-commissioned officer in 1947. By 1952, the Army recruited then 2nd Lieutenant Caesar Civitella into the newly-created Special Forces division. There, he pioneered the creation of training aids, doctrine, and lesson plans for the United States Army Psychological Warfare Center, and was one of the original instructors of air operations and guerrilla warfare. After assignments with both the 77th Special Forces Group and the 10th Special Forces Group, Major Civitella returned to the Special Warfare Center and was assigned to work in the Combat Development Office. Beginning in 1961, Major Civitella served three tours in Vietnam, working on enhanced insertion and extraction systems like Scuba, Halo, and the Fulton "Skyhook."

A day after retiring from the Army on August 31, 1964, Major Civitella joined the ranks of the Central Intelligence Agency. He worked there until August 31, 1983, fulfilling the roles of Senior Province Officer in Vietnam, Plan's Branch liaison to the Pentagon, and the Inter-agency Representative to the United States Readiness Command. In addition, Major Civitella coordinated intelligence, training, and interagency operations for the Rapid Deployment Joint Task Force at MacDill Airforce Base in Tampa.

Because of his service and expertise in unconventional warfare, Major Civitella received numerous accolades throughout his life including the United States Bronze Star Medal, the Intelligence Medal of Merit, the Bull Simmons Award for a lifetime of Special Operations Forces Achievements, and the prestigious French Legion of Honor, the highest decoration offered by the French government, and an award typically reserved for French nationals.

Mr. Speaker, please join me once again in commemorating Major Caesar Civitella's life; thanking him for his many contributions to the Armed Forces and intelligence community. He leaves behind a bold legacy of true and selfless patriotism that helped make our country a beacon of light in a dangerous world.

IN SUPPORT OF WORLD AIDS DAY

HON. SHEILA JACKSON LEE

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, December 1, 2017

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Speaker, established by the World Health Organization in 1988, December 1st is universally known as World AIDS Day.

World AIDS Day serves to focus global attention on the devastating impact of the HIV/AIDS epidemic.

All governments, national AIDS programs, churches, community organizations and individuals are given the opportunity to display their commitment to fight this deadly disease.

It has been more than 30 years since the first AIDS case was reported in the United States.

It does not seem like it was too long ago, but HIV/AIDS had affected many around the world before the disease even made its way to America's shores.

Since then, countless researchers, healthcare providers, politicians, and educators have contributed to the global initiative to contain and eventually eliminate its presence in all corners of the world.

Although HIV/AIDS is no longer a mysterious and mischaracterized entity, it is the most relentless and indiscriminate killer of our time.
