Committee Meetings

D. C. NARCOTICS STUDY

Committee on the District of Columbia: The Miller Subcommittee on Health, Education, and Recreation met/executively on H. R. 2123, a bill which would require compulsory hospital treatment for users of narcotics in the District of Columbia. It was decided that a clean bill would be introduced in the House and considered in lieu of the amended version of this original measure.

TAFT-HARTLEY LAW

Committee on Education and Labor: At today's hearings on the committee's study of proposed amendments and changes to the Labor-Management Relations (Taft-Hartley) Act, Representative Chenoweth testified on behalf of his bill (H. R. 1920) which would amend the act with respect to collective-bargaining contracts that have been in existence for a continuous period of 25 years or more. Mr. Chenoweth mentioned such organizations as the printing trades unions and the amicable employer relationship they have enjoyed for more than half a century. He stated that much of the controversy over the act stems from the fact that it has legislated away many collective-bargaining privileges that had been satisfactorily worked out between labor and industry for decades prior to either the Taft-Hartley Act or the Wagner Act.

The second Member of the House to testify was Representative Kearns, author of H. R. 3146, which would amend the act so as to equalize legal responsibilities of labor organizations and employers. He also recommended an increase of membership on the National Labor Relations Board from 5 to 9, to be appointed for 5-year terms.

The last Member to testify was Representative Roosevelt who directed most of his testimony to an analysis of H. R. 2545, a bill introduced by Representative Lucas. The Lucas measure would allow industrywide bargaining between employers and employee representatives, but would prohibit industrywide strikes and lockouts if the bargaining conversations should stalemate. Mr. Roosevelt spoke in opposition to the proposed Lucas amendment stating that it would throw thousands of stable and constructive collective-bargaining relationships into chaos.

Chairman McConnell announced at the close of today's hearings that Paul M. Herzog, Chairman of the National Labor Relations Board; George J. Bott, General Counsel; and Robert Denham, former General Counsel of the Board, would testify before the committee on February 24, 25, and 26 respectively. He stated that since the committee is considering all phases of the act during the current hearings, it is naturally interested in studying the practical workings of the procedures under the act. It is especially interested in determining how these procedures can be made more effective, particularly in avoiding delays in handling the cases coming before the Board.

HAROLD E. STASSEN

Committee on Foreign Affairs: Chairman Chiperfield said in a statement following today's morning meeting that Harold E. Stassen, Director for Mutual Security, met with the committee in executive session to discuss his recent trip to Europe with Secretary of State Dulles.

He did not present any overall figure of the fund requirements for the next year as, he stated, this would be premature since the analysis of the policies and the evaluation of the program was now going on. He explained that this evaluation was proceeding with the departments in Washington and with the aid of a special group of evaluators who are serving without compensation and are traveling to a number of the countries that involve the largest dollar commitments. They report back on March 24.

There was some discussion of the possibilities of stimulating production of basic materials and of U. S. private investment abroad and the contributions these activities could make to building up the strength of the free world and reducing the dependence of other countries on large grants of U. S. aid. United States tariff and trade policies were also discussed in this context.

He stated that he would welcome the views and suggestions of the members of the Foreign Affairs Committee, not only in this session of the committee but at any time during the administration of the program.

NATO JOURNALISTS

Committee on Foreign Affairs: In an afternoon meeting the committee held executive session with 13 journalists from NATO countries. The writers were accompanied by Edgar Ansel Mowrer, celebrated columnist and commentator on international subjects.

Mr. Noyes also testified yesterday. Other witnesses to be heard were Hugh A. Stewart, Acting Director, Oil and Gas Division, Department of the Interior; and C. J. Dwyer, Chief of the Petroleum Branch, Mutual Security Agency. Adjourned until tomorrow morning when it will hear officials and representatives of the Federal Communications Commission.

CIVIL RIGHTS

Committee on the Judiciary: The Special Subcommittee To Investigate the Justice Department heard testimony from four Members of the House relating to an alleged agreement between the Department of Justice and the police department of the city of New York in connection with handling certain cases involving civil rights in that city. The four New York Representatives that testified were Messrs. Powell, Javits, Dorn, and Dollinger. Recessed subject to call of the Chair.

MAILS—FEDERAL RETIREMENT

Committee on Post Office and Civil Service: Ordered the following bills reported to the House—

H. R. 2466, to amend the act of 1950, which authorizes free postage for members of the U. S. Armed Forces in specified areas;

H. R. 3062, relating to the schedules of the arrival and departure of the mail, to repeal certain obsolete laws relating to the Postal Service; and

H. R. 3073, to amend the Civil Service Retirement Act with respect to the survivorship benefits granted to Members of Congress.

Also approved subcommittee report of the Gross subcommittee appointed to follow up on Public Law 513 (82d Cong.), which provided for the modernization of the mail equipment shops of the Post Office Department.

Subcommittees were appointed to study the following jurisdictional matters—the Federal civil-service system, with Representative Hagen, chairman; postal operations, with Representative St. George, chairman; and manpower utilization, with Representative Corbett, chairman.

The latter subcommittee (Representative Corbett, chairman) was appointed to consider H. R. 3159, a bill to amend title 18, U. S. Code, to permit the transmission of firearms in the mails to or from persons or concerns having lawful use for them in connection with their businesses or their official duties.
